FEAR OF COUNTY OPTION ALARMS PARTY LEADERS

Jacobson to Fight Liquor Men in Republican State Convention.

Senator Smith Again Shows His Influence With Governor Eberhart.

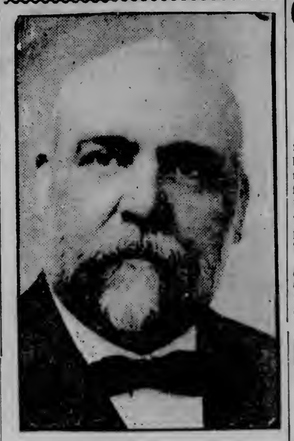

Opposition in Becker County to the Re-Election of H. O. Bjorge.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fear of county option has thrown the leaders of both the great political parties into something akin to a panic.

Jacob F. Jacobson, candidate of the Republican party in the last state election for governor, has broken a silence approximating two years, and has announced his hostility to the liquor interests and the saloons. Jacobson was conceded to have had the support of the liquor interests in the last election to the extent that they assisted in bringing about his nomination. The shadow of E. T. Young and Joel P. Heatwole had fallen across the scheme of state politics, and to encompass their defeat the liquor crowd went solidly to Jacobson because he was triumphantly nominated. The platform on which he was nominated said precious little on any live topic, but it was especially silent on the liquor question. Jacobson realized the debt that he owed the liquor interests and his campaign was a pitiable example of an independent man bound by ties which he could not shake off. It is claimed that "Jake" was slaughtered by his new friends at the polls. It was admitted that the liquor people had been instrumental in getting him the nomination, but they left him in the voting. He is out to get even. In the Norwegian American, published at Northfield, there is a well authenticated interview in which Jacobson declares himself in no uncertain terms. He insists that he will

WILL HELP NEW YORK'S NEW DISTRICT ATTORNEY

FRANK MOSS.

Frank Mass, who was president of the police board of New York city for a short time, is to be the chief assistant of District Attorney Whitman under the new administration. He was also associate counsel to the Lexow investigation commission and leading counsel to the Mazet investigating commission. Mr. Moss has been professor of medical jurisprudence at the New York College and Hospital for Women. He has had a great deal of experience as a vice hunter and should prove of great assistance to the new district attorney.

SOME MINNESOTA MINES IN THE DEAL

Buffalo Companies Are to Be Acquired By Rogers-Brown Iron Company.

New York, Jan. 1.—The Buffalo & Susquehannah Iron company and the Buffalo Dock company are to be acquired by the Rogers-Brown Iron company, recently incorporated with a capital of $2,000,000. The announcement is made by the banking house of Fisk & Robinson.

By this deal the new company will take over many iron mines in Michigan and Minnesota, and coal mines and coke ovens in Pennsylvania. The Rogers-Brown Iron company also announces that it will build new furnaces and coke ovens along the line of the Buffalo & Susquehannah railroad.

SAYS SHE DREAMED IT

Wife of Missing Waiter Tells Police How She Learned About Girl.

Detectives Fail to Find Either the Heiress or Her Older Admirer.

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—That she got her first intimation of her husband's infatuation with Roberta De Janon, the 16-year-old heiress, through a dream, is the statement of Mrs. Ferdinand Cohen, whose husband, a 45-year-old waiter in a local hotel, disappeared at the same time that the young girl did. The couple are believed to have eloped, in spite of a letter the girl left for relatives, in which she intimated that she planned suicide.

Diligent search by private detectives, aided by the Philadelphia and New York police, today failed to disclose a clue as to the whereabouts of Roberta and Ferdinand Cohen. They disappeared last Wednesday.

While letters in possession of Cohen's wife purporting to have been written by the girl, show a strange infatuation for the man by the girl the police are working on a theory that there may have been another motive connected with the disappearance of the pair.

Grandchild of Millionaire.

Ferdinand De Janon, a New York stockbroker, and father of the girl, and William Buist, the grandfather of Miss De Janon, are in close touch with the police and believe the girl will soon be found. The grandfather is a millionaire and the granddaughter was to be the heir to his wealth.

In one of the letters which Mrs. Cohen has in her possession, Roberta said she knew she could not marry Cohen and that she would lose her for-

GARY TALKS OF OUTLOOK

Head of Steel Corporation Says That It Is Firm and Hopeful.

He Speaks of Lessons That the Trade Has Learned in Recent Years.

New York, Jan. 1.—The outlook for the new year in the iron and steel trade, which has been called the barometer of business in general, is pronounced firm and hopeful, in a statement given out by Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation. Over-confidence, with consequent inflation and a corrective collapse, remain the dangers, he says, of any period of prosperity.

"But we have all learned something by experience," he adds, "in the last few years."

"For the last eight months the new orders received by the subsidiary companies have been gratifying," says Judge Gary. "During the month of December the bookings of these companies combined have been about 50,000 tons per day, while their capacity is about 41,000 tons per day. The only

RENO DIVORCEE WEDS SAME NIGHT

Frances Koster Jones Now Bride of Brother of Taft's Aide.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 1.—Frances Koster Jones, who was divorced Thursday from Henry Spies Klp of New York, was married the same night in this city to J. M. Little, mining representative of Wendell Phillipps, a New York operator. Mr. and Mrs. Little left immediately after the marriage for San Francisco.

Mrs. Little is the daughter of Mrs. Louis Jones of New York city. Mr. Little is a son of Capt. M. C. Little, U. S. N., of Newport, R. I. A brother is a captain in the marine corps and aide of President Taft.

NEWLY SEVERED HEAD IS FOUND

Police of Atlanta Start the Year With Mystery to Solve.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 1.—What apparently is a murder mystery was presented to the police today by the finding of a head of a white man, evidently freshly cut from the body. The head was found in a trash bucket in a hall of the Prudential building, one of the largest office structures in the business section of the city

TAFT KEEPS OPEN HOUSE

President's Reception Is the Event of the Day in Washington.

Gaily Dressed Diplomats Are Among Those Received at White House.

Washington, Jan. 1.—The event which from almost the first days of the republic has distinguished the celebration of the advent of the New Year in Washington—the president's reception at the White House—took on a new interest today as the first public reception planned for the administration of Mr. Taft.

On New Year's day the White House doors swing open to admit the world, and during the appointed hours for the reception of citizens, the poor and

MAYORS TO TALK OF WATER POWER

Michigan Officials Will Be Invited to Confer on Situation.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 1.—Mayor Ellis of this city announces that the mayor of each of the cities interested in the recently announced traction, light and water power merger in Michigan would be invited by him to attend a conference with a view to preventing the merger. Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Bay City, Jackson and Kalamazoo are the largest cities interested.

MAY FIND HERSELF WITH A HUSBAND AFTER ALL

MRS. RUTH BRYAN LEAVITT.

Mrs. Leavitt may find herself with a husband after all. It was reported that W. H. Leavitt, from whom she obtained a divorce, will ask to have the suit re-opened. Mrs. Leavitt has been living in Colorado since her divorce was obtained, while her husband remained in Paris.

"Mysterious Raffles" Caught.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Sheriff E. G. Arnot arrived here yesterday with Clarence Cooper in charge, being successful in securing his extradition from Butte, Mont., where he was arrested. Cooper is the "Mysterious Raffles" who did a bit of bad work in several North Dakota cities, but who made an especially large clean up in Grafton.

NEW HAMPSHIRE HAS FIRST NEW YEAR'S DAY.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 1.—For the first time in its history the state of New Hampshire today observed a New Year's day as a legal holiday, Jan. 1 having been so designated by the last legislature.

CAMPAIGN BY THE D. A. R.

Conservation Work Is Being Planned By the Women's Organization.

Bulletin in Interests of That Measure Will Be Issued Regularly.

Washington, Jan. 1.—The conservation committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution appeals to every member of its organization and to all patriotic women to begin the new year with a determination to use all honorable means to support the conservation measures being carried out all over the country.

That is the keynote of what might be called a resume of the first few month's work of the conservation committee of the organization, which is composed of members from every state and territory in the Union.

The committee realizes that the support of any measure, to be effective, must be intelligent, and to this end a conservation bulletin will be started and will be sent out every two or three weeks to the public and private schools of the country in the hope that the fundamentals of conservation may find root there. It will be the principal aim to get the bulletin into the hands of people who do not see the daily papers, and in that way teach the principle of conservation where it could not be taught otherwise.

The conservation committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution was last April, at the Continental Congress, made a national committee.

Earthquake Is Recorded.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 1.—The seismograph of St. Louis University recorded an earthquake which began at 5:06:42 o'clock this morning. The shock continued 34 minutes and 30 seconds, the greatest oscillation occurring at 5:10, principal motion being from the east to west.

OLD 1909 A YEAR OF GREAT CHANGES; ALSO ONE OF WONDERFUL PROGRESS

New York, Jan. 1.—Nineteen hundred and nine may be said in many respects to have equaled and in some directions surpassed the most sanguine expectations entertained at its outset. In fact, it will take rank as a remarkable year in a decade which has seen great changes and wonderful progress, according to Bradstreet's annual review of the year and forecast for 1910.

For one thing, it witnessed processes of recuperation and repair, initiated in the second half of 1908, carried to a triumphantly successful conclusion. Also, while it will probably not be classed as a boom year, it saw many records of financial and industrial achievement exceeded, and at its close, two years after a world-wide financial panic, the progress made has been so great that many of the scars made by that convulsion have been effaced, and the country seems to have been placed in a stronger position than it ever before occupied.

The year was not free from unsettling and disturbing influences. While its outest found the business world cheerful to the point of optimism, there were some evidences of uneasiness as to the results of all the improvement shown in the year following the 1907 panic. Certainly the tariff revision, then impending, was not at the outset regarded as a helpful element.

Early Repression Noted.

There was, in fact, a good deal of repression evident early because of tariff, crop and trade uncertainty, and reduced public purchasing power, and later the remarkable advances of securities and commodities to hitherto unexampled heights, furnished ground for conservatism, which was no doubt beneficial in preventing excesses apparently inseparable from great forward steps in American trade, finance and industry.

Withal, however, there was evidenced an almost inexhaustible capacity for looking on the bright side of things which made for fresh triumphs and for a virtual new birth of aggressiveness in pushing enterprises forward toward successful futures.

The events of the year tended to confirm earlier impressions that the great collapse of 1907 was a purely financial affair, not involving any great weakness in the business and industrial structure.

Tariff Out of the Way.

Whatever may be said of the merits of the year's tariff revision, there is no denying that the work was skillfully done with a minimum of unsettlement to trade, and with uncertainty as to this removed in mid-year, the optimism in the stock markets, the ease of money, the preparations for and good results from abundant harvests, the steady monthly reduction in business mortality and failure damage, the expansion in leading industries, the boom in that readiest of all ready-money producing trades—building—and the preparations made to fill the void in the consuming markets made by the two years of repression in buying, all combined to cause a great onward surge in all lines of trade, which, despite the steadily increased cost of all that enters into human consumption, resulted in a total trade turnover which will compare very favor-

FOR THE NEW YEAR---PLENTY OF GOOSE AND LOTS OF STUFFIN'.

DULUTH GREETS NEW YEAR WITH SONG AND CHEER

Crowds of Merry-Makers Drink Toasts to the Year 1910.

Babel of Noise When the Time Ball Drops at Midnight.

The Holiday Is Being Generally Observed Throughout the City.

After the warm welcome extended to the year 1910 last night, Duluth is quietly observing its holiday today. Nearly all of the business places are closed today and the citizens, most of whom stayed up until midnight last night, slept the morning away. Services were held in most of the churches of the city.

This afternoon and this evening, there is amusement for anybody who wants it. At the Lyceum, "The Thief," a play with a real plot and a real moral, is playing a matinee and night performance. The Bijou has a good vaudeville bill and the smaller theaters will draw their usual holiday crowds. At the curling rink, there will be a number of practice games for the audience which will gather, and there will be music for skating.

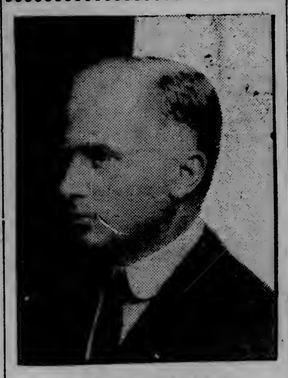

Last night Duluth greeted the new year and saw the old year disappear into oblivion in true metropolitan style. All of the cafes were crowded with merry makers, who passed the hours just previous to the arrival of the infant year in eating, drinking and singing. There was music in all of the cafes. Table reservations had been made a few weeks ahead, and the revelry for which Broadway is noted on New Year's eve was reproduced on a small scale.

When the time ball on the Torrey building dropped in indication of the arrival of the new year, a Babel of noise was turned loose. Whistles blew their deafening blasts; bells pealed out in joyful greeting; crowds cheered and yelled; greetings between friends were exchanged, and toasts were drunk to the year that had begun its course.

In most of the churches of the city, watch night services were held last night and people gathered to offer thanksgiving for the blessings of the old year, and pray for boons from the new year that was close at hand. The stroke of the midnight hour was received in quiet prayer and the congregations dispersed to their homes

In the cafes the New Year's eve spirit was at its height. The revelry did not end with the stroke of midnight. Far into the morning the crowds sat around the tables, exchanging New Year's greetings. The cares and sorrows of the old year were forgotten in the joyful greeting of the new, and it was late this morning before the last straggler sought his rest.

MAY BECOME HEAD OF BALTIMORE & OHIO

DANIEL WILLARD.

Oscar G. Murray has resigned the presidency of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad and his successor will probably be Daniel Willard, second vice president and general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. Mr. Willard has imposed some conditions on the directors of the Baltimore & Ohio which have not been made public. Mr. Willard has worked his way up from a track laborer to be general manager of a great railroad. He has been fireman, engineer, brakeman, conductor, roundhouse foreman and trainmaster.

SETTLEMENT NOT REACHED

Strike Conference at Washington Will Be Resumed on Monday.

Perham and the Commissioners Canvass the Entire Situation Together.

Washington, Jan. 1.—It is a waiting game in the negotiations for mediation of the switchmen's strike on the railroads entering St. Paul. All day yesterday the government mediation board, consisting of Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Commissioner of Labor Neill, together with President H. B. Perham of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, head of the railway branch of the American Federation of Labor, wrestled with the problem of what to do in behalf of the interests affected

AGED WOMAN DIES OF FRIGHT

Falls When Her Son-in-Law Fires Shots at Her Husband.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Jan. 1.—Mrs. William Minnigar, an aged resident of Yatesville, near here, died from fright under tragic circumstances last night.

Her daughter is separated from her husband, James Gordon. Last night the husband called at the residence of his mother-in-law an ddemanded an interview with his wife. Being refused, he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired three shots. One of the bullets grazed the head of his father-in-law.

Mrs. Minnigar sank to the floor with a groan. When picked up she was dead. Gordon fled and has not yet been apprehended.

THREE ARRESTED AS DYNAMITERS

Attempt Is Made on Baltimore & Ohio Bridge in Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 1.—Following an attempt last evening to blow up the Gay street bridge of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, three men were arrested on a charge of conspiring to dynamite the bridge and also the Mont Clare machine shops of the railroad company. The bridge was not seriously damaged.

William B. Shipley, Hamilton, W. Lightner and William H. Zimmerman, all machinests, were later taken into custody. Detective Capt. Humphrey claims to have evidence directly implicating the men, and that Shipley had dynamite in his possession when taken and practically admitted that it was his purpose to place the explosive in the railroad shops.

LOOKING TO WASHINGTON

Nicaragua Revolutionists Are Disappointed at Not Being Recognized.

Battle Involving 12,000 Men Is Expected to Be Fought Soon.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Jan. 1.—Hope that the war would be brought to an end through the recognition of the provisional government by the United States has been abandoned. Many believe that two more hostile battles must be fought, one in the state of Chontales and the other near Managua.

There is a popular feeling of gratitude toward the United States because of the attention given the wounded by physicians from the cruisers and the supplies sent for the relief of the half starved prisoners of war. There is, however, some disappointment that the United States has not formally recognized the government of Estrada.

Expected Knox to Act.

The impression was strong that Secretary Knox awaited only a decisive victory by Gen. Estrada before giving him the moral support of the Washington government. Such a victory was won more than a week ago, and still no encouraging word is received from Washington. A defeat in battle could not depress the insurgents more than has the fact that Washington has lost interest, seemingly, in the cause of the revolution.

If another battle is fought it is likely that no less than 12,000 men will be engaged. Preparations for the campaign in the west continues. The next ten days will be devoted to securing more rifles with a view to equipping 2,000 additional soldiers.

This will bring the provisional strength up to 6,000 men. A schooner has been sent to Cape Gracias and will bring here horses and mules to be used on the long march toward Managua.

Agree to Solemn Pact.

The insurgent generals have signed a solemn pact to the effect that they will stand as a unit with Estrada until the last vestige of Zelayaism is blotted out of the government of Nicaragua.

The peace commissioners whom President Madriz announced that he was sending to negotiate with Estrada have not arrived.

The American gunboat Eagle has gone to Bocas del Toro to make observations. The British cruiser Scylla, which brought a duplicate of the letter

FIRST HALF YEAR OF THE DULUTH STOCK EXCHANGE

More Than a Million Shares of Stock Have Been Traded In.

A Comparison of Values on June 1 and Dec. 1.

Since the establishment of the Duluth Stock exchange last June, 1,389,086 shares of stock in mining companies quoted on the local board have been traded in. The aggregate value of these transactions was $2,865,386. The number of shares traded in daily has averaged 8,171, with an average value per share of $2.06.

The greatest activity in any one month was in the one just past, when the value of transactions was $903,382. The number of shares traded in was 402,584, compared with 163,867 in June, the first month; 135,552 in July; 191,415 in August; 102,832 in September; 136,112 in October and 255,724 in November.

Between June 1 and Dec. 31 stocks reached a high point in September. The crest of the upturn was reached about Sept. 9. At that time copper stocks, railroads and industrials were selling at record prices. Stocks had registered sensational upturns since the previous fall and in the profit-taking period in September coupled with a distribution of stocks to the public at high prices, values started on a decline.

This slump in the fall was inevitable, although many brokers predicted higher values. History shows that speculative values run in cycles. Every one is familiar with the statement that this country is "due for a panic every seven years." This is merely the expression of a popular idea concerning recurring periods of speculative excitement and financial depression. These periods can be fairly well determined by students of financial and economic history.

The upward movement is slower than the slump because it takes longer to build a structure than to knock it down. For this reason the recovery this winter has not been as rapid as many investors and speculators hoped for. Even now when traders are bemoaning a lifeless market, prices are among the highest in history. In these days when the wheat, corn and other crops seem to have reached a maximum of production in this country in the face of an increasing demand it is easier to bull public necessities, staples and commodities than a few years ago when production kept up with consumption and the nation was not worried over the status of the balance of trade. This balance is formed principally by exportable foodstuffs.

Every sign points to a period of speculative excitement in staples, especially wheat. This action usually spreads to other markets so that in an extended period of bullish activity in the grain markets there is likely to be a corresponding period of upward action in the stock markets. This is especially true if the crops are large and the farmers profit by high prices. This condition is one that should be regarded as favorable for the stock market at the present time.

Red Metal Weak.

The copper market has been nervous and unsettled because of the weak state of the red metal. Some producers predict 15 cents by April 1. It will be remembered that last spring these same producers predicted 15 and 16 cents for the red metal by Dec. 1. Some thought higher prices would materialize by Nov. 1. There is little doubt but that the price of the red metal will advance, but whether it will reach 15 cents by April 1 depends not so much on natural as on artificial conditions.

The copper producers have reduced the output from 10 to 15 per cent in the face of increasing consumption. This reduction must be maintained in order to reduce the large world's surplus which has been an ever present menace to higher prices. If the United States Steel corporation had not regulated prices for iron ore, pig iron and steel products it is probable that the steel situation today would be in as unstable and demoralized condition as the copper metal situation and the copper market. Even if a copper combination is not formed the leading copper producers do not dare retreat from their decision to control and reduce the copper output. The exorbitantly high prices of copper which obtained during 1907 were not beneficial eventually to investors. Copper mines all over the country sprang into life and when the slump came they were unable to produce copper at a profit. The profit from a copper mine depends principally on volume of output and mining expense. With a profit of one-half or 1 cent a pound a large production is necessary to pay dividends. So when copper prices slumped hundreds of small mines had to close because they could not produce at a profit. Heavy losses were incurred by investors in all parts of the country. A stable basis of production for the red metal and a preventative for speculation in the metal are conditions which must be maintained by copper producers.

On the Duluth board there are many promising mining properties. It takes from four to six years to develop a consistent and fairly heavy producer of copper. There are now approaching a productive stage several properties financed principally in Duluth and largely held here. The success of these properties will greatly increase the wealth of Duluth citizens.

The Duluth stock exchange, its founders believe, will become the principal trading mart in the Northwest. When bonds and meritorious stocks can be traded in on the local exchange such trading will cause a flow of money to this city. It will expand the banking and financial resources of Duluth and will be a favorable factor in the upbuilding of the city. A record of nearly $3,000,000, representing the value of stocks traded in during the first seven months of the life of the exchange, is one that is highly pleasing to the directors. It is confidently expected that within a comparatively short time at least 100,000 shares daily will be traded in on the Duluth stock exchange.

A felicitous feature of the trading in December was the activity of high priced stocks. This condition indicated that local investors in high priced stocks were beginning to make their trades at home instead of in Boston. As the character of the trading becomes more favorable the attention of this class of investors will be more firmly centered in the local exchange. Trades in high priced issues can be successfully executed here and there is no reason why a large volume of trading from here now done on the Boston market should not be retained at home. With the introduction of industrials, railroads and bonds not only of outside corporations but of Duluth public service and semi-public concerns, a market for such securities would be created here and Duluth would become the financial and market center of the Northwest. The Duluth Stock Exchange is working gradually to this high level. The new year will accentuate its value to the trading and investing public.

The range of prices and the values of stocks traded in on the Duluth stock exchange last week follow:

The Lemhi Herald, published at Lemhi, Idaho, prints the following in its latest issue concerning the Copper Queen mine: "The Copper Queen Mining & Smelting company has almost finished the big station with the tunnel, preparatory to sinking a shaft 500 feet and more. The big hoist for this office was loaded out of Salmon recently and taken to the mine. The floor of the station is completed, and foundations are being laid for the hoist and compressor, which are to occupy the station, and as soon as these are completed the machinery will be installed and sinking will begin. Progress of this important work is being watched at Salmon with much interest."

DULUTH'S LINEN MILL PROMISES BIG THINGS

Unique Factory Will Be in Operation Within a Few Weeks.

Secret Process of Extracting Linen Fiber From Flax Straw.

An experiment which, if it proves to be a success, will mean much to the flax industry of this country is being tried at West Duluth where a new linen mill has been established and which, it is expected, will be running full blast by the first of next month.

The successful conversion of flax straw into a high grade of linen or linen yarn ready for the weaving mills, has been a long and tedious process, entailing considerable expense. Within late years machinery has been invented to shorten the process after the flax straw has been retted, which is the most costly parts of the preparation.

The portion of the flax plant used in the manufacture of linen yarn is the best tissue, situated between the bark and the hard or woody tissue. The characteristic features of the flax fibers are their length, strength, fineness and color. The fibers vary with the tapering character of the stem and the natural ends are sharp pointed and generally long drawn out.

Farmers, who aim at the production of a good fiber, pull the plant before it has attained its full maturity. It is then submitted to the rippling process. In former times, this was done by hand, by pulling the bundles of flax through the upright prongs of a ripple or a large comb composed of large teeth about eighteen inches long. At the West Duluth factory the rippling process will be performed by machinery, the heads of the unbound bundles of flax to be passed between rapidly revolving corrugated rollers, which crushes the seed pods. The seeds and leaves are then removed by a fanning mill and the flax is prepared for the retting process.

The adhesion of the hard tissue to the bast fibers necessitates the stems being treated under a process called the retting. This is so as to separate the bast fibers from the cortical layer. Heretofore, the process of retting has been slow work and can be carried on in those sections of the world where labor is cheap. Chemists have tried to envolve a quicker process for it where an attack under the government troops now in possession of the city is anticipated. Vasquez, it is understood, is going to Acoyapa, where it is likely a battle may be fought before many days.

By means of one of the latest processes the pulled and rippled flax is placed in vats and kept immersed by a strong framework. Steam is admitted until the temperature of the water is about 104 deg. Fahrenheit. Acetous fermentation develops which causes the gummy cortex of the flax stem to become decomposed. After sixty hours the flax is taken out and after it has dried it is ready for the subsequent processes.

The Northfield Process.

At Northfield, Minn., there is a process of retting in operation which briefly, consists in covering a mass of vertically arranged flax straw in special tanks of water, to which there is delivered constantly fresh water, preferably rain water, and from which, at the same time, the same quantity of impure water is being drawn from beneath the mass.

During the first season that the process was employed at Northfield, it did not meet with entire success, but it appears that the deficiency may be ascribed to the inexperience in the handling of the apparatus rather than to any fault in the process itself. It is called the Loppen's method, the patent being held by a Belgian.

On the retting process depends largely the quality of the linen and it is at that stage of the industry which presents the great difficulty. The success of the West Duluth concern, which has practically been assured by repeated tests, lies in a secret process of treating the flax straw in the retting stage of the industry.

Jenas Brolin, the chemist in charge of the plant, is the man who holds the secret. He has been in the business for many years and has treated flax by every process known for many years, both in the old country and here. He began with the hand process which he adhered to at first until he discovered a secret way of retting the flax straw through a cheap and quick method.

It was about seven years ago that Mr. Brolin realized that the old method was too expensive and required too much time and experiments of how flax could be treated more economically followed. He has succeeded in producing a fiber that retains all of its natural strength with his process.

The fiber has been submitted to the Eastern spinners and the textile people of the United Kingdom. From the standpoint of spinning and durability, all concur that he has produced a fiber that is unequalled. Mr. Brolin will be the chief engineer at the West Duluth plant.

After the flax has been retted, it undergoes a decorticating process, which removes the bark and the loosened underlying wood tissues and isolates the linen fibers in a pure condition.

The first operation consists in passing the straw through a breaker which loosens the woody portions of the stems and reduces them to fragments to facilitate the following operation of scutching, which whips out all other waste matters, leaving the pure flax fiber. Within recent years machinery has been designed, which successfully performs all of the operations subsequent to retting, but in former times, the work was done by hands or with crude mechanical aids and through a long process.

At the West Duluth plant, the Wessell decorticating machine will be employed. It was invented by a Minneapolis man, who is also the inventor of a machine for the making of ice cream cones and a grass twine machine. It is considered to be one of the best of its kind, and has a capacity of 250 tons of fiber per year, meaning that it will take 1,000 tons of flax straw to keep one machine supplied. There will be three of these machines installed at the plant.

The machinery is operated much on the plan of a thrashing machine. The straw is fed by a carrier, and the machine not only discharges it in a fine, fibrous manner, but it also discards the dust, dirt and the hard, stiff, woody material, leaving the flax fiber in a soft, silken, stringy mass called tow.

About 5,000 tons of flax straw will be delivered at the factory this winter for consumption, and, according to H. E. Smith, the president of the linen company, a spinning mill is on its way here from the East. It is expected to arrive within a few days, and will be installed so that operations may begin at the factory by Feb. 1.

The demand for linen yarn of the grade that will be turned out by the spinning mill at West Duluth is enormous, and already, according to Mr. Smith, the total output of the factory for one year has been sold. The manufacture of flax into linen will only be carried as far as spinning the linen yarn at West Duluth for the present, and the raw material will be shipped to the Eastern weaving concerns, who will turn out the finished product.

Henry Verier of Newport, R. I., formerly superintendent of the Blackhawk linen mills at Minneapolis, which burned about two years ago, has been secured as superintendent of the spinning mills at West Duluth. He is a man of wide experience in this business, and he has already assumed charge of the mill. The mill will bring to Duluth a large number of skilled workmen, and will also give employment to many common laborers.

There are to be a few minor details to be worked out at the site of the factory at Fiftieth avenue west and at the foot of Ramsey street. The mill is located in the building formerly occupied by the Duluth Brass works. It is estimated by Mr. Smith that the business will be eventually enlarged, but not until after the first year. A warehouse for storing the flax will be built some time before spring.

The Western Linen company, which operates the plant, has been organized, with the following temporary officers: E. H. Smith, president; Julius H. Barnes, vice president, and W. B. Banks, secretary.

CAN BE USED BY RAILROADS

West Duluth Man's Patent Bridge Offered to Canadian Northern.

A drawbridge of a novel type, which has recently been patented by Eric Swenson of West Duluth, has been suggested as a solution of running a railroad into a city without depressing the streets across which the right-of-way passes.

The entrance of the Canadian Northern railroad into West Duluth it attracting considerable attention and if a franchise is granted the railroad by the city, it is probable that the question of how the tracks shall cross the streets, will be an important factor to be considered.

In most instances, where a railroad enters a city, elevated a few feet above the viaduct, but according to the invention which has been patented by Mr. Swenson, this would not be necessary.

Mr. Swenson is the chief engineer of the National Iron Works at West Duluth, having been connected with this firm for a year. Prior to this he was employed as a consulting engineer of the American Bridge company at Chicago. Mr. Swenson was in the employ of the Chicago firm for several years. He is a graduate of the University of Stockholm.

His invention is called the Gyratory lift bridge. Briefly described, it consists of a span suspended by hangers from trunnions, or cylindrical projections, bearing on towers at each abutment. The draw is opened by revolving the roadway span in an arc around the axis marked by the trunnions. The upper portions of the hangers carry counterweights equal in weight to the suspended structure, so that the friction and wind are the only forces against which the machinery must act.

Motors and racks are placed on the towers to control the turning of the bridge. When the bridge is in its normal condition, wedges are placed under the extreme ends, so that the weight can be carried directly to the abutments and not through the hangers to the trunnions. According to Mr. Swenson the bridge can be used as well as a highway bridge or as a drawbridge spanning a river or channel.

The bridge can be designed for any span, loading specifications and clearance desired. The counterweights are preferably made of slag concrete. Mr. Swenson was the consulting engineer of the American Bridge company at the time that the Chicago firm was considering putting in a bid for the construction of the building the aerial bridge, designed by a Minneapolis engineer, and the plans of the Duluth bridge were turned over to him for advice in the matter.

The Duluth aerial bridge is about 393 feet long and the clearance is 137 feet. Mr. Swenson says that his bridge can be built to span a distance of 600 feet and have a much larger clearance than the aerial bridge, if desired.

Although the construction of a bridge of this type is not yet assured, in Minneapolis, Mr. Swenson has hopes of the bridge being adopted by the city officials who will build a bridge across "The Narrows" on Lake Minnetonka, near that city.

In Chicago, his plans are also receiving attention, where it is thought that the design may be adopted for the construction of a highway bridge, similar to some that have been for some of the Canadian Northern crossings at West Duluth, when the much-talked about right-of-way is being secured.

A good-sized model of the gyratory bridge which was on exhibit at the office of W. B. Getchell of North Central avenue has been placed in the city engineer's office at the city hall, where it is attracting considerable attention.

There are a few other notable types of lift or bascule bridges but none are of as novel a type as the gyratory bridge. Among those in use now in the larger cities of this country are the Schermer and Straus bridges.

Mr. Swenson has laid his proposition before the officials of the Canadian Northern railroad, but as yet he has received no satisfactory results. Walter Evered of the National Iron Works of West Duluth also has an interest in the patent.

WATCHED THE OLD YEAR OUT.

After listening to a report on the Hermantown road extension project from the committee having the matter in charge, the members of the West Duluth Commercial club last evening held an informal smoker and watched the old year out.

The report on the Hermantown road stated that everything was in readiness for the beginning of condemnation proceedings against the property through which it is to run. The proposed cutoff is a short cut from West Duluth over the hill to Proctor. It runs along the northeastern side of Oneota cemetery and from there along Keene creek in a northwesterly direction to the Morris-Thomson road, with which it connects.

"OUR CHURCH FOR 1910" HIS SERMON TOPIC.

"Our Church for 1910" will be the subject of a New Year's sermon which will be delivered tomorrow morning at the Merritt Memorial M. E. church, Forty-sixth avenue west and Halifax street, by Rev. E. F. Stidd. He will also preach in the evening. The other services will be as usual.

Rev. and Mrs. Stidd have planned to hold an informal reception this afternoon for the congregation of the church and their friends at the parsonage, 4602 Oneota street. The reception will be from 2 o'clock this afternoon to 8 o'clock this evening.

IS NEW MANAGER OF CASS LAKE HOTEL.

Oliver Strandmark, a former West Duluth resident, has assumed the entire management of the Endion hotel at Cass Lake, Minn. He took charge of the hostelry recently, and many improvements have already been made in the equipment and the service. Before he assumed the management of the Cass Lake hotel, Mr. Strandmark was cashier and clerk at the Hotel Superior at Superior.

FOR RUNNING A "BLIND PIG."

Joseph Uscensal, who owns a small confectionery store at 7015 Grand avenue was arrested last night by Lieut. Wilcox of the West Duluth department and charged with selling liquor without a license. The police have suspected him of selling liquor at his store for some time. He will probably be arraigned in municipal court Monday.

New Hockey Team.

The Ramsey Tigers hockey team will hold a meeting some night during next week to organize for the coming winter and arrange games for the hockey season. Those who will be given a tryout in the first games are Earl Edwards, Chestley Baker, Frank Wade, Leo Santere, Russel Kliten, Babe McDonald and Joe McDonald.

With the Curlers.

Two games were played last evening at the curling rink in the contest for representation from the Western Curling club in the Manley-McLennan match. Hewitt defeated Clark, 13 to 6 and Wade went down to defeat at the hands of Miller, 13 to 8.

There are several games scheduled for today. The holidays will also be observed by the skaters, who will have a special program of music for the afternoon and evening. The lineup of the rinks for last evening follows:

Meldrum,	W. Sullivan,
Rockwell,	J. A. Scott,
Feeley,	Mallory,
Hewitt, skip—13.	Clark, skip—6.
Cummings,	Jacoby,
Collier,	Meldahl,

CAN THIS MAN READ YOUR LIFE?

The rich, poor, exalted and humble seek his advice on Business, Marriage, Friends, Enemies Changes, Speculations, Love Affairs, Journeys, and all events of Life.

MANY SAY HE REVEALS THEIR LIVES WITH AMAZING ACCURACY.

Free Test Readings Will Be Sent for a Short Time to All Herald Readers.

Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxroy, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people, seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph. D., Pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Summit Hill, Pa., U. S. A., in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says: "You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Every one consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether (Mr., Mrs. or Miss), and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting:

I have heard of your power
To read people's lives,
And would ask what for me
You have to advise?

Be sure to give your correct name, birth date and address and write plainly. Send your letter to ROXROY, Dept. 54 A, No. 17a Kensington High Street, London, W., England. If you wish, you may inclose 10 cents (U. S. A. stamps) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Do not inclose coins or silver in letters.

humble pass in review and receive the hand clasp of the chief executive on equal footing with the richest of the community.

The public reception, of course, always is preceded by an hour or more of formality when the president greets the members of the cabinet, the diplomats, the senators and representatives, the high officials of the government, the officers of the army and navy and members of the various veteran organizations who pass through the famed Blue room at hours especially set apart for them.

Is Big Affair Now.

Some idea of the magnitude to which the New Year's reception at the White House has grown can be had from the fact that President Roosevelt, during the last two or three years of his term, attained a high water mark of shaking hands with more than 8,000 men and women.

The early period of the reception was made gay and impressive as usual today by the appearance of the diplomats in full dress uniforms of their rank and distinction in the countries from which they were sent. There were many new faces in the diplomatic line, which was headed by Baron des Planches, the Italian ambassador, dean of the corps in Washington.

The instructions given Col. Spencer Cosby of the army, major domo of the White House, assisted by Capt. Butt, Lieutenant Commander Palmer and others.

Fine Day at Capital

Glorious sunshine tempered the winter cold and gave Washington one of the finest New Years days it ever has experienced.

Business generally suspended, most of the mercantile houses observing the holiday, and all the executive departments being closed.

In official life, following the doings at the White House, Mrs. Sherman, wife of the vice president, and a number of the ladies of the cabinet, received at their homes, the number including Mrs. MacVeagh, Mrs. Dickinson, Mrs. Wickersham, Mrs. Meyer, Mrs. Ballinger and Mrs. Nagel.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis By Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On Oct. 18 last my little 3-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold, which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," says Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, Oct. 23, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly, as I have found it the surest, safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." FEAR OF COUNTY OPTION ALARMS PARTY LEADERS fight the liquor crowd and that the state convention will be a battle royal. Incidentally it is stated that he will make a speech of a half hour's duration at the Minneapolis meeting in March, in which he will throw discretion to the winds and will declare for a county option plank in the next Republican state convention.

And while the Republican leaders are having their troubles it is said that the Democrats are no less exercised. There is a growing sentiment among a respectable minority that their party should take advanced ground along the same general line as is threatened for the Republicans. It is pointed out, however, that the Democrats are much less likely to take the plunge than the Republicans. Their party is proverbially one attached to the idea of personal liberty, and being in the minority they are not held by sentiment so closely to public declarations as the majority party. There have been rumors connecting Governor Lind's name with a nomination for governor, conditioned on a declaration for county option, but the leaders of the party insist that Governor Lind, while a temperance man, has no thought of accepting a nomination, and especially of attempting to dictate a platform on which he should make the canvass. Of course, the talk has caused much speculation as to what the two parties will do, and one of the suggestions is that both the parties declare for a county option plank, there will be an independent Republican ticket in the field, which would give the regulars and the Democrats a run for their money.

The Conservation Convention.

Plans are being rapidly developed by the state administration for its forthcoming conservation convention. Original plans, which looked merely to a convention to advance the Roosevelt ideas of conservation, have necessarily been somewhat simplified. It would scarcely do for the governor to beat the tom toms for the conservation of the state's timber while each year the state land commissioner continues the sale of the state's timber holdings. Water powers were the pet lambs of the Roosevelt policy. It develops that the only water powers to which the state can lay claim are those which may perchance be found on sections 16 and 36. Unfortunately none have been discovered by the state's cruisers. The state's iron holdings have been conserved by a recent legislative enactment withdrawing such holdings from public sale or lease. This, the state's biggest asset, having been automatically conserved, another being disposed of by an established policy of state government and a suspected third not being located, it was up to the administration to depart from its first plans and the convention will partake of many of the features of a farmers' institute. With an attendance of several thousand farmers and stockraisers of the state such a convention will undoubtedly be of value. It is proposed to make the discussion of good roads, diversified farming, crop rotation, reforestration, public health and kindred topics prominent in the convention, and it is expected that men large in the public eye will address the delegates and illustrate their words by stereopticon views.

But the administration will have no half-way measures and the absent enthusiast will receive the benefit of the addresses. The printed page will be for him substituted for the spoken word, and the addresses of prominent men will be printed and circulated to the farthest corners of the state. Governor Eberhart will himself, unless present intentions are unhappily abandoned, make a notable speech on the resources of the state and how best to develop them to attract the home seeker. Attorney General Simpson is also said to have advanced ideas on the subject and will submit them to the convention. Both are practical men and will know what they are talking about. It is expected that handsome half-tone cuts of both the governor and the attorney general will appear in the printed "proceedings." The governor's will occupy the cover page, inasmuch as his name first appears on the ballot. Other men of almost equal erudition in this line of modern thought will speak at the convention, and their speeches will appear in its report.

The promoters of the convention with characteristic perspicacity, have guarded against the introduction of extraneous matter into the convention. Of course, the muzzle can not well be applied in the convention, but all speeches will be edited by a committee of professors of the state agricultural college before being included in the proceedings. This will not only prevent duplication of matter, but will prove a preventative against the introduction of anything like advice to a constituency none too discriminating in its acceptance of advanced ideas as to farming and its allied industries. Some 50,000 copies of this "report" are to be printed and distributed as a state document. Minnesota's strong box is to be depleted to advance the cause with personal subscriptions to cover any shortage.

The personnel of the convention is less certain than the program to be given upon its gathering. Apportionment of delegates has not been entirely worked out, but it is understood that A. D. Brown, state chairman of the republican state central committee, may be induced to co-operate with the governor and his secretary in determining this quite important consideration. The plan now most in favor is to name delegates by counties until 3,000 have been chosen as representing all that is best in our rural population. With this number of delegates, any man, no matter how exalted by his fellows in his own immediate locality, should and doubtless will, feel highly honored and pleased at the receipt of a handsomely framed invitation from the governor's office. It is a part of the policy to make careful preservation of this list of names of prominent citizens. They should make a nice little nucleus for future reference.

Smith Still in the Saddle.

Senator E. E. Smith of Minneapolis has scored again in the state administration. Those innocents who figured that Governor Eberhart feared to continue to keep the genial Minneapolis senator in the saddle, once he had made sure of his own ground in the governor's office, are due to retire to the rear apartments and there discourse with each other on the uncertainties of political life. The latest evidence that Senator Smith is still on the job is found in the appointment of H. A. Rider of Little Falls to be a member of the state game and fish commission, with a further recommendation to the commission that he is the governor's choice as executive agent with its $2,500 salary a year. The knowing had figured it out that C. S. Benson of St. Cloud, a former member of the commission, was slated for the executive agency to succeed Carlos Avery. It was known that Benson had fine indorsements of his home people and was personally equipped for the place. There was no little surprise therefore when Rider's appointment was made known Thursday. It later developed that the appointee had Senator Smith to thank for his recognition. His original supporter was Senator S. F. Alderman of Brainerd, but his real strength was found in Alderman's close personal and political friendship for the big fellow from Hennepin. It is generally set down as an achievement for Alderman and his side partner, Senator Dan Gunn of Grand Rapids, who with Senator Smith are the three Dromios of the upper house. There are rumors that Rider had manifested an interest in Senator Alderman's seat in the senate, but this thought is doubtless the suggestion of a jealous soul. It is expected that the Democratic game and fish commission will cheerfully name Mr. Rider as its executive agent. At a recent conference the Democrats assured the governor that they would elect any good man whom he would present for their consideration. Mr. Rider, who is a former member of the legislature and at present deputy marshal under Marshal Grimshaw, is personally unobjectionable to the Democrats on the board, and even if he were they are in duty bound to keep faith with the governor, who has treated them, they say, with every consideration.

Harmon to Be Re-Elected.

John E. King, state librarian, who has just returned from Cleveland, Ohio, where he attended a meeting of the executive committee of the American Association of Law Libraries, reports that Governor Harmon is picked as an easy winner for a second term and that Ohio Democrats are taking it for granted that he will be the presidential candidate of his party. President Taft, according to Ohio political gossip, is no more popular at home than in the Mississippi valley states, and it is the general opinion that Harmon can carry Ohio against Taft. The tariff is a live issue in Ohio, and the average business man and laborer is severe in his condemnation of the Aldrich bill. Former Secretary Garfield would make a strong candidate for governor, but he is persona non grata with the Taft machine which controls the Republican conventions. The chances seem to be, Mr. King says, that Harmon will win by a large majority next year, and this victory will make him the leading candidate before the Democratic national convention.

Ewart to Be Candidate.

Announcement that Paul W. Ewart, formerly of Pipestone, will get into the Second district congressional primary has caused some little interest among the slatemakers. Ewart contested the district two years ago, but unsuccessfully. He is a pretty good lawyer and following his resignation as assistant to the United States district attorney at St. Paul the national administration took care of him by making him the special assistant to the attorney general and putting him at work in the Oklahoma land frauds cases. It had been expected that State Treasurer Dinehart and Frank Ellsworth of St. James were going to be left alone to make the fight for the nomination in the Second, but Ewart will now have to bereckoned with. He is a strong campaigner and should get the votes but somehow does not appear to attract men to him. Ellsworth has returned to the state from a fall lecturing campaign and will make an active canvass. It is said that he received a forty-lecture contract from a bureau by the terms of which he is paid $75 for each lecture. His friends claim that he delivered the goods on the platform and has before him a contract for next season.

The Next Speakership.

With Speaker A. J. Rockne undecided whether or not to become a candidate for re-election to the house, there are said to be a number of house members who will be candidates for re-election and who will urge their claims to preferment, on the ground that, when elected, they stand a chance of becoming speaker of the next house. The latest to give a quiet tip to his friends that he may be expected to become a speakership Barkis upon his election is E. A. Kling of Little Falls. Kling was quite a factor in the last house, and is said to stand a pretty good chance of re-election. He and Representative L. D. Brown are both from Little Falls, and some of the outside towns in their district are demanding that one of the places go to the country districts. Kling's friends claim that, with his speakership aspirations, he should have no opposition, but it is not known that Brown is benchman to subscribe to this tenet of political faith.

Rockne, with his pretty good record in the speaker's chair last session, and his conceded abilities, seems to be drifting with the tide, and apparently has not yet clearly divined the current of his ambitions. There has been much talk of him being a candidate for the senate in the Goodhue county district. It is pretty well understood that Senator Ole Naoseth will not be returned, but nobody seems to have figured out just what the Republicans of the big county will do in the matter of his successor. Rockne has a way of completing fate, and the wonder is that he has not sooner been sacrificed to his sin of procrastination. Many men in his party are sure that he could have been nominated for attorney general two years ago if he had made a determined fight for the office, but it was said that he was flirting with the congressional nomination in his district and waited until Simpson had gotten pledges in the Third district, which made the Rockne candidacy hopeless. The result was that the man who later became speaker of the house did not enter the contest. Davis' insurgency also probably makes his position in the Third impregnable in the approaching campaign, and he is not likely to have opposition, and the best that Rockne can do now is a probable return to the house. Feeney Seiz, for two sessions sergeant-at-arms of the house, will, it is announced, be a candidate for one of the house positions at the disposal of the Goodhue county voters.

For Secretary of State.

Chippewa county has an anti-saloon Republican county club, according to local papers, and it already has a candidate for state office. William C. Thompson, a Maynard banker and former school principal, is the man, and the office of secretary of state is the one for which he is offered. The Maynard Progress boosts the local man and incidentally throws a few missiles at Secretary of State Julius A. Schmahl, who is charged with being an inhuman on the Republican state organization.

Senator John Johnston of Todd county is to have opposition in his ambition to succeed himself. I. J. Courtright of Staples has announced his candidacy and will contest the Republican primaries with Johnston. The latter is one of the few real farmer members of the senate, and his picturesque language and giant frame made him a feature of the last session. Spectators will long remember his debate with Senator Alderman of Brainerd over the proposition to abolish the central creamery plans. The passages between the hardy old agrarian and the immaculate lawyer were interesting if not illuminating.

Opposition to Bjorge.

H. O. Bjorge of Lake Park, who favored the tonnage tax bill in the last legislature, which was only defeated by Governor Johnson's veto, is again a candidate for re-election. He will make his fight on his record in the last house and especially on his work for the enactment of this bill. It may be recalled that fully 400 of Bjorge's constituents petitioned him to drop his pet hobby, but in vain, and now the White Earth Tomahawk is calling on these petitioners to remember their member's obduracy and to send another and better man to the legislature in his stead. It is claimed that Becker county is well within the iron belt and that it is rank treason to home interests to further agitate a measure which gives little promise of being anything further than a cause of discussion.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may, as a rule, be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. concern at the mills is to satisfy customers in regard to deliveries.

After the Panic.

"Following the panic of 1907, which was the result of lack of confidence from various causes, their was a diminution in the buying orders and regular supplies increased, and therefore the necessities of the public, particularly the railroads, had accumulated to such an extent that orders could not be longer deferred.

"Consequently their volume suddenly developed into abnormal proportions. This, with the growth of the country and increasing uses for iron and steel, together with the financial resources of the people, have brought about the prosperity which is now in evidence.

No Reduction Apparent.

"There is nothing in sight to indicate that there will be any great reduction in the iron and steel trade for the year, 1910. Most of the manufacturers have orders which will fully occupy their mills far into the future.

"Of course there are always possible dangers ahead, such as unjust and unreasonable legislation, or inconsiderate action by public officials, which tend to create distrust and thus postpone commitments for further extensions; or, what is more probable, there may be over-confidence, over-extension, too rapidly rising prices, or other mistakes by those who are in charge of important affairs.

"The law-makers, the administrators of the law, and the active business and financial members of the community are all interested in working together to improve the material as well as the moral conditions of the people, and this will be of great benefit.

"We have all learned something by experience in the past few years. I think there is no one more desirous of maintaining prosperity, so far as the same is consistent with good government, than the president himself."

by the strike, but without definite action. Meantime Mr. Perham has made no appointment with President Taft, who, it is stated at the White House, has not taken up the matter in any way.

The conference with the mediation board was solicited by Mr. Perham, following the railroads' refusal to make advances to the strikers, but other matters, including the general conditions affecting the men, were considered.

"Will any settlement be acceptable to the switchmen that does not provide absolutely for the reinstatement of the strikers?" was asked of Mr. Perham.

Must Suit Both Sides.

"No settlement will be accepted that is not mutually acceptable to both sides" blandly replied the mediator-diplomat.

"Do you feel any more hopeful of satisfactory settlement since your conference than when you first reached Washington?"

"We are always hopeful," he parried, "we're always optimistic."

"But as to the outlook?" he was asked.

"I can't say. If I say one thing, it might depress one side; if I say another, it might have the opposite effect."

Mr. Perham said there would be no conference today "unless something extraordinary develops," and that he did not expect to confer again until Monday, and that he did not expect in the interval to do any telegraphing.

Whole Situation Canvassed.

Mr. Perham submitted a lot of documentary evidence bearing on the dispute between the railroads and the switchmen. The whole strike situation —the working hours, rates of pay, reinstatement and a host of other phases of the strike conditions was canvassed. Mr. Perham pointed out that this effort was to seek some way of reaching a satisfactory settlement; that he wanted a resumption of negotiations between the railroads and the men.

The railroads say they have the situation well in hand; the strikers hold the contrary.

The switchmen want all of the strikers reinstated without prejudice; the railroads which have employed strikebreakers refuse to make vacancies for the strikers. Something like 2,500 switchmen were to be affected by the strike originally, and the understanding here is that practically all that number are out.

Answer Twin City Mayors.

Besides, mills and other industries dependent on full transportation facilities for handling products are affected, and the mayors of the Twin Cities telegraphed here urging some speedy action looking to a solution of the problem. To these telegrams Messrs. Knapp and Neill have replied, pledging their willingness to aid, if any way should seem clear. Various suggestions along this line were taken up at the conference. Many informal propositions were considered, but none of them crystallized into definite action.

Say Vote Has Been Taken.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1.—It was stated last night at the headquarters of the switchmen's union that several of the affiliated orders of the railway branch of the American Federation of Labor already have taken the question of going out on strike, and that the other members still are voting. No results of the vote could be ascertained, and it is not known whether any action, if taken, will be by the orders independently or all in a body.

The state railroad and warehouse commission has given out a statement in regard to traffic conditions in the state. The commission sent out letters to the mayors of 500 cities and villages of 200 inhabitants and over, asking the actual traffic conditions. Of 220 answers received, 50 complain of a shortage of coal, but the replies show that there has been no actual suffering.

Conditions Not Normal.

"We find that coal is moving nearly all of the time, and probably a number of those complaining have already been relieved," says the report.

It is stated also that there is some complaint regarding the lack of cars for the loading of grain and hay, but this, it is said, always happens at this time of the year. The report concludes: "Although conditions on the railroads are not yet normal, and the public is experiencing considerable inconvenience from all the replies received there seems to be a general improvement. The commission has taken up all these complaints with the companies and hopes that it will be able to secure prompt relief, as it has in all complaints heretofore received."

Chicago Railroads Answer.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—No increase in pay will be granted the switchmen in the Chicago district unless it should come through a board of arbitration. The railroad managers submitted their proposition to the union committee yesterday, and in substance it refused every demand the unions made. The answer was not regarded as final, and further conferences will be held, but it is said that in the end the entire matter will be submitted to arbitration.

The demand of the men for time and a half for overtime and Sundays was answered by the statement that in the movement of passengers and freight, the roads received no extra compensation for holidays and Sundays.

In refusing a wage increase, the managers, through F. O. Melcher of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, said that the roads were just emerging from serious business depression and that the volume of future business was uncertain, so that an advance in wages was unwarranted. He pointed out that the roads had not attempted to reduce wages during the depression.

It is expected that the switchmen will submit a counter-proposition on Monday, and that it will require several days to bring the question to a final issue. There is said to be no possibility of a strike in any event, as the switchmen will accept arbitration if they cannot secure an increase by direct negotiations.

Union Gives $15,000 for Men.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 1.—The grand lodge officers of the Switchmen's Union of North America yesterday voted $15,000 for the relief of striking switchmen in the Northwest. The sum will be duplicated later on if necessary, it was stated.

None of the officials here would make a statement as to the possibility of an extension of the strike to the Chicago-Buffalo district. The grand board will be in session here for several days.

SAYS SHE DREAMED IT

tune, but that she would not be happy until she was under his protection.

Miss De Janon is said to have inherited $50,000 in money and jewels from her mother, but she was not to get them until she was 21 years old.

"My husband had been employed at the Bellevue-Stratford for six months," said Mrs. Cohen. "when in the latter part of October the De Janons came there from the White mountains.

Saw Girl in Dream.

"A few nights after they arrived I dreamed that a girl stood at the side of my bed and sneered at me. I awoke screaming, and when my husband asked me what was the matter I said, 'I dreamed you eloped.' 'Nonsense,' he replied.

"He seemed worried after that, and he acted so strangely that I got suspicious, and one day I went to the Bellevue-Stratford and waited in the corridor until Miss De Janon came out of her room. Sure enough, she was the girl of my dream. I could not mistake her.

"Not long after that Fred confessed to me that my dream was true as far as the girl was concerned, and said: 'She is the most beautiful girl I ever saw. Her eyes fascinate me! I stand between love and duty. She wants me to take her away.'

"Continually my husband talked of Miss De Janon, and last Tuesday night he woke me up by shouting 'My brain is burning up! I'm all afire! Roberta wants me to elope with her!'

She Planned the Elopement.

"He told me that she had planned the elopement some time ago.

"When he left me on the house Wednesday morning he said he'd be home to dinner. He kissed me goodby, and promised me that he would not run away with the girl. 'When I'm with her I feel like smashing her!' he said. 'But when I am away, her eyes draw me back!'"

Cohen is 45 years old. He is also known under the names of Ferdinand Cook, Ferdinand Wood and Ferdinand Zuille.

MADMAN'S WILD ACTION.

Puts Wife Out in Cold and Ill Treats Other Members of Family.

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.) — Entirely nude, Ed Schmutzier was taken in charge by Pierce county officials here, being dangerously insane. He had driven his wife from home in the bitter cold, injured her mother by striking her, and one of the children had been severely bruised by being thrown to the floor several times.

Schmutzier had burned himself severely by rubbing against a hot stove while flying around in his mad rage without any clothes on.

YOUNG HOMESTEADER, RUN OVER, SUCCUMBS.

Schafer, N. D., Jan. 1.—The body of Andrew Omveldt, a homesteader, living fifteen miles south of here, who died as a result of being run over by his wagon, has been shipped to his former home, at Colfax, Wis. He was returning to his claim with a load of lumber during the bitter cold weather, when he fell under the wheels, being run over and injured internally.

ACQUIT MRS. LEDBETER.

Woman Alleged to Have Murdered Her Husband Declared Not Guilty.

Mankato, Minn., Jan. 1.—The jury that heard the evidence in the case against Mrs. Grace Ledbeter, indicted on the charge of murdering her husband, H. J. Ledbeter, presumably through a conspiracy with Frank Smith, a farmhand, with whom she is alleged to have been smitten, and has already been convicted, returned a verdict of not guilty yesterday afternoon, after being out one hour.

The woman's husband disappeared last winter, and in April was found buried on the farm. Mrs. Ledbeter, her sister, Mrs. Goldie Schwandt, and the latter's husband and Frank Smith, a hired man, were arrested, charged with murder.

Smith has already been convicted of manslaughter, and the Schwandt couple are yet to be tried.

GAYNOR ORDERS END OF PARTY GRAFTING.

New York, Jan. 1.—"Death to the politicians" is Mayor Gaynor's New Year's resolve. In a letter written on New Year's eve to Thomas J. Higgins, a member of the board of education, the mayor says:

"I propose to appoint you commissioner of parks for the Bronx, and I trust you will accept, for a thorough reform of that office is needed. Among other things I find that every one appointed to work in the parks there is required to join a political club and pay it dues and assessments levied for political purposes. Let all of that be stopped immediately. No political interference or influence whatever shall hereafter be suffered in any department of the city of New York."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

ALBERTA MINE TO BE WORKED

Capt. Hoar and Others to Develop Property Near Virginia.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Samuel Hoar of this city and other prominent mining men of the range have completed arrangements for the opening of the Alberta mine, located near this city on section 16, 58-17.

The new company will be known as the Elk Mining company and will do exploratory work on the property and place it in shape to again enter the shipping list next season.

The Alberta was originally opened and developed by Albert B. Coates of this city, the first season's shipment from the property in 1907 being 31,032 tons. The following season the mine was thought to have been worked out, shipments for that year being 51,143 tons or a total from the property of 82,175 tons.

Later explorations conducted by the lease-holders proved the existence of additional ore on the property and it is the intention of Capt. Hoar to fully prove and develop the same, the work thus far done making them confident that a much larger deposit of ore will be proven and it is their expectation to again put the mine in shape for active work this winter.

MISFORTUNES OF JAPILLA FAMILY

Head of Family and Daughter Are Dead, Infant and Mother Sick.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Sara Japilla took her infant child to Duluth Thursday to one of the Duluth hospitals for treatment for blood poisoning.

Mrs. Japilla has had a long list of misfortunes in the past few months.

Her husband died with tuberculosis a year ago, a young daughter also fell a victim to the white plague in September, another child is also suffering from the disease and she herself has contracted it.

The Finnish churches and societies have presented her with necessary supplies for the winter and Humane and Truant Officer Fitzgerald of School District No. 18 has raised a subscription cash fund, which will last her during the winter. This is probably the only case of extreme suffering and destitution in Gilbert, and the city is to be congratulated on the way it responds to worthy appeals.

KILLED IN LEONARD.

Young Man Has Life Crushed Out in Property Near Chisholm.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Christian Levinnowitch, aged 30, single was killed in the Leonard mine near here Friday. A large quantity of earth fell from above, striking upon his chest and crushing several ribs, besides injuring him internally so that he died within half an hour of the accident.

The body was taken to Hibbing, where funeral services will be held Sunday, Rev. Franfl Durant officiating, and interment will be made at the Hibbing cemetery. No known relatives of the deceased reside in this country.

TWO IMMENSE MOOSE.

Shipped From Tower to Minneapolis By Virtue of Permit.

Tower, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald)—Two of the largest moose ever shipped from this city went to Minneapolis yesterday. They were the property of Messrs. French and Rice of that city. It was impossible to get them out before freezing and the hunters were forced to go home without their game.

By virtue of the permits granted they will soon receive the animals, as they were brought over Lake Vermilion Taursday and shipped by express yesterday.

NASHWAUK BRANCH TRAFFIC VERY HEAVY.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Traffic on the new Nashwauk branch of the Great Northern is very heavy, and the trains are loaded every night. At first two coaches were put on, but another coach has been added, and even with the additional room there is scarcely standing room some days. It is hoped that the good business will cause the company to put on better accommodations soon.

SALOON KEEPER FINED.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Anto Sates, who runs a saloon at 107 Third avenue, will probably be hauled on the carpet by the council at its next meeting, as he was fined $100 and costs in municipal court yesterday on the charge of running a house of ill repute. He paid the fine. A bartender and his family occupied rooms in back of the saloon and it is said the arrest followed charges preferred by a man who had been kicked out of the bartender's rooms.

BIG TEMPERANCE MEET.

United Temperance Societies Gather at Eveleth Friday Evening.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.—The United Temperance societies of this city held their fourth annual New Year's day celebration in Waloniahde hall last evening and was the most successful one in the history of that organiztaion.

The principal address was given by Frank Mattson, who is the most influential temperance man in the northern part of the state.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the City band, and the program closed with the singing of "America" by the audience.

All the local temperance lodges attended, as did those of Virginia, Gilbert and Biwabik, and a large audience enjoyed the entertainment. After the program a dinner was served to those present.

EVELETH M. E. CHURCH PLANS FINE SERVICES.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Interesting services will be held at the Methodist church tomorrow. The morning services will commence at 10:30, while the evening services will be at 7:30. In the evening, Rev. Johnson, the pastor will speak on "The Man With the Cold Feet."

FIRE CHIEF HAS CLOSED A THEATER IN VIRGINIA.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.) — The Orpheum theater has closed its doors, by order of A. F. Thayer, chief of the local fire department, the electric wiring in the house not being in conformity with the ordinance relating such matters. Thomas C. Backer of Chisholm recently took over the theater from John Cummings, but expects to reopen the place as soon as the defect is remedied and other matters settled to his satisfaction.

To Enlarge Store Building

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald)—John Mesberg is havings plans drawn for an addition to his store building on Chestnut street. The new addition will be 20x40 feet to the rear of his present building and will be two stories in height.

The dancing party given by the Eagles at Finnish Temperance hall last evening was attended by a large crowd and was a success in every particular.

Eveleth Military Ball.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The military ball given last evening by the local militia company, in the Vail hall, was a success in every way, many being in attendance from this city and out-of-town.

WEST END

MAY ABANDON THE PROJECT

West End Not Likely to Have "White Way" This Winter.

It is now beginning to look as if West Superior street between Eighteenth and Twenty-first avenues west would not get the much talked about "white way" or system of ornamental street lighting.

The matter was placed in the hands of a committee of the West End Commercial club, which has been investigating the cost of the lights and the expense incidental to maintenance and installation. The committee comprises George M. Jensen, Victor Juten and Jacob Jacobsen.

Members of the committee now express doubt as to whether the required amount can be raised among the business men and it is hinted that the matter will be dropped for a time at least. The committee will make a report on the matter to the meeting of the club which will be held next week.

GAS EXPLOSION.

Manhole Covers Lifted Off in Many Places in West End.

A gas explosion at Garfield avenue and Michigan street about 4 o'clock yesterday afternon shook all of the buildings in the vicinity and blew the manhole covers from nearly every manhole for several blocks along Garfield avenue and Superior street.

The explosion was heard over the western end of the city. No damage resulted.

ALLEY IS SHELTER FOR PETTY THIEVES.

The city may be asked to install lights in First alley between Eighteenth and Twenty-first avenue west. The agitation originates with the West end merchants on the upper side of Superior street.

It is claimed that the alley is now so dark at night that it is dangerous to pass through and is a hiding place for burglars and thugs. The police who make their rounds there at night are compelled to dumble around in the dark.

BOYS WILL GIVE ANNUAL DINNER.

The members of the Boys' clubs of Neighborhood House will entertain at their second annual banquet Thursday evening of next week. The affair will be given at the club rooms, 2423 West Superior street, at 6:30 o'clock, and a number of the prominent men of the city have been invited to be the honor guests at this affair. The invitations have been issued in the names of the presidents of the three clubs: Simon Petersen, president of the Twentieth Century Boys; Clarence Thomas, president of the Knights of the Round Table, and Walter Lafex, president of the Busy Boys' clubs.

Skaters Are Busy.

Today will be a big day for the skaters at the West end.

At the skating rink of the Adams Athletic association at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west, there will be music during the afternoon and evening by the Third Regiment band.

The holiday, with its good weather, has kept the free rinks at the West end well filled.

New Club Formed.

For literary and social purposes, a new club has been organized at the West end during the past week. It is called the Onama society and the idea is to study literature and to give occasional social parties.

The officers of the club were elected as follows: Eric Saaf, president; Charles Magnuson, vice president; William McKee, secretary, and W. A. Swanstrom, treasurer. Arrangements have been made for clubrooms at 2102 West Superior street.

Transfer Is Made.

The property on the northwest corner of Twenty-first avenue west and Superior street, formerly owned by Nelson Bros., this week passed to the control of the F. I. Salter company, which is planning extensive improvements when the former owners vacate in the spring. The store fronts will be remodeled and the building brought up to date in all respects.

Grenner Funeral.

The funeral of Edward Grenner, 51 years old, of 2110 Piedmont avenue, who died Thursday, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Zion Norwegian Lutheran church, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, with interment at Park Hill cemetery. Rev. J. A. Bjerke will officiate. Mr. Grenner, an old resident of the Head of the Lake, is survived by a widow, three sons, Andrew, Helmer and Carl, and two daughters, Martha and Christine.

West End Shortrails.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon for Lillian Margaret Kjerstad, the 3-months-old daughter of E. Kjerstad of 2613 West First street, who died yesterday. The service will be held from the family residence with interment at Park Hill cemetery.

Prof. David Nyvall of Minneapolis, a noted Swedish educator and speaker, will occupy the pulpit tomorrow afternoon and evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. He will also speak at a young peoples rally tomorrow afternoon.

FOR JUMPING A BOARD BILL

Dr. Ben Ridder, called "The Millionaire Tramp," was arrested this morning charged with defrauding the Ryan hotel of St. Paul out of a board bill of about $26. Dr. Ridder takes his arrest philosophically. He doesn't complain, except to say that he would like to have a little more time to talk. Detective Springer of St. Paul came to Duluth this morning to take him back to the Saintly City, and Ridder said that he would be glad to accompany him.

NOT WORRIED OVER PROBE

Great Northern Officials Here Not Affected By the Investigation.

The investigation being conducted by William E. McEwen, state labor agent, into the alleged scandals connected with hiring men for the Great Northern road, as told in yesterday's editions of The Herald, is not worrying Great Northern officials at the Head of the Lakes.

It was said today at the general offices of the Great Northern in Superior that the Greek laborers employed on the Mesaba and Eastern Minnesota divisions of that railroad were obtained from a contract agent by the name of Osborne, who has offices in St. Paul and Minneapolis and that officials of the Great Northern did not come into contact with the laborers or their native representatives.

"The clerks in this office have nothing to do with the laborers," it was said, "except through orders by their superiors.

"The investigation into the sale of trip passes for laborers to persons for whom they were not intended is not being conducted here."

Many Greek laborers have made affidavits that money was deducted from their pay checks, some of it being either for John Tascas or for persons dealing through him. Tascas is an interpreter employed by the Great Northern in Superior. The money taken from the Greek laborers amounts to thousands of dollars.

Several Greeks in their affidavits said that they were informed by the company's officials that the money was intended for Tascas. Some of the railroad officials knew that Tascas was obtaining money from the laborers, but whether or not they were aware of the extent of the sums he was collecting or that in many instances laborers accepted their reductions under protest is a question which is known only to certain petty officials of the Great Northern railroad.

If the Great Northern intends to investigate a condition declared by the state labor commissioners to be intolerable no announcement to that effect has been issued from St. Paul.

It is probable that the laborers defrauded of their wages will pool their interests and will bring a civil suit to recover their money. The excuses under which the money was collected and in many instances extorted, were for board, although the laborers boarded themselves, and for an interpreter, although in many instances an interpreter was not needed and usually was not in evidence, any way.

Mr. McEwen believes that some petty employes of the Great Northern shared in the proceeds from the collective system. That feature however is a matter for investigation by the Great Northern railroad, instead of the state labor bureau.

THE FIRST 1910 BABY.

Probably the first baby born in Duluth in the year 1910 arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schaefer, 310 East First street, at 2 o'clock this morning, when Mrs. Schaefer gave birth to a girl.

THE VICTOR RECORDS FOR JANUARY.

From a musical standpoint the new year gets a good start with the splendid list of new Victor records just issued for January.

Pryor's band contributes two new records—the dashing "Washington Grays March" and the majestic and inspiring "Festival Overture" by Tschaikowsky, one of the Russian composer's most magnificent compositons. The L'Orchestre Symphonique of Paris gives the third of a splendid series of operatic records.

The playing of the Vienna String Quartet is a fine example of the spirit and finish that can be put into popular music and the lighter classics when properly rendered.

The Bohemian orchestra of London plays a beautiful new Bohemian waltz, "A Vision of Salome," and it would be impossible for men of any other nationality to render a Bohemian waltz as these players do.

Admirers of the sprightly operatic medleys by the Victor Light Opera company will be delighted with the two new medleys by this organization —one from the new musical comedy —one from the new musical comedy success, "The Golden Girl," and the other from that perennial favorite, "The Bohemian Girl," which was revived by Oscar Hammerstein during his preliminary season at the Manhattan opera house. One of the big hits of the season, "Carrie" ("Carrie Marry Harry"), is sung by Billy Murray; this original number is a refreshing novelty and the "patter" effects in the chorus are very striking. An exquisite little gem, "His Buttons Are Marked U. S.," one of Carrie Jacobs Bond's songs of childhood, is sung by Elizabeth Wheeler; and a charming song, "Roses in June," is rendered by Reed Miller, the well-known concert tenor.

Seventeen double-faced records—thirty-four selections—are included in the list of popular numbers.

The leading contribution in new Victor Red Seal records is the great duet from Aida sung by Gadski and Caruso.

Three Nearly Asphyxiated.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—N. O. Nelson and two sons were nearly killed by asphyxiation, only escaping through the waking up of Mr. Nelson when he was nearly overcome by the deadly fumes. He was just able to reach a door to let in fresh air and give the alarm. The two sons were sleeping in the same room and it took some time to bring them back to life.

RESOLUTIONS FOR THE NEW YEAR

The year 1910 has been ushered in. This is the time when resolutions are made that will govern your actions throughout the year. The most important question that ought to be included in every one's resolution is the patronage of home industries.

We are all unanimous in making a bigger, better and greater Duluth, therefore let us all stand shoulder to shoulder and demand Duluth-made goods whenever making a purchase, when price and quality are the same, or nearly the same, as outside-made goods.

The payrolls of every industry in Duluth could be greatly increased if our citizens would only insist on home-made goods.

One industry in particular that is being shamefully neglected is the cigar industry. If all who smoke would insist on Duluth-made cigars, the payrolls of Duluth cigar manufacturers would be multiplied at least tenfold.

It is just as easy to say give me a Duluth-made cigar as to install call for a cigar. But the result would be entirely different—the former increasing the payrolls of Duluth; the latter increasing the payrolls of other cities.

Therefore, let everybody emphatically resolve that during the year 1910 they buy none but Duluth-made goods, as far as possible and continuously. Do It For Duluth.

TWENTY-TWO HURT BY GAS EXPLOSION

Montreal, Que., Jan. 1.—Twenty-two persons were injured in an explosion which wrecked the train platform at Place Viger station, at the east end of the city, last night. Many of the injuries consist of broken legs. Mrs. Charles Bruneau of Montreal cannot live. The explosion was caused by the ignition of an accumulation of gas under the long wooden platform paralleling the station.

The midnight train of the Canadian Pacific for Quebec was standing on the tracks adjoining the platform, and an unusually large number of holiday travelers were bidding goodby to friends, whn suddenly a score of them were hurled into the air as though shot from a giant catapult.

Hurled Twenty Feet in the Air.

Some went straight up twenty or thirty feet. Others were thrown over the top of the train, and one man, with both legs broken, was found on the roof of one of the coaches.

Rumors of a bomb outrage quickly spread, and an excited crowd was attracted. Police reserves had difficulty in controling the frenzied people while the injured were being removed.

Little damage was done to the coaches of the Quebec train, which left the station twenty minutes later, showing no marks except a few cracked windows.

NEWSBOYS TO BE "FIRST NIGHTERS."

The properties of "The Third Degree" company, which comes to the Lyceum theater for a solid week, beginning Jan. 10, were badly scattered in the alley just behind the theater last night when the wagon carrying them from the railroad yards tipped over.

As a result of the inopportune tipping of the wagon, two Herald newsboys will see the first performance free of charge.

The little fellows are always on the job. They watch for theatrical accidents just as they watch the big man carrying the watermelon at the wholesale house, hoping that something will happen so that they can get in on it.

When the wagon overturned, the press agent of the show happened to be present and so impressed was he with the willingness of the boys that he immediately got out his book and wrote each boy a pass to the first night's performance.

Rev. I. W. Williams Testifies.

Rev. I. W. Williams, Huntington, W. Va., writes us as follows: "This is to certify that I used Foley's Kidney Remedy for nervous exhaustion and kidney trouble and am free to say that Foley's Kidney Remedy will do all that you claim for it." Sold by all druggists.

SUPERIOR

Observe Holiday.

There is a general observance of New Year's day at Superior this year. All of the stores except the drug, candy and cigar stores are closed. The postoffice and public library are observing Sunday hours.

Last evening the Superior churches held watch night services and many lodges and fraternal societies celebrated the passing of the old year with an annual ball.

Busy Year for Police.

According to figures compiled yesterday by the clerk of the municipal court at Superior, during the year of 1909, the sum of $20,995.69 was collected in Judge Parker's court from prisoners. In the month of December alone, the amount of fines collected was $2,134.

A total of 3,495 prisoners have been booked for the year just closed and if all of the prisoners had been convicted and fined alike, each would have paid $6.36. The distance covered by the patrol wagon is estimated at 3,388 miles.

Will Wed in Kansas.

Leo Dolan of the American Heating company left last evening for Parsons, Kan., where he will be married on Jan. 12, to Miss Alice Hawksworth of that city. Before leaving, Mr. Dolan was tendered a farewell banquet by the members of the Stag club, of which he was a member.

Annual Banquet.

The first annual banquet of the Superior Christian Young People's union will be held this evening at the Cumming Avenue M. E. church. More than 200 tickets have been sold and there is every indication that the affair will be very successful. Judge L. K. Luse will preside as toastmaster for the occasion and a good program of after-dinner speeches will be given.

Death Ends Strange Case.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gus Johnson, who was in a local hospital several days unconscious from the effects of acute nephitis, died Thursday. Johnson's case was one of the very peculiar ones that local physicians have had recently. He was unconscious for over sixty hours before death finally came.

Dr. Schwab Takes Oath.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 1.—Dr. Louis Schwab, elected mayor of Cincinnati at the November election, took oath of office today. Retiring Mayor John Galvin administered the oath, after which he himself was sworn in as vice mayor and president of council.

SANDSTONE HIGH READY.

Building After Being Repaired to Be in Use Again.

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald)—When the holiday vacation is over several grades will find their rooms ready in the high school building for occupancy, the work of repairing since the September fire having progressed enough to allow the removal of the classes temporarily stationed in the M. E. church, the Norwegian church, the Tonihave rest room and in the Good Templars' hall to their former quarters.

The high school grade will continue their studies in the public library room until the remainder of the repair work is finished. Work is being pushed by Contractor Hanson as much as possible and at present a gang of men is busy placing the cornice on the roof of the high school.

We Treat You 30 Days FREE

Blood Poison can never be cured with mercury or potash. You might as well know this first as last. Medical authorities say so. The most these drugs can do is to drive the blood poison back into the system and smother it for several years. Then when you think you are cured, pitiful mercury symptoms will break out, and you find that your bones have been rotting all the while. Your teeth will begin to loosen and your tissues, glands, brain and vital organs will show the terrible destructive power of the mercury and potash. Locomotor Ataxia, Paralysis, Imbecility and Premature Death are then almost inevitable. Any medical authority will corroborate these statements. The remarkable vegetable Obbac Treatment does not drive in the but drives it out. It positively contains no mineral poisons whatever, so that once cured by the Obbac Treatment you never run the terrible risk of having your bones soften, your nerves collapse, your teeth fall out, your kidneys degenerate or your brain weaken. The Obbac Treatment is a marvel, producing remarkable changes in only 30 days. This is why we offer to any blood poison victim living, no matter how bad a case, a

30-Day Treatment FREE

You want to be cured and cured quick—not poisoned with mercury and potash for years. A 30-day Treatment is yours for the asking. You will open your eyes at what it will do for you in a month. We treat you free for a month. Just write to us and get the treatment free. Then if you are satisfied it is the most remarkable treatment you ever took, you can continue if you wish. Never in your life will you ever again have such an opportunity for a complete cure, as is given you by this

Great Obbac Treatment

This is a square deal. You sign nothing, no notes, make us no promises, except to take the treatment.

The wonderful Wasserman Test, the only blood poison test known to scientists, proves that the body is completely purified by the Obbac Treatment, and that mercury and potash do not cure blood poison. Sit down and write to us, giving a full history of your case in detail. We will treat your letter as a sacred confidence. Consultation and advice free. We will send you also the remarkable book, "Driving Out Blood Poison" free.

Northern Minnesota's Attempt to Establish Open Market Attracts Attention.

A. H. Woods Furnishes List of Books on Co-Operation With Farmer.

A. H. Woods, recently appointed head of the state agricultural school, has submitted a valuable list of books and references on co-operating markets to The Herald which has been turned over to the Commercial club. Mr. Woods is acting chief of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture, to which a letter of The Herald asking information upon the subject was referred. Northern Minnesota's efforts in this direction were of sufficient importance to command a paragraph in the last annual report of the department of agriculture. This paragraph drew The Herald's request for more information. Mr. Woods says that there has been less tendency in this country to organize farmers handling general farm products than among the more highly intensified industries like fruit growing, but that such co-operation has been worked out both in England and in the continent with very great success. Mr. Woods explains that dairying and stock raising are important factors in the development of the state, but adds that the raising of fruits and vegetables adapted to northern conditions could be made very profitable. He expects to come to Minnesota next year to take charge of the agricultural work of the university. Speaking briefly of the situation he says in his letter:

"The development of the agricultural resources of Northern Minnesota is one of the most important problems needing the attention of the state. The great markets of Duluth ought to stimulate a fairly rapid agricultural settlement of the surrounding country, furnishing not only sufficient food products for the city, but competing successfully in other markets.

"A type of farming of which dairying and stock raising is an important element must, of course, prevail in this section, but there is no reason why vegetables and fruits adapted to northern conditions cannot be made a very profitable part of the farm operations.

"The cost of marketing is now one of the great problems in all parts of the country, and of course is particularly so in such a locality as Duluth. We believe that the final solution of the problem will be along the lines of co-operative marketing, as it has been developed in England, on the continent and in our own country, especially by the California fruit growers, and more recently by the peach growers of the south, the apple growers of the Ozark region and numerous other local associations."

MAKING A GOBBLER "SIT."

Dallas News: Out east of town is a turkey gobbler "sitting" contentedly on a big bunch of eggs with good prospects. The owner of the eggs was unable to get a turkey hen to do the mothering, so he secured the gobbler. To make the gobbler content the owner is serving him with a ration of whisky-soaked corn, keeping the gobbler so jagged that he is unable to walk off and leave the "sitting."

LYCEUM—"The Thief." (See notice below.)

BIJOU—Special bill of vaudeville.

STRONG DRAMA AT THE LYCEUM

"The Thief," Well Acted and Splendidly Mounted, a Holiday Attraction.

A strong play, excellently acted, and superbly mounted, is "The Thief," which opened at the Lyceum last evening for an engagement of two nights and a special New Year's matinee.

The well-known Bernstein drama has been seen in Duluth before and its story is more or less well known to Duluth theater-goers. The theme of the story is the love of a woman for her husband, and her desire above all things to keep his affection. To such lengths does this desire extend that she steals money from her husband's friend to purchase expensive clothes, knowing that in his younger days he led a gay life, and fearing that she could not retain his admiration unless she compared favorably in appearance with other women who were much better dressed than she. Suspicion falls on the young son of her husband's friend, and the youth, having a calf love for her, confesses that he stole the money, to shield her. She permits the deception to be carried out for a time. Her husband discovers her guilt, and also suspects her of unfaithfulness to himself. The dramatist, however, finally brings his story to a logical and happy climax.

The story is splendidly worked out, and the play is replete with stirring climaxes. The second act, in which only Richard Voysin and his wife appear, offers tremendous possibilities to the two members of the cast, who are responsible for its success or failure.

The fact that it is a Charles Frohman production, carries with it the guaranty of merit. In spite of the fact that this is the third season for the play, and its second season on the road, the producer has not slighted it in the least, and has provided a most elaborate setting for it, and a thoroughly capable company of actors.

There are just two important roles in the play, those of Richard Voysin and his wife, and the others are more or less "feeders" for them. Felix Krembe, in the role of Voysin, presents a finished, artistic and appreciative characterization. He has a good voice, well controlled, and a quiet, but impressive stage presence.

Miss Helene Sullivan shares the honor with him. She is the fortunate possessor of a very pleasing stage presence, and all the physical charms requisite for such a role. She has added to these, no small measure of genuine ability. In the trying second act, it would be very easy to fall into the fatal mistake of starting the climax too soon, and leaving nothing to draw upon. In fact, the entire act is a series of climaxes. Miss Sullivan shows excellent judgment in shading her emotion. Perhaps the only fault that might be found with her work is a tendency to shout her lines, when a quiet tone of voice might prove more effective.

The less important roles are in good hands. Miss Emma Lowry as Isobel Lagardes has little to do, but she does it well. Lawrence Barbour as Mons. Gondoin, the detective, and Biglow Cooper as Raymond Lagardes are well cast, and handle the parts assigned to them capably and acceptably. Harry L. Franklin is inoffensive as Fernand. The role is a thankless one at the best, and a most difficult one to portray. To be inoffensive in it, is about the most that an actor can hope for, for it would be a difficult task indeed, to make the part stand out.

"The Thief" will be repeated at a special New Year's day matinee, and will close its engagement this evening.

There is nothing suggestive or objectionable in it, and these who like a drama of this type, will find much in it to enjoy.

WAS A GREAT YEAR FOR FIGHTERS

Pugilistic Sport Was Given a Great Boost During 1909.

Following Jack Johnson's winning of the heavyweight championship of the world last Christmas day, there seemed to be an unusual rush in the pugilistic game in this country, and as a result 1909 stands out as a banner year in boxing. The colored man's victory caused many white fighters to become more active in the sport.

There were many more bouts held during the year than before, despite the crusade started against the sport in some parts of the country.

The crown of heavyweight champion was not taken from Jack Johnson. He appeared in three scheduled bouts. Al Kaufman and Stanley Ketchel were both soundly drubbed by the colored fighter, while Jack O'Brien was the other opponent to mix with the champion. That bout was held in Philadelphia and went the six-round limit, O'Brien winning on points. It was no championship battle and does not materially count against Johnson's record.

Jim Jeffries' announcement of his return to the ring and match with Johnson was one of the notable events of the year in the pistic ranks.

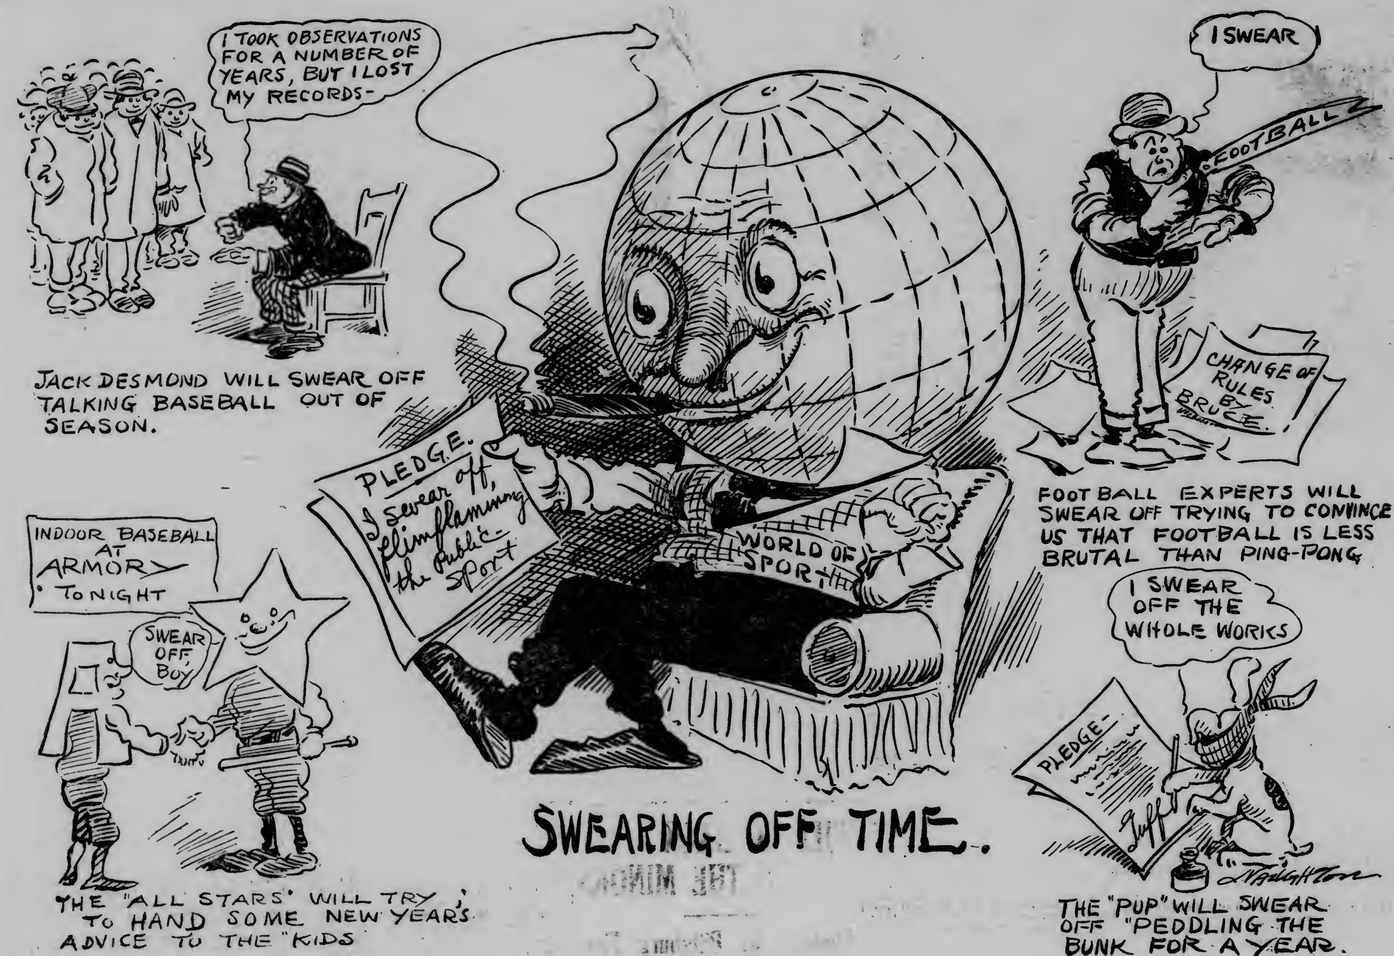

Not a single championship changed hands during the year, despite the hundreds of bouts. There still remains the unsettled condition of the middleweight class as Stanley Ketchel, since meeting Johnson, has forsaken that division.

Also in the welterweight class there is much argument as to the real leader. Harry Lewis of Philadelphia, Jimmy Gardner, Willie Lewis, Mike ("Twin") Sullivan, "Honey" Mellody and others, all claim the title and will probably continue to do so indefinitely.

Battling Nelson retains the lightweight championship. He was more engaged in writing fiction during the year than real fighting.

In the featherweight class Abe Attell gets first call. He has worthy rivals in Owen Moran and Jem Driscoll, the two English boys, and the latter actually outpointed him last spring.

The bantamweight title is also undecided. There are numerous claimants, Danny Webster, Monte Attell and Johnny Coulon come about as close to being the best there are in the country.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR THE NEW YEAR

Another Big Season Is in Store for the Athletes.

New York, Jan. 1.—The year of 1909 has been the most successful ever known in the history of outdoor and indoor sports, according to President Everett C. Brown of the Amateur Athletic union, whose first annual athletic review has just been made public.

"The prospects for 1910," he continues, "are more promising than any year within my recollection, and I look for the greatest boom ever experienced in athletics. The first important event in international athletics will be the wrestling, gymnastic and basket ball championships. All of these championships have been allotted to Chicago. The national indoor championship will also be held in Chicago while the swimming championships will be divided up among the largest swimming clubs in New York, Boston, St. Louis and Chicago. These are the centers of the sport.

"One reason why Chicago is so particularly favored in the national events is that the board realizes that it will have to keep athletics especially active in this section, owing to some little antagonism which has developed and which is localized in Chicago. In fact, efforts are being made to put a rebel organization into power. The amateur track and field championships will probably be held in New York. The committees thought it well to stimulate the sport in that section of the country."

KETCHEL PLANS TO FIGHT BURNS

Sees No Foeman Worthy of His Steel in America.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Stanley Ketchel will shy his castor into foreign rings for the next year. Ketchel has matches in sight with Tommy Burns in England and with Bob Fitzsimmons, Bill Lang and Bill Squires in Australia.

Ketchel claims the middleweight scepter despite the assertion of critics that he no longer can make the orthodox weight. He will sail for England about Jan. 15, and expects a month or so later to take on Tommy Burns, probably before the National Sporting club.

The Michigan fighter regards his matches with the three Australians as fixtures, as Hugh McIntosh is anxious to stage as many good bouts as possible, although his showing against Burns would be expected to have an influence on his drawing powers.

"Really, there is no longer much of a field for me in this country," said Ketchel. "Papke wants to fight me again, but even if the bout did draw well, which I doubt, that would about end my activity against first-class men. I would like to meet Johnson again, but he is matched up with Jeffries, with no chance for any other battle until fall at least.

"Johnson is a great fighter, there is no doubt of that. I think I could beat him next time, as I became overconfident in that twelfth round. It should be a great battle between him and Jeff. I have my opinion, of course, but since Johnson beat me, I had better keep still about the fight.

"Reports of my dissipation on the coast are exaggerated. I'm not a fool yet and I expect to fight for many years. At the same time, it's better for me to go abroad. If I beat Burns, as I expect to do in England, I will be a great card in Australia, where Burns is popular. I expect to meet Burns in February or March. Then, unless our plans go wrong, on to Australia."

WATCHING THE SMOKE RAISED BY THAT INDUSTRIOUS WORKER "DARBY" PATRICK O'BRIEN

Something of the Irish Orator and His Ways --Jeffries Not Coming to Duluth.

(BY BRUCE)

A little attention to Darby Patrick Henry O'Brien.

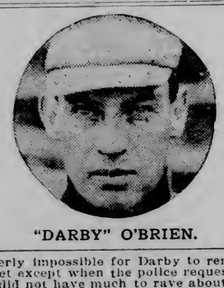

Since leaving here the Irish orator has been much busier than Clifford Pinchot has been during the past few months. Darby reminds us muchly of the busy little bee—not that he has ever stung anyone that we know of.

He has been gathering a little band of baseball warriors who will attempt to beslege of the top of the league standing. If all the reports that Darby's facile pen have wafted Duluthward are true, then we may be assured that the White Sox will have one of the strongest teams in the baseball battle the coming season.

Ah, what an industrious Darby he is!

Can you picture him riding over the country, that beautiful open-faced country in the vicinity of Cleveland, Ohio, traveling to the homes of ball players, and with note book in hand and average calculator in his pocket, sitting down behind the stove for a heart to heart talk about the coming season. 'Tis a beautiful and touching little illght into the realms of fancy.

As a citizen of growing and thriving Duluth, Darby has done much to warm the cockles of our athletic heart. Though it is quite unnatural and also utterly impossible for Darby to remain quiet except when the police request it, he did not have much to rave about the first season he spent at our popular city. Things were breaking badly for the team under the leadership of Dave Williams, and as Darby was only a second baseman, he didn't have a great deal to say. He used to swear occasionally.

Ah, but Harold, child, what a difference the last season!

Indeed a game would not seem complete without the stentorian tones of the Irish orator. "At 'em, lads." was a cry that brought almost as much fame to Duluth as old man Proctor Knott's oratorical outburst. Al Kuehnow imposed no restrictions on Darby's freedom of speech, only telling him to be a little mite careful with his vocabulary. Mr. Kuehnow also asked the police to forget the anti-noise ordinance.

But leaving the personality of the man (have you ever read "Lincoln Stefens'") let us get to the work he has been doing. Oh, yes, he is "doing it for Duluth." He has been reading carefully the columns of the baseball periodicals, has been studying with furrowed brow the averages of the players the country over. He has picked up in the neighborhood of fifty-seven players and while they may be of as many varieties as the Heinze brands, we hope that the varieties will be all good.

Darby "done" well last season. Getting away to a bad start, he finished in front of the procession. A big hole was cut in his team by the eager drafting of higher league managers, but with the material at hand Darby should have a very strong team. His heart and soul are in the game. He may not be the best second baseman in the world, and Nap Lajoie may not harbor the green dragon of jealousy when Darby hits Cleveland, but just the same Darby always went after all the balls out his way, as fast as his shapely, Chauncey Olcott calves would carry him.

He had a lot of youngsters to manage and some of the most bull headed youths at that. The very fact that these kids used to swear at Darby on the bench and then go out on the field and play their heads off for him, and also want to lick any one that knocked him, shows plainly that the Irish wit possesses that tact and diplomacy so common in men of his race.

Darby has done good work in the past and as a happy New Year's wish we hope that he has the very best of success the coming year.

It is probable that the Jeffries-Gotch combination will not be seen in Duluth this season. Word was received yesterday asking for a date, but as the attraction cannot be booked here, the ex-champion and his troupe will not show before a Duluth audience.

Jeffries is booked to appear in Hibbing, but whether he will show in the range city is a matter that cannot be learned at this time. If the ex-champion of the world showed in Hibbing it is certain that a large number of people from Duluth would go to Hibbing to witness the performance of the man who will attempt to wrest the title from Jack Johnson.

A full length picture of Jeffries in one of the Chicago papers shows the ex-champion lined up beside Champion Gotch, while off to the right standing like Apollo is Doc Kolter. Jeffries looks far from being in anywhere near the shape of a man who must fight for the championship of the world.

His legs look bulky and slow. His limbs look as if they had a great deal of fat that will have to be taken off before the champion can ever hope to have the endurance necessary to catch a man with the speed of the colored man. There are a lot of people in this neck of the woods, who would like to get a peep at the holler maker before he starts training for the smoke.

Owen Moran, the great little Englishman, who made a monkey out of Harlem Tommy Murphy, supposed to be one of the best lightweights in the East, and also the chap, you know, who for the team under the leadership of Dave Williams, and as Darby was only a second baseman, he didn't have a great deal to say. He used to swear occasionally.

Ah, but Harold, child, what a difference the last season!

Indeed a game would not seem complete without the stentorian tones of the Irish orator. "At 'em, lads." was a cry that brought almost as much fame to Duluth as old man Proctor Knott's oratorical outburst. Al Kuehnow imposed no restrictions on Darby's freedom of speech, only telling him to be a little mite careful with his vocabulary. Mr. Kuehnow also asked the police to forget the anti-noise ordinance.

But leaving the personality of the man (have you ever read "Lincoln Stefens'") let us get to the work he has been doing. Oh, yes, he is "doing it for Duluth." He has been reading carefully the columns of the baseball periodicals, has been studying with furrowed brow the averages of the players the country over. He has picked up in the neighborhood of fifty-seven players and while they may be of as many varieties as the Heinze brands, we hope that the varieties will be all good.

Darby "done" well last season. Getting away to a bad start, he finished in front of the procession. A big hole was cut in his team by the eager drafting of higher league managers, but with the material at hand Darby should have a very strong team. His heart and soul are in the game. He may not be the best second baseman in the world, and Nap Lajoie may not harbor the green dragon of jealousy when Darby hits Cleveland, but just the same Darby always went after all the balls out his way, as fast as his shapely, Chauncey Olcott calves would carry him.

BATTLING DANE PREDICTS FROST

Nelson Does Not Think Big Fight Will Draw Crowd.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—"Financially the Jeffries-Johnson championship battle is destined to be a bloomer." That's about the only direct opinion Battling Nelson would venture when pressed by the critics for some views on the contest scheduled for next July. But as Nelson is said to be the shrewdest financial man in the pugilistic world, many will pay attention to his opinion.

"If Jeffries can come back and make good in the ring after his long retirement he will have the honor of being the first fighter to do it," continued the world's champion lightweight, who is lecturing on the stage this week at a local theater—explaining the Nelson-Hyland fight pictures.

It is not difficult, however, to interpret the "Durable Dane's" private opinion about the coming fight of the heavyweights. He is not optimistic of the white fighter's success.

TOM LYNCH WAS NO-HIT PITCHER

Man Now President of National League Was Some Twirler.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 1.—Among the old-time fans in this section the election of Thomas J. Lynch, the veteran umpire, to the presidency of the National league brought back pleasant memories of notable games unknown almost to the present generation. Lynch is well known here, and, in fact, made his debut as an umpire in the New England league way back in 1886. He was the first man behind the bat to wear a chest-protector, and became well known by his calling of balls and strikes in a thunderous voice.

Lynch started his baseball career as a pitcher away back in 1880. While pitching for the Nationals against the Baltimores on May 24, 1880, he shut out the latter team without a hit. He followed the playing end of the game for several years, and in 1892 joined the National league staff of umpires. At once he gave satisfaction, and it was not long before he grew into popular favor. It was a treat to witness a game in which Lynch officiated.

In July, 1897, he tendered his resignation as an umpire, owing to ill health. President Nick Young, however, urged him to withdraw it, and a few days later he reconsidered the matter. It was his great regard for the president that caused him to change his mind.

He had many trying times as an umpire and on several occasions was booked for a good beating by irate ball players. One of his most important escapades was on Aug. 6, 1897, when he became enraged at the continual tongue-lashings hurled at him by Jack Boyle of the Baltimores and fined him $300, besides hitting him. The trouble occurred at the close of the game and the ground in front of the grandstand was the scene of a fierce conflict. Only the arrival of the police separated the combatants.

On this occasion Doyle learned a severe lesson, and other unruly ball players profited by his experience. Lynch was a man not to be trifled with, stern, yet fair, and ball players generally liked him.

DO AWAY WITH WORLD'S SERIES?

Baseball Fans Look With No Favor on New Scheme.

New York, Jan. 1.—The world of baseball fans is face to face with a calamity. Will there be a post-season world's championship series hereafter? That is the question, and a good many of the experts answer in the negative, declaring that the action of the National league in making the season one of 168 games precludes the possibility of the championship matches.

The National season will open about April 14 they point out, and with 168 games will close Oct. 15.

The American league season of 154 games opens about April 15 and closes about Oct. 6 or 7. The championship series week, therefore, would be used by the national clubs for the wind-up of the games, within the league. Charles Ebbertis of Brooklyn and Charles W. Murphy of Chicago brought about the lengthened season, which is causing a good deal of comment.

T. J. Lynch, the new president of the National league, is familiarizing himself with the details of his work. He and ex-President Heydler, now secretary-treasurer, have been reviewing the work at the St. James building offices.

KLING WANTS TO PLAY IN NEW YORK

Star Catcher Says He Would Be Glad to Join Giants.

New York, Jan. 1.—John G. Kling is ready to play for the Giants if Murphy trades him and the national commission pulls off the reinstatement act.

"Play with New York," said Kling, "well, I should think I will. Nothing would suit me better. I will play with New York any old day. If the commission reinstates me and Brush makes the trade or purchase and gives me what I want, you will see me with my little suitcase packed full of clothes and off for the big place where I dodged rocks in 1908. I will be glad to play with New York. With Chicago? There is absolutely nothing doing. I would rather remain in Kansas City and handle a little semi-pro club than earn 20 cents a season for Murphy."

"Washington is again being picked as a first division possibility," says J. Ed Grillo, "though, fortunately, no one in this neck of the woods has had the nerve to make such a prediction. It was so last year. In nearly every city of the circuit the belief existed that the Nationals would cut a figure in the race, but, alas, they finished last, and that with a very small percentage of victories to their credit. But the acquisition of Elberfeld seems to have given some of the experts new hope."

Lerd and Speaker of the Boston Americans have received handsome Christmas presents. Each has been presented with a check for $500 as a reward for batting over .300 last season. Because of a desire to stimulate batting, John I. Taylor early last season promised $500 to every member of the team that had an average of .300 or better. Jake Stahl missed the $500 bonus by 6 points. His average for 127 games was .294.

EVERYTHING IN READINESS FOR OPENING OF 1910 SKI SEASON

THE DULUTH SKI HILL.

The ski riders are very anxious to get busy.

As yet there has been insufficient snow for skiing purposes and the Duluth riders have had no chance to practice. Snow is anxiously looked for and as soon as it comes, all the old favorites will be out on the hill for the first practice of the year.

The first tournament comes this year on Jan. 16. This will be a local affair in which all the local riders will enter. As no town in the United States is richer in the line of brilliant riders, their performance will probably rival that of a tournament where outside riders are entered. This tournament wi ' be pulled off as an entertainment for the curlers who will be here at that time to attend the Northwestern bonspiel.

On Feb. 6, comes the big tournament, in which riders from all parts of the country will be entered. A large number of cash prizes will be hung up so as to make it worth while. It is this tournament that the directors are planning to make the big affair of the year. All the riders who take part in the National tournament will be here and the prizes will probably be as large as at the official meeting.

The National tournament takes place this year at Coleraine, on Jan. 19 and 20. At first it was planned to bring the riders here at the time they were passing through the city on their way to Coleraine. As the range town has both Saturday and Sunday, it was thought that it would not be a paying proposition to have the meet in Duluth on other days. Saturday and Sunday are the only days the crowd will turn out in Duluth, and as the Duluth club has experimented with other days they have decided to take no chances.

There is an unusual interest in the sport this year and the club members are hoping to make it the best year in history. They say that all depends on the weather and promise that if it is clear, with plenty of snow and not too cold, the exhibitions this year will be the best ever.

The club is trying to stimulate interest this year among the younger people. For the purpose of giving them a chance to try out the sport and practice they have erected two short slides on the Duluth hill. All those who wish to are welcome to the use of these smaller slides. A toboggan slide has also been constructed. A fence has been built around the ground occupied by the club.

In other years people have taken various means to witness the performance free of charge, hence the fence.

CHANGES ARE SUGGESTED

Walter Camp Gives His Views on Revision of Football.

Old Yale Man Has Novel Ideas Regarding the College Game.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 1.—Walter Camp of Yale issued a statement last night in which he made suggestions for change in the football playing code for next year. He advocates a rather novel innovation in a rule which would compel all players to stand in a space only ten yards wide. The changes favored by him are: Let no player on the attack or the defense line up outside two lines running parallel to the side lines, each of these lines being five yards from the ball, thus making the scrimmage line ten yards in width.

The backfield men on the attack and defense must also keep within these lines until the ball is put into play.

If it is desired to increase the power of attack, try letting one man line up a specific distance to be determined outside this space.

Make the distance to be gained fifteen yards in four downs up to the 25-yard line, then make it ten yards in four downs up to the 15-yard line, and then five yards in four downs thereafter. Remove the five-yard restriction for a quarterback run. Forbid the forward pass crossing the line of scrimmage, but let any one get the ball on a forward pass after it strikes the ground.

If it is desired still further to favor the attack double distance might be given for any run which crosses the line of scrimmage more than ten yards out from center.

FIGHT PICTURES BARRED IN IOWA

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Jan. 1.—Even the shadow of a prize fight is barred in Iowa. Governor Carroll has held that moving pictures of such contests are as illegal as the fights themselves and there is mourning in the worlds of sport and 5-cent theaters.

CRACK TEAMS WILL MEET AT INDOOR BALL.

Both the crack Company A indoor baseball team of the Military league, and the All Stars are ready for the game tonight which will decide the championship of the northern section of the state.

Both teams have trained hard for the contest, and the game this evening promises to be one of the fastest indoor exhibitions of the national game that has ever been played in the Northwest.

The game will be followed by a dance.

Though the All Stars are confident of victory, followers of indoor baseball in this city believe that the Military league leaders will trim the older players.

FIRST ICE RACES TO BE HELD ON BAY.

An informal matinee will be held this afternoon by the horse owners of this city. There will be a series of ice races on the bay, the first of the season at the Head of the Lakes.

Miss Goldberg and Harry W., will be out on the ice this afternoon for their first trials of the season. Some of the speediest ice performers of this section of the country will be seen.

BRYANT WILL MEET JOE HART

Frank Bryant, Head of the Lakes champion roller skater, has answered the challenge of Joe Hart of Chicago, who yesterday challenged Bryant for a race from any distance from one mile to five. Hart also stated that he would bet any amount from $25 up.

Bryant states that he will meet Hart in a five-mile roller skating race and he is enthusiastic enough over his own chances of victory to wager $50.

The race will probably be skated at the Lincoln park pavilion.

Al Kubiak the Winner.

Paris, Jan. 1.—Al Kubiak, the Michigan heavyweight pugilist, last night defeated Sid Russell of Australia on points in a limited round bout.

Free to Boys

Sled That Steers Will Be Given to Every Boy Who Will Do Me a Small Favor. You Can Have One.

This is the greatest sled for boys and girls ever manufactured. Known all over the country as "the sled that steers." Runners are spring steel, and when you coast down hill a slight pressure of the foot curves them and steers the sled to one side. No digging in the snow with your heels or plowing the snow with your feet. Not one boy in a hundred has one of these sleds. You can have one for a little easy work. Write me today and I will tell you all about it.

CURLERS MUST TOE THE MARK

Games Will Be Played or Forfeited From This Time On.

Extreme measures will be taken by the members of the Curling club in order that the scheduled contests may be played off at the time of their posting.

The bonspiel will clip a good two weeks off the regular local curling season, and if the events are to be well along at the time of the opening, they must be finished.

From this time on five games will be posted each day and the rinks must either play or forfeit. The trophies are many and it is a long way down to the finals. For this reason play must go on, so that all the events may be finished during the season. Last year the events were finished just as the break up came. This year the members do not care to run so close to the line.

There were a number of games played at the rink this morning. Two practice games were played last night. W. G. Hall defeated H. Feetham, 14 to 6, and C. F. West won from W. E. Magner, 9 to 7.

The draws for Monday and Tuesday have been made and are as follows:

CURLEY GIVES DEMONSTRATION

Duluth Fighter Knocks Out Jimmy Kelly of Butte in Twelfth Round.

Last night, in Wisconsin, Curley Ulrich, the Duluth fighter, who has been doing things out in Montana, demonstrated to the home folks that he knew the fight game, for he gave Jimmy Kelly an awful walloping, and, in addition, put him away in the twelfth round.

Curley's victory was a clean cut one, and when he got through with the Montana fighter the latter looked as though he had encountered several barbed wire fences in a midnight stroll across the pasture.

Kelly is a clever fighter, and he made a big hit with the fans, for he stuck gamely to his task and took severe punishment all through the fight. Curley was too much for him, however, and in the twelfth round, after a clean left hook to the jaw, Kelly slept for the specified time.

Those who witnessed the fight say it was one of the best ever held in this part of the country, and they are now arranging a match between Curley and Jimmy Potts.

"BUNT" IS EXPLAINED.

"How did the word 'bunt' get into baseball?" somebody asked of Arthur Irwin.

"It came from the word 'punt,' said the old-time shortstop. "One day in Boston, back in 1877, I guess it was, Carroll laid the ball down and beat it out. The official organ said the next day: A wonderful thing happened in yesterday's game. In the eighth inning Carroll punted the ball and actually beat it to first, amid shrieks of laughter.'

"I think I introduced the bunt in the West. I made four in one game in Detroit, all down the third base line. Old Jim White was playing third, and it was funny to see him try to pick up the bunts and get them across; funny, because Jim could handle a hard-hit ball as well as any man in the country."

BASEBALL MEN UNDER ONE ROOF

Fisher Building, Chicago, Will House Magnates and Presidents.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—If present plans are carried out, there will be five baseball magnates and presidents under one roof in this city. The men who will make up this group in the Fisher building are: B. B. Johnson, president of the American league; Charles A. Comiskey, president of the Chicago Americans; Norris L. O'Neill, president of the Western league; Al Tearney, president of the Three I league, and Tom Chivington, president of the American association. Johnson is at present in the Fisher building, and O'Neill and Comiskey will move in Thursday.

MANY A JOKE ON OLD "POP" ANSON

The Most Recent One Was the Worst of All, However.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Adrian C. Anson, who lately wanted to be the Moses of the National league, has been the victim of many a joke. This last one was the worst ever. Papa thought he had a chance for the presidency and he was led on to believe that he had when it really was but a joke.

During the closing days of the regime Anson was unfortunate in leading a band of joshers composed of Jimmy Ryan, Bill Lange, Bill Dahlen, Jim Callahan, Michael Kittredge, Clarge Griffith and a few other less famous but just as onery.

Stinging Anson was the favorite amusement of this bunch and the old man would have needed the eyes of a fly to keep up with the things planned for him. Of all the tricks for which Anson fell, none ranked with the pneumatic mattress joke.

One of the railroads experimented one season with pneumatic mattresses in the sleepers—big rubber bags when inflated, thin sheets when emptied. The Chicago team met up with them one night.

When the porter made up the berths this night, Lange and Ryan coaxed Anson into the smoking compartment while bad Bill Dahlen did the dirty work. Dahlen finding that the mattresses were blown up through a valve controlled by a little plug, simply unscrewed the plug until it was almost ready to spring out. Then every one went to bed.

By and by Lange, Ryan and Anson wandered in from the smoker and Anse, undressing, climbed heavily into his berth. As the full weight of his 225 pounds came down upon the mattress, the plug flew out and shrieking like a banshee, collapsed like a toy balloon pricked with a pin.

Anson hit the boards of the bunk with a crash that shook the sleeper, while howls of joy came from behind the curtains of the other sections, telling the boss that everyone else was in on it. And Anson was so mad and yet so determined not to show it, that he slept all night on the hard side of those planks rather than call the porter to refill his bed.

FIGHT DUEL ON BOWLING ALLEY

Instead of Pistols, Two Ardent Milwaukee Suitors Use Pins.

Many and novel are the methods frequently resorted to in the arbitration of heart entanglements, but from Milwaukee comes a story that pales all previous narratives concerning the solution of like difficulties.

B. F. Kirchoff and F. Zillner are prominent in the bowling circles of the Frothy City. Kirchoff is a member of the Comer club, while Zillner bowls regularly with the Mayflowers. The ten-pin enthusiasts are the best of friends. They differed only regarding one issue—both were in love with the same girl.

The young woman regarded each with equal favor. An appeal to her for a decision in the matter was without result. Then some one suggested a unique settlement of the perplexity. It was agreed that the two suitors, who are captains of their respective bowling teams, plan a series of three games between the two organizations. Besides the laurels attending the winning of the series, the victorious captain was also to have what both Kirchoff and Zillner were striving to gain—the exclusive right to the affections of the young woman.

Members of the Comer and Mayflower clubs received the suggestion with approval. A date for the playing of the series was set. Each of the contestants avowed that he was rolling for the most costly prize ever offered for a bowling match.

The ten-pin duel was fought. With an advantage of twenty pins, the Comers were victorious over the Mayflowers. With the playing of the match Zillner relinquished all claim to the young woman, who will shortly become Mrs. B. Kirchoff.

WITH THE FIGHTERS

Harry Lewis, who is matched to meet Willie Lewis for twenty rounds at Paris the latter part of next month, will not sail for the other side until the second week in January. Harry is slated to fight Howard Baker, the Western welterweight, a ten-round bout at Denver, Col., on Jan. 11, after which he will return to this city and then start for Paris.

Joe Humphreys, former manager of Freddie Welsh, says that the Britisher will win the world's championship title from Battling Nelson when they meet in that twenty-round bout in London. Joe says that he believes that Welsh is giving the whole purse to Nelson for the chance to meet him and is willing to get this money after he becomes the title holder.

It certainly does look as though Nelson was taking desperate chances in meeting a clever boxer like Welsh in a limited round contest. This is especially true in England, where the Dane's methods of fighting will be frowned upon by any native referee.

Kid McCoy, the pugilist has issued a statement declaring that he is willing to meet Jim Corbett in a ten-round bout as a preliminary to the Jeffries-Johnson battle. He expresses a desire to wager $10,000 on the outcome.

WILL GO BACK TO THE MINORS

Abstein, the Pittsburg First Sacker, Not Wanted in Either Big League.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 1.—Every club in the National and American leagues have waived claim to First Baseman William Abstein, whose playing at times placed the Pittsburg club's chances for the world's championship in jeopardy while playing with Detroit last fall.

Abstein is to go back to the minors with a vengeance. It is admitted by the Pittsburg club owners today that ten minor league clubs have already put in claim for Abstein. It has been decided to put Jack Flynn of St. Paul, for whom Pittsburg paid $4,000, on first base regularly for the champions.

The Pittsburg club declares that Abstein did not conduct himself properly even before Pittsburg won the National league championship, that they have evidence of one occasion when he requested the privilege of going from Pittsburg to his home in St. Louis a day ahead of the regular team.

SOME PITCHER IS GEORGE MULLIN

He Has Now Been Eight Seasons With Detroit Tigers.

George Mullin, leading pitcher of the American league last season, has been a member of the Detroit team for eight seasons. Prior to joining the Tigers he put in one campaign with a club in the Western Association. Detroit took him on trial in the spring of 1902, after the Buffalo Eastern league club had refused to carry out its contract with him.

Right from the start Mullin made good in the American league, and generally he has won more games than he has lost. Four years ago, however, Mullin was in disfavor with the Detroit management and public and came near being traded to another American league club. The Tigers held on to him—a move which never has been regretted.

Mullin last year did the best work of his career, topping off his splendid performance in the American league championship campaign by performing gallantly in the world's championship series with the Pirates. He won two games from the Corsairs, and came near figuring in another triumph.

Mullin was born in Wabash, Ind., and is 30 years old. He is a great hitter besides being a clever pitcher and is a glutton for work. Last spring he won twelve games in a row for the Tigers, many of these being played in cold weather. He is one of the few veteran twirlers who is able to jump right in at the start of the season and do good work.

Mullin's 1909 record was twenty-nine victories and eight defeats. He seldom was batted out of the box, and proved to be the steadiest and most reliable of all of Jennings' gunning corps. Without him the Tigers would have had a hard time winning the American league championship. Mullin weighs more than 200 pounds, and the only weakness he has, according to players, is that he isn't clever about making men who reach first hug that base.

Mullin, during his American league career, has twice batted over .300. The first year Big George hit above the charmed mark was in 1902, when his stick credit was .328. Two seasons later Mullin walloped the sphere for .305. George got a big raise in salary from Frank Navin next season. The big fellow certainly deserves it.

FLYNN KNOCKS OUT FRISCO MAN

Joe Willis Takes the Count in the Tenth Round.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1.—Jim Flynn of Pueblo knocked out Joe Willis of San Francisco in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-round battle last night

Willis more than held his own in the opening rounds and outfought Flynn and had the better of the hitting until the fifth round. Even in that round even money was wagered that Willis would win.

In the sixth round, Flynn rushed Willis and half knocked, half wrestled him to the mat. Willis took the count of nine and got up, only to go down again. He was groggy when he arose, and a well directed right swing to the jaw put him out.

PLAYERS SOLD LIKE SLAVES?

Baseball Manager Says Present Means of Transfer Is Unconstitutional.

Billy Clymer, manager of the Wilkesbarre team, has created something of a sensation by his claim, made in court, that the purchase and sale of a baseball player was slavery and in violation of the thirteenth amendment of the United States Constitution. Writers all over the country have taken up the matter, the New York World says, editorially:

"Slavery in all its forms is abhorrent to American ideals. Slavery under the Constitution is a crime against that great charter of human liberty. But in spite of all the emancipation of the race proceeds slowly.

"In the heart of Pennsylvania a new liberator has arisen. Even the name of the manager of the Wilkesbarre Baseball club is unknown outside a limited circle. But he shows himself to be a man of principle and conscience. Last July he bought of the Allentown team Joseph Paelequin, a pitcher. Three hundred dollars was paid down and a note given for $200. In antebellum days ordinary slaves sold for more, but perhaps Paelequin is not a very good pitcher. At any rate pitchers never shall be slaves again if the manager of the Wilkesbarre club can help it.

The thirteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States solemnly declares: "Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction." On the issue of slavery this country fought the Civil war, expended billions in treasure and sacrifi hundreds of thousands of lives. this issue the Wilkesbarre baseball manager refuses to meet the $200 note due in part payment for Joseph Paelequin, the pitcher. He has taken his stand on the Constitution of the United States and the rights of man and has appealed from the justice's court to the county court, and will go on appealing, if necessary.

Shall the institution of baseball exist in plain disregard of the Constitution? Shall baseball pitchers, in the freest country under heaven, be sold on the block like chattels? We shall see. If the Constitution means what it seems to mean to the Wilkesbarre manager, the most profound speeches of Joseph Weldon Bailey of Texas and Elihu Root of New York on that venerable instrument will attract less widespread attention than the judgment of the nine mighty magistrates sitting in the capitol at Washington when they come to decide whether Joseph Paelequin is a freeman or a slave. The United States Constitution promises again to become an object of popular interest when the fans take to discussing it.

IS NOT A PAYING PROPOSITION

Teams Organized for Winter Trips Come Back Sad and Wiser.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 1—The lure of gold, and especially the lure of what appears to be easy money gold, draws the wise as well as the foolish, and no matter how level the head may be nor how long the list of failures beforehand, some are always eager to try their hand and see if they cannot gather baseball coin all the year around, instead of merely in the summer time.

After seeing the magnates reap their shekels during the summer months, the ballplayers and magnates have regular fall attacks of the fever, and every year two, three or four teams, this year it happened to be four, sally forth to the warm climates in hopes of gathering some easy money.

The lessons taught this year, however, ought to last a year or two. Connie Mack the wise manager of the Athletics, and Frank Bancroft, the Cincinnati treasurer, who can pick out all the deadheads in the stands at a glance, took all-American and all-National teams to California, and for a week the money came in like rain. During the rest of the stay in California, the money didn't come in because of rain, which coupled with the fact that Mack and Bancroft overdid things by prolonging their stay, kept the teams playing to empty stands when the games were possible.

In New Orleans, where the teams wound up their disastrous trip, another frost was forthcoming.

At one game played on the trip the players' shares amounted to 30 cents each. Undoubtedly that lesson will last Connie Mack and Bancroft for a while.

Matty McIntyre, the Detroit outfielder, is quite sure, or was until after his recent Cuban trip, that he is a born manager and leader of men, took ten or eleven money-hunting Tigers to Cuba to pluck the nuggets from the people who roll our cigars. They plucked right merrily for a week or so and then the players got tired, because Hugh Jennings, the human ginger-instiller, was not on hand to do the instilling.

The Cubans, who are quite like the rest of us when it comes to knowing what they want when they hand over their money, watched the tired Tigers drag through a couple of tired games, and then intimated that the farther the Detroit gents took themselves away from Cuba, the better the Cubans would like them.

Now McAllister's team of all stars, which was organized like wildfire when the news came back that that Tiger team had cleaned up a few dollars on the first week of their stay, are steaming back to civilization again with chastened ideas of the ease of making money in the winter time. McAllister succeeded in getting himself in bad with his men after he had once landed them in Cuba, and they deserted him en masse when he explained to them the rosy promises he had made before they started, would have to lose some of their frills before they were fulfilled. McAllister was stung with the rest of the team, but unlike the others, he had no one to blame, while the rest could blame him, which they did, without hesitation.

News of the Theater

AT THE LYCEUM

NEXT WEEK WILL BE A BANNER ONE, WITH McINTYRE & HEATH AND GEORGE M. COHAN IN "THE YANKEE PRINCE."

Without thought for the possible continuance of the contract, McIntyre & Heath, who begin their annual seances of fun-making at the Lyceum theater Sunday matinee, for four days "struck hands" in San Antonio, Texas, in 1874, for the purpose of joining a floating minstrel troupe which would not accept them singly. This union which has grown even closer with succeeding years is today the longest lived association of actors that has been known to the American stage.

Their company soon stranded and McIntyre and Heath were left without a penny, not many miles from St. Louis on the Illinois side. It is told that they walked to that city and with fervid determination to get enough to eat to make up for the past, accepted such work as pastry cooks on the old "City of Alton" running between St. Louis and New Orleans. It was on this trip they made their decision there was a wide field for the close study and actual imitation of the funny negro as he really was rather than in using the ordinary jig dancing and almanac jokes with a burnt cork make-up as every other imitator of the times was doing. For five years, therefore, they left the variety stage and joined traveling circuses which covered the smallest of towns in order to study the negro at close range. It is their claim they have danced and watched the negro dancing along the levees from St. Louis to the Gulf and never allowed the opportunity to pass to learn a new dialect of which they claim there are twelve distinct differences in the country.

They returned again to the McIntyre & Heath minstrels, which at last brought them overflowing results all over America. About 1887 they brought on the perennially laughable sketch, "The Georgia Minstrels," and for fifteen years newly prepared playlets were sidetracked by vaudeville managers who demanded their old act. No other single act of the stage has lived so long and with such undimmed brightness.

Their long-lived contract with Klaw & Erlanger has claimed them since and surrounded by a big company and the accessory sparkle of costuming, McIntyre & Hearth are said this season to be at the zenith of humorous impersonation of the rollicking negro.

"THE YANKEE PRINCE."

George M. Cohan and His "Royal Family" Coming to Duluth.

No theatrical event announced during the past few seasons has aroused the pleasurable anticipation that is noticeable among theatergoers over the engagement of Geo. M. Cohan, at the Lyceum for three nights commencing Thursday, Jan. 6, with a Saturday matinee.

Geo. M. Cohan has become so popular during the past five or six years that the desire to see him amounts to almost a furore.

As a writer and composer of popular musical comedies Geo. M. Cohan stands alone in so far as America is concerned. Cohan plays are invariably smart, happy conceits, with plenty of witty dialogue and innumerable funny situations to make "the go" Americans like so well; but they are always clean plays, without a suggestive line or vulgar insinuation in the whole evening's entertainment.

"The Yankee Prince" is one of the latest Cohan compositions and it is thought by many to be his best. Of course it is musical; in fact, it is said to fairly scintillate with melody of the true Cohan brand—and if this is so, local Cohanites can prepare themselves for a real treat. It was the production of "The Yankee Prince" at the Knickerbocker theater, New York city, over a year ago, that served to reunite the famous quartette known the world over as "The Four Cohans."

"The Yankee Prince" comes with the hearty indorsement of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston, in which cities it has enjoyed long runs. From a musical viewpoint "The Yankee Prince" is said to be the best composition that has yet emanated from the prolific pen of this versatile young author-actor-playwright and composer, who has given this particular effort the benefit of a coherent plot through which runs a duo of charming love stories and a perfect tangle of laughable situations around which is woven a web of distinctly Cohanesque chatter that followers of this young man's pungent brand of humor find altogether pleasing.

Innumerable good song numbers are to be heard in "The Yankee Prince." The ones that will undoubtedly become instantly popular are: "Showing the Yankee Doodle Town," "I'm to Marry a Nobleman," "Villains in the Play," "Come on Down Town," "Yankee Doodle for You," "The A B C's of the U. S. A.," "I Say, Flo," "M-o-n-e-y," and "Think It Over Carefully."

The complete "Yankee Prince" cast to be seen will include George M. Cohan, Josephine Cohan, Helen F. Cohan, Jerry J. Cohan, Tom Lewis, P. B. Pratt, Sam J. Ryan, Frank Hollins, Robert Emmett Lennon, Donald Crisp, J. Jiquel Lance, William Leyle, Lola Hoffman, Lita Rhodes and Mildred Elaine, while the chorus is announced as distinctly Cohanesque, with especially fine voices and fine to look upon, while an augmented orchestra will interpret the musical score.

"The Third Degree."

The secret of many a lawyer's success is strikingly divulged in Charles Klein's great masterpiece of modern topical playwriting, "The Third Degree," which comes to the Lyceum for the week of Jan. 10.

Richard Brewster, the celebrated exponent of international law in "The Third Degree," says to the wife of his best paying client: "The painful part of our profession is that the client's weakness is the lawyer's strength. When men hate each other and rob each other, we lawyers don't pacify them. We dare not. We encourage them; we pit them against each other for profit. If we didn't they'd go to some lawyer who did. When a man wants to do the wrong thing, he's always willing to pay a lawyer a good price to advise him to do it."

Promising young attorneys will find a great deal of sound philosophical wisdom in "The Third Degree," and incidentally prospective legal contestants will glean much wholesome advice, which, if sought direct of any recognized and reputable authority would cost a pretty penny. In explanation of this splendid and clear insight into the methods of barristers by the playwright, it may be stated that Charles Klein is a lawyer of ability, having studied law at Lincoln Inn, London, Eng., and admitted to the English bar.

Always intensely interested in the drama and endowed with a fertile brain and literary talent, Mr. Klein abandoned his chosen calling and adopted playwrighting as his profession. Thus the bar lost a brilliant advocate and the stage gained a powerful master mind that has already proved its mightiness through his other signal success, "The Lion and the Mouse," which was given to the stage by Henry B. Harris, who is also responsible for "The Third Degree," which ran for seven months at the Hudson theater, New York.

The production seen here is an exact duplicate of the original, while the cast of players is said to be one of superior excellence. The company includes Paul Everton, Fernanda Eliscuno, Mr. A. Eberle, Alfred Moore, T. L. Coleman, H. H. Forseman, Francis Bonn, Ralph Ramsay, A. H. Symmons and Margaret Drew.

Lyceum Notes.

When "The Merry Widow" waltzed into Duluth last season, there were a few who feared that the performance would 'ack some of its pristine charm and freshness for the reason that the players had given the operetta for a year and a half. How far from the facts this was will be readily recalled by all who delighted in this merriest and most melodious of Viennese charmers.

A similar feeling and a precisely similar delightful result has been noted during the past few weeks in New England and the Middle West, where the Merry Widow company that is to appear here, has been playing. At every point the sparkle, freshness and dash of the performance have been publicly commented upon with real enthusiasm.

Mabel Wilber, who is again winning such laurels in the name part, was interviewed the other day on this precise topic.

"'The Merry Widow,'" she said, "has some mysterious quality that simply won't let the singer become 'stale.' I do get physically tired sometimes, but always the moment the orchestra begins the overture, all the fatigue and all the nervousness disappears as if by magic. Perhaps it is the lilt of the music, or the intoxicating cadence of the waltz, or the subtle romance of the story. We all feel this and I believe the auditors feel it, too. It is really very odd and also exceedingly pleasant, when one comes to think of it.

"Of course, the actor or singer always feels buoyed up to some extent on beginning a performance. The fact that she must win over a new collective 'person' out in the auditorium and that she knows that her reward will be great if she succeeds, has something to do with it."

"The Merry Widow" is coming back to Duluth this month.

People who are interested in arts and crafts will be delighted with the beautiful candlesticks used in the production of "The House of a Thousand Candles," the original Chicago and New York production which will be seen at the Lyceum on Sunday night, Jan. 9. The management has had collectors all over Europe and America securing peculiar pieces of this craft, and many of the designs are extremely unique, while several are very valuable as having been used in the households of famous personages of long ago.

So valuable is this set of properties that Mr. Gaskel has had a special safe made to hold them. It is the intention of Mr. Gaskel to ultimately present the collection to the Field museum in Chicago, as it is probably one of the most unique collections of this type ever gathered.

Frederick Thompson's production, "Polly of the Circus," will be seen at the Lyceum this month. The story, telling of a pretty circus rider, by profession and heredity, compelled by an injury to remain in the home of a young country preacher until the members of his congregation are aflame with rage against the pair, and her subsequent flight back to the tents to make his lot easier, is one which grasps and retains the interest. The second scene in the play, which finds Polly in the parson's home, telling him of her circus life and later when he reads to her from the Bible of Ruth's devotion to Naomi, the little girl's first glimpse of what the Book contains, reaches a pitch apart from the ordinary things of the stage. And then there is a happy and logical ending to it all which the audience finds agreeable.

Plays may come and plays may go, but George Broadhurst's greatest of all American plays "The Man of the Hour," which patrons of the Lyceum will see again this season in its fourth year of phenomenal success it is still playing everywhere to packed houses. Its managers, Wm. A. Brady and Jos. R. Grismer, have provided a new scenic production this season and will send their special company for the engagement. Felix Haney still plays the part of Alderman Phelan.

AT THE BIJOU

NEW YEAR OPENS WITH ADVANCED VAUDEVILLE—ARTISTS TO APPEAR THIS YEAR HAVE BEEN STARRED AND FEATURED IN BOTH EUROPE AND AMERICA.

Vaudeville is growing better and becoming more popular every year. The day has passed when one circuit controls the cream of the vaudeville talent. There are no less then a half dozen circuits now that play what is classed as first class vaudeville. Among them is the Sullivan & Considine circuit which is also one of the biggest, if not the biggest. The Bijou is on this circuit and the acts booked to appear the coming season will be at the top of the list from an entertaining standpoint. The bill that will open Monday afternoon at the Bijou will have at least three acts of the feature class, and it would be hard to say just who would be entitled to first place as headline attraction. On the bill will be a big European feature, the Balton Troupe of Aerialists, who come direct to this country and make their first appearance at Winnipeg this week and will open at the Bijou Monday matinee. The following is an advance notice from the London, Eng., Gazette, the act having appeared at the London Hippodrome for an entire season:

"Seldom has the Hippodrome had a sensational and daring aerial act taan the six Balton Troupe. These beautiful women are unprecedented in their physical achievements. They do everything in their program at terrific tempo, reaching a speed in the execution of different feats that is bewildering and sensational. The Balton troupe is without doubt, the most spectacularly attractive aerial spectacle that has appeared at the Hippodrome. This is one of the features that will be on the coming week."

Nearly every one has heard the famous minstrel tenor, Reese Prosser, and those that have not heard him sing have heard of him. Mr. Prosser is probably the most celebrated minstrel singer the country has ever had. He was last seen in Duluth with the Lew Dockstader minstrels in which he was the big feature in the singing part of the performance, and in his vaudeville debut, Mr. Prosser has arranged a highly attractive musical offering. He is assisted by Miss Helen Reed, who is pianist with a national reputation, having played some very prominent concert tours, and is a graduate from the Boston Conservatory of Music. Mr. Prosser pulls some of his minstrel melodies, combined with the piano playing of Miss Reed.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

"Cameo Kirby" and "Mrs. Dakon" Given a Broadway Hearing—Marie Tempest Scores in "Penelope"—Belasco's New Production, "The Lily."

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—Though Christmas week is the dullest of the theatrical season, there were several new plays seen here which commanded the attention of the regular first-nighter. One or two of them have been seen on the road before coming into New York for a Broadway verdict, in which respect you in the provinces have had the opportunity to judge for yourselves. Among these was "Cameo Kirby," which visited Duluth at an early period in its life, and which, since then, has undergone some alterations. It is now being played with Dustin Farnum in the title role, originally created by Nat Goodwin. Its poetic background gives it a unique charm, and there is a touch of romance in its treatment which indicates the finer side of Booth Tarkington, one of the authors. Theatergoers of the city are acquainted with its story, and since it is not very likely to be sent out again, though it is generally admitted that the changes have considerably improved the piece over its original form, there is scarcely any need of going into lengths about its merits or demerits. It achieved a moderate success. The holiday week will afford a surer test whether or not the public will be sufficiently interested in the play to warrant a lengthy stay.

The second offering was "Mrs. Dakon," which was given at a special matinee at the Hackett. The cast was slightly different from that seen on the road, the most important change being in the title role. Dorothy Dorr has succeeded Jessie Bonstelle in this part. The impression left by the play was that it told a strong story, but that it showed the earmarks of an inexperienced hand in the construction. Its plot is built along familiar lines, but the interest is well sustained, and the two women characters make strong demands on the actresses interpreting them. Miss Dorr as Mrs. Dakon was excellent. In spite of temptations, she gave a finely restrained performance and successfully overcame the dangers of too much sentimentalism. Laurette Taylor, as Ruth Dakon, scored one of the best hits made by any young actress here in some time. Her impersonation of the role gave emphasis to the fact that she is an actress of fine talent, and that her future is a bright one. That "Mrs. Dakon" will be put on regularly at one of the theaters in its present form does not seem very likely.

The return of Marie Tempest, appearing in "Penelope," was one of the most important of recent changes on Broadway. She is appearing at the Lyceum, and her comedy is from the pen of W. Somerset Maughm, who was also responsible for "Lady Frederick," and "Mrs. Dot" is to be Billie Burke's next vehicle. Maughm's touch is light and his construction ingenuous. There is no great fund of novelty in any of his plays seen here thus far, and "Penelope" reveals no new phases. The story strongly suggests Grace George's recent success, "A Woman's Way," and there is also some similarity to "Love Watches."

The plot concerns Penelope O'Farrell, whose husband, Dr. O'Farrell, is succumbing to the wiles of a Mrs. Ferguson. Penelope has showered upon him all the affection of her nature and the shower has almost been a deluge. The doctor is getting sick of too much sweetness and seeks relief in the arms of his mysterious patient. Penelope is about to bring matters to a crash, having summoned her family to witness the flare-up. Her father, who is a professor of mathematics, but who has more insight into human nature than is usually accredited such individuals, gets an altogether different counsel. He urges that Penelope adopt an entirely new attitude toward her husband, and that she allow Mrs. Ferguson to indulge him with the nauseating affectionate demonstrations which she has displayed for five years. This is done. Each time the doctor absents himself for a stay with the imaginary patient Penelope sets out to buy expensive gowns and millinery and gradually the change works all things out to a satisfactory conclusion.

There is nothing strikingly new in the story and the situations display very little inventive genius. On the other hand, the dialogue is brilliant, and Miss Tempest is given splendid opportunities to give full rein to those gifts of genuine comedy which are so unmistakably hers. She fairly radiates, and her performance throughout is one of the best bits of light comedy work seen here in some time. Her supporting company is also good, and "Penelope" will likely come in for a good run.

The appearance of Grace George at the New theater in the revival of Sheridan's "School for Scandal" at that institution, gave her excellent opportunities to display her gifts as a comedienne. Her talents in this field are unquestioned, and while her Lady Treazle was not the greatest ever seen here it was sprightly and full of fine shades. The performance of "The School for Scandal," after the first performance, when one or two things went wrong with the mechanical appliances, was one of the most artistic yet given at this theater. The even balance and the fine ensemble, toward which the New theater is striving, was strikingly illustrated in this performance. Every role was adequately presented, and yet none was allowed to overshadow the other. It was an indication of what the New theater is aiming at, and as steady progress is made toward this end the value of the institution is bound to be more generally recognized. Rose Coghlan as Mrs. Candour, Louis Calvert as Sir Peter, A. E. Ansen as Joseph Surface, Charles Yapp as Snake, and the others in the cast offered excellent studies, and it is safe to say that the Sheridan comedy has not been given a better presentation in so long a time that memory runneth not to the contrary.

Clyde Fitch's last play, "The City," was produced at the Lyric last week. It is a somewhat gruesome story, splendidly acted by the presenting company and making a strong impression, even though the taste remaining was not the most pleasant one. It is the story of a family that leaves the small town to come to the city, where a mess is made of the lives of several, one ending in suicide.

Charlotte Walker has begun rehearsals of her husband's new play "Just a Wife." The cast includes Edmund Breese, Amelia Gardner, Ernest Glendenning, Frederick Barton and Bobby North. It will mark Bobby North's debut as a legitimate actor. The piece will open in Cleveland, Jan. 17, and will shortly after go to New York to succeed "Is Matrimony a Failure" at the Belasco theater.

Lillian Russell opened in her new play, "The First Night," in Philadelphia last Saturday night. It is a farce which George V. Hobart has adapted from the old German play, "Der Halbe Dichter" (Half a Poet) from which Augustin Daly also adapted one of his most successful plays, "Nancy & Co." According to account Hobart has thoroughly modernized the affair and has made it into a fine vehicle for the fair Lillian. Digby Bell is her chief support, and the cast also includes Millicent Evans, George E. Mack and Susanna Westford. Those who are guiding the affairs of Miss Russell, and particularly the individual who assiduously cultivates a favorable attention on the part of the press—and it may be added, successfully accomplishes his purpose—insist that "The Widow's Might," their star's first play of the season, was not a failure. According to the cashier's sheet, the most eloquent testimony in these days of high artistic purpose, the play made money each week it played. The reason given for the change in mid-season is that the taste of the public is toward farce this season, and the gracious Lillian is ever alert to give the public what it most desires.

And so they come and go.

It has been said that Louise Gunning is to leave the Shubert fold next season to star under the management of Charles B. Dillingham. This is denied, however, by the Shuberts, who say that they already have their eye on an operetta for her use. It is "The Glassblower," written by John Philip Sousa.

Mrs. Taft is considering the suggestion made by Charles Frohman to Mrs. Roosevelt, to have well-known players appear at the White House from time to time. Owing to the discovery that Clyde Fitch's last play, "Kitty and the Canary," is very incomplete, the Shuberts, in deference to the wishes of Mr. Fitch's family, will not call in any author to complete the play and therefore will not produce it. Zelda Sears was to have starred in the piece.

For the first time on any stage, the Shuberts produced in Baltimore last Saturday night Cora Maynard's new play, "The Watcher." The theme of spiritualism runs throughout the four acts, the "watcher' in question being the departed spirit of the good mother whose death causes so much trouble in the family of the Kents. The cast includes John Emerson, Percy Haswell, Catherine Countiss, Marion Ballou and Thudlow Bergen.

Edward Bok is the authority for the latest Maude Adams story and it is a very charming and extraordinary story too. It seems that a little girl of 9, who lives in Trenton, N. J., saw Miss Adams play "Peter Pan" two years ago, and naturally enough became a worshipper. Moreover, she wrote Miss Adams telling her so, but as Miss Adams receives from fifty to a hundred such letters a day, this one was gratefully received, but not answered. Yet the child's faith in this sweet, wonderful actress never wavered.

About this time she began saving her allowance for an unnamed purpose. The allowance was 6 cents a week, which she increased occasionally to 9 and even 10 by doing family errands.

A year later, when Miss Adams was playing "What Every Woman Knows," at the Empire theater, as she is now, during the holiday weeks, the little girl persuaded her father to take her to New York. She had accumulated $4.32. The object of the hoard then appeared. The $4 bought just 100 violets, and those violets went to Miss Adams at the Empire theater.

And now the tragedy occurred. Through somebody's error the sweet, little note that was sent with the flowers never reached the star, and she knew of no one to thank. So the little girl went back to Trenton and waited day after day, her faith in the sweetness and tenderness of her goddess sorely tried but never ending. And at last it was plain that there was to be no recognition of the violets, but still the child believed.

At this point, enter Edward Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal as the Deus ex Machina. At a dinner in Philadelphia he happened to overhear this pathetic story told by an aunt of the little girl. Mr. Bok knows Miss Adams and he knew that something ought to be done. So without incriminating himself he drew out of the narrator the name of the little girl which in part was Nellie, and her parents' address in Trenton. Then he slunk back into the social shrubbery as eavesdropping villains always do. The outcome of all this was that when Miss Adams played Trenton there was a surprise for Nellie. The heavens opened and out of the opening came an enormous photograph of Peter Pan with an autograph inscription and an invitation to come behind the scenes at the end of the performance. Strange to say, Nellie accepted the invitation.

Miss Gladys Hanson, the beautiful and talented Southern girl who is Kyrle Bellew's leading lady in "The Builder of Bridges," says that in her opinion a nice girl can never be engaged to more than one man at a time. And yet she plays a part in which she is supposed to be all that a girl should be and is engaged to two. With a woman's resourcefulness she cites the situation in which Dorothy Faringay finds herself in the Sutro play as the one exception that proves the rule.

"A Lucky Star," the new play in which William Collier scored his recent triumph at its premier in Atlantic City, is on tour, Charles Frohman having no theater available in New York for its presentation until later in the winter. The piece is also undergoing the process described as "Collierization," which all Mr. Collier's pieces undergo. "Collierizing" means pointing up the situations and getting every line in tune with William Collier's unerring sense of comedy effect.

James K. Hackett is one of the few actors on any stage who has a practical and expert knowledge of fencing. In his duel scenes he really uses his sword as a man would when fighting a duel, and not according to the old and rather ridiculous stage conventions. His fencing masters say that he could meet a very fair swordsman in a duel to the death and hold his own. It is a curious coincidence that he should be playing in "Samson," by Henri Bernstein, the only living playwright today who is also an expert duelist.

Charles Frohman will give "The Brass Bottle" its first American production at the Empire theater as a special comedy production at the close of Miss Ethel Barrymore's Empire theater season in the Pinero play, "Mid-Channel."

Those fashionable New Yorkers who were on their way to church at Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street at 11 o'clock last Sunday morning were amazed at a unique and unexpected addition to the ranks of the celebrated Sabbath paraders. One man, who was on his way to John D. Rockefeller's church, the Fifth Avenue Baptist, was so outraged by the intrusion of the incongruous invader that he summoned a policeman and gave chase to the offender.

Many appointments with theatrical photographers are made for Sunday mornings as their patrons are too busy on every other day of the week to pose. So it was that Miss Herron was involuntarily projected into the midst of New York's most exclusive set.

Miss Herron had a quantity of photographs in stock at Hellon's studio on Fifth avenue, but these were destroyed in the fire there a few days before. She has been engaged by Moss & Stoll, the vaudeville syndicate of England, to tour the United Kingdom next summer in her former specialty, "The Original Minstrel Miss." She was ordered by cable to rush over some "black face" photographs at once and made an appointment to sit for them at White's studio, Broadway and Forty-fifth street, at 11 a. m. Sunday.

With every convenience for make-up at home, the minstrel miss "blacked up" there and donned her comical little costume. Then she slid quickly from the basement and into a waiting taxicab. What was her consternation when the machine broke down on the avenue between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets.

"I'll be laid up at least half an hour," said the cheerful chauffeur, and Miss Herron, make-up and all, jumped out to catch another conveyance and keep her important engagement. Another machine stood at Thorley's corner. The policeman, summoned by the indignant worshipper, sped after her, but she was too quick for him and was whisked away in the other taxi before he could overtake her.

The Shuberts' mammoth production, "Dick Whittington," the original Drury Lane theater spectacle, was presented for the first time in America last night at the Hyperion theater at New Haven, Conn., with a cast of 150 persons headed by Louise Dresser. The show is the most elaborate thing that the Shuberts have ever attempted and by far exceeds the spectacles that have been shown on the American stage. The scenery, costumes, accessories and mechanical and lighting effects were imported from London.

The story of "Dick Whittington" is that of the now famous English lad and his wonderful cat. The telling of the story requires nine scenes, all of which are excellently portrayed. They show East Cheap, London; the professional department of Fitzwarren's store, a square in old London; Highgate Hill, the fairy vision, Phantasia; the basement of Fitzwarren's store, and the field outside London, where takes place the triumphal entry of Whittington as lord mayor.

Miss Dresser plays the part of Katrina, a beautiful Dutch girl, who enters Fitzwarren's as a cloak model, and to her falls some of the prettiest songs. Among these are "Loving Ways," "The Coon Medley," "Babyland," "In My Canoe" and "Yodelling Jan." Laura Guerite is the Dick Whittington; Eddie Garvey, Alderman Fitzwarren; Alexander Clarke, "Idle Jack." Post & Russell of vaudeville fame play a conspicuous part in the fun battery of the spectacle, as do Al Grady, as the cat; Al Lamar as the dog, and Kate Elinor as an eccentric cook. Others in the cast are Harry Clarke, Ireno Dillon and Dorothy Webb.

In its revised form "Dick Whittington" is classed by the Shuberts as a "musical comedy extravaganza." Edward Paulton has done the revision, while the music is by Manuel Klein.

There is no other actress on the American stage who possesses such a fine collection of stage jewels as Mildred Holland. Perhaps the most interesting in her collection are the exact reproductions of the crown jewels of Russia worn by Catherine the Great on her accession to the throne, and those of the Empress Josephine of France.

Miss Holland was in Russia a few years ago gathering local color for her production of "The Triumph of an Empress." Prince Walkonsky, director general of the Russian imperial theaters, made it possible for the actress to inspect the jewels and to secure exact drawings of them. There are 2,600 diamonds in the real crown, three rows of massive pearls and the famous Orlaff jewel, which is the largest ruby in the world.

Miss Dora Goldthwaite, who is well known as a dramatic artist of ability tells a story of a rather shifty theatrical manager, who frequently disappeared from a "one-night stand" after getting the audience in and pocketing the money, leaving the poor actors to face the enraged populace who had turned out in full force expecting to see a good performance. On one occasion this fellow was inspecting a hall in a small town.

"See our fine entrance," said the proud owner of the auditorium.

"Oh, hang your entrance!" replied the fly-by-night manager, "where's your exit?"

"Some years ago," says Marie Booth Russell, Robert Mantell's leading woman, "when we were playing in the Far West, Mr. Mantell fell ill and we had to put in an understudy to play the title role in 'Macbeth.' We did not know how illiterate he was until he came to rehearse with him one morning for his first appearance in Mr. Mantell's part that night.

"'Thou canst not say I done it;' he roared at Lady Macbeth (myself), after the murder has been discovered.

"'I know I can't,' said I, 'but thou canst not say I did it,' and that's worse, for Shakespeare requires you to do so in that last line.'

"It cured him of his carelessness."

Robert Edeson, under the direction of Henry B. Harris, will begin his road tour in "A Man's a Man" on Jan. 3, at Syracuse, N. Y. He will tour as far West as the Pacific coast. This will be the first time Mr. Edeson has appeared in the Far West in three years.

Miss Laura Guerite is to shed her "nuthin' nuthin'" gown, which caused her to be talked about even in Paris, for tights—plain silken tights. The Shuberts have selected her for the title role in "Dick Whittington," their forthcoming Drury Lane production. And so arrayed Miss Guerite expects to set at rest any doubt as to why Dick Whittington became "thrice Lord mayor of London." She will in no wise interfere with Miss Louise Dresser, who is to be the particular befrocked star of the attraction.

ADELINE GENEE.

ADELINE GENEE
In One of Her Dances.

Mlle. Adeline Genee is again with us under the management of Klaw & Erlanger. This is her third year in America. Her genius as a dancer was first perceived by her uncle when she was a tiny child. She made her first appearance as a child at the Copenhagen opera house. After playing in Stettin, Berlin and Munich she was offered the position of premiere danseuse at the Empire theater, London, where she made her debut in "Monte Cristo" in 1897. She remained with the Empire theater for ten years, which is a record engagement in the history of the ballet. Some of the ballets in which she has taken part are "Vineland," "The Milliner Duchess," "High Jinks," "Cinderella" and Delibes' "Coppelia," in which she was supreme. She was born at Aarhus, Denmark.

The sudden shifting of attractions in the Shubert New York theaters, made necessary on account of the large number of plays that are entitled to a Broadway verdict, included Mr. Daniels and his "The Belle of Brittany" among those slated for an early railroad journey.

It now develops that Mr. Daniels will not remove from Daly's, at least for some months to come. His piece is one of the enjoyable hits of the New York season.

David Belasco has just arranged by cable with George Edwardes, whereby the latter will make the London production of Leo Ditrichstein's adaptation of Blumenthal and Kadelburg's comedy, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" which has been playing to capacity business since its opening night at the Belasco theater last August. The comedy will be produced in London word for word and line for line as it is now being played at the Belasco. The company that is being selected has not yet been announced beyond the name of Paul Arthur, who is well remembered in New York. Mr. Arthur will create the leading light comedy role of Skelton Perry.

Right on top of this news, anent the London production, comes the additional announcement that Mr. Belasco is now looking for another New York theater in which to continue the phenomenally successful run of this comedy beyond Feb. 1, 1910. Mr. Belasco's contract with Eugene Walter calls for a production at the Belasco theater, New York city, not later than Feb. 2, 1910, of the latter's new play, "Just a Wife," in which Charlotte Walker will create the stellar role. If no theater in New York can be found after Feb. 1, "Is Matrimony a Failure?" will be seen in one or two Eastern cities during the spring, and will then be sent to Powers' theater, Chicago, where it is booked for a long run, after which the company will proceed to the Pacific coast. The present booking of the play covers an uninterrupted period of twenty-two months, beginning with the date of its original production.

The reputation of "Is Matrimony a Failure?" has already put theatergoers in every part of the United States on the qui vive to see it, and it was Mr. Belasco's original intention to recruit several companies and present the comedy simultaneously in several parts of the country. The difficulty which confronts him, however, in an effort to assemble an organization which might in an adequate degree compare with the original company, persuaded him from any further effort in that direction. As a consequence, only one company will be seen in this play during this season and next, and this company will cover all important points in the United States. With the exception of Chicago, there will be no long runs of the play in any of the theatrical centers.

In the opinion of Lew Fields, Nora Bayes is the most "expressive" singer on the American stage. He does not even except Blanche Ring. He is going to put his belief to a test when "The Jolly Bachelors" company reaches the Broadway theater. As announced, both Miss Bayes and her husband, Jack Norworth, will be added to the cast of the new Shubert-Fields review. Miss Elizabeth Brice, now with "The Jolly Bachelors," will be transferred to another company to make room for Miss Bayes.

CORDOVA IN GOOD SULPHIDE

Jennie Shaft Going Down Steadily in Commercial Ore—Crosscut From Sullivan Shaft Still in Chalcocite—Inspiration Makes Good Headway.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 1.—The crosscut being run eastward on the 475-foot level of the Sullivan shaft, located on the Eureka group belonging to the Cordova Copper company is now 324 feet long and is still in chalcocite. The results obtained on the east end of the Eureka group by means of the workings on the Sullivan shaft have proven very satisfactory up to the present time.

The Jennie shaft, located on the northwest end of the property near the line of the Inspiration Copper company's miner lands, is 118 feet deep and is going down steadily through a grade of sulphide ore that is considered most favorable to the future of this part of the Cordova property as a copper bearing area.

The churn drill which has been ordered for use on the Eureka group should be on the ground shortly, and will be set to work at once as an aid to the management in thoroughly exploring the property by means of shaft work, drifting and crosscutting. Supt. Adolphus Ball is employing about thirty men on the Eureka property and is hastening the development work as fast as the size of the working force will permit.

The development work on the property of the Inspiration Copper company is being carried on as vigorously as usual. Crosscutting at the 275-foot level of the Scorpion shaft will be begun in a few days, upon the completion of the station cutting at that level. The new 185-horse power Sullivan compressor to be installed in Keystone gulch for use in connection with the tunnel work there is expected to arrive soon and will be installed immediately upon its arrival at the property. The two Star churn drills which have been used since early last spring are still being employed in prospecting the company's property. More than twenty of these drills have been put down to depths ranging from 400 to 900 feet below the surface. These drills have been prospecting the copper belt lying between the territory being developed by the Scorpion shaft of this company and the property of the Cordova Copper company to the southward.

The development of the Arizona-Michigan property has been going on at the usual rate during the past week. The south crosscut which is being driven to develop the Twifair lode has reached the 340-foot mark with little change of the ground other than a softening of the diorite which, for the greater part of its length was of unusual hardness. As has been the condition since this crosscut was first started, considerable pyrite is found in the rock, and since passing through the oxidized zone encountered two weeks ago, the work has been in the formation. The north crosscut, since reaching the distance of 305 feet from the shaft, has been in conglomerate containing quartz boulders.

Supt. A. N. Nelson has twenty-five men employed in the crosscutting and assessment work. The latter work, which has been going on for several weeks, will be discontinued in a few days, the amount required for the group of twenty claims having been completed.

CLAIMS BOUGHT BY FORTUNA

Purchase of Properties Near El Tigre Closes Gap in the Company's Holdings—Will Erect 100-Ton Mill on the Property.

Douglas, Ariz., Jan. 1.—The Fortuna Mining company, which has holdings west of the North Tigre, has recently acquired the properties known as the Palomitas and Margarita. These claims lie between the Santa Maria of the Fortuna company and the Combination of the El Tigre. The acquisition of these properties, according to a statement of the directors issued to the stockholders of the Fortuna, closes a gap which they consider of vital importance to the future of the property.

A recent report on the property by one of the directors, says, among other things:

"The development work on the Santa Maria is proving the vein to be very well defined and the values are improving as depth is gained by the tunnel being driven under the mountain. This tunnel will gain a depth of about 900 feet when it has been completed."

The Fortuna company owns a large percentage of the stock of the North Tigre company, and concerning the latter property, the following, in part, is the comment of one of the directors, after a recent visit to the property:

"The work upon the Protector, one of the properties of the North Tigre company, and concerning the latter property, the following, in part, is the comment of one of the directors, after a recent visit to the property:

"The work upon the Protector, one of the properties of the North Tigre company, continues to show improvement. Development work has shown continued improvement from the beginning, exposing increased ore reserves as the work has proceeded."

If the development of the Santa Maria continues to show the same general improvement during the next six months as it has in the past say the directors, the joint erection of a reduction plant by the Fortuna and North Tigre companies, with a capacity of 100 tons a day, will be justified. This can be used for the treatment of ores from both the Fortuna and the North Tigre.

The Fortuna Mining company is controlled by St. Paul and El Paso capitalists. It is capitalized for 100,000 shares of a par value of $10 each. The offices of the company are in El Paso.

OREGON SMELTER TO REOPEN

Plant at Sumpter Has Been Idle Two Years—Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company Regards Judge Dietrich's Decision as Distinct Victory.

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 1.—Officers of the Bunker Hill & Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company regard the ruling by Judge Frank S. Dietrich of the United States district court in Idaho in ordering the Federal Mining & Smelting company to appear as a party in a suit instituted by it through the January Mining company, a subsidiary concern, as a decided victory. The court ordered the consolidation of a dozen actions brought indirectly by the Federal company against the Bunker Hill & Sullivan into one suit, involving a total of $7,300,000 This ruling, the Bunker Hill people say, brought the Fderal company into the open and, they add, discloses the force behind the smaller corporations. The basis for action is that the apex of the Bunker Hill & Sullivan vein is in the property owned by the January company which would, according to the mining law of Idaho, give to the January company title to the one which the Bunker Hill & Sullivan is mining in the Coeur d'Alenes.

The Oregon Smelting and Refining company, at Sumpter, Ore., will resume operations after an enforced idleness of two years. The company's property was sold at auction at Baker City a few days ago to W. C. Mennon of Newark, N. J., represented at the sale by Scott & German. The price paid was $17,000. The personal property was sold at a separate sale on Nov. 25, when it was bid in for $5,000 by F. S. Baillie of the Columbia mine. This has also been turned over to Mr. Mennon. It is announced that the new owner will remodel the plant and put it on a commercial basis.

R. A. Wilson of Wallace, Idaho, said in an interview that the residents of his city and the Coeur d'Alenes in general will renew their campaign for the extension of the Spokane & Inland Empire Electric railway system from Coeur d'Alene City to Wallace to give them direct connection with Spokane. He added: "The Coeur d'Alene mines are yielding a larger output than ever before and the district is unusually prosperous. The dividends of the Bunker Hill & Sullivan mine alone were more than $1,000,000 in 1909, and they have exceeded $11,000,000 since the mine began shipping. Although this is, of course, an exception, all of the mines that are being operated are yielding immense profits."

The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, with headquarters at Trail, B. C., secured control of the Sullivan group at Kimberley, B. C., by lease, closed in Spokane. The operation of the properties will be resumed at once and they will become regular shippers. The Consolidated secured a long-term lease, with option of purchase by control from the Federal Mining & Smelting company, a subsidiary concern of the American Smelting & Refining company.

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Victoria Company to Resume Work on Squaw Creek Property at Early Date—Work on Cleopatra's Property Meeting With Success.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. .—Arrangements have been made by the Victoria Mining company to resume work on its property on Squaw creek, near this city, not later than March 1. Finances are in good shape now, but owing to the severity of the winter, which gives promise of continuing, it was thought wiser to set the date for resumption further ahead. The annual meeting was held here, and it was voted to issue bonds to the amount of $75,000. Mine Supt. John Simm says there is sufficient ore in sight for a daily capacity of 150 tons for the mill, and later on it is expected to increase this to 200 tons. The officers elected are: President, A. B. Smith of Omaha; vice president, Arthur Smith, Omaha; secretary-treasurer and general manager, A. J. Maltener, Deadwood; managing director, William Glass, Omaha. It is planned to have O. N. Brown, formerly the superintendent but now of Colorado, return and take charge of the property.

Development work on the property of the Cleopatra Mining company on Squaw creek is meeting with success. The property has been developed on the theory that the ore measures lie in an easterly and westerly direction. The company originally sank a shaft to quarizite, but more recently has been running a tunnel in a northerly direction and crosscutting the formation. This tunnel will be continued until the main ore bodies are reached. Some ore has been treated in the mill successfully, but it is intended not to mill any more until the wider veins are reached.

Work on the new mill of the Custer Peak Mining company has commenced.

In the Custer Peak district a strike has been made on the Jungle group between the Custer Peak and Merritt ground. It consists of a highly min-

THE GREAT COPPER MERGER

Companies That Will Probably Be Members of the "Billion Dollar" Combination in the End—Even the Rothschilds Represented at the Conferences—Attitude of Independent Producers.

It is a far cry from the swarthy, flat-nosed slaves of an Egyptian master, mining copper ore at Maghara on the Sinai peninsula, in the year B. C. 5000, to the new Steptoe valley smelter, with its present capacity for treating 6,000 tons daily and a prospective capacity of 10,000 tons; yet the recorded history of copper production bridges this stupendous gulf of time, says Denis Donohoe in the Saturday Evening Post.

The story of that pioneer band of miners and metallurgists has endured until this day, written in hieroglyph by priestly scribes upon papyrus rolls or graven on the living rock; while, for the details of the latest triumph of engineering skill, the huge Steptoe plant at McGill, Nev., one must have recourse to the recent issues of the scientific journals. The output of imperfectly-refined copper from those charcoal-fed kilns at Maghara in the misty long ago probably did not exceed 100,000 pounds in any year; yet it sufficed to supply a great nation with weapons, tools, articles of personal adornment and a crude circulating medium in the form of rings and ingots. Last year the world mined, smelted and refined more than 725,000 long tons of copper, and carried over into 1909 a stock of the metal that is estimated at considerably less than 10 per cent of the total product. The output of the American refineries in 1908, exclusive of scrap copper, reached 1,094,000,000 pounds; while a careful computation of the country's probable production this year year gives 1,400,000,000 pounds as the approximate figures.

Amazing Future.

Yet, today, those who have studied the subject most deeply believe that the immediate future—the next five, or possibly even three years—will witness such a tremendous increase in the world's demand for copper that the mines and smelters will be taxed to their utmost capacity to supply it. The Steptoe plant and several similar titanic works now building or projected are the concrete embodiment of this conviction. Copper, second only to iron in its tenacity, and the peer, for commercial purposes, of the precious metals in malleability and ductility, the first of the metals after gold to be wrested from nature's storehouse and wrought by primitive man to his uses, is coming into its own again. To the mental vision of the practical man of affairs and the scientist we seem to be standing upon the threshold of an electrical age, in the progress of which quantities of copper that will stagger human comprehension will be demanded and supplied.

It was the general recognition of this pregnant fact, for more than any emergency of the hour, that served to bring and hold together in conclave in New York during the past few weeks, the representatives of nearly two-thirds of all the copper mines in the Americas. It was the clear mental visualization of that which the future has in store for the metal that caused Mr. Morgan, Mr. Stillman and the great house of Rothschild to unite their efforts to do for copper what Mr. Morgan and his associates did for steel.

Corporate Members.

The following companies will probably be members of the new combination in the end: Amalgamated, Anaconda, Utah Consolidated, International Smelting & Refining, Butte Coalition, Greene-Cananea, North Butte, Calumet & Arizona, Superior & Pittsburg, Utah Copper, Nevada Consolidated (including Cumberland-Ely and the control of the Nevada Northern railway,) United Metals Selling company, Giroux Consolidated, Cerro de Paso, Tennessee Copper, Ray Consolidated, Miami, Boston Consolidated and Chino.

To recapitulate the proximate causes which led these vast and discordant interests to consider the advantages of combination or consolidation; to recount the steps in the negotiations so far as they have proceeded and are known, and to set forth the partial results already obtained—such is the scope of this article.

Now, who is the ultimate consumer of copper? You are, though probably not one man or woman in ten thousand ever gives his or her individual consumption of copper a single thought! The reason of this is that copper comes to us in masquerade. One of its most valuable properties is that of forming permanent alloys with the several metals in varied proportion, and these alloys possess certain characteristics of their parent metals in intensified form, which render them peculiarly adapted for divers specialized uses.

Use Is Limitless.

Thus bronze, of which there are many varieties, contains, usually, from 80 per cent to 97 per cent of pure copper, and its uses compass the field of human endeavor from marine turbines to statuary. Brass, the commonest alloy of copper, containing from 50 per cent to 80 per cent of the metal, has a thousand domestic uses and enters intimately into the personal life of every one; though, because it is so frequently presented to our notice disguised by a superficial plating of nickel or silver or gold, or covered with lacquer, or painted in gay colors, we fail to recognize it. The familiar talcum powder can, found in every nursery and upon my lady's dressing table, is a generally unsuspected instance in point, and from the nickel or silver plated faucets and fittings in the bathroom to the bass strings of the upright or grand piano the home fairly scintillates with unrecognized copper. BUTTE COPPER MINES IN 1909

Production Exceeds That of Previous Year By 40,000,000 Pounds—Amalgamated Plans Expenditure of $2,000,000 During Coming Year in Making Changes and Improvements at Its Mines.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald)—Although the metal market during 1909 was very unsatisfactory and the accumulating surplus of copper discouraging, mining in Montana was maintained at normal throughout the year, and the total production of copper exceeded 300,000,000 pounds. Practically all of this came from the mines of the Butte district. Considering the small return on the metal, at prices that prevailed throughout the year, an unusually large amount of "dead work" was done in the Butte district, this including development work, opening new mines, making extended changes for the introduction of greater economies, and planning ahead for the future. Although the experience of the large producers has not been encouraging in that directions some of the new companies continued development work several important mines have been added to the Butte list of copper producers. Half a dozen companies are maturing plans for a resumption of work and have prospects of developing other good producers, all of which seems to indicate a strong faith in the future of the copper industry.

The production of 1909 exceeds that of 1908 by about 40,000,000 pounds, although statistics have shown a steady increase in the world's surplus and a heavy, depressing market. This contradictory condition appears to have its explanation in the confidence in the future expressed by leading producers. Nowhere is this confidence more evident than in Butte, where the Amalgamated Copper company has matured plans for the expenditure of $2,000,000 during the coming year in making changes and improvements at its mines in Butte, much of this money to go into an installation of electrical machinery and power, to take the place of all the present steam plants. One of the largest electrical power plants in the world is being built at the great falls of the Missouri river, at Great Falls, Mont., and when completed it will furnish power to a central plant in Butte from which it will be distributed to all the mines. Amalgamated interests own the Great Falls electrical enterprise. The construction work for an electrical air hoisting plant for the Amalgamated mines is already well under way. The plant will consist of three variable speed compressors, with a capacity of 7,500 cubic feet per minute of air for each machine, and will be operated by direct connected motors from current furnished by the Great Falls plant. The present hoisting engines will be used, with the exception that the present cylinders will be replaced by others having a larger diameter. Air pressure at ninety pounds is to be used. The Amalgamated company is also engaged in building a large timber preservative plant west of Butte, in which all the timbers to be used in the mines will be subjected to a creosote treatment, it being claimed that by that process ten to twelve years will be added to the life of the timber.

A number of changes and improvements are being made at the two large smelters of the Amalgamated company at Great Falls and Anaconda. The largest stack in the world was put in commission at Great Falls during the past summer, and with this extensive system of flues is giving splendid results. The smelter proper and the concentrator are being enlarged, and when the changes and improvements are completed the plant will have a capacity to treat about 5,000 tons of ore per day. Its present capacity is about 3,500 tons. At the Washoe smelter in Anaconda the company is building a new system of dykes and reservoirs to settle and clarify the water of concentrator before discharging into the Deer Lodge river. This consists of a crescent shaped dam near the Deer Lodge river, more than a mile and a quarter in length, and about twenty-six feet high, with wing dams branching out from the main dam so as to form compartments. It is anticipated that this improvement will do away with the remaining causes of complaint that are made by farmers of the Deer Lodge valley about the smelter damage by means of deleterious substances in the water.

In addition to an extraordinary amount of development work in the mines, the Amalgamated company has inaugurated a lot of new work and is engaged in opening two new mines—the Badger State for the Boston & Montana company, and the Right Bower for the Anaconda company. The Badger State claim carries the western extension of the Jessie vein of the North Butte company, and a shaft has been sunk 1,500 feet deep. It will be made 500 feet deeper before extensive crosscutting and drifting is done. The Right Bower shaft is 525 feet deep and several levels have been run to connect with adjoining properties of the Anaconda company, including the Modoc, which is 1,400 feet deep. Sinking is going on in the Modoc, and it is the intention to make it as deep as the High Ore, which is down 2,350 feet. In the Right Bower several good veins, one large and of high grade ore, have been opened. This property carries the extension of several of the best veins of the Butte-Ballaklava company. The Leonard shaft of the Boston & Montana company is also being sunk deeper, being now 1,800 feet deep. The Diamond shaft, an Anaconda property, is now the deepest working in the Butte district, being down 2,960 feet, 600 feet having been sunk during the past year. The Mountain Consolidated shaft of the Anaconda company is 2,290 feet deep and is still going down. Sinking is also proceeding at the Belmont mine of the same company, a depth of 1,200 feet having been reached. As this shaft is of four large compartments sinking has been slow. At the 1,100-foot level the Belmont has been connected with the 1,600-foot level of the Anaconda mine, there being a difference of about 500 feet in the elevations of the two shafts. It is understood that the Belmont is to be made the main working shaft of the "hill" mines of the Anaconda com-

AT THE LAKE COPPER MINES

Crosscut on 200-Foot Level of Mohawk Expected to Intersect Ahmeek Lode About Middle of Month—Franklin to Explore Western Part of Property By Diamond Drilling.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 1—(Special to The Herald.)—Developments of considerable importance are expected at the Mohawk mine, where crosscutting to the Ahmeek lode at the 200-foot level is in progress. This crosscut is expected to intersect the lode about the middle of the month, and judging from the drill core taken from the lode, should open ground of better average grade than that opened elsewhere in the Mohawk property. The shaft from which the crosscut is being run, is the sixth shaft opened on this property and is so situated that it will command nearly one-quarter of the entire Mohawk track. As an indication of what may be expected at this end of the property it is to be noted that the best ground at present opened in the Mohawk mine is that exposed at the fifth and sixth levels south, at the No. 5 shaft, which levels are breasted within 1,300 feet of the point where the new crosscut will intersect the lode. The uniformly good showing at the Ahmeek mine next south, further encourages the belief that the new Mohawk shaft will open ground of exceptional richness. The company is milling around 2,800 tons of rock daily, and will show a total output of about 11,500,000 pounds of refined copper for the year just closed.

Franklin.

Franklin is arranging to explore the western portion of its property by diamond drilling, which work is expected to disclose the several so-called Hancock lodes, the most westerly of which is at present yielding such remarkable results in the Hancock mine. With the abandonment of the conglomerate mine there has been a decided falling off of the output of refined copper, but it can reasonably be expected that with the larger skip and better hoisting facilities installed in the Pewabic mine, the output will gradually be increased henceforth. The situation in the Pewabic mine is very encouraging and at depth and in the drift extension at the several lower levels first class copper rock is being blocked out.

Superior.

The situation in the Superior mine is not materially different from that noted in past months. The No. 1 shaft has reached the thirteenth level. The No. 2 shaft has attained a depth of about 400 feet, and will be dropped several hundred feet further before any attempt is made to locate the copper course in that end of the Superior property. The company continues to use the Atlantic stamp mill and is having two units of that mill rebuilt, an improvement which is expected to effect a considerable saving of copper now being lost in the mill tailings.

Ahmeek.

The Ahmeek mine opening work is progressing at a rate probably not exceeded elsewhere in this district. Shafts No. 1 and 2 have reached the eighteenth level. The newer shafts, Nos. 3 and 4, to the northward and sinking to intersect and develop the underlay of the Ahmeek lode below the Mohawk workings, have attained depths of around 500 feet. It is calculated that the underlay will be tapped by these shafts at a depth of about 1,200 feet. The company is at present producing slightly in excess of 1,000,000 pounds fine copper monthly from ground averaging close to twenty-four pounds refined copper per ton of rock.

New Baltic.

New Baltic is rigging up the drill outfit on the site selected for No. 3 hole. The No. 3 is approximately 1,000 feet north of the No. 2 hole from which the rich core of copper rock was recently taken. The new hole will serve to determine the strike of the lode across the property, and will serve to furnish data necessary to shaft sinking which is expected to begin within the next few months. The No. 2 hole disclosed an amygdaloid sixty feet in width well charged with copper, and not unlike the Superior lode in general appearance. About ten feet of the lode carries copper in rather exceptional quantity, much of the mineral occurring in small nuggets. The upper portion of the lode runs almost entirely to the finer stamp copper.

Wyandot.

Wyandot's operations in the so-called No. 7 lode are beginning to result in the development of commercial ground. This lode is opened at the 700-foot level by a crosscut from an exploratory shaft and has been drifted upon for a distance of 150 feet. The drift in one direction discloses a width of about eight feet of very fair copper ground but in the opposite direction the showing is rather indifferent.

THE BUTTE & SUPERIOR MINE

To Ship Ores to Basin Soon — Blocking Out Ore Bodies and Preparing to Run Crosscut Into the Butte-Milwaukee.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 1.—Within a few days the Butte & Superior Copper Mining company will have completed its surface facilities for shipping its zinc ores to the Basin Reduction works, and with more than 8,000 tons of ore in the stock pile it will then commence sending ore at the rate of 200 tons a day to the Basin plant. The Butte & Superior company will then commence its career as an actual producer.

It is expected that construction on the new mill and concentrator, adjoining the present surface workings, will be commenced early in the year and that the plant will be in operation by March 1.

In preparation for a production of ore to be treated at the Basin plant and in the new concentrator, the ore bodies are now being blocked out on the 1,200 and 1,400-foot levels. A station also is being cut on the 1,600-foot level, where an electric pump with a capacity for lifting 300 gallons of water per minute is to be installed.

The directors of the Butte & Superior have ratified a contract whereby that company assumes control of the Butte & New York Copper company. At an adjourned meeting of the directors of the Butte & New York Copper company, A. B. Wolvin, president of the Butte & Superior Copper Mining company; Theodore Hollister, John G. Williams, I. Freimuth and J. B. Beecher, all of Duluth, and John N. Kirk of Butte, were elected members of the board to fill vacancies.

It will be the policy of the Butte & Superior company to develop the properties of the Butte & New York company and to connect the two shafts on the 1,600-foot level. Under the contract which has just been ratified, the Butte & New York company has transferred to the Butte & Superior company the controlling interest which it held in the Butte-Milwaukee company which owns a number of valuable claims adjoining the Butte & Superior company's holdings on the north.

On the Col. Seller's claim the Butte & Milwaukee company sank a shaft to a depth of 730 feet. During the panic of 1907 operations were suspended, and for the purpose of securing additional capital a controlling interest was sold to the Butte & New York company. It is understood to be the plan of the Butte & Superior company to run a crosscut from the 1,600-foot level of the Black Rock shaft into the Col. Seller's ground, a distance of about 1,200 feet, and to raise into the old Col. Seller's shaft. In doing this work a number of veins, which outcrop prominently on the surface, will be intersected and the ground will be explored thoroughly. The Col. Sellers shaft is of three standard compartments and one of the finest in the district. When the upraise is completed the Col. Sellers will be used as a working shaft and probably will be equipped with a thoroughly up-to-date hoisting plant.

IS SOON TO BEGIN CROSSCUT

Development of Yuma Vein on Superior & Globe Property Watched With Interest—Williams Shaft of National Still in Lime Formation.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 1.—The station cutting on the 650-foot level of the Superior & Globe shaft has about reached a point where crosscutting can be begun. The station is about thirty feet long, and with the force of twenty-eight men employed at the mine it probably will be possible to begin crosscutting soon. The station will be nine feet high. Up to the present time the station has been cut for practically its full length and the initial work on one of the crosscuts has been started. It is not probable, however, that the crosscutting will be actually undertaken until the station is fully completed and the 25-foot sump contemplated is made.

The driving of the south crosscut from the shaft of the Superior & Globe property will be watched with great interest by those interested in the development of the mine and also in the general geological formation of the surrounding country, for among the things which it will very conclusively tell will be the productivity of the Yuma vein, which has been traced in a very satisfactory manner from the point where it has been profitably mined on the Old Dominion land to the vicinity of the Superior & Globe shaft. Should this vein prove rich in copper on the Superior & Globe land, therefore, the owners of neighboring properties will have something definite to guide them in development work.

The lime-magnesia formation encountered at the depth of 385 feet in the Williams shaft of the National Mining Exploration property at Copper Hill still prevails at the present depth of 432 feet. The forty feet of this formation through which the shaft has been sunk have shown a fairly uniform texture, but of a rather impure limestone. The continuance of the copper stain in the shaft work is encouraging for the

SHATTUCK ABOUT TO START

Daily Shipments of Ore to Copper Queen Smelter—Superior & Pittsbnrg Plans to Hoist All Ore Through Briggs Shaft.

Bisbee, Ariz., Jan. 1.—Preparations are now under way at the Shattuck Arizona to resume daily shipments of ore, the first since the fall of 1907, the start to be made next week. Orders authorizing the starting of regular production and shipment were received a few days ago from President Thomas Bardon. It is planned to make shipments to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas, of from 100 to 150 tons per day, the repair gang is now making needed alterations and repairs to the ore conveying tramway between the mine and the railroad tracks, where the ore bins are located. Other machinery will also be put in first-class order so that when production has begun nothing need stop it. Since the stoppage of regular shipments, development which has been going ahead constantly has opened several fine ore bodies. An immense tonnage is in sight and extraction can be made at a much higher rate than that contemplated. It is thought probable that as spring advances more ore will be sent to the smelter than at the beginning.

Official announcement has been made that, dependent upon the discovery of ore bodies in the Briggs shaft, as anticipated by their engineers, this shaft will become the central one of the Superior & Pittsburg properties in this camp. If conditions prevail at a lower depth, as anticipated, all ore and possibly all waste, will be hoisted there from the Hoatson, Briggs and Junction shafts. Work in the Briggs, with the end in view of making it the central shaft of the Superior & Pittsburg properties will begin soon. Operations have been suspended for some time because the flow of water has been such that additional pumps, to be installed only at heavy cost, would have been necessary. Instead, drifts have been

HIGHER GRADE ORE OPENED

Crosscut From 300-Foot Level of Warrior Encounters Higher Class of Rock—Commercial Ore in All Live Oak Workings.

Globe, Ariz., Jan. 1.—Recent development work at the Warrior mine in the Miami district has opened up ore of higher average grade than that which has been mined in the past. A crosscut driven from the main drift of the 300-foot level of the mine has opened a body of ore averaging 11 per cent in copper, which is an increase of 1 per cent over the ore heretofore shipped from the mine. This crosscut running north from the drift is now twelve feet long and is in oxidized copper ore of the same general character as that which is being shipped daily to the El Paso smelter, but carries more copper and sulphur. The teams, notwithstanding the muddy condition of the roads in that district, are hauling the usual tonnages of ore to the Miami railroad station for shipment to the El Paso smelter, where the company has its ore treated.

During the next week two Star churn drills will be set at work on the Warrior property for the purpose of prospecting certain portions of the ground hitherto unexplored. With the help of these drills, the work of determining the extent of the ore bodies on the Warrior property will be greatly facilitated, and it is likely that the present daily shipments of about seventy-five tons of ore will be increased in the future.

The exploratory work, which has been of principal interest to the management, has blocked out considerable ore that could be mined if the management so desired. Supt. A. Bell has charge of the work at this mine and also of that at the Cordova and Live Oak properties in the same district, but lying to the west. Shipments averaging seventy-five tons daily continue to be made from the Warrior mine to the El Paso smelter.

Work being done on the 300-foot level of the Live Oak property is showing up commercial ore in all the drifts, crosscuts and raises that are being worked. From drift No. 306, crosscuts driven at right angles to this drift, at intervals of 200 feet are in commercial ore averaging well in copper, chalcocite being the chief copper mineral. The face of the drift at the present distance of 447 feet is also in good ore. The average length of these crosscuts is 110 feet and ore of a very good uniform value has prevailed throughout. A raise, starting from the junction of the 309 crosscut with the 300-foot level and has 3¼ per cent copper ore at its face. This work, taken in connection with that on the 200-foot level, has blocked out large tonnages of ore of commercial grade.

Drift No. 308 at the Live Oak mine is now 174 feet long and assays of the material at the face show a copper content of 4½ per cent. Drift No. 310, also on the third level, measures 104 feet in length and is in chalcocite averaging 2¾ per cent copper. Drift No. 311, recently started on the third level, is twenty feet long, and the latest specimen taken from its face runs 5¼ per cent copper.

The management of the Live Oak Development company has almost completed its preparations for beginning new drifts, crosscuts and raises for the purpose of determining the lateral and vertical extent of the ore body already developed on the second and third levels of the mine.

Supt. A. Ball has about thirty men employed in development work.

NOTED ONES ARE IN LIST

Many Signed Photographs and Letters Belonged to Late Governor.

Is Notable Collection of Priceless Worth to Public Libraries.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 1.—Many mementoes of famous men and women have been found among the effects of the late Governor John A. Johnson, which are now in the possession of his brother, F. W. Johnson and some day they may be placed on exhibition for the benefit of the public and the admirers of the lamented state executive.

During the twenty years or so Governor Johnson was in the public eye he naturally accumulated many letters from noted people and these make up the collection along with many signed photographs.

It is believed that few, if any public men, have a collection that can equal it in the prominence of the persons pictured or who have written to the late governor some time during his public career.

Many Signed Photographs.

There are about 600 signed photographs and autographed letters as well as a lot of autographs of such men as ex-Secretary of State William H. Seward, Remenyi, the violinist, Augustus St. Gaudens, the noted sculptor, ex-President Chester A. Arthur, William Lloyd Garrison, the great abolitionist, the late Governor William Russell of Massachusetts, Gen. Lew Wallace, Longfellow, the poet, Gen. Baden-Powell of South African war fame, Admiral Cervera, who surrendered to Admiral Schley off the coast of Cuba, and scores of others.

The list of signed photographs and autographed letters is a long one and to read it over is like conning the pages of the history of the latter part of the last and the present century.

From Noted Ones.

Some of the more noted are: Alma Tadema, the great painter; Thomas B. Aldrich, the poet; ex-Senator W. B. Allison, John Bigelow, journalist and diplomat; James Bryce, British ambassador to the United States and author of "The American Commonwealth;" Sir Redvers Buller, British general; Admiral Beresford of the British navy; Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher, and photo of her distinguished husband; Bismarck, the Iron chancellor; James G. Blaine, William J. Bryan, Andrew Carnegie, Joseph Chamberlain, ex-President Cleveland, Coquelin, French actor; Gen. Cassius Clay, Caruso, the great tenor; Charles A. Dana, the noted editor; Sir Conan Doyle, Thomas A. Edison, Edward Eggleston, Ignatius Donnelly, President Fallières of France, Eugene Field, the poet; Richard W. Gilder, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, John Hay, Robert G. Ingersoll, Dr. Koch, German scientist; Sir Wilfred Laurier, Canadian premier; marquis of Landsowne, J. Pierpont Morgan, Gen. George B. McClellan (signed check), Dwight L. Moody, evangelist; Nilsson, the singer; "Bill" Nye, Lord Roberts, John Sherman, Tolstoi, the great Russian publicist; Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian statesman; Mark Twain, President Taft (signed photograph, two letters), Wu Ting Fang, ex-Chinese ambassador; Yamagata, Japanese statesman and soldier.

Valuable for Library.

The collection would prove of great value to a public library as many of the photographs and letters are priceless. Mr. Johnson says that it was the wish of his distinguished brother that the collection be kept together and to this end he is willing to dispose of it to any library or person wishing to make the purchase. A printed circular giving the detailed list of letters, photographs and autographs can be had from F. W. Johnson, New Ulm, Minn.

PUT WIRES UNDERGROUND.

Important Piece of Work Begun By Telephone Company at Hancock.

Hancock, Mich., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Michigan State Telephone company has a force of twenty-five men at work under Construction Foreman Gibson of Detroit, upon improvements to the local service which will cost between $30,000 and $40,000.

The work will include the removal of all poles from Quincy street between Reservation and Mesnard, and the underground distribution of the wires now suspended, and the building of five new trunk lines between Hancock and Calumet and two between Hancock and Lake Linden.

SAYS ALL ROADS HAVE SUFFERED

Frauds in Transportation Not Confined to the Great Northern.

St Paul, Minn., Jan. 1.—That nearly every railroad running through the Northwestern states has suffered from frauds perpetrated by the employment agents to the same extent as the Great Northern, is the belief of those interested in the investigations being conducted under the personal direction of President L. W. Hill of the latter road. Special Agent Ray of the Great Northern has discovered that office collision on the part of a Great Northern employe made the plots of the labor agents easy to carry out on that road, but it is understood other companies have suffered to a great extent for lack of investigation.

Estimates of the amount of money said to have been lost to the Northwestern roads through the manipulations of certain employment agents in all parts of the country run as high as $500,000 annually.

During the last three or four years much new railroad construction in the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho and Washington has been done, and the railroads have given transportation to every laborer, who appeared at a local employment office, many of whom deserted as soon as they arrived at the point they desired to go to.

NATIONAL GUARD 118,844 STRONG

All States Will Be Under Terms of Dick Bill By Jan. 21.

Washington, Jan. 1. — Satisfactory conformity by Jan. 21 with the Dick militia law, so as to enable all the states and territories to share in the amounts appropriated by congress for the maintenance, is predicted by Lieut.-Col. Weaver, chief of the division of the militia affairs, in his annual report. This law requires that the organization of the militia must be the same as that of the regular army, if it is to participate in the federal funds. Only Pennsylvania and Delaware were reported as not conforming, but he believes these states will be able to meet the conditions by Jan. 21.

Militia 118,844 Strong.

The strength of the organized militia of the several states and territories last spring was fixed at 118,844 officers and enlisted men. An estimate is made that there are in the United States 14,754,400 males available for military duty.

It is announced that hereafter two militia inspections will be conducted annually. That in the spring will be to determine their efficiency for field duty.

NO GAMBLING IN STORES

Cigar and Candy Merchants Must Stop Games of Chance.

Given Until First of Year to Get Rid of Supplies.

After Jan. 1 no gambling or games of chance of any kind will be allowed in candy stores or other places in the city, and orders will also be issued to the police department by Mayor Haven to enforce the ordinance prohibiting newsboys and other minors from going into saloons.

After a long campaign the council enacted an ordinance governing the newsboy nuisance and the sale of liquor to minors. For a long time they refrained from going into booze emporiums. But lately the provisions of the ordinance have been violated altogether too frequently, according to complaints that have been made.

The policemen can do considerable to prevent this and at the same time not lay themselves liable to suspicion for violating the recent stringent order prohibiting them from drinking while on duty. If they see a newsboy or a minor going into a saloon they can tell him what the regulations are, and as a usual thing these instructions from a uniformed man carry much weight. If they are not followed the policeman will soon know it, for he is on the same beat a month at a time and he can act accordingly.

The gambling matter has been complained of most frequently in candy stores. Some of the large concerns selling cigars or confections have devised various drawing schemes which have become objectionable. Several weeks ago scores of places in the city had these cards on their counters. But orders were issued by the police to stop them. To enable some of them to get rid of the large supplies which they had on hand without working an unfair hardship, they were given until the first of the year to get rid of them. Where this has been impossible most of the firms putting out these schemes have agreed to take back their stocks.

TALK FEST ON MONDAY

Council Will Hear All Objections to Canadian Northern Route.

Has Invited Members of Both Factions to Present Case.

Objections to the issuance of a franchise to the Canadian Northern, granting the road the right to enter the city over the proposed West Duluth route, will be thrashed out at the council meeting Monday night.

Last Monday the city fathers invited all who had any complaints to make to present their side of the matter. Most of the material provisions of the ordinance have been agreed upon, greatly to the satisfaction of the city officials, as well as the railroad authorities.

The only question now seems to be relative to the route and the nature of the material which shall be used in constructing the trestle through the residence section of West Duluth. The company is willing to use steel in the crossings over the streets, but wants to use wood in building the trestle over the property which it has acquired by condemnation or purchase. The residents in that part of town feel that the section should be disfigured as little as possible, and will likely insist upon steel throughout. Some of them want the road shut out entirely from the proposed route and it is said that they will take the matter to the courts for final determination. They have hired Attorney Bert Fesler to present their side of the case, and taking this into consideration the council Monday night especially included the attorney's name in the resolution inviting any who had complaints to make, to present their side.

Some are very bitter against the entrance of the road, and the debate Monday night will probably be long and sharp. However, the majority of the councilmen and the other city authorities feel that if the route selected is the only one feasible, the road should not encounter unnecessary obstacles because of the strong objections of a few citizens who would be injured.

The barn ordinance will likely be introduced. It was held up last week to give some representatives of business concerns an opportunity to be heard, but when the matter was investigated it was found that the ordinance is so drawn that it will not affect them.

INJURED MIDDY SHOWS SIGN OF MOVEMENT.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 1.—That there was perceptible movement below the neck was yesterday reported for the first time by the surgeons attending Midshipman Earl D. Wilson, the naval academy football player whose neck was broken during a game on Oct. 16 last. The circumstance has given much encouragement.

HAPPY NEW YEAR OUTLOOK IN TRADE

New York, Jan. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co's. Weekly Review of Trade today says:

"Except for the holiday trade, which has been active there has been the moderate trade recession usual in the closing week of the year. The big storm has served also to retard distribution, while the railroad strike continues a cause of some disturbance. The effect of the high price of cotton is felt to some extent in the dry goods trade, making for greater caution on the part of both producers and buyers. But after making due allowances for these drawbacks, the fact remains that the year closes with general industrial and mercantile conditions in excellent shape, and while there are problems of high prices involving contentions between capital and labor, and problems of politics involving the relations of the corporations to the public, these are no more serious or acute than those which confront the business community at all times.

"Although the year closed with a seasonable contraction in the demand for iron and steel, prospects are bright for an active business early in 1910 and most producers now have sufficient orders on their books to insure full operations for some time to come; many mills in the Pittsburg district will not observe the New Year's holiday because of the heavy tonnage calling for prompt delivery.

"Sales of print cloth yarn fabrics at Fall River last week amounted to about 130,000 pieces, and trading was restricted, owing to the unwillingness of mills to increase their contracts while cotton is advancing.

"Cotton goods houses generally look for an active trade by the middle of January. Export trade with the Far East is quiet. On the wholesale purchases of worsted warp have not been up to the record of a year ago, and it is thought that ordering may be slow when the lines are opened. Jobbing trade on dress goods has been light. In man's wear, salesmen on the road are sending in some good orders for wool suitings, but the local market continues quiet. There has been a better inquiry for cotton yarns, but woolen and worsted yarns are quiet.

"With both buyers and sellers of footwear still engaged on inventories, the volume of new business continues small. Manufacturers still have a fair amount of reserve orders and it is expected business will resume normal proportions shortly. Prices are firm owing to high cost of material."

WATER POWER SITES HELD UP

Secretary Ballinger Withdraws More Land From All Disposition.

Washington, Jan. 1.—In aid of proposed legislation affecting water power sites on the public domain, the secretary of the interior has withdrawn from all forms of disposition the following lands:

Along the Arkansas river in Colorado, 27,294 acres; along the Bill Williams river and tributaries in Arizona, 62,720 acres; along the Melalla river in Oregon, 3,179 acres, and along the McKenzie river in Oregon, 598 acres.

Secretary Ballinger yesterday restored to the public domain 378,456 acres of land in California. This action was taken as a result of information furnished the interior department by the geological survey, the land having previously been withdrawn as probably valuable as oil lands. The area of lands still withdrawn thought to contain oil aggregates 3,242,606 acres.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY.

Good resolutions are a pleasant crop to sow. The seed springs up so readily, and the blossoms open so soon with such a brave show, especially at first. But when the time of flowers has passed, what us to the fruit?

THE WONDERFUL YEARS.

The significance of the passing years breaks upon humanity with new force at the turning of the yearly milepost. It marks a step further away from the conditions out of which humanity is struggling. It marks a step nearer the ultimate goal of social justice toward which humanity is striving. Therefore it is a fitting time for an accounting of progress.

And the note that rises above the confusion at such a time is a clear, strong note of hope. The course of progress is upward and onward. It never pauses. Though at times it seems to pause, it is only to gather energy for a new and stronger movement ahead. The conditions that confront and oppose progress are temporary—in the long run they are trifles. The forces of conservatism serve only to maintain a decently reasonable rate of speed. The forces of reaction, from the Caesars and King John down to Aldrich and Cannon, have dug in their heels in an effort to stop progress that is as vain as a human attempt to stop the earth from turning on its axis. The world moves ahead—are you moving with it? Are you helping it ahead, or are you trying to hold it back?

In the nation the forces of reaction are so strongly entrenched that sometimes patriots despair. But it is always darkest just before the dawn, and though reaction holds the framework of America in its clutches, the vital spirit of the nation is getting away from it and presently will sweep it and the things it stands for into oblivion. The nation is materially prosperous, and now, more forcefully than ever before, the people are demanding that that prosperity shall be spread abroad among all the people, not congested in the hands of a few; and they are demanding it in a tone that shows a spirit that will brook no denial. The very bigotry and intolerance of those who hold back in the traces is compassing their downfall by irritating the American people beyond human endurance. So far as bulk prosperity is concerned, the nation's outlook never was better; and the people are besieging the battlements of Special Privilege with a determination that soon must bring about wider distribution of that prosperity.

Minnesota, in common with her sister states, faces a year of brilliant promise. Her acres are yielding fruitfully, her products command good prices, her farmers are prosperous, her merchants and manufacturers are beginning a year of profitable activity. The state, too, is awake to the need for developing riches that yet lie dormant. Its people realize that idle acres must be given into the hands of husbandmen who will till them, that submerged acres made be redeemed from the wilderness by drainage, and that remaining natural resources must be conserved. Thus far manufacturing has been much neglected in Minnesota, but the coming developments in Duluth will give a tremendous impetus to that industry all over the state.

Duluth never faced the opening of a new year with greater hope and courage, or with stronger assurances of development and prosperity. The idle lands that have composed the greater part of its tributary territory are being settled and developed and are yielding riches. The empire that surrounds Duluth has awakened from a long sleep, and bristles with new clearings, with farms being brought to a high state of cultivation, with innumerable communities that are growing rapidly as the country around them is developed.

New industries are coming to Duluth, and the greatest of these, the new steel plant, will be well advanced toward completion before the year ends. In the meantime it will bring to Duluth and give employment to many workmen, and it will attract to this city many other new industries. New railroads are multiplying rapidly, and each brings new commercial opportunities.

As encouraging as the certainty of new enterprises is the new public spirit which has burst into active being in Duluth in the past few months, and which today is thrilling with hope and life and vigor. It is attacking local problems with confidence and courage, imbued with a spirit that admits no knowledge of the meaning of failure. The spirit of self-help that has come over this city in the last half year means more to the future of Duluth than any outside help that could come. It is more important, even, and more valuable, than the new steel plant and all that comes with it.

Duluth faces the hopeful New Year with glad courage and confident strength. It means business. It has taken itself in hand with a determination to cure any existing defects, within or without, that hamper its progress; and it will cure them. If the cost of living is too high because of local conditions, these conditions will be changed. If railroads haven't been treating this city as they should, this city is going to see that hereafter it gets all it is entitled to get. If local industries have not had the local support they should have had, this new public spirit proposes to see that hereafter they get the fullest possible encouragement and support.

This is a big time in the history of the nation, and it is a big time in the history of Duluth. There are big opportunities for material advancement; there are big opportunities for public service. Never was there a time when the individual citizen could do more for the good of his nation and his home city than he can today by the force of his example and by his personal activity in progressive work. Never in all history did the individual count for so much as he does today in Duluth and in the United States. If the nation is headed wrong, right thinking and right political and public acts on the part of individuals will set it right. If Duluth lacks anything that endeavor can win for her, the vigorous co-operation of her citizens will get it. There are big opportunities, bigger than there ever were before; and that means that responsibilities are greater, too. The future of the country will be the product of the thoughts and acts of its individual citizens. The future of Duluth will to a large degree be the sum of the thoughts and acts of its individual citizens. There is a work to do, and individuals must do it. The future welfare of nation and city depend upon the degree to which the individual realizes and grasps the abundant opportunities that exist for efficient public service, and assumes his responsibilities as a citizen.

The Herald wishes each of its readers a New Year full of happiness, prosperity, comfort and good cheer.

HOW DO YOU LIKE IT?

Now that you have had time fully to digest President Taft's statement, in his message to congress, that in large part the high cost of living "is due to the more expensive mode of living of the people," how do you like it?

How does the man like it who read the other day that Mr. Morgan had paid $40,000 for two soup plates, and who has a tight squeeze of it to keep anything very filling in the soup plates that he bought for 5 cents apiece at the department store?

How do you like it, Mr. Workingman? You and your good wife have to count the pennies that you pay for food, clothing and shelter. Your mode of living is not more luxurious than it was a few years ago. In the years during which the cost of living has increased more than 50 per cent, your scale of living has not become more sumptuous. You are getting little, if any, more in wages than you were then. Yet the cost of living has jumped 50 per cent or more. Bradstreet's put out some figures recently, which The Herald published, showing that ninety articles in common and necessary use have increased 60 per cent in cost to you since 1896. Have you been living too luxuriously while those prices were increasing? Do you feel personally responsible for the increase? Are you willing to assume the blame which the president of the United States has sought to place upon your shoulders?

And how do you like it, Mr. Clerk or Mr. Salesman or Mr. Bookkeeper? Does your conscience trouble you? Do you feel a sense of guilt in this matter of the high cost of living? Your wages are fixed pretty definitely. They may have increased some since 1896, but not a great deal. They don't fluctuate much. There is never any great scarcity of help of the sort you furnish; never so much as there is of skilled artisans. Naturally your pay does not rise very rapidly. Yet the cost of living keeps right on going up. It increased from November a year ago to November of this year, and again from November to December of this year. What do you think about Judge Taft's theory that your "more expensive mode of living" has made prices so high? Your mode of living, or any kind of living at all, has been expensive enough, land knows. But do you believe that is your fault? Of course some of you may have been living beyond your means. You on your $100 a month may have been trying to make a social splash as big as that made by your neighbor who gets twice as much. There are people who do that, and perhaps that is what the president means. But then there always are people who are trying that impossible and silly thing, and there always have been such people. There were that kind thirteen years ago, when the cost of living was so much less than it is now.

No, Mr. President, that method of accounting will not go down. It is disingenuous on your part to attempt it. You can't fool people with that kind of talk when they can see for themselves that the tariff tax alone can be made to account for most of the increase—that and the ruthless greed of the trusts the tariff has created. When an article of necessity costs, say, 75 cents to produce abroad, and $1 to produce here, and should be sold very profitably here at $1.50; when there is a tariff of $1 on that article which makes it cost $2.50 to the humble consumer upon whom you seek to place the blame; when behind the tariff wall there has arisen a trust which maintains at $2.50 the price of an article that ought to sell at $1.50: when these things are so plain, and when the organization of your party with which you are associating yourself works to keep them as they are, it really isn't pretty of you to attempt to make the people believe that their "more expensive mode of living" is to blame.

MORE "PATERNALISM."

Recently the Chicago city council enacted an ordinance regulating the city's bread supply. It called for conditions in the bakeries calculated to provide proper working conditions for the employes, and clean and sanitary bread for the public. It also specified the minimum size and weight of the loaves, and made it the duty of the bakers to provide scales so that suspicious customers might test the legality of the loaves they bought.

Of course the bakers were greatly affronted by this law. They pronounced it paternalism of the rankest kind, and having applied that dreadful adjective, after the manner of those who believe it to be the last word of condemnation that can possibly be used, they expected the community to explode with horror. It didn't. On the contrary the community shed that adjective as readily as a duck's back sheds moisture. Indeed, the community, so far as it gave thought to the matter at all, seemed highly pleased with the idea of seeing their city government exerting itself in behalf of honest loaves of bread.

So the bakers took it into court. Their lawyers told the court that the ordinance was clearly invalid, and that it proposed an exertion of governmental power that was unthinkable, anarchistic, even unconstitutional. "Paternalistic" and "unconstitutional!" What more could be said in condemnation of it? But the trouble with these two words, be it said in passing, is that they have been used so often by selfishly interested parties to condemn projects that seemed wholly good to the ordinary citizen, that they no longer have the power to awe and affright the public. When a movement is on foot to secure wider justice to the people, to restrain Special Privilege and to give wider distribution to prosperity, and you hear voices loudly protesting that the proposal is "paternalistic" and "unconstitutional," you may be sure that that sound is a chorus composed of selfishly interested parties and their attorneys.

The bakers convinced the Chicago court that their cause was just, and that the city council had no right to pass an ordinance compelling bakers to sell honest loaves of good bread. So the court declared the ordinance invalid. The city promptly carried it up to the supreme court, and the other day that tribunal declared that the lower court was mistaken, and that the city of Chicago has a right to insist upon honesty in the bakery business. The court might have added, though it did not, that such exertions of governmental power are not only rights, but duties. Experience has shown that, under the present method of conducting industry, laws requiring those who make the people's food to deal honestly with their patrons are necessary. The struggle for profits, left unregulated, tends almost inevitably to breed fraud and deceit. Even if a majority of the bakers, for instance, wish to sell honest loaves, the dishonesty of a single baker sets the pace. If he skimps his loaves and cheapens the cost of baking by fraud and adulteration, making the people believe that he sells cheaper than his competitors, they have to meet his price or quit business. If they can't meet it with honest loaves, they must make dishonest loaves.

That is why Chicago passed an ordinance regulating the size of a loaf of bread; and that is why other cities and states, and the nation, too, must pass laws placing a restraint upon the methods in which profits are sought.

FRESH AIR—NATURE'S CURE.

In one of the late magazines a consumptive tells the story of "How I Got Well." He discovered the disease in an early stage, and was ordered by his physician to go west before his strength had been reduced. He went to El Paso, where he spent three months, living at a boarding house, taking long walks, loafing aimlessly, getting worse all the time, and then came back from a journey in the country an invalid, his strength spent, his lungs in fearful shape, and his mind terrified by the progress of his disease. Before he went west his only trouble had been hoarseness, with a gradual loss of strength, and only a laboratory examination had determined the presence of the germs of tuberculosis. When he went back home the disease was well established, with all its characteristic symptoms.

Next he entered a sanitorium and took to a cot in the open air. He spent his days there as well as his nights, taking little exercise but plenty of fresh air and proper diet. In five months he was discharged, completely cured.

Not everybody can expect to recover so quickly, so this story shouldn't be permitted to arouse false hopes. But the methods—rest, fresh air and diet—are clearly outlined. What this sufferer did others can do; and it isn't much a matter of climate, either. The benefits of the Southwest have been overdrawn, and its advantage is chiefly that one can more comfortably stay outdoors there than in a Northern climate.

When the Persians, before the advent of civilization, lived in houses with sitting room courts without roofs, where they spent their time "indoors," there was no such thing as consumption. When civilization brought the germs, and taught the Persians to live in enclosed houses, tuberculosis began to ravage the Persians.

"Golden Rule" Jones, once mayor of Toledo, was known as a "crank" because he slept on his porch. Nobody else slept on porches, so obviously Jones must have been crazy. He was called that, anyway, and his neighbors who slept in tightly sealed rooms, breathing over and over again the putrid air of stifling chambers, laughed at his eccentricity.

Now, according to a famous architect, the most astonishing revolution in building methods nowadays relates the new facilities for ventilation and the construction of outdoor sleeping apartments.

For many years people had a superstitious horror of "night air," and they sought diligently to keep it from their sleeping chambers. There are people even now who fear "night air," as though there were any other kind of air to breathe at night. But most people, nowadays, realize that the night air is just as wholesome as the day air, and that whatever the time of day or night, man needs fresh air to breathe, or he will sicken and die. If fresh air will cure such a wasting constitutional disorder as consumption, it will certainly maintain health, and maintaining health means preserving one's well-being and cultivating one's highest efficiency. It is just as important that efforts should be made to keep in health as it is that efforts should be made to restore health; far more important, in fact, because obviously if one keeps well one need not go to trouble and expense in getting well. No person who does not get regularly and at all times, plenty of clean fresh air to breathe, can be entirely well.

A happy New Year to you and all of you.

You have until Monday to practice writing it "1910."

Use the sticking-plaster of determination to hold fast to your New Year's resolutions.

THE KIND OF BOUQUET THAT IS APPRECIATED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

On behalf of the Duluth anti-tuberculosis committee, I desire to thank you for your assistance in the Red Cross Christmas stamp campaign of 1909. Without your co-operation and that of others who have directly contributed to our work this year, we could not have expected to have obtained the satisfactory results we did. Again thanking you, I remain, very truly yours, OBSOLETE FIRE ALARM BOXES.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Let us start the New Year right. Let us pledge ourselves, that whenever we notice something in our good city which is not as it ought to be, to talk it over in a friendly way, suggest remedies, and we will all learn something.

For instance: Some cold night you might wake up and discover that your house is on fire. You might be one of those who can not afford to keep a telephone in your home. In the excitement you would pull on your shoes, and run for the nearest little red box hung up on some telephone pole not far away, and which you know is connected with the fire alarm system. You get there in no time and then what? Where is the key? Yes, where is the key? You run over to a house nearby and succeed in waking the people and they don't know. You run to the next house. Maybe the key is there and may be not. In all probability, if you got hold of a key, you would have to run home for a lantern in order to read the printed instructions inside the box before you would know how to turn in an alarm.

I am not afraid to say that not ten persons of every 100 of our citizens could send in a fire alarm, if they were called upon to do so this very minute. When you read this, ask your wife if she knows how. Ask her if she knows where the key is kept for the nearest fire alarm box.

Many years ago when the fire alarm system was installed, small painted signs of sheet iron were tacked up on the same pole as the fire alarm box, giving street numbers of the houses where the keys were kept. These signs are now rusted away and I have been told that in some instances buildings where keys were kept have been moved to other localities.

New signs should be provided, and it seems to me that some scheme could be worked out whereby the general public (women as well as children), could be instructed how to make use of the fire alarm boxes in case of fire. Respectfully,

ADOLPH ANDERSON.

West Duluth, Dec. 31.

THOSE LABOR STATISTICS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Ten thousand workmen are injured each year in Minnesota and one-half of the accidents are preventable, according to Labor Commissioner W. E. McEwen's report in The Herald last night. If one-half of the accidents are preventable, why aren't they prevented? Surely, there are means of forcing employers to guard the lives and limbs of their employes. Surely in this day of civilization the wanton maiming and killing of human beings cannot go on forever without protest.

It is high time that an employers' liability and workingmen's compensation law were passed in Minnesota. If employers were forced to pay adequate damages to every workman injured, regardless of the fellow-servant and contributory negligence rules of law, employers would use more care in respect to their employes. Machinery would not be left unprotected, inexperienced workmen would not be sent into dangerous places without warning, ignoramuses would not be employed as foremen over other men. Employers should be made to realize that they have a responsibility, and failure to guard employes from injury should carry heavy penalties that will change conditions.

The Two Nightfalls.

When the night falls in lonely woodland ways
There comes a peace that hushes and allays,
Sealing from discord and offense
The paths are lapped in haze,
And through the wood
A consecration born of quietude
Lay its atoning touch on soul and sense.
Silence that strips us bare,
For free ablution in its cleansing tide,
Washes the spirit from assoil and care
And fretfulness and pride.

But in the city, when the twilight falls
Come garish lights to flout departing day,
With flash along the walls
That rifles every nook and crevice gray.
Proud flares arise,
Protesting to the quiet, watchful skies;
The street awakes with turmoil and with cries.
Men have no use for dark or loneliness,
Voices of silence, darkness thick with eyes;
And thus they press
To flaunting lights and clamor of the crowd.
Night to the city comes illumined and loud.

What All May Have.

Harper's Weekly: More men have suffered through fear than all the maladies of earth; more have sinned through fear than through temptation; more have fallen into treachery and shame through fear than through all the desires and passions of the heart. And yet one may be rid of fear without special cleverness or skill or saintliness—only by applying will. A man cannot will not to suffer; or want, or die, but he can will not to be afraid.

Belief, submission and love—these may not be in each man's reach, but courage is. None so ailing, so anxious, so desperate, but he can repudiate self-pity and shake off fear, hold up his head and make strong his heart. He may will $1,000,000 and go penniless, but when he wills endurance, lo! it is there!

THE WEATHER.

Duluthians enjoyed a beautiful winter's night for New Year's eve, and this morning broke fair and moderately cold. The weather man looks for a cold wave tonight.

A year ago today is was very cold.

The sun rose this morning at 7:34 and will set at 4:21, making eight hours and forty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"A cold wave of considerable intensity has developed in the Northwest during the past twenty-four hours, with attendant temperature from zero to 16 below. In Montana, the Dakotas and Western Canada it is 30 to 40 deg. or more colder than on Friday morning. The highest pressure overlies Alberta. Low barometer areas central over Lake Superior and Wyoming have caused strong westerly winds and warmer weather in the Western lake region and upper Mississippi valley, and snow in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Montana and Wyoming. Indications favor rapidly falling temperatures at Head of the Lakes this afternoon and tonight."

Following were the maximum temperatures for the last twenty-four hours and the minimum for the last twelve:

	Max.	Min.		Max.	Min.

Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau, Duluth, Jan. 1.—Forecast for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Duluth, Superior and vicinity, including the Mesaba and Vermilion Iron ranges — Generally fair tonight and Sunday; cold wave, with zero temperatures, by Sunday morning; brisk to high northwest winds.

Minnesota — Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; cold wave; colder in east portion Sunday.

H. W. RICHARDSON,
Local Forecaster.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Sunday:

Upper Michigan—Unsettled weather, with snow flurries tonight or Sunday; much colder, with a cold wave.

Wisconsin—Threatening weather tonight and Sunday; much colder; cold wave north and extreme west portions Sunday.

Minnesota — Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; cold wave tonight; colder in east portion Sunday.

Iowa—Threatening weather tonight and Sunday; much colder; cold wave in north portion Sunday.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday; much colder tonight.

South Dakota — Snow tonight and Sunday; much colder tonight with a cold wave.

Montana—Snow and colder tonight; Sunday partly cloudy and continued cold.

Early Rising.

Now blessing light on him that first invented sleep!
It covers a man all over, thoughts and all, like a cloak; It is meat for the hungry, drink for the thirsty, heat for the cold, and cold for the hot.—Don Quixote, Part II, Chapter 67.

God bless the man who first invented sleep!
So Sancho Panza said, and so say I;
And bless him also that he didn't keep His great discovery to himself, nor try
To make it—as the lucky fellow might—
A close monopoly by patent right!

Yes—bless the man who first invented
sleep,
(I really can't avoid the iteration,)
But blast the man with curses loud and deep,
Whate'er the rascal's name, or age or station,
Who first invented, and went around advising,
That artificial cut-off—Early Rising!

Rise with the lark, and with the lark
to bed,
Observes some solemn, sentimental
owl;
Maxims like these are very cheaply said,
But ere you make yourself a fool or fowl,
Pray, just inquire about his rise and fall,
And whether larks have any beds at all!

The time for honest folks to be abed
Is in the morning, if I reason right;
And he who cannot keep his precious head
Upon his pillow till it's fairly light,
And so enjoy his forty morning winks,
Is up to knavery, or else he drinks!

Thompson, who sang about the "Seasons," said
It was a glorious thing to rise in season;
But then he said it lying in his bed
At 10 a. m.—the very reason
He wrote so charmingly. The simple fact is,
His preaching wasn't sanctioned by his practice.

'Tis doubtless well to be sometimes awake—
Awake to duty and awake to truth—
But when, alas! a nice review we take
Of our best deeds and days we find in sooth
The hours that leave the slightest cause to weep
Are those we passed in childhood or asleep!

'Tis beautiful to leave the world awhile
For the soft visions of the gentle night;
And free at last from mortal care or guile,
To live as only in the angels' sight,
In sleep's sweet realm so cozily shut in,
Where at the worst we only dream of sin!

So let us sleep and give the Maker praise.
I like the lad who, when his father thought
To clip his morning nap by hackneyed phrase
Of vagrant worm by early songster caught,
Cried, "Served him right! 'Tis not at all surprising;
The worm was punished, Sir, for early rising:"

—John G. Saxe.

Anxious to Know.

Chicago Record-Herald: "And," the beautiful girl said, looking up into his eyes, "you are really a member of congress?"

"That honor has been conferred upon me," replied the dignified representative.

"How perfectly splendid. And are you an insurgent?"

"Oh, no! Please don't suppose for a moment that I would be so silly as to get on that side."

"Ah! What do you do—brush Cannon's coat or black his shoes?"

A Modern Version.

Simple Simon met a pieman,
Going to the fair.
Said Simple Simon to the pieman,
"Let me taste your ware."
Said the pieman to Simple Simon:
"Young man, my ancestors were the hardy spirits who first blazed a trail through the pathless forest and founded the pioneer settlement in the region which is now Missouri. I myself hail from that glorious commonwealth, and before I can be induced to part with one of the succulent
gobs of pastry which I am vending,
I must be shown your penny."
Said Simple Simon to the pieman,
"Indeed, I haven't any."

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

The Growing Man.

Now and then I hear the comment passed upon this or that individual. "He is a growing man;" "She is a growing woman." Sometimes it is spoken concerning a subordinate in a great industrial concern. Sometimes the wife and mother in a large household is so characterized. Sometimes it is the compliment paid a professional man, a minister, a doctor or a lawyer.

It is a beautiful thing to say about any one. It suggests something quite different from what is brought to mind by the conventional appraisals of human kind. It is far from what we mean when we say this man is coming into a fortune, and that man is learned and that woman is clever.

And yet it is not easy to define exactly what is in our thought when we rate another as among the growing men of the world. A growing animal is a far simpler proposition. It is a question then simply of legs and girth. A growing child, too, is perfectly comprehensive for by the term we signify chiefly increasing stature and averdupois. But what are the marks of the growing man? How many recognize him when we find him in some high position or at some humble post of duty?

Humility is one of the invariable accompaniments of growth. Phillips Brooks used to say that humility and courage are the two fundamental traits of a noble life. Certainly no one can be growing who is weighted down by a big bump of self-esteem. Growth is the bettering a past record and the present status. If any man can look into his past searchingly and note its slips, failures, neglected opportunities and transgressions and be in any sense proud of it or measurably contented with even a fairly creditable record then he has never sounded the depths of his own nature. In order to be humble one need not be constantly humiliating himself before his God or his fellow men. But he must be free from the love of the limelight, the constant comparison of himself with others to their disadvantage and his own glorification. Only then is he in the way of growth.

I have never seen a growing man who was not teachable. Abraham Lincoln said he would not give much for a man who is not wiser today than yesterday. But how can he be wiser? Only by cherishing the spirit of a learner. If you have mastered every detail of your profession or trade, if you have penetrated to the frontiers of human knowledge then of course you are a very superior person and need not that any one should ever instruct you in anything. But that is not the attitude of the truly growing man.

For aspiration is the key to progress. "What are you looking forward to this winter?" asked one city woman of another the other day. "You are in the midst of many musical and literary advantages. What are you planning to accomplish?" "Nothing," was the chilling reply of a woman with a good husband, a competence, a well ordered home and no chick or child to care for daily. No one with an iota of aspiration in his own or her makeup could be content with such a negative policy. As Browning says,

"Aye but a man's reach must exceed his grasp
Or what's a heaven for?"

Something ahead to do, to be, to bring to pass that is the spur and he who responds to it grows and only that man grows. Wondrously does Christianity fit our thought today. Its program "First the blade then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." Its greatest injunction is "Be ye perfect as your Father in heaven is perfect." Its dazzling, far-off goal is heaven with its possibilities of infinite growth. The rapid flights of time would be unspeakably sad were the human race stagnant. The ending of a year and the beginning of another would fill us with melancholy and dismay if the future were to be as the past. But the growing man hails it as another chance to press forward and he "greets the unseen with a cheer."

THE PARSON.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Sketch Bits: Mrs. Rashun—That new beehive hat of yours makes your face look very short.

Mrs. Fashion—That's funny; it made my husband's face look very long!

Meggendorfer Blaetter: "If you only knew how nervous I was when I proposed to you!"

"And if you only knew how nervous I was until you proposed to me!"

New York Sun: Stella—How will you have your hat trimmed?

Bella—I haven't decided between the merits of a monoplane and biplane wing effect.

Jewish Ledger: Butcher—What can I send you today, Mrs. Styles?

Mrs. Styles—Send me a leg of mutton, and be sure it is from a black sheep; we are in mourning, you know.

London Opinion: "How did you get that black eye, Pat?"

Pat—Sure, your reverence, I slept on my fist last night!

Punch: Mistress—Well, Mary, have you found out what has become of the remainder of the pigeon pie?

Mary (returning from voyage of investigation below)—Please, mum, cook says I ate it.

Washington Star: "So you want the privilege of voting for people of whom you approve?"

"No," answered the suffragette, "I desire the satisfaction of publicly refusing to vote for people whom I don't like."

Kansas City Journal: "Had any experience at poker?"

"Some." "What's the most you ever saw in a pot?"

"In real life or in a poker story?"

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Post — I don't see the difference between playing bridge for prizes and gambling for money.

Parker—There's a lot. When you play for money you get something worth having.

Judge: Uncle Eben—If ye ever visit New York and git tired walkin' around th' city don't ye go into the stock exchange to rest!

Aunt Martha—Why not?

Uncle Eben—Gracious sakes! there they charge $40,000 for a seat!

Chicago News: Little Sile (reading)—Dad, what are the city limits, anyway?

Farmer Ryetop—Them blamed city boarders that come down here every year, my son.

Life: Dr. Pillem—You needn't worry about your wife. She has a remarkable constitution!

Henpeck—Say, Doc, you ought to see her by-laws, rules and regulations!

Philadelphia Ledger: "What do you intend to do if acquitted of this insanity charge?"

"Go into authorship."

"Gee! Well, I'll keep still, but don't you tell the court."

Cassell's Saturday Journal: "It seems to me that I have seen you before."

"You have, my lord. I used to give your daughter singing lessons."

"Twenty years!"

PHIL THOMPSON

By SAVOYARD.

"I knew him, Horatio."

And I did know Phil Thompson. What a charming voice it was, what a sweet smile was his! He did draw men to him and grappled their love with hooks of steel. Never a meanness, never a thing sordid, could be associated with Phil Thompson, and so prone was he to open mind—as he ever was to open hand—that he was equal friend to them twain, John G. Carlisle and Joseph C. S. Blackburn. Both trusted him, both loved him, for, big as was that great heart, there was no room for a thing ignoble in it.

His acquaintance was wide, and thousands of his friends will echo the following tribute to him in an editorial in the Washington Post:

"Yesterday, at Harrodsburg, Ky., the place of his birth, the clods fell on the coffin of Phil Thompson. His life was rifful and sometimes stormy, but of him may be writ:

"Lofty and sour to them that loved him not;
But to those men that sought him, sweet as summer."

"And that he was. He was a manly man. It were impossible to associate a meanness with him. His instincts were lofty, and nothing base ever found lodgment in his heart; that was as gentle as it was valiant.

"Many a tear was compelled when the news flashed, 'Phil Thompson is dead,' for he not only commanded the respect, but the love of men. What a beautiful voice was his! What a cheery sound it was! What a winning smile! And many is the mendicant in this town who will miss his open-handed bounty.

"The sod will rest light and blue grass will laugh melodiously above the manly breast of 'Young Phil' Thompson."

A little more than sixty-four years ago Phil Thompson and his twin brother, John B., were born at Harrodsburg, Ky. Their father was "Old Phil," with a single exception the last surviving commissioned officer of the volunteer soldiery Kentucky sent to fight in the Mexican war. His brother was the famous John B. Thompson, who served repeatedly in Congress from Kentucky, and rounded out his political career as a senator in congress for the term 1853-59.

The boys were named for these two —Phil for his father and John for his uncle. It is not a curious, but a common fact in the Kentucky of that day, that old Phil and old John took opposite sides in the stormy days of 1861. Phil went south with his twin boys, then under 16, and John was a stalwart Union man.

Old John B. Thompson was a Whig and beat Charles A. Wickliffe for congress (in 1852). It was the closest of races and for weeks the result was in doubt, for it was ere the day of telegraphs, and there was not a railroad in the district, which embraced many counties, covering a vast geographical territory. One night, perhaps three weeks after the election, the father of Jack Chinn came tearing into Harrodsburg on horseback with the news, fresh from Frankfort, whence he had ridden that day, that Thompson was certainly elected, and that his majority was just three votes. It is a tradition in Mercer county to this day that there was a Whig jollification in the godly town of Harrodsburg that night.

Old John Thompson was the completest master of ridicule the American congress or the American stump ever knew, and they knew Tom Corwin and "Lean Jimmy" Jones, too. In one of his terms in congress he reported a bill to pay $15 for printing something or other. Robert Toombs of Georgia, perhaps the most gigantic intellect of even that great day of Clay, Calhoun and Webster, savagely attacked the measure for its extravagance. Thompson came back at him—they were both Whigs—and years after Toombs declared it was the worst beating he ever got in all his political career.

Old John was a Know-Nothing and made a speech in the senate amid roars of laughter, telling how the truculent wharf rat had driven out of Kentucky the comparatively respectable old blue rat. And during his remarks he said something like this: "Mr. President, when a cargo of these immigrants are landed at the battery in New York, they march up Broadway shouting 'Hurrah for Andy McJackson and Martin O'Buren! A dollar a day for digging and no hangin' for stalin'!" I reckon even an Irishman of this day ran get the humor out of that and read it without anger.

Old Phil and his twin boys went South and they were of "Morgan's men." There is a tradition that young Phil always rode a quarter of a mile in advance when the command was on the march, and his brother John a quarter of a mile in the rear. These were the posts of danger from the bushwhackers. In my life I was much more intimate with Phil than with John; but I never questioned Phil about it, for he always discovered an aversion to talking about the war, and I rather suspect that, like "Old Joe" Lewis, he was never a thoroughly reconstructed rebel.

Albert that delightful fellow, Proctor Knott's law partner and Tom Robertson's cousin, John Schooling, died, young Phil Thompson was elected to succeed him as commonwealth's attorney for that circuit. Phil drew an indictment against a fellow for stealing a yoke of oxen. Old Phil defended. The proof was positive and conclusive, but the jury was made up almost exclusively of Morgan's men.

Old Phil spoke this way: "Jim Aikin, didn't you steal a horse out of Price Curd's stable at Cave City in 1862 when we were on that raid into Kentucky? Tom Burns, don't you recollect the horse you stole a year later just before we went into battle at Lebanon? Abner Booten, you know the fine mare you stole in Harrison county just after our victory at Cynthiana"—and so he went on through the whole list, at least ten of the jurymen, closing with this reference to his son: "And, gentlemen of the jury, from common report, and better, from personal observation, I can say that the learned counsel for the commonwealth, my brother of the bar, who is to follow me in the argument of this prosecution, was the most lovelorn, the most brilliant, the most accomplished the most successful of all John Morgan's horse thieves!"

The courtroom was crowded and from the judge on the bench, himself one of Morgan's men, to the idlest onlooker, all were convulsed with laughter that roared throughout the auditorium—all except young Phil, who was as solemn as a clock and in something of a rage.

When his father concluded, young Phil addressed the jury, pointing at the facts, admonishing them of their sworn duty, and demanding that justice be vindicated. It was without avail. The jury grinned, the laughter was yet uproarious in the room, and after three minutes' "deliberation," the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

Old Phil Thompson was without a peer as a criminal lawyer, even in Kentucky, and young Phil was one of the commonwealth's attorney whose every indictment successfully withstood, in the court above as well as the court below, the scrutiny raised by demurrer.

It was in 1878 that Milt Durham was a candidate for re-election to congress from the Eighth district. James B. McCreary, just out of the executive mansion at Frankfort, was a candidate, McKee Fox was a candidate, and the boys brought out Young Phil. The convention was held at Somerset, as I now recollect, and there were 109 ballots without result. The convention adjourned to meet at another place at another time. I wish I could recall the name of the chairman. I think he was a Durham man. Be that as it may, he inadvertently nominated Phil.

It seems that in some interlocutory proceeding the Thompson men got a tactical victory, and the auditorium ran riot and went wild. The chairman was in a rage and rapped for order without avail. Then he sat down and said, "Damn you, yell till you get your fill!"

They took up the word "fill" and made it "Phil," and on the next ballot Phil was nominated for a seat in the Forty-sixth congress and was elected.

And what a congress it was! It was the ablest I ever saw on Capitol hill, and I have known all of its successors. Besides, I am proud to say the Kentucky delegation of the Forty-sixth congress, numbers considered, was the ablest set of the lot. And that I'll maintain.

I take them by districts. Oscar Turner from Gibraltar. He was of that description that Alexander Stephens gave us of the cream of statesmenhip. James A. McKenzie, the most delicious companion and the most accomplished orator you ever saw, the immediate successor of John Young Brown. John W. Caldwell, the knightliest man of them all. He was as able as he was guileless, and the best loved man of a delegation that contained Jim McKenzie and Phil Thompson. Caldwell's district was from the Fourth district, an even greater lawyer than he was a humorist. Albert Mills was from the Fifth, and his industry was so prodigious as to make him the envy of his fellows. John G. Carlisle was from the Sixth, then and ever the first intellect of every crowd he came into. Joe Blackburn was from the Ashland district, a well-loved son of that generation of his state. E. C. Phister was from the Ninth, an accomplished lawyer, and Tom Turner was from the Tenth. I shall describe him in his own words:

"Mr. Speaker, I am in thorough accord and in complete alignment with all the passions of the hour."

And so he was a grand old Peveril of the Peak. There was no Eleventh district then.

Phil Thompson was from the Eighth district. His was not the hammer of Thor. It was rather the shaft of Locksley and went true to the mark. He was a born lawyer, though the bar of Kentucky are pretty well agreed that John is a better lawyer than was Phil. I doubt it, but those boys, when they got back from the wars, had opened a law office in Louisville or Cincinnati, in Chicago or New York, and stuck to it, the courthouse, it would have been a great firm.

Last night my old friend, O. O. Steadley, and I sat up and talked about Phil. I am afraid we were unmanned enough to cry a little. I am sure I was, and certainly he was heartbroken. But we will see him again. Of that I am sure. Else why did we know him here?

THE STORY OF THE NEGRO. By Booker T. Washington. New York: Doubleday, Page Co. Two volumes, $3 net.

Mr. Washington states that he had written these volumes to "show what the negro has accomplished in constructive directions"; and it is a braver and more encouraging show than many, not having studied the situation, would imagine. Its effect should be not only to stimulate the negro to greater activity in self-help, but to create a better understanding between the white man and the black men, who, since they are here side by side and must remain so, should be thinking more sympathetically than they are about how best to adjust their relationships so as to give each his fair opportunity and allow each to retain his proper self-respect. Mr. Washington avoids discussion of the problems that have arisen through the contact of the negro with other races, preferring to tell "a simple, straight story of what the negro himself has accomplished in the way of attaining to a higher civilization."

"If the reading of these chapters," he says, "shall in any degree inspire any negro to make himself useful and successful in the world, and if in any degree what I have written will cause any individuals, not members of my own race, to take a more generous and hopeful view of the condition and prospects of the negro, I shall feel that I have accomplished what I started out to do." This work should accomplish both of these ends: to stimulate the ambitions of the negro and the sympathies of the white people. It is a work that needed to be done, and none was better fitted to do it than Prof. Washington. It will result in a large degree to dissipate pessimism as to the future of the negro in this country. Better still, it will—at least it should —arouse in those who submit to its influence a desire to extend to the negro a helping hand rather than a discouraging boot-toe.

It is a hard heart indeed that will not experience a sharp pang of self-reproach—for the white race if not for itself—at the pathos in the author's description of how the negro has been made to feel that his case was beyond repair, and that his origin and his color forbade him to hope. "Perhaps it was merely a reflection of the current opinion," says Mr. Washington, "which slaves somehow imbibed, that everything white was good and everything black was bad, recall that in the matter of religion, although it may never have been directly referred to, we always understood that God was white and the devil was black." The reader's respect and admiration are commanded by the spirit of this estimate of black men" by a black man: "The more I have studied the masses of the race to which I belong the more I have learned not only to sympathize but to respect them. I am proud and happy to be identified with their struggle for a higher and better life."

Mr. Washington points out the fundamental error of considering Africa as a country instead of a continent, and Africans as a nationality instead of a race. To think of a negro as an African places him no more definitely than it places a Belgian to refer to him as a European. There are many peoples in Africa, and some of the blackest are furthest advanced, while some of the lightest in color are the most backward in civilization. Also, he contests the popular belief that the mixture of Caucasian blood increases the negro's ability. Though he himself is, we believe, of mixed blood, he names a number of unmixed blood who have made and won success, including Paul Lawrence Dunbar, the negro poet. He adds: "My experience and observation convince me that, where the environment has been equally favorable, there is no difference in ability between the unmixed and those of mixed blood."

Many will share with Mr. Washington his admiration for the negro melodies, which some musical critics assert to be the most original and distinctive contributions this continent has made to music. In their sad minors lurk the agony of forced separation from friends and family, the torture of the slaveship, the horrid clank of chains, and the lash of the whip cutting into palpitating human flesh; in the lilt and swing of the livelier strains is the lovable cheerfulness of the black man—at once his most pathetic and most conspicuous trait.

Early chapters describe African conditions and the close relationship that has existed in this country between the negro and the Indian, and tell the story of slavery. Here he chooses to lay stress upon the brighter side, and it is so much pleasanter to remember, and to stir over delicately the darker side which it is so much pleasanter to forget. He draws a charming picture of the black slave, "with his cheerfulness and sympathy, his humor and his fidelity." He deprecates the white man's old, vague fears of the negro race, and the apprehension that the negroes again secure the upper hand, as they were supposed to have had in the period of Reconstruction. He rightly says that the reconstruction did have the upper hand, but that control was in the hands of the white representatives of the Republican party of the North. What the negro desires most, he says, "is the good will of his white neighbors and the opportunity for the peaceful development of those fundamental interests which are the same for both races."

The second volume tells the story of the negro under freedom; and it is told entertainingly, candidly and encouragingly. From this showing, the negro has done amazingly well, and is doing better constantly. Though only a half a century free, he is learning thrift and industry, is accumulating property, is acquiring knowledge, is taking up the professions, and, in short, is doing very well for himself. He is becoming less a problem every day, and given half a chance he will work out his own destiny. He is here, and not through any fault or choice of his. He should be helped, not hindered; lifted up, not kicked down. He is willing to keep his place if that place is definitely pointed out to him. Prof. Washington assures us. But what is expected of him varies greatly in different sections, and often he has to solve problems such as that of a negro who had only a few minutes to make a train, and who called a hackman. The hackman wouldn't carry a negro, but the good sense of the black man arranged this solution of the difficulty: the hackman got into the hack, his passenger took the driver's seat and the reins, drove the cab to the station, paid his bill, and both were satisfied. Such good sense as that would solve many of the minor difficulties about the relationship between whites and blacks.

This work will have a helpful and wholesome influence on both races. It is good that it has been written with such good taste and common sense, and it is in itself strong proof of the capacity of the negro that it should have been done so thoroughly well by a black man. S. H. B.

HOW TO HELP: A Manual of Practical Charity. By Mary Conyngton, M. A. New York: The Macmillan company. $1.50 net.

This is a new and revised edition of a very practical and sensible outline of modern charity—that is, charity on a business basis, charity which lays stress on preventive work, charity which seeks to bring about social justice in the abstract while engaged in helping victims of social injustice in concrete cases. Such charity avoids confirming the poor in pauperism as it would avoid spreading a contagious disease; it seeks to uplift the poor and to put them upon a self-sustaining and self-respecting basis, as it would seek to cure tuberculosis and prevent its spread. The book is exactly what it purports to be—a practical manual of philanthropy. It will be found interesting by all who feel concern about the welfare of their fellows, and it will be especially helpful and instructive to busy people who wish to deal out right treatment to those who appeal to them for aid, by the volunteer worker who wishes to make his help as effective as possible, and by the professional worker who feels the need of an office manual and of a convincing summary for the guidance of inexperienced assistants and friendly visitors. The author is well qualified for the task she has set for herself. This none who read this book will doubt.

The book discusses philanthropy from the scientific viewpoint, with none of the coldness sometimes associated with scientific charity. Part 1 (General Principles) deals with the charity organization movement, the requirements and qualifications of social workers, agencies for philanthropic work, etc. Part 2 (Application of Principles to Definite Cases) treats of the homeless man, the homeless woman, beggars and impostors, care of needy families in the home, intemperance, desertion, special cases, etc. Part 3 (Social and Preventive Work) covers such subjects as penny provident work, fresh air and summer work, home libraries, clubs, boys' clubs, industrial and educational classes, club work among adults, and social settlements. Part 4 (General) concerns giving and indirect service, and concludes with some practical suggestions.

There is nothing more striking in modern life than the abandonment of the old idea that poverty was an institution that must always exist; that it was "part of the divine order that some should have and some should want." Nowadays it is recognized that poverty in large part is the child of social neglect; that it is not a thing that concerns only the poor, but one that concerns society at large very deeply; that it is the parent of a brood of evils, including crime and disease, that strike not only at the poor from which they come and in whose midst they breed, but at the well-to-do and rich whose neglect causes them. But of this change has come the demand for social justice that underlies the fight in behalf of government for the people instead of government for Special Privilege. The old way fostered professional pauperism. The new ideals will make it impossible, and in time will so readjust the social balance that many of the present causes of poverty will disappear. The interesting history of this development is carefully and entertainingly sketched in this book. Good sense and practicality are pre-eminent features.

UNIVERSITY ADDRESSES. By William Watts Folwell, professor emeritus, University of Minnesota. Minneapolis: The H. W. Wilson company.

These papers have historical and educational interest and value. As the author says, they illustrate a period in the university in which he has spent forty years of his life; and they should, as he hopes, "revive interest in the problem of the organization of education." The volume includes these papers: The First Inaugural Address, that of 1869; an address on "The Minnesota Plan," given by the author before the National Educational association at its meeting of 1875; "The Secularization of Education," another N. E. A. address, given as a defense against the denunciations of the state university as a "godless" and "infidel" institution by those who believed that higher education could be conducted safely only under church auspices; and "The Civic Education," the baccalaureate address of 1884, when the author was about to retire as president and assume charge of the department of social science.

The last paper is interestingly typical of the advanced thought of its time. As to civil service reform, greater results were hoped from it than it yet has yielded. The spoils system "had destroyed government by the people, substituting government by party." The civil service act, just passed, meant "that by and by no majority shall have the right or the power to seat its hosses and whippers in the public offices. It means that no political party shall have the right or the opportunity of depriving the people of the services of capable and experienced servants. It means country and people before party and spoils." Much good has come of civil service reform. The spoils system it supplanted made public trust a thing of barter and sale, and it never will be revived. But the high hopes of a political millenium created by civil service reform have not been fulfilled; much yet remains to be done.

The address contains a striking arraignment of the evils of professional politics, one he has been teaching the twenty-five years of civil service reform. Dr. Folwell's statement of the need of a wider spread of knowledge of public affairs is especially pointed and pertinent, and it, too, is still good. The following sounds more like an utterance of 1909 than one of 1884: "History tells us how we have been teaching our children the things likely to be useful to them in the shops and the market. Let us begin to instruct them as to the duties and relations of home and social circle and the ballot box." This discussion of a quarter of a century ago, illuminated as it is with notes made in this year, is very instructive and interesting. The scholar's tendency toward reforms called "socialistic" by those who oppose them is very modern, and far safer and more populous now than it was when he made his address to the class of 1884.

The discussion of educational problems in the other papers are wise and valuable; none the less so for their age, but more so for the notes that have been added in the light of subsequent developments.

THE CATS' CONVENTION. By Eunice Gibbs Allyn. New York: The Cochrane Publishing company.

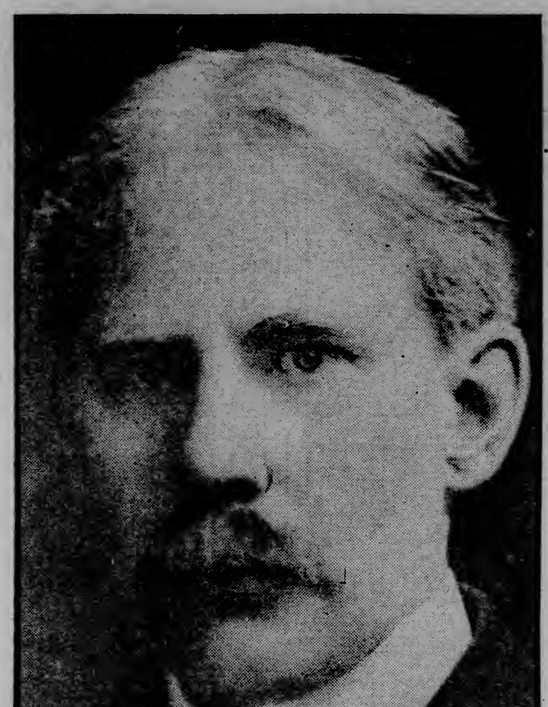

If the reproduction of eighteen attractive photographs of cats and kittens constitutes any excuse for the publication of a book of some 250 odd pages, then "The Cats' Convention" is justified. Otherwise it is hard to see any possible excuse for its being put before the public. For anybody who likes cats these pictures will have an interest. But whether a person likes cats or despises them he will find the rest of the volume a tough piece of literature. The story of the book is that of a convention of felines called to discuss the various means by which cats are oppressed by mankind. The proceedings of the convention are reported in full by the secretary, and though some of the incidents related could be boiled down and worked over into reasonably good nature-fakers' stories, as given here, they are so wound around with circumstances and expressed in such impossible book language that their value, if they have any, is completely lost. Scattered through the pages are pen sketches of whole cats and parts of cats, and these sketches run the whole gamut from mediocrity to acceptable cleverness.

THE MASTER. By Irving Bacheller, author of "Eben Holden," "D'ri and I," etc. New York: Doubleday, Page & Co. $1.50.

(Reviewed by Rev. J. S. Kirtley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Duluth.)

"The Master" is sure to prove interesting, for the energy and piquancy of its leading characters and the rapidity of its action. "The Master" is a modern story, up to date, for the author makes deft use of the data developed in the study of such subjects as telepathy, Socialism, the horrors of war and the educative value of nature. It is a novel with a purpose, to show the effect of nature on a growing lad, who is not without human aid in the persons of two noble but eccentric men, nor yet without the higher aid of the Bible. This character, grown into a marvelously wise and brave and resourceful altruist, is the medium through which the author uncovers some of the unrecognized powers that live in the pure heart, exposes the selfish viciousness that moves the army of discontent and strikes a blow at the inexcusable cruelties of war. There is plenty of adventure. The exaggerations are chiefly the necessities of art. Nature achieved the unusual because she had a rare subject. What she did for Ben Lovel she can do only for Ben Lovels and yet, in doing it, she proves herself competent to serve a higher educative purpose than she has been thought capable of. The author is not to be understood as despising the necessity and efficiency of the usual religious and ethical instrumentalities. This development of the model hero is both unique and successful and makes the story human and wholesome. Its structural ideas are essentially true and worthy of the vivid embodiment which Mr. Bacheller has given them.

IRVING BACHELLER,
Whose Latest Work Is Entitled "The Master."

Of Books and Writers.

Occasionally a reviewer is so fortunate as to perceive the guiding impulse of an author and to interpret him to himself. A case in point is the analysis by the reviewer in "The Living Age" of Mr. Gilson's work, "The Wistful Years," which has drawn from the author the statement that this review discloses the key to all his literary endeavor. Says the reviewer:

"After more than one patient and conscientious endeavor, Roy Rolfe Gilson in 'The Wistful Years' has made himself a place in that not very strictly defined school which includes Ik Marvel, Kenneth Grahame, J. M. Barrie and those other benefactors of the story reader. * * * The talk of the two is wonderfully pretty, surpassing even that one chapter in 'April Hopes' in which Mr. Howells daringly ventured to be sentimental without afterwards ridiculing himself. Their letters are even better than their talk, and had they appeared while the 'Letter' epidemic was devastating the English-speaking world, would have eclipsed all but the leader of the flock, Mrs. Clifford's book, and perhaps two others.

"The most careful search through this season's novels will reveal no prettier wedding scene than its last few pages. If Mr. Gilson can continue at the height to which he has brought himself in this book, he will soon find himself beyond all rivalry."

The old saying that a poet is born, not made, does not appear to apply to novelists. Once in a while in Byron's phrase, they "wake up and find themselves famous," but that fame is usually the climax of a long period of silent preparation. Take, for example, the case of Miss E. B. Dewing, whose first novel, 'Other People's Houses,' has been published this fall by the Macmillan company, and has already met with much sincere praise from the most exacting of critics and reviewers. Although this is Miss Dewing's first novel, she has practically devoted the whole of her mature life to preparation for the task of writing it.

The daughter of the well-known sculptor, Thomas W. Dewing, and Marie Oakey Dewing, she has lived all her life in an artistic atmosphere, and was for a long time a member of the artistic gathering established at Cornish, N. H. Brought up in this way, in the midst of artists, she has always taken it for granted that writing was to be her profession. The result of this seriousness of purpose and silent but arduous training, is shown in the smoothness and skill of this art of "Other People's Houses."

Gertrude Atherton is the latest of the many distinguished women who have come out strongly in favor of woman's suffrage. Mrs. Atherton has no doubt whatsoever about the merits of the question, but she does not propose to enter into any active campaign of the militant suffragettes.

"My life is devoted to the one idea, that of writing fiction," she announced just before leaving San Francisco. "To this work I concentrate my whole life. I lived long enough in England to appreciate just what equal suffrage would mean to the women on the other side. They have greater grievances than the women in this country, although there are public questions here and evils which will never be solved nor remedied until women can vote."

Mrs. Atherton has many strong opinions. It is not improbable that her possession of them is one of the reasons for the great success of her novels. In her forthcoming book, to be published by the Macmillan company, under the title of "Tower of Ivory," she deals with the upper circles of the operatic and diplomatic worlds.

Percy T. Madeira's book on "Hunting Big British Africa," has just been issued, bearing the imprint of the J. B. Lippincott company of Philadelphia. It contains a foreword by Frederick Courteney Selous, the mighty hunter, who was one of the advisers of Roosevelt, and is a famous English hunter of African game. William T. Hornaday of the New York Zoological society has seen Mr. Madeira's trophies, which are pictured in his volume, and writes of them: "I have never seen a more extensive or more beautiful lot of African heads that has fallen to the rifle of one man."

John Reed Scott's presence in Philadelphia, the home of his publishers, the Lippincotts, recently, is a reminder that he is steadily at work upon a new novel for late spring publication. Mr. Scott is recovering from the illness which prostrated him the greater part of the summer, and has returned to Annapolis, where he is prosecuting his literary labors. While no announcement is yet made of the subject of his new tale, his presence in the old Maryland capital justifies the suspicion that it will figure in the story that is growing under Mr. Scott's facile pen.

Miss Marie Van Vorst was in Philadelphia during the past month, her visit being timed to coincide with the simultaneous publication, in this city, and in London, of her new story, "In Ambush." Miss Van Vorst comes from her Paris home to visit the land of her birth and to consult with her American publishers, the J. B. Lippincott company. She is well known to all readers of fiction and of the magazines, and her latest effort will add to her reputation as a skilled creator of romance. The wide scope of the new story is indicated by the fact that the scene shifts from Alaska, where it opens, to Egypt, and thence to Kentucky. It is said that Miss Van Vorst's descriptions of the Nile country, incidental to her story, are extraordinarily graphic and compare with those which have made this particular field their study.

Elizabeth Dejeans, author of "The Winning Chance," was in Philadelphia in November on her way back to her home in California, and she left with the Lippincotts the manuscript of her new story, which will probably be ready for publication by March, or possibly earlier. No announcement of the title has yet been made, but the tale is a modern one and the scene is laid in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

Among the Magazines.

A broad field is covered in the World's Work for January, by articles of wide variety. This number contains the third installment of the mammoth series, "Highways of Progress," by James J. Hill, "the most statesman-like railroad man in America," who here discusses in convincing language the important subject of Oriental trade. The interesting and vivacious reminiscenses of the American painter, Elihu Vedder, begins in January, and form the first of the four chapters which are to appear in this magazine, the first one being on "Art Education Fifty Years Ago." Another important article is the second and concluding one of N. O. Nelson's "My Business Life." The story of the success that followed his system of profit-sharing is of immense interest to the business man. Dr. Gulick's article in the January number is "The Pace of Business Men," a topic which cannot fail to interest all World's Work readers. Alexander Irvine, in his autobiography, "From the Bottom Up," tells this month of his life among the "Squatters."

With the dawn of the new year, the magazine world puts its best foot forward, and proceeds to fulfill promises made in enticing forecasts of good things to come. One of the most interesting of these 1910 publications is the January Lippincott's, which doesn't at all suffer by comparison with its attention-attracting Christmas issue. The complete novel is "The Heaven of the Unexpected," by Lucy Meacham Thrustons. This writer's name is comparatively unknown to the reading public, but any one who can write stories so absorbing as "The Heaven of the Unexpected" is not likely to remain unknown long. The scenes are laid in New York and in a Southern mountainous region. The character-drawing is cleverly done, and the local color excellent. The author has a rather unusual, tense style of writing which grips the reader and quite refuses to let go. A most important feature is the first of a series of articles on "What is Wrong With Our Public Schools." The author is Joseph M. Rogers, who some time ago contributed a series called "Educating Our Boys" to this magazine. Mr. Rogers spent many months acquiring data for these papers, and they are both interesting and informative.

The January number of Success Magazine opens with a big political feature entitled "The End of Cannonism," by J. C. Welliver. "Business Control of the Press, the Parties and the Government," is the second of a series of articles by Charles Edward Russell under the general title, "The Power Behind the Republic." How the negro faces the problem of marriage is shown by Harris Dickson in "The Negro's Idea of Marriage." "Fighting Faces of Our Senators," by Sloane Gordon is illustrated with interesting caricatures by Vet Anderson. This number contains a consensus of the opinion of 13,000 life subscribers on political questions of the day, analyzed under the general heading, "Is Taft Leader or Follower of His Party?" "Her Complexion" is a charming short story by Mary Heaton Vorse. The second installment of "The Unjust Judge" concludes a powerful and dramatic story by John Luther Long.

The January Strand Magazine is a holiday fiction number and contains excellent stories by E. Phillips Oppenheim, Horace Annesley Vachell, Arthur Morrison, Beatrice Molyneaux, Richard Marsh and E. Nesbit. The serial story by A. E. W. Mason, "The Murder at the Villa Rose," carries the reader to an exciting point in the story. The articles are interesting and unique, and the kind the Strand readers have come to look for. Lewis Waller, the English actor, writes his Reminiscences; the Hon. Mrs. Fitzroy Stewart discusses "Plain Men" and incidentally explains why they sometimes have so great a fascination for beautiful women; Henry E. Dudeney writes interestingly about "Queer Fallacies and Brain Twisters," while fifteen humorous artists contribute their "Funniest Christmas Picture."

The January Wide World Magazine is distinguished by several highly interesting articles. "The Romance of Seal Hunting" relates in graphic language the many hardships and dangers through which a sealing party must pass before my lady can don her furs. "Christmas in Many Lands" is a seasonable contribution describing the manner in which the birth of Christ is celebrated throughout the world. "The Grey Scourge" deals with some thrilling encounters with wolves, while "Mistletoe Farming" describes an industry which has reached mammoth proportions in Normandy and Brittany. Prof. Wollaston continues his interesting journey through Central Africa, and James Ross of Lexington, Ky., contributes a blood-tingling account of the Martin-Tolliver-Logan Feud. The short true stories are up to their usual high standard of interest.

Signed editorials by men and women of national reputation are a feature of the American Baby, a new magazine. All who have anything to say are invited to speak in this free forum. W. S. Rossiter, who was long connected with the federal census office, and is the author of "A Century of Population Growth in the United States," follows Helen Keller in the opening number with an editorial on "The Baby Problem," which embodies an original letter on the subject, never before printed, from ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. Cressy L. Wilbur of the department of commerce and labor sets the ball rolling for the birth registration of all American babies. Florence Hull Winterburn, author of "The Children's Health," "Nursery Ethics," "From the Child's Standpoint," of the "Parents' Library," once editor of "Childhood," a practical mother who has proved her theories, is contributing editor.

Promise of a most interesting year is given in the Housekeeper pages for January. The fiction is well chosen, including such writers as Caroline Brett McLean, Cralice Vallette, William H. Hawley, and Mary Garden, the great prima donna, talks to American girls about her early life and experiences in Paris. Authoritative articles on flowers, poultry, cookery, fancy work, fashions and everything of interest to the home are included.

The leading article in The World Today for January is "The Menace of the Police," by Hugh C. Weir, which is a startling expose of the failure of the police force of America to bring criminals to justice, and the enormous loss to the people of the United States. "How I Found Roosevelt," by L. M. Newman, is a traveler's story of President Roosevelt's doings in South Africa. "China's Far West" is discussed by Ernest D. Burton, who has just returned from a journey of investigation in China, under commission from the University of Chicago. Mr. Burton brought back a large number of fine photographs, many of which are here reproduced. Other articles are: "Climbing a Mountain on a Wire Rope," by Ivah Dunklee; "Lords and Commons: A Crisis," by Svetozar Tonjoroff, a graphic sketch of the present momentous situation in England; "Heroes of the Common Lot," an editorial referring to the terrible coal mine disaster in Cherry, Ill.; "The Dawn of a Tomorrow," a synopsis, by Lucy France Pierce, of Frances Hodgson Burnett's drama, which is a message of faith and optimism; "The Governors' Messages to the People," brief statements from some state executives on matters of public interest.

In the issue of Harper's Weekly for Dec. 25, John D. Stevens, writing under the title "The Soaring Cost of Living and the Railroad Crisis," tells of the threatened railroad strike from a railroad president's point of view, its justice, owing to the increase in the cost of living, and the necessity of advancing freight rates to avert it. Philip Ambrose contributes an article upon the respective rights of landowner and aviator. Albert Bigelow Paine writes on "Some Phases of the Turk." Thaddeus S. Dayton writes on "The Wreck-master" and his work, and Clarence Winthrop Bowen tells of the "Congress of American Scolars" now meeting in New York city. This issue contains two stories, by Herman Scheffauer and William Inglis, a double-page showing some notable canvases by American painters at the National Academy exhibition, and many other interesting articles.

A passing glance at the January cover of the National Magazine shows the New Year's impress. The avuncular genius of America obeys the injunction regarding the correct treatment of coming and departing guests, and with one hand Uncle Sam welcomes the cherubic young new year, while with the other he gently ushers out the old year, with a godspeed. The frontispiece of the January issue is a rare picture, never before published, showing the roadbed for the first railway construction in the United States. This roadbed is still in use, and runs to Quincy, Mass., the only town in the United States where two presidents of the nation have resided. In this issue, "Affairs at Washington" fairly tingles with news of acute "situations," foreign and domestic. Secretary Knox is shown handling the Nicaraguan situation, while the president appoints a new minister to China. Interspersed with news of the departments are personal interviews or recollections of various legislators. The editor has met Senator Hale in Maine, and there is a story jammed full of crisp information and incidents of the "good old days." The gaieties of fashionable Washington are not forgotten, and newspaper men especially will be glad to read of an old friend, "Marse" Henry Watterson, who discourses in sage-like sentences, personal reminiscences, by those who knew Lincoln in the flesh, have been told to the editor and are reproduced. Amid these varied chronicles is a quaint story of Mark Hanna, an anecdote of John Hay, and here and there is infused information regarding the consular divisions of territory—the Far East, the Near East, the Pacific and insular possessions.

SOCIETY

The week has been a busy one socially and the gaities will continue until after the last of the college people have departed for the last stretch of the school year. Wednesday evening of next week the members of the Cotillion club will entertain at the Country club. John Peyton, assisted by Miss Irma Hartley, will lead the cotillion.

Today there are a large number of receptions and many Duluth hostesses are entertaining informally. An all-day reception is being held at the Y. M. C. A., an informal reception from 2 to 4 o'clock will be held at the Y. W. C. A., the Elks will be hosts at their home this afternoon followed by a number of informal theater dinner parties and this evening the Commercial club will be the scene of the annual New Year's reception, when cards and dancing and a musical program will be provided for the entertainment of the families and friends of the members.

The assembly last evening was a beautiful affair and the New Year's eve entertaining attracted hundreds of Duluthians.

The affair in which there was perhaps the most interest was the cafe chantant Tuesday evening, in which the younger society people appeared as cafe managers and artists and the program which was given was enjoyed to the utmost by the large and friendly audience that gathered at the Spalding.

The Spalding ballroom was unusually beautiful last evening in the decorations chosen for the holiday assembly which was the most brilliant affair of the year and was largely attended. The chandeliers were hung with Southern smilax and festoons of the delicate greens were interlaced between the chandeliers until a ceiling of green was created, making the room a bower of green, through which the lights shone softly. The touch of color was added by the brilliant color of poinsettia leaves. La Brosse's orchestra, stationed behind a screen of green, played the program of dancing numbers. At the midnight hours the lights were extinguished and after the coming of the New Year, "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by the guests. Among the dancers were:

WINTER WEDDINGS

Mrs. T. F. Bailey of this city has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kendall Bailey to Dwight Crittenden of New York city. The wedding took place Christmas day at Sandpoint, Idaho, at the home of Mr. Crittenden's relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Crittenden will be at home at Sandpoint for the winter. The bride is widely known in Duluth, where her home was for many years, and during the last few months that she has resided here after a several years' sojourn in the East she has been prominent in musical circles. Miss Bailey left last week for the West.

Miss Florence Martha Winchester, whose wedding to Earl Morris Wilite will take place this evening, has been the guest of honor at several affairs during the week. Miss Winchester is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Winchester, and the wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents, 1232 East First street, the ceremony to be read at 7 o'clock, to be followed by a large reception. Mr. White and his bride will leave for a wedding trip, and after Feb. 15 will be at home on East Fifth street.

A wedding of interest to many Duluthians took place Tuesday at Strond, Ont., Can., when Miss Jean Wallace and Dr. F. C. Bowman of this city were married. Miss Wallace formerly lived in Duluth and is well known here. Dr. Bowman is a long-time resident of the city and one of the prominent Duluth physicians. Dr. and Mrs. Bowman will return to Duluth, where they will be at home.

HAD THE PRESIDENT AS GUEST AT HER WEDDING ON THURSDAY

MRS. G. H. SNOWDEN AND HER MOTHER.

President Taft went to New York Thursday to attend the marriage of his niece, Miss Louise Walbridge Taft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Taft, and George Hogg Snowden. Mr. Snowden is a millionaire lumberman of Seattle, where he is building a magnificent residence for his bride. The bride and bridegroom sailed for Europe to remain six or eight months.

The wedding of Miss Sara Hammel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hammel, to Samuel Harold Marshall took place Monday evening at the Spalding hotel. The service was read at 5:30 o'clock by Rev. Maurice Lefkovits, and about thirty guests were present for the ceremony. The bride had as her maid of honor, Miss Laura Hammel of Appleton, Wis., and the bridesmaids were Miss Freda Goldberg and Miss Rachel Hammel. The groomsman was Samuel Levy, and the ushers were Solomon and Harry Hammel of Appleton. The bride wore a white lingerie gown, with a long tulle veil, and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride's roses. The maid of honor was gowned in white, and Miss Goldberg also wore a white gown. Miss Rachel Hammel's gown was pink and white.

The parlors in which the ceremony took place were decorated in palms and flowers. A wedding supper followed the ceremony. In the evening a reception and dancing party was held in the ballroom of the Spalding. La Brosse's orchestra played the program of dancing music, and a large number of guests were entertained.

The out-of-town guests for the wedding were Jacob Hammel, an old gentleman of 77 years, grandfather of the bride, and other honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. Heimquann of this city, grandparents of the bride. The other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Hammel, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hammel, Harry, Sol and Miss Fanny Hammel, all of Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Marshall of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Mose Bender of Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hammel of Milwaukee.

Mr. Marshall and his bride will be at home in this city.

At a simple home wedding service Tuesday afternoon Miss Maud Miller became the bride of Walter Lewis Dash of Marble at the home of the bride's parents at New Duluth. The rooms were prettily decorated with ferns and ground pine and carnations. The service was read by the Rev. P. Knudsen of the House of Hope Presbyterian church. The bride was gowned in white and carried brides' roses.

About twenty-five guests witnessed the ceremony. The guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dash, Miss Dorothy Dash, Miss Frances Carley, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Palmer and Victor Dash, Jr., all of Duluth; Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Damkioger of Lacomte and Walter Harkins of Smithville.

Mr. Dash and his bride left for a trip and will be at home at Marble after Jan. 15.

The wedding of Miss Hildora Martinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Martinson to Mr. App took place Christmas day at the home of the bride's parents at Molde. The service was read at 1 o'clock by the Rev. T. P. Goetz. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Martina Martinson, and the groomsman was Anton Martinson. The bride wore a gown of cream silk and carried bride's roses. Her maid of honor wore a blue gown. Mr. App and his bride left for a wedding trip to Chicago. They will be at home after Jan. 15 at Molde.

Dr. William R. Bagley left Thursday for Chicago, where he will be married today to Miss Marion Miller of that city. Dr. Bagley and his bride will be away on a month's trip.

The wedding of Miss Frances Scribner to Arthur Michaud of this city will take place Wednesday of next week at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scribner, of Minneapolis. The wedding will be a simple home ceremony. Among the Duluth guests will be Mr. and Mrs. James A. Butchart, Miss Alice Butchart, Miss Myrtle Butchart, Miss Scheffield and Miss Elizabeth Sharvey. After a short wedding trip Mr. Michaud and his bride will be at home at 1501 East Second street.

The wedding of Miss Jessie Louise Priest of this city and Percy Pason Sparling of Billings, Mont., took place Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Harriet Elizabeth Priest, of 412 Eighth avenue east. The service was read by the Rev. E. F. Stidd.

HOLIDAY AFFAIRS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Munger entertained at a dancing party Monday evening at the Country club in compliment to their daughter, Miss Carolyn Munger.

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hartley entertained at a skating party Wednesday evening in honor of their daughter, Miss Judith Hartley. The party was given at the curling rink.

Bishop and Mrs. J. D. Morrison were hosts at dinner Wednesday evening at their home, 2131 East Superior street, in compliment to the Rt. Rev. L. R. Brewer, bishop of Montana, who is the holiday guest of his daughter, Mrs. R. M. Atwater. Bishop Brewer will speak at the service at Trinity procathedral tomorrow.

Mrs. H. L. Moore and Mrs. J. T. Watson entertained at a Christmas party Thursday afternoon in compliment to Miss Moore of Minneapolis, who is their guest. The dining room was attractive in decorations in red and white and a Christmas tree with original toasts for each of the guests was a delightful feature of the afternoon. Fourteen guests were entertained.

Mrs. Robert Johnson entertained Thursday afternoon at a quilting party and a progressive luncheon at her home on East Superior street in honor of Miss Florence Winchester, whose wedding will take place today. The rooms were prettily decorated in flowers and Christmas greens and at the tables the appointments were in yellow and white. The place cards and every appointment carried out the color scheme. Covers were laid for sixteen.

DANCING PARTIES

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turrish entertained at a dancing party Thursday evening at the Spalding for their daughter, Miss Marie Turrish.

The Knights of Columbus entertained at a dancing party Wednesday evening at the ballroom of the Spalding. Evergreens and palms were used in decorations about the hall with the lodge banners. The orchestra was stationed back of a screen of ground pine and above the musicians the emblem of the order was outlined in colored lights.

La Brosse's orchestra played the program of dancing music and a large number of guests enjoyed the affair. The members of the reception committee were: Dr. E. W. Fahey, O. C. Hartman, F. S. Kelly, John F. Killorin, Michael H. Kelly, Peter Grignon, Henry P. Dunn, T. F. Godfrey, J. Frank Burrows, Fred L. Ryan, Leo A. Ball, Henry Turrish, M. C. Holahan, Dr. E. L. Tuohy, B. J. CLUBS AND MUSICAL Rider-Kelsey in Recital.

The second artist recital of the year by out-of-town talent will be given before the Matinee Musicale on Monday evening at the Pilgrim Congregational church, when Corinne Rider-Kelsey, soprano, will be the soloist. The concert will be, as usual, free to the members of the Matinee Musicale, and single tickets will be sold to men or to out-of-town guests of members. The college students who are home for the holidays may also buy single tickets for the recital.

The accompaniments will be played by Mrs. F. G. Bradbury.

Mrs. Rider-Kelsey returns to America for the season 1908-09 after singing a number of most successful opera performances at Covent Garden, London, to fulfill numerous concert engagements contracted for, appearing with many of the leading orchestral organizations in the country, oratorio societies, and in her own recitals.

The program she will present Monday evening is as follows:

I.
(a) "Quanlo Delci".....Handel
(b) "Deh Piu a me non V'ascondete".....Benoncini
(c) "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair".....Haydn

President's Notes

The following notes concerning the activities of the new year for the Twentieth Century club have been prepared by the president, Mrs. James Dow Morrison:

"The next social of the Twentieth Century club will be held in the club room of the library, on Monday afternoon, Jan. 3.

"This social is in charge of the literature department, of which Mrs. H. C. Marshall is chairman, and it goes without saying that the program for the afternoon will be interesting and profitable. The fact that Mrs. Marshall is soon to leave us for a new home in the East will make every one in the club anxious to avail themselves of every opportunity to meet, and make the most of her while she is still here, and a large attendance at the social is anticipated.

"A special meeting of the board is called for Monday, at 2:30 p.m. The special business is of importance, though it will take but a few moments to transact, and it is hoped that the members of the board will be prompt, so as not to interfere with the opening of the social, at the proper time.

"The Federated Clubs of Minnesota, at the autumn meeting decided to endow a scholarship in the University of Minnesota, to be called 'the Maria Sanford scholarship,' in honor of the woman who has meant, for many years in the past, so much that is noble and uplifting to the many who have been under her educating influence.

"The delegates to the autumn meeting felt that they might pledge the clubs of Duluth to the extent of $100 for this object. But it was believed that a number who were in no way connected with our few federated clubs, and who had always been admirers of Miss Sanford, would wish to contribute something to this fund. An opportunity, therefore, will be given to those who so desire to have a part in substantiating the happy thought of the federation. Mrs. F. L. Burrows or Mrs. J. L. Washburn will be happy to receive any contributions for this purpose.

"In opening the club work for the new year, the Twentieth Century club, feels that its best things are yet to come. On Jan. 14 Bishop Morrison lectures on "The Dawn of Life Upon the Earth.' It has been found necessary to postpone Mrs. Robert Morris Seymour's lectures until later in the month and sufficient notice will be given of the date.

"Early in February Mrs. Frances Squire Potter, M. A., will give the delayed lectures, which were to have been heard in October. Those who have heard Mrs. Potter speak with great enthusiasm of her power as a lecturer. It may be that the charm of her gracious personality affects in some degree the opinon of her listeners; but we all like to hear a beautiful woman speak, and when to beauty is added a finely cultivated mind and a wonderful power of expression a combination is effected which is most attractive.

"Those who have not as yet renewed or secured their membership in the club are advised to do so as soon as may be, as entrance to the coming lectures will be only by presentation of a member's ticket."

L'Alliance Francaise.

The first meeting of the new year of the Duluth branch of the L'Alliance Francaise will be held Monday afternoon of next week with Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard of 4637 London road. The leader for the afternoon's study will be Mrs. R. Speigel and the current events will be discussed by Mrs. Ouelette.

Meeting Postponed.

The regular January meeting of the Cecilian society has been postponed from the first Thursday of January to the second Thursday of the month.

Meeting Postponed.

The meeting of the study class of the Matinee Musicale which was to have been held Monday afternoon at the studio of the president, Miss Simonds, has been postponed for two weeks.

Paint and Other Railroad Purchases

The railroads are the heaviest consumers of paint. This fact is interesting beyond the paint trade, if considered as an instance of the real meaning to American manufacturers and merchants in general, of an announcement that such-and-such a railroad has "successfully floated a several million-dollar bond issue." The great staple beverage of the Northwest is Golden Grain Belt Beer. In purity, healthfulness and quality it has no equal. "Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch, Minneapolis Brewing company."

Little Boy Bulger.

BY MAUD WALKER.

LITTLE Boy Bulger sat pouting by the window, drawing on his shoes slowly and buttoning only half the buttons. He was in a surly frame of mind, a very ugly thing for a dear, sweet-faced little boy. And Little Boy Bulger was a dear, sweet-faced little boy, though you would not have thought so could you have peeped in on him at this particular minute.

Now, the thing that was putting Little Boy Bulger into such an ugly temper was the fact that Christmas and New Year were both over and he had not received the one thing that he wanted most—a riding pony. He had asked Santa Claus to fetch him a pony for Christmas, and Santa had brought him many other things instead. He had given him a lovely pair of sidewalk skates. He had also filled a table and two stockings with games, toys, candy, nuts, figs, fruit and many other gifts too numerous to mention. But no pony had he brought.

Then Little Boy Bulger had conceived the idea of asking papa and mamma for a New Year's gift in the shape of a pony. The good papa and mamma always made Little Boy Bulger's New Year almost as much an event as Christmas, and he knew there would be some more gifts for him—this time from his parents, instead of from Santa. So he hinted pretty broadly to first papa and then to mamma that he wanted a nice little riding pony for a New Year's gift. But when New Year dawned, and Little Boy Bulger leaped from bed and ran—barefooted and in nightie—down to the big living-room (where the presents always were put on Christmas and New Year) he was deeply disappointed to find no pony pawing and neighing there, saddled and bridled for youthful rider. And this morning the pouts were upon Little Boy Bugler. He sat by the window, dragging on his shoes as though he were more in the notion of going to bed than of staying up. His forehead puckered, and his lips stuck out tremendously. Oh he looked very, very ill-tempered and ugly.

After his shoes were quite on Little Boy Bulger sat motionless, looking into the white outside, for snow was filling the air. But Little Boy Bulger did not mind the snow. His room was cozy and warm, a great steam radiator between him and the window was warding off any cold that might get in around the sash. And the big, stuffed chair, entirely filled with feather cushions and Little Boy Bulger, was also very comfy.

"I don't want anything—'less I can have a pony," muttered pouting Little Boy Bulger. "If Papa and Mamma ever get anything else for me—well, they can give it to Cousin Bella. She'll be glad to get most anything, for she's a girl, and girls aren't so particular as boys. Besides, what good would a pony do Bella? She couldn't ride—she's a girl. Girls are like dolls—pretty to look at, but not very useful." Thus soliloquizing, Little Boy Bulger opened his blue eyes wide.

Little Boy Bulger fell asleep, for he had awakened very early, and had not quite finished his morning nap. And the warmth from the steam radiator, just at his side, and the feather cushions about him, soothed his ruffled spirits and sent him napping.

When Little Boy Bulger ran down to the living-room that morning no one saw him, for papa was out at the stable—very busy at some work—and mamma was in the dining-room setting the table for breakfast, and Jane—the cook—was in the kitchen preparing the morning meal. So, no one knew that Little Boy Bulger had been downstairs, and had returned to his room in an unpleasant frame of mind. Indeed, when the table was finished, mamma went to the foot of the stairs to call Little Boy Bulger down to breakfast. Just as she did so papa came into the hall, stamping the snow from his coat.

"Well, papa, do you think the snow will soon stop?" asked mamma, anxiously. "It will be such a disappointment if it keeps up all morning. I so wanted to have the surprise ready for Boy Bulger when he came down."

"Oh, it's only a sudden sift of snow—some left in the flying clouds from the snow of yesterday. It will be over before breakfast. Has Boy Bulger come down yet?"

"No; he's still asleep," said mamma. "Would we better let him have his Saturday sleep out?" she asked.

"Yes; let the little chap sleep his fill on Saturday morning," replied papa. "Is breakfast ready?" he went on, removing hat and overcoat and hanging them on the hall rack.

"Yes, and we'll sit down. Boy Bulger can eat later. And the snow will have ceased then and his surprise will be ready for him."

Half an hour later the snow had ceased falling and the sun came forth, and the day promised to be a glorious one—hard, crisp snow everywhere and a refreshing atmosphere. Papa and mamma had finished breakfast, and while papa went to the stable to attend to an errand mamma ran upstairs to wake Little Boy Bulger. She found him asleep by the window, his curly head buried in pillows. "Why, baby," said mamma, waking Little Boy Bulger, "you have been up and got partly dressed and then gone to sleep again. Come, dearest, it is after 8 o'clock. Come, Cousin Bella will be here to spend the day with you, and you must not let her find you still in your nightie."

Little Boy Bulger opened his blue eyes wide, then said: "Oh, mamma, I'm so glad I awoke just when I did, for I was dreaming that Santa Claus was here—in this room—talking to me. He told me I was very naughty to pout because I did not get a pony for Christmas or New Year, and that I should realize what a lucky boy I am to have such a good home and you and papa. And that I had everything I needed—and much that I didn't need, and he said that I was a spoiled boy, and that spoiled boys were never happy nor contented. So I began to feel very naughty, and I 'fessed to him that I had been pouting all morning because I hadn't gotten a pony and that I was very disappointed. And I 'fessed that I had an ugly temper over it and had said naughty things. But, mamma, I am so sorry I got naughty, for I found out in my dream that I was a very lucky boy and had so much to be thankful for. Why, my play-room is full of nice things, and I shan't say another thing about a pony. If you and papa and Santa want me to have one next year then is time enough for me to ride. Oh, I must hurry, mamma, for Bella is downstairs. I just heard her call out to Jane: 'Hello, Jane! Where's Bulger?' "

"Yes, and so she is," said mamma. Then she helped Little Boy Bulger into his clothes and before Bella had been in the house five minutes her cousin, Little Boy Bulger, was down at the breakfast table, eating his oatmeal and milk, and talking to Bella as fast as his mouthfuls would allow. And Bella, a lively little miss, two years Little Boy Bulger's senior, was as full of talk as she could be, and papa had to call to them twice from the front gate to make them hear him. "Hello, Bulger and Bella!" he called out very loudly. Then Bulger, who had finished his breakfast, ran to the hall door in answer to papa's call, Bella following him. And when they opened the door and looked out they stood open-eyed and open-mouthed at what they saw. There at the gate was the dearest Shetland pony, hitched to a dear little cutter! Oh, what a fine turnout! Then, voice coming to Little Boy Bulger, he cried out:

"Oh, papa, whose pony is he?"

"Yours, my Boy Bulger," explained papa, who stood beside the pony waiting for the little ones to come and get into the sleigh. "He is your New Year present from mamma and me."

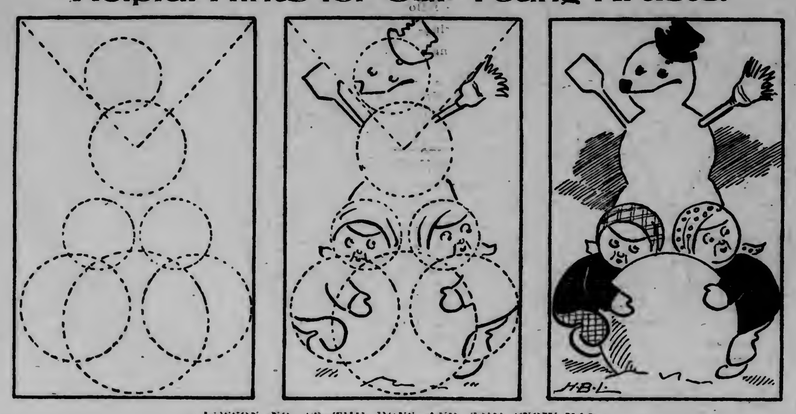

Little Boy Bulger was so happy that he could do nothing but jump up and down, clapping his hands. And Bella seemed quite as surprised and happy. And then mamma came into the hall, carrying Little Boy Bulger's coat, mittens, cap and leggins, and Bella's wraps as well.

"Come, get into your things," she said, assisting both children into their wraps. "And now you are off with papa for your first sleigh ride behind Little Boy Bulger's pony."

But before he went out to the sleigh Little Boy Bulger stopped to throw his arms about mamma, whispering: "I don't deserve it, mamma, I was a bad Boy Bulger."

"But you are sorry for your naughtiness, sonny," smiled mamma. "And since you repent of your naughtiness, you are forgiven, and deserve the pony and the sleigh. So, run along, and enjoy the spin over the snow. And after a few days, you and Bella will be able to drive the pony alone, for papa will teach you how to handle the lines."

Helpful Hints for Our Young Artists.

LESSON NO. 83—THE BOYS AND THE SNOW-MAN.

Sketch of Rubinstein.

WHEN the young students of music listen to the wonderful compositions of Anton Grigarijevitch Rubinstein they think of him as a genius, a god, who did not walk the earth as we do, who breathed different air, whose diet—if he ate at all—was something too dainty for the common mortal to subsist on. But Rubinstein was like other boys in many respects, like them in his early boyhood days; but only then, for at the age of ten he was appearing before the public as an artiste, and no longer was he a child outwardly, though we may surmise that the little Anton would rather have played ball or some other jolly games with his comrades than to have sat the hours of the day through at the pianoforte, for a child's genius and his human side are frequently total strangers.

Anton Rubinstein was of Jewish parentage, and was born at Wichwatinetz, near Dubossary, in Russia. At an early age the little Anton went with his parents to Moscow. Although his mother was a very clever pianist, the little Anton displayed such unusual talent for music that she decided her teaching would not be as thorough as he should have, so at Moscow—while yet of very tender years—Anton was placed with the finest master of the pianoforte that the ambitious parents could find.

Soon after his first appearance in public Anton Rubinstein went to Paris, where he remained for nearly two years. From there he made a continental tour of Europe, playing in all the principal cities, and making pronounced success. After three years spent in concert work, Anton returned to Russia, taking up his abode in St. Petersburg. There he opened a studio for the teaching of pupils. At intervals he appeared at the Imperial Palace, playing for royalty.

It was in 1862 that Rubinstein established a conservatory of music, and began making regular concert tours throughout Europe. While at the very height of his art he visited the United States of America, winning laurels wherever he appeared.

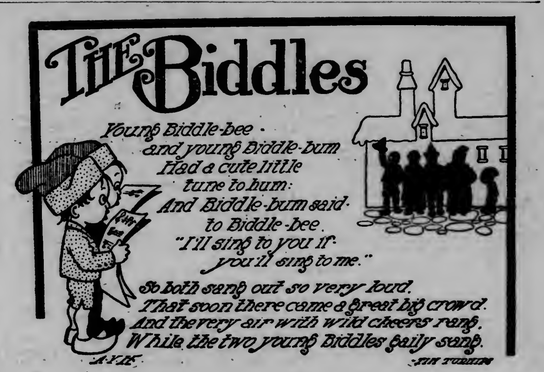

Rubinstein composed many symphonies, overtures, operas and sonnatas, all of the rarest beauty and highest grade of merit. Once when some friend was advising him to write music to be "better understood by the common people," his reply was: "Let us not minister to the cravings of the ignorant for foolish amusement. What satisfaction can there be for a mujik to pay 15 kopeks to see on the stage the same drunkard in sheepskin whom he meets each day in the pothouse? If the theater is to be a medium of education, let it be above the people. It may be at first the lower classes will find such pieces dull and uninteresting; but believe me, it will not be very long before they will have learned to appreciate their beauties, and will seek the theater, now become an instrument of civilization for the masses."

And in that little paragraph just quoted was expressed the character of the artiste, Anton Rubinstein. During his more than busy life he worked for the highest that he might attain, never once allowing himself to drop to the level of the masses. Not only did he carry himself upward and onward in his art, but he helped to lift those around him, for he placed music on a standard so high that to understand it one was obliged to ascend to the mountaintop.

Rubinstein lived to a ripe age, dying November 20, 1894, at Peterhoff, near St. Petersburg.

Despite the advance in the use of steam vessels there are 66,000 sailing vessels still remaining in the world.

The Little Biddles

Winter Sports

AFTER the real winter has come to stay for three months or more, then has come the time for the most enjoyable and wholesome sports of the year. There is no pastime more enjoyable than coasting, unless it be skating. Dressed for the sport, the children learn what real pleasure consists of when on skates or coasting sled.

But either must be indulged in with caution. The coasting hill must be carefully selected and the course for the sleds well prepared. It is well to bank the coasting course with a firm wall of packed snow. Have the course as wide as possible—so that three or four sleds may pass down it at the same time. But be cautious about allowing "green" hands on the course guiding sleds for so often very dangerous accidents happen through "greenness" or carelessness. Therefore, one is to be guarded against as much as the other.

A carnival on the ice is pretty and interesting. Sometimes boys and girls form themselves into a skating club and give during the winter a series of skating carnivals. It is a pretty idea to have each carnival characteristic of some historical event or period. One time the writer saw a colonial carnival on the ice, and it was most artistic. Each boy was dressed as his colonial forefathers dressed, and each girl like her colonial grandmothers. It is also a pretty idea to follow out the unique in costume, for instance, the boys of the club might adopt the costumes of clowns, while the girls might go as Scotch lassies. Some like the mixed carnival best—where the boys and girls represent a variety of celebrated characters and celebrated people. George Washington, Napoleon Bonaparte and other great leaders or rulers are often represented. And large, fat twins—costumed like two year-old babies—always furnish much amusement. The "Three Little Maids from School" make another pretty group of skaters.

In preparing one's costume the weather must be considered, and the garments worn under the "show" costume should be warm and heavy. Fancy costumes are always made of cheap and flimsy material, and unless one is well-wrapped underneath, the costumed one is liable to catch a heavy cold and all pleasure will be spoiled by bad results. Health first, pleasure second, and art third, is a good rule for boys and girls to follow when arranging out-of-door sports in winter.

LEATHERBACK TURTLE.

The largest turtle is the leatherback, which has been known to weigh one thousand pounds. These sea creatures live to a great age. They cannot be kept alive in captivity, a fact that was proven some time ago, when one of them was received at the New York Aquarium. This animal weighed 806 pounds and lived only 22 days, which was a record.

MARY AND A KITTEN. BY HELENA DAVIS.

MARY STONE was walking down the street, returning to her home after a visit made to some little girl friend. The day was very cold, and Mary held her muff close against her face as she hurried along the almost deserted street.

Just as Mary turned a corner she saw a little kitten run from an old, untenanted house, going across the street towards a small park. The poor little animal looked cold and miserable, and its thin body spoke of starvation and abuses. In a moment Mary's sympathy was enlisted, and she turned across the street, going in pursuit of the kitten. She had conceived the idea of carrying the wretched little thing to her home, where it should have food and warmth and loving care.

When Mary had almost reached the kitten's side, and had stooped over to grasp it in her arms, saying "Kitty, kitty, come here," the frightened animal ran off down an alley-way, for kind treatment had never been bestowed on it, and it did not know that the little girl who was trying to capture it had good intentions. Rather did it think there was more torture for it to suffer should it fall into her hands, so it ran off as fast as ever it could, hiding from sight. But Mary had seen the kitten disappear behind an old barrel in the alley, and thither she went in pursuit of it, calling gently, "Kitty-cat, kitty-cat, come to me, I'll not hurt you, kitty-cat!"

As Mary began searching behind the barrel, and some boxes also piled there, she heard a noise at her elbow. Turning she beheld a very old man in ragged clothes. He was leaning on a stick, and his face was drawn and white. He was in the shadow of an old stable, and Mary supposed he had come from its shelter. She knew at once that he was some poor outcast.

"Say, little girl, are you after the kitten that just run round that barrel?" asked the man.

"Yes, sir; did you see where it went? I want to catch it and carry it home with me. It looks so miserable."

The old man sighed. "Yes, to be out in the cold—and hungry, and no friend in the world—is enough to make a creature—animal or man—miserable. I think, little girl, that the kitten is in one of those boxes. Don't frighten it. It has been used so badly that it is afraid of any person—even a friend."

Mary thanked the old man and turned to continue searching for the kitten. But after a little while she gave up in despair, for the kitten seemed to have disappeared from the earth. She turned towards the street, but in doing so she saw the old man looking in a garbage barrel for food. When he found that he was being watched his pale face flushed and he turned to leave the barrel. Mary's heart throbbed with pity. The man was so old and thin, his face pale from the pangs of hardship, his eyes dim with unspoken misery. Going to him she said: "Are you in need, sir?"

Tears leaped to the old man's eyes. "Yes, little girl, I am greatly in need. I have been out of work for such a long time. I am in real need. But a child like you cannot help me. I thank you, though, for your sweet, interested look, and for your having noticed a worn-out old man."

"But I can help you, sir," declared Mary. "I live just round that block yonder—number eleven—and my papa and mamma are very kind people. They will find something for you to do, I am sure, if you will call there and say I sent you. I must look a little further for that poor kitten, but I'll run home very soon. Please do go to my house—number eleven—and ask for my mother, Mrs. Stone, and tell her I sent you to her."

"But, little girl, I fear she'll think me a common old beggar, and I couldn't bear to be thought that, for I never begged a penny in my life. I have been seeking for work—everywhere—but cannot find anyone who will employ such a good-for-nothing old man. You see, child, after the body has become broken by hard labor, the face aged by time, no one wants you about. They think an old person can't work. But I could work and work well if I only had the chance."

"I'm sure you could," said Mary, all sympathy. "I know you are an honest man. We want such a man to work for us. Please go round to our house and tell my mother that I—Mary—sent you. I'll be there as soon as I can find that poor kitten."

"Well, I'll go, and a thousand thanks to you, little girl," said the old man. "If I were more sprightly, I'd hunt the kitten for you, but my legs are not very nimble any more. If your mother has work for me, I'll see you again, and thank you a thousand times more."

Then the old man, repeating the name "Stone" and the number "eleven," went off round the corner of the block, and Mary continued looking for the kitten. She went on down the alley, and just as she was about to give up the search for a second time, she came full on the kitten, crouching against a fence while some boys from across the alley threw stones at it. It seemed to have lost all its strength, and crouched there in its misery, waiting for death. Mary, shaming the boys till they sneaked off behind a barn, stooped down and stroked the kitten tenderly. Then, as the little thing did not try to get away, she picked it up in her arms and went homewards as fast as she could run.

When she entered the living room she was a little surprised at the sight she beheld. There, seated in a comfortable chair, his hat on the floor beside him, was the poor old man she had befriended in the alley, and talking to him as though he were an old friend, was Mrs. Stone. And while she talked she busied herself making a cup of tea for him.

Now, Mary had expected her mother to find some light employment for the old man, but she had not expected to see him seated—like some privileged friend—in the living room, a cup of tea being made for him by the lady of the house. But her mother was not long in explaining how it happened that the old man had not been sent round to the kitchen door, where Cook would see that he was supplied with food.

"Well, dearie," said Mrs. Stone, "I shall now introduce you to an old friend—my father's most faithful servant, one who lived on our farm when I was a little girl, like you are now. I used to call him 'Somas,' not being able to say 'Thomas.' And I knew him the moment I lay eyes on him at the door a few minutes ago, and before he had spoken three words, I said: 'Why, it's old Somas.' And I had not seen him for fifteen years—not since my marriage, when I came here to live, such a long way from the old home. And then, as you have heard me tell, father and mother sold the old place and went to live with my brother, where they both died a few years ago—as you remember. But we had all lost sight of good Thomas—and here he comes in, so unexpectedly. And I am so glad to have him with us. He's worth his weight in gold. And such a gardener as you used to be, Thomas. Oh, such strawberries you did raise!"

"And I'll do it again, if you'll give the chance," declared Thomas, his age seeming to slip from him, while the hot tea he was now drinking was warming him up. "Yes, I'll be as happy as any old man can be if I may work for you, Miss Lucy, excuse me, I mean Mrs. Stone. I always think of you as little Miss Lucy." And the old and trusted servant smiled like a happy child.

"Oh, you shall never leave us," said Mrs. Stone. "But—Mary, dear, where did you get that poor kitten? It looks as though it was half dead."

"Oh, I'd most forgotten my poor little waif," said Mary, putting the kitten down on the floor. "It's a little orphan, and I have adopted it," she said. "And while you are fixing up dear old Somas I'll take kitty to the pantry and feed her. We've increased the household by two new members today. Isn't that a coincidence, mamma."

"Yes, and my little daughter is to be thanked by both man and kitten, for it's her good heart that found them both.

The man was old and thin, and his face was pale from the pangs of hardship.

Our Puzzle Corner

LETTER ENIGMA.

My first is in eat, but not in food;
My second is in fowl, but not in brood;
My third is the same as my first, you see.
My fourth is in poplar, but not in tree;
My fifth is in hand, but not in finger;
My sixth is in tarry, but not in linger;
My seventh is in snail, but not in shell;
My eighth is in tinkle, but not in bell.
My whole is an animal
That's interesting, you know.
And we're quite sure to see it
At a big tent show.

PRIMAL ACROSTIC.

This acrostic contains eight words of five letters each. If the words are rightly guessed and written one below another, their initial letters will spell the name of a game much played by college boys in the fall. The cross words are: 1. Something we walk on. 2. A color. 3. A musical instrument. 4. Something attached to a lady's gown. 5. The condition of a cold, barren hillside. 6. Something belonging to a church. 7. A place where golf is played. 8. That which comes every morning.

PUZZLE PICTURE.

Find the man who is going to pay this little boy for cleaning off the snow.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE.

This zigzag contains seven words of four letters each. If the right words are guessed and written one below another their zigzag letters, beginning with the upper left-hand letter and ending with the lower left-hand letter will spell the name of certain creatures which inhabit the earth. The cross words are: 1. The name of a chain of mountains. 2. Small insects. 3. Something fishermen use when fishing. 4. A place where agriculture is carried on. 5. That which is used to catch animals and birds. 6. A part sung by the human voice. 7. Something which makes food more palatable and wholesome.

CONUNDRUMS.

When is a storm like ale?
When brewing.
Why is a door like thunder?
It bolts.
When are sheep like paper?
When in the fold.
What insects are like false men?
Fleas; because they back-bite.
When are lamps like woodland streams?
When shaded.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLES.

LETTER ENIGMA: Kindness.

ZIGZAG PUZZLE: New Year. Crosswords: 1, Noun; 2, Heat, 3, Town; 4, Stay; 5, Wren; 6, Harp; 7, Roof.

PICTURED PUZZLE: Happy New Year to you.

If the words pictured above are rightly guessed, and written one below the other as numbered, their initial letters will spell the name of one of the presidents of the United States.

THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS FOR CONVERTING THE WORLD

Written for The Herald by E. J. Edwards ("Holland")

(Copyright, 1910, by E. J. Edwards.)

Thirty million dollars.

There are only three or four of the greater corporations of the United States that have capital in excess of $30,000,000. The greatest of American banks, with deposits of more than $30,000,000, has a capital of only $25,000,000. Andrew Carnegie gave $10,000,000 to endow a national institution for research, and that was thought a wonderful thing to do. He recently offered to give $20,000,000 if, by this expenditure, permanent pence could be established in the Central American republics.

But at the present time there is a great campaign under way, covering the entire United States, which has for its purpose the raising of $30,000,000, the income from which is to be expended in a great work of world evangelization. It isn't a Presbyterian or a Catholic, an Episcopalian or a Methodist, a Baptist or Lutheran undertaking, and it isn't to be under the control of the clergy as such. It is to be the work of laymen, who believe that, from an economic and material point of view, to say nothing of the moral or religious, the evangelization of the world will mean a very great advance in civilization, the ultimate establishment of universal peace, the creation in an honorable way of national wealth and a just distribution of wealth thus created to all who share in its production.

If you ask how this idea originated, it will be impossible to answer you by fixing an exact date. It was an evolution, an outgrowth. In New York city, for example, it was due in part to the local evangelical work established by Rev. Dr. David H. Greer before he succeeded the late Henry C. Potter as Episcopal bishop of the diocese of New York and that of Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford when he was rector of the great church of which J. Pierpont Morgan is the senior warden, a parish which reaches 12,000 persons in the heart of the tenement district of the metropolis. So, also, the evangelical work done in Philadelphia and Boston, respectively, by W. T. Ellis and Dr. Samuel Billings Capen, one of Boston's greatest merchants, led in part to the present world-wide evangelical campaign. For by these local movements the church folk, both clergy and laymen, began to realize the great power for good of properly conducted non-denominational evangelical work, and out of this realization came the larger idea, embracing the world.

President Taft in the Work.

The first emphatic demonstration of the earnestness back of the $30,000,000 movement was made in Washington a few weeks ago under the leadership of Gifford Pinchot, the great authority on the preservation of American forests. He told President Taft and the British ambassador, among other distinguished persons, that the laymen of the United States were beginning a campaign involving the raising of $30,000,000 by contributions from the leading cities of the country, and with the one express purpose of sending men and women all over the world who would teach the simple truths of Christmalty.

"Let me have some part in the work," said the president; "call upon me in any way that I can serve you." And straightway he was asked to address a great gathering in Washington on the movement, the first of some forty or fifty that are to be held all over the country this year. The biggest will be held for an entire week in New York city, and no less than 5,000 delegates are expected to be in attendance. Incidentally, it is also believed that this meeting will result in several million dollars being raised for the evangelization fund.

James Bryce, Great Britain's representative at Washington, is aiding the movement as heartily as is President Taft, and he recently summed up succinctly the reason for it. "The evangelization of the world in this generation is one of the most urgent of questions," he said, "because the moment in which we are living is perhaps the most critical of any in the history of the non-Christian races. The Christian races are permeating every part of the world for material profit. But the best results to both Christians and natives are to follow this tremendous movement—if the Christian nations are to develop national wealth in peace and under the best possible conditions to all concerned—then they must carry the evangelical truths of Christianity to all these non-Christian people." And, so, with the beginning of the New Year, the campaign is on in full blast to raise the wherewithal to send into Africa, South America and the Orient side by side with the representatives of commercial activity a great army of messengers of peace, whose only weapon will be the Book of God.

A Bishop's Unconventional Ways.

Two bishops of this denomination have identified themselves with this laymen's campaign of agitation and education to secure $30,000,000. They are Ethelbert Talbot, bishop of Central Pennsylvania, and David H. Greer, bishop of New York. Bishop Talbot's methods of spreading the gospel when he was a missionary bishop on our frontier savored strongly of the methods employed later by his colleague in Kentucky.

In charge of Wyoming and Idaho, Bishop Talbot had a very wide circuit to travel and he could be in a place for only a few Sundays at a time. One Saturday morning he reached a mining town and started right in to make announcement that he was going to hold service in the public hall next morning. He had a pocket filled with circulars telling of the meeting. One of the first places that he visited was the leading saloon. No clergyman had ever passed through the portals of that place before. With a free, easy and unassuming manner he walked up to the proprietor.

"I want to introduce myself," he said. "I am making visits to various towns in the territory to see if I can't help a little in my way. Tomorrow morning I am going to hold a service in the town hall, and it occurred to me that you'd be just the man to help me fill it."

The saloon keeper, recovering from his astonishment, warmed up to the preacher.

"I'll help you all I can," he declared, adding, "but, you see, most of the men who come to town on Sundays expect to spend the day playing faro or poker."

"Well," asked the bishop, "they will be willing to stop for an hour, won't they, to come to my service?"

The saloon keeper was filled with a sudden inspiration.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," he confided. "I'll put up your poster here, and I'll tell everybody that this saloon is going to be closed up at the time you're holding your meeting."

"That will be splendid," cried the bishop. "And now I'll introduce myself to these people here, chat with them a few minutes and invite them to come to my service."

So he passed among the frequenters of the place, greeting them cordially and telling them that he hoped they'd attend his meeting next morning and hear what he had to say.

Well, his way "took" with the crowd, the little hall was jammed for the meeting, and all through it the rough miners listened with respectful mien. Later, as one man, they sent a committee to the bishop to say that if he would only settle in the town and hold meetings regularly, they would agree to subscribe $1,000 a year for his support, and if that would not be sufficient, then they would subscribe more.

Though Bishop Greer has never been called upon to labor on the frontier or in mountain wilds, his methods of work are also indicative of the methods the $30,000,000 army of peace will follow once it has taken the field. A few months after he had become the rector of St. Bartholomews, in New York—the so-called Vanderbilt church—he got into association with the life of the East side. He talked with the people about their work, how they lived, took a man-to-man interest in them, without forcing his religion upon them, and to make a long story short, as a result of this experience he established one of the greatest of the world's parish missions, which has completely cleaned up, reformed, civilized, so to speak, that part of the city in which it is located.

His friends say that the bishop will stop and talk and make friends with anybody. One summer day several years ago, while he was out riding with a man of great wealth, the bishop happened to observe a cow in a pasture. He reined in his horse, while his friend rode on.

"That is a Jersey cow, isn't it?" he asked of the farmer.

"Yes, and she has a pedigree," was the proud response.

"A pedigree isn't worth much," retorted the bishop. "The question is, how much milk does she give?"

"Well, you guess," teased the farmer.

The preacher thought a moment. "Well, my guess is that she doesn't give much milk, because three-quarters of what she does give is pure cream."

"How did you know that?" asked the farmer. "It's the truth, all right, but how did you know it?"

"Oh, I just guessed it."

By this time the bars were down, and the farmer, leading the Jersey cow, accompanied Mr. Greer for perhaps a third of a mile, the preacher meanwhile putting many questions to his new-found companion. Not until weeks later did the farmer learn who his questioner had been, and then his comment was: "Well, if he can preach as well as he can talk about farming, he ought to be about the greatest minister in New York."

Dr. Greer is so unconventional that he does not wear the customary garb of his denomination. He looks more the banker than he does a man of God. Some one once asked him if there were any rule of his church which commanded special, identifying clerical garb.

"None whatever," was the reply; "it is mere custom. I do not care to call attention to my office by my dress. I want to call attention to my office by my manner of life."

On another occasion another friend, enthusiastically told the bishop of a plan to hold a chain of great meetings in the large cities of the Atlantic seaboard for the purpose of counteracting the falling off in church attendance.

"This is a movement to fill the churches, is it?" commented the bishop. "Well, it has sometimes occurred to me that if you fill the pulpits properly the pews will take care of themselves."

Typical Men of Affairs in the Movement.

Typical of the sort of laymen who are interested in this great laymen's evangelization movement are William Jay Schieffelen and Eben Erskine Olcott.

A direct descendant on his mother's side of the first chief justice of the United States supreme court, a member of the Vanderbilt family by marriage, a man of great wealth, and of more varied activities, probably, than any other man of his age in New York city, he being only 43—this, in brief, is Mr. Schieffelen.

With a father of great wealth, William Jay Schieffelen could undoubtedly have taken life easy. But he elected to learn the science of chemistry from the ground up. When he had done this and entered upon an active business life, which has added materially to his inherited riches, re decided to go into politics. "I am convinced," he said, "that a young man owes a duty to the community. He ought to take an active part in politics, not for the sake of getting office, but because it is the duty of every young man to make good use of such influence as he has in our civil life." So, as an advocate of good government, he has been in the heat of nearly every New York city campaign since he took up politics, and by the time that he was only 28 he had made himself so prominent as an advocate of good government that he was seriously suggested as a candidate for mayor of the metropolis by the reform element.

Four years later the war with Spain broke out. "I am going to enter the service," Mr. Schieffelen told his friends, "and I am willing to do so in any capacity in which the government is ready to receive me." He was appointed adjutant of a New York regiment and served throughout the war.

"The more I have, the greater are my responsibilities," he said to a friend who asked him why he, with his great wealth, was bothering his head about certain undertakings. It was in this spirit that he entered into the laymen's missionary movement, and today he is one of the moving forces in the work, besides being identified with various other religious and semi-religious enterprises.

A fellow-townsman of Mr. Schieffelen, Eben Erskine Olcott, is the man who was primarily responsible for the stirring celebration last fall by New York city and other Hudson river valley cities of the discovery of the river by Hudson and the invention of the steamboat by Robert Fulton. About five years ago he suggested that these events should be celebrated in the year of their tri-centenary and centenary respectively, and out of this suggestion grew the celebration which drew great crowds from all over the country and special envoys and warships from many of the nations of the earth.

A graduate mining engineer, Mr. Olcott had been in professional work only a short time when he was offered an opportunity to go to South America to undertake some very important engineering work involving the construction of bridges, aqueducts and various other public works.

"I'll go," he said; and it was while he was working in a noxious climate that he became interested in missionary work and conducted a sort of impromptu mission of his own, never losing an opportunity to carry the truths of the gospel in South America to those who had never heard of it. Meanwhile he built some of the most important public works in Venezuela and along the west coast of the continent, a work that led to his election as president of the most important and authoritative of engineers' associations in the United States, the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

A man of wealth and important commercial undertakings, Mr. Olcott has been conspicuously associated with church work, church mission work especially, and with his family he recently made a partial tour of the mission fields of the East and of Hawaii. From the start of the laymen's missionary movement, he has been one of its mainstays.

The Man at the Helm of the Movement.

The general secretary of the movement, the man on whom the details of the great campaign largely fall, is J. Campbell White, who, since his graduation from an Ohio college nearly twenty years ago, has been one of the country's better known religious agitators.

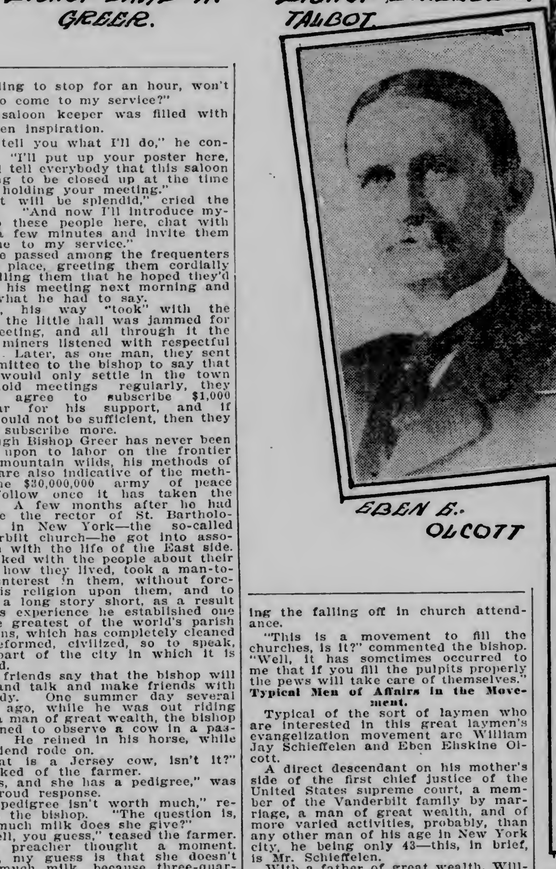

A man of stalwart figure, abundant good humor and much common sense, Mr. White first made a hit among the college boys of the country. Then he was sent to India as pioneer secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and the energetic manner in which he spread the work of that body led to the Presbyterian church bringing him back to this country and placing him in charge of its home missionary work. Then he was given his present post and today he is traveling up and down and through the land in behalf of it. It is said by those who know him that there is no more eloquent speaker on the religious and moral questions of the day. At a recent meeting addressed by him in Detroit the cheering that greeted his remarks was as prolonged as that given at political conventions. In fact, at one point in that address he had to wait several minutes for the applause to die before he could continue. And he was addressing not clergymen, but laymen.

John R. Mott, head of the foreign department of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. is one of the world's lay authorities upon missions and as such is taking a large part in the $30,000,000 campaign now well underway. He was the organizer of the World's Student Christian federation, he has been a mainstay of the Students' Volunteer movement, and in all matters pertaining to the use and employment of young men in religious work, he is a universally recognized authority.

Another high lay authority upon missions who is head and shoulders in the present movement is Robert E. Speer.

When he was getting ready to graduate from Princeton college some of his friends wanted him to become a lawyer, declaring that he would have a great field before him in that profession. Others importuned him to turn preacher, telling him that his gift of eloquence would make him a power in the land. But the young man dreamed of organizing into systematic, perfect harmony all of the religious influences of the United States so that there could be a vast increase of religious opportunity offered to the people in other lands who had never heard of the truth that is in the gospel.

So he set to work along these lines, and he has kept at it ever since. He has traveled all over South America, and the better part of Europe and the Orient, studying mission conditions and how the people who are not Christians could best be approached. In brief, he has made himself an authority on the matter of his dream, and as such he is even now in the heat of the campaign which has for its aim the raising, by next May at the latest, of $30,000,000 for world-wide evangelization. And this money, if it be raised, will have been raised not by clergymen, with the help of laymen, but by laymen with the assistance of the clergymen. For it is distinctly a laymen's missionary movement, with men of orders of every denomination enlisting in the movement under laymen and doing the work assigned them by laymen.

THE MIDDLE SPLASH.

"That is impossible," said Senator Aldrich of a socialistic proposition.

He laughed.

"In its impossibility," he went on, "it reminds me of Joe Jobson's middle splash.

"Joe Jobson, a very ignorant and pig-headed chap, presented himself at the church with his infant son for the christening. The following dialogue then took place between Jobson and the minister:

"'What name do you give this child?'

"'Peter Ananias Jobson.'

"'Ananias? I refuse to christen the child in that name. Do you know who Ananias was?'

"'I don't know who he was, and, what's more, I don't care.'

"'But Ananias was the greatest liar in all Biblical history.'

"'Well, that's nothing to me. My baby ain't no liar, so what's the difference? I want him christened Ananias because I like the sound of it.'

"'I won't do it. I will christen the child Peter Jeremiah Jobson.'

"And the minister was as good as his word, and as he repeated each name, he sprinkled a little water on the infant's face.

"'And I rub out that middle splash,' said the father, heatedly. He rubbed his sleeve across his child's wet face and sprinkled a little more water over it. 'I rub out that middle splash, substitute this one for it, and christen him Peter Ananias Jobson. And that settles it.'"

LAKE SUPERIOR IRON MINES

Year Just Closed Most Prosperous in History of Region —Shipments Next Season May Reach 50,000,000 Tons—Activity on Vermilion.

The Lake Superior iron region has never had a more prosperous season than that of the year just closed. The production of ore has set a new high record. Exploratory and development work has been carried on with greater activity than ever. There have been no serious labor troubles. There has been employment for all who have sought it, and wages have been as high as at any time previously. The shipments have not greatly exceeded the high-water mark previously registered, but when it is considered that the year did not start out with the promise of a record-breaking outgo, and that it was not until the season of navigation has been well advanced that the ore began moving until the season of navigation had been remarkable. The last half of the year was much the busiest the region has ever known.

The largest movement of ore prior to 1909 was recorded in 1907, when there were shipped from the five Lake Superior ranges a total of 42,170,973 gross tons, of which the lake fleet carried 41,685,675 gross tons. The all-rail shipments to furnaces have not yet been fully compiled, but it is estimated they have been sufficient to bring the aggregate production for the year to approximately 42,500,000 tons. As has been the case since 1901, the bulk of the ore has been forwarded from the Mesaba range. The mines of that district have contributed 70 per cent of the total production. It was not until 1895 that the Mesaba entered the shipping list, yet it has already sent out more than double the amount of ore than has any one of the other ranges, and the first of these began producing more than sixty years ago. Its output the past year has been greater than that credited to the entire Lake Superior country for any one season with the exception of those of 1905, 1906 and 1907. Of the 42,500,000 tons shipped in 1909, approximately 28,000,000 tons were from the Mesaba, 5,000,000 tons from the Menominee, something less than 4,000,000 from the Gogebic, a similar amount from the Marquette and the remainder from the Vermilion range.

The Aggregate Output.

Since the discovery of iron in the Lake Superior country, this on the Marquette range in 1844, there have been mined and shipped from the various fields 448,269,245 gross tons of ore. It was not until the season of 1895 that as much as 10,000,000 tons were produced, and it was not until 1901 that the 20,000,000-ton mark was attained. In fact, although the region has been mining ore for six decades, two-thirds of the entire production has been recorded within the past twelve years. Given by ranges, the aggregate output has been as follows:

Range—	Year Opened.	Output Gross tons.
Mesaba	1892	195,359,220
Marquette	1844	91,436,361
Menominee	1877	71,542,253
Gogebic	1884	60,834,158
Vermilion	1884	29,096,553
		448,269,245

It will not be particularly surprising if at the end of the present year the aggregate production of the region has been brought approximately to the 500,000,000-ton mark. It is the general expectation that in the neighborhood of 50,000,000 tons will be called for during the year, and the mines are being made ready. Mining and development work is being prosecuted with great vigor this winter. The opening of the season of navigation will find a great amount of ore in stock, and during the course of the summer there will be added to the shipping list a considerable number of new mines, some of which will be capable of very large production. The output has during every six-year period since 1880, which was the first year in which 2,000,000 tons were produced. Based upon this rate of increase, the time does not appear far distant when the annual shipments will reach 100,000,000 tons.

Although iron mining has been carried on in the Lake Superior region for sixty years, no limit seems to be yet set to its possibilities. The extension of the district beyond the old ranges —the Marquette, Menominee and Gogebic—by the opening of the Vermilion and later by that of the Mesaba turned exploration to new fields and the older ranges for a time ceased to be the scene of much active prospecting work. The rapid exploration of the Mesaba for awhile satisfied the demand for new sources of ore supply. Even now the limits of that range have not been taken up and the Michigan and Wisconsin districts are again receiving vigorous attention. The Vermilion, too, has again come forward and has been regarded as a likely ground for new discoveries.

Activity on the Vermilion.

It has been many years since exploratory work on the Vermilion has been as active as at present. Much drilling and much test-pitting and shaft sinking are being done. It would be premature to say that this work will result in the opening of new and profitable mines, but the conditions at some of the tracts are undeniably promising. Lands on the Vermilion have greatly increased in value the past year, and in many cases the owners are reluctant to part with their holdings, preferring to lease their tracts in the hope of eventually receiving royalty payments. Much of the new work undoubtedly has been stimulated by the developments at the Section 30 property, where the St. Clair interests apparently are proving up one of the largest deposits yet found in the district. A force of 125 men is now employed at Section 30, and development work is proceeding briskly. Shaft sinking, drifting and crosscutting are in progress. No ore is being stoped, yet a good-sized stockpile is being accumulated, and it is not improbable that in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons will be sent out the coming season. Much of the product assays better than 65 per cent. It is expected that the mine will be taken over by one of the big operating concerns.

The Cleveland-Cliffs iron company, which is preparing to open its second new mine in the territory to the west of Ishpeming, Marquette range, this in the vicinity of the old Dexter property, double dwellings, a boarding house and a residence for the mining captain. The machinery will be operated by electric power transmitted from the big central station at the Mass mine at Negaunee. The transmission lines have already been extended to the new North Lake property, three miles distant. The mine to be opened at the Dexter is expected to be a producer of considerable importance. Diamond drilling has been in progress several years, and with excellent results. The boarding-house and dwellings to be built this winter will accommodate 150 men. Increased accommodations will be provided the coming summer. At its North Lake property the company is now employing 150 men. Two shafts are going down. The mine will be a large one and it is expected that within a year or so some hundreds of men will be on the payroll.

To Try Eight-Hour Plan.

With the opening of the new year a test of the eight-hour plan is to be made at the Negaunee properties of the Breitung interests. The men will be given an opportunity to show by a three months' trial what many of them claim, namely, that as much work per man can be accomplished in the shorter period of time as is now done with the ten-hour shift in vogue. Should the result be satisfactory the new plan will be adopted permanently. The proposition has been enthusiastically received by the men. As a matter of fact, however, the mines do not actually work more than eight hours on the ten-hour system, as they come from and go to the change houses on the company's time, whereas on the eight-hour plan they are in the mines the full eight hours, taking only a few minutes for lunch, which is eaten beneath the surface. Thus all the time lost in ascending above ground for dinner is saved. The advantage of three shifts of eight hours, instead of two shifts of ten hours each, is that the mines are kept in constant operation and the maximum output is obtained. The adoption of the new plan at the Breitung properties will give employment to some 200 additional men.

It is the understanding that the Cleveland-Cliffs company is about to undertake the opening of its first mine on the Menominee range. The concern has found ore in the Iron River-Stambaugh district. It has lately added to its holdings in that field. Options to tracts in the country between the Baltic mine and the village of Saunders have been acquired, and these lands also will be thoroughly drilled. Chiefly owing to the heavy overburden, the Jones & Laughlin company has surrendered its option on the Hinton tract in section 19, 43-34. Some ore was found, but on account of the deep surface further exploration was considered impracticable. The company is still drilling in the vicinity of Runkle lake, however, and it is understood that a healthy formation has been encountered. One hole is now being driven under the bed of the lake itself. Jones & Laughlin have ore in section 15, 43-35, but how much of it is not divulged. A number of drills are in commission. Corrigan, McKinney & Co. have completed an extensive drilling program at their Great Western mine at Crystal Falls, and with entirely satisfactory results. The ore body has been located in the forty-acre tract adjoining that now being wrought. The drill has been moved to the company's Tobin mine, where a similar program will be carried out.

NEW STRIKE BY EAST BUTTE

Important Vein Discovered on 800 Level—New Furnace to Be Installed in Smelter and Sampling Mill to Be Erected.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 1.—The East Butte Copper Mining company has made an important new strike in the Pittsmont mine, on the 800-foot level, about 1,000 feet north of the main workings. The vein was cut last week and contains four feet of ore that assays better than 6 per cent copper. Drifting has been done on it only about ten feet on each side of the crosscut, but the vein and ore body are good and strong, and there is every reason to believe that they will continue throughout the length of the company's property, which is about 1,400 feet at that point. In the main workings of the mine conditions are improving from day to day. In this part of the property, which carries the eastern extension of the Butte & Boston's Silver Bow and other veins, the company is mining on the 600, 800 1,000 and 1,200-foot levels. On the 800-foot level an electric haulage system will be installed before spring. The company is developing a whole lot more ore than is being taken out, and the production is kept at the rate maintained for some months, amounting to about 150 tons of first-class and 150 tons of second-class ore per day. The first-class averages better than 6 per cent and the second-class goes about 3.5 per cent copper.

"Everything everywhere about the property of the company is looking better and improving from month to month," said Supt. Rohn, "and that is putting it very conservatively."

The company will put in a sampling mill after the first of the year and will also install another blast furnace. The smelter now has two furnaces of 400 tons capacity. When the metal market improves and the company is justified in doing so it will be in shape for a very material increase in its output and will become a very important copper producer.

At the company's lime quarries on the Northern Pacific railway, east of Butte, a new loading trestle has been built and a new quarry opened. A crushing plant is also being put in, which will work a great saving in preparing the rock for the smelters. The company has spent about $15,000 in improvements at the quarries.

THE GIROUX CONSOLIDATED

Giroux New Shaft About Completed and Plant Installed---Site for Concentrator Is Soon to Be Selected By Mr. Cole.

Ely, Neb., Jan. 1.—The Giroux five-compartment shaft of the Giroux Consolidated is practically completed and the temporary hoisting plant is ready for operation. The completeness of the equipment of the shaft and plant give a comprehensive idea of the work that is to be carried on by the Giroux Consolidated during the coming year. The shaft has been upraised in the limestone, beginning at the end of a crosscut 700 feet to the west of the 1,000-foot level of the Alpha shaft. It was in the latter shaft at this level that the Giroux Consolidated struck its rich body of ore. But the ground proved of such unstable nature that it was decided to put in the main working shaft 700 feet further to the west. From this big shaft the rich body of ore is to be worked and further operations in the limestone are to be made.

The shaft in the clear is 15 feet 8 inches in length by 10 feet in width. Two compartments, 5 by 5 feet, are to be used by 5-ton automatic skip, one 4 by 5 feet for the pipeway, and another of the same dimensions for the ladder way. The largest compartment, 10 feet by 5 feet 8 inches, will be occupied by the cage and will be the manway and for timbers. The cellar and three more sets of timbers are encased in solid concrete.

The temporary hoisting plant is one of the most thorough in the district, and it is but a reflection of what the permanent plant is to be. On a foundation of concrete there are two hoists, one 20 by 48 inches, with a drum 10 feet in diameter, and the other 26 by 40 inches with a drum of the same dimensions. It is to the workings that spur tracks have been run connecting with the main tracks of the Nevada Northern railroad, and close to the Giroux shaft, to the West the survey for the line of the Ely-Goldfield road has been made. The spur track has three branches, one touching at the Alpha shaft, another at the Giroux, and the third to be used for the storage of ore cars. The grading for the tracks has been completed and the tracks can be laid in two weeks.

The pumps are to be stationed at the 1,200-foot level of the new shaft, for the latter is to be sunk to 2,000 and perhaps 3,000 feet. Diamond drills have been used to explore the shaft both vertically and horizontally. They have gone down 200 feet and found no water, so that the station will have a stable foundation. The only drill in operation is that on the Napoleon claim between the Giroux and the Stetson shaft of the Cumberland-Ely in the limestone. But great work has been done by the drills during the summer and the fall. The Bunker Hill has been demonstrated as a steam shovel pit by the drills, in addition to the development made by the Rae shafts and it is on the cards to open up this pit in the spring about the time that the work will be commenced on the permanent hoisting plant at the Giroux.

The "Old Glory" shaft has demonstrated rich ore in the limestone and the production from the pit. Old Glory and the Giroux should make of the Giroux Consolidated mine as great, if not greater, than the Nevada Consolidated.

It is the intention to start the construction of the reduction plant at an early date. President Cole is expected here soon, at which time it is presumed that he will select the site for the concentrator. It has been stated here that Mr. Cole asserted that the plant would equal that of the Nevada Consolidated, but since the invasion of the field by the United States Smelting company it is probable that the reduction works of the Giroux will be confined to the concentrator for the handling of the product of the pit. The coming year is going to see the Giroux Consolidated opened wide and the installation of the greatest improvements yet witnessed in the district.

eralized vertical containing copper values. The vein from surface prospecting appears to have a width of about six feet, with one streak of ore particularly rich about eighteen inches wide. The metal is a black oxide of copper running 40 to 60 per cent.

The Blarney Peak Mining company ground, now owned by the Pahasa Mining company, will undergo a systematic winter prospecting. Work formerly being done on the cowboy claim a mile north of Hill City, where the shaft was originally sunk 350 feet.

On the sixty-foot level of drifting and crosscutting is in progress.

Wasp No. 2 Mining company has just concluded a deal whereby it has acquired twenty-four more acres in the Yellow Creek district. The new ground is the Wasp and Kickapoo Fraction, from James A. Snyder of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and the Reagan brothers of Canada. Some time ago the Wasp No. 2 ran a crosscut 600 feet long along the north end of the new ground and opened up some good quartzite ground in full length of this ore, the full quantity of which has not yet been determined, will be ready at once for handling, and it is almost identical with the ore on the original Wasp claim. The mill is now running at full capacity, treating 220 tons of ore daily. The company is a regular dividend payer on extremely low grade ore.

James Julius is developing his ground in Deadwood gulch lying between the Globe and Pennsylvania properties and is opening up a forty foot vertical ledge of that ground. It seems to be of uniform value, somewhat similar to the Homestake ore rather than of the phonolite type usually found in that section.

A number of St. Louis capitalists who have been financing the Pollard ground in the Rochford district have been so much impressed with the gold possibilities of the property that they are preparing to invest a large sum in more thorough development. The property heretofore has been a point mine.

development of copper ore at greater depth and this is expected within the next few weeks. Supt. H. W. Woodward of the National Mining Exploration property, has a force of about twenty-five men engaged in the underground and surface work. Sinking is going forward at the rate of fully twenty feet a week on the average.

An interesting fact in connection with the development work now being done at the National Mining Exploration mine is the nature of the formations through which the Eureka shaft of the adjoining Arizona Commercial property passed before encountering the two separate ore bodies which have yielded commercial grades of copper to supply the smelter during the past few months. An examination of the Eureka shaft shows that previous to the finding of the fire ore body, a calcerous formation was encountered and that after the shaft had passed through this first ore deposit a second stratum of limestone was penetrated and under this the second ore body was developed.

It is not unreasonable to suppose that the Williams shaft will develop very much the same conditions as those prevailing at the Eureka shaft, and, of course, if such is the case, Globe district will number one more producer among her already proven mines.

run from the Hoatson and Junction shafts, with the result that the water is being taken care of from those shafts. The Briggs has been sunk to a depth of 1,190 feet. It will be carried down to 1,500 feet as rapidly as possible. Indications in the Superior & Pittsburg properties are that the Briggs will be centrally located with reference to the ore deposits, and therefore the logical shaft for a central hoist.

Miners are at work on the 500 foot level of the Irish Mag of the Calumet & Arizona, driving drifts into the cave which was discovered there a short time ago. Every indication points to the presence of a large ore body. A drift is being run from the shaft to the cave on the 500-foot level.

Last month 1296 feet was the distance made on the drift run on the 500-foot level of the Hoatson. If the ore body, which has been cut in the 1,300 and 1,400-foot levels, is found on the 1,500-foot level, it will have proved to be one of the biggest ore bodies ever discovered in the district.

The water level in the Junction is now reduced to the 1,500-foot level, and development work is progressing steadily between that and the 1,400-foot level.

Drifting on the 400, 500 and 600-foot levels continues at the Powell shaft.

The combined shipments of the Calumet & Arizona and the Superior & Pittsburg companies are now averaging 1,600 tons daily to the Calumet & Arizona smelter at Douglas. This rate will probably be maintained until there is a material increase in the price of the metal.

pany, and that the plans provide for several additional compartments to the shaft eventually. The West Gray Rock mine of the Butte & Boston company, another Amalgamated concern, is being sunk deeper, now being down 1,100 feet. The Butte & Boston mines are the shallowest copper properties in the Butte district, the deepest mine of that company being the East Gray Rock, which is only 1,600 feet deep.

Good Find in the Gagnon.

The Gagnon company, owner of the Gagnon mine (Amalgamated), has found practically a new mine on the 2,200 and 2,300 levels of that property, after the mine was believed to have been practically worked out, and it has justified the company in deciding to sink a new, vertical shaft to take the place of the old Incline. The new shaft is now down about 400 feet and will be taken down 2,300 feet where it will be connected with the lowest level of the mine. The Gagnon belonged to the Colorado Mining company when the Amalgamated acquired it. The Colorado also owned an old smelter, and it was soon found that both mine and smelter were practically worthless. The smelter was immediately dismantled and the mine was operated at a constant loss until the shaft was sunk deeper and the new levels opened. New ore bodies of high grade copper and silver were opened and the veins on these levels have been gradually improving with development.

The Parrot company is one Amalgamated concern that finds it difficult to make a satisfactory showing. Its old mine, the Parrot, is not carrying out the history of the camp in disclosing richer ore bodies at greater depth. On the new level, at a depth of 2,200 feet, the work on the vein has been distinctly disappointing. The vein is comparatively small and of low grade. At the old levels at the 1,600-foot level and up, the mine is still yielding good quantities of ore, and recently some new ore bodies of high grade have been opened there. The company is opening a good property in the Little Mina, but it is a small mine and will probably remain so, as its vein is not large. However, it carries high grade copper ore, bearing high silver value.

Altogether the Amalgamated companies did 141,858 feet of new work during 1909, consisting of drifts, crosscuts, raises and shafts.

The most important work of development that has been done during the year in the Butte district was done by the Butte Coalition company, which has been steadily sinking the Tramway and Rarus shafts deeper and opening new levels from each. The Tramway is now 2,000 feet deep and will be sunk 200 feet deeper. Three new levels have been opened from the Tramway into the Minnie Healey ground, the lowest being at a depth of 1,700 feet. Three new veins have been opened on the 1,600 and 1,700 levels of the Tramway and all reports are that they contain the richest copper ore bodies ever opened in the Butte district. The Tramway is the main working shaft for the Minnie Healey mine, the shaft of the latter mine having been abandoned on account of caving and because of fire on the upper levels of the Minnie Healey. Practically a new mine has been opened under the fire zone, the fire being confined to old stopes on the 1,200 level. Between the fire and the next lower level on the 1,200, there is a solid ground 100 feet thick, which will remain undisturbed so long as there is any fire in the property. The Rarus shaft is 2,200 feet deep, the lowest level being on the 2,000, but the shaft will be made 100 feet deeper and several additional levels will be opened. Some new ore bodies have also been opened in the Rarus. The Coalition company enlarging the air shaft on the Rarus, which to a depth of 1,600 feet connects with all the underground workings of the Rarus, Tramway and Minnie Healey.

The North Butte.

The North Butte company completed its main working shaft to a depth of 2,200 feet and is opening two new levels at the 2,000 and 2,200-foot level, but because of a strict system of secrecy that has been inaugurated and is being enforced by the company little information can be obtained about the development work details. Rumors are, consequently, persistent, that the new levels are unsatisfactory. Considerable lateral work has been done on the 1,600 and 1,800-foot levels. On the 2,200-foot level a long crosscut has been extended to the Jessie vein which has been reached and a drift started on that ledge. South of the shart, both on the 2,000 and 2,200-foot levels connections have been made with the Speculator vein and the workings of the High Ore mine and Anaconda company for purposes, largely of ventilation and drainage. During the past year the North Butte secured control of the Granite Mountain claim, owned by the Lewisohns, and the shaft is being raised from the lower levels to connect with the old opening which was down 900 feet. Levels are being connected with the shaft on the 700, 1,200, 1,600 and 1,800-foot levels. Raising is being done from all these levels, and it is anticipated that the shaft will be completed about the middle of next summer. It will be used for an additional working shaft. The Gem shaft, just north of the Jessie, has been sunk from the 700 to the 1,800-foot level and is being connected with all the mine workings and used as an air shaft.

Considerable development work has also been done in the Clark mines—the Original, Steward, Elm Orlu and Poser. The latter is not yet producing, but the Elm Orlu is a new mine, which is yielding about 300 to 400 tons of ore per day. It carries a high percentage of zinc and a concentrator for zinc has been added to the Butte Reduction works, for the purpose of handling the Elm Orlu ore.

The zinc industry has offered encouragement to some of the Butte companies and the Butte & Superior has decided to mine some of its zinc ore in the Blackrock mine. A 500-ton concentrator is now erected near the mine and it is stated that the mine will be able to yield 500 tons of ore per day for ten years. In the meantime the company will continue its development work and search for copper, which its promoters believe will be found when sufficient depth is attained.

Butte-Ballaklava.

The most important company that has entered the producing list is the Butte-Ballaklava company, owner of a mine in the east of the Speculator and Edith May mines, of the Nortie Butte company, and adjoining these properties. The Butte-Ballaklava has been developed to a depth of 1,400 feet and four crosscuts have been opened, one of them on the 1,400-foot level, starting eight feet of copper glance and bornite. The shaft is being raised an additional compartment which work has been interfering with shipments of ore, but will be completed shortly, when the company will be able to ship 300 to 500 tons of ore daily. A new hoist and frame have been received and will be put up at once.

The largest independent operating company in Butte is the East Butte Copper Mining company, which recently absorbed the Pittsburg & Montana Copper company. It is operating both the old East Butte mines and the Pittsmont, and the Pittsmont smelter, turning out 30,000 tons at the rate of 1,000,000 pounds a year. Since the East Butte took over the Pittsmont the cost of production has been reduced from 13 cents to 10 cents per pound, and the mines have been placed in excellent condition. They are capable of outputting double the present production without effort.

The Tuolumne Copper company has also developed a producer out of the Tuolumne mine, and work of the development has been resumed by the Rex company, but it will be a long time before the latter can hope to become a producer.

The Davis-Daly Copper company has been confining its work entirely to the Colorado mine, which has been opened by levels to a depth of 1,500 feet. The shaft is down 1,800 feet and will be sunk several hundred feet deeper. The Colorado has been shipping ore for some time, but not at much profit, because of the low grade of the ore and the high treatment charges exacted by the smelters. There is much difference of opinion as to the chances the Colorado has of developing into a big mine, but the Davis-Daly management seems to be confident that it will become one of the big mines of the Butte district.

The British-Butte Mining company, which promised much and loudly, has suspended operations with its gold dredge just west of Butte.

The Year's Production.

During the calendar year of 1909 the Butte mining companies produced 310,-552,453 pounds of copper, compared with 269,165,640 pounds in 1908, and 240,-887,516 pounds in 1907. The production by months in 1909 was as follows:

Month—	Pounds.
January	26,592,608
February	24,871,730
March	28,977,510
April	25,347,428

cutcheons on the doors; the curtain and portiere rods; the drawer pulls, and frequently the castors on the furniture in the living room; the hooks and eyelets on your laced shoes; some of your bedsteads, doubtless; the alarm clock that calls you betimes in the morning and the works of all the other clocks in the house; the telephone bells, wires and fittings; the gas fixtures and electroliers; most of the buttons that are of metal on everything you wear; your chafing dish, even if it be of sterling silver; the solution with which the gardener sprays the rosebush on the lawn; your fourteen-carat gold studs and sleeve-links —which means an alloy of fourteen part of gold to ten of copper—even madam's wedding ring and her jewelry —all contain copper!

Users and Consumers.

You sweeten your matutinal coffee with sugar manufactured in huge copper vacuum pans, as you read the news printed on paper made of wood pulp cooked in copper vats. To mention, even most briefly, the varied uses to which copper is put in modern life would occupy a column, and the recapitulation would read like a catalogue of all the arts and sciences. Again, new uses for the metal are arising almost daily. Automobiling, since it became general, has stimulated the industry, but the governing factors that may be counted upon to shape the destiny of the metal are the tremendous advances achieved by applied electrical science during the decade, and the world-wide movement for the conversion of waterpower into electrical energy. Copper, with a conductivity approximating that of silver, which ranks first in the scale, is electricity's handmaid, and she will accept no substitute. Ten or a dozen years ago trolley roads were more or less of a novelty and were confined, generally speaking, to the larger cities and their immediate suburbs. Today there are 45,000 miles of trolleys in operation in the United States, utilizing more than 47,000 tons of copper for power transmission alone, and each successive year sees vast areas gridironed with new tracks. A single American telephone company — country-wide, to be sure, in its reach—maintains 235,000,000 pounds of copper wire in operation, and in a single recent year added 50,000,000 pounds of new wires to its lines. The domestic consumption of copper in 1909 is estimated at 780,000,000 pounds, an increase of about 8 per cent over last year's totals; and the American mines furnish nearly two-thirds of the world's supply.

Hydro-Electric Power.

What figure will this country's consumption of copper attain three years hence, when the hydro-electric powers now in process of development throughout the length and breadth of the land are brought to full perfection and each begins to distribute power, light, heat and electrical impulse over areas the boundaries of which are the circumference of circles hundreds of miles in diameter?

What will it be when the general electrification of the terminals and the suburban service of all the great trunk lines temporarily interrupted by the panic of 1907, is resumed?

What will that annual consumption amount to if the country continues to advance during the next decade in the same ratio of progression that has marked this one?

Unless Mr. Morgan had read the answer to these questions very clearly in his own mind, it is safe to assume that he would never have attempted the Herculean labor of harmonizing the warring copper interests.

Production Expands.

The time was ripe for the effort. Stimulated by the extravagant prices attained by the metal during the latter part of 1906 and the beginning of 1907, when copper touched 26 cents, dozens of abandoned properties were revamped and put in order for production, while scores of new deposits were opened up. The advent of 1909 found some of these concerns producing copper at a net loss of from 2 to 3 cents a pound, with the metal ranging around 14 cents, and as the year progressed and copper declined to 12¾ cents, most of these copper companies closed their mines. By Nov. 1, 1909, the world's visible supply of copper stood at 385,-000,000 pounds, and the American surplus at 153,500,000 pounds. The demand for the metal was steadily increasing and the market price was moving up. Between Nov. 1 and Nov. 13 more than 325,000,000 pounds of copper were sold for immediate and future delivery at a mean price of 13½ cents. Much of this improvement, doubtless, is justly attributable to Mr. Morgan's advent into the copper situation and to the inauguration of the series of conferences on Nov. 14, but the movement of copper toward higher price levels was plainly apparent some time before these events occurred.

The resumption of the electrification of the New Haven road's suburban system marked the beginning of the movement, inasmuch as copper people accepted it as an indication that the railroads generally would soon again come into the metal markets. In December the Pennsylvania railroad plans for large the construction of electric branch lines to operate through the McAdoo tunnel.

Porphyry Copper.

Had it not been for the existence of a certain insistent actuality—a stubborn fact which, like Banquo's ghost, would not down—the ever present skeleton persistently confronting the copper magnates at their well-spread banquet table—probably all Mr. Ryan's eloquence and diplomacy would have been expended in vain ere the rear owners of the amalgamated consented to consider the scheme for the unification of the copper interests. Certainly, five years ago they would not have consented; but then, five years ago the porphyry coppers were merely an engineer's dream. Today they are a reality to be reckoned with. Increasing from month to month in their importance and bidding fair to become in the not too distant future a factor of paramount moment in the metal market.

Since geologists will not attempt to classify even the commonest specimen until they have examined a microscopic section of it, the reader must perforce accept as a definition of porphyry, as used in this article, a series of igneous rocks more or less speckled in appearance, of varied chemical composition, very widely and constantly distributed throughout the West. In fact, among the Nevada miners any rock that is not distinctly quartz, granite, limestone, sandstone or shale is called porphyry. Prior to 1905, this particular porphyry which contains copper attracted scarcely the slightest attention. Few geologists and engineers who had examined the rock and had recognized the minute particles generally distributed throughout the ground mass as a high-grade sulphide of copper all believed that the rock was far too lean to be worked profitably.

Nevada Mines.

In the United States there was one man of ample means who had faith from the very beginning in the workability of certain porphyry copper deposits in Nevada. Month in and month out James Phillips, Jr., the president of Butte & Boston, a subsidiary company of the Amalgamated, and promptly identified with many other producing copper companies, kept a force of men tunnelling and stoping in a Nevada hillside. The deposit seemed to be of great extent and singularly uniform in ore values. True, its average copper tenor was less than 2½ per cent; but then, the rock was decomposed, friable and, therefore, possibly might be cheaply worked. It was then, in the early days of 1905, that the copper world first began to hear vague rumors concerning porphyry copper. But a railroad was necessary, as the mine lay far away in an alkali desert, 150 miles from everywhere. Mr. Phillips built it. Last year the property produced and marked 34,527,823 pounds of copper.

The older companies, working veins and hoisting the ore from depths varying from one-quarter to half a mile, cannot begin to compete in low cost of production with vast deposits mined by steam shovels working practically at the surface in shallow pits, notwithstanding that the copper tenor of the veins is generally much higher. But this cupriferous porphyry is not confined to Nevada. The Guggenheims and many others have found that they had deposits of it.

Merger Conference.

The initiative in calling the merger conference was taken by J. D. Ryan, the president of the Amalgamated, Urban H. Broughton, the son-in-law of the late Henry H. Rogers, and Benjamin B. Thayer, the president of Anaconda—in other words, by the Amalgamated, Utah Consolidated and Cole-Ryan interests. To these gentlemen is due the credit of having secured the co-operation of Mr. Morgan, who arranged that William E. Corey should attend the early meetings and guide the conference along the general lines of organization that have made the United States Steel corporation so successful. Mr. Corey is the president of the latter company and is thoroughly familiar with the complex details of its organization. The meetings were held in New York, in the offices of the American Smelting & Refining company—which, by the way, was not to form a component part of the combine.

Men Who Planned It.

Mr. Guggenheim, as the president of the Smelters Securities company, attended every meeting, as did also James Phillips, Jr., president of Nevada Consolidated, and Adolph Lewishon, president of the United Metals Selling company, the Miami Copper company, and heavily interested in the Tennessee Copper company. Messrs. Ryan and Thayer were also in constant attendance. Henry C. Frick, who is associated with Mr. Morgan and J. B. Haggin in the ownership of the fabulously rich Cerro de Pasco mines in Peru, and Thomas F. Cole, of the Cole-Ryan syndicate, which embraces Butte-Coalition, as well as the Greene-Cananea, North Butte, Giroux, Calumet & Arizona, and Superior & Pittsburg coalitions, were constant visitors. D. C. Jackling, general manager of Ray Consolidated, C. M. McNeill, president of Utah Copper, A. Chester Beatty, the consulting engineer, Charles Briggs, president of Calumet & Arizona, and Superior & Pittsburg, and the representatives of a number of other companies, mostly subsidiary, participated in the conference from time to time. Through Mr. Belmont, the Rothschilds, who control Rio Tinto, the famous Spanish copper mine with a record of production extending over 3,000 years, and the Compagne de Boleo, a close corporation operating in Baja, Cal., kept in close touch with the progress made at the meetings. It looked, however, as if, in the event of a successful outcome of the conferences, the participation of these great European financiers would be conned to the underwriting of the stock issues, and that Rio Tinto and Boleo would not form a part of the merged properties.

The Plan.

At this writing the newspapers are announcing that the merger has been declared off. Should the meeting be resumed and the combination finally go through, the precise form that it will take cannot be predicted; but this was the understood plan: A company capitalized at from $750,000,000 to $1,000,-000,000—and quite possibly at the latter sum—was to be organized to take over the assenting properties. No bonds were to be issued, but simply preferred and common stock. The producing, dividend-paying properties were to be purchased with this preferred stock, with a bonus of common stock based on merit—that is, blocked out tonnage, cheapness of production, and the like. The companies that have not yet reached a productive basis were to receive only common stock for their properties. The preferred stock, it was planned, would pay 6 per cent on par, with copper selling at 13 cents, and the common stock pay 4 per cent on par, should copper advance to 15 cents. The metal is now selling at 13¾ cents.

Apparently, it was not contemplated that any dividends should be declared upon the common stock, unless the metal advanced to 15 cents a pound. Only sufficient stock was to be issued to purchase the properties or additional proved acreage. It was the avowed intention of the participants not to jump the price of copper to the consumer to an exorbitant figure, and Mr. Morgan's co-operation was secured only upon a distinct understanding on this point.

How the Market Fluctuates.

The aim of the merger, according to the participating owners of copper mines, was to wrest the control of their product from forestallers and speculators, to eliminate waste in distribution, and to insure a uniform supply of copper as it is needed, at a stable but not excessive price. How erratic have been the fluctuations in the market quotations of the metal during the past seven years may be gleaned from this table:

Average by months expressed in cents: 1903, April, high, 14.890; January, low, 12.260. 1904, December, high, 14.890; February, low, 12.415. 1905, December, high, 18.590; June, low, 15.-000. 1906, December, high, 22.985; February, low, 17.585. 1907, March, high, 25.065; December, low, 13.162. 1908, November, high, 14.210; May, low, 12.820. 1909, January, high, 14.500; March, low, 12.250.

What is a fair price for copper? The answer of the mine owners is not unanimous; but all agree that copper should sell at not less than 15 cents nor more than 17 cents. These figures are based on the cost of production, which varies greatly in the several mines. It ranges from 7½ to 12½ cents a pound. The cost of production includes the cost of marketing, which, in not a few instances, has amounted to as much as 2½ cents a pound. The acquisition by the proposed combine of the United Metals Selling company would place the marketing of the copper in the hands of the mine owners; and this would undoubtedly effect a very material saving to the companies. A further saving, in certain special instances, would be effected by the taking over of the International Smelting & Refining company.

Independent Attitude.

The attitude of the independent producers toward the merger was far from hostile, as may be deducted from the remark of Senator William A. Clark, that although he would not join, he believed the project would be beneficial to all producers of the metal, "and," he added, "copper should sell for 16 cents." Senator Clark owns several copper mines, and one of them, the United Verde, has an annual production of something like 25,000,000 pounds of the metal.

It would be the merest guesswork to attempt to figure out from market prices alone—and these are constantly fluctuating over a wide range — the purchase price or exchange value in the merger of each of the several properties that had planned to join it. The result obtained is bound to be misleading, for, as has been seen, other factors, such as a low cost of production, developed ore reserves, transportation facilities, and so forth, in addition to the market value of the stock, would be taken into consideration by the parties to the merger. Amalgamated, for example, "notwithstanding its relatively high cost of production, posses developed ore bodies sufficient to continue its present annual output for at least twenty-five years, and, in addition, enormous tracts of timber land, coal fields, smelters, coking plants, several water powers, and the like. An estimate of the value for merger purposes of the first twelve properties named gives $501,000,000.

It is also worthy of remark that not one mine in the Lake Superior copper region, which produced last year, 225,-000,000 pounds of copper, has figured in the plans for the consolidation. The laws of Michigan, under which these companies operate, prescribe forfeiture of charter as the penalty for combining.

Marcus Daly once likened the copper business to conducting a big department store, and added that gold mining was running a peanut stand on a side street. He meant that it was the gigantic scale of operation which counted, so that a difference of a fraction of a cent a pound meant utter ruin or fabulous wealth. There was no such thing, he said, as "a good little copper mine." Copper mines were great big things or, simply, they were copper mines. This remark is just as true today as it was in the early nineties, when Daly made it.

The things that are for sale but that are not worth advertising are certain not worth the attention of serious people.

PATROL OF KEM TEMPLE OF THE SHRINERS AT GRAND FORKS

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Kem temple, the Shrine in Grand Forks which is maintained under a dispensation from the imperial council, is making a strong bid for the establishment of a high standard of work that it may be successful in securing a charter when the imperial council meets in New Orleans next summer. The Kem temple patrol, which put on the work at the recent ceremonial session in this city, has been pronounced by those who witnessed the work, as being one of the best drilled organizations in the Northwest. The maintenance of a high standard of efficiency in the patrol is always considered necessary to the procuring of a permanent charter for a Shrine, and because of the fine record that has been made by that body here, it is believed that no trouble will be experienced in securing favorable consideration at New Orleans.

ably with the best that was witnessed in previous years of abundant prosperity.

That great backlog of all of the country's interests—agriculture—prospered as never before, not so much in the matter of quantity, because bumper crops were few, but in the matter of financial returns, which, indeed, placed the farmers of the country in a class by themselves. It is true that the price advances bore hardly on the consuming classes, and there was show in the utterances of public men and journals a disposition to question the reality of all the apparent benefits that flowed from high prices.

Some Results of the Year in Trade.

The crops of the year, taken as a whole, were abundant, though few of them broke the best records of the past. The high prices ruling, however, placed the aggregate returns to the farmer at points never before reached.

While ease of money no doubt helped toward encouraging speculation in commodities, the high records of prices at time of heaviest movement showed demand waiting closely on supply. If indeed not actually surpassing it, and this too in a year when, owing to high prices of our foodstuffs, foreign demand was conspicuously small and exports fell below those of the three preceding years.

In the leading industries the story was one of large, in some cases record, expansion. Iron ore and copper production broke all records, while that of pig iron equaled the best, and building expenditures showed a phenomenal gain over 1908, even surpassing 1906.

Business failures decreased 15.7 per cent from 1908, though exceeding 1907 by 18 per cent, and liabilities were less than half those of 1908 and only about 40 per cent of those of 1907, while 17 per cent in excess of 1906. Bank clearings testified to the expansion in all lines in a gain of 25 per cent over 1908 and of 14 per cent over 1907, and even exceeded the record year 1906 by over 3 per cent. The tide of immigration, which turned in 1908, flowed strongly toward this country.

A Look Ahead.

Reasons for confidence in an excellent, if not record, trade in 1910 are many. The agricultural interest is prosperous as never before in the country's history, and the first three great crops of the year—wheat—enters the winter in excellent condition on a next-to-record area. High prices for all farm produce would seem to guarantee enormous plantings of all crops this year. Spring orders already received by jobbers and wholesalers and business booked by manufacturers practically insure the full or overtime now being run until next year's opening, and trade outlook takes more definite form.

While it might be erroneous to expect the record building expenditures of 1909 to be exceeded in 1910, an active year's business is looked for. It is generally conceded that the railroads will be free spenders for improvements in the coming year. Finally, if reports as to holiday and retail buying are correct, public purchasing power, despite high prices ruling, seems to be fairly normal.

All these things indicate activity in a high degree. Modifying or qualifying these features somewhat is the question of the effect increased price levels of commodities, and therefore of all costs of business and industrial operation, will have upon general business. These have already lessened profits and bid fair to be productive of much friction in industrial lines. If the activity confidently looked for eventuates, active money markets and firm rates would seem probable. Indeed, the calm in speculation after earlier activity resulting in new high record price levels is taken by some to indicate that the securities markets have already discounted much of the future.

Conservatism and tact in dealing with the labor situation and with the politico-economic questions which are pressing for solution would seem necessary if what now looks like a very excellent trade outlook is to be fully realized in 1910.

ARE TAKING NO CHANCES.

Bemidji Saloon Keepers Are Giving Indians Cold Shoulder.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald)—Thirsty Indians cannot get anything to drink in Bemidji, as local saloon men are taking no chances of running afoul of the government special officers. The saloon men have had large placards printed, which are posted in conspicuous places forbidding the buying or selling of liquor to persons of Indian blood. All dealers have agreed to sell no liquor to any person unless they are absolutely certain that the person is not of Indian blood. This co-operation on the part of the liquor dealers to assist the federal authorities in stopping the sale of liquor to Indians will, it is expected, have much to do with the prolongation of the liquor traffic in Bemidji.

CRUELTY TO A HORSE.

North Dakotan Alleged to Have Torn Out Animal's Tongue.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—On complaint of Mrs. S. L. Winemand of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Justice Orr issued a warrant for the arrest of Carl Densbury, a young man about 19 years of age, who has been employed on the farm of John Spiesman, in Lake township.

It is alleged that on Dec. 27, on the farm of John Spiesman in Lake township, Densbury tortured a horse by tearing its tongue loose. The horse belonged to Mrs. Spiesman. It is in a serious condition, can neither eat or drink, suffers terribly and will probably have to be killed. Its tongue was not torn entirely out, but it was badly lacerated and many of the ligaments entirely detached.

The offense is a misdemeanor and is punishable by not to exceed a year in the county jail and a fine of $500 or both.

Cuyler Adams in Africa.

Deerwood, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Culver Adams has received a letter from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cuyler Adams, written in London about Dec. 1. They sailed from there about that date for Cape Town, South Africa, and are due to reach there about the present time.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CANNOT GET THEIR DRINK

New Year's Celebration Tame Affair for Leach Lake Indians.

New Order of Things Deprives Redskins of Usual Fire Water.

Walker, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several hundred Leech Lake Indians are wondering how they are to get whisky for their New Year's celebration today, with all the saloons closed against them. New Years is the one really big day of the year among the Indians. Bucks, squaws and even papooses are out in full regalia despite the cold weather and the squaw dance which begins on New Year's eve and prolonged for several days is something looked forward to by both old and young. In past years, the whisky bottle has been very much in evidence at this time.

Like Some White People.

In fact the highest ambition of a great majority of Indians, both male and female is to get gloriously drunk on New Year's night. It's a custom that is as firmly established as is the sacred calumet or peace pipe. But this season, for the first time in the history of the tribe, the ceremonies will lack its usual color and the "heap big drunk" will be something of memory only. The more cunning ones of the tribe are doing all in their power to obtain a supply of fluid drinks, but near by villages are on their guard and are as equally determined that the Indian shall not secure booze, as the red man is to obtain it. Not a bottle of liquor is being sold in Walker this week. The citizens here know what whisky means to the Indian on this occasion and every precaution is to be taken. Unless all signs fail, it's to be a "dry" New Years for the Chippewas.

HORSE RUSTLERS ARE GIVEN DOSE

Two Convicted at Williston, N. D., Get Ten Years Each in Pen.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The final chapter in the breaking up of the famous border horse rustlers was enacted in the Williams county district court here, when the men found guilty of horse stealing were sentenced to the North Dakota states prison.

Jud Miller and Patrick Cannon received ten years each. Slim Bae, through whose confession the conviction of the other two men was secured, received an indeterminate sentence of from five to ten years, and was then given a parole by Judge Goss.

This is believed to be the final act toward breaking up a gang that has operated along the border for many years with great success.

William Coleman, found guilty of shooting a woman, received three years.

TOO MUCH DRINK CLAIMS PIONEER

Early Settler in North Dakota Found Dead in Devils Lake Hotel.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Harold Sto, aged 48 years, single, farmer and pioneer of Norway township, was found dead in a room at a local hotel, Wednesday morning.

Deceased came over from his farm from Norway township Sunday and registered at Reid's hotel during the afternoon. He was assigned to Room No. 55, where he was found dead. Dr. Jones decided that death was the result of alcoholic taxaemia, and that an autopsy was unnecessary. The deceased was a native of Gudbraman, Norway. He came to this country nearly thirty years ago and located in Minnesota. In 1882 he came to Ramsey county, N. D., and filed on a piece of land in Norway township. At that time there was only one little shack in Devils Lake. He sold his right and returned to Minnesota to spend the winter of 1882 and 1883. In the spring of 1883 he came back to this county and located permanently in Norway township, where he has since made his home. He was a successful farmer and accumulated a fine farm of 400 acres, which he still owned at the time of his death. He was a cousin of John, Peter and E. Bryn, and a nephew of Ole T. Myren, prominent and well-known citizens of the county, who came here with him in 1883.

POSTMASTER IS SUED FOR $10,000

Elias Steenerson of Crookston Made Defendant in Novel Suit.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Considerable of a sensation has been caused here by the serving of the complaint in a $10,000 damage suit in which Postmaster Elias Steenerson is the defendant and Sever Peterson is the plaintiff.

Peterson, rural carrier No. 2 out of Crookston and one of the oldest carriers in point of service, having a route out of Crookston, having received the appointment in 1904, Dec. 11 last, he was removed as the result of charges preferred against him before the fourth assistant postmaster general, in which insubordination was alleged by Postmaster Steenerson, together with carelessness, getting letters wet, impudence and a number of other alleged grave offenses. Peterson in his complaint alleges that these charges are all false and that the filing of them by Postmaster Steenerson was malicious, and that the defendant endeavored to humiliate the plaintiff on sundry and numerous occasions.

He claims that as a result of the charges filed with the fourth assistant postmaster general, as the result of which he lost his position, he has been damaged in the sum of $10,000.

It is the first case of the kind ever started in the state and the outcome will be watched with great interest.

Postmaster Steenerson is a brother of Congressman Halvor Steenerson, who is chairman of the committee on postoffices and post roads and without question there will be a merry jangle before the case is settled.

Peterson claims that Postmaster Steenerson has practically demanded servile obeisance from him since he was named as postmaster and some of the other charges will create a sensation when the case comes up for trial at the June term of the district court in this city. Thus far Postmaster Steenerson has made no statement regarding the case for publication.

FORMER BUCKET BRIGADE

To Fight Sandstone Fire Because of Frozen Hydrants.

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. Tomhave's store had a narrow escape from destruction by fire Wednesday morning. Smoke was noticed issuing from between the partitions dividing the store and bakery, and on the arrival of the fire department the nearby hydrant was found frozen. The bucket brigade was formed and extinguished the blaze in short order. Had the fire started in the night time the building would have been in ruins, as the water works system appears to be giving very little satisfaction as to fire protection.

IS FRIEND OF ZELAYA.

Son of Stillwater, Minn., Woman Close to Deposed Tyrant.

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Under date of Corinto, Nicaragua, Dec. 24, appears an article relative to the flight of ex-President Zelaya, which says that "the entire party consisted of about 100 of Zelaya's most enthusiastic friends, among them Joaquin Pasos, Louis Coasin, his private secretary, and James Hall, the American partner of Zelaya in Nicaraguan gold mines."

The James Hall above referred to is a son of Mrs. Thomas Warren of this city. The ex-president is the man who furnished Mr. Hall with funds with which the gold mines were developed. Mr. Hall expects to return to the gold fields and continue his work, although his partner appears to be forever barred.

DID NOT HEED WARNING.

Copper Picker in Champion Mine Loses Life Although Warned.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 1.—John Ranta, a copper picker employed at the Champion mine at Painesdale, met instant death by a fall of rock. Ranta was working on the eighth level, north of the C shaft, and his companions warned him that they were about to "pinch" down rock. According to the men on the level, Ranta answered "all right" when he heard the warning of his companions, and they believed he had gone to a point of safety, but he did not heed the signal and was struck by the falling rock. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The deceased was a single man, aged 23. He had been employed at the Champion mine for some time.

EX-BANKERS FREED.

Two Ashland Men Once Convicted Are Released.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. Scott Ellis, president of the defunct Security bank, and Ellis Kennedy, cashier, are cleared of any charge in connection with the indictment of the grand jury in relation to the management of the affairs of the bank.

J. Scott Ellis was convicted by a jury, but appealed to the supreme court, which set aside the verdict, holding that the evidence introduced did not sustain the verdict of guilty. Following the instructions of the supreme court, District Attorney Pierrelee went to Neillsville before Judge O'Neill and made a motion dismissing the criminal proceedings against both President Ellis and Cashier Kennedy.

CHRISTMAS IN PEN.

Moving Picture Show Music and Other Amusement for Convicts.

Stillwater, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Prison Mirror, the weekly newspaper printed inside the big state's prison here, furnishes the following account of the Christmas given to the inmates of the penitentiary:

"Christmas day was observed here in a quiet way. The first thing on the program was a vigorous constitutional in the form of a drill at 8 a. m.

"At 9 a. m. a motion picture show was given in the chapel, which was interspersed with a couple of popular songs by a young lady who possesses a sweet voice. Prof. Burchard's famous orchestra provided the music in its usual most excellent manner. The remainder of the morning was spent in the cellhouse where the local residents fraternized and gabfested to their hearts' content. Then came the chicken dinner, after which the nearly 700 boarders were filed in their respective cabinet cases, where those who so desired were permitted to write an extra letter.

"Deputy Warden Backlund and Assistant Deputy Warden Sullivan exerted themselves to make things as agreeable as possible for all the compatriots in exile within the walls."

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Hancock—The Lake Superior Iron & Metal company has added a piece of land lying upon the north side of the Ripley road to the old Hyland smelter property, recently purchased, giving the company ten acres in all, with more than 600 feet of dockage. The new piece was bought this week from J. W. Wyckoff.

Lake Linden—The Lake Linden branch of the National Protective legion is making arrangements for a social session to be held Jan. 11. Preparations have been left in the hands of a committee. Dividend checks will be distributed to about forty members of the local legion in January and February.

Houghton—A somewhat quiet wedding was celebrated Wednesday morning, when Miss Josephine Frenette of 27 Shelden street, was married to Thomas Coughlin of Hancock. The wedding knot was tied in the parlors of the pastor of St. Ignatius Catholic church, Rev. Father A. J. Rezek officiating.

Calumet — John Rapson, aged 64 years, who for the past forty years has been a resident of the Copper country, died Wednesday afternoon at his home, No. 19 Maple street, Tamarack. The deceased was born in Cornwall, England. He is survived by a wife and two children, Mrs. William Teddy of Tamarack, and William, who resides at home.

Hubbell—Announcement is made by the Hubbell Congregational church officers that Rev. Edwin C. Colbeck of Rochester, N. Y., has accepted the invitation extended to him to fill the pulpit of the church, and that he will assume charge on Sunday, Jan. 9.

Houghton—The remains of Ed Richards, who died at Newberry, on Monday, were brought to Houghton Wednesday. The funeral was held in the afternoon and the remains were interred at Forest Hill cemetery.

Calumet—S. F. Loch, proprietor of the Central hotel, who relinquished the hotel on a lease to William Chaput, of this city, has again secured possession of the hotel, and will manage it in the future, assisted by Carl Holstrom, the present clerk.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

GOOD REALTY MARKET IN SPITE OF HOLIDAYS

Several Important Deals Were Closed During the Past Week.

One Sale Nets 45 Per Cent Profit in Three Months.

Despite the fact that the week between Christmas and New Year is counted one of the dullest of the year in all lines of business, the week just passed has seen the consummation of a number of important realty deals—or at least they have come to the surface

A deal that involves a small piece of property and a comparatively small amount of money is worthy of special mention, for it is important in that it shows the manner in which money may be turned in this market. In September of this year, Emil A. Nelson purchased a fractional piece of property fronting seventeen feet on Superior street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west, for $1,700, or $100 a front foot. This week, through the office of Richardson, Day & Harrison, he sold the same piece of property to Nelson Bros. for $2,500, or a little more than $145 a front foot.

Of course the appreciation in value in such a short time is exceptional and the price may have been better than ordinary under the circumstances, as Nelson Bros. wanted the piece of property to complete a 50-foot lot for the erection of a building, but the fact remains that Mr. Nelson made a handsome profit on his investment and that West end property is on the increase.

West end business property is being closely held and sales made recently in that section of the city have been at hitherto unheard of prices. The proposed change in the street railway system to take the Grand avenue cars along Superior street as far as Twentieth or Twenty-first avenue west before turning up to Third street means much to business property in the West end and if the change is made, there will be a noticeable appreciation of values.

Another West end deal of importance is the purchase by the park board of the city of Duluth from Harry H. Harrison of Stillwater, Minn., of two and one-half acres in what is known as the vacated portion of the West Park division, lies between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth avenues west and has a frontage on Second and Third streets. The park to be established there will be known as the Harrison park. The price paid by the city was $10,250 and the deal was made through the firm of Stryker, Manley & Buck.

As noted in yesterday's issue, Lanquist & Illsley, the Chicago contractors who constructed the new St. Louis county courthouse and who are erecting the Alworth building, have purchased from the Western Land association three lots, with a frontage of seventy-five feet, on the lower side of Michigan street, between Lake avenue and First avenue east. The consideration was $22,500. Although the plans of the company have not been announced, it is said the company will establish permanent Northwest headquarters in Duluth. The property purchased is convenient to the railroad yards, and will make an excellent office site and distributing center.

When the situation is reviewed and the report of the register of deeds comes out for the year, people will realize that the year 1909 was one of the greatest in the history of Duluth real estate operations, but no year has ever opened with such excellent prospects for real estate market operations as 1910.

There seems to be no prospect of the steady realty movement which has been in progress almost since the time 1909 was ushered in being checked during the coming year. On the other hand, there is every prospect that real estate values will go up, that more land will be platted, that the city will extend in all directions with its homes and business places, and that those who now own realty will see handsome profits—on paper, if they do not care to transfer their holdings.

Real estate men are looking forward to a good year in their business. People are interested in realty. There is money to be made and people are coming to a realization that no chances are taken in buying property. It is not speculation; it is sound, substantial investment. When a man buys real estate in Duluth today, he does so not only on his own judgment, but on the judgment of thousands of others, including some deep students of economic and civic conditions, who are putting their money where they know it will be safe and where it will gather more to itself. When a man buys real estate in Duluth today, he is getting something something tangible, something that is readily saleable and something in which his money would be practically as safe as though he had taken to the Bank of England and had seen it deposited in a vault.

That's the situation at the opening of 1910. There is practically no skepticism in the market and there is very little speculation. As for manipulation, any effort to manipulate the real estate market would be frowned upon. Booms are not wanted. There is no boom in sight for 1910, but there is a steady upward movement, extending to all classes of property, and unless the well-considered opinions of shrewd business men are wrong, the end of the year will see Duluth realty on a much firmer basis than it is at present, supported by conditions and free from inflated values.

The month of December has not been a good month in the realty market, as months go generally, but compared with the same month in past years, there is nothing of which real estate men may complain. More deals were closed during December than in the same month of a good many years past. Many deals are hanging fire, but they will be brought to the closing point during the month of January. People have been hanging back during the holiday rush, but they will come forward with the turn of the year and as spring approaches, the activity will increase.

The bulk of the activity in the market now is centered on small priced residence lots which are attracting the dollars and desires of the workmen who will build their homes during the coming summer. The manner in which lots in new additions have been snapped up during the past year indicates that any new additions put on within reasonable distance from the main part of the city will find ready buyers during 1910.

A deed has been filed with the register of deeds this week covering the sale by Albert C. Hubbell to Thomas Dillon of a property fronting fifty feet on the lower side of Second street between Lake avenue and First avenue west for $14,000. The lot is improved by a brick veneered building.

• • •

J. D. Ensign has sold to Ida M. Forbes, four lots fronting 100 feet on the north side of First street, between Fourth and Sixth avenues east, the consideration not being named in the deed.

The Shogomoc company has sold to the Hartley company, lot 9, block 18, Duluth Proper, Third division, being a lot fronting fifty feet on the north side of Superior street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues west. The consideration was not made public.

Charles A. Keys has sold to H. W. Cheadle, 275 feet on the north side of Eleventh street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues east, for $1,200.

John D. Johnson has sold to Gust Gustafson, thirty-seven and one-half feet on the north side of First street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west.

Charles C. Bryant has sold to O. W. Peebles, a property on the north side of Second street, between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth avenues west, for $4,050.

The Western Land association has sold to A. E. Halvorson, two lots on the northeast corner of Sixth street and Sixteenth avenue east, for $2,000.

Bessie A. Fedji has sold to Catherine Petz, a property on the west side of Lake avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets, for $2,500.

• • •

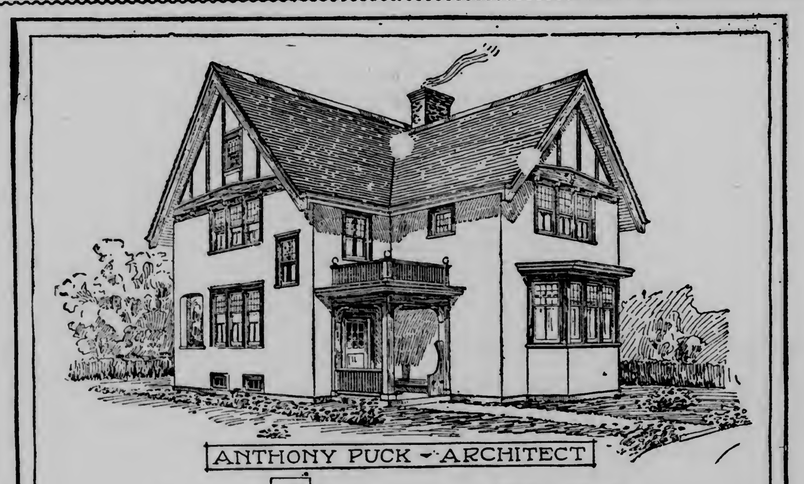

The Felix Investment company has sold to C. E. Wachtel, a lot on the north side of London road, between Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh avenues west, the consideration not being made public.

Following were the real estate transfers for the week:

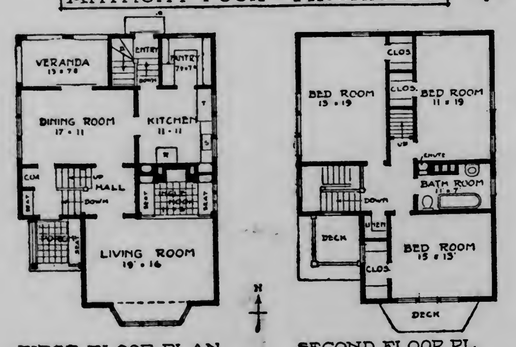

Thomas J. Andre et ux. to Duluth & Northeastern Railroad company, strip 100 feet wide across se¼ of se¼, section 12, 51-17	$53

COMFORTABLE HOME OF SIMPLE DESIGN MAY BE BUILT IN DULUTH FOR $6,200

ANTHONY PUCK - ARCHITECT

FIRST FLOOR PLAN — SECOND FLOOR PL.

In the above illustration is shown a home of attractively simple design and practical home-like plan. The exterior is treated with stucco on frame construction. The large gables, mullioned windows and general proportions are all enhancing features of the design.

In the plan a small entrance hall and staircase communicates directly with all rooms. The living room is made especially attractive by a deep bay window and tiled inglenook. The dining room is large and is connected by French windows to the veranda, which could be used as a sunroom. Abundance of light and air makes the kitchen right, its pantry and arrangement of wall space make it most practical.

In the second story are three exceptionally large and pleasant bedrooms, all most conveniently accessable from the hall. Ample closet space is provided for each bedroom. The bathroom is of good size and so situated as to be almost as convenient as an individual bath for each bedroom.

Including hot water heat and plumbing, concrete basement, hardwood finish and floors, a house as above illustrated and described is estimated to cost $6,200.

ALL BUILDING RECORDS BROKEN DURING 1909

Work Done During Year Estimated to Have Cost $3,700,000.

The Outlook for Next Spring Is Even More Promising.

Although the exact complete figures will not be available until Monday, incomplete figures indicate that the report of Building Inspector S. M. Kielley will show that Duluth has broken all records during 1909 in amount of building in any one year.

Something over 1,300 permits have been issued during the year to cover work estimated to cost close to $3,700,000, or very nearly $1,000,000 in excess of the estimated cost of work for which permits were issued during 1908.

The report is gratifying and will be an eye-opener to those who have not followed Duluth's progress closely. Published in the trade papers and municipal magazines of the country, it will attract attention to the city, as a community which is making rapid strides toward its destiny, the Pittsburg of the West.

The year has been a great one for the builders. There has been plenty of work for everybody, high wages have been paid for skilled workmen, buildings which are both beautiful and enrichling to the city have been erected, the city has gone forward with great strides.

If figures were available, it could probably be shown that more homes were built in Duluth during the past year than in any year in the city's history. The man who lives in a small circle around his home and his office doesn't know. But let him go out through the entire city, to West Duluth, the West end, Lakeside, Lester Park, Woodland and over the hills at the boulevard and on every hand, the shining new roofs of dwellings for rich and poor and well-to-do will greet him.

People are making their homes in Duluth, they are settling down to form a substantial population that will not float at a whim and will boost for the city. While the home-builders are busy, the city is moving ahead, but when the home-builders stop, the city's growth is checked.

For next year, architects and contractors would not ask better prospects. Both say that the number of big buildings in prospect at this time is indicative of a busy year coming. But big buildings will not keep everybody busy and for hundreds of workmen, there will be steady work in the number of apartment houses and private dwellings planned.

Apartment houses without number have been built in Duluth during 1909, but the movement in that direction has just begun, according to the architects. Most of the architects' work at present is the drawing of sketches, and there is an insistent demand for apartment house plans. Owners of property within easy distance of the downtown part of the city find that the returns on apartment house investments are better than on any other kind of building, especially where the sites are outside of the business district.

J. J. Wangenstein is preparing plans for the new building to be erected by the Nelson Bros. in the West end. The building will be a three-story brick building, 50x140 feet in dimensions. The first floor will be divided into two stores, the Nelson Bros.' knitting mill will be on the second floor and the third floor will be divided into apartments. The building will be of modern construction and will be one of the finest business blocks in that section of the city. Nelson Bros. recently purchased the site on the upper side of Superior street between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west.

The following permits, covering work estimated to cost $1,000 or over, were issued during the week by Building Inspector S. M. Kielley:

Peter Peterson, frame dwelling on the north side of Restormel street, between Pacific and Atlantic avenues, $1,500.

G. A. Tallant, frame dwelling on the north side of Third street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second avenues east, $5,500.

William Prindle & Co., agents, brick building on the north side of Superior street, between Third and Fourth avenues east, $8,000.

Scott-Graff Lumber company, frame lumber shed on the south side of Michigan street, between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth avenues west, $2,000.

State of Minnesota, dormitory for Normal school on part of Garden street, vacated between Colorado and Woodland avenues, $55,000.

Watterworth & Fee, repairs to fire damaged building, on the south side of First street, between Second and Third avenues west, $9,500.

Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway company, locomotive roundhouse on the south side of Michigan street, between Twentieth and Twenty-first avenues west, $9,000.

G. G. Hartley, fireproof theater building on the east side of Second avenue east, between Superior and First streets, $62,000.

John Cherrier, frame dwelling on the south side of Third street, between Thirty-fifth and Thirty-seventh avenues west, $1,800.

Mrs. Catharine Lynn, brick hotel building on the north side of Michigan street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth avenues west, $9,000.

WHEN WINTER REALLY REACHED NEW YORK

HOUSE BLOWN DOWN BY THE CHRISTMAS BLIZZARD.

COMMISSIONER EDWARDS AMONG THE STREET CLEANERS.

Commissioner "Big Bill" Edwards of New York city got for his Christmas present ten inches of snow to clear off the streets of New York in the quickest possible time. At the first sign of the approaching storm "Big Bill" commenced preparations for the struggle. He had 6,700 men at work armed with snow shovels, 1,000 carts, sixty-seven snow plows and a force of deputy assistants. At 8 o'clock in the morning they had the downtown financial district in shipshape. The big storm did a lot of damage in New York. This photograph shows a new house in the suburbs of the city blown down by the blizzard. The house had just been completed and the owner had expected to move in this week.

SEEKS TO REGAIN LAND FOR COUNTY

County Auditor Assesses Range 11, Given to Lake County in 1894.

County Auditor Odin Halden has assessed as omitted property a strip of land one mile wide on the eastern boundary of St. Louis county, comprising range 11, and a court action will probably be begun to test the validity of a legislative enactment of 1894, attaching the property in question to Lake county.

School District No. 12, which is in the tract of land attached to Lake county by the legislature in 1894, is anxious to get back into St. Louis county, and at a meeting in October, the school decided to petition County Auditor Halden to assess the district for St. Louis county and cause the validity of the law to be tested. It is claimed that the legislation of 1894 is void because the question of where a boundary line of a county shall be must be left to the vote of the people, and such action was not taken with the line in question.

Section 30, on which rich iron ore has been found, is included in the tract in dispute, and its assessment is heavy, so that a considerable amount of taxes is involved. County Auditor Halden decided to act on the petition of the board of School District No. 12, and he assessed the district as omitted property. If the taxes are not paid, an action will probably be brought to recover them, and the legislature's action will probably then be passed on by the courts.

SHERIFF MAKES HIS REPORT

Office Would Be Fat One If on a Fee Basis.

The annual report of Sheriff W. J. Bates shows that he and his deputies did $35,979.97 worth of work during the year 1909, while the expenses of the office were but $26,520.34, leaving a balance in favor of the county of $9,459.33. Had the sheriff been on a fee basis, his salary would have been $13,459.33, instead of $4,000, as under the salary system.

The actual receipts of the office were $14,061.46, and the work performed for the county amounted to $21,918.21. The salaries of the sheriff and his deputies amounted to $16,120, and the other expenses of the office amounted to $10,400.34. The sheriff is not required to submit an annual report, but the figures have been compiled for his own information.

SENT TO ASYLUM FOR INFATUATION WITH ACTRESS

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 1.—Harry A. Rheinstrom, 26 years old, member of a wealthy distilling firm, was sent to a sanitarium yesterday by order of the probate court, on account of his alleged unreasonable infatuation for an actress.

A petition for an examination into the young man's mental condition has been filed by his mother, who alleged that her son was about to marry the divorced wife of a well known jockey. Witnesses testified at the trial that young Rheinstrom had recently begun to revile his parents, and had attacked strangers in public places on the ground that he did not like them.

Rheinstrom has gained distinction as an amateur swimmer. He is well known socially, and a member of several clubs.

FIRE PANIC IN SWELL RESTAURANT IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 1.—Five hundred diners in a fashionable Fifth avenue restaurant were thrown into a panic this morning when a Japanese lantern fell from the ceiling to a window curtain, which catching fire in turn it fell on the shoulders of Mrs. Charles Ellis, who was seeing the new year in with her father and mother and brother.

Tables were overturned, women screamed and fainted, and many fled to the streets.

Mrs. Ellis was saved by two policemen who smothered her burning clothing intheir heavy coats.

THE DIVER AND HIS WORK

F. HAMPY

There is no fascination about diving, according to Capt. William E. Hoy of the tug America, who does this sort of underwater work when occasion requires.

The captain has been diving for fourteen years, and he should know.

Capt. Hoy has never gone down for valuables; never seen anything of an unusual nature under water; doesn't care particularly for the novelty of the thing, and the only remark he makes is that it is hard work, coupled with a good many chances.

In spite of the fact that divers are common in this present age of progress in all lines, people generally do not get a chance to see them at work, and it is only those that are directly concerned in the work they do, who are familiar with their equipment and the manner in which the feat is accomplished.

In the first place, a light man would never do for this work. Capt. Hoy is by no means light, weighing over 200 pounds. In audition to his natural weight, he carries a lead belt which weighs 100 pounds. This takes him right side up down through the water and holds him in position to work. A lighter man would be bottom side up in no time were he to attempt the work.

The heavy rubber armor used is not by any means light, while the headgear is of steel and screws together so that it cannot possibly come apart. In this steel head are small glass windows that the man inside may see everything around him.

Tubes are attached to the headgear and it is through these tubes that the air passes to the diver under water and allows him to breathe. The air is furnished from a pump worked by two men.

The whole apparatus is very simple and to the ordinary person seems too simple to be practical. It allows a man to stay under water for hours at a time, however, and do work that could never be done in any other way.

The life of a diver is not without its terrors and narrow escapes from death. Capt. Hoy has stared it in the face many times and, of course, he admits that it is not pleasant.

Some little unnoticed thing that might go wrong with the life line or the air, would mean instant death to the man at work, sometimes as far as seventy-five feet beneath the surface of the water. Death inside a rubber and steel cage would not be the most pleasant sort of a death and every effort is always used to prevent accidents.

Capt. Hoy was the man who walked all through the wrecked steamer Matafia in search of the bodies of men who lost their lives when that ill-fated boat met her sad fate in plain sight of hundreds of Duluth people four years ago this present month.

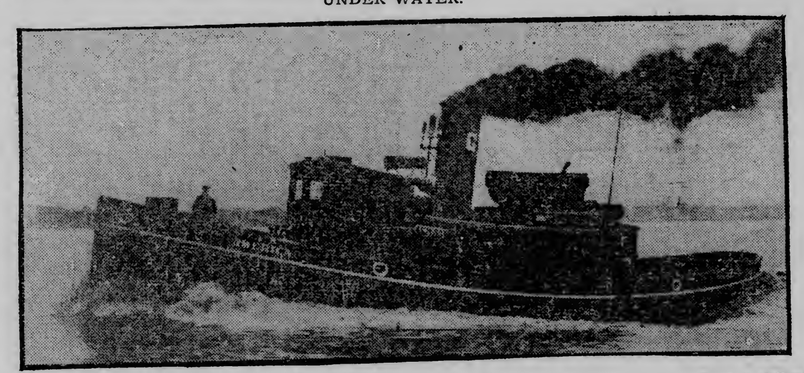

Particularly proud of this job is Capt. Hoy. It was a most dangerous undertaking to say the least. He walked all through the wrecked cabins, into the kitchen, and even into the hold, some distance below the surface of the water looking for bodies. It was a nerve-wracking job, according to the captain's story, and he does not care to go through that experience again. He went carefully through the entire boat, even into the darkest corners. He reported that there were no bodies in any place on the boat, and his statements were later found to be true when the boat was raised and towed into the local harbor to be entirely rebuilt.

The deepest diving Capt. Hoy ever did was on the steamer Thomas Wilson, which sunk about three-quarters of a mile out beyond the end of the canal piers, in about seventy-five feet of water. The Antrim in some way had her anchor fouled on the Wilson, and the captain went down to remedy the trouble. The further down a diver goes the greater he finds the pressure.

Some divers can stay under water only about half an hour at a time. Capt. Hoy has been under water continually for six hours at a stretch. This is his record, however.

EGYPT EXPLORATION FUND

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF DIGGING—HISTORY REWRITTEN BY THE SPADE.

By MARIE N. BUCKMAN, Secretary for the United States.

The Egypt Exploration Fund was founded in England in 1883 and established one year later in the United States, with the present year completing a quarter century's collaboration. From the beginning, the work of the fund received the indorsement and support of thoughtful scholars in various parts of this country. When the second annual meeting in London was held in 1884—our first year—the vice president for the United States, Hon. James Russell Lowell, represented there 171 members. The majority of those charter members are no longer this side the Nile, but upon the membership roll their names stand like sentinels guarding a long line of subscriptions—each subscription a spade for a year—recovering history, restoring the march of progress in the ancient world.

The first president was Sir Erasmus Wilson, Lord Cromer now is president, the United States having two vice presidents, Prof. W. W. Goodwin, LL.D., of Harvard college, and Hon. Charles L. Hutchinson, LL. b. of Chicago. Both England and the United States have an honorary treasurer, with a full committee in England and a board of advisors designated as local honorary secretaries in the leading cities of the United States. The national offices have always been in London and in Boston. All the honorary officials of both countries have from the first given their services to this great work.

In 1889-90 Miss Amelia B. Edwards, the founder of the Egypt Exploration Fund, in honor of the members in the United States gave a brilliant course of lectures upon the land of the Pharaohs and made Egyptology a household word on this side the Atlantic. Without her enthusiasm and self-sacrifice funds would have been lacking for excavation, whose results have not only enriched museums, but have brought to our knowledge many a lost link in the history of civilization.

Rules of the Society.

Probably no society in the world was ever organized upon a more liberal basis. The rules were: First, to organize excavations in Egypt with a view to further elucidate the history and arts of ancient Egypt and to illustrate the Old Testament narrative, in so far as it had to do with Egypt and the Egyptians; second, to publish periodically descriptions of the sites explored and excavated and of the antiquities brought to light; third, to insure the preservation of such antiquities by presenting them to museums and other similar institutions.

No one could foresee the richness of these presentations to the American side of this co-work. Life-members of the society, who sent $125 and annual members subscribing $5 annually received in return the beautifully illustrated volume for each year, and in 1901 each member of the fund was presented with a figurine of more than 2,000 years antiquity from the Shrine of Osiris at Abydos. The leading museums of the United States, such as the Metropolitan of New York, University of Pennsylvania, Haskell Museum, Museum of Chicago, Carnegie Museum of Pittsburg, Detroit Museum, Museum of Fine Arts, the headquarters of the fund in Tremont Temple, Boston, as well as many small independent museums and those connected with universities such as Leland Stanford, Jr., of California, Yale of Connecticut, Wellesley of Massachusetts and Harvard, all have received gifts of antiquities and papyri manuscripts, freely placed by the society wherever science and learning would best be promoted by their instructive value.

But the work itself is the chief consideration. It has been one long romance in archaeology. As the work was primarily organized to shed light upon the Old Testament narrative, so its first year's work opened with the discovery of Pithom by M. Naville. Pithom-Succoth of the Scriptures, where the chariots of Joseph went up and met Jacob his father, where were found the store-chambers of the three orders of bricks, where occured the advent and the exodus of Israel, still attracts the same attention that greeted its first notice of recovery in the spring of 1883. In making the announcement M. Naville wrote:

"The life of the Exyptologist knows no keener delight than that of searching out the manifold secrets which yet lie hidden beneath the sands and mounds of Egypt. Of all pursuits which the hunting-grounds of his science have to offer him, this is not only the most attractive and the most exciting, but it is that which makes the largest demand upon our patience, and which frequently rewards us in the most unexpected manner."

After twenty-five years of such labor, M. Naville could no more happily define his long experience.

Second Year's Work.

In these early years every care was used to stretch to the utmost the funds contributed by both countries to the general treasury. For the second year's work Prof. Petrie examined carefully more than twenty sites before determining the season's operations, especially noting pottery and bricks which furnished a chronological scale from which to date in connection with any antiquities found on the surface. More than twenty sites from which to choose antiquities upon the surface. What halycon days those were, to be sure. Recently a member of the society related how, upon visiting a well-known site in the Nile valley, she incidentally picked up a common pebble and was instantly ordered by a stentorian voice, "put that down."

San was finally chosen and San proved to be the ancient city of Zoan, built seven years before Hebron. But here the mounds were of enormous extent, and they consisted of a whole series of cities built one above the other with a city of Diocletian at the top and a city of Abraham at the bottom. For such a mammoth undertaking a special fund of $5,000 was raised in England by great effort and much vicarious giving, secured by eloquent persuasion.

Having chosen the site, the work was extraordinarily thorough. Every block of stone was cleared around and every fragment of inscription copied and the most complete plan and description rendered to that time of any site in Egypt.

This care in detail has always distinguished the work of the fund, whether in excavation, copying wall drawings of the Beni Hasan and other series of tombs or searching for papyri. No site is ever abandoned until everything possible to know of it is determined. The value of such a system a few years ago was clearly shown at Abydos, which has been hastily excavated by Amelineau and abandoned. The following season Prof. Petrie for the fund re-examined a tomb of Abydos that had been exploited by Amelineau and burned over. From this tomb came the wonderful bracelets of the queen of Zer, second king of the first dynasty, jewelery so beautiful, so apparently modern in its exquisite fashioning that illustrations of it went around the world, delighting scientists everywhere with the perfectly developed rosette of gold 4,500 B. C. Still other golden treasures from these royal tombs rewarded this minute examination.

Treasures in a Tomb.

From the tomb of Khasekhemui, last Pharoah of the second dynasty, were recovered six vases of dolomite marble, each with a cover of thick gold fitted over the top and secured with a double turn of twisted gold wire. This tomb was also overturned by the French, but here was found the beautiful sard and gold sceptre of Khasekhemui in two pieces, only an inch or two below the soil. The long piece of 22 inches, now in Boston, lay close to the wall of the chamber, the short piece of 5 inches, kept in Cairo, lay near this in the doorway. This sceptre is valued at $500.

The early method of the fund in excavating a site was to make a wide trench as long as the place to be cleared, to fill this trench from the mound, sifting all the earth, that no small object be lost. When the first trench filled, the second was thus ready. The movable trench year after year added to the Fund Memoirs the plans of many famous Biblical and classical cities once lost, now found after centuries of repose beneath the sands of the all-protecting desert. Though Egypt be the "gift of the Nile," no less surely are her remains the gift of the desert.

The shifting sand filtering through every crevice, shoring up leaning columns, burying priceless wall paintings, filling delicate inscriptions, packing down over the mounds preserved in Egypt such unspeakably precious remains as the Graeco-Egyptian city of Naukratis, the splendid temple of Deir el Bahara, the remarkable Hathor Shrine, over which all Europe talked for months—this marvelous goddess cow of 2,500 B. C., the like of which has never before been seen—the many Biblical sites, Pi-beseth, Hanes, Onias, the "Land of Goshen," and last of all, Abydos sacred to Osiris, sought as an eternal abode from the earliest tombs to 4,000 B. C., the time of Ptolemies.

Though Prof. Petrie and M. Naville went down into Egypt during many years for the fund, it chanced that from the beginning the Biblical side of discovery fell to M. Naville. No living Egyptologist is more cautious than he, not one more thoroughly scholar-like. When we remember that every temple is a great stone book and that every line in these stone books is read by M. Naville as easily as we read the columns of the daily papers, we may then perceive how vast is the accession to the great religious and historical history of Egypt, as recorded by him in the fourteen quarto volumes which he has so generously and carefully edited, without money and without price, for the fund.

To Resume Work at Abydos.

With M. Naville we are fortunate to have secured the co-operation of T. Eric Peet, an archaeologist with a wide knowledge of Italian and Aegean antiquities, as he has shown by his recent volume, "Stone and Bronze Ages in Italy." He has worked with Prof. Garstang in Egyptian work at Abydos and is well acquainted with the ground. This is a very great satisfaction in view of the urgent need of haste at this site. It now appears that this excavation must be made on the principle which produced such good results at Deir el Nahari. M. Maspero kindly promises to lend us the same plant which was used for nine years at Deir el Bahari. When we resume work at Abydos in the royal tombs, we will have the railway. Would that every tourist up the Nile and every one interested in these famous monuments, might do this work the honor to become a patron by sending $5 to support a spade for a year!

The resume of a quarter of a century of work in Egypt is due to so important an international organization, but the timeliness is equally unquestionable when dispatch in all three divisions of work is so imperative. Because Egypt's revelation will soon be closed at all low-lying desert places by a mountain of waters distributed from the reservoir soon to rise above Philas and all her temples, the most widespread interest is aroused.

At present there are 6,000 laborers strengthening the Nile barrage at Aswan by 23 feet of solid masonry along its face. Thirty feet too, will be added to the present height of 65 feet, 95 feet being the permanent altitude of this mighty structure whose foundations in places descend 90 feet below the river's bed and clutch the primary rock to give footing to the huge wall of Cyclopean masonry. At "high Nile" now the water reaches back on a level of 140 miles into Nubia. With 87 feet of depth to this immense reservoir the pressure will be opened far and long to reclaim the desert to agriculture. A brief two years more will finish the construction of the dam. That is the time limit for the rescue of papyri. No site is expected. Since 1897 this search has been pressed at Oxyrhynchus on the edge of the Libyan desert, 120 miles south of Cairo. This ancient capital with its vast library is not nearly cleared; it consists of many mounds. The question is, how far public interest will respond to the need, what is the importance of ancient law, science, civic life and early Christian literature to the world of today?

In the Louvre a three years' course in ancient law is studied, arranged from papyri and other documents.

So many fragments are now assembled of the "New Sayings of Jesus," that it is believed that there must have been another gospel unedited by any apostle recording the utterancess of Christ. For the chance of recovering that gospel alone, what efforts can be too great? The expedition into the Sudan to copy Mereitic inscriptions is to be as the nominee or representative of or because of any promised support from any political party or any committee or convention representing or acting for any political party." There follows a series of provisions attempting to prevent any application of "machine" politics to municipal election. One section prohibits each candidate from the use of more than one carriage to convey voters to the polls, and stipulates that the voters so conveyed must be too infirm to walk. The penalty for any offense is disqualification from office. Similar provisions in the Iowa law are too vague and too reminiscent of the old-fashioned Fourth of July oration to be of muen practical value. Indeed, throughout the Colorado Springs charter the greater specifiteness and better legal workmanship are evident.

Opportunity for the direct expression of popular will is given by the new charter. The Iowa provisions for the recall, the initiative and the referendum are all present, though somewhat modified. Upon petition of 20 per cent of the voters, any one of the five commissioners may be forced to stand for re-election at any time after the first six months of his incumbency of office. The six months' freedom recall, an innovation, is designed to allow the commissioner opportunity to work out any policies which may at first appear unpromising to the popular eyes. A petition of 15 per cent of the voters, as against 25 under the Des Moines plan, forces the council to submit any measure to popular action at a special election. Only one such special election, however, may be held within twelve months. Upon a petition of 5 per cent of the electorate, any proposed legislation, originating with the petitioners, will be submitted at the next general election. Thus the new form of government secures a maximum of direct popular control, without the unfairness expense and turmoil of frequent elections. For "half a dozen professional agitators to keep the city constantly stirred up" would be an impossibility; what "stirring up" would occur would doubtless have a very salubrious effect upon the political life of Colorado Springs.

Notwithstanding its wide adoption, municipal government by commission is yet too young to have proved itself a panacea for all of the evils of American civic rule. The new charter of Colorado Springs, however, gives promise of a solution of some of the more serious difficulties encountered by the two earlier experiments in Texas and Iowa.

GOVERNMENT BY COMMISSION

HOW COLORADO SPRINGS IS WORKING FOR CLEAN MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION.

By WARREN DUNHAM FOSTER.

(Exclusive Service, The Survey Press Bureau.)

In government by commission, another American city is attempting to free itself from municipal misrule. Following a long agitation for civic reform, the citizens of Colorado Springs have adopted a new charter which attempts to combine the best elements of the so-called Galvestot and Des Moines plans. The new form of government places all legislative, executive and judicial functions in the hands of five men elected at large for terms of four years, but adds to the Iowa provisions for the direct expression of popular will in the intitiative, the recall, and the referendum strong correlating power in the hands of the mayor, as in the Texas cities. On the whole, the new charter eliminates several of the objectionable features of the Des Moines plan, and modifies the "un-American autocracy" of the Galveston plan.

By the terms of the Iowa law, under which the cities of Des Moines and Cedar Rapids are now operating, the mayor is the presiding officer of the commission, and "head of the department of public affairs." He has no power of veto, and no power of appointment greater than that of his associates. It is his duty to bring to the attention of the council such matters as need attention, and to supervise the conduct of the other four departments. But in the absence of any "enacting clause," such supervision has proved meaningless. Under the law it would seem that the activities of the mayor, save as a member of the council were limited, greeting distinguished visitors, and acting as official press agent.

Very different is the position of the mayor under the new government of Colorado Springs. He appoints all municipal employes other than the city clerk and unskilled workmen, subject in some cases to the recommendation of the head of the department involved, and in the case of the city solicitor, to the approval of two members of the council. He may remove any employe. He may veto any ordinance making appropriation. He supervises all departments, and has the power to make his supervision more than a form. He is required to have all accounts examined at least yearly by an accountant responsible to him; he may appoint experts to inquire into the conduct of any department. "Failure or refusal of any officer or employe) to exhibit books or papers (to the mayor) shall be ground for removal."

In addition to his authority as chief executive, the mayor, as commissioner, has control of the administration of the department of water and water works. Peculiar local conditions in Colorado Springs have made the water supply a very serious problem. As commissioner the authority of the mayor is supreme, except that the approval of the council is necessary to fix rates and penalties.

Now, it may be asked, what is the need of vesting chief power in the hands of one man? Why is it not better to let each commissioner be individually and entirely responsible for his own department, without the opportunity to shoulder blame off on the mayor? Granted that under the Iowa law, the mayor is a figurehead: have not Des Moines and Cedar Rapids concluded a successful year under the new plan?

In partial answer to the first question, the successful experience of the Texas cities, with power strongly centralized in the hands of the mayor-president, may be instanced. Moreover, the activities of a modern city are so interrelated that one series of activities cannot be isolated. Correlation is necessary. But why, then, is not the correlating authority of the city council all that is necessary? The reply must be a bit categorical: Not while human nature is built the way it now is. Five men cannot always be a unit. There must be one man who, subject to popular control, is the head of every government undertaking. It is not to be denied that the year's government by commission just closed in the two Iowa cities has had at least the appearance of success. But it must not be forgotten that the new form of government was adopted and the present officers elected on a wave—one might also say in a spasm, of charcteristically American civic reform. Furthermore, the administration of Des Moines, at least, has been in the constant gaze of her own citizens and of the whole country. Thus, peculiar conditions have been favorable to good government.

The Colorado Springs charter makes several other modifications of the Des Moines plan. The Colorado document creates a department of public health and sanitation, in charge of one of the commissioners; in Des Moines the health officer and his asistants are responsible to the commissioner of public safety. "Parks and public property" and "Streets and public improvements," separate departments under the Iowa law, are united in the "Department of public works and property." The proposed charter ingeniously simplifies the machinery of election by providing that whenever a candidate at the primary election receives a majority of the votes cast, he shall be declared elected. The ballots, as under the Iowa law, shall be without designation of party affiliation. Furthermore, the charter provides that each candidate must make affidavit "to the fact that he has not become a candidate so as the nominee or representative of or because of any promised support from any political party or any committee or convention representing or acting for any political party." There follows a series of provisions attempting to prevent any application of "machine" politics to municipal election. One section prohibits each candidate from the use of more than one carriage to convey voters to the polls, and stipulates that the voters so conveyed must be too infirm to walk. The penalty for any offense is disqualification from office. Similar provisions in the Iowa law are too vague and too reminiscent of the old-fashioned Fourth of July oration to be of muen practical value. Indeed, throughout the Colorado Springs charter the greater specifiteness and better legal workmanship are evident.

Opportunity for the direct expression of popular will is given by the new charter. The Iowa provisions for the

WALSH ROADS TO BE REORGANIZED

Plans Said to Be Perfected for Southern Indiana and Chicago Southern.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Financial reorganization of the John R. Walsh railroads, the Southern Indiana and the Chicago Southern, probably will be effected in the near future, according to a story appearing in the Record-Herald. The clearing house banks in Chicago are working with the protective committee of the first mortgage bondholders of the Southern Indiana on a plan which is expected to put the banks in complete control of the properties. New securities are to be issued in exchange for present issues, and as soon as possible the railroads will be taken out of the receivership into which they were thrown in August, 1908.

Will Seek Purchaser.

It is the intention to operate the properties as an independent line until a purchaser is found who will pay a price that will let the banks out nearly whole on the amounts they advanced to the Walsh banks in December, 1905.

It is expected Walsh will sign over all his interests in the railroads to the clearing house banks Monday, and be released from obligations on the note for $7,121,881 given two years ago by him and his sons in the so-called settlement of the advance made to the Walsh banks.

MRS. SAGE GIVES YALE $650,000

Provides for Purchase of Hill House Property for the Campus.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 1.—Announcement is made at Yale of an offer by Mrs. Russell Sage to the university of a gift of $650,000, to be used for the purpose of meeting the entire cost of securing the 30-acre park at the head of Hill House avenue, known as the Sachem Wood estate, or Hill House property. The offer will be accepted.

Mrs. Sage's letter of gift, under date of Dec. 28, 1909, says:

"As a descendant of Abraham Pierson, the first president of Yale, I have an ancestral interest in that university. I have known for some time past of the efforts to obtain for Yale the Sachem Wood, or Hill House estate, as a new campus, and I know how important it seems to many members of the corporation and faculty to do so at this particular time for needed development on broad university lines.

"I understand that this property was bought about four years ago, subject to a large mortgage, by a group of public-spirited graduates, who undertook to carry it until a donor would be found who would transfer it without debt to the university.

Given Without Conditions.

"I will be pleased, if agreeable to the corporation, to pay its cost, which I understand to amount, with interest and carrying charges, to the sum of $650,000, and to present it to the university as a gift from me, without condition or restriction, payment to be made, say, on or before Feb. 1 next."

Mrs. Sage's offer will be formally accepted at a meeting of the Yale corporation on Jan. 10.

The property was purchased in 1905 by three Yale graduates, who undertook to hold it until a donor could be found for it, or until the university funds should be sufficient to meet the cost. Three New York graduates—Otto T. Bannard, William Barnum and Clarence H. Kelsey—added the temporary trustees, Gifford Pinchot and his associates, in advancing the necessary money.

It is a dangerous thing to take a cough medicine containing opiates that merely stifle your cough instead of curing it. Foley's Honey and Tar loosens and cures the cough and expels the poisonous germs, thus preventing pneumonia and consumption. Refuse substitutes and take only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

Kohlsaat Takes Record-Herald.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Chicago Record-Herald, last night gave out the following signed statement:

"My friend, Mr. Herman H. Kohlsaat, has this day acquired the Chicago Record-Herald, and beginning tomorrow morning the paper will be under his control."

HELP WANTED—MALE.

FULTON TOLD NAPOLEON HE COULD BUILD A STEAMBOAT.

Napoleon didn't believe it. By refusing to investigate, Bonaparte failed to realized the greatest ambition of his life, the invasion of England.

To every young man who can qualify, the United States navy offers a chance; a chance to see some of the United States, maybe foreign countries; a chance to become strong, erect, athletic; a chance to save money, as most of his expenses are paid; a chance for promotion to rank of officer; perhaps a chance to learn a trade, but a sure chance to learn by travel, study and high-class associates; and should he wish to leave the navy he will be in fine training for life's fight.

By refusing to believe it, by refusing to investigate, you, like Bonaparte, may fail to realize your greatest ambition, the ambition to win success.

The navy department doesn't urge any young man to become a bluejacket. It only urges him to investigate navy opportunities.

Will you refuse to investigate or will you talk it over with a recruiting officer today? You will find him obliging and glad to tell you everything. Ask him all the questions you wish. That's what he is there for. Should you decide not to enlist you will have done no harm.

If you can't call, write the recruiting office for an interesting free book which tells all about pay, play, work in the navy.

Call or write, Navy Recruiting Station, Room 16, Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn.

MILL CITY ORDER FIXING CAR FARE IS KNOCKED OUT

Supreme Court of the United States Declares Ordinance Invalid.

Company Wins on Appeal From Decision in District Court.

Need Not Sell Six Tickets for 25 Cents, Says the Opinion.

Washington, Jan. 3.—In an opinion by Justice Day, the supreme court of the United States today held to be invalid the ordinance adopted by the city council of the city of Minneapolis, Minn., in 1907, requiring the Minneapolis Street Railway company to sell six tickets for 25 cents.

The company fought the ordinance on the ground that the enactment was a violation of the contract implied in the company's charter, which, issued in 1873, was to run for fifty years, and which authorized a charge of 5 cents for each ride. The United States circuit court for the District of Minnesota declared against the ordinance. Justice Day's decision sustained that finding, but with modifications.

Impaired the Contract.

In the course of his opinion, Justice Day said:

"We think that the requirement of the ordinance that the company should operate its roads by the sale of six tickets for a quarter, as required by the ordinance, was an enactment by legislative authority which impaired the obligation of the contract thus held and owned by the complainant company. We therefore reach the conclusion that the decree of the circuit court enjoining the execution of the ordinance should be affirmed."

ARGUE ON STATE'S 2-CENT FARE LAW

Attorneys Appear Before Federal Judge Hook in Oklahoma.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 3.—Arguments were begun today before United States Circuit Judge Hook in the injunction suit brought by the railroads in Oklahoma to prevent enforcement of the state's 2-cent fare and maximum freight rate laws. Constitutionality of the act creating the corporation commission of Oklahoma is one of the principal points at issue.

"THEY WILL BE SORRY"

That Is What Dr. Cook's Brother Says About His Detractors.

He Declares the Explorer Will Prove Yet That He Told the Truth.

New York, Jan. 3.—William L. Cook, brother of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, declared today that Mrs. Cook had joined her husband and that he was in communication with them. Mrs. Cook is believed to have the explorer's original records of his North Pole quest in her possession.

"Dr. Cook has by no means abandoned his intention to prove conclusively, despite the verdict of the Copenhagen university, that he reached the North Pole," said his brother, "and his detractors will have a pretty bill to pay.

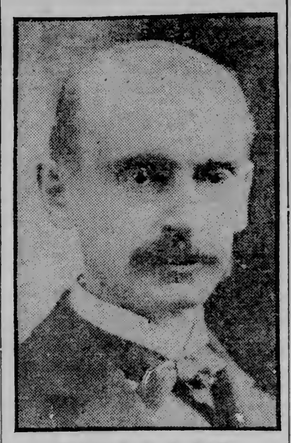

"The talk that Mrs. Cook is estranged from the doctor, and that she contemplates a suit for separation with large alimony is unwarranted. Mrs. Cook is standing by her husband, and will continue to do so until death separates them. Just now she is of immeasurable comfort to him, and together they are planning and working for the future.

Time is Not Specified.

"I have positive information that Dr. Cook and his wife will publicly appear together, and that then there will be a great change in feeling. It may be only a few weeks and it may be months before they appear publicly again. That all depends on how long it requires Dr. Cook to fully substantiate his claims."

Mr. Cook declined to say whether Dr. and Mrs. Cook were in this country or abroad.

MORSE IS IN PRISON

Convicted Banker Begins His Fifteen-Year Term in Atlanta.

Wife Declares She Hopes to Get Pardon for Her Husband.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 3. — Charles W. Morse, the convicted New York banker, sentenced to serve fifteen years in the federal prison at Atlanta, arrived here today from New York. He was met at the station by deputies and immediately hurried to the prison.

Hopes to Get Pardon.

New York, Jan. 3.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse, who follows her husband today to Atlanta to visit him in his cell at the federal prison there, will take up at once and in earnest the fight for his freedom. Mrs. Morse continues to de-

WANTS UTILITIES BOARD FOR OHIO

Speaker of Assembly Also Wants All State Offices Investigated.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 3.—At the first session of the new general assembly of Ohio, today, Granville Mooney, the speaker, advocated a public utilities commission and declared for an ample appropriation for a thorough probe of all the offices in the state house. He also recommended an amendment of laws regarding the taxation of corporations. This program is understood to have been sanctioned by President Taft in person during a conference with Speaker Mooney at the White House, last week.

The first annual message of Governor Harmon was received with decided interest. According to talk current, the Republican majority is ready to carry out many recommendations made by the governor.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MISSING PAIR

Heiress and Waiter Are Yet to Be Found By the Searchers.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 3.—Two men who called at police headquarters here today representing themselves as Philadelphia detectives and expressing confidence in the speedy capture of Miss Roberta De Janon and Ferdinand Cohen, the missing Philadelphians, are newspaper men. The police admit they have no definite clue at present.

Investigation has disclosed that there is no foundation for the story that the man and girl were traced to a hotel in this city. The pair believed to be Miss De Janon and Cohen took dinner on Saturday at a hotel in Williamstown, near here, with a mysterious third woman. The three came to this city by trolley, reaching here at 1:45, and were noticed by the conductor still sitting in the car when he left, it being his last run. No definite trace has been found of them since.

Monument Square, where the car stopped, is the meeting place for all the suburban trolley cars, and the trio could have taken a car at that point for almost any section of Lancaster county.

DETROIT BOY MAY DIE AS RESULT OF NIGHT IN STREET

Father and Son Spend Awful Night Roaming the Twin Cities.

Carl Hanson Is in Serious Condition---Parent Suffers From Exposure.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a result of cold and exposure which he suffered between 6 o'clock last night and 4:30 this morning, Carl Hanson, 9 years old, of Detroit, Minn., is apparently dying at the city hospital, and his father, though able to be about the city, is suffering from the effects of a night in the streets of the Twin Cities.

Yesterday morning Charles Hanson, the father, decided to bring his boy, who was suffering with heart trouble, to St. Paul for treatment. Leaving their home in Detroit yesterday the father and son arrived in Minneapolis at 6 o'clock last evening.

Unacquainted with the city, Mr. Hanson and his son started to walk, thinking that the doctor's office was only a short distance away. But they met none who could tell them the way, and they were forced to continue their walk in the biting wind and the snow.

Had to Carry Son.

WHITE AND NEGRO HELD FOR CRIME

Fate of Ohio Girl Is Being Investigated By Cincinnati Police.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 3.—With two men held on suspicion in connection with the murder of Miss Anna Lloyd on Saturday, the police today continued their search for the murderer.

The two men now in the hands of the police are Henry Cook, a white man, and James Fields, a negro. Cook is a butcher and Fields a laborer. Both live in the neighborhood where the crime was committed.

The police intimate they have a fair case against them and that they will be held for further investigation.

The mother of Miss Lloyd has not been informed of the details of the tragedy. She is an invalid and it is feared the shock would prove fatal.

The police of Wyoming, Ohio, a village ten miles north of this city today arrested a man who gave the name of George Lewis. The prisoner's long hair and his inability to establish his whereabouts on the night of Miss Lloyd's murder are the chief grounds for holding him in custody. His raven locks are said to correspond in length and texture with a hair found in the dead woman's clenched hand.

MEAT EATING STILL RISKY

Federal Bureau Chief Says Half What We Eat Is Not Inspected.

Dr. Melvin Declares Local Slaughtering Is Source of Danger.

Washington, Jan. 3.—That half the meat eaten in the United States can be called uninspected and that a real and serious danger to the public exists as a result, is one of the conclusions reached by Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, in his annual report to the secretary of agriculture.

Inefficiency of the government inspection because of its lack of authority to reach business done entirely within a state is given as one of the causes, and Dr. Melvin points out the

ONLY ONE JOB FOR TAMMANY

Herman Ridder Declines the Office of Park Commissioner of New York.

New York, Jan. 3.—Small comfort was found by Tammany Hall and divers political organizations today in the appointments which Mayor Gaynor has made in his municipal family, and there were writings on the city hall wall which indicated that the horde of place-seekers may expect little, if claims for office depend only on political backing.

Of nine appointments made yesterday, one alone went to a Tammany man—Rhinelander Waldo, selected as fire commissioner. Mayor Gaynor, in making known part of his slate, had some kind words for Leader Murphy, which caused one district leader to remark:

"We don't want any verbal bouquets. What we want is offices."

Herman Ridder, editor of the Staats-Zeitung, declined today the tender of the office of park commissioner.

Mayor Gaynor came early to work, and as he entered the city hall was puzzled where to find his office.

"Which way do I go?" he asked the watchman.

FINDS LIVING IS TOO HIGH

Secretary Wilson Says Somebody Seems to Be Overcharging.

Promises Investigation That Shall Spare Nobody, High or Low.

Washington, Jan. 3.—"We have already discovered that the farmer is not getting the exorbitant profits out of the beef he raises," said Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture in discussing the high prices of food supplies today.

"I have no doubt in the world," he continued, "that the same conditions will be found to prevail in most of the other lines of farm products.

"The department of agriculture has agents in every state and every county in the country, and they have been ordered to report exhaustively on the cost of production and the returns on sales of all sorts of food products. As fast as we receive these figures we will compare them with the prices the same products bring in the cities where they are consumed. We will then give the facts to the public.

Paying Too Much.

"We intend to bring out the truth, irrespective of whom it hurts or whom it benefits. I am convinced that the public is compelled to pay a great deal more for nearly everything it eats than it should, and I believe the figures will bear me out.

"There is ample excuse for some of the increase in the cost of living over what it was years ago. The farm area is not keeping pace with the demands for foodstuffs. The cities seem to have more attractions for the laboring man than do the rural communities. The horde of immigrants, as well as the ever-increasing native population, must be fed, and the farm is expected to furnish the food."

AGED WOMAN KILLS SON-IN-LAW IN DUEL

Fires Five Shots After She Has Been Wounded By His Bullets.

Dresden, Tenn., Jan. 3.—Clarence Carney faced his 65-year-old mother-in-law in a revolver fight last night and was killed by the woman's bullets.

The mother-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Griffith, had met Carney in a neighbor's front yard to discuss a quarrel of long standing. The discussion became heated, revolvers flashed, and Carney fired three times at the aged woman. Although one bullet struck her in the hip, producing a serious wound, she stood her ground, firing five times before her son-in-law lowered his weapon and sank dead to the ground. Mrs. Griffith was arrested.

About a year ago Carney's wife committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid.

TELL TAFT THEY WANT RAILROAD LAWS LET ALONE

Presidents of Six Lines Call on President to Protest His Plans.

Claim Changes Would Cause Upheaval in Business World.

Wickersham Leaves Conference on the Run, But Refuses to Talk.

Washington, Jan. 3.—President Taft had an extended conference today with presidents of the six big railroads of the country, who had requested a hearing before the special message, dealing with interstate commerce law amendments, should be sent to congress.

The conference ended at 11:30 o'clock.

The railroad men came to Washington present their views regarding various phases of the president's proposed recommendations as gleaned from speeches Mr. Taft has made from time to time. The conference is said to have had especially to do with proposed limitations as to bond issues and other securities.

Held in Taft's Office.

The meeting was held in the executive offices of the White House, and began promptly at 9 a. m. The conference was interrupted for a time at 10:30 a. m., when the president saw a number of congressional callers. After twenty minutes he returned to the conference with the railroad presidents.

Those attending the conference were President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad; President

FEARS FAMILY HAS BEEN MADE TO SUFFER

DR. SALVADOR CASTRILLO, Estrada's Representative at Washington.

FEARS FOR HIS FAMILY

Estrada's Representative at Washington Dreads Zelaya's Wrath.

Wife of Former President Remains in Managua and Is Watched.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Dr. Salvador Castrillo, Estrada's representative to this government, has grave fears that Zelaya's followers have revenged themselves upon his family for his revolutionary activities in Washington.

Castrillo's father has been imprisoned by Zelaya and he fears for his wife and children also. He has not heard from his people in more than two weeks. Cablegrams from him to Vice Consul Caldera asking after his relatives have brought no reply.

The state department will probably be asked to inquire.

The wife of Former President Zelaya of Nicaragua still remains in Managua, according to a dispatch to the state department from Vice Consul Caldera. Although no reason is obtainable for her so doing, the fact that she has not joined her husband has given rise to some suspicion of intriguers having Zelaya's return as their object, and it is more than probable that her movements will be carefully observed.

Other telegrams from Vice Consul Caldera say that Gen. Toledo has been appointed commander-in-chief of the San Juan river division of the Madriz forces and that Gen. Baztuez has been reappointed commander-in-chief of the Juarez division. Estrada is presumably pushing his preparations for an early advance either on Greytown or Managua.

TRY TO BLOW UP TENEMENT HOUSE

Dynamiters Make Attack When Black Hand Letters Are Ignored.

New York, Jan. 3.—Several persons were knocked down and shocked today and a wild panic among 150 tenants was created when, in an attempt by Black Handers to blow up a Christie street tenement house, a quantity of dynamite was exploded under the first floor stairway.

Great holes were ripped in the floor, the nearby walls were shattered, and the whole building was badly shaken. Women and children screamed and ran madly to the street.

Threatening letters had been received recently by the grocery firm of Giuseppi Gerisco & Co., which occupied the ground floor store. Gerisco said today that he had paid no attention to the letters, believing some one was trying to hoax him.

DE GRAFF NAMED FOR IOWA DISTRICT BENCH.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 3.—Governor Carroll today appointed County Attorney Lawrence De Graff to the vacancy in the district bench of Polk county to succeed Jesse A. Miller, who resigned a week ago to enter private law practice. Judge De Graff was formerly assistant attorney general.

ONCE "FIRST LADY," NOW BEGGING ALMS

Senora Barrios Seeks Food and Shelter at House in New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 3.—From a palace, where she presided as first lady of the land, to an almshouse refuge is the fate of Senora Alagera Barrios, wife of a former president of Guatemala. With an almost complete impairment of her vision, penniless and without means to earn a livelihood, Senora Barrios knocked for admittance at the Touro-Shakespeare alms here New Year's day.

Her husband, Jose Maria Reno Barrios, was assassinated a short time after his accession to the presidency. The fortune he left his wife was dissipated through mismanagement of those in charge of it, she asserts.

CZAR HELPS BEAR CASKET

Russian Emperor Then Follows Hearse Afoot Through Storm.

Risks Pneumonia to Honor Body of His Late Grand Uncle.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—In the face of a rain and snow storm today, Emperor Nicholas followed on foot the body of his granduncle Grand Duke Michael Nicholaivitch, as it was borne from the railway station, a distance of three miles, to the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul. The route of march was lined on either side by a wall of troops which insured the emperor's safety from the terrorists, but the greater danger from the elements he made no attempt to avoid.

When he arrived at the cathedral within the fortress, the emperor and others of the royalty who accompanied him were drenched to the skin. Fear was expressed that his majesty might suffer an attack of pneumonia as a consequence of his exposure, and the requiem mass was delayed for an hour to permit of a complete change of clothing.

Helped Carry Casket

The body of the grand duke was received at the railroad station from Cannes, France, where he died on Dec. 18. Emperor Nicholas of Greece, thirteen grand dukes and 100 generals and admirals, took formal possession of the body, over which a brief service was held.

The casket was then borne on the shoulders of the emperor and the grand dukes from the station and placed upon an open hearse. An imposing military escort had been provided. The line of march was down the Nevsky Prospekt, the principal thoroughfare of the city, through Savovia street, to the Feld of Mars, and thence over the Bridge of the Trinity to the fortress. The streets of the city were filled with a silent throng, but no untoward incident occurred.

Interment will be made in the new mausoleum of the Romanoffs, within the fortress, on Wednesday.

GRAIN AND SEED SHOW

Farmers of Minnesota Invited to Send Exhibits for Competition.

Annual Event Will Be Held in Capitol at St. Paul This Month.

Through The Herald an invitation has been received from the secretary of the Minnesota State Agricultural society to the farmers of this section of the state to send exhibits to the seed and grain contest of the fifty-first annual meeting of the society, to be held at the new capitol building Jan. 11, 12, 13 and 14.

There will be a large display this year of grains and seeds. This exhibit will be under the auspices of the Field Crop Breeders' association. It is particularly desired to have a large exhibit from this part of the state. In shipping exhibitors' attention is called to the fact that consignments should be sent to the new capitol, not to the old building.

The following rules governing entries and exhibits will be in force:

1. The seed entered in any and all lots must have been grown in the state of Minnesota during the season of 1909.
2. The quantity of seed entered in each lot must meet the requirements to be considered for prize money.
3. All entries must have been received by the superintendent of exhibits, not later than 5 o'clock on Jan. 11, 1910. Those sending samples by express should govern themselves accordingly.
4. All samples sent in by express must be prepaid to St. Paul, Minn., and addressed to Field Crop Breeders' Fair, care new capitol.
5. All samples entered for premiums shall become the property of the Field Crop Breeders' association and may be offered at auction or private sale at the close of the meetings.
6. No one sample can be entered in more than one class and lot.
7. No person shall be allowed to enter more than one sample in each lot.
8. Exhibits must be of high quality to be allowed prizes.

NO CONFERENCE ON THE STRIKE

Perham and the Mediators Are Unable to Meet for the Time Being.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Parties to the conference regarding the situation of the striking switchmen of the Northwestern railroads agree today that no developments have arisen since last Friday.

H. P. Perham, the representative of the switchmen, called at the office of the interstate commerce commission today with a view to a resumption of his conferences with Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor, the mediators under the Erdman act. Chairman Knapp was obliged to forego the conference with Mr. Perham because of important work with the commission, and Dr. Neill was out of the city for the day. Mr. Perham said there were no developments of any kind in the situation and would not be probably until he had further conferences with Chairman Knapp and Dr. Neill. Substantially the same statement was made by Chairman Knapp.

REPORT ON OPEN MARKET

Details of Plans Will Be Submitted By Sub-Committee.

Was Probably Last Work Done By Late O. H. Simonds.

Probably the last work done by the late O. H. Simonds was the completion of the report of the open market sub committee of the Public Affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club, of which he was chairman. The complete Affairs will be submitted to the Public Affairs committee at its meeting this evening.

Several preliminary reports of progress made, have been submitted from time to time by the open market sub committee, and the members have placed themselves on record as favoring the establishment of a co-operative market here, which will be in charge of some competent, man who will see that the produce shipped in by the farmers is promptly handled. It is believed that in the report tonight the details of the plan for the co-operative market will be explained.

The report of this committee will probably be the chief matter of importance to come up tonight. The committee on statistics of the cost of living has secured some valuable figures, but its work is not yet complete. The terminals committee will also probably ask for a little more time, and the traffic committee will simply report progress, as its work now consists largely of routine matters and detail work.

By the time the co-operative market is opened there will be at least a score of farmers' clubs organized in the county and ready to ship produce to Duluth. A. B. Hostetter, who has charge of the agricultural work for the Commercial club, has been active during the last few weeks, organizing farmers' clubs, and he now has fifteen such organizations, all of which are actively interested in the plans for an open market here, to which they may ship. The last of these was organized last week at Munger, Minn.

RAILROADS

RETURNING TO OLD POSITIONS

Eight Striking Switchmen in Northern Pacific Back at Work.

K. M. Nicoles, superintendent of the Superior division of the Northern Pacific, received a telegram from E. C. Blanchard this morning, informing him that eight of the union switchmen of the company had returned to work.

Three of the men returned to work last night, according to the statement of Mr. Nicoles, the other five resuming their positions this morning.

There is no change in the situation at the Head of the Lakes. As yet, none of the other roads have reported any of the striking switchmen returning to work, yet the superintendent say they have enough men to do the work that is required of the railroads.

WITHINGTON IS PROMOTED

Succeeds R. N. Marble, Who Has Resigned From Active Service.

George T. Withington, formerly cashier of the local office of the Alger-Smith Lumber company, will succeed Ralph N. Marble, who has resigned as secretary of the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company.

The promotion of Mr. Withington will become effective as soon as Mr. Marble makes him familiar with the duties of the position.

Mr. Marble has been with the company since it began doing business in this state, and resigns to enjoy some leisure earned by his long years of service. Mr. Marble will go south with his wife, where he will spend the winter.

CONDITIONS ARE NEARLY NORMAL

Superintendent Says Great Northern Is Not Seriously Handicapped.

D. H. Philbin, superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Great Northern railway, stated today that there are sixty men working as switchmen in the employ of the road at the Head of the Lakes at the present time, and that the road was doing approximately 80 per cent of its normal business in this division.

Mr. Philbin said the road will be able to do more business when the men in the employ of the Great Northern as switchmen become more familiar with the yards.

However, he stated that the company was doing more business at the Head of the Lakes today than it was at this time last year. Mr. Philbin says that the coal movement is very heavy at the present time. None of the old switchmen of the Great Northern have returned to work, according to Mr. Philbin.

JUDGE LURTON KISSES BIBLE

New Supreme Court Justice Takes Oath and Assumes His Seat.

Washington, Jan. 3—The new associate justice, Hon. Horace H. Lurton of Tennessee, took his seat today on the bench of the supreme court of the United States. Following the reading of Mr. Lurton's commission by Clerk McKenney, the oath of office was administered by that official in the presence of an imposing array of attorneys and members of congress. After kissing the Bible on which the oath was taken, Mr. Lurton assumed his seat on the extreme left of the chief justice.

HUNT THE SOUTH POLE IN BALLOON

Russian Army Officers Will Carry Wireless Outfit With Them.

Paris, Jan. 3.—Messrs. Matthiessen and Voltschock, officers of the Russian army, purchased today two dirigible balloons, capacity 1,400 and 2,000 cubic meters. With the balloons the officers will undertake an expedition to the South Pole.

The explorers plan to convey the balloons with hand-gear equipments by ship as far North as the ice will permit, and thence proceed in the balloons southward. By means of a wireless outfit the two men will keep in touch with their ship, their base of supplies.

SIGHT REAL COLD WAVE

Weather Bureau Officials Say Country Will Catch It Now.

Frigid Grip Scheduled to Settle on Both North and South.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Out of the Northwest is coming a second cold wave which weather bureau officials promise will spread during the next thirty-six hours over the entire country east of the Mississippi except Eastern Florida. Appearing in the extreme Northwest today, the Arctic-like wave is attended by the coldest weather of the season in that region. A temperature of 44 deg. below zero showed on the thermometers at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, this morning and zero temperatures are reported from the northern plains states, the Northern Rocky mountain region district and the northern portion of the plateau region.

Some Snow, Too.

This old-fashioned winter weather prevailing today in the Northwest will advance eastward, reaching the coast by Tuesday evening, and will hold the entire North and South in a frigid grip. Unsettled weather generally will prevail through the Eastern country, with rain in the South and snow in the North and snow or rain in the intermediate districts. Whether the fall of snow in the Northern districts will be sufficiently heavy to tie up traffic is not announced.

Cold wave warnings were today ordered for Sault Ste. Marie and Alpena, Mich., and Northfield and Burlington, Vt.

Trouble on the Ohio.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Crumbling ice gorges and a rise of two feet in the Ohio river here within forty-eight hours kept owners of river craft and property of the exodus seat today. The chief danger lies in a gorge at Medoc bar at the mouth of the Big Miami river.

MANY WOLVES BEING KILLED

Settlers Are Sending Hides in at a Great Rate.

Wolf hides are now about the most common thing about the county auditor's office.

The season is in full swing and the $15 each looks mighty good to those who live in the wilderness.

There are about a dozen of the skins that have come in during the past week laying about the office. The odor is not the nicest in the world and the county officials wish the owners would come in and claim the property, so that the skins could be disposed of. They are usually sent by express, with no name, so there is no way of telling to whom they belong.

A batch was received this morning from Hibbing and a notation on the express card said "more to come." "That is the way," remarked a county official, "not content with one, that fellow is probably out hunting some more wolves while his one skin remains here and we are forced to suffer."

During the past few days the skins have been coming in very rapidly and it is likely that the county will pay more bounties this year than ever before.

NEITHER NATION WILL ADMIT HIM

Negro Ex-Convict Furnishes Material for Diplomatic Program.

London, Jan. 3.—A negro who claims American citizenship is an unwelcome guest of the Union Castle steamship line at Southampton, pending the outcome of diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Great Britain to determine the man's nationality. The negro was deported from South Africa, after he had been convicted of a crime and had served a sentence in a British prison. He was refused permission to land at New York.

The negro is George Howard, 43 years old, who was deported from the United States July 25, being returned from New York to Liverpool on the White Star liner Arabic. He had arrived in New York after deportation by the British government, but was unable to convince the port authorities at New York that he was entitled to entry into the United States.

SHOW SCHEME TO FIGHT CANCER

Manila Doctors Vaccinate Victims With Virus From Their Own Disease.

Manila, Jan. 3.—A conditional and preliminary report of what it is hoped will prove to be a successful specific treatment for cancer was presented before the Manila Medical society today. The treatment consists of making the patient immune from the further progress of the disease by the use of vaccine prepared from his own cancer.

Experiments have been made during the last eight months, both in cases where an operation was possible and where it was not. A variety in the manner of the progress of the disease has been afforded for experiment and the results uniformly show encouragement. A number of the patients who apparently had been cured were exhibited before the society by the originators of the new method.

Before accepting the treatment as successful the medical authorities here express a wish to watch these cases during an extended period for a possible recurrence of the malady.

JOHN LIND IS DULUTH VISITOR

Former Governor Silent on Politics, But Discusses University Matters.

Ex-Governor John Lind of Minneapolis was a visitor to Duluth today. Mr. Lind came to the Head of the Lakes Sunday and yesterday was the guest of John Uno Sebenius. He spent today in Duluth visiting a few of his many friends here.

Mr. Lind is a regent of the university and is greatly interested in the work of the university. He stated to The Herald that the medical building, recently destroyed by fire, would be replaced by a new steel structure, which would add greatly to the appearance of the campus.

A large law practice occupies all of the time of the ex-state officials. Mr. Lind has little to say of state politics. He spoke enthusiastically of the work that was being carried on at the university, stating that Minnesota was now one of the great educational institutions of the country, and was recognized as a school broad and progressive in its aims.

Mr. Lind was accompanied to Duluth by his young son.

McEWEN RETURNS TO ST. PAUL

Investigation of the Alleged Swindling of Greek Laborers Is Postponed.

W. E. McEwen, state commissioner of labor, returned to St. Paul yesterday, after a visit to Duluth to investigate alleged peonage conditions in Greek laborers' camps on the Great Northern railway, between here and the Mesaba range and Grand Forks, N. D.

Mr. McEwen will return in a few days and until then the investigation will be temporarily halted. He will secure more testimony from laborers before deciding what action will be taken.

The Great Northern is investigating the alleged sale of passes, issued for laborers, to other persons. The investigation, it is said, does not concern the offices at the Head of the Lakes.

Neil J. Buckley, deputy high chief ranger of the Catholic Order of Foresters will install the officers elect, of the Catholic court, No. 976, tomorrow evening.

Soft Coal Prices Higher.
The wholesale price of Youghiogheny lump and Hocking and smokeless bituminous coal was advanced 15 cents a ton Saturday. The reason given for the advance is a scarcity of the product. It is claimed that mining companies and manufacturing industries have used considerably more than was estimated. The price is said to be about the average level for coal of this grade at this season of the year.

Boy Out of Danger.
Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Boyer announced this morning that their little son, who has been dangerously ill of pneumonia, is greatly improved and his complete recovery is assured.

Women Plead Guilty.
Myrtle Holmes was arraigned in municipal court this afternoon charged with keeping an immoral house at 1119 West Michigan street. She pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. Dora Vincent and Anna Smith pleaded guilty to being inmates of the same house and each paid a fine of $50 and costs.

For Stealing Chickens.
Peter Miller was arrested by the police this afternoon charged with petit larceny. He is said to have picked up a case of chickens at Second avenue west and Michigan street and to have carried it to Lake avenue. There, it is said, he had just opened the case and was in the act of taking two chickens from it when a cop arrived on the scene and took him in charge.

Travel Fairly Heavy.
H. E. Still, assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, was in the city today. Mr. Still gave the information that the passenger business is fairly good for the dull season of the year.

A RARE SPECTACLE.

Lippincott's Magazine: The following amusing incident occurred some years ago in Northwestern Missouri.

A gentleman went to a small primitive village for the purpose of inspecting some land which he had owned for a number of years, but had never seen. Reaching the place one evening, he secured lodging in a small house.

The next morning, he went to the back of the house, where on a bench was a tin wash basin and near at hand a barrel of water and a dipper. After washing his hands and face, he took from his pocket a tooth brush, and, pouring some water on it from the dipper, proceeded to brush his teeth.

A small boy of the house watched him for a few moments in unfeigned astonishment, then yelled: "Oh, mom, come quick and see the fellow sharpening his teeth!"

THE PEDESTRIAN.

Lippincott's: Chug-chug!
Br-r! br-r-r!
Honk-honk!
Gilligillug-gulligillillug!

The pedestrian paused at the intersection of two busy cross streets, and looked about.

An automobile was rushing at him from one direction, a motorcycle from another, an autotruck was coming from behind and a taxicab was speedily approaching.

Zip-rip! Zing-glung!

He looked up and saw directly above him a runaway airship in rapid descent.

There was but one chance. He was standing upon a manhole cover. Quickly seizing it, he lifted the lid and jumped into the hole—just in time to be run over by a subway train.

AN ANATOMICAL WONDER.

Senator Beveridge was criticising the ludicrous speeches of a certain upright but hot-headed congressman.

"He does make queer blunders, doesn't he?" said Senator Beveridge. "Have you heard about his latest?"

"Well, it seems that a constituent, visiting him recently, complained of the shabbiness of a pair of ink-stained crash trousers that he had on.

"'A man of your position,' said the constituent reproachfully, 'ought to wear handsomer trousers than those.'

"The congressman, offended, answered reproachfully:

"'My trousers may be shabby, but they cover a warm and honest heart.'"

NEW BOARDS ARE NAMED

EXPLORING FOR COPPER

Red Metal Has Been Found in Numerous Places Near Duluth.

Shaft Was Sunk Forty Years Ago Near French River.

The announcement in The Herald Dec. 23 that explorations for copper are being conducted at Lester river has started the old-timers to calling up reminiscences and scientific men to speculating on the prospects of the red metal being found in paying quantities in this vicinity. Float copper in small quantities has been found all over Duluth. One chunk, picked up at Lester river some years ago, weighed 100 pounds. The only well defined vein heretofore known to exist, however, runs from the old Masonic temple to the new Y. M. C. A. building and the amygdaloid formation contains copper in considerable quantities.

The fact that copper has been found in Duluth is taken by some to indicate that there is a large vein of the red metal in this vicinity. No very extensive explorations were ever made. In 1869 and 1870, a drill was operated at French river, but very little money was spent before operations were discontinued. Some work was done years ago back of Grand Marais, but copper was not such a factor in the commercial world at that time as it is now and people were not so willing to spend money to explore and develop.

Edward E. Lewis has written an interesting letter to The Herald, doubting the existence of the vein now being explored in just the formation in which it is said to exist, but expressing his belief in the existence of copper in the vicinity of Duluth. Mr. Lewis, who is now at Doble, Wis., working on an iron mining proposition, worked on the north shore for years, and probably knows as much as any man about the geological characteristics of the district.

Mr. Lewis' letter in part follows:

"Doble, Douglas County, Wis., Dec. 23, 1909.

"To the Editor of The Herald:

"My attention has been called to your article of Dec. 23, headed 'Exploring for Copper Within City Limits, etc.'

"This is not a new nor a recent discovery. The existence of copper along the north shore from West Duluth to Pigeon river, the international boundary, was known before the present explorers were born. Take French river as a starting point. Mining for copper here is a venture over fifty years old, and at least $75,000 has been sunk in vain endeavors to establish its commercial value.

"Your article says, 'The branch vein is said to start near Clifton, in 24, 51-13, and run to the mother vein in 36, 52-14.' Note the course, almost north and south, cutting the topography of the country, which is in conformity with the lake formation, northeast and southwest. Again, the article says that a diamond drill is being operated in the southeast quarter of section 20, 52-13, which is, in its general course, over two miles northeast of section 36, 51-13. Let your readers take a map and trace from section 24, 51-13 to section 36, 52-14, where the exploiters say the mother vein is. Then from there trace to the southeast quarter of section 20, 52-13, where, it is said, the diamond drill is operating. What does the tracing show? A vein running north of northwest from sections 24, 51-13 to 36, 52-14 to the mother vein, and from there another vein running northeast to the southwest quarter of section 20, 52-14. No sane man would for one moment believe such an incredible story.

"Copper can be found in innumerable places along the north shore, as I have personally examined over fifty localities. Copper in Duluth? Sure thing.

"It is not generally known, but none the less true, that the block on the corner of Second avenue west and First street, now occupied by Bayha & Co., is built on a copper vein more than sixty feet wide, which extends under the alley north of the building, and in its general trend passes under the northeast corner of the Y. M. C. A. building on Third avenue west. A well defined copper lode, composed of amygdaloid and talcose formation; also a strong mineral condition, showing copper exists under the library building. Other places could be mentioned within the city limits proper, but we have taken too much space already."

RUNNING FIGHT WITH YEGGMEN

Police Capture One and Wound Another at Suburb of Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—A thrilling chase through the snow and a revolver fight with two men who attempted to rob the postoffice of Norwood Park, near this city, resulted today in the capture of one robber and the supposed wounding of the other. The captured robber, who gave his name as Otto Olson, is said to have confessed a number of safe blowings. Bloodstains in the snow led the police to believe that the man who escaped was wounded.

JOHN D., JR., GRAND JUROR

Foreman of Body Which Is Investigating Traffic in Women.

Judge Tells Them That No Half Way Work Will Be Permitted.

New York, Jan. 3.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was today sworn in as foreman of a grand jury, the special mission of which will be an investigation of the so-called "white slave traffic."

When Judge O'Sullivan observed Mr. Rockefeller's name among those drawn for the special grand jury, the judge immediately asked him to assume the foremanship. Mr. Rockefeller begged to be excused, pleading ill-health and a stress of personal business matters.

"We have a very important inquiry to pursue," said Judge O'Sullivan, "and I believe that you owe the community this duty."

Mr. Rockefeller withdrew his excuse, was sworn in as foreman and took immediate charge. He will meet with the special grand jury each week day during the month, or until the body is ready to make a report to the court.

Judge O'Sullivan in his address to the grand jury directed that the white slave traffic be thoroughly investigated.

Present Law Adequate.

"It is not enough that we should await federal action or seek new legislation," said the judge. "The existing law is adequate to punish specific offenders. If you find that active agents in the commission of any of these offenses have been acting under the direction of others, or that others have directly or indirectly procured the commission of any offense, such persons are equally as guilty as the active participants. And the fact that such other persons are not or were not at the time within the state of New York does not deprive you of jurisdiction.

"The main object which I desire you to keep in mind throughout the investigation," continued the court, "is the uncovering, not alone of isolated offenses, but of an organization, if any such exists, for a traffic in the bodies of women.

City's to Foot the Bills.

"The law's machinery is at your command. The wealth of this opulent city is at your call. The sympathy and sentiments of its law-abiding citizens are with you. Your inquiry should not be satisfied by any half way answer. If organized traffic in women exists in this city, the law is adequate to end it and punish the persons engaged. If such traffic does not exist, your inquiry should end forever the sensational slanders against the city of New York."

WISCONSIN MAN WILL FLY AT LOS ANGELES

A. P. WARNER OF BELOIT.

A. P. Warner of the Warner Instrument company of Beloit, Wis., has entered his Curtiss biplane in the airship contests at Los Angeles, Jan. 10 to 20. There are fifty-eight airships entered, including aeroplanes, balloons and dirigibles.

SETTLERS IN TERROR

Farmers Near Sucker River Fear Armed "Wild Man."

John Votella Goes Insane and Threatens to Kill Neighbors.

John Votella, 60 years of age, and said to be a raving maniac, is roaming with a gun on his shoulder in the vicinity of Sucker rover. So afraid of him are the settlers in the vicinity that they today visited the county probate office and filed information of insanity against him.

Votella, who is said also to have gone under the name of Maki, threatens to shoot persons on sight and the settlers dodge behind boulders or underbrush when he is seen approaching.

The settlers are very much disturbed over the matter and they wish him sent away so that their lives may become more peaceful. They say he appears at the most inopportune times and is always ready to give chase to those who happen to be within reach of his voice.

He seems to know that he is greatly feared and seems to take delight in his ability to frighten those with whom he comes in contact. Although he has as yet done nothing worse than frighten people, the settlers are in grave fear that he will suddenly take a notion to carry out his threats.

Nothing is known of his relatives. He is of Finnish descent and owns the farm on which he lives with his family. They seem to have no fear of him, but the neighbors have not been able to get close enough to find out the secret of getting along with him.

It is probable that officers will be sent after him and an examination will follow in the probate court.

A SURPRISE FOR JIM.

Lippincott's: A mission worker in New Orleans was visiting a reformatory near that city not long ago when she observed among the inmates an old acquaintance, a negro lad long thought to be a model of integrity.

"Jim!" exclaimed the mission worker. "Is it possible I find you here?"

"Yassum," blithely responded the backslider. "I'se charged with stealin' a barrel o' sweet pertaters."

The visitor sighed. "You, Jim!" she repeated. "I am surprised!"

"Yassum," said Jim. "So was I, or I wouldn't be here."

TWO BIRTHS FOR EVERY DEATH

Nearly 1,900 Births During 1909, Compared to 950 Deaths.

The grim reaper was left far behind in Duluth last year in the race between life and daeth. Close estimates secured at the health department this morning show that the birth rate has been twice as great as the death rate. There were nearly two births to each death in 1909. It is figured that the total number of births will be between 1,850 and 1,900, and the total number of deaths will approximate 950. The figures are not all in yet, vital statistics being generally delayed, particularly the births, some being filed with the department one or two months behind time.

STANDPIPES FOR SPRINKLERS

Engineer Says Present System of Filling Carts Ruins Pavements.

T. F. McGilvray, city engineer, will suggest in his annual report, that the city purchase about fifty standpipes to be attached to hydrants for filling sprinkler wagons.

During the entire summer and late into the fall the use of the hydrants leaves water dripping from them continually, resulting in ruined walks and pavements when the ground freezes. The ground is soaked with water and the expansion caused by freezing starts considerable heaving.

There is scarcely a crossing or gutter in the city that is not cracked and bumped entirely out of shape in this way where hydrants have been used for filling the sprinkling wagons. An ordinary hose is now attached to the hydrant to connect with the wagon. The covers become loose and it is seldom that the water is shut off tight. Also, the cart frequently overflows.

With the standpipes, which would curve over a hole in the top of the wagon, this would be avoided. Considerable money would be saved in pavements and cement walks and the appearance of the city improved. Speaking of the matter this morning a members of the department said that any one walking along the streets can notice this if he will but take the trouble to look.

It is estimated that fifty of these standpipes would be sufficient. They cost about $60 apiece, which would entail an outlay of $3,000.

ABSENT-MINDED.

Head Keeper Snyder of the Central Park Zoo was smiling over a newspaper account of a monkey that had died of love.

"It's a good story," said the head keeper. 'This reporter has an original turn to him. He's like the Western jury.

"A Westerner, you know, once hung himself to the bed post by his suspenders, and the verdict of the coroner's jury ran:

"'Deceased came to his death by coming home full and mistaking himself for his pants.'"

D. E. H., 1-3-'10.

"Everything smiles. We're at peace with all the world, and the world wants a piece of our prosperity."

1910 will take the cake for prosperity in Duluth, and we wish you your share.

Every Economical Buyer Knows the Advantages of

Our Grand Annual White Goods Sale

Housekeepers, Hotel, Restaurant, and Club Managers are invited to see the wonderful values we are offering this year. Notwithstanding the recent advances in all kinds of cotton goods, white goods and linens of all kinds, we protected ourselves and our customers by buying heavily, months ago, and are in a position to quote prices, in some instances, less than the goods can be bought at from the mills today. Read Carefully the Following Items—every one of them is a money-saver and a money-maker to the purchasers.

Ladies' Muslin Undergarments

Daintily made, exquisitely trimmed Undergarments of Muslin. Not an accumulation of odd sizes and unsalable styles from last season, but a fresh, new stock, every garment of which is from the best manufacturers in the land.

No Sweat Shop goods from dingy lofts in the tenement districts of the cities, but just the reverse. The best output of clean, well ventilated factories, cut by skilled artists, designed, put together and finished by healthy, rosy-cheeked women.

Thousands of snowy-white garments are offered in this sale. Made of superior quality Muslins, Cambrics and Nainsooks, and trimmed with the daintiest and newest laces and embroideries. Every garment is cut amply full, is cleanly finished and sewed in a most expert manner. Materials alone would cost you as much, and in some cases more, than we ask for the finished garment.

A comparison of prices will quickly convince you that there is but one White Sale of any consequence in Duluth!

Embroideries of Rare Fineness Lowly Priced

For months back we have been preparing in this department; aiming to offer the public of Duluth and vicinity the most thoroughly complete stock of embroideries ever brought to the Head of the Lakes. That we have succeeded in assembling it will be widely known tomorrow, and that we have succeeded in securing some of the best values ever shown either here or elsewhere is a foregone conclusion. The buying powers of this store are widely known, but have never been better demonstrated than in this tremendous stock, which will go on sale tomorrow.

We imported direct. That in itself insured our patrons a saving of both the importers' and jobbers' profits. Then again, the enormous quantities which we procured brought liberal cash discounts. All these you may benefit by tomorrow, and also have the privilege of choosing from the finest assortments in Duluth. New colored embroideries, new designs, on barred and striped Swisses, new Madeira embroideries, new baby sets of insertions, edges and flouncings to match.

CLUB PLANS NEW RESORT

Tettegouche Club Has 1,500 Acres of Land in Lake County.

Will Build Clubhouse and Cottages for the Members.

The Tettegouche club, a social organization for the enjoyment of an extensive game and fish preserve in Lake county, has been organized by Duluth men and a state charter has been taken out. James A. Ferguson is president, John Millen, vice president, B. W. How, treasurer, and H. B. Fryberger, secretary. They, with William Harrison, Frank A. Brewer and Ralph N. Marble, form the first board of directors.

The club owns about 1,500 acres of land in Lake county, a virgin tract hardly touched by the hand of man. There are trout streams with proven supplies of the toothsome speckled beauties, lakes with other varieties of the piscatorial tribe in their depths, deep forests in which deer and moose are said to abound in quantities that insure good hunting for the club members in the open season for those big game of the north woods.

The club plans the erection of a large central clubhouse and a number of cottages on the lakes and streams for the use of the club members. A summer resort is planned which will exceed in natural beauty, quiet and enjoyment features any other resort in Northern Minnesota. The plans are not entirely completed, but it is expected work will be begun on the resort in the early spring.

The organizers of the club plan a membership of forty or fifty members and title to the holdings of the club will be vested in the corporation. Now that the state charter is secured, the charter membership will probably be extended immediately and a limit of membership will be fixed by the by-laws.

The purpose of the club as stated in the articles of incorporation is of a social nature and the promotion of the health and happiness of its members and their families through the bettering of the facilities in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties, Minnesota, for the enjoyment of country life and acquiring property, both real and personal, necessary or desirable for the erection of clubhouses and the maintenance of of game and fish preserves and the maintenance of health resorts and doing such other things as may be incidental to the general purpose of the organization.

ORDERS ARE NEGLECTED

Sewer Connections Ordered By Council Are Seldom Made.

Plumbing Inspector's Report Shows Strange Condition of Affairs.

The annual report of Charles Bigdon, plumbing inspector, illustrates the uselessness of ordering sewer connections made in the city, despite the fact that they play an important part in guarding the health of a community.

Out of fifty-three connections ordered by the council after being recommended by the health department, but six were made. This is due to the fact, apparently, that when the council orders a connection made, the person to whom the order is directed, goes to his alderman, who takes it back to the council. There it seems to die a natural death, as forty-seven were brought back to the council and no action taken upon them. Not one order directing sewer connections was cancelled by the council in 1909 and but one in 1908, according to the figures contained in the report.

Each Monday night Dr. F. J. Patton, sends a list of connections which ought to be made to the city fathers. They are read and part of them ordered, which seems to end it. When asked about it this morning, Dr. Patton said: "We are making some progress, but it's altogether too slow."

The report shows that the office did considerably more work in 1909 than in 1908. The number of permits issued was 821 compared to 751 in 1909; 804 plumbing inspections were made compared to 658 in 1908; seventy-five drains were inspected and twenty-three inspections made at the directions of the health department.

The number of fixtures installed in Duluth was 4,115 in 1909 and 3,949 in 1908.

The earnings of the department over all expenses were $1,016.90 as compared with $872 in 1908.

RECORDS FOR MONTH BROKEN

Heaviest December Tonnage in History in Month Just Closed.

The month just closed saw the heaviest shipping the port of Duluth has ever seen in the month of December. There were thirty-six boats out, with a total tonnage of 252,967, and forty-seven boats in with a total tonnage of 115,579 tons. In Two Harbors there were five boats in light and five boats out with 31,100 tons of ore.

The outgoing tonnage at Duluth is classified as follows in the statistics in the office of the collector of customs: Wheat, 1,185,380 bu; rye, 20,000 bu; flax, 1,386,442 bu; ore, 174,400 tons; lumber, 1,900,000 feet; lime, 1,550 bu; merchandise, 670 tons, total tonnage, 252,967 tons.

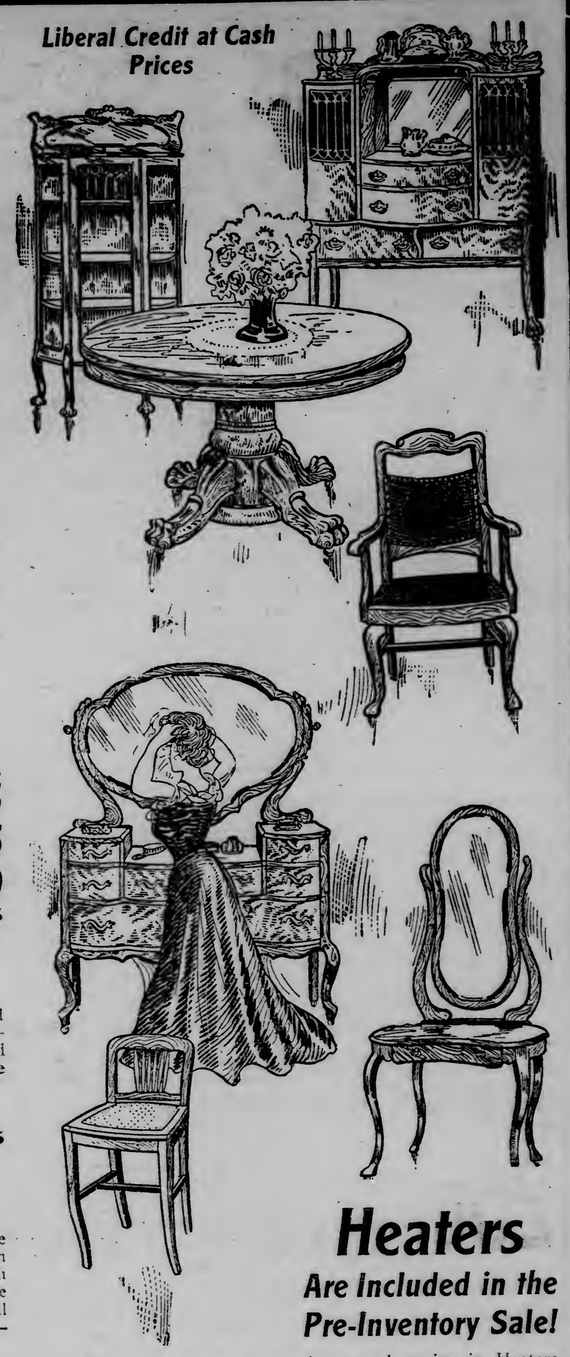

The cargoes received were as follows: Coal, 86,040 tons; apples, seven barrels, cement, 3,300 tons; iron, 19,-082 tons; fish, 1,500 pounds; merchandise, 5,405 tons; total tonnage, 115,570 tons.

In December, 1908, only twenty-four boats arrived in Duluth and they carried 46,420 tons and there were but nineteen vessels out with 60,679 tons.

NEW DEPOT IS OPENED

Soo Road Is Now Receiving Freight From Duluth Shippers.

The new freight depot of the Soo opened for business this morning. By noon there was a large amount of freight for local points in the new depot for shipment.

According to the statement of B. A. Vanderberg, who is in charge of the depot, large consignments of freight were received from many of the Duluth wholesale houses, with the prospects that there would be more freight brought to the depot this afternoon.

Before the opening of the depot, freight for local points on the Soo and various points on the Canadian Pacific, was either shipped around by the Northern Pacific to a connecting point with the Soo, or was teamed to Superior. It was the same way with freight from the West, consigned to Duluth from points on the Soo.

The opening of the depot on this side of the bay will mean that freight will be shipped directly to and from Duluth. It will mean a great convenience to the large shippers of this city.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE WAS A FAILURE.

George Ogren, a Bowery "swamper," made an unsuccessful attempt to shoot himself through the heart yesterday in the "U & I" saloon. By some strange freak the bullet did not penetrate deep enough to kill him. It could be felt without the aid of instruments when he was taken to St. Luke's hospital. There is little doubt but that he will recover. It is claimed that too much whisky caused him to make the attempt.

Firemen Have Run.

A fire in the boxing around the tank which supplies the sprinkler system at the Clyde Iron works, Twenty-ninth avenue west and Michigan street, called out the fire department late this afternoon. It was expected the flames would be checked with little damage.

A CRACKED NOTION

H H Rogers was a foe to socialism. Mr. Rogers, discussing once with a reporter the idea of government work for the unemployed in hard times, said:

"Economic conditions can't be bettered by manufacturing work for men to do. Such economic ideas remind me of Tim Greeley of Fairhaven.

"Tim marketed for his mess during the war. Cracked eggs used to be sold for half-price at the canteen. Tim walked in one day with his market basket and said:

"'Gimme two dozen best cracked eggs.'

"'Cracked eggs all out, Tim,' said the sutler.

"Tim nodded toward the egg crate in the corner.

"'Well, crack up some, will ye?' said he."

LONDON BAN ON RAGTIME.

From a London letter to the Philadelphia North American: Throughout the coming summer the London county council will have bands playing in the evening in more than fifty of the parks, open spaces and recreation grounds under its control. For this purpose a sum of $62,500 has just been voted, an increase of $2,500 over last summer, and by the middle of May a free open-air concert will be given each of the selected districts.

It would be impossible to exaggerate the popularity of these county council bands. On every concert night the parks and gardens are crowded with huge and attentive audiences. It matters not whether you go to the Island gardens, set in the midst of the dreary slums of Poplar, or to the Green park, in Piccadilly, you will notice the same outstanding features—the great size of the audience, its good behavior and its keen appreciation.

As a general rule, no two pieces by the same composer are allowed on any program and dance music must not be included in any program to be played on Sunday. In certain specified places of the superior residential class, such as Battersea park and Clapham common, one-half of the concert programs must be entirely free from "barn dances, cake walks, hackneyed national fantasies and similar pieces," and only one such piece will be allowed in any one program at other places.

This year the county council has started an index expurgatorious. Some pieces are banned entirely. No longer may any band engaged by the council play the "Suwanee River," "Happy Days in Dixie" and "Way Down in Tennessee" will never again earn county council money. The other pieces put on the black list are: "Crown of Honor" (Richards), "Golden Crown" (Hermann), "A Georgia Camp Meeting," "Gilderoy," (Blegor), "A Cross of Jerusalem" (Bleger), "Life on a Troopship," "Life on the Ocean," "A Soldier's Life," "A Hunting Scene" (Bucalossi), "Watermelon Patch," "Darkies' Cake Walk," "The Golden Hive" (Brepsant), "The Diadem" (Hermann), "Coon Band Contest," "In Old Kentucky," "A Coon's Holiday," "Darkies' Revels," "Dusky Dinah" and "Plantation Revelry."

A GRAMMAR LESSON.

E. H. Harriman, discussing prosperity with the reporters in his Fifth avenue residence recently, said of panics:

"Panics, as a rule, are caused by ignorance. I, the bull, am ignorant about you. You, the bear are ignorant about me. In our benighted, ignorant terror of one another, we cause a panic.

"This mutual ignorance, but for its results, would be funny—like the ignorance of grammar in the chicken-stealing case out West. In that case the judge and the witness talked like this:

"'Have you ever saw this man before?'

"'Yes.'

"'Had he came before you had went?'

"'No.'

"'Is them your chickens what you say was stole?'

"'Yes.'

"'Would you have recognuz them if you had saw them before they was brung here?'

"'Yes, Judge; I would have knowed them.'

"'Tut, tut, young man; speak grammatic. It ain't proper to say "have knowed." You should ought to say "have knew!"'"

DID NOT REQUIRE AN EXPERT.

Tit Bits: A well-known business man in a town not far from London discovered one morning recently on entering his office that his safe was out of order. He immediately telegraphed to the metropolis for an expert.

When the latter arrived he found that the safe—an old-fashioned affair, locked with a key—could not be opened. After a hasty examination the expert, taking a piece of wire, dug out from the key a mass of dust and lint. He then opened the safe in the twinkling of an eye. The business man wore a sickly smile as he asked, meekly:

"How much?"

"Three pounds."

"Do any of your firm's patrons here know of your visit?"

"Not a soul but yourself."

"Then," added the business man, "here's five pounds. I'll take it as a great favor if you'll go back by the first train. If any one in this town knew that I had paid a man three pounds to dig dirt out of a key for me, I'd never do another shilling's worth of business in the whole town."

At 8:30 A. M. Today We Opened Duluth's Greatest White Sale With Greater and Richer Stocks and Bigger Bargains Than Ever!

THE most famous of Duluth White Sales started this morning! Great as our past successes have been—in assortments, quantities, qualities and values—it will eclipse any White Sale ever held in this store or in this city! Stocks are rich with exclusive things not to be duplicated elsewhere now or here later! Many lines are offered at less than today's mill prices.

1909 WAS THE BANNER YEAR OF OUR BUSINESS CAREER!

The most particular customers of other stores had to "look around" more than usual last year and their eyes were opened to the advantages so many of you had long enjoyed in trading here. The fact that we sell the better qualities—the tastier styles at prices noticeably less than the older stores, cements new trade here quickly—and the splendid increase in our business justified the greater efforts, resulting in the marvelous list of good things in which we now invite you to share.

Bewitching New Embroideries

A wonderful variety of the loveliest embroideries we have ever seen—designs and qualities confined to this store for Duluth—and the purchasing power of this aggressive store brings you the best values we've ever given.

Here are Maderia Embroideries of exquisite beauty—in all widths from the daintiest baby reits to the most elaborate flouncings.

This brief news of some of the kinds and their prices:

5c

NARROW CAMBRIC EDGES, 5c.

A year ago we were famous for our narrow cambric edges for children's wear and for dust ruffles. Well, these are better than those good ones we gave you last year. They will not fray. Patterns you would rather have than some shown you at 10c.

59c FOR $1.00 SWISS ALL-OVERS.

A lot of Swiss all-over embroideries—27 inches wide—beautiful patterns — regular prices would be 89c to $1.00—special for the White Sale at only 59c a yard.

75c FOR $1.50 ALL-OVERS.

This is a rare treat—cambric nainsook and Swiss embroidery all-overs that have sold in our regular stock as high as $1.50 a yard. Because they are odd patterns and cannot be matched in all other widths. Choice 75c yd.

CAMBRIC BEADINGS AT 10c AND 12½c.

Two special lots of cambric beadings—just the thing for January—narrow widths—very dainty—regular 18c and 20c values—special for the White Sale at 10c and 12½c a yard.

CAMBRIC EDGES SPECIAL AT 10c, 12½c and 15c.

We never had such values as these—bought especially for the White Sale. Narrow cambric edges—three widths to match—all good values and will not fray. Special 10c, 12½c and 15c a yard.

25c A YARD FOR SKIRT FLOUNCINGS.

25c

Beautiful patterns and good strong edges in cambric flouncings — 18 inches wide—special for this sale at 25c a yard.

25c FOR 35c 14-INCH CAMBRIC FLOUNCINGS

Strong hand loom embroidery in beautiful combries — special for the White Sale at 25c a yard. These are goods such as always sell at 35c a yard.

25c FOR 25c CORSET COVER EMBROIDERY.

A splendid assortment of various nainsook and cambric embroideries 18 inches wide—the prettiest designs and good strong edges—special at 25c the yard.

15c

For beadings to match the corset cover embroidery.

EMBROIDERY GALLOONS AT 25c AND 50c.

A great assortment—from three to six inches wide—these will be in favor this season. French embroidery or Convent embroidery as it is called by many—in all desired styles and scallops on a real convent cloth. Prices range 18c to 59c the yard for the most popular widths.

35c FOR 65c CROSS BARRED PURE LINEN LAWNS.

Many pieces of pure linen cross barred lawns, seven different plaids and checks, which sell everywhere at 65c regularly—they are 28 inches wide, and are fine for underwear, dresses and waists, etc., for women and children. Offered you here and only here at only 35c the yard.

WEST END

CHURCHES OUT OF DEBT

West End Congregations Begin the New Year With Debts Paid.

For the first time since it was organized thirteen years ago, the Swedish Mission church at Twenty-first avenue west and Second street is free from debt. It was reported at the annual meeting which was held Saturday afternoon, that the church property was valued at $28,462.64, and that the congregation raised enough money during 1909 to clear the old debt and have a balance of nearly $700 in the treasury.

The church closed the year with a balance of $589 after paying all of the current expenses. Added to this is a balance of $224 reported by the ladies' aid society. At the annual meeting the following church officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Fred W. Erickson, president; C. J. Lindahl, vice president; Herbert Lundgren, financial secretary; E. G. Ek, secretary; Fred W. Erickson and Eric Carlson, trustees; Charles Erickson, William Nelson and Gust Hjelm, deacons; Emil Smedberg, superintendent of the Sunday school; Gust Hjelm, assistant; John E. Turnquist, superintendent of the East End Sunday school; John Beckman, assistant.

The full board of trustees follows: Emil Bjorlin, Emil Smedberg, Nels Person, John Fahlgren, Dennis Johnson, Fred W. Erickson and Eric Carlson. Dennis Johnson was chosen as treasurer of the church by the trustee board.

The board of deacons was chosen as follows: C. J. Lindahl, C. A. Nelson, L. M. Johnson, P. A. Pihlstrom, Charles Erickson, William Nelson, Gust Hjelm. L. M. Johnson was elected elder.

At the annual meeting of the congregation of the First Swedish Baptist church yesterday afternoon Rev. Swaney Nelson was elected president of the church organization and the following were elected for the coming year: A. Thoren, vice president; A. Veren, church clerk; Jacob Paleen, treasurer; C. J. Paleen and John Nord, trustees for three years; A. Thoren, Sunday school superintendent; Carl Person, assisstant superintedent; John A. Johnson, secretary, and Olga Hegberg, treasurer.

At the meeting $100 was raised to complete a subscription which started three weeks ago, and which amounted to $1,200. The money clears the indebtedness of the congregation as far as the building of the new church at Twenty-second avenue west and Third street is concerned. The basement of the new church has been completed and the superstructure will be put up in the spring. The property is now valued at $6,500. The congregation still owns the old building at Nineteenth avenue west and First street.

The congregation yesterday also presented the pastor, Rev. Swaney Nelson, with a substantial purse.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

That newspapers should not make fun of New Year's resolutions by publishing cartoons of people falling from water wagons and other pictures designed to bring a laugh, rather than a serious thought, was the assertion of Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, in his annual New Year's sermon, last evening.

The topic which he chose for the evening sermon, was "A New Year's Resolution." He declared that he believed in making resolutions and believed that they could be lived up to. He also stated that it was not a subject for funmaking, but one of all seriousness.

As an example of a man who had a resolution, although not of the right kind, he pointed to Napoleon, who had resolved to make a conquest of the world. "There is something to admire in that heroic and pathetic attempt made by Napoleon to conquer the world, for even if he did represent the very climax of bloodthirstiness, he was a man with a resolution."

The speaker said that we should form our New Year's resolutions with the view of not making the same mistakes in 1910 as in 1909.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

Several West End Churches Begin Their Annual Special Services.

Beginning this evening, prayer services will be held every night, except Saturday in nearly all of the West end churches for two weeks.

In the churches this is known as the revival season and an effort will be made by the pastors to make many conversions during the next two weeks.

Among the churches which will hold special services of this kind during the coming week are: First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, the First Swedish M. E. church, and the Second Presbyterian church.

West End Shortrails.

Mrs. A. D. Freeman of West Third street has as her guest, Miss Anna Lockman of Minneapolis.

Harold Martinson of Morley, Minn., is visiting with relatives at the West end.

William B. Johnson of Twenty-fifth avenue west is spending a few days in the Twin Cities.

The annual banquet of the S. H. & E. F. order was held Saturday evening at Columbia hall. Carl Stolberg of Carlton, Minn., was the principal speaker.

Funeral services were held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock for Olga Johnson, the 9-year-old daughter of Adolph Johnson of 420 North Twenty-first avenue west, who did Saturday afternoon of scarlet fever. The services were held from the residence, with interment at Park Hill cemetery.

Beta council, No. 2, will have an open installation this evening at Columbia hall. A musical program and dancing will follow the exercises.

Rev. David Nyvall spoke yesterday at the Swedish Mission church on "The Prodigal Son." He gave an address to the young people's society of the church.

The quarterly conference of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Rev. Edward Erickson, 2510 West Second street. Rev. James A. Sanacker, presiding elder, of Minneapolis, will preside. He occupied the pulpit at the church last evening.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Presbyterian church will meet this evening at the home of Miss Merita Mallett of 2121 West Second street.

Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, left this morning on a business trip to Aitkin, Minn. He will return Wednesday.

Edward Mentzer, Dean Coventry and Oscar Helam returned today to Minneapolis, where they will resume their studies at the university, after spending the holidays with friends and relatives in the West end.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

REV. MR. LUTZ IS MILITANT

Ashland Preacher Goes After Rival Dominie With a Loaded Pistol.

Is Locked Up on Disorderly Charge to Have Sanity Tested.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—A long drawn out fight for control of the German Evangelical association church here, nearly terminated in a tradegy New Year's morning and as a result one of the rival pastors, the Rev. August Lutz is locked up in the county jail.

Rev. Mr. Lutz was assigned to Ashland about a year ago, but some time ago, the presiding elder, backed by the bishop ordered him to give up the charge, and sent here the Rev. Gustav A. Bloedes. Rev. Mr. Lutz refused to turn over the church property to the Rev. Mr. Bloede. Both pastors officiated at the regular services on Sunday, Dec. 26. On this day the Rev. Mr. Lutz was removed from the pulpit platform by force, as he knelt to pray.

Lutz Threatens Other Minister.

On New Year's morning, Mr. Bloede was advertised to preach a New Year's sermon at 10:30 in the morning. Arming himself with a revolver, Pastor Lutz called at the residence of Mr. Bloede, forced an entrance to the house, and abruptly demanded of Bloede whether or not he intended to preach that day. Bloede giving an affirmative answer, Lutz at once drew a gun and aimed it at Bloede's head. The latter clinched Lutz and in the struggle Lutz struck the other man a blow in the mouth. Bloede broke away and ran out of the house and down the street bareheaded.

Lutz was arrested an hour later on the street. He denied having a revolver but one was found in his hip pocket with six loaded shells.

Lutz' Home an Arsenal.

At his home, he had a regular arsenal, including a Winchester, and an army rifle in addition to the revolver, with a large amount of ammunition. He was locked up in the county jail until tomorrow when he will be examined as to his sanity.

For several months, both Lutz and Bloede have claimed to be pastor. The local papers published the church announcements of both, in which each outlined the Sunday services, and for several Sundays, both tried to preach at the same time. Lutz has not interfered for several weeks since the injunction was served, until Bloede's announcement that he intended to preach a New Year's sermon stirred him up.

GREAT NORTHERN TO BUILD CUTOFF

Sweeping Change in North Dakota Main Line to Save Grade.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—With Ayr, Cass county, as the eastern terminal, and Surrey, Ward county, the western terminal, the Great Northern railroad will build a cutoff line across the state for a distance of about 140 miles. The resolution as provided by the state law, setting down the route that is to be taken by this new line, has been filed with Secretary of State Alfred Blaisdell and definitely settles the long question as to where this new line, which has been so much talked of, will run.

The construction of the new line is the following out of the plan of the Great Northern to relieve as far as possible the exceedingly heavy traffic on the main line in North Dakota. As it is now laid out, the line will run from Ayr across Cass county, cutting over the northeastern corner of Barnes county and traversing Griggs county almost its entire width. It enters at the east side of Foster county, just a little southeast of Carrington, and leaves that county directly north of that city. It then runs through the southwest corner of Eddy county, the northest corner of Wells county and the southwest corner of Benson, crossing Pierce county in the south, traversing McHenry its entire width and into Ward county to Surrey, which is six miles east of Minot.

COUNTY TREASURERS HIT.

Cannot Retain Part of Fine Collected for Game Law Violations.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 3.—An opinion, which may lead to extensive litigation, has been given State Treasurer Dahl by Attorney General Gilbert, holding that county treasurers may not retain any portion of the fines collected upon conviction of offenders against the game laws. The county treasurers have been retaining 33 1-3 per cent of such fines for many years. The attorney general holds that county treasurers may retain only 2 per cent of fines collected in criminal cases. The opinion does not apply to the one-half of fines paid to informers whose evidence results in conviction. It is expected Mr. Dahl will ask the attorney general as to the advisability of bringing suits against former county treasurers to whom the opinion may apply, as he is in doubt as to what course he ought to take in the matter.

MOORHEAD PLANT REPORTS PROFIT

Benefits of Municipal Ownership of Public Utilities Shown.

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The benefits of municipal ownership of the water and light plant are reflected in the report of the commission for the year which has been completed and will be submitted to the city council at the next meeting.

Among other things the statement shows the net earnings from the sale of water and electric lights of $13,560.88, during the period from Jan. 1, 1909, to Jan. 1, 1910. In Moorhead there is a graded rate for electric lights of 6 to 8 cents per kilowatt.

The management of the distribution of water and light by a commission system in Moorhead went into effect Aug. 1, 1900, and from that date to Jan. 1, 1910, the total net earnings have been $105,368.16.

The statement discloses that in addition to the earnings named, $13,560.88, the commission holds a city bond for $5,000 and there is about $1,200 cash in the sinking fund. Another asset to be considered, to the credit of the commission, is that the latter, during 1909, has expended for the installation of new water mains, and extensions, the sum of $11,302. The personnel of the commission comprises A. H. Erickson, president; E. Walker, H. E. Roberts and R. G. Price, collector and bookkeeper.

BIG OTTER TAIL DEAL.

Several Thousand Acres of Land in That County Sold.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 3.—The so-called Lamphrey lands in the towns of Woodside and Eastern Otter Tail county, have again changed hands. A monster deed has been recorded in the register of deeds' office, conveying those lands, of which there are several thousand acres to the Wing Valley Ranching Company of Minneapolis. The consideration is not given. The former owner was C. T. Marshall of Ohio.

These lands have been transferred so often of late years that it is hard to keep track of the ownership of them.

Chippewa Falls Man Sued.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Jan. 3.—George Wirth and his wife, Annie Wirth, are plaintiffs in a $2,500 damage suit against Steven S. Elliot. The complainants allege solicitation and assault alleged to have been attempted upon Mrs. Annie Wirth while she and her husband were employed upon Mr. Elliot's farm in Lafayette last summer. Mr. Elliot is a prominent business man, recently married.

Rich Pickpocket Released.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 3.—Allan "Collins" of St. Paul, who since last July has been in the county jail here on a charge of picking pockets at the Cass county fair has been released by order of Judge Pollock.

"Collins" is of a wealthy family of St. Paul, and influential friends have been at work in his behalf. He entered a plea of guilty, but it was shown that he has been an inmate of a hospital for the cure of the morphine habit and that he doubtless was irresponsible when he committed the crime here.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Williston, N. D.—Slim Bare, the confessed horse thief who was sentenced by Judge Goss to an indeterminate sentence of from three to five years and then paroled, will be held in the Williams county jail till March as a witness in the Kit Matthews case.

Devils Lake, N. D.—Ardent boosters of Devils Lake and Ramsey county propose to commence a campaign of advertising and will shortly appear before the Ramsey county commissioners with a request for financial support of their plans. There is a considerable portion of the county that has not yet been thoroughly developed.

Fargo, N. D.—There was open house at the Elks' parlors Saturday all day in honor of the New Year, and during the day at least 250 Elks, local and visitors, availed themselves of spending a few pleasant minutes with their brethren. Music furnished by the members of the lodge was given during intervals throughout the day and the entire session was spent in a pleasant manner.

Bismarck, N. D.—At a meeting of the State Educational association at Minot Fred E. Smith of Wahpeton announced to his friends that he will not be a candidate for the nomination for state superintendent of public instruction at the June primaries.

Fargo, N. D.—For the first time in years federal court will convene in North Dakota on Wednesday, when the adjourned fall term opens in Fargo on Jan. 5.

Calumet—The Calumet-Laurium Sunday School Basket Ball league, is the name of a new organization which has been brought about under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. This league includes teams representing six of the Calumet Sunday schools, and some interesting games are expected.

Houghton—The total number of marriage licenses issued in 1909 by County Clerk Richardson of Houghton county was 831. The year 1907 holds the record. In that year 870 couples secured licenses.

Lake Linden—Mrs. Alma Johnson, aged 49 years, wife of Ben Johnson of Lake Linden, died at her home Friday afternoon, after suffering for several months with bronchitis. The decedent was born in Sweden, but has been a resident of the Copper country for the past forty years.

Calumet—a letter has been received announcing the death of Joseph Goulette, a former resident of this city, at Anaconda, Mont., which occurred on Dec. 18. The funeral service was held at Anaconda Thursday, Dec. 23.

Ontonagon—Mrs. D. H. Baldwin, mother of Mrs. A. H. Brown, died Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from exhaustion after an attack of bronchitis, aged 71 years. Burial will take place at Pardeeville, Wis.

Houghton — Capt. Foley of the Houghton Light Infantry has received orders to prepare to enter with his officers upon a course of study in military map reading. Full details have not been received, but it is thought the Houghton and Calumet officers will unite in one school of instruction.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Madison — Woo On, the bright-eyed proprietor of a chop suey restaurant, in municipal court pleaded not guilty to the charge of selling beer without a license, but Detective Patrick Boyd thinks he has the "goods" on Woo, because he (Boyd) says he purchased beer on three occasions in the Woo food shop. The case was continued until Jan. 6.

Oshkosh—One of the big features of the nineteenth annual session of the Northeast Wisconsin Teachers' association, to be held here beginning Feb. 4, will be the attempt to furnish all women teachers will free lodging.

Chippewa Falls—F. O. Bible has been appointed superintendent of the Chippewa county insane asylum, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Supt. Ralph Dickinson. Mr. Bible has been connected with the asylum for some years, having been in charge of the county farm.

Sheboygan—Matthias Brillinger was rescued from death by suffocation under a pile of coal. He slipped into a chute and was carried into a car which was being loaded. He was covered by the coal and was not released until after eight minutes.

Madison — Governor Davidson has signed a general charter for the city of Lake Geneva, which heretofore has been operating under a special charter.

Sheboygan—Just released from a 30-day jail sentence, William Hutlock, aged 55 years, climbed to the edge of an ice pack on Lake Michigan and threw himself into the water. His body has not been recovered.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Minneapolis—The Jeffries-Gotch-Roller combination of all stars, which has been touring the East and Middle West for the past month, will be seen in Minneapolis Jan. 12, when the sporting troupe will appear in a series of stunts at the Casino roller rink.

Barnesville—The local lodge of Masons has installed the following officers: Thomas Gunness, W. M.; B. F. Baumgardner, S. W.; A. C. Gaffy, J. W.; B. M. Holt, secretary; D. P. Peterson, treasurer; R. S. Tweeton, S. D.; C. E. Nelson, J. D.; C. S. Hendfield, senior steward; A. M. Tittle, junior steward; A. W. Douglas, tyler; A. J. Aamodt, chaplain.

Walker—Rev. E. M. Kuhn has arranged for a series of special meetings to be held in the Methodist church, commencing Jan. 16. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Alison J. Hayes of St. Paul. The date was changed from Dec. 26 to Jan. 16. Plan to attend these meetings.

Detroit—Fred Mensing has sold his fine Detroit residence property to H. S. Erickson, cashier of the Security bank, who will occupy the house with his family. Mr. Mensing, who for several years was connected with the Blaisdell mill, has not decided upon his future course.

Pine City—Pokegama Lodge No. 77, K. of P., and Chengwatana Temple No. 40, Pythian Sisters, will hold a joint installation in the K. of P. hall Friday evening, Jan. 7. The grand chancellor and the grand chief will be present on that evening.

Warren—Andrew H. Erickson of Hazel, Marshall county, has disappeared, and foul play is suspected by his wife and children, who are in needy circumstances. He was last seen at Milestone, Can., and was supposed to be on his way home. He is 43 years old.

St. Cloud—C. E. Hamilton, the British consul stationed at St. Paul, has made application in probate court here to have himself appointed administrator of the estate of the late James Muir, who died at St. Raphael's hospital something over a week ago. The deceased had no relatives in this country, but had two sisters who live in Scotland.

Little Falls—The statement that this city has been in the throes of a kerosene famine during the past few days is an exaggeration of the local conditions in regard to this illuminating fluid. The fact that there threatened to be one in a few days if the local supply was not replenished doubtless gave rise to the above story.

Pine River—Not long ago Miss Kristine Pederson, who teaches the Schaffer Brook school, gave an entertainment which netted the school between $10 and $12. To this the state added $10, and the school will soon have a library worth more than $20 as a result.

Fergus Falls—George Peffer of Woodside, who was arrested for timber trespass on land belonging to C. J. Wright, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Baxter, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve thirty days in jail. He chose the former.

Rush City—A family reunion of the Robinson and Clayton families took place Christmas day at the residence of L. J. Clayton. A Christmas tree and a turkey dinner were part of the festivities. It was the first reunion of the brother's and sister's families in thirty years, and was an enjoyable occasion.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Fargo, N. D.—A change in life insurance circles in North Dakota of considerable importance took place Jan. 1, when Thomas D. Hughes, for some time supervisor of agents, and John F. Shea, general agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York, became identified with the Pioneer Life Insurance Company of North Dakota.

Jamestown, N. D.—Franklin Edwards, who was injured about two weeks ago by falling into the ash pit at the Northern Pacific roundhouse, had a hearing as to his sanity before the insanity board at the courthouse.

Minot, N. D.—Judge Goss has issued a call for a jury for the January term of court, to commence on Jan. 24. Prior to that time he will hold court at Stanley, commencing Jan. 10.

Fargo, N. D.—The funeral of Mrs. John J. Wandmaker, who died at a local hospital of cancer of the liver, was held from the residence, at 822 First avenue north, Saturday afternoon at 2:20 o'clock. Interment was made in Riverside cemetery.

Brookings, S. D.—The annual meeting of the South Dakota State Horticultural society will be held at Yankton, Jan. 18, 19 and 20.

Pierre, S. D.—The state capitol commission has let the contract for supplying the new capitol with 2,400 tungsten lamps. The contract was let to the Aberdeen Engineering company of Aberdeen, for $1,680. The company was represented in the bidding by G. A. McLaughlin of that city.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

DOWIE WAS NOT A FRAUD

Bishop Brewer Says Zionist Performed Works of Healing.

Montana Prelate Says Prayer Must Be Accompanied By Faith.

Bishop Brewer of Montana preached last night in St. Paul's Episcopal church on "Prayer, Science of Faith and the Doctors." In asserting his belief in the efficacy of prayer, combined with a great and lasting faith, he said that he no longer believed Alexander Dowie to have been a fraud.

"I once believed Dowie a cheat,' he said, "but I no longer think so, for I have it from one of my own clergy that he performed works of healing."

Bishop Brewer said in part:

"There is only one kind of prayer, and that is the prayer of faith. All people pretend to pray, some a great deal, others not at all, and very often it happens that those who do pray are not inclined to pray the right way. The only prayer that prevails and means something is a prayer of faith.

"We must observe the universal laws of health or our prayers will become a mockery. How can prayer help us to do better? How can prayer assist us in health? How can prayer help us to be nearer to God? How can prayer rid us of disease? Is it possible that prayer can do all this?

"I have been forty years in the ministry, and forty-three years ago I read a book that had great influence upon my life. It was written by the duke of Argyle and was called the 'Reign of Law.' The underlying theme of the book is the law that governs and run throughout the universe of God. And as I read and reread the vond rful pages of the book this thought came to me: 'Law is the rule of action; all actions and everything in the universe are under the divine law.'

"All people believe in a God. They can't help it. In spite of themselves everybody believes in some form of God. When I look at the beams and rafters of this church I know that an architect designed it so that it might become a church.

"So when I look at the stars rolling in illimitable space and the beauty of the landscape, I know they were wrought by a Great Designer. There are marks of this design wherever we may look.

"Our children asks us questions. What is all this? What does it mean? We keep asking the same questions all our lives. Since our Father has made us it is as natural for us to ask for our needs as for our children to ask from us. But the mistake is made in asking for those things that do no good, but rather tend to do us harm.

"A few years ago Tyndall wanted to put prayer to a test by comparing one hospital where prayer was employed to another where it was not, in order to see which had fewer deaths. This was a violation of the law of prayer in accordance with the will of God. The prayer of faith is submission to His will.

Prayer Heals Sick.

"Does prayer save the sick? Millions answer 'Yes.' Christ and His disciples prayed and their prayer of faith was answered. The words of Christ were 'Watch and pray.' A father brought his child to the disciples to be healed. They tried and failed. Christ came down from the mount and healed the child. Why did not the disciples? They lacked the prayer of faith.

"Christ said, 'Except by prayer and fasting only could this be done.' Throughout the Jewish and Christian church men were bidden to pray, and help was given them through the prayer of faith.

"Science has found out how this thing is done. Christ healed the sick, opened the eyes of the blind, unstopped the ears of the deaf and made the dumb to speak, and His disciples, following after Him, did likewise.

"He promised that they should even do greater things, only they should ask in faith. 'Believe and it shall be done unto you.'

"Thomas J. Hudson has written five remarkable books. One is called the 'Law of Psychic Phenomena.' This book tells how these things are accomplished. Christ understood the law and always acted in accord with it and never contrary to it. We have no faith. We do not live it. We do not show it. There is such a think as mental influence, one mind influencing another at a distane. Mental philosophy tells us how it is done.

"Mental healing is a real thing. It is simply the influence of mind upon mind and of soul upon soul. In China, Japan, Egypt and all over the world this is known and practiced. In all cults there is a tendency towards reality through the prayer of faith."

CENTRAL CALLS DOCTOR.

Life of Would-Be Suicide in Telephone Booth Saved.

Antler, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Despondent because of the death of his cousin, Miss Bessie Howery, George Dumont, aged 21 years, attempted to commit suicide by drinking strychnine. Returning from the funeral he purchased a bottle of the poison, explaining that it was to be used in killing wolves.

Then going to the telephone exchange he entered a booth, swallowed the poison, afterwards telling the operators of his action. The girls immediately called a physician and after several hours of work the young man's life was saved.

HIRED MAN A THIEF.

Makes Away With Valuables While Employer Is Absent.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Misplaced confidence proved costly to O. L. Toftner, a farmer residing ten miles from Minot. Leaving his new hired man, Henry Blondeen, at his home in the evening while he and his wife went to visit neighbors, he returned to find the fellow gone. Considerable money belonging to Mrs. Blondeen, as well as jewelry and other valuable articles were missing. He has not been located.

The Minot Commercial club offices were entered Saturday evening and $15 stolen from the till.

Wisconsin Alumni Elect.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin University Alumni association the following officers were elected: President, R. A. Nestos, Minot, vice presidents, H. Z. Mitchel, Minot; F. Davis, Charles Bjornson and Charles B. Doyon; secretary and treasurer, H. C. Fisk, Bismarck.

"SKY PILOT" TALKS TO MEN

Ralph Higgins Entertains Large Audience at the Y. M. C. A.

Tells of His Work Among the Boys of the Forest.

Ralph Higgins, "The Sky Pilot," yesterday entertained one of the largest audiences of men that ever attended a religious service at the Y. M. C. A.

After having had over fourteen years of experience in the woods, working among "the boys of the forest," Mr. Higgins has some interesting stories to tell. Mr. Higgins tells his story in a quiet, unassuming way, and yesterday he held the close attention of his hearers while he told of his work.

Mr. Higgins told of how hard it had been to get men to work with him in the woods, for he realized early that he must have help. He tried the young college youth, but he proved an unsuccessful experiment. A few months in the woods, suffering with the cold and meeting the hardships of life, soon took the energy out of him, and he usually went back to find a place where the work was easier. Then Mr. Higgins tried ministers who were out of jobs. They missed their warm churches, and they, too, deserted him.

He knew that he must have help and, almost in despair, he turned to reformed men who had worked in the woods and asked them to help him. There are nine of them at the present time working under his direction. They have proved very successful, and the work is now going on very nicely. They talk to the men in their own coarse language, and get results, for the converts are many.

Mr. Higgins told how vice pursues the men even to their work in the woods. He said that in times gone by it was only during the summer months that the men were in sight of temptation, but that now the gambling dens, saloons and immoral houses follow him to the woods, and houses are built only a few miles from each camp. He deplored the fact that the men could not be left alone, at least, during the winter months.

It was the first time Mr. Higgins had spoken in Duluth for some time, and as his talks are out of the ordinary, he is always able to draw a crowd.

LID CONTINUES AS PER ORDERS

East Grand Forks Officials Not Running Afoul of State Officers.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow Mayor Hugh Dunlevy will retire from the office and J. J. O'Leary, mayor-elect, will take the position.

The new mayor will continue in effect the closing orders that are now operating as a result of the action of the state officials. Orders have already been promulgated to that effect and after tomorrow every kind of evil that may be found to exist in the city will be stamped out. This includes the gambling joints and houses of ill fame, the new mayor being determined to make a clean sweep.

With the taking of office by Mr. O'Leary, several changes will be made in the official family. Paddy Sullivan becomes chief of police, Hugh Quigley will be appointed assistant, Ed. McHugh is to become city recorder, Martin Dillon is slated for fire chief and Maurice Sullivan is to be the new street commissioner.

The new members of the city council taking office are N. J. Nelson, George Barlow, J. W. Logan, Frank Tessier, J. M. Cullitton and Pat Liston.

BEMIDJI PRESS MEET.

Governor Eberhart Will Address Gathering in Beltrami City.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fourth annual meeting of the North Central Minnesota Educational association will be held in Bemidji Thursday and Friday, Feb. 10 and 11.

Secretary Ritchie announces that Governor Eberhart has consented to be present Feb. 11 and deliver an address.

In addition to Governor Eberhart the association will have as speakers prominent educators and business men from different parts of the state who will be given places on the program.

GOFF MURDER CASE TO BE TRIED THIS MONTH.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The case of William Goff, colored, charged with the murder here of Georgia Bell, colored, will not be called in the Polk county district court till about the end of the present month. County Attorney Hagen gives as his reason for the placing of the case so far down the calendar that it will be necessary to call a special venire of jurymen, and for that reason it is advisable to let the case rest for the time being. Goff is a prisoner in the Polk county jail at Crookston.

INSTANTLY KILLED ON HIS WAY TO DANCE.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 3.—Fred Rober of Mandan was instantly killed while crossing the railroad tracks in the local yards Saturday night. Rober was on his way to a dance and started to go between two bad-order cars, which were coupled with a chain and thus had more space between them than usual.

While Rober was between the cars the switch engine was started and the ends of the cars came together, crushing him to death. When the man was found there was no semblance of a human body—nothing but a bloody bundle of clothing, crushed bones and flesh.

Rober was a single man living with his parents.

SENATOR OUT FOR RE-ELECTION

George R. Laybourn Will Again Seek to Serve Fifty-First District.

In a circular letter sent out as a New Year's greeting, George R. Laybourn, state senator from the Fifty-first district, announces his candidacy for re-election in 1910, and asks the support of his constituents.

Senator Laybourn is entering upon his eighth year of service in the upper house and previous to his election as senator, he served in the house.

In announcing his candidacy for a third term in the senate, Senator Laybourn calls attention to the work of the St. Louis county delegation at the last session of the legislature and announces that he is ready to give his best efforts along the same line, if elected in 1910. Senator Laybourn is the first member of the St. Louis delegation to announce his candidacy.

La Moure Postoffice Fight Ends.

La Moure, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The appointment of C. I. Hutchinson as postmaster of this city settled a long brewing fight with William Ellison as the other candidate for the position. The change in the office took place Saturday, Mr. Ellison stepping out in favor of his successor. The former postmaster had held the position a number of years.

Indorsed in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—The Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday indorsed the manifesto of the American Federation of Labor against the United States Steel corporation.

BRICKLAYERS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS.

The semi-annual election of officers of Bricklayers International Union, No. 3, Minnesota, took place at Axa hall on Friday evening. Those elected are: President, H. M. Todd; vice president, D. E. Hartwick; recording and corresponding secretary, William Towner; financial secretary, J. O. Larson; treasurer, Charles Older; doorkeeper, F. Garforth; director for eighteen months, J. A. Hawkins.

H. M. Todd has been elected as delegate to the convention of the international union, which will be held from Jan. 10 to 24, at Boston, Mass.

ROOSEVELT HAS SHOT FINE BULL ELEPHANT.

Holma, Uganda, Jan. 3—The American naturalist expedition arrived here today and reported all well. One hundred and twenty-seven miles were covered after leaving Kampala on Dec. 23. Col. Roosevelt killed a bull elephant with tusks weighing 110 pounds while the party was in camp at Kisingo.

The expedition will leave for Butiab, twenty-seven miles distant, tomorrow.

BRADLEY WANTS HIS LAND FOUND

May Send Expedition to See If Cook Really Found It.

New York, Jan. 3.—John R. Bradley, Dr. Frederick A. Cook's backer, has sent a telegram from Atlanta, Ga., in which he says that he intends to fit out out another expedition into the Arctic. It is believed he wishes to verify the existence of "Bradley Land," which Dr. Cook reported he had found. The telegram reads:

"I have written Capt. Sverdrup regarding an expedition to explore polar sea north of Crocker Land."

Would Seek South Pole.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 3.—Donald B. McMillan, member of Commander Robert E. Peary's polar expedition, and Capt. Robert Bartlett, who commanded Peary's ship, the Roosevelt, both said yesterday they would like to be members of an expedition to seek the South Pole. Capt. Bartlett said:

"I have heard of such a trip being planned. I may be selected to command the ship which will carry the expedition southward. I think that the Roosevelt will be the ship selected if the expedition goes through."

BRAKEMAN LOSES LIFE AT DILWORTH

Milton Berryman of Staples Slips From Locomotive to Death.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Milton Berryman, a brakeman for the Northern Pacific, was instantly killed at Dilworth Friday night, when he stepped from a locomotive, slipped on the icy ground and fell beneath the wheels of the tender. The car passed over his head, severing the head and both hands from the body.

The remains were brought to Staples, where Berryman lived. Besides his immediate family, two sisters, Margaret and Lucy, employed at the Waldorf hotel, this city, survive him.

Berryman, who had been riding on the front of an extra east bound freight, had mounted the steps of the locomotive. As the train slowed up for Dilworth he stepped to the ground and, his feet striking the icy pavement, he was thrown under the wheels of the tender. The engine crew saw the man's lantern fall, and the train was stopped almost immediately but not until the wheels had passed over the man's head, almost severing it from the body. His hands, thrown forward to break his fall, were also severed near the wrist.

PUZZLE FOR PRESIDENT

Is Now Confronted With the Question, "What Is a Quart?"

Syndicate Would Control the Nitrate Deposits of the World.

Washington, Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—President Taft has answered the question "What Is Whisky?" greatly to the satisfaction of the gentlemen engaged in combining two or three different distillations. Attorney General Bonapart insisted that whisky was the direct product of the still with no extraneous substances incorporated. Any product of a rectifying establishment which contains more or less than was produced from the distiller's worm, was according to Mr. Bonapart's ruling, a compound and not whisky, but President Taft has decided that what is known as whisky commercial is whisky official, from this time on; and now he and his cabinet are confronted with the question "What is a quart?"

The new penal code, which went into effect on Jan. 1, provides that when liquors whether spirituous, vinous or malt, are shipped from one state to another, the package in which they are sent must, in addition to giving the name of the consignee, show plainly on the labels the character of the contents and the quantities of same.

Ordinarily whisky is put up in bottles, five to the gallon. Commercially these bottles are known as quarts, but the question arises as to whether or not a shipment containing six of these bottles can be designated as six quarts or whether the labels must show that there are exactly six-fifths of a gallon in the package. Apparently there is no one yet competent to answer that question. The railroads and the express companies who are held responsible under heavy penalties for the transport of shipments improperly labeled have declined to render an opinion, the law officers of the government will not answer questions from parties outside the executive departments, and the consequence is that shippers are in a quandry as to where they stand. It is probable, therefore, that President Taft will have to supplement his decision on the question of "what is whisky?" by deciding "what is a quart?"

Press dispatches from Valparaiso, Peru, announce that there is a report current there that J. Pierpont Morgan is organizing an English syndicate with a capital of something like £50,000,000 sterling to cover the nitrate products of the world. The islands off the Pacific coast of South America have for years furnished practically all the nitrate deposits of the earth. Peru and Chili fought several wars over the control of some of these islands. The recent death of Gen. W. W. Dudley, former commissioner of pensions, combined with a report that Banker Morgan is engaged in a plan to control the nitrates of the world, calls to mind the fact that the so-called Landreau claim is still unsettled. Landreau was an American citizen who purchased a concession covering one of the Peruvian Islands rich in guano deposits, and, it is alleged, was deprived of his holdings. So far back as the days of Secretary Blaine this claim was a cause celebre. It has been a subject of negotiation for upwards of three decades and it is alleged that the Geneva tribunal decided in favor of Landreau a year or two ago. But the claim has never been settled. The original Landreau is dead, his grandson has passed on and one of his attorneys, Gen. Dudley, was buried here two weeks ago. Gen. Dudley's surviving partner, Gen. Mitchener, is of the opinion that the attempt of the Morgan syndicate to control the nitrate deposits may possibly result in the ultimate settlement of the Landreau claim. But "Manana" is the motto of the South American countries, and unless some vigorous Knoxian policy is invoked it may be that several generations will pass away before the Landreau claim is settled, in spite of the fact that J. Pierpont Morgan is trying to control the nitrate deposits of the world.

Stearns County Man Held Up and Robbed By Highwaymen.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 3.—Near Avon, a village fifteen miles from this city, Fred W. Betka, a farmer, living four miles from that village, was viciously assaulted Friday night, pounded into unconsciousness and robbed of $75.

Betka was a visitor in Avon and while there deposited $5,000 in the bank. He kept $75 on his person, however.

Just before he reached his home he was assaulted. Betka was tied hand and foot and left to freeze. As Betka is 60 years old he was unable to resist the attack of his adversary, whom he says was a young man. The victim finally regained consciousness, worked his hands free from the ropes and started for home. He met the night section railroad foreman on the way, to whom he told his story.

Commission Named on the Soo Right-of-Way.

Aitkin, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald)—In a suit brought by the Cuyuna Iron Range Railway company against a dozen or more property owners on the right of way of the new railroad, with whom they have been unable to make satisfactory settlement for the land taken by the railroad, Judge McClenahan has appointed A. B. Feero, C. H. Warner and Irvine Innes as commissioners to appraise the value of the lands required by the railroad company as a right of way.

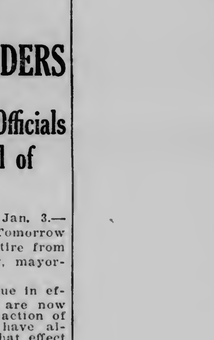

WILL TELL TOKIO OF HIS WORK IN KOREA.

Seoul, Korea, Jan. 3.—Viscount Sone, Japanese resident general in Korea, left for Tokio today. It is believed that the resident general will explain his Korean policy to the Japanese government, and if the same is indorsed, that he will return. Should the government fail to approve his plans he probably will resign.

CALL ON UNION MEN FOR FUNDS

Officers of Federation of Labor Want Money to Fight Steel Trust.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Officers of the American Federation of Labor Saturday night issued a call to the 1,540,000 members of the organization, calling on them to subscribe to a fund with which a bitter fight is to be begun against the United States Steel corporation.

The corporation, the call sets forth, is inimical alike to the interests of labor and to the country at large, and it is termed "a bold and daring violator of the laws." The sum of $130,000 will be raised by this first appeal, but further calls will be issued as the fight progresses.

This action was taken as the result of the conference held in Pittsburg on Dec. 13 and 14 between the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the Tin Plate Workers' Protective association and the longshoremen and seamen's organizations. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was present at the meeting.

Signers of the Call.

The call is signed by Mr. Gompers, Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, and James Duncan, John Mitchell, James O'Connell, D. A. Hayes, William D. Huber, James P. Valentine, John R. Alpine, H. B. Perham and John B. Lennon, directors. Although the ap-

JUST A CRAZY STREAK.

That Is All Prompted Grafton Girl to Leave Her Home.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Oh, I just took a crazy streak," was the explanation given by Miss Anna Nelson, who disappeared from Grafton, N. D., Dec. 17, and who was located or rather who located herself, in this city Thursday night.

She is now taking a course in the Norgard hospital in this city. She wishes to become a trained nurse. The girl's father found that she had bought a ticket to Fargo and followed her here but could not find a trace of her. Since that time the entire police force of the Northwest has been on the lookout for her.

Thursday night she wrote to her father, telling him where she was. When seen by a representative of The Herald she said that she simply took it into her head to break the monotony of life. "I did not dream that I would cause any sensation," she said. "I have written and told my father all about it."

WOODDELL WILL FIGHT TO ESCAPE CONVICTION.

La Moure, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.) — George Wooddell, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, will make a hard fight to clear himself. Wooddell is accused of beating Otto Skidmore seriously, the latter being in a Fargo hospital, where, for a time, his life was despaired of. Wooddell and Skidmore had considerable trouble on July 4 at Verona, and the fight in La Moure and subsequent arrest of Wooddell was the outcome of the first scrap.

PREDICTS SHORT SESSION.

La Follette Says Congress Will Adjourn in April.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 3.—Congress may adjourn in April. Such is the opinion of Senator La Follette, who left today for Washington.

"I do not think that the present session of congress will be as long as the usual long session," said the senator on Friday. "In fact, it may not last beyond April.

"There is a feeling among party leaders that an early adjournment is advisable on account of conditions within the party. Many leaders believe that with an early adjournment of congress many congressional districts can be saved for the Republican party that might otherwise become fighting territory."

TWO EXECUTED ON THE SAME DAY IN SING SING.

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 3.—A double execution took place at the Sing Sing prison this morning, two murderers paying, within a few moments of each other, the penalty for their crimes. The men who went to the chair were William Morse, convicted in Brooklyn in 1907 of killing a policeman, and John Barobuto, who killed a fellow Italian in Middletown in January, 1909.

Shock Fatal to Mother.

Lawton, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The shock caused by the sudden death of her baby, who had taken convulsions and died within two hours, resulted in the death of Mrs. Frank Mikl, Perth township, three hours later. The child, only 2 years old, had been entirely well up to the time he became attacked with the convulsions. Mrs. Mikl was also in fairly good health but the shock was more than she was able to stand.

LOG FOREMAN KILLED.

Mellen, Wis., Man Is Struck By Train While Loading Cars.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 3.—M. McMillan, foreman of Camp No. 5 of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company, was almost instantly killed while loading cars near the camp. He was struck by a train, receiving injuries which caused his death ten minutes later. Coroner Sollie took the body to Mellen, where the funeral took place Sunday. The deceased leaves a wife and eight children. He was well known at Ashland, especially by the lumbermen.

KENMARE, N. D., MAN FACING RAPE CHARGE.

Kenmare, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Campbell, aged 25, was taken to Minot Saturday and placed in the county jail on a charge of rape. The young man was found stopping at a local hotel with a girl only 14 years of age, whom he had registered as his wife. A brother of the girl made the complaint against Campbell, whose home is at Estevan, Can.

NEW NATIONAL MUSEUM TO BE DONE NEXT MONTH.

Washington, Jan. 3.—After having been in the course of construction for four years, the new National museum in this city will be opened to the public by the middle of February.

One section of the mammoth building has been practically completed. It is in this building that the Roosevelt African mammals will be exhibited. It will take a year, however, to mount sufficient of these trophies to make a fair showing in the exhibition halls.

THE "WIDE OPEN" TAX AMENDMENT.

Is the so-called "wide open" tax amendment rejected by the people at the general elections in 1906 and 1908, but read into the Constitution by the supreme court, really a broad grant of power to the legislature, or is it a narrower provision than that which it succeeded?

The act of County Auditor Halden in placing upon the assessment rolls for purposes of taxation the property of the two Duluth telephone companies, reported in The Herald last week, will in all probability result in settling that question by a decision of the supreme court, and Mr. Halden is to be commended for having raised an issue that will permit the adjudication of the matter and bring about a judicial interpretation of the meaning and effect of the amendment.

Under the old constitutional provisions it was required that taxation should be uniform on the basis of the cash value of the subject taxed, with certain specified exceptions, including assessments for local improvements, inheritances, car companies, telephone and telegraph companies, express companies, insurance companies, mines, etc. Under the new provision taxes must be "uniform on the same class of subjects," and the old provisions covering the exceptions above noted are specifically repealed. This resolves the question into one whether, under the provision that taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, arbitrary taxes based upon output, weight, size, or any other consideration except cash value can be levied by the legislature. The Constitution no longer exempts telephone companies specifically from its general provisions as to taxation; and unless the requirement of uniformity in the new provisions is construed so broadly as to authorize almost any sort of arbitrary tax, telephone companies must be taxed according to the cash value of their property, as County Auditor Halden proposes to tax them. They now pay a gross earnings tax to the state. This rule would apply, in that case, to every form of taxation except the two specific exceptions in the present Constitution—assessments for local improvements, and railroad gross earnings taxes.

After laying down the rule that taxes must be uniform upon the same class of subjects, the Constitution makes the two exceptions—assessments for local improvements and railroad gross earnings taxes. The rule of uniformity applies to all other kinds of property. The two excepted classes may be taxed without regard to the cash valuation of the property. It is hard to escape the deduction, then, that all unexcepted classes must be taxed according to cash valuation. How else, it is pertinently asked, is uniformity to be secured? Fair taxation is taxation according to the ability to pay of the property taxed, and no better way of determining ability to pay has yet been devised than that of cash valuation.

If there are exceptions to this rule besides those specifically enumerated in the Constitution, all classes must be excepted. If telephone property or mining property can be taxed otherwise than on its cash value, any other property can be taxed arbitrarily. If the intention was to except only those classes of property specifically excepted by name, obviously the legislature cannot add to the list at its pleasure.

And if the intention was to throw down the bars entirely, why did the legislature, in framing this amendment, go to the trouble of making two exceptions from the general rule? If making exceptions means anything, it means that only the classes named are excepted, and that all other classes come under the general rule. If it means anything to say that one class of property need not be taxed according to cash valuation, it means that all other classes must be taxed according to their cash valuation.

The Herald never held a high opinion of the tax amendment, and it opposed its adoption. If it turns out that instead of a "wide open" amendment the state has one whose provisions are more narrow than those they succeeded, we shall not be surprised.

TALL FIGURES FOR 1909.

Whatever reason for complaint there might have been about the basis of distribution of prosperity in 1909, there was little reason for complaint as to its volume.

The resume of the year's business put out by Bradstreet's contains some large and comforting figures. Of six cereals the country raised 4,736,879,000 bushels as follows: Corn, 2,772,376,000 bushels against 2,927,416,091 bushels for the record year of 1906; wheat, 737,189,000 bushels against 748,460,218 bushels in the record year of 1901; oats, 1,007,353,000 bushels against 987,842,704 bushels in the record year of 1902; barley, 170,284,000 bushels against 178,916,484 bushels in the record year of 1906; rye, 32,239,000 bushels against 33,630,592 bushels in the record year of 1902; buckwheat, 17,438,000 bushels against 22,790,839 bushels in the record year of 1866. All crowded the record years closely, and oats made a new record. All yields were increases over those of 1908. Of flaxseed 25,856,000 bushels were raised against 29,284,880 in the record year of 1902. Of potatoes 376,530,000 bushels were raised against 332,830,300 in the record year of 1904. Hay to the amount of 64,938,000 tons, tobacco to the amount of 949,357,000 pounds, 24,368,000 bushels of rice, 10,088,000 bales of cotton, 1,548,000 tons of sugar, and a wool clip of 328,110,749 pounds, were other large yields. Potatoes and tobacco broke all records.

The total value of all agricultural products was $8,760,000,000 as against $7,778,000,000 in 1908. The value of the crop yields made new records in corn, wheat, oats, flaxseed, potatoes, tobacco, rice and cotton.

There was an increase of nearly 25 per cent in bank clearings in 1909 over 1908, the total being $164,000,000,000 against $159,135,000,000 in the record year of 1906. Imports of merchandise increased more than 32 per cent over 1908, being $1,476,000,000 against $1,423,169,820 in the record year of 1907. Exports decreased 1 per cent, but were $1,750,000,000 against $1,923,426,205 in the record year of 1907. The total foreign trade increased more than 12 per cent, and was $3,226,000,000 against $3,346,596,025 in 1907, the banner year. Building expenditures were $850,000,000, an increase of 40 per cent over 1908, and $80,000,000 greater than in 1906, the record year. There were but 11,840 business failures, a decrease of 16 per cent below 1908, and there were 15,508 in 1893, the record year. There was a decrease of more than 53 per cent in the liabilities of failed concerns, the amount being $138,500,000 compared with $383,700,000 in 1907, the record year. The pig iron output was 25,700,000 tons, an increase of 61.6 per cent over 1908, and almost up to the figure of 25,781,361 tons in 1907, the record year. Iron ore shipments were 42,850,000 tons, an increase of 65.4 per cent over 1908, and 605,000 tons more than in 1907, the record year.

These figures are good in themselves, but better still in that they forecast a year of record-breaking in 1910.

TAFT AND THE TARIFF.

At Winona President Taft pointed with pride to figures prepared for him by Senator Aldrich, showing that the tariff had been reduced on necessary articles which this country uses to the value of $5,000,000,000 annually.

One of these items was soft coal, which the country uses to the value of $900,000,000 annually.

The Herald has pointed out that the tariff was reduced so little on practically all of the items making up the $5,000,000,000 that it still is prohibitive, and therefore no relief to the consumer can be expected.

The duty on soft coal was reduced from 67 cents a ton to 60 cents. Now it is announced that the price of soft coal has been raised 15 cents a ton. The announcement illustrates the value to the consumer of the president's statement that duties were decreased on necessary articles used in this country to the value of $5,000,000,000 a year.

WHEN THE BAND PLAYS "DIXIE."

When Otto G. T. Sonneck, chief of the division of music in the library of congress, wrote a book in which he said that "Dixie" is more popular than "Yankee Doodle," it was to be expected that he would get into trouble over it. And sure enough, he did. The Herald had a Washington dispatch the other evening stating that the announcement had stirred up a hornet's nest about Mr. Sonneck's luckless head, and that he had even been threatened with death as a traitor. His office has been flooded with letters denouncing him and his theory, until he has been forced to refuse to give further help to the publicity of his ideas.

Yet Mr. Sonneck was pretty decent about "Yankee Doodle." He said in his book: "For 150 years 'Yankee Doodle' has appealed to our people, and the tune shows no signs of passing into oblivion. Surely a tune with such vitality must have some redeeming features. This remark is directed against those who have ridiculed the musical merits of 'Yankee Doodle' or treated it with contempt. It frankly appeals to our sense of humor. Critics, pedantic or flippant, have overlooked the fact that every nation has its humorous, even burlesque, patriotic airs, and that these are just as natural and useful as solemn airs—indeed, more so occasionally. As a specimen of burlesque, even 'slangy,' musical humor, 'Yankee Doodle' may safely hold its own against any other patriotic air."

And when that is said about all that can be said in favor of "Yankee Doodle" has been uttered. The American people value it more for its humor and its associations than they do for any intrinsic merit, even popular merit, in its strains. It is a lively air, and one that lends itself well to the humorous character of the accompanying words; that is all.

But "Dixie!" It must be admitted that the South "put one over on us" when "Dixie" became a Southern song. Its dash and breeziness and inspiriting harmony put it in a class by itself among songs peculiar to the American people. Any person, north or south, who can keep his feet and hands still when the band plays "Dixie" has something seriously wrong with him.

It isn't the words. There is nothing about them to inspire anybody. "'Simmon seed and sandy bottom" cause no patriotic emotions to bestir themselves. The words are absolutely negligible. But the tune! That is one of the most inspiriting things that ever was arrayed across the five bars of a line of music. In the West and North it is rare indeed that an audience applauds any national air. In the South and East "Dixie" never fails to get a vigorous round of applause. In New York and Washington "Yankee Doodle" and "The Star Spangled Banner" win a polite ripple of hand-clapping, but when the band plays "Dixie" the crowd goes wild. This isn't because the people composing the crowd are "rebels," or rebel sympathizers. It isn't that they cherish the "lost cause;" some of them are children of rank Abolitionists. It is simply because the tune is irresistible. Absolutely no other patriotic or national air has the power that "Dixie" has to thrill an audience.

It is a case where the South has a good one on the North. The memories of Civil war bitterness are so dim, and the bitterness is so softened, that thought of sectional prejudice has no part in it at all. When the band plays "Dixie" everybody with good red blood in his veins emits a rebel yell.

THE DULUTH STOCK EXCHANGE.

In the first six months of its existence the Duluth stock exchange, judged by the figures published in The Herald Saturday evening, has amply justified its being. During the half year 1,389,086 shares of stocks were traded in, an average of 8,171 shares daily. The last month of the six was the liveliest, with 402,584 shares.

If Duluth is to continue to trade in stocks as a sideline, the stock exchange is necessary for the protection of the speculating public. The exchange is in excellent hands, and its management is such as to form a measure of assurance against the evils of unregulated trading. The listing of stocks implies a reasonable amount of investigation, and that this has been done well is established by the fact that but one of the concerns that has been listed has vanished from the quotations. The exchange has made good, and it should be continued and supported so long as mining stocks are largely traded in in Duluth.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE COMING OF THE SOO.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It seems to me that the coming of the Soo road to Duluth has not been accompanied by the demonstration that would be fitting for such an event.

The road will begin receiving freight tomorrow morning, according to the statements of The Herald. Down in the Twin Cities when they open up a new branch road, the business men get up an excursion and take a trip over the line, boosting Minneapolis and St. Paul goods. The Soo will open up a big new territory to Duluth jobbers, and I believe that there should have been a fitting celebration of the opening of the new line. It will mean a great deal to Duluth. The Soo road has a reputation of simply going ahead and doing things, and that is what it has done in this case. Quietly and without any beating of drums, it has completed its terminals in Duluth, and is now ready for business. Within a very short time passenger trains will be running into Duluth, and this event at least should be celebrated in some manner. A TRAVELER.

Duluth, Jan. 2.

LET THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE BE HEARD.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The council chamber at the city hall should be filled this evening by those interested in the entrance of the Canadian Northern, one way or the other. The aldermen have not yet granted the franchise to the company, and they want to be fully posted on all phases of the question before taking final action. The only objection has come from a section of West Duluth, which claims that it will be irreparably damaged if the road is allowed to come in over the proposed route. Others claim that this should not be allowed to stand in the way, if it is the only practicable route. The material of which the trestle shall be constructed will also be taken up, together with some minor matters. If any one knows anything which should be told the council it is his duty to appear this evening and state what it is. Do not sit back and if a mistake is made, say that you knew it all the time and that the council should have known it. Aldermen are human the same as the rest of the people, and cannot learn everything by Divine instinct. The entire city should be interested in the matter as well as West Duluth.

Feeding the Poor.

New York World: Thousands, tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands of Christmas dinners for the homeless, the destitute and the unfortunate. In every part of the country generous American hands are carrying Christmas cheer to those who can bring no Christmas cheer to themselves. If a clearing house of human misfortune were possible it is safe to say that in the United States not a man, woman or child would go to bed hungry tonight, for no parallel in all human history can be found to the magnificent charity of the American people. A most inspiring picture it is and one of which we are justly proud; but what about the other side of it? What about the civilization that produces a submerged tenth? What about the economic conditions which maintain the necessity for this princely charity? It is easy enough to say that we shall always have the poor with us. It is easy enough to say that poverty is inevitable and that the weak and inefficient must always lag behind in the race of life. These are the commonplaces of the economist and the scientist, but they never reach the heart of the question.

Mrs. Widener's Pearls.

Boston Globe: The New York World has figured out that the rope of pearls which George D. Widener, of Philadelphia, gave his wife as a Christmas gift would buy 750,000 Christmas dinners at $1 each, or 500 homes at $1,500, or 100,000 winter dresses at $7.50, or support 1,000 families for a year—families whose expenses did not annually exceed $750 each.

If the exchange value of the pearls is $750,000, the World's estimate is correct. A rope of pearls can perform miracles, but simply because public opinion so wills. For pearls would be cheap if we only agreed to disregard them. The same is true of diamonds, apart from their use in mechanics. The valuation human beings put on such things is a perversion of the sense of proportion. That will be evident to any one who reflects on the following striking fact:

If Mrs. Widener, impelled to philanthropic action by the World's calculation of the tremendous power coiled in her rope of pearls, should sell her gift and devote the revenue to charitable purposes, she could found a large home for incurables, or a hospital for children, or buy overcoats at $3.75 each for 250,000 boys.

But if all owners of pearls should give them away for similar purposes, and all the people on the earth should estimate these gems at their intrinsic, not their exchange value, pearls could then work no more miracles, and Mrs. Widener's rope would be worth no more than the pieces of silver for which Judas bought a halter to hang himself with.

Whatever value gems and jewels have is given them by our perverted or distorted sense of worth, added somewhat by our esthetic appraisal.

Athletics in Schools.

Washington Herald: Discussing athletics and sports in this country, Prof. A. Werner-Spanhoofd, of this city, said that nowhere in the world had he found less active athletics among men and more talking and boasting about athletics than in this country; nowhere in the world such careless and criminal neglect of one of the most important factors in education.

"It is astounding how little attention is paid in our schools to a sound and systematic physical training of the growing youth," continued Prof. Spanhoofd, who is at the head of the foreign language department of the public schools of this city, "and yet it is of no less importance than spelling and arithmetic.

"In Germany the entire physical development of the child is in the hands of experienced, competent teachers. Do not confuse these men with our so-called coaches, trainers and crack ball players. It would be doing them an injustice. These teachers are as proficient in their department as the French language professor is in his, and they know many things of which our American athletes do not appear to have the faintest idea. For example, that athletics are only a means to a higher end; that they involve the harmonious development of all parts of the body alike, and that the development of one set of muscles at the expense of all the others is more injurious to health than no athletic exercise whatever.

"We in this country either neglect this important branch of our education entirely, or leave it to the judgment of our children, and stimulate their interest by prizes and false glory."

The Questioned Hour.

National Magazine: Senator Robert L. Taylor, of Tennessee, while governor of that state, attended a Christmas eve banquet, which extended far into the night, and when he went to his home he attempted to gain his room without awakening his wife. He was unsuccessful in this, however, and she called out through the darkness:

"What time is it?"

"Just 10, my dear," he answered.

At that moment the clock sounded two strokes.

"Did you hear that? It's 2 o'clock," said his wife.

"But, my dear, are you going to take the word of a nickel-plated clock against that of the governor of Tennessee?"

THE WEATHER.

A genuine cold wave hit Duluth during the night, and the mercury got down to 16 below zero at 7 o'clock this morning, with a 22-mile gale blowing. It was bright and dry, however, and far from disagreeable to a person warmly clad. The weather man looks for the cold weather to continue tonight.

A year ago today it was cold and clear.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and will set at 4:31, making eight hours and thirty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The northwestern cold wave has increased in intensity during the past twenty-four hours. Zero temperatures prevail in Minnesota, Northern Wisconsin, Nebraska, the Dakotas, Montana and Western Canada as a result of a strong high pressure area which extends from Saskatchewan southward to Nebraska. The lowest temperature reported was 44 deg. below zero at Prince Albert. During the past twenty-four hours low barometer areas centered over Eastern Ontario and New Mexico caused light snow in the St. Lawrence valley, lake region, upper Mississippi valley, the Dakotas, Iowa, Nebraska, Montana and Utah, and rain throughout the Ohio valley. Temperatures have risen along the Atlantic seaboard and in southeastern states.

"Indications favor generally fair and very cold weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight and Tuesday."

Following were the maximum temperatures for the last twenty-four hours and the minimum for the last twelve:

A Business Postoffice.

New York World: The postoffice department loses on carrying second-class mail matter $64,000,000 a year. Rural free delivery loses $23,000,000. Third-class matter costs $3,000,000 more than it yields. The franking privilege of congressmen costs $500,000 and that of the department $2,225,000. Against a total loss of $98,000,000 the vast profit of $80,000,000 on letters leaves a deficit of $17,479,770.

To meet this deficit Postmaster General Hitchcock in his annual report proposes that magazines should pay a higher rate than newspapers, or that a zone tariff should be established and second-class postage collected according to length of haul. Both these measures are objectionable. Neither is necessary.

No one will deny that American magazines taken as a class are educational; that their circulation is good for the country. It is upon that ground that such matter is carried below cost; and upon that ground it is carried at a loss by every postoffice in the world. If the assumption is wrong we may as well abolish the classification altogether and charge "what the traffic will bear."

But before doing this there are three things the postoffice department might try:

Introduce more business-like methods in the department, particularly reforming the payments to railroads for carrying mails.

2. Make congress and the departments pay postage like the rest of us. This would as a matter of bookkeeping be fair to the department; and it would be fair to the taxpayers, who ought to know what each department actually costs.

3. Establish a parcels post.

If we do not do these things, particularly the last, no tinkering with the magazine postage rate will keep up with the deficit. Rural free delivery is only twelve years old, but without a parcels post, it is costing already $28,000,000. Urgent political pressure must inevitably cause its rapid extension. It will grow. It must grow. It fills a need which voters feel. It will soon be costing $38,000,000 or $48,000,000 unless common sense comes to the rescue. With a parcels post, rural free delivery would in time pay for itself. As to its need—if a vote could be taken on the question "Shall we have the parcels post?" the answer would be "yes," by an overwhelming majority.

Why propose remedies which involve the reversal of the educational policy of many years of national development when a method of decreasing the deficit lies in sight, plain, practical and progressive? Why not a people's postoffice, serving the people better than now it serves them, instead of a postoffice serving them worse?

Football a Dead Duck.

Life: On Dec. 8, the board of education of New York voted overwhelmingly to abolish football in the League of the Public Schools after Jan. 1. The papers narrated that on the same day Dr. Lowell of Harvard Dr. Hadley of Yale and P. Houghton of Harvard to determine whether the life of the game of football could be prolonged by an operation on the rules. It will have to be a capital operation, dealing boldly with the very vitals of the game, if it is to do any lasting good.

The only question that remains about football is whether it is to be suppressed as an incorrigible sport or can be allowed to live on, humbly, on probation, under suspended sentence, until further tests can be made of its ability to lead a better life.

The disgust with it is not at all noisy, but is curiously wide and deep. As a spectacle the game has never been quite so popular as this year. But more people still stay away from football games than go to them, and the more thoughtful among those who go and those who stay away concur with remarkable unanimity in the conviction that American football, as played, is a dead duck.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

•••The capacity of Duluth's coal docks will be increased this season to 2,500,000 tons, the Pioneer Fuel company having decided to add 250,000 tons to its handling capacity.

•••Some twenty years ago, Joel Colby, a farmer, of Bingham, Me., bought over 160 acres of land, the northwest quarter of 6, 50-15, from J. D. Howard, for $5 an acre. About two years ago he moved here with his family, and now has a very flourishing market garden. In the past year he has sold to old friends in Maine four or five 10-acre tracts, and he expects them to arrive here in April, when there will be quite a settlement on the Howard road. He has also sold forty acres to several Duluthians, and this land will be cleared and improved this year.

•••Ward W. Bill of Duluth has received, through the death of a relative, a massive silver medal given by Queen Victoria to the deceased for personal heroism and bravery on the expedition up the Nile in 1884 and 1885. The medal now occupies a prominent place in Mr. Bill's fine collection of frontier curios. The Bill family was of Puritan descent, and came over in the Mayflower, and members of the family were identified with the early colonial struggle for independence. Old flintlock muskets, pistols, sabres and other military equipment also make Mr. Bill's collection of relics a very valuable one.

•••Mrs. R. H. Morford of Deerwood, Minn., who has been visiting friends in Duluth, has returned home. Miss Morford has arrived for a stay of some time, visiting Mrs. Cuyler Adams and several others.

•••Mrs. Horace Davis, Mrs. D. S. McKay, Misses Gould and Braithwaite entertained a large number of callers on New Year's day at the residence of Dr. Davis.

•••Mrs. F. H. White has gone to Waldo, Fla., where she will spend the winter.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

A Dangerous Contrast.

Austin Transcript: J. Pierpont Morgan recently paid $40,000 for two soup tureens, which he obtained in Paris. That money would have bought good soup without the tureen for tens of thousands of needy people.

Why?

Lake Crystal Union: If President Taft was so "eagerly" for the investigation of the Ballinger-Pinchot trouble, will you please tell us why he did not say so before the anti-Cannon members took hold of the matter?

Only Side Shows.

Albert Lea Tribune: Mr. Hearst predicts a third party. Our political history tells of innumerable side shows but only two real circuses.

No; Crochet Hook.

Cass Lake Times: Some think the message was written with a darning needle. What do you think about that?

Let 'Em Come.

Albert Lea Standard: All the signs are portent with a mighty political convulsion and they are ominous with trouble and it may be early disaster for the two old political parties. If it is to be it will be and so, welcome to it.

Has Bad Taxation Ideas.

Brainerd Dispatch: The Foley Independent thinks the next legislature should consider the proposition of reapportionment, an income tax, a 1-cent tax for good roads and the publication of the personal property tax list. The Foley editor should be sent to the legislature that he might incorporate his ideas into laws instead of suggesting it to the other fellow.

Now Is His Chance.

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: Congressman Miller voted for Cannon last spring, and then absolved himself, or thinks he did, by voting against the Payne tariff bill. There are many of the young congressman's former supporters who do not think the congressman was washed whiter than snow by the last act. Young Mr. Miller will have a heap of squaring to do when he enters the campaign for re-election.

Sounds Reasonable.

Cannon Falls Beacon: State conventions should not assume to dictate a candidate for United States senator until a choice for senator is made an issue in the primary preceding the state convention.

A Pessimist.

Grand Rapids Herald-Review: Since the government authorities have become determined to stop the sale of intoxicating liquors in the "Indian country" of Minnesota, why do they discriminate? If some dealers are permitted to handle the stuff, why not others? It would seem to a man of reason that the ruling borders on "class legislation," and therefore is unconstitutional. But still after all the fuss, the bucks will find some means of procuring "fire water," and the whole forbidden territory will become overrun with the bootleggers.

A Lovely Riot.

Ortonville Herald Star: Those gentlemen of the state fair whose greatest claim to agricultural accomplishments is found in the beautiful way in which they have farmed the farmers, are now engaged in a lovely riot among themselves. The real rights of the row are somewhat clouded, but it appears from our St. Paul letter this week that there are certain political interests involved and that a scalp or two and possibly a hide will be taken before the status quo is restored.

Pointed Paragraphs.

The first spare time a man gets he is always going to invent something wonderful.

A woman generally has an old rose put away that would be very romantic if she could remember how it happened.

Is There a Postal Deficit?

American Review of Reviews: It should be borne in mind that what President calls the deficit in the postoffice department is not real. The postoffice department is earning a large surplus profit on the business it carries on for its patrons. Even if all publishers and private individuals and firms withdrew their business from the postoffice department, the government would still have its own large distribution of letters and printed material to make for congress, for the departments at Washington, and for the official business of several hundred thousand people constituting the civil and military service of the United States. It would probably have to pay from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year to carry on its own postal business. Yet the books of the postoffice department do not make any account whatsoever of this vast item. It is safe to say that there is no other government in the world whose postal department is not credited with the expense it incurs for handling the business of the other departments. It is a scandal and a public disgrace that business should be done so loosely at Washington that no postoffice records are allowed to show what it actually costs to distribute the speeches of congressmen, the documents sent out from the agricultural and other departments, and the millions of letters relating to government business. It is just as much a matter of government expense to transport official documents as to transport troops. The war department makes record of the cost of transporting troops, but no reports of the postoffice department indicate the cost of carrying the government's own materials.

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Meggendorfer Blaetter: Lady—I would like you to paint my portrait with my hat on.

Painter—Good gracious, madam, you'll have to go to a landscape painter for that.

Japhet—Did father say this was the day for the beginning of the rain?

Shem—Not in so many words; but he went out minus his umbrella.

New York Sun: "Give me three grains of corn, mother; only three grains of corn," begged the child.

"And get pellagara? Nix," replied the parent. "Herewith the tot regretted the advance of science.

Yonkers Statesman: The Boss—Didn't you tell me you wanted to get off yesterday on account of a death?

The Boy—Yes, sir.

"And you went to a baseball game, I understand."

"Yes, sir; I heard they were going to kill the umpire."

Chicago Record-Herald: "I have a chance to marry an old man who has lots of money."

"Why don't you?"

"He hasn't any bad habits and comes of a long-lived family."

Chicago Record-Herald: "They say Harold Coddington has brain fever."

"Impossible. Could an angle worm have water on the knee?"

Chicago News: Anxious Mother—How do you know young Cashleigh is in love with you? Has he told you so?

The Hotel Clerk—Well, sir, No. 45, next to yours, is vacant, if you're not comfortable where you are.

The Week-Ender—That'll do nicely. I've set old 44 on fire.

Bon Vivant: "You like dogs, Mr. Taupin?"

"Very much. I've been eating nothing else since the siege."

Chicago Record-Herald: "The new dreadnought Delaware is the mightiest ship in our navy."

"Is it? Why, then, isn't it called the Rhode Island?"

Jim—Congressman.

When Jim was 'lected congressman four years ago, I vowed
My cup o' joy was brimmin' full, an' I was mighty proud;
"My Jim'll make his mark," I said, "the world will know his name,
He'll rise above th' common run, an'
win uncommon fame.
His voice will ring throughout th' land,
his words electrify."
An' then I sat t' wait fer him t' catch the Speaker's eye.

I bragged about my Jim a lot, my Jim in Washington,
"He'll show 'em how." I told my friends,
"this country should be run;
Jes' wait until he makes a speech, an'
then you'll all admit
That when it comes to wisdom, my boy
Jim is full of it."
An' so we waited. Weeks an' weeks an' months an' months went by,
An' Jim down there a-tryin' hard t'
catch the Speaker's eye.

Th' neighbors took t' jokin' me, if I went for a walk;
They'd stop me on th' street an' say:
"When's Jim 'a-goin' t' talk?"
Until at last I wrote t' Jim, an' said:
"My boy's it's time
You made that maiden speech of yours,
if you are goin' t' climb;
You can't fool your constituents; it ain't no use to try."
An' Jim wrote back: "I'm waintin' still t' catch th' Speaker's eye.

Each summer Jim come home t' us, he give some speeches here
That brought th' house down ev'ry time, an' made th' people cheer.
An' every time he went away we'd sit an' wait an' wait.
T' hear that Jim had had th' floor an'
led some big debate;
But not a word has come from him,
an' now when I pass by,
Folks twit me, askin' if my Jim has caught th' Speaker's eye.

Jim's back in Washington again, in congress makin' laws,
Plumb sure that this term he will get a chance t' plead his cause;
He's got on some committees, an' some big men know he's there,
Th' New York papers quoted him about some trust affair;
An' Ma an' I are prayin' now that we won't have t' die
Afore Jim's reckoned big enough t' get th' Speaker's eye.

KEEPS HIS INSURANCE JOB UNDER MORGAN

PAUL MORTON.

Paul Morton still is president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, although the control of the society has passed from T. F. Ryan to J. P. Morgan. Mr. Morton has held this position since 1905, when he resigned the office of secretary of the navy. He was in the Roosevelt cabinet one year and before that was an officer of railroad companies. He was reckoned as a line railroad man and it was his railroad record which suggested him to T. F. Ryan as a possible president of the Equitable. Mr. Morgan has not intimated a desire for a change so far as is known, and it seems likely that Mr. Morton will remain at the head of the company under the new administration.

DATA GIVEN BY NORRIS

Accuses Print Paper Men of Combining to Fix Prices.

Gives Wickersham Detailed Charges Backing Up Ridder's Statement.

New York, Jan. 3.—Herman Ridder, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, invited the attention of Attorney General Wickersham on Dec. 2 to statements made at a banquet of paper dealers of New York, in which it was said by a representative of the International Paper company that the president of the American Paper & Pulp association, A. C. Hastings, was advising paper mills what paper prices should be.

The attorney general referred the matter to United States District Attorney Wise of New York, who asked for specifications.

As a result of that request John Norris, chairman of the committee on paper of the Publisher's association, has submitted detailed data purporting to cover the following matters:

1. Restriction of forty-six news print paper mills in use of news print paper, which restrictions make impossible either an open market or public quotations of paper prices.

Alleges "Gentlemen's Agreement."

2. Actions of news print paper mills east of the Rock mountains in refusing to sell f. o. b. mills for spot cash or in quoting excessive prices because presumably it would interfere with a "gentlemen's agreement."

3. Refusal of many news print paper mills to sell other than 32-pound paper.

4. Restrictions of contracts by many paper mills to one-year periods and inclusion of wrappers on rolls in actual gross weight to be paid for.

5. Collection by the American Paper & Pulp association of daily reports from practically all news print paper mills and most of the other mills, which information has apparently been used as basis for concerted action in regulating prices.

6. "Trade customs" adopted by paper makers and used by them as basis for concerted action in regulating prices.

7. Meetings of paper makers to discuss prices.

8. Reported agreement upon news print paper price by two large paper-making concerns.

9. Action which seems to be contempt of court by former members of the General Paper company and of the fiber and manila pool, through disregard of injunctions of prohibition.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes. "My skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing forty pounds; growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death, in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine, Electric Bitters, cured me. I regained the forty pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at all druggists.

SCHOOL WORK IS RESUMED.

Teachers and Children Return to Work After Holiday Vacation.

The schools of the city reopened today after the two weeks' holiday vacation. Reluctantly after the excitement of the Christmas time, the boys and girls packed their books today and trudged back to the halls of learning for continuous study until the Easter respite.

The trains coming into the city yesterday were crowded with teachers, some of them bound for Duluth to resume their duties and others passing through to the range towns. Teachers as well as children have enjoyed the vacation and all are ready to settle down to work again.

HINES CHARGES INSANITY PLOT

Saskatchewan Farmers Said to Take His Statement Seriously.

Regina Sask., Jan. 3.—Interesting developments are likely to arise from the confinement in insane asylums of "Farmer" Hines, formerly of Hannah, N. D. Mr. Hines has made the following statement:

"I spent eight days in the Prince Albert insane asylum and twenty-nine days in a similar institution at Brandon. I was given up as a hopeless case and, with my wife, was put on a southbound train with tickets for North Dakota. I jumped that train and ten hours later was sitting in the Saskatchewan legislature chamber at Regina, listening to the government guaranteeing Canadian Northern bonds for a line from Melfort to Humboldt.

"I have now been given fifteen days in which to get into the states or go back to the asylum. By pretending to be insane I was able to ascertain who my enemies are in the railroad world and I have secured a bottle of the stuff with which they attempted to make me insane. I am having this analyzed and criminal proceedings will follow."

The farmers of Saskatchewan take Hines' statement seriously an dassert that he is not insane.

GAYNOR PASSES OUT SOME PLUMS

Says Murphy Is Not Trying to Dictate Any of the Appointments.

New York, Jan. 3.—Mayor Gaynor gave out last night a list of his appointments as far as he has made them, and an account of his relations with Charles E. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall. The letter began thus:

"When Mayor Gaynor was seen last evening he was found in his home library deep in the perusal of a little book called 'Wisdom of Benjamin Franklin.' When asked if the political leaders had been consulted in the making of appointements, he said: 'I feel that there is one great act of justice which I should do. I was nominated without even a suggestion being made as to what I should do as mayor. Since election Charles E. Murphy has called on me three times, each time asking me to appoint the best men to be found. His suggestion were few; he urged nothing, and kept saying to me that the responsibility was solely with me.'

"The statement concludes that those who think Murphy has 'horns and hoofs' should see him and say a kind word to him. They may be surprised."

Watson Is Counsel.

Among Mayor Gaynor's appointments are: Corporation counsel, salary $15,000, Archibald R. Watson; city chamberlain, salary $12,000, Charles H. Hyde.

"The police, street cleaning and health departments are to be dealt with hereafter. It is not believed that any of the incumbents will be retained permanently," concluded the statement.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS PUT ON TWO-ACT PLAYLET.

The members of the boys' department of the Y. M. C A. styling themselves the Colonial Stock company, put on an enjoyable playlet in two acts at the department building Saturday night. Those in the cast were: Stanley Lamb, Raymond Lowry, Albert Ewald, Clayton West, Phil Wood, Chester MsLeod, Frank Schamlle, Howard Strange, Willard Morgan, Dewey Oman and Clinton Wood. There were several musical numbers by Phil Wood, Chester McLeod, Stanley Lamb and the chorus.

TAFT GOES CALLING.

Breaks Precedent By Not Waiting for Lurton to Call First.

Washington, Jan. 3.—President Taft yesterday took away the breath of those who have maintained that the days of Jeffersonian simplicity have long departed and that the administration is taking on all the cermonial of a European court, when he calmly left the White House and paid a call on Judge Horace Lurton, the newly arrived associate justice of the supreme court. The affair was unique in that it is the unwritten law that new officials shall first pay their respects to the White House.

Accompanied by Capt. Butt, Mr. Taft made his way to one of the leading hotels. He inquired for Judge Lurton, who is an old friend, and when the clerk recovered from his surprise it was discovered that the judge was out for a walk.

"Too bad," said the president. "Tell him, please, that I called."

He then returned to the White House.

NEGROES AND WHITES IN RIOT IN HAVANA.

Havana, Jan. 3.—Two negro congressmen entered the bar at the Plaza hotel last night. This is distinctively an American house, and they were refused drinks. They went away immediately, but returned with a crowd of several hundred negroes. A riot ensued, which was only quelled by a strong force of police after a fight between the Americans and the negroes in which several were injured. Two Americans were arrested. It is thought that the riot was a concerted plan on the part of the negroes to give expression to the anti-American sentiment in Cuba.

KILLED BY MAN WHO FOLLOWED HIS WIFE.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 3.—William Keller was shot and killed last night by an unknown assailant, who with a companion had followed Keller's wife and his siter-in-law, Mrs. Peter Keller, home from a theater. Keller and his brother ran from the house and engaged the men, one of whom shot William, held Peter Keller at bay and covered his own and his companion's escape.

FRENCH PAPER DECLARES TARIFF WAR IS LIKELY.

Paris, Jan. 3.—The Journal Des Debats, commenting on Ambassador Bason's speech at Elysee Palace, where he was received on Friday by President Fallieres, expresses regret at the absence of any reference to the economic relations between France and the United States. It points out that if no agreement is reached before March 31 a tariff war appears to be inevitable.

HIT ON HEAD BY TIMBER

Joseph Connelly Meets Death While Working on Ore Docks.

While directing the operation of a derrick at ore dock No. 3 of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, where repairs are being made by the Barnett & Record company, Joseph Connelly was accidentally hit in the head by a timber, which fractured his skull Saturday. He was hurried to the hospital, where he died last evening from the injuries.

Mr. Connelly was a foreman for the Barnett & Record company, and had been in the employ of the company for a number of years. He was 29 years old and is survived by a wife and a baby girl, 1 year old, who resides at 2822 Huron street. His father is James Connelly, who for several years has been street inspector for the city, and who has made his home at 114 North Sixty-third avenue west for the past twenty years.

Besides his father, he is survived by four sisters, May, Ella, Kathryn and Rose and six brothers, Phillip, William, George, Robert, Herbert and John. The young man was married but two years ago. He is well known in West Duluth and at the West end.

The body is at the undertaking parlors of M. J. Ellatrault, awaiting funeral arrangements.

SLUGGED AND ROBBED OF ROLL

Roy Scanlon Has Encounter With Thugs at Minneapolis.

Roy Scanlon, a West Duluth young man, celebrated Christmas at Minneapolis, with disastrous results, according to a dispatch from the Mill City.

He is said to have accompanied three strangers to an East side celebration, but was slugged and robbed of $12, his available cash. They are claimed to have promised to show him some fireworks, but evidently he saw stars instead.

Scanlon and several others were sitting around a stove in a Bridge square lodging house, when the men started to talk of the forthcoming "entertainment." The men told in glowing terms of the fine time they were about to have, and Scanlon went with them to Second avenue south and the river bank. It seems, while he was waiting for the fireworks to start, one man is said to have struck him in the face, and another choked him, while the third went through his pockets. Scanlon believes that he could identify the men, and is helping the Minneapolis police search for them.

INVENTS NEW MATCH MACHINE

West Duluth Man Drawing Royalty From His Latest Device.

John W. Lundgren of 14, Forty-sixth avenue west has invented a machine which will turn out 14,400 matches per minute.

After spending several years in a match factory where he had an opportunity to study the present devices of making matches, Mr. Lundgren thought out a device which is a decided improvement on the old way.

His machine is fed by blocks cut in match lengths. The blocks are cut into matches, dipped into sulphur solution, dried and placed into boxes, ready for packing.

Mr. Lundgren has lived in Duluth nearly half a century, and three years ago, he gained considerable notoriety by perfecting a machine which is in use at the local match factory.

The new invention has been installed in a factory at Elkhart, Ind., where a company has been formed, which has taken over his invention on a royalty basis. The company is now turning out 34,000,000 matches per day.

PASTOR TALKS ON STRIKES

Says Middle Class Is Rapidly Being Eliminated From Society.

Taking as his text, the verse from Matthew 7:12 "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them," Rev. D. G. Cole, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street preached a sermon yesterday on "The Switchmen's Strike."

He did not say much that was applicable to the local trouble, but rather confined his talk to strikes in general. He said in part:

"I am a friend of the laboring man and in handling this difficult subject desire to be fair to all concerned. Labor has its rights, so has capital. In this great world-wide war, always being fought somewhere, Christians are being called to bear their part.

"The rapid decrease of the middle class is leaving us two opposing forces of society, the very rich and the very poor. The result is mansions and misery. Unless we get a more Christian-like social system, these opposing factions will close in on each other. The trouble will not wear itself out in the agitation, but bear the deadly fruit of envy, hatred and malice.

"The violence and barbarism incidental to strikes cannot avail. Murder has never had divine sanction, and the hot-headed doings of irresponsible leaders are shots wide of the mark. Where human wisdom is seen to have failed so many times, why not try God's way? The golden rule is the final solution. Christ is the best arbitrator, the most sincere friend of both sides.

"The pulpit and press, and every agency for good, must combine until men everywhere become world citizens and justice reigns. The national religion will then become universal, the ignorant wise, the weak strong, and love be the only scepter. Prejudice will die and in its place will be the reign of holy ideals, wise counsels, Christ-likeness everywhere. The church's mission will then be purely one of a guardian of the interests of society."

With the Curlers.

Two games were played Saturday night at the West Duluth curling rink in the contest for representation in the Manley McLennan trophy event. Hewitt defeated Clark, 8 to 6, and Wade went down at the hands of Miller, 10 to 9.

With the skaters the holiday was perhaps the biggest event so far this season. There was special music during the afternoon and evening. This evening, Evered is scheduled to play Method, and Buckley will take on Zauft. The lineup of the games Saturday night follows:

W. Sullivan,	Meldrum,
J. A. Scott,	Rockwell,
Mallory,	Feeley,
Clark, skip—6.	Hewitt, skip—8.
Jacoby,	Cummings,
Meldahl,	Collier,
Staples,	Brown,
Wade, skip—9.	Miller, skip—10.

Organ Dedication.

With an elaborate program the new church organ of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street, was dedicated Saturday night.

Prof. C. R. Youngdahl, the Minneapolis organist, did not arrive in Duluth.

Rev. J. A. Krantz preached the dedicatory sermon, and addresses were given by Rev. Carl Solomson and Mayor R. D. Haven. The musical program was furnished by Prof. A. F. Lundholm, organist, the Orpheus male quartet, the Elim church choir and Miss Alice Sjoselius, soloist.

Entertained at Cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baker entertained a number of their friends at their home New Year's night at a card party. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. Keller, Mrs. T. Santer, Mrs. George Dunleavy and Mrs. T. Sennett. An oyster supper was served. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames: F. Pokoney, J. O'Brien, J. Keller, R. Baker, G. Dunleavy, C. Kauppi, J. Santere, Billy Baker, T. Sennett, and Messrs. George and Earl Edwards.

HOW FASHION ROBS FARMERS.

Outing: According to William Dutcher, president of the Audubon Societies of the United States, birds save to the farmer $200,000,000 a year in the destruction of noxious insects and noxious weeds. The great destroyers of birds are the plume hunters for millinery purposes. Birds destroyed for food are restocked by natural process, but the plume hunters recognize no closed season.

Millinery interests in America represent $38,000,000 worth of work done by the birds for the farmers. As bobwhite is the arch destroyer of the potato bug and the cuckoo of the caterpillar and the woodpecker of the boring grub and the lark of the grasshopper and the sparrow of the weed seeds, President Dutcher thinks the birds are entitled to at least fair play from the milliners.

You can make some of your store hopes come true this summer—if you advertise as though you wanted to do that.

EASY MONEY FOR AGENTS

Employment Men Take Advantage of Boy's Youth and Innocence.

Henry Nelson of Calumet, Lonesome and Broke in Zenith City.

The pitiful case of a young boy, out of work, lonesome, discouraged and in absolute want was brought forcibly to the notice of A. P. Cook, county poor commissioner this morning when Henry Nelson of Calumet, Mich., applied for help. Because he did not belong here, Mr. Cook could do nothing for him.

Some weeks ago the lad ran away from a good home in Calumet. He was not afraid to work and he wanted to take the world by the horns. He took hold in the right spirit, but his innocense was taken advantage of by employment agents and he was sent to Mandan, N. D., where he was to have work in the woods.

He paid the $3 for a job gladly. It was his last but he parted with it in good spirit for he thought he was going to earn more. After one-half day's work near the Dakota town he was discharged. No reason was given for this action on the part of the foreman only that he had help in plenty, too much in fact.

Nelson got to Fargo, where he thought he would find work. He was disappointed, however, and without a place to lay his head and no money for food, he was at a loss to know what to do. He applied to the county commissioner for aid and he sent him to Duluth.

This morning he called on Mr. Cook and was greatly disappointed when told that nothing could be done for him. He said that all he wanted was a little money to tide him over, and told how he hated to go back to Calumet and admit that he was a failure.

Young Nelson said that he would manage somehow to get back to dear old Calumet and that he never would again leave the Michigan city.

Butte-Alex Scott Mine on Butte Hill

The Richest Hill in the World

We are now getting big showings on the 1400-foot level of this mine. If the stock holders do not make a clean $2,000,000 inside of the next 90 days we will be much disappointed, for the showing is certainly big enough. Five big veins yet to cut.

MARTIN ROSENDAHL.

THE POLICE COURT GRIST

Nels Peterson was fined $25 and costs in the county jail in police court this morning for carrying a revolver in his pocket. He started an argument with a man in a Bowery saloon Saturday and kept making constant motions toward his hip pocket. The man called a patrolman, who went through his pockets, locating the smoke wagon. Peterson claimed to be from the woods and to be taking the gun to the city to have it repaired.

Thomas Taylor, colored, got $50 and costs or fifty days in the county jail for resisting an officer. Saturday afternoon his wife called at the police station stating that he had thrown her from their home under the Lake avenue viaduct. Jailor Walter Murray was sent down, and when he arrived Taylor threatened to shoot him. "Don't take any chances, because I can shoot a bit, myself," answered Murray. Whereupon he went after him, landing him after a tussle. He didn't have the cash and went to stop with the sheriff during the cold weather.

David Reed has been on a protracted spree and got fifteen days straight to sober up.

Wilfred Debow and Carl Spooner, arrested for disorderly conduct at the West end roller rink yesterday, pleaded not guilty and will be tried this afternoon. It appears that Debow refused to throw away a cigarette, whereupon an officer was called. Spooner tried to interfere in Debow's behalf, and both were brought to headquarters.

WRIGHT BROTHERS GIVEN INJUNCTION.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Judge Hazel, in the United States court, today granted a preliminary injunction applied for by the Wright brothers against the Herring Curtiss company and Glenn H. Curtiss, restraining the defendants from manufacturing and selling aeroplanes.

NOT LOST, BUT GONE BEFORE.

Cassell's Journal: The canny old Scot possessed a fine collie dog, and the American visitor was trying his best to induce its owner to sell it to him.

"Wud yo be takin' him to America?" inquired the old shepherd.

"Wal, I guess so," said the Yankee.

"I thocht as moch. Weel, I canna part wi' Jock."

Just then an English tourist came up, and after some haggling the shepherd sold the collie to the newcomer for much less than the American had offered.

The latter was much annoyed.

"You told me you wouldn't sell him, stranger," said he, when the purchaser had departed.

"Na, na," replied the Scot, "I said I couldna part wi' him. Jock'll be back in a day or two, never fear. But he couldna swim the Atlantic."

SUPERIOR

SIX ARRESTED IN GAMBLING RAID.

For the second time within a week the Superior police have raided gambling dens along Tower avenue, making several captures.

Last evening the police broke in on a midnight poker game which was being played in a rear room at the store of Harry Witz, at 1104 Tower avenue, and arrested six men.

At the police station they gave fictitious names, but the police say that the young men are well known about the city. Each put up $10, which was forfeited by non-appearance in court this morning. Witz, in whose store the game was played, was not arrested.

Alumni at Banquet.

The annual banquet of the alumni of St. Joseph's school, a German Catholic institution, was held last evening at the school hall. The program and the dinner began at 5 o'clock. O. M. Delphenick acted as toastmaster and Right Rev. Bishop Schinner gave the principal address.

Open Installation.

An open installation of officers of the switchmen's union was held Saturday afternoon at the Odd Fellows temple, F. T. Hawley, grand president of the order, presiding at the meeting. Addresses were also given by President Howley of the Minnesota Federation of Labor and Mrs. Purdy of Duluth. Questions resulting from the present labor difficulties were discussed.

Big Music Festival.

Superior musicians are already planning for a May festival of music to be given under the direction of Edwin Harris Bergh. The festival will be be given at the Grand opera house during the middle of May. It is planned to have two noted Chicago vocalists and several members of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra here for the event.

Banquet a Success.

The Happy Home Club of Superior held its first annual banquet Saturday evening at the Hotel Superior, the affair being attended by the entire membership of the order in Superior. A choice menu was served, and a good program was given after the dinner. De Witt Conkey acted in the capacity of toastmaster.

Loses His Leg.

C. J. Leuth, an imported strikebreaker, employed as a switchman in the Great Northern yards, was crushed under the wheels of a switch engine Saturday, with the result that he had to have a leg amputated above the knee at St. Mary's hospital yesterday.

If you are one of the two people necessary to a real estate transaction, let a want ad. introduce you to the other one.

BRISK TRADING IN DULUTH COPPERS

Local Market Has Active Session, With Some Advances.

The Eastern market opened strong today, but heavy selling in steel caused the list to weaken and the market declined and was soft throughout the day.

The local market was fairly strong, with trading heavy, 32,535 shares changing hands. Twenty-three thousand shares of Calumet & Corbin were traded in. The activity was broad and several issues scored marked advances.

Calumet & Sonora was one of the leaders, selling from $15 up to $16 and then at $15.50. Butte-Alex Scott part paid sold at $5.75 up to $6, and then at $5.87½. The full paid sold at $9. Butte-Ballakiava was a sale at $11 and at $11.25. Cordova was active, the part paid selling at $1.25 up to $1.32½, and the full paid at $3.37½ up to $3.69½.

Warrior was in demand and advanced from a sale at $14.25 to trading at $14.50. Butte & Superior hit $3, being exceedingly strong. Calumet & Montana sold at $2.18¼ and then at $2.25. Calumet & Corbin was traded in heavily at $1.18¼ and $1.25, most of the transactions, however, being at $1.12½. Keating sold up to $2.50 and St. Mary's brought 40 cents.

Amalgamated opened at $90.50 and declined to $89.75 and advanced to $90. Calumet & Arizona sold at $103 down to $102. North Butte was a sale at $50 and then down to $49 and then to $48.75. Giroux sold at $1.25 and the same at the close, fluctuating closely. Greene sold at $1.87½ down to $1.50.

The acquisition of a block of 15,000 shares of Calumet & Corbin by a group of St. Paul men on the Duluth stock exchange this morning represented the final transaction in the actual reorganization of the company, though the plans of the underwriters have not been fully carried out. The stock was obtained at $1.12½. More than 20,000 shares of the stock changed hands in the morning. The block of 15,000 shares represents the guarantee of the underwriters to carry out their plans of reorganization.

The capital stock of the Calumet & Corbin is now $1,500,000, represented by 150,000 shares, having a par value of $10. The owner of the property holds 50,000 shares and the public purchased 100,000 shares at $1. In the reorganization the 150,000 shares will be called in. The capital stock of the reorganized company will comprise 500,000 shares with a par value of $1. The stock will be full paid and non-assessable. Two hundred thousand shares will be retained in the treasury. Of the remaining 300,000 shares, 150,000 will be exchanged share for share for the 150,000 shares now outstanding. The other 150,000 shares of new stock will be taken by the underwriting syndicate, which comprises a group of St. Paul men. The present stock sold today at $1.12½ and $1.18¼.

The president of the reorganized company will be Capt. J. M. Wilcox, superinterdent of Mass Consolidated and the probable president of Lake if a rumored change in control takes place. B. J. Cook of Duluth will be the treasurer. The secretary, vice president and the other five directors will be St. Paul men. The transfer office will be in St. Paul.

A large stockholder said today that the shaft is down 300 feet and that the company intends to put the structure down to the 1,000-foot level, having ordered compressors, boilers and other machinery. The hoist now in use has a capacity for 1,000 feet.

Martin Rosendahl has received the following message from Butte: "Scotts went through four feet vein commercial ore today twenty-five feet from station on 1,400-foot level."

It is expected that several of these strikes will be made in the developments now under way, the principal object being to show up and exploit the Modoc vein.

Walker's copper letter in Saturday's Boston Commercial said:

"Copper is stronger. Lake is 14 cents and electrolytic is 13¾ cents per pound. Considerable sales have been made at these prices within the past few days. The consumptive demand has increased to such a point that consumers have been forced to come into the market, and producers are unwilling to sell any more metal at the low prices which have prevailed through the greater portion of the year.

"The prediction that copper would sell at 14 cents before Jan. 1 has been verified, and the anticipation that it will go to 15 cents should be realized soon. Consumption is now increasing more rapidly than production. There is likely to be a decided scarcity of copper within three or four months and the price may go well above 15 cents. The use of water power for the generation of electricity and the electrification of manufacturing plants and transportation lines, the extension of electric lighting in various fields, including for advertising purposes, and the steadily growing use of the telephone in rural districts, are combining to greatly increase the consumption of copper the world over. When the work of electrifying the great trunk lines of railroads between the principal cities of the Northeastern, Central and Southern portions of the United States and the electrification of the mountain divisions of the several transcontinental lines gets fairly under way the price of copper, in my opinion, will again advance to around 20 cents and remain at approximately that level for two or three years. I believe that plans for this railroad electrification are bing laid out now and that they will be adopted within a year or two and the work well under way within three years. There is every prospects that the average price of copper in 1910 will be 15 cents and there is reason to hope that it will be maintained at approximately this price until consumption so far exceeds production as to cause a further advance."

THEY WRESTLED UNTIL MIDNIGHT

Match Between Person and Demetral Was Declared a Draw.

Chris Person, the big Duluth heavyweight wrestler, returned to Duluth this afternoon from Hancock, Mich., where, Saturday night, he wrestled Demetral, the Chicago Greek, the man who stayed an hour with Zbyszko, and considered one of the best of the Chicago heavies, to a tie.

Person secured the first fall in exactly forty-seven minutes. Demetral secured the second fall in forty-eight minutes. The men wrestled until 12 o'clock without being able to secure the third and deciding fall. The bout was declared a tie. Person is sore today from the terrific struggle. He was not in the best of condition, owing to the fact that he was obliged to jump out of Duluth after his gruelling match with Emil Peterson, without securing any rest.

Person will leave tonight for Fort William, where he has agreed to throw two Finnish heavyweights twice in an hour. If he wins this match he will go on with Carl Letho, the Big Finn, who claims the championship of the Copper country.

Grave Digger Kills Himself.

Janesville, Wis., Jan. 3.—John Schlinder, a grave digger, shot and killed himself today when arrested, charged with numerous burglaries. Several hundred dollars' worth of property was recovered.

READ THIS TO YOUR HUSBAND.

The eloquent Lyman Abbott, at an editor's luncheon in New York, advocated an allowance—as it were a salary—for the wife, says Lippincott's Magazine.

Dr. Abbott concluded his strong argument with a case in point.

"A man," he said, "upbraided his helpmate for the extravagant cost of a new lingerie gown.

"'If you women had to earn your money,' he barked, 'you'd be more careful how you spent it.'

"His wife laughed shrilly.

"'Earn it, indeed!' she cried. 'How would you men like to beg yours?'"

DIDN'T WORK FOR IT.

Andrew Carnegie, at a dinner in New York, continued his indictment of Great Britain and Germany for their barbarous and stupid building of warships, says Lippincott's Magazine.

"How perverted," said Mr. Carnegie, "is a nation that thinks to promote peace by augmenting its armament. As though my neighbor and I should point cannon at each other's houses from every window, explaining, whenever we crowded a half-dozen more guns in, that this sort of thing heightened neighborly feeling and good fellowship!

"Perverted indeed," said Mr. Carnegie, "are such ideas of peace! As perverted as the New York aristocrat's idea of honor.

"A young Westerner came to this aristocrat and asked him for his daughter's hand.

"'I can support her in good style,' he said. 'I am worth $11,000,000.'

"The aristocrat, whose family had done no work since his grandfather, forty years before, had retired from the wholesale clothing business, frowned and said thoughtfully:

"'But, my young friend, did you make this money in—er—trade?'

"'Trade?' said the suitor haughtily. 'I guess not! I'm in the legislature.'"

TO FEAST ON A FAT BISHOP.

Everybody's: Bishop Goodsell of the Methodist Episcopal church weighs over 200 pounds. It was with mingled emotions, therefore that he read the following in Zion's Herald some time ago:

"The announcement that our New England bishop, Daniel A. Goodsell, has promised to preach at the Willimantic camp meeting, will give great pleasure t othe hosts of Israel who are looking forward to that feast of fat things."

GRATEFUL FOR TRUTH.

Indianapolis News: In a small Southern Indiana town is a liveryman who has ideas of his own about conducting his business. For example:

Not long ago an Indianapolis drummer, known for his ability to get around in a hurry, had one of old Henry's rigs with which he drove to a neighboring town. Part of the way was over a corduroy road. The drummer's business detained him longer than he expected, and when he finally got back in the buggy for the return trip he found that he would have to drive some to catch a train.

He made the livery outfit scamper along the road at a lively pace. Finally, when he struck the corduroy road, he felt something snap, and knew that he had broken a spring on the buggy. He saw visions of having to make the damage good to old Henry. When he reached the barn he jumped out and said:

"Henry, I broke a spring. How much do I owe you?"

"How did you break it, Gus?" asked the liveryman.

"Driving like the dickens over a rough road," the drummer answered frankly.

"Then, you don't owe me anything."

"Why, how's that?"

"Well, that's the first time I ever had a spring broke that way. It's a new way o' breakin' them. All I ever had broke before was broke drivin' easy over a smooth road."

AN ACTOR'S READY RETORT.

Omaha Bee: When Barry Sullivan, the Irish tragedian, was playing "Richard III" one night and the actor came to the lines, "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" some merry wag in the pit called out:

"And wouldn't a jackass do as well for you?"

"Sure," answered Sullivan, turning like a flash at the sound of the voice, "Come round to the stage door at once!"

The things that are for sale but that are not worth advertising are certain not worth the attention of serious people.

MAKES STOMACH TROUBLE VANISH

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia Five Minutes Later.

Why not get some now—this moment, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion? A dieted stomach gets the blues and grumbles. Give it a good eat, then take Pape's Diapepsin to start the digestive juices working. There will be no dyspepsia or belching of gas or eructations of undigested food; no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach or heartburn, sick headache and dizziness, and your food will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin costs only 50 cents for a large case at any drug store here, and will relieve the most obstinate case of indigestion and upset stomach in five minutes.

There is nothing else better to take gas from stomach and cleanse the stomach and intestines, and, besides, one single dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all your food the same as a sound, healthy stomach would do it.

When Diapepsin works, your stomach rests—gets itself in order, cleans up—and then you feel like eating when you come to the table, and what you eat will do you good.

Absolute relief from all Stomach Misery is waiting for you as soon as you decide to take a little Diapepsin. Tell your druggist that you want Pape's Diapepsin, because you want to become thoroughly cured this time.

Remember, if your stomach feels out-of-order and uncomfortable now you can get relief in five minutes.

TOOK TOO MANY CHANCES.

Lumberjack Is Caught By Falling Tree and Killed.

Ontonagon Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Steve Perten of Ontonagon, a lumberjack in the employ of the Ontonagon Lumber & Cedar Co., met a tragic death Friday by being caught under a tree which he had felled himself. He remained too long near the tree, which, falling, pinned him to the ground, causing instant death.

Deceased was about 35 years old and had been in the employ of the lumber company for about a year and a half. He leaves no relatives in this country, though he has a wife and family in Europe.

CHICAGO HOTEL FOR POOR STRANGERS.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—A $750,000 hotel for poor strangers in Chicago, containing 1,500 sleeping-rooms, bathrooms, large social and lounging rooms and a restaurant, is to be built in the "loop" district, or just outside of it, by the Central Y. M. C. A.

Details of the plans for the proposed hostelry, which already has been indorsed by prominent Chicago business men and will have their financial support, were outlined yesterday by I. Wilbur Messer, secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., whose investigations and work among young men coming into the city without funds or friends have indicated that it is one of the most pressing needs of Chicago today.

The hotel will be modeled after the "Mills" hotels in New York and will have all the conveniences of the regular Y. M. C. A. dormitory, except the gymnasium.

Funds to carry out the project will be raised by popular subscription. None of the money coming from the estate of the late Thomas Murdoch, or of the $50,000 given the association for its semi-centennial fund by John G. Shedd, will be used for this purpose.

SAYS HE WRECKED TRAIN TO GET MONEY.

Union City, Ind., Jan. 3.—Vernon Plessinger, 18 years old, of Anderson, Ind., was arrested here late last night charged with having opened a switch and wrecked the Knickerbocker limited on the Big Four railroad at Dawn, Ohio, Saturday night.

Plessinger confessed, the police say and gave as his motive that he wished to rob the passengers and go to some seaboard town where he could "join the navy."

ON THE IRON RANGES

CAPT. ROSEWALL GETS PROMOTION

Chisholm Mining Man Is in Charge of Three Keewatin Properties.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. James Rosewall of the Myers mine has been transferred to Keewatin, where he will have charge of three mines, instead of one at Chisholm. Capt. Richard Mitchell of Hibbing succeeds Capt. Rosewall here.

The Shenango mine has been closed down for a few days to make repairs. The success of motor cars underground, in place of mules, having been demonstrated by the Oliver Iron Mining company, the Shenango Furnace company has just decided to adopt the same idea, and it is for the purpose of putting in the motor cars that the mine has been closed.

OFFER PRIZES FOR THE SKI JUMPERS

Officers of Itasca Ski Club Arrange for National Meet.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald)—Liberal prizes will be offered at the national ski tournament to be held here Feb. 19 and 20. This was decided at the meeting of the directors of the Itasca Ski club held yesterday.

The officers decided to appropriate $500 for prizes, this being the limit fixed by the national association. Of this amount $450 will go to the professional jumpers and $50 will be awarded for the winners of a ten-mile cross-country run.

In addition to these there will be fifteen prizes such as cigars, pipes, medals and cups for the amateurs. The exact amount of money that will be represented by these prizes is not stated, but it is assured that they will be the best of their kind.

Instead of a big banquet Feb. 20 there will be a Dutch lunch, which will be followed by music and speaking. On the evening before the tournament actually begins, Feb. 18, there will be a big dance in the hall of the Greenway school.

The committee on prizes is O. A. Mangseth, Harry Clark and Alexander King. The athletic committee is J. J. Speck, Ralph Whitmas and Harry Clark.

EVELETH CURLERS BUSY.

Lots Doing These Days in Contesting for Trophies.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth Curling club has begun play for the Hayes & Casey trophy. Eighteen rinks are contesting, and the games are proving very interesting.

The curling club has also arranged for matches with Virginia, which will be held every Friday during the season, the game to be played alternately on the rinks of the two clubs. The first game under this arrangement will be played on the local club's rinks.

The club has also arranged for the appearance of the Juvenile Bostonians Feb. 9, in the Othello theater. The proceeds from this entertainment will go for the benefit of the club.

MAYOR SHOOTS WHITE OWL.

Eveleth Executive Picks Bird Off County Commissioner's House.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—An interesting bit of hunting news has been made public by Mayor Smith's admission of having shot a large white owl recently from the chimney of County Commissioner Nell McInnis' residence on Jones street. The shot was made with a shotgun in the hands of the mayor, early in the morning, from Mayor Smith's garden, which is opposite the McInnis residence.

The owl is in Duluth, having been sent there by the mayor for mounting by a taxidermist.

INSTITUTE AT RAPIDS.

Itasca County Farmers to Be Addressed on Jan. 11.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald)—Tuesday, Jan. 11, a farmers' institute will be held here with F. D. McLaren of Marshall, Minn., in charge.

H. G. Larson of Bernes, Minn., who has a fine dairy farm which he has made a success, will assist Mr. McLaren, and Frank Gibbs of St. Paul, a well known and successful gardener, will be the other speaker among the conductors.

Prof. A. J. McGuire of the northeastern experiment farm, will be present and assist in the meetings.

The local Commercial club will entertain and look after the visiting farmers and provide lunch during the day. It is expected that the institution will be the best ever held in the county.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEAD.

George W. Love Who Served in First Wisconsin Is Called.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Heart failure claimed George W. Lore, a veteran of the Civil war, who has been employed by William Richardson. The deceased was a member of the First battalion of light artillery of Wisconsin, and served during the Civil war from 1861 to 1864. As he was alone in the world, he was buried in the Soldiers' cemetery by the B. F. Huson post, G. A. R.

ODD FELLOWS' COMPETITION.

Biwabik, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Local Odd Fellows are preparing for plenty of excitement Friday evening, when the first degree team will compete for the $50 silk flag.

All the range lodges are to be entered in the competition, and it is figured that Biwabik is at a disadvantage, for the others will have an opportunity to see where improvements may be made on the work as Biwabik does it.

New Eveleth Basket Ball Team.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—An independent basket ball team has been formed and will commence its practicing this evening in the high school gymnasium. Those who have signified their intentions of trying for places on the team are Louis Andrews and Richard Floyd of the 1909 high school team; Henry Levant, a former city team star; Oscar Hill, an experienced guard; Arnold Hublin, a former Madison player, and John Massouci, a St. John's college star.

Officers will be elected this evening.

FINDS HUSBAND COLD IN DEATH

Mrs. Chas. Ogren of Two Harbors Makes Grewsome Discovery.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Ogren, formerly employed in the local car shops as sweeper, shot himself in the right temple some time Saturday night. His body, frozen stiff, was found in the woodshed early Sunday morning by his wife, who visited the building for fuel to start a fire. A revolver in the right hand told of self-destruction.

Ogren had not been working steadily for several weeks, but had been wandering around a good deal. Some time ago he hired a team at a local livery and drove to Duluth, forgetting to bring back the team. He returned home New Year's, and when he left the house in the evening that was the last seen of him alive.

Where he got the gun, or what his reason for committing suicide was, is a mystery. Evidently the first shot took effect, for but one chamber of the revolver was empty, and there was but one wound in the body. Ogren lived on Eleventh avenue.

WOULD SAVE ROSSI FROM THE GALLOWS

United Temperance Societies Will Ask Governor to Commute Sentence.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—At the recent meeting of the United Temperance societies here, an agitation was started that will result in protest being laid before Governor Eberhart against the execution of Mike Rossi, sentenced by Judge Cant to hang at Duluth for first degree murder.

A paper protesting against the execution is being circulated.

The temperance societies of this city are unanimously against capital punishment, and will also endeavor to have the state legislature at the next session, enact a law, repealing the capital punishment statute. The first move against Rossi's execution was made at the United Temperance societies' meeting, when Ephraim Johnson, of Elcho, in a stirring speech, voiced the sentiments of the meeting. He protested against the proposed hanging in unmeasured terms and urged an appeal to the governor.

SULLIVAN'S DOGS WINNERS IN RACES

Canines Fly Through Eveleth Streets in Novel Racing Stunt.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The dog races Saturday were well attended. Races were held in the morning and afternoon, and much credit is accorded the official judges, J. P. Tredinnick, T. H. Davey, Albert Hohrer; starter, William Burke; treasurer, Oliver Kost. Each did their work in making the affair a success.

In the morning race of six heats, entered by single dogs, Joseph Sullivan took first prize, $5; Tom Shea, second, $3; Joe Bartell, Virginia, third, $2, and Tom Rodda, fourth, $1. Many more were in the race, and it was exciting throughout, it being necessary in some cases to run some of the heats to determine the winners of the same. Many dogs were entered from out of town and gave the local racers a hard time.

In the afternoon races held on Grant avenue Joe Sullivan again took first prize, $5; Tom Shea, second, $3; Claude Farley, third, $2; John Hooper, fourth, $1. Five heats were run in this race to determine the winners. Single dogs were entered in this race, and fast time was made by the contestants.

Final Race Exciting.

The final race of the afternoon proved the most interesting of the day, being a double harnessed race, with Charles Crottier of Eveleth, and Joe Sullivan of the Adams, as the contestants. Two heats were run of four blocks each, from the Hotel Eveleth to the Oakland corner. The first heat was won by Crottier, after Sullivan had gained a block's lead. Crottier's animals in a spurt of speed, crossing the line a few feet ahead of the Sullivan animals. The next heat was run up the street, and against the wind, but proved very interesting, it being a neck-and-neck race until near the finish, when Sullivan by clever driving managed to get his animals across the line some distance ahead of Crottier. The contestants were each given $2.50, and Sullivan, as the best winner of the day, was presented with a year's subscription to Dogdom, a canine magazine, by John Adams of this city.

EVELETH BOY BURIED.

Son of Foreman in Newspaper Office Borne to His Grave.

Eveleth, Minn., Jen. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Gordon Sundberg, aged 9, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Sundberg of this city, died Saturday of spinal meningitis. He had been sick since Tuesday.

The deceased came to this city, from Virginia, where his father was employed as foreman on the Virginian. His father is now employed as foreman of the Star office. The funeral was held this afternoon, with interment at Virginia.

The funeral of John Kern, aged 46, a blacksmith, who fell dead of heart failure, on his way to work, Thursday morning, at the Pettit mine, was held Saturday afternoon from the Holy Family church, with many friends of the deceased in attendance. Burial was at Virginia.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald)—John Williams, who has been employed in the machine department of the Shenango mine, has received a promotion, and will go to the Webb mine, near Hibbing, to take charge.

Aurora Baby Dead.

Aurora, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 19-month-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. August Kunti died suddenly of stomach trouble. The little one had been apparently as healthy as could be wished until Saturday when it was taken sick and grew steadily worse until its death.

Ely Man to Forestry School.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Leslie Brownell of this city has been appointed to the national forestry service, and will spend a month in the National School of Forestry at Missoula, Mont., after which he will return to this city and work in the national forest in this vicinity.

CANADA IN NEED OF MORE LABOR

Manufacturers' Association Announces That Members Need More Help.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 3.—That there is likely to be a labor famine in Canada throughout the year 1910 is the announcement officially made by the Canadian Manufacturers' association. The association has recently been circularizing its members as to the situation and the outlook. The replies indicate that all along the line industry is swinging into its old stride throughout the dominion and that generally Canada is now at the beginning of such an era of prosperity as will advance the country far beyond all previous records.

Out of a total of 463 manufacturers from whom replies have so far been received, 156 are already in need of more help. This is a remarkable showing in view of the fact that with the approach of winter and the ceasing of outdoor work there is ordinarily a big influx of men into factory towns and, in consequence, an abundance of labor.

These 156 manufacturers alone say that they require 5,962 employes, 2,224 males and 3,708 female. Of these, 2,216 are wanted in the province of Quebec, 3,302 in Ontario and the balance in the other provinces from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

In British Columbia the demand is for lumbermen. In Manitoba labor is needed in iron working, clothing and printing. Many industries in Quebec are short of labor and in Ontario the list is large. About 80 per cent of the men required by these two provinces are skilled and of the women 33 per cent.

Interesting evidence as to the value of Athabasca oil fields has been given before the dominion senate committee on mineral resources by Alfred von Hammerstein, who stated that for the last eight years he had been exploring a field between 320 and 350 miles north of Edmonton. He and his associates had spent some $85,000, suffered untold hardship and had drilled fourteen wells, scattered over an area of sixty miles.

Some of these wells had revealed the presence of oil and gas in large quantities. The wells varied in depth from 250 to 1,200 feet. He declared that in the district in which he was boring there were inexhaustible supplies of maltha oil. Near the surface it was found in a hardened state, while sixty feet lower down it was found in a semi-liquid condition. His work had been carried on secretly.

Although there were no people in the district and he had no neighbors, yet news of the day had leaked out somehow, and a joint stock company had been formed, which had been advertised extensively in Canada and the United States and had used his name without authority to boom a property at least 250 miles away, he declared.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR MISSOURI

Democrats Will Meet at Banquet in Kansas City Saturday.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 3.—At a $2 a plate dinner to be given here next Saturday night, several hundred Democrats, representing seventy-five Missouri counties willbe in attendance. The gathering has been called for the purpose of outlining the issues of the next state campaign.

Several speakers of national importance have accepted invitations to speak. The list includes Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, chairman of the National Democratic committee; Champ Clark, minority leader in the house of representatives, Former Governor Joseph W. Folk, Senator William J. Stone and Former Governor David R. Francis.

FIRST NORTHWESTERN ENGINEER DEAD AT 87.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 3.—Benjamin Garvin, the first engineer on the Northwestern road, died in the Odd Fellows' home at Green Bay, aged 87 years. Mr. Garvin was born at Chichester, N. H., in 1822 and came to Fond du Lac in 1850.

ALUMNI TO RAISE FUND

Yale Graduates Will Provide a Scholarship for Duluth Boy.

Plans Formed at Annual Banquet of Local Association.

A Duluth boy will be given the advantage of a scholarship at Yale university, if the plans of the Yale Alumni Association of the Head of the Lakes are successful.

The annual banquet of the association was held Saturday evening at the Glitchi Gammi club, about twenty-five Yale graduates attending, and plans were discussed for a scholarship fund, of $400 a year, for the purpose of sending a Duluth man to Yale university. The money will be in the shape of a loan, which will be paid back when the beneficiary graduates or as soon after that as he can earn the money.

A committee of five was appointed to look into the plans. It is composed of the following members: Sherman Coy of Cloquet, J. A. Savage of Hibbing, and E. C. Congdon, John Peyton and W. S. Telford of Duluth.

The alumni will select the beneficiary and will see him through four years of college life. When he graduates another will be chosen.

The alumni also elected officers Saturday as follows: Sherman Coy, president; John Greenway, vice president; Seth Marshall, treasurer; E. C. Congdon, secretary.

Representatives of other colleges were present and made short addresses. A. W. Taussig represented Harvard; Wilson Bradley, Princeton; Arthur House, Columbia; George C. Stone, Michigan; W. B. Sliey, Brown.

THE SYMPHONY IS EXPLAINED

Lecture Accompanies Free Concert at the Masonic Temple.

The venture into the realms of symphonic music played on a pipe organ at the free Sunday concert yesterday afternoon, gave pleasure to a large and discriminating audience, which testified its approval by hearty applause.

A great deal of the success was due to the intelligent explanations of Miss Josephine Carey, who, before each portion or movement, analyzed the part to follow. The principal themes were played on the small organ by A. F. M. Custance, then the entire movement was given on the big organ. It was made so plain that everybody seemed to appreciate and understand the intricate formation and process of building up the symphony.

No better symphony could have been selected to begin with than Beethoven's first symphony with its simple themes and melodiously tuneful composition. Although the organist showed his nervousness in the "Andante Cantabile" the rest of the parts were well rendered and it is probable that within the next two or three weeks the second symphony will be given.

The soloist was Miss Alice Sjoselius, who captured the audience at once and sang as her first piece Gounod's "Adore and Be Still." Her full round voice, clear and distinct pronounciation, and pleasing unaffected manner charmed all who heard her, and to the rousing encore she responded with an arrangement of Batiste's celebrated communion in C entitled the "Vesper Hymn." The second number by Miss Sjoselius consisted of an old English song, "With My Flocks," followed by the ever charming Scotch air, "John Anderson My Jo," to which the singer gave a touching pathos in keeping with the sentiment of the song. Miss Sjoselius sang as an encore the old English ballad "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" in an artistic manner and in all those pieces the delicate and responsive accompaniments of Mr. Custance were in keeping with the spirit of the theme.

The concert was opened by selections from the "Beggar Student" on the organ and this number with its brilliant passages, fine melodies and fortissimo closing elected much applause as did the closing number on the organ, selections from Gounod's "Faust" a rousing number beginning with the "Soldiers' Chorus" and embracing many of the most popular songs of the opera.

The organ numbers for the next concert will, probably, include Raff's "Cleonore March," the "Nutcracker" suite "Dreams of Erin" and Mendelssohn's "Trompeten" overture.

REPAIR DENTAL COLLEGE.

University Students Earn Some Side Money Making Repairs.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of the labor performed by the students of the University of Minnesota, Millard hall, the "dents'" home of the institution will be ready for use when school opens tomorrow. Christmas eve the hall was partially destroyed by fire.

Forty students of the college under the supervision of Dean Alfred Owre, aided by other workmen, have been engaged in tar-papering the broken walls, receiving $3 per day.

clare her belief that a crying injustice has been done the former banker, and refuses to believe that he will be compelled to serve out his sentence of fifteen years' confinement.

"Today," said Mrs. Morse, "I go to Atlanta. In two or three days I shall come back and work for a pardon. If there is a chance of seeing my husband once more I shall stay and wait for it. But they tell me that fortnightly visits only are allowed to convicts in that prison."

Mrs. Morse's efforts in behalf of her husband will be warmly seconded by his counsel, Martin W. Littleton, who reiterated today his declaration that he had by no means given up his fight for Morse's liberty. The attorney, however, was not yet ready to say what his next step would be.

Thousands of Friends.

Mrs. Morse says that in the last two weeks she has received thousands of letters, the writers expressing sympathy with her husband and their readiness to sign a petition in his behalf.

Charles W. Morse, the former banker, left here in custody of United States Marshall Heneck at 10:45 p. m. Sunday for Atlanta, Ga., to begin serving a sentence of fifteen years in the federal prison there on conviction of violation of the national banking laws.

It was with a supreme effort to be cheerful, but with emotion occasionally getting the better of him, that Morse boarded the train for the South.

Before leaving the Tombs, where he had been confined for the greater part of the last year, Morse received his wife and two sons and then the newspaper men. He was too affected to say anything, but he handed out a carefully prepared statement of comment on his case.

Morse's statement is bitter and dramatic

"Most Brutal Sentence."

"I am going to Atlanta for penal servitude under the most brutal sentence ever pronounced against a citizen in a civilized country," is his opening sentence.

"I have hoped," the statement continued, "with that hope which comes from a consciousness of my innocence, that I would not have to close out forever the light and liberty of the world under such an inhuman sentence. I had felt that the fact that I had paid a fine of $7,000,000 and served a year in prison would satisfy the cry for a victim, and I have steadily believed that the courts would be compelled to give me a new trial.

"When I learned that the private detectives of the prosecution were keepers of the jury, that the jury drank like men upon a jaunt or holiday rather than citizens engaged in a serious service, and that as a result two of them were rendered unfit, I naturally hoped that I would be allowed another trial by another jury free of these hostile influences.

Drinking and Jury Service.

"It seems, however, that the courts intend to establish the practices which make rum-drinking a part of jury service and private detectives as the custodians of a jury a permanent institution. By this sentence and judgment I may be brought to ruin; but the damage done to me is not half as important as is the injury to the administration of justice. I am now up in years and must, with the passing of time, pass also; but the record of my conviction and the way it was brought about, will remain a lasting and dangerous example of a government gone mad in search of a victim.

"Whether I shall serve my full sentence I am not able to say, much depending on how the government at Washington shall look upon it. I have great faith that all right-thinking men and women, who know of me and my case, and who realize the inhumanity of my sentence, will make known their feeling to the president. Whatever the future may hold in store—liberty or imprisonment—I shall endeavor to meet in the same way I have struggled against the misfortunes of the past two years.

"C. W. MORSE."

McCrea of the Pennsylvania railroad; President Lovett of the Union Pacific railroad and allied Harriman lines; President Ingersoll of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad; President Finley of the Southern railway, and President Brown of the New York Central railroad.

Attorney General Wickersham also attended the conference.

President Taft listened attentively to all that the railroad presidents had to say during the two hours or more that the conference was in progress. The discussion on the part of the railroaders was general. The president did not commit himself in any way. In fact, it was said that he made very few remarks during the interview. At the conclusion of the conference the president told his visitors that he would give their statements due consideration in anything he might do affecting the railroad interests.

Wickersham First Out.

Attorney General Wickersham was the first to leave the conference. He started out of the executive office with the speed of a skyrocket, declaring that he could say "Nothing, absolutely nothing!"

The railroad presidents were almost equally uncommunicative. President Brown of the New York Central, said:

"We came to offer a protest against the proposed amendments to interstate commerce laws and we received a respectful hearing."

President Finley of the Southern admitted that the protest was a general one against proposed railroad legislation at this time. Further than this the railroad men would say nothing. They declared that they had asked for the interview, and that under the circumstances any statements concerning it must necessarily come from the White House.

It is understood that they sought to convince the president that further legislation at this time would upset conditions in the railway and industrial world which generally had been righting themselves in the last two years.

Seemed Rather Dejected.

The railroad men seemed rather dejected when they left the White House, and it was inferred that their mission, so far as holding up the president's special message was concerned, was a failure.

It was announced at 12:20 o'clock by Secretary Carpenter that no statement would be given out by the president as to the conference. It was said that the president and the attorney general had heard the objections offered by the railroad presidents, and would give consideration to them. Further there was nothing to say, except that Mr. Taft was still working on his message to congress, and that he expected to send the message into the house and senate on Wednesday noon.

great need of supplementing the government inspection of meats with state and municipal inspections.

One result of the federal inspection is to cause the diversion of diseased and suspicious looking animals to the uninspected establishments, where they are slaughtered for the local market, says the report.

"Many cities have an inspection service, but very few have an adequate force, and the inspection often consists of merely examining the meat as offered for sale in the markets, when it is usually impossible to detect disease, the evidence of which may have been removed with the viscera or organs," says Dr. Melvin.

"Conditions Very Bad."

"As a rule, sanitary conditions are very bad at uninspected slaughter houses, and in order to provide real protection against diseased or unwholesome meat a competent veterinary and sanitary inspection at the time of slaughter is essential."

Despite the shortcomings of the inspection, it has many advantages and is producing results which are increasing from year to year. Dr. Melvin shows in his report. With the new law, a steady improvement in the sanitation of packing houses has been brought about, and as a result, there has been a considerable decrease in the amount of meat condemned in the inspections.

Notwithstanding the efforts to give a competent inspection, the service has been unjustly attacked, the report asserts.

Reports to East St. Louis.

The incident at East St. Louis is recalled and Dr. Melvin says the charges there had their foundation in animus and not in fact. In some cases other attacks were the result of ignorance of conditions or misrepresentation of facts. Thorough investigation of some cases of ptomaine poisoning charged to meat, proved that in not one of the instances could the trouble be properly ascribed to that cause. In other cases typhoid fever had been found in schools where reports of ptomaine poisoning were circulated.

"Such instances," says Dr. Melvin, "should be sufficient to show that credence should not be placed in reports reflecting against the meat inspection."

In a force of 2,500 people engaged in inspecting meat, Dr. Melvin declares, it would not be unusual if some one were found unworthy. All men are liable to errors in judgment, and considering the immense amount of meat inspected, it should happen that meat which should be condemned were passed, the amount was such an infinitesimal part of the entire quantity, that it did not affect the value and the integrity of the service as a whole.

More Than 1,000,000 Condemned.

More than 36,000,000 million animals were inspected at the time of the slaughter during the fiscal year just closed, and more than 1,000,000 were condemned in whole or in part. On reinspection more than 25,000,000 pounds of canned and meat products were condemned which had become unwholesome since inspection at the time of slaughter.

The inspection service had an appropriation of $3,000,000 to do business on during the year, and spent $2,834,000.

DETROIT BOY MAY DIE AS RESULT OF NIGHT IN STREET

Hanson struggled on through the midway district. He was forced to carry his son, who by this time was in a pitiable condition. His strength was entirely gone and he was more than half frozen.

Mr. Hanson came in the direction of St. Paul, and after a long time he arrived, still carrying his half conscious son, at Grotto street and University avenue, where he met the first human being he had seen since he left the downtown district in Minneapolis.

Of this man he asked his way and the stranger, not recognizing the name of the physician, directed Mr. Hanson and his son to take a street car at the nearest corner and go direct to the St. Paul police station, where he could get more explicit directions. Mr. Hanson followed the advice and at 4:30 o'clock this morning arrived at the Central station.

Carl, the son, was unconscious when his father staggered into the room.

Boy Still Unconscious.

The police ambulance was hastily summoned, and after medical attention had been given the lad at the station, he was hastened to the City hospital, where this morning his condition was reported most serious. The lad was still unconscious.

The father had sufficiently recovered to renew his search for the doctor.

Health Cranks and Food Faddists

Have Evolved Some Strange and Wonderful Theories Concerning Stomach Treatment.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Within the last twenty years there has sprung into existence theories by the score relative to the kinds of food that human beings should eat, and should avoid. With the tremendous increase in nervous and stomach diseases which are caused by the strenuous life of this neurotic, neurasthenic age in which we live, we are constantly having our attention called to some food faddist's "new idea" on the subject of alimentation.

Most prominent among these theorists is the vegetarian who insists that meat was never intended for the human stomach, despite the fact that his ancestors for 6,000 years or more, used it as their principal article of diet; and the old patriarchs of Biblical history who lived to prodigious old ages, were meat eaters. All of the great nations of history have been users of meat, and all of the most powerful and advanced coutries of today employ it extensively in their dietaries, and their superior development and high degree of civilization are in strong and striking contrast to the decadent and degenerate nations of Asia and the tropics, whose inhabitants are vegetarians.

Another fallacy which has lately become a fad, is the so-called "low-proteid" diet. Now, the foods which are rich in proteids are the ones which build up nerve, brain, muscle and blood, so that any great reduction in the amount of proteid used simply means semi-starvation for the most important centers of the system—the ones on which we depend the most to enable us to successfully fight the battles of life. Those nations whose people use foods containing but little proteid are never of large frame or well-built. The Japanese, who have always been small of stature, have, since adopting a more liberal proteid diet shown a remarkable increase in size, vigor and general development; and it is only since Japan became a meat-eating nation that it has developed into a world-power.

Still another theory lately advanced is that sugar, pepper, and salt are gastric irritants and irritate the mucous membrane of the stomach, although it is known that sugar possesses a high caloric value, while pepper and salt assist digestion rather than interfere with it, as is claimed.

The no-breakfast plan, the two-meal per day, and even the one meal daily has been advocated, while some advise a two or three weeks' fast, during which all food is withheld from the stomach "to give it a rest," completely ignoring the fact that the system's tissues are being constantly torn down and cast off, and new material to rebuild them must be supplied from the food.

It is utter nonsense to concern one's self about all these absurd and illogical theories, as life is entirely too short, and there are other things requiring our attention. Eat what you want when you want it, and as much as the system needs to replenish its waste, and then take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and forget all about food fads and stomach troubles. They digest all kinds of food so thoroughly you won't know you have a stomach. They are powerful digestors of every kind of food though harmless to the system, and may be taken at any time and in any quantity.

RECIPE FOR CATARRH

The only logical treatment for catarrh is through the blood. A prescription, which has recently proved wonderfully effective in hospital work is the following. Any druggist has the ingredients or will quickly get them for you. Any one can mix them:

"One ounce compound syrup of Sarsaparilla; one ounce Toris compound; half pint first-class whiskey." These to be mixed by shaking well in a bottle, and used in tablespoon doses before each meal and at bedtime. This cured many people here last winter.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

THE SEASON FOR BASEBALL TRADES AND SALES IS AT HAND —CHANCE NEEDS SEVERAL MEN

Nelson Returns to the Ring—Bemidji Lad Is Making Good on Mat —Dorando Back in America

(BY BRUCE)

Frank L. Chance is one of the big managers of the baseball world, who apparently does not believe in worrying. The theory of the big Chicago leader must be pretty nearly right for you all know what Frank has accomplished at Chicago since he assumed the leadership of the Cubs.

At the present time Chance is on his California ranch where he raises everything from livestock to California fruit. Where he gets time and also the opportunity, to do his baseball maneuvering, or where he gets in close touch with the doings of the other magnates, is as much of a mystery as Fred Clarke's close touch with the current news of baseball. Both the Chicago and Pittsburg leaders spend their time away from the diamond upon their farms.

There is a general belief that there will be some changes in the personnel of the Cubs the coming season. Just what the changes will be, Chance has failed to state. As has been mentioned before, Jimmy Sheckerd, who for the past three years has accomplished sterling work in the Cub outfield, is slated to. Murphy and Chance are credited with a most ambitious desire to come back and win the flag this year. By many the Cubs are considered the best baseball gamble. But several players are needed.

When and where Chance will get these players, is a problem that at the present time is a interesting baseballdom. The big first base guardian is spending his time on his ranch, with apparently nothing more to worry him than the ordinary cares of a ranchman. Followers of baseball are wondering when the big rumored deal, that will give the Cubs some new members, is going to be pulled off.

If the National commission sits on the Kling case and should decree that Johnny may be allowed to return to the game, it is probable that the great catcher will figure in some deal. If he does it is very probable that Chance will receive some baseball timber for the trade of the former star member of the Cubs.

It is part of the business for baseball managers to worry. Some don't show it. McGraw is one of the peppery kind, fussy and nervous when things are not breaking right. Chance is more even tempered, and extremely cool under fire. Perhaps he has some big trade in mind at the present time, and will startle the baseball world by its announcement within a few weeks.

Trades and deals are expected, along this time of year. It won't be very long before the teams will be treking for the Southland.

Now that Battling Nelson has announced his return to the ring, you may look for some stirring of the monotony that has hung over the lightweight division like a pall, since the retirement of the champion.

Close on the announcement of the return to activity of the Dane, came the statement of his match with Weigast and also a 10-round contest with Fighting Dick Hyland at Kansas City.

It is also stated that the Dane will take on several boys over the Philadelphia 6-round route. The Dane, knows that he is no 6-round fighter, but he does like the money. If you want to see a man getting money fast, just keep your eye on the Dane. He won't fight very much longer—but he will get the big end every time he fights.

Kid Cutler, the big boy who was raised in Bemidji, and who is fairly well known in these parts, is matched to wrestle Zbyszko. Cutler started out as a fighter. He fought the Kerry Kid once upon a time, so history relates, and the Kid from across the bay gave the big man from Bemidji an awful lacing.

Cutler was taken under the protecting wing of John L. Sullivan and traveled with the old gentleman for some few years. He has been gradually breaking into the wrestling game, and at the present time is considered one of the coming men of the profession.

Frank Gotch has predicted a brilliant future for the former Bemidji youth. Cutler is one of the finest built men in the mat game. He is comparitively a youngster, and if he develops the present winter as he is expected to, he may be one of the American stars in the near future.

purse. There is a story going the rounds of the country to the effect that Hayes wil wager $10,000 on his chances of defeating Dorando. Some one should caution Johnny regarding the future. Dorando has beaten Hayes every time they raced, but once the only time the American was victorious being in the sensational London Olympiad marathon. It looks like a bad bet for Hayes. Because Hayes made his money by running, it is no sign he should run through it.

JOHNSON IN TROUBLE.

The Colored Fighter Clashes With a Theater Manager in Indiana.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 3. — Jack Johnson refused to fulfill his contract to appear at a Terre Haute theater yesterday and the management attached his trunks as he was about to board a train for Columbus, Ohio. Johnson said the theater was too cold. When a constable served the writ on Johnson he mounted his baggage and said he would hit the first man who touched it. The constable called the police and the fighter backed down when Capt. Armstrong brought enough men to take him to jail.

Johnson later tried to engage a special train but failed and when he saw his belongings dumped on a dray, he told his manager he would stay here and fight the case.

DULUTH BOYS AT "PENNSY"

Reginald Graham Is Captain of the College Wrestling Team.

Professors Lampooned at Unique Entertainment on Christmas Eve.

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The University of Pennsylvania wrestling team this year is captained by Reginald Graham, son of Dr. Robert Graham of West Duluth, and a former Central high school athlete. Graham went to the Pennsylvania Institution last year to study medicine. He soon earned a place upon the varsity wrestling team in the light heavyweight class and proved to be one of the strongest men representing the university in that sport.

At the close of the season his teammates unanimously chose him captain.

The schedule of the team includes matches with Yale, Cornell, Columbia, Princeton, Pennsylvania State and numerous other colleges, as well as the intercollegiates, to be held at the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, March 19.

Graham was strongy urged to report for football during the fall by Mike Murphy, the well and favorably known athletic trainer, but owing to his difficult course of studies he was unable to spare the time.

He has arranged his course in such a way that he will be able to report for football next year. His prospects for success are very bright.

A unique and clever entertainment was given by the students of the Wharton school of the university in the form of a Christmas tree celebration.

The professors and other members of the faculty were invited to attend, and were unmercifully lampooned and ridiculed by the ringleaders of the students, who presented them with gifts indicative of the peculiar weaknesses and failings of each instructor. Members of the faculty were called upon for songs. The students refused to accept any excuses of sore throats, colds, etc. Some of the attempts at harmony were very amusing.

The ceremonies were conducted in the manner of a church service, opening with a touching rendition of "Nearer Our Profs To Be," sung by the student quartet.

The whole program was a scream, and the "Profs" although rather disgruntled, took the jokes in a good-natured manner.

The Christmas tree is an annual celebration.

Probably the most cosmopolitan banquet ever held other than an affair at the Hague, was the Christmas dinner given at the Houston club of the university by Provost Harrison for the students unable to be at home during the holidays.

Around the merry board were assembled several hundred students, representing over fifty countries, and fifty states and territories. The dissimilarity of the races, however, did not prevent a proper rendition of college songs and cheers, nor did it prevent an Egyptian from delivering the best speech of the evening, a Japanese from singing his national air, a Scandinavian from blurting a Highland song. Before the evening had passed all of the various localities had been represented by song or speech.

ALL STARS WIN EASY VICTORY

Company A Is Defeated By Score of 12 to 1 at Indoor Baseball.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended an indoor baseball contest at the Head of the Lakes saw the All Stars combination play rings around the league leaders of the military organization, Company A team, in the contest of Saturday evening. The score was 12 to 1 in favor of the All Stars.

The older players started the fireworks in the very first inning, gathering in two runs off Pitcher Lee. Company A came back with one run and every one settled down expecting a close game. The Randallites drew away in the fourth, scoring in that frame and also in the fifth and sixth innings.

In the eighth inning the slaughter of the innocents was accomplished with an artistic thoroughness that was saddening to the followers of Company A, but cheering and mirth-inspiring to the admirers of the older players. Six runs were sent across the plate before the smoke of the fusilade had cleared away.

Sergeant Simpson held the league leaders to two scattered hits. He mixed his slow teasing shoots with balls of a faster variety and had the A boys jerking at nothing more substantial than air. Simpson's twirling was backed up by hard and consistent hitting on the part of his team mates.

It is announced that a return game will be played between the two teams Lincoln's birthday. Company A members are not satisfied with the score and believe that in a return game they can redeem themselves.

The line-up and score:

Score by innings:

All Stars ..... 2 0 0 1 1 1 1 6 x	12	15	5
Company A 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0	1	3	4

Summary: Two-base hits — Geiselman, Randall, Menelce, Marlon. Three-base hit—Taylor. Double play—Summers, to Menelce. Struck out—By Lee, 12; by Simpson, 12. Bases on balls—Off Lee, 3; off Simpson, 1. Wild pitches—By Lee, 2; by Simpson, 1. Umpires—Fitzmeyer and Maitland.

PHIL KING TELLS NEEDED CHANGES

Old Wisconsin Coach Would Have No Restrictions on Forward Pass.

Washington, Jan. 3.—"Phil" King, one of the greatest football players the game has developed in this country, three times all-American quarterback, and now an advisory coach at Princeton, has come out for the first time in the remembrance of sporting men and given his ideas as to how the game should be changed to avoid accidents such as marred the past season. Mr. King's ideas in his own words follow:

"Play the backs five yards back of the line of scrimmage. Play seven men on the line of offense at all times. In order to offset the line on defense spreading against that formation, all ow the quarterback to run anywhere with the ball. In the event that the forward pass is retained, remove all restrictions, allowing passes over the line and allowing any player to recover the ball after it has been touched and fumbled.

"Arrange one-minute rests at the end of each ten, twenty and thirty-minute period, giving the captain ample time to look over his men to ascertain their condition and fitness to remain in the game. No coach or other man connected with a contesting team to be allowed on the field during this period of rest."

COLLINS FAMILY IN BASEBALL

Players in Plenty to Make Up an Excellent Team.

The Collins clan of baseball fame simply won't give up the ship. When nine of the boys enrolled, some of them in the minors and others in the immaculate circles, the family is bound to have its full fighting strength on the field when the season is given its opening blast.

Pugilism has furnished its quota of Sullivans, football has developed a flock of Foes and the national pastime annually brings out a whole brigade of Smiths, Joneses, Millers and the like. But the Collins tribe only recently stepped to the front with its nine hearties.

For manager of this motley array of ball tossers the honor might be conferred on Jimmy Collins, new chief of the Providence club of the Eastern league. In years gone by Jimmy had all the other third-sackers clinging to the ropes and pleading for assistance. But it isn't what you were. It's what you are today. And Jimmy is somewhat stout for his size at this stage of the game. As a Pilgrim, back in the world's championship days, and later as an Athletic the Buffalo boy led all leagues.

Eddie Collins of Philadelphia might be appointed a committee of one to conduct the swatting classes, with Orth Collins of Minneapolis, once a Bison, for the fielding department. The other candidates for the troupe follow: Eddie Collins, IL, Utica; Joe Collins, Little Rock (to be at Chattanooga in 1910); Billy Collins, Bloomington; Jimmy Collins II., Burlington; Bob Collins, Portsmouth, and Bob Collins II., Toledo.

GOVERNOR WILL PREVENT BOUT

Utah Executive Says That Laws of State Must Be Obeyed.

New York, Jan. 3.—Governor Spry of Utah arrived in this city from Philadelphia. Just before his departure from Quakertown in discussing the Jeffries-Johnson fight, the governor expressed his firm belief that there was not once chance in a thousand of the big fight being pulled off in Utah.

"The laws of the state must be obeyed, and I shall follow them to the letter," he said.

"He denied the statement purporting to come from "Tex" Rickard, another of the promoters, to the effect that every detail of the plans for the fight had been arranged for Utah, even to the securing of his consent to hold it in Salt Lake City.

"I had no idea that Utah was considered seriously as the battleground for the fight until the articles of agreement were signed and then I believed they were playing one state against the other with financial gain as their object.

"I have recently been informed of the state of affairs and that the promoters have hopes of staging the fight at Salt Lake City, but I will say that as much as I would like to see the battle take place in our state, the law will not sanction it, and as governor I must forbid it.

"I've followed sports to some extent and I do not believe Jeffries would fight in a country with such a high altitude after his long lay off. It would naturally affect his condition."

PROBABLE CHANGES TO BE MADE IN 1910 FOOTBALL

1. Players will be prohibited from dragging, pulling or pushing the player carrying the ball. They will be positively prohibited from piling upon a fallen player, and the man carrying the ball will be prohibited from making an effort to advance the ball after he is down or the ball is legally "dead."
2. When a player is in a position to make a fair catch, no opposing player shall approach nearer than three yards of the catcher until the latter has caught or missed the ball.
3. Requiring on the offense seven men to be in the line of scrimmage while in plays across the line of scrimmage not more than three men shall be allowed to cross together.
4. The present forward pass will probably be eliminated and a forward pass substituted that will be entirely unrestricted, to be completed behind the line of scrimmage, without penalty for failure.
5. Making compulsory the removal from the game of any player at the request of the trainer, doctor or captain of the team.

LOOKING FAR INTO THE FUTURE

Owner of the New York Americans Secures a New Ball Yard.

New York, Jan. 3.—Frank Barrell, president of the Greater New York Baseball club, the Yankees, has nearly concluded negotiations for the purchase of a large plot of land near Two Hundred and Twenty-fifth street and Broadway, to be used as ground for the New York American league team when the present lease on American league park at Broadway and One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street expires.

The new site acquired by Mr. Farrell lies north of the Harlem ship canal and east of Broadway, and will include a considerable area now lying in the bed of the old Spuyten Duyvil creek, which is to be filled in.

There is another parcel also involved in bridge up to Two Hundred and Thirtieth street, and extending over to the Putnam railroad tracks.

With the land to be made by the filling in of the old creek there will be provided a total area of between 150 and 200 city lots considerably larger than American league park.

There is a subway station at Two Hundred and Fifth street. Here also the new line of the New York Central, skirting the ship canal, crosses Broadway.

SAYS WINNIPEG CAN'T WITHDRAW

Van Praagh Predicts the "Peg" Will Remain in Canadian League.

L. M. Van Praagh, formerly manager of the Duluth team and at the present time a stockholder in the Duluth Baseball association, is in the city on business.

Mr. Van Praagh expressed the opinion that Winnipeg would not be allowed to leave the Western Canada league, and for that reason there was little chance for the Western Canadian metropolis to be a member of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league next season.

Baseball followers here had been led to the belief that Winnipeg would surely be a member of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league next season. It was thought that Winnipeg would have little or no trouble in withdrawing from its former baseball friends of the Canadian league. However, Mr. Van Praagh says the withdrawal of Winnipeg will be vigorously opposed, as the Western Canadian league intends trying another season.

Some of the officials of the Minny league still hold to the opinion that Winnipeg will be a member of the league. There is some talk of taking Brandon into the American fold with Winnipeg, as it is believed that in this way Winnipeg's withdrawal from the Western Canadian organization could be secured.

No definite knowledge of the status of the baseball affairs in the Canadian league will be known until after the January meeting. Just where Winnipeg stands will be disclosed at that time.

DECISIVE INDOOR GAME IN MILITARY LEAGUE.

Company A, the present leader of the race in the Military Indoor league, will meet Company E tomorrow evening at the Armory. If Company E loses the contest Tuesday evening, it will be out of the pennant race. If Company A wins the game, it will be assured of the pennant. For that reason the game should be one of the hardest played during the present season.

Some of the best indoor baseball ever played at the Head of the Lakes has been seen at the Armory the present season. At the conclusion of the present league season it is hoped to bring some of the strong Twin City teams here for games. It is proposed to arrange a game between the winner of the pennant in the Military league and the winner of the Indoor championship of the Twin Cities.

FIRST HOCKEY GAME.

Adams and Northerns of the City Amateur League Will Meet.

The Whites and Blues, hockey teams of the Adams Athletic association, played an exhibition game yesterday afternoon on the Adams' rink in the West end, the Blues winning by a score of 2 to 1.

The first game of the City Amateur league will be played at the Adams' rink tomorrow evening. The Adams and the Northern Juniors will oppose each other. The game will start the schedule of the present season. Games will be played twice a week.

The lineup and score of yesterday's game:

Whites (1)	Position	Blues (2)
R. Nelson	g.	Wallin
C. Olsen	p.	Pearling
Erickson	c.p.	Ed. Nelson
A. A. Olson	r.	Ray Olson
A. Olson	c.	Anderson
Alder	l.w.	Rankin
E. Olson	r.w.	Crozier

Score: First half, 2 to 1; second half, 2 to 1;. Goals—Crozier, Anderson, E. Olson. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

STAGG PREDICTS REVISION.

Chicago Coach Declares Football Rules Will Favor Open Play.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, was returned yesterday from the meeting of the Inter-Collegiate Athletic association in New York, declared that football, as played in American colleges, is well on the way to a thorough revision, but that the present game would be retained, with changes, and no other substituted, he was certain.

"I feel just as strongly as ever," said Coach Stagg, "that the more scientific game of football should not and will not be given up. I also feel that the salvation of the game will be in making it more open."

Stagg further asserted that any impression that the national experts of the country favor a reversion to Rugby or the adoption of the association game is false.

CHRISTIANITY IS GAINING POWER

So Say Public Men in Answer to Questions of Church League.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Men of prominence in national politics believe that the teachings of Jesus Christ are more dominant in public affairs today than when they entered active life, according to answers to questions read before the Plymouth league of the Oak Park Congregational church.

Two questions were sent to sixty leading men by Bruce Barton, president of the league. One related to the dominance of the spirit of Christianity. The other question was: "Is it an advantage or a disadvantage for a public man to be known as a professing Christian?"

One of the first to answer was Vice President James S. Sherman.

"To your first inquiry," said the vice president, "I beg to answer that it is my belief that with the progress of education and civilization throughout the world, the Spirit of Jesus becomes more dominant, not only in business or in politics alone, but in the smaller affairs of every day life.

Profession No Hindrance

"In answering your second question, I hate to believe and I do not believe that it is a disadvantage to any man in any calling to be a professed Christian. I am firm in the belief that the time will never come in this country when a man in high position will hesitate to speak frankly and freely to such questions as you propound."

"I believe it is a strong advantage for a public man today to be a professing Christian, wrote Gifford Pinchot, chief forester. "It gives him confidence in himself, and it gives others confidence in him."

Others who answered the questions expressing belief in the growth of Christianity and its influence in public affairs were Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton; Lyman Abbott, Speaker Joseph G. Cannon and Governor Charles Deneen of Illinois.

TO RAISE MONEY FOR SCHREIBER

Another Effort Will Be Made to Appeal to Supreme Court.

Another ffort is being made to raise the sum needed to carry the case of William Schreiber to the supreme court.

Schreiber is at the present time in the county jail, awaiting sentence, after having been convicted of murder in the first degree.

The sum of $250 is needed, and from this time on the committee, which consists of Rev. J. T. Moody and A. B. Siewert, will do its best to secure the money.

These men, with some others, believe Schreiber the victim of circumstantial evidence. They believe him entirely innocent of the murder of Frank Massapust.

Their appeal to the public follows:

"The committee wishes to announce that it is now prepared to take the case of William Schreiber to the supreme court, with the hope that this final review will make it perfectly clear in the minds of many whether or not the jury was right or wrong in its decision.

"No one questions the verdict or punishment in the several murder cases recently tried in our courts, but from the beginning there has been and is now a spirit of unrest in regard to Mr. Schreiber's position. Every one is entitled to his opinion, and so, for those who wish to see Mr. Schreiber have every chance that it is possible to give him under the law, written or unwritten, we make this last appeal for funds to prosecute the work. A number have signified their intention of helping, and to these and others we appeal.

"Mr. Schreiber is a poor man. He and his wife have put in many a hard day in the past five or six years on their homestead, about thirteen miles from a railroad. Their property consists of 160 acres, a log cabin, a better than ordinary log barn and six acres of cleared land. Mr. Schreiber was just about to prove up on his land when arrested. Although perfectly willing to dispose of their all in order to realize funds with which to help prove his innocence, it seems that something stands in the way of disposing of the property immediately, and the convicted man is powerless to raise a finger in his own behalf. Having been brought in contact with him once or twice a week since his incarceration in the county jail, we could not but become unduly interested in his cause. A journey to his homestead, meeting and talking with his neighbors, friends and seeming enemies, all made it a plain duty to investigate further. No one will miss $1, and we need $250. Please leave subscriptions at 304 West Superior street, or at the Bethel missions.

DR. COOK'S BOOKS ARE NOT OUSTED

Officials of Boston Library Refuse to Accede to Demands.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 3.—The officials of the Boston public library have refused to accede to demands that the Arctic books of Dr. Frederick A. Cook be thrown out of the library. The demands for this summary treatment of the writings of the Brooklyn explorer, who is now declared before the world to be untrustworthy, have increased until a high pitch of excitement was reached Saturday.

One of the librarians said, in explanation of the action taken, that he saw no reason for the removal of the books.

"If we should attempt to clear out all the books whose authors are fakers or alleged fakers, we would have a troublesome piece of work on our hands," he declared.

"Mind you, there are not a few other writers who have been and are dubbed fakers. Our library has no desire to brand Cook's alleged discovery of the North Pole as a mistake. That is for others to decide.

"It is interesting to notice the increasing demand for Dr. Cook's books. We are having many calls even today, for not a few want to know what kind of book Cook did write. No doubt there is much interesting and truthful information contained in his books."

CANDIDATES THICK.

Several New Richmonds Are Entering North Dakota Field.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Several new candidates in the coming primary election have announced themselves. H. N. Midtbo of Donnybrook has announced his candidacy for the United States senate. T. R. Mockler of Bismarck is in the open for congress, while W. M. House of Wyndemere has entered the race for secretary of state. The present incumbent of that office, Alfred Blaisdell, has taken up his campaign for congress.

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—"In Hayti." (See notice below.)
BIJOU—New vaudeville bill.

"IN HAYTI" IS A BIG HIT

Klaw & Erlanger Send an Elaborate Production to the Lyceum.

The Old Favorites McIntyre and Heath in New Roles.

Not often does a big popular musical show of the type of "In Hayti" stray far from Broadway. Duluth, in common with other Western cities, generally gets the big productions in their second year, or else a road company, meritorious perhaps, but not the genuine article.

But the company which opened at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon is the real article, smelling of Upper Broadway.

"In Hayti" is one of Klaw & Erlanger's own productions. They are not merely the booking agents for the show but the producers as well, and the K. & E. stamp on a show means at least elaborate stage settings and costumes, with no sparing of expense. They have gone farther this time, and spared no expense in the cast or chorus either, and the result is a collection of stars and near stars. Any one of half a dozen people in the cast could well be featured on a musical comedy of the ordinary type. Such people as Julian Rose, Marion Stanley, Fletcher Norton, Carrie Reynolds and John H. Pratt are names well known where the white lights glitter on Broadway, to say nothing of the two stars of the company, McIntyre and Heath, and they are not tempted away from their dear old New York for a pittance. There are close to 100 people in the production, and the changes of costume are bewildering.

The plot is lost some place in the first act and not recovered until the curtain falls, but like "The Ham Tree" it furnishes an excuse for the fun making of the two most famous negro impersonators of the age, and that is sufficient.

McIntyre and Heath have not contented themselves with merely impersonating the negro of the South. They have made a thorough study of his characteristics, and with them it has become an art. The exact intonation of the colored brother's voice, his gestures, his mannerisms, they present perfectly. For fifteen or twenty years they have been playing negro roles, first in minstrelsy, then in vaudeville and finally in musical comedy. This year they have gotten away from most of their old Ham Tree dialogue and have a new act that is as good as the old. The tale of the "large, loose, dissipated tomato" draws just as many laughs as the old tale of the ham tree and the river of beer. McIntyre is the same sorrowful, lugubrious nigger, and Heath is the same jovial, flashy "cullud gemman" of a year ago. They have become just as famous a team of funmakers as the Rogers Brothers or Weber and Fields, and deservedly so.

Scarcely less famous in his line is Julian Rose. He is acknowledged to be the greatest of the Hebrew impersonators on the modern vaudeville stage. He has originated the modern type of stage Hebrew, and his monologue would today command a princely salary in vaudeville. He adds his generous contribution to the general funmaking, in the role of Bizzy Izzy Rosenstein.

Marion Stanley will be remembered by Duluthians as the leading woman with the Rogers Brothers last year. Her specialty of the songs of several nationalities, was one of the big hits of "In Panama." Miss Stanley is one of the best of the musical comedy prima donnas now on the road, but "In Hayti" she has comparatively a minor part.

Carrie Reynolds, whose name has been linked with most of the modern musical comedy successes of the last five years, including "The Prince of Pilsen," has the part of Florence Forcem, the newspaper correspondent, and contributes two excellent song and dance numbers to the success of the production. She is the most graceful of dancers, and more than makes up for her singing by her dancing and general attractiveness.

John H. Pratt, as the other newspaper correspondent of this Haytian revolution, is one of the most popular baritones along Broadway. He has a splendid physique and stage presence, and a big, rich, baritone voice.

Fletcher Nortin, with the possible exception of George Cohan himself, is probably the best eccentric dancer now in musical comedy. He has often been suggested as the only possible successor to Cohan, should that young man ever decide to confine his many activities to the one of writing plays and songs. He has two or three opportunities to show his ability, his best number being "Come Toddle Along."

Jane Burby has been the subject of much speculation, and not a few wagers. In every city the manager has an opportunity to settle bets on the sex of Miss Burby. She has the role of Ruth Ann Morgan, the colored wench, with whom Geronimo Jobbs and Jasper Johnson are infatuated. Lovers of old-time minstrelsy see in her one of the old favorites of the burnt cork fame, who used to occasionally don skirts when Primrose, Dockstader, Fields and the others were at the height of their popularity. But Ruth Ann Morgan is really a woman, and a very clever one, too.

Thomas J. Cochrane, as Timothy Burke O'Malley introduces a few clever sleight of hand tricks with cards, to help out a minor role which he handles well. Alfred Fisher is acceptable as Col. Scott, the millionaire. Miss Flora Crosbie as Rosie Rosenstein, and Otto Johnson as Otto Winne, fill out the cast.

The chorus is perhaps the largest and most elaborately gowned ever seen in Duluth.

"In Hayti" will remain at the Lyceum until Wednesday night. Duluth won't see anything better in the musical comedy line this year.

"The Yankee Prince."

George M. Cohan featured in his own production of his own musical comedy "The Yankee Prince" will be seen at the Lyceum, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with the rest of his "Royal Family." It is several years since "The Four Cohans" were seen in Duluth, and since that time they have doubled their popularity. "The Yankee Prince" is the newest of the Cohan shows, and claimed to be the best.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, Jan. 3.—Specifications on contracts for finished steel were quite heavy during the last week of the year, notably for structural material, steel sheets and wire products. Orders for small buildings in various parts of the country have been placed, calling for 25,000 tons of fabricated steel, making the December total 125,000 tons. The contracts for the year 1909 aggregated close to 1,500,000 tons.

Orders for heavy section rails aggregated only about 15,000 tons. Additional specifications on the New York Central tonnage were received by the Steel company calling for 6,000 tons. Rail contracts now under negotiation call for about 130,000 tons.

In billets and plain structural shapes, an easier tone prevailed. Specifications for steel bars, plates, shapes and axles aggregating about 25,000 tons, have been placed. Wire products have been very active, new orders in December averaging 7,200 tons per day and specifications 6,100 tons per day. Specifications for the year have averaged 6,000 tons daily.

There has been some increase in orders placed for pig iron, mainly in the Central West, including 8,000 tons of basic and 9,000 tons of low phosphorous. There have also been a number of small orders for malleable foundry in the West and forge iron in the East.

Contracts for the month have aggregated about 173,000 tons in all districts.

YOUNG MAN PASSES AWAY

Duncan W. Dingwall Dies After Three Months' Illness.

Duncan W. Dingwall, aged 26 years, died Saturday evening at 10:30 o'clock at the home of his mother, 426 First avenue west, after an illness of over three months. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Masonic temple, under the auspices of the Masonic order, and interment will be in Park Hill cemetery.

Mr. Dingwall was a son of the late James Dingwall, and all of his life had lived in Duluth. He was for several years employed in the American Exchange bank, but was forced to resign his position about the middle of August, owing to ill health.

Mr. Dingwall is survived by his mother and two sisters, Margaret and Jamima.

CUT MEN DOWN TO LEGAL HOURS FOR WOMEN.

Boston, Mass. Jan. 3—Several hundred thousand operatives in mills and factories of Massachusetts and Rhode Island have begun work on a shorter schedule of working hours in consequence of the new fifty-six-hour laws becoming effective. While the new statute applies only to women and minors, the manufacturers find it impossible to separate the departments so that the men can work longer than the women and children, and therefore have brought all their operatives under the new schedule.

In Rhode Island, it is estimated that 20,000 operatives affected will lose a total of 2,080,000 working hours a year.

ASPIRANTS TO NAVY TO COMPETE

Examinations for Youths Wishing to Enter Naval Academy.

Congressman Miller has decided to select a candidate for the Annapolis Naval academy by a competitive examination. This examination will be held Feb. 3, 4 and 5 at the normal school building, Duluth, Minn. One principal and three alternates are to be named and they will be selected according to rank in this examination.

The subjects will be punctuation, spelling, arithmetic, geography, English grammar, United States history, world's history, algebra through quadratic equations and plane geometry. Boys are eligible for this examination who have attained the age of 19 years and who will not be more than 20 years of age on June 22, 1910. Only those in first class physical condition should compete as the later physical examination at the academy will be very rigid. It is suggested that boys desiring to compete should be examined by their local physician, and if found defective much trouble will be saved.

The examining board will consist of President E. W. Buchannon, Duluth state normal school, chairman; Prof. Lafayette Bliss of the Virginia schools and Prof. George Buck of the Duluth high school.

Any information respecting this matter can be secured from a member of this board or from Congressman Miller.

Whitewash Made From Waste.

An Iowa packing company has found a novel use for the spent chemicals from its water softening plant. It uses soda and lime as the softening agents. The sludge from the tanks is blown off into barrels, instead of being discarded, and used for whitewashing the walls. The well known food value of Golden Grain Belt Beer makes it the ideal home beverage. Serve daily with your meals and enjoy its health-giving qualities. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Duluth branch Minneapolis Brewing company.

Chicago News: "Pardon my ignorance," said the lady passenger to the captain of the big ship, "but how do you manage to find your way across the trackless ocean?"

"By means of the compass, madam," answered the captain. "The needle invariably points to the north."

ASSESSMENT FOR LOCAL IMPROVEMENT.
Office of the
BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.
City of Duluth, Minn., Dec. 28, 1909.

Notice is hereby given, That the Board of Public Works of the city of Duluth has completed its assessment for the construction of cement sidewalks in the City of Duluth, East of Twelfth avenue west and that at ten o'clock, A. M., on the Fourteenth day of January, A. D. 1910, said Board of Public Works will attend at the office of said Board in the City Hall building for the purpose of hearing objections thereto; that all objections made to said assessment must be filed in writing with said Board at least one day prior to the time above specified, and that unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, the said assessment so made as aforesaid will be confirmed.

Notice is hereby further given that the following is a copy of said assessment roll so completed as aforesaid:

ASSESSMENT ROLL.
Duluth, Minn., Dec. 24, 1909.

The Board of Public Works of the City of Duluth doth hereby assess and levy upon and against the several lots, parts of lots and parcels of land below described, the respective sums of money set opposite each lot, part of lot, or parcel of land. The assessment is levied to defray in full the expense of constructing cement sidewalks east of Twelfth avenue west in said city, according to benefits:

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The members of the Women's Council who desire to attend the luncheon Friday at the Spalding hotel, are requested to send their names to Miss Grace Duncan, corresponding secretary of the council, by Wednesday of this week. The luncheon will follow the regular meeting of the council which will be held at the Spalding parlors, Friday morning at 11 o'clock. The luncheon is planned as an informal social for the members with the plans of the organization for the next year will be informally discussed. The speakers will be: Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge, who will preside as toastmistress, Mrs. J. D. Morrison, Mrs. E. A. Silberstein and Mrs. H. C. Marshall. The members of the council, the former members and the members of committees are eligible to attend the luncheon.

HOME WEDDING.

Pretty Ceremony Takes Place New Year's Night.

The wedding of Miss Frances Willard Wells, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wells, to Frederick Hastings Greer of Sedalia, Mo., took place Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 7½ East Fifth street. The parlors where the ceremony took place were decorated in green and white and the ceremony was read at 8:30 o'clock. The bride had as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Irma Naomi Wells, who wore a gown of soft yellow satin and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Frances Irma Young, who wore a gown of yellow silk and carried a bouquet of narcissis and pink roses. The bride's gown was of white satin, trimmed in silver lace and pearls. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The groomsman was Homer De Vere Wells of Minneapolis. The wedding service was read by the Rev. E. H. Bicholson of Minneapolis. The decorations in the dining room were in red and white. The assisting hostesses were: Mrs. W. H. Wells, Jr., Mrs. H. D. Wells, Mrs. F. L. Young, Miss Ethel Morin, Miss Court and Miss Marie Whitcomb.

Mr. Greer and his bride left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington. They will be at home after Feb. 15 at Sedalia.

ST. PAUL WEDDING.

Miss Katchen Geist Becomes Bride at Church Service.

A wedding of interest to many Duluthians took place this morning at St. Luke's church at St. Paul, when Miss Katchen Geist, daughter of Mrs. Nettie L. Geist, became the bride of Charles Arlington Anderson of New York city. Mrs. Geist and her daughter are well known in Duluth, and among the Duluthians who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hartman and Miss Sybilla Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Van Bergen, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hartman.

ARTIST'S RECITAL.

Corinne Rider-Kelsey Before Matinee Musicale.

Corinne Rider-Kelsey, who sang yesterday at Minneapolis with the Symphony orchestra, will present a song recital this evening before the members of the Matinee Musicale, the concert to be given at the Pilgrim Congregational church. The accompaniments will be played by Mrs. F. G. Bradbury of this city. This will be the second artist's recital of the year, and a large attendance is assured.

Club Social.

At the January social of the Twentieth Century club which was held this afternoon at the clubroom of the library Miss Emma Rund, who is the guest of Miss Adele McClaran presented a delightful reading. Miss Rund is a graduate of the University of Michigan and of the Columbia school of Chicago and is in charge of the department of expression of the Bush Temple conservatory and after the holidays will also be at the head of the same department of the Oshkosh normal school. This afternoon she read "Gentleman, the King." Miss Rund returned this afternoon to Chicago.

Scenes from "She Stoops to Conquer" were given with Miss McClaran, Miss May Wylie, Mrs. H. C. Marshall, Mrs. Henry Taylor and Miss Shesgren reading the different roles.

A large number of the club members were present and after the program an informal social hour was enjoyed.

MEETING WITH SUCCESS IN HER STAGE CAREER

MISS ROSE KING.

Miss Rose King, during her recent visit to Duluth in George Cohan's comedy, "The American Idea" was the guest of her brother of this city and several affairs were given in her honor. Miss King played the role second in importance to Trixie Frigunza, a straight comedy part, and the friends she has made here on her several visits are watching the progress of her stage career with much interest.

WED AT CHICAGO.

Dr. Bagley and Bride in Winter Camp.

The following account of the wedding of Miss Marian Miller to Dr. William R. Bagley of this city from the Chicago Tribune of yesterday will be of interest to many Duluthians:

"The plot for the daintiest bit of romance imaginable hovers about the marriage of Miss Marian Miller, daughter of C. A. Miller, for many years clerk of the circuit court of Kane county, to Dr. William R. Bagley of Duluth, Minn., which was celebrated yesterday at the home of Miss Miller's sister, Mrs. A. O. Johnson, 3823 Wilcox avenue.

"Two decades ago Miss Miller and Dr. Bagley were playmates in St. Charles, went to school together, and in the first bloom of their young womanhood and manhood became betrothed. An estrangement came and Dr. Bagley went to Duluth, Minn., to establish a practice. Some years later he married. Miss Miller also left St. Charles. She went abroad to study and finally came to Chicago and opened a studio. She became known as an expert in German illuminating.

"Through the intervening years the former sweethearts have known of each other through St. Charles friends, but it was not until recently, something more than a year since the death of Mrs. Bagley had left Dr. Bagley with a motherless family of four, that the two again met. The old friendship was renewed, the troth again plighted, and the marriage yesterday was quietly celebrated.

"In the afternoon Dr. and Mrs. Bagley left for a honeymoon journey. Instead of the finery which usually composes the going away outfit of a bride, Miss Miller selected heavy corduroy hunting suits, the skirts of short length, and coats, hats, and shoes to correspond in weight and durability. They went to the wilds of Northern Minnesota, forty-seven miles out of Grand Rapids, Minn., and will spend several weeks in a shack in the woods, hunting, fishing, and tramping."

NEW YEAR'S WEDDING

Miss Winchester Becomes Bride of E. M. White.

At a pretty home wedding New Year's night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Winchester of Chester terrace, their daughter, Miss Florence Martha Winchester, became the bride of Earl Morris White of this city. The house was decorated in the winter greens, ground pine being used about the halls and rooms. In the reception room, where the ceremony took place, a canopy of smilax and white roses and holly was erected and extended far into the room. Under this the bridal party stood. The ceremony took place at 7 o'clock. There were no attendants and the service was read by the Rev. John Walker Powell, jr., of the Endion Methodist church. The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor embroidered and trimmed in duchess lace. She wore a coiffure ornament of roses and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

The wedding music was played by La Brosse's orchestra stationed in the upper hall.

The mantle in the living room was banked in hyacinths and smilax. In the dining rooms the centerpiece of the table was a large cluster of poinsettias and scarlet gauze ribbons added to the decorations. Mrs. Robert Johnson and Miss Marion Schmidt presided in this room and assisting were Misses Helen Major, Helen Haig, Pearl Hector, Ruth Scofield and Lou Staples. A large number of guests were entertained at the reception which followed the ceremony.

Both Mr. White and his bride were members of the high school class of 1906. They left Saturday evening for a two weeks' wedding trip in the East. The bride's going away gown was of dark blue with a hat to match. After Feb. 15 Mr. and Mrs. White will be at home at 1218 East Fifth street.

FOLK SONGS

To Be Subject of Miss Carey's Lecture.

The meetings of the class for the study of Appreciation will be continued, after a short holiday recess. The next meeting will be held at the studio of Miss Josephine Carey, Wednesday morning of this week, at 10 o'clock. The lecture and study will be a continuation of the folk songs. This class is open to the members of the Twentieth Century club, and is proving one of the most popular classes of the year.

Dancing Party.

The Some club has been reorganized, and is now known as the Arlos club, and the first affair to be given by the new club will be a dancing party Friday evening of this week at Steinway hall. The chaperones will be Mrs. J. R. Lorimer, Charles Wagner and Fred Prehoure.

Meeting Postponed.

Because of the dedication of Memorial hall tomorrow evening, the usual meeting of Garfield circle, No. 4, Ladies of the G. A. R., will be postponed until Tuesday afternoon of next week.

Endion Circle.

The Endion Circle of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. F. E. House of 2210 East Superior street.

Missionary Meeting.

The Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Grace Methodist church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Hopkins of 2821 West Second street.

Meeting Postponed.

Owing to unavoidable changes in the program, the meeting of the travel class of the Twentieth Century club, which was to have been held tomorrow, has been postponed.

MUSIC AND CHILDREN.

Woman Thinks She Must Be Fond of Both.

In the January number of Harper's Bazar, Ralph Pulitzer, son of the great editor of the New York World, continues to hammer New York society with the relentless brilliancy shown in his December article in the same periodical. Among other things he says, discussing the opera:

"The dinner being leisurely completed, the hostess remarks dubiously to her husband that she supposes the men might perhaps smoke their cigars on the way to the opera. This is probably more from a kindly desire to free the women from one another's society in the drawing room than from any desire to reach the opera earlier, but the men always acquiesce, and pile into one carriage or automobile with their cigars and cigarettes, while the ladies enjoy one another's company in another vehicle.

"They quickly reach the opera, and walk up one flight of stairs, to the distant muffled murmurs of the orchestra and an occasional high note from one of the singers, loud enough to force its way out to them. These solitary and sudden notes, robbed of all musical quality by the inaudibility of their context, sound as if some subliminated butcher shop within were being operated to slow music. But one of the guests, at some unusually penetrating scream, is sure to breathe, 'Ah!' (as she hastens her steps up the stairs); 'Ah!' in tones of tender and preposterous appreciation. Why she does it she could not herself explain, for she has not the least intention of listening to the music when she reaches the box. It is probably done from the same instinct that would make her honestly declare, if questioned, that she was devoted to music or to children, although she might not know a fugue in one from a whooping cough out of the other. A curious traditional attribute of her sex, this devotion to music and children, which she still feels it seemly to subscribe to in theory."

FRILLS AND JABOTS

Crisp and Attractive Are Feature of Neckwear.

As a rule, fashionable women look very much alike so far as neckwear is concerned, says The Housekeeper for January. No other detail of dress—with the exception, perhaps of veils—is subject to such quick changes or so influenced by fads. In New York, where fashions come and go with bewildering rapidity, one may tell in a moment by her neckwear the out-of-town woman who has not acquired the latest wrinkle in neckdressing, but is clinging to an—in the metropolis— obsolete style.

Frills and jabots escaping from the coat open'ng are extravagantly popular. Indeed, the winter coats open so low on the figure and the escaping frills are so bouffant that the comic papers have taken to depicting the girl of the period as a pouter pigeon, puffed out alarmingly from waist to chin. These dainty frills make a deal of trouble for the woman who must economize, for the white fluffiness must, of course, be above suspicion in the matter of spotlessness and freshness, and as the average laundress is incapable of turning out the delicate finery in the crisp, yet soft flutings of the new accessories, the pretty frills must be sent to a cleaner at considerable weekly expense.

At the top of the fluffy jabot, and just where it meets the high, neatly boned and pinned stock, is placed a small, flat bow of black satin or velvet ribbon, and this pert little black bow nestling among the soft white frills below one's chin, is attractively chic and becoming. Full bows of tulle are also smart, and black tulle bows are smarter than those of white. These tulle bows are worn at the front of the stock, directly beneath the chin.

The new stocks are exquisitely dainty, many hours of hand work being evident on those worn by well dressed women; and just new, the stock of very fine batiste or linen, showing cluny or Irish lace, is much smarter than the all lace stock of even costly Irish crochet.

About Table Silver.

Ivory and mother of pearl handles for table knives seem to have been superseded by silver.

Perhaps this is just as well, for the silver is more substantial, and less likely to be injured by constant use.

Silver platters for serving meats are also much more in use than formerly.

They hold the heat better than china, so that there is a surer way to serve the dishes piping hot.

In many places it is becoming more and more the fashion to pass the silver as it is needed, for each course.

This does away with the imposing display of table ware which formerly confronted the guest at the beginning of a formal dinner.

The array of knives and forks and spoons often proved somewhat of a nuisance, getting in one's way and causing moments of embarrassment to absent-minded guests who were so unlucky as to use the wrong fork.

Desserts and Things.

Sweet omelets are made by the addition of jelly, or preserved or crushed fruit to a plain omelet before it is folded.

To make a perfect stew of tough beef, cut it into small pieces weighing about one-half ounce each and cook for eight hours.

For a dessert prepared quickly in an emergency, bake marshmallows for five minutes in a hot oven and serve with devil's food and whipped cream.

Spanish waffles are made by adding cinnamon, nutmegs or other spices to plain waffle batter; lemon juice added to the batter makes French waffles.

When you want something extra for a dessert both delicious and pretty, fill the halves of hot-house cantaloupes with vanilla ice cream, smooth the top flat, and press in unblanched almonds to imitate a double line of seeds.

THE EVENING STORY

THE PRICE

By Catherine Carr.

Dr. La Tour came out of his door and down the walk with a brisk step and sprightly manner. They were at marked variance with his appearance.

He was a tall husk of a man, dried and yellow; his dark eyes burning in cadaverous hollows, his gray beard hanging untrimmed and stained with tobacco juice. Also his clothes were the last word of shabbiness. His linen was soiled and frayed; pins were substituted for buttons in many places, and of his vest it was the town jest that he boiled it once a week to make soup. Yet he wore, withal, an air of dignity which made the tale of blood convincing.

He paused at the broken-hinged gate and glanced back. He did not look upon a view of thrift. The house stood weatherbeaten, lacking in many window panes and shingles; and the gallery post that bore the sign, "Dr. Henry La Tour," sagged perilously. The line of neglected pins which led from the gate made an avenue of gloom, and from fence to fence the yard was a tangle of undergrowth and weed. The walk itself was a assembly of pitfalls. The doctor's disapproval was obvious.

"Tut, tut," he told himself, "this will never do. It certainly is surprisin' how one neglects things when they're busy. Ah must look aftah havin' repairs made at once."

The grounds must be cleared and some roses planted. There had used to be roses, red ones and yellow, along the south wall. Where had they gone, and when? Sure it was that a doctor was a slave to the people not even to have them to notice that the rose bushes had died. Still it was a grand profession—none more so.

A wing on the east side for anteroom and office commended itself to him. It would save so much passing through the main portion of the house. And then painting and papering would have to be done. White with green blinds was to his taste, but the new houses seemed to argue this old-fashioned. Yellow with brown trimmings, or two shades of green, would, he supposed, be more up-to-date.

Yet, after all, would it not be better to take offices in some building down town? That seemed the correct thing nowadays, and one really should move with the procession.

He began, straightway, the readjustment of his plans and, though they were absorbing, he greeted each familiar face he met with urbane courtesy, sweeping his old slouch hat deeply, after the fashion of his youth, when he saluted feminine outlines.

They were mighty nice people, these Ilgraville. Beautiful women and fine men, and he knew them all. Had ushered many of them into the world and attended nearly all at some time in their lives. And what a fine thing that was! Nothing could be better than the feeling of having helped your fellow-men. Wealth and world-fame were trivial beside it.

He came to a halt before a large building in the course of construction and made calculations. One of those suites would probably be the most desirable. Everything was to be thoroughly modern, he understood—and he could take his meals at the hotel. His mind grasped the details at once. It was really much more convenient when you came to think of it, and he decided to see Will Bailey about reserving offices for him that morning.

The doctor did not, however, go directly to young Bailey's office. The way led past Harper's drug store, and Frank Harper, he was sure, would feel slighted if he did not stop. And he could not for a moment consider offending Frank. He felt the obligation to look after the young man, for he and the elder Harper had been close friends for many years.

He greeted the men in the store pleasantly.

"Good mo'nin,' gentlemen, good mo'nin'. Fine day. Howdy, Frank; Busy, as usual? That's right. It's the age of busiue. Yu' grow mo' like yu' fathah every day. Shake hands, mah boy. Ah'm proud of yu'."

Any lack of responsiveness from the group failed to strike through the old man's large geniality of mood.

When he finally left the interchange of comment was not so much the expression of unkindness as of tolerant contempt.

"Old man must have taken an extra shot this mo'nin'."

"Rent one of the new Templeton suites. Wouldn't that jar yu'? When now he lives in a mystery."

"I fail to understand how it is that he is so tolerated," was the northerner's observation.

He was a capitalist and had dropped hints about locating at Ilerlaville. They were at once apologetic and explanatory.

"Oh, well, you see, he used to be a very capable physician, and it's hard to turn him down," one volunteered.

"Yes, and he's pulled most of us through some sort of sick spell when we were kids, and it's not easy to forget it," said young Hunter, thoughtfully. "Still, as you say, he is a nuisance, and the way he makes this his headquarters is mighty annoying. I hate to do it, but I reckon I'll have to take a stand agalnst it somehow."

Meanwhile the old doctor made his way to the postoffice, where he asked at the window for his mail—it had been long since he had had his own box—and as he waited he was suddenly aware of what appeared to him the clerk's unnecessary slowness. He grew irritated and took the few advertising circulars which were his portion with a sharp word of reproof that only elicited a grin.

The doctor's spare flesh flinched from the wind when he again faced it. All warmth had gone out of it and out of life. There was much, much at fault in the world. Courtesy was quite gone; no consideration for age or merit anywhere. And one met ingratitude at every hand. That young woman, now, in rustling skirts, which she drew aside as from contamination as she passed him with icy bend of the head—there was some reason why she should be gracious and kindly to him.

His step lagged slower and his eyes were glazed with tears. And the silken clad young woman of haughty manner was explaining to her companion, a recent resident of Ilerlaville. It was a task that came often to Dr. a Tour's acquaintance.

"Ridiculous, isn't it, to speak to such a looking creature? I tell mother I don't know what strangers must think, but she insists on my speaking to him, because he was once the best doctor in this part of the country, and he saved my life when I was a baby. But he got to using morphine and has simply gone down to the dregs. Awful, isn't it?"

"It certainly is. I can't for the life of me comprehend how a person can do such things. Especially a doctor who knows what the consequences must be."

"Oh, of course not," the other agreed.

They were young; health ran full in every vein, and life had been kind. They went on with a sense of virtue lifting them above those whose feet go down in slipper places.

Dr. La Tour was not observant of his dwelling's deficiencies as he again viewed it from his sagging gate. He stumbled up the broken walk and into its barren walls quite without thought of plan for improvement.

The room he entered had once been a spacious apartment, with frescoed ceiling and paneled walls, but the Cupids and garlands were blurred to vagueness now, and signs of all processes of living were in disordered evidence. It was, indeed, the only habitable room in the house. Books and bottles cumbered shelves and tables, and were heaped upon the floor. An unmade bed with soiled clothing stood in one corner; a cooking stove with an overflow of ashes in another. There were remnants of a frugal meal upon an oilcloth covered table near it, and a smouldering fire in the hearth of the great fireplace.

The doctor stirred the embers to what life was possible and, sinking into a rickety arm chair, spread his thin, shaking hands over them as if to gather their warmth to himself.

He was tired, very tired. His head sank on his breast, and his eyes closed. But surely there was season enough for weariness. With scarlet fever raging and but one pair of hands to fight it, the strength of a man was sorely tried. Back and forth—back and forth—from this house to that. No time to eat or sleep. Fight, fight fight unceasingly, the subtle forces of the disease and the weight of spent flesh. Back and forth—day and night—with now the wrenched heart of defeat and now the exultant pulse of triumph. And always, the need, the demand, for alert senses—for strength that was more than human. Still there was much that was good in it all. Oh, very much. The grateful tears of mothers, the fervent grasp of fathers' hands. He made a groping gesture to meet the friendly clasp, but his fingers only closed about a small aluminum case lying on the board arm of the chair.

He stared at it for a moment with unseeing eyes, then he mechanically charged the syringe and, seeking out with difficulty an unwounded spot of his shriveled flesh, he drove the portion of Lethe home.

And for the life of the young druggist who must refuse him resting place, of the young woman who marveled at such weakness, and for many other lives, both useful and useless, this wreck of a life was the price.

"OLD JIM," RETIRED FIRE HORSE, JOINED IN RUN OF OWN ACCORD

The wind was cold and old Jim, the former fire horse reduced to the ignominy of pulling a small dray, shivered in front of the postoffice this morning while his owner warmed his fingers at a radiator in the building.

A cart drawn by a galloping horse dashed by him and old Jim turned his head to see what the commotion was about. A chemical engine from fire headquarters followed and close behind was a hose cart with bell clanging.

In the old days Jim used to be the first horse into the harness, the most eager to get away. When old Jim heard the jangling of the bells and the sound of galloping feet beating sharply on the pavement he pricked up his ears, shook himself like a wet dog and started down the street. Old Jim is a little stiff now and his feet can't stand the hard pavements as in the old days, but he was "under way" in about a second. He trailed in the rear of a hose cart with a fire engine and a ladder truck, each drawn by three plunging horses, thundering along behind him.

Old Jim kept to the center of the street and the light dray swayed and slid over the pavement of First street as the fire wagons swept onward. Near Lake avenue the chief's cart stopped and when old Jim saw it draw up to the walk and the chief leap lightly out he swerved to the curb and sliding along the pavement, stopped at the corner as in the old days.

An excited draymen happened along pretty soon and old Jim, with the reins now tight over his back, started on a weary lope up the street. Old Jim limped but his head was high and his tail switched savagely.

CALENDAR TO BE LIGHT

Only Nine Criminal Cases Will Be Heard This Term.

Jackson McPherson Will Answer Charge of Murder in Second Degree.

The criminal calendar for the January term of the district court will probably be very light, only eight or nine known cases being on the list for the consideration of the grand jury which meets Wednesday.

The January term of court will begin Wednesday morning with the call to the calendar. There are 163 civil actions on the list.

Most of the prisoners at the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury are being held on burglary, larceny and other minor charges. It is expected that the trial of Jackson McPherson will be heard. He is accused of murder in the second degree for the alleged killing of Otto Frey on the steamer North Lake one day last fall.

Alvin Johnson will probably have a chance to show that he is innocent of stealing $20 from John Norling while both men were drunk at the Nicollet hotel. Johnson pretended to be helping Norling, but it is said he reached into the latter's pocket and helped himself to Norling's pocketbook, which contained $20.

James Malloy may have to answer to a charge of larceny in the first degree. While confined in the city jail he is said to have helped himself to $20 which belonged to Anton Johnson, a fellow-prisoner. Johnson was drunk and asleep on the floor. Malloy, in the presence of several other prisoners, is said to have taken possession of the money.

Andrew Godfrey Anderson is said to have stolen $39 from Ole Olson, a grocery man at 923 Twenty-third avenue west. Anderson at the time of his hearing in the municipal court waived an examination and was bound over to the grand jury.

Fannie Finders is said to have stolen from M. Canot lace goods worth in the neighborhood of $75.

Julius Granholm and Jacob Hanson Wolff are said to have broken into the store at 11 Lake avenue north and taken clothes valued at $115. Claus Thorsen is the complainant.

John Paulson and Bert Swanson will probably have to answer to a charge of larceny in the second degree. They are jointly charged by Joseph Olson with having stolen $300 from him at the Nicollet hotel. Both men waived examination at the time of their hearing in the lower court.

Steve Smith is charged with burglary. Charles Sager is the complainant. On Dec. 13, Smith is said to have broken into a store at 121 Central avenue, West Duluth, with intent to steal.

C. A. Ruprecht is charged with having forged a check and presented it at the clothing store of Williamson & Mendenhall in payment for a suit of clothes. The check amounted to $29.85.

A Wild Blizzard Raging

Brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are "stuffed up" nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being laid up three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, it's supreme. 50c. $1. Guaranteed by all druggists.

The $15 Choice Sale of Men's and Young Men's Fine Hand-Tailored Suits Begins This Morning at the Big Duluth.

Not a few special lines, broken assortments or job lots, but your complete choice for only $15 of The Big Duluth's entire stock of handsome hand-tailored suits—suits made by such well-known manufacturers as Hirsch, Wickwire & Co., L. Adler Bros. & Co., and L-System, that have been selling at and are actually worth today $35, $30 and $25.

But in order to live up to their cast iron rule of disposing of all goods during the season for which they were bought, to make room for the spring goods soon to arrive, The Big Duluth is willing, at this season of the year, to lose money. It's good business policy to do it, for it's worth a great deal to start each season with an entire new stock.

And you want to be on hand early, for when The Big Duluth gives you these $15 choice sales, it gives you the best clothing values of any store in the world.

NEGAUNEE MINE DRY IS BURNED

Four Hundred Suits of Clothes Belonging to Miners Destroyed.

Negaunee, Mich., Jan. 3.—(Special to The Herald.) — The big dry of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company's Negaunee mine was totally destroyed by fire early New Year's morning.

The principal loss was about 400 suits of miners' clothes which were hanging in the dry. The fire spread rapidly, and had it not been for the promptness of the firemen in responding to the alarm, the entire mine location would have been destroyed.

John Veal, the keeper of the dry, was sleeping at the time and narrowly escaped being burned to death. He sustained an injury to his leg and some severe burns.

The blaze is thought to have been caused by the crossing of electric light wires. The extent of the loss has not been estimated, but it involves thousands of dollars.

GIN FOR THE KIDNEYS

When properly used, gin is one of the best remedies for kidneys and bladder trouble. Best results are secured when used in the following prescription: "Six ounces good pure gin, one-half ounce Murax compound, one-half ounce fluid extra Buchu." Take in doses of one to two teaspoonfuls three times a day after meals.

Backache, frequent and scanty urination, highly colored urine, pain in the hip or groin, dizziness, puffiness under the eyes, rheumatic pains, are symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble which should have prompt attention to prevent chronic rheumatism, Bright's disease or diabetes. Any good druggist can furnish or mix the above ingredients.

BARDON TIMBER TRACT IS SOLD

Alger, Smith & Co., Make Large Purchase in Cook County.

Thomas Bardon of Ashland, Wis., has sold his large timber holdings in Cook county to Alger, Smith & Co. Mr. Bardon bought the pine when it was cheap many years ago and held it for higher prices which he knew would materialize. He is a large holder of standing pine in the West and southwest.

The Bardon forests in Cook county are near Brule lake and along the Temperance river. Their sale price was not made public. Alger, Smith & Co., bought the large holdings of Akeley & Sprague in Cook county some time ago. The company's timber extends to the international border and it is said that it owns enough standing pine to keep the two mills in West Duluth busy continuously for the next fifteen years.

To Whom It May Concern.

I hereby notify the public that I will not be responsible for any debts contracted by my wife, Charlotte G. Michaud after this date. Dated, Duluth, Minn., Jan. 3, 1910. signed,

HOW PRISONERS CONVERSE.

Glasgow News: A man who was sent to jail recently for three days for a small offense was greatly impressed with the precautions taken to prevent the prisoners engaging in conversation. There seemed to be warders everywhere, and no one was allowed to utter a word.

On the Sunday he was in the church the Psalm given was the Old Hundredth. Beside him were too old jailbirds, and instead of the orthodox words beginning "All people that on earth do dwell," this pair sang a hymn of their own in conversational style, which went something as follows. First convict sings:

"How long are you in for?
"I am doing sixty days;
I nearly broke a copper's jaw.
Sing low or else they'll maybe hear."

Second convict replies:

"You are a lucky pie-can.
I've got twel-elve months to serve;
Tried to break into a house;
Some'dy must have gi'en me away."

By this method they exchanged histories during the singing.

MILLIONS ARE GIVEN

Tom Waggoner of Texas Presents Great Ranches to Children.

Gift Includes Thirty Thousand Cattle and One Thousand Horses.

Forth Worth, Tex., Jan. 3.—Six million dollars represents the amount that Tom Waggoner, Fort Worth millionaire, banker, ranchman and capitalist, gave to his three children for a holiday present—$2,000,000 to each child. The present was not given in the shape of money.

It is in land, cattle and horses. One hundred thousand acres of Texas land was deeded to each of his three children, and on this land there are 30,000 head of cattle and 1,000 head of horses.

"I have had to work hard for every cent I have," he said. "It has cost me sweat and worry and hardship. I want my children to have an easier lot than I. If they are careful they can become independently wealthy."

The land is located in Taylor, Knox and Wilbarger counties in the Panhandle. Mr. Waggoner owned 600,000 acres there in one tract. That is not all the land he owns; it is only a small part. But Mr. Waggoner had 600,000 acres up there and he decided to cut it up into smaller tracts.

Keeps 300,000 Acres.

To his daughter, Electra, who is now Mrs. A. B. Wharton, he gave the Zacawesta ranch, on which are located the headquarters of the entire ranch, with a commissary capable of feeding a small army. Guy Waggoner was given the tract of 100,000 acres adjoining the West and Paul tract of 100,000 acres west of the tract given to Guy. Mr. Waggoner retains the Cardo Blanco ranch, a tract of 300,000 acres east of the Zacawelsta ranch.

The tract of land which Mr. Waggoner divided approximately covers 1,000 square miles. The state of Rhode Island contains only 1,050 square miles.

Mr. Waggoner's father, Dan Waggoner, who was probably known to every man in the state, came to Texas in 1858. He settled in Wise county and engaged in the cattle business. He operated in Texas and the old Indian Territory and gradually acquired uncounted acres of land and uncounted numbers of cattle.

Tom Waggoner was 6 years old when his father came to this state. Later, his father took him into partnership and in all deals the two were equally interested. The advice of the boy was sought by the father and in many instances it was the younger's counsel that resulted in profitable transactions.

Tom Waggoner always worked. With more wealth at his command than the average man conceives in his wildest dreams, he was a cowman and did a cowman's part.

Oil Found on Ranch.

"Yes, sir," he said, "my money has come as the result of hard knocks. I never made an easy dollar in my life. They are drilling some oil wells on my Cardo Blanco ranch now and have found oil in paying quantities. If I should make some easy money out of the oil, I am afraid it would swell my head."

He laughed heartily, for it was as big a joke to him as to any of his friends to think of Tom Waggoner other than the hail-fellow-well-met cowman he has always been. No one knows the extent of his wealth. His fortune is estimated variously at from $10,000,000 to 40,000,000, with a mean average generally accepted of $25,000,000.

MUST SUFFER ALONE.

Everybody's: Some Federal officers in the Civil war once sought shelter for the night in an old, tumble-down shack. About 2 o'clock a polecat announced its presence in its own peculiar way. A German sat up and looked helplessly about him. The others were all sleeping peacefully.

"Mein Gott!" he exclaimed in tones of despair. "All the resht ashleep, und I've got to smell it all!"

SUICIDE THEORY NOW IS FAVORED

Clothing Merchant's Death, However, Still Puzzles New York Police.

New York, Jan. 3.—Investigation into the death of Moses S. Nathanson, a wholesale clothing merchant, whose dead body was found tied to a chair in his store yesterday with gas escaping from a broken pipe in the room, was continued today with the investigators leaning strongly to the theory of suicide. The officials said that they were little impressed by the story brought to them that Nathanson had received threats recently from foreigners with whom he had trouble.

No suspicion is entertained against Nathanson's partner, Isaac H. Gold, who was detained as a witness and released on nominal bonds.

Nathanson, so far as is known, had no reason to commit suicide. He was 49 years old and in the best of health and spirits. His business was solvent, he had ample outside resources, and he lived happily with his wife and daughter. Two sons, Benjamin and John, are in business at Fayetteville, Tenn.

MRS. HUMPHREY WARD'S UNFAIRNESS.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, whose novel, based on American divorce, is being read with interest by all divorced Americans, worked hard in the collection of facts during her visit last year.

"She worked hard," said a New York lawyer, "but she didn't work fairly. She didn't come here to look for truth, you know, but to look for sensational things that would make interesting reading in a novel. Mrs. Humphrey Ward came to America prejudiced.

"I know she was prejudiced. A remark of hers proved it. At a dinner before her researches began I had the honor to sit beside her, and to make conversation I said:

"'Don't you think our American women are beautifully dressed?'

"'Yes,' she admitted, in her high English drawl, 'I wish, though, they'd stop thinking that no wardrobe is complete without a divorce suit.'"

ACCORDING TO TASTE.

Discussing missionary work, especially the yellow, slant-eyed pictures of the Holy Family circulated among the Chinese and the black, woolly-haired Holy Families circulated in the Congo country, Mme. Helene Vincente, the well-known Congo missionary, said at a dinner in Cleveland:

"This seems odd to you, eh? A Chinese heaven strikes you as ludicrous. Yet here in your own country you are careful to fit heaven and the—er—other place to your people's likes and dislikes.

"Thus on my recent Southern trip I heard a colored Georgia divine describe hades as ice-cold, a place where the wicked shiver and freeze through all eternity. I asked the divine why he altered in that radical manner the usual description of hades, and he replied:

"'Ah don't darst tell mah people nuffin else, marm. Why, if Ah sed hades wuz wahm, some o' dese ole rheumatic breddern an' sistern o' mine would be wantin' ter stahr right down dah come fust frost.'"

For Aged People

Old Folks Should be Careful in their Selection of Regulative Medicine.

With advanced age comes inactive bowel movement and sluggish liver. Nature is unable to perform her proper functions and requires assistance. Otherwise, there is constant suffering from constipation and its attendant evils. Old folks should never use physic that is harsh and irritating.

We have a safe, dependable and altogether ideal remedy that is particularly adapted to the requirements of aged people and persons of weak constitution who suffer from constipation or other bowel disorder. We are so certain that it will completely relieve these complaints and give absolute satisfaction in every particular that we offer them with our personal guarantee that they shall cost the user nothing if they fail to substantiate our claims. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They have a soothing, healing, strengthening, tonic and regulative action upon the dry mucous lining and the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel. They produce a natural, successive contraction and relaxation of the muscular fibres of the bowel walls, generating a wave-like motion which forces their contents onward and outward; thus simulating nature in perfect bowel movement. They tone up and strengthen the nerves and muscles and restore the bowels and associate organs to more vigorous and healthy activity. They may be taken at any time without inconvenience; do not cause any griping, nausea, diarrhoea, excessive looseness, flatulence or other disagreeable effect. Try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee: 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway.

MAY FLAX SOARS AGAIN IN A VERY NARROW MARKET

Every Attempt to Buy Puts the Price Up a Notch.

Wheat Is Also Strong, May Scoring a Good Advance.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 3.—Today's wheat and flax market was strongly bullish. Flax broke all records in the local market when it hit $2.09, an upturn of 3½c from the opening. There was little action in flax, only a few thousand bushels being traded in. Owing to the restricted market, the small crop and the large demand the slightest buying movement sends the price upward in big jumps. In its present position the bulls can handle it about as they please. An advantage to them is the absence of a pronounced short interest. The demand is centered in the crushers.

Wheat was strong at the opening on foreign cables, which were higher. May opened at $1.11⅜ and advanced steadily to $1.13 after marking time for about an hour after the opening. Cables from Argentina indicating that threshing is retarded by rains and the receipt of a cable estimating the exportable surplus at 20 per cent less than last year, caused a general tightening of the market and prices advanced. Some covering by shorts aided in the upturn.

Cash wheat is strong, 1c over May. Better receipts and the probability of a freer movement seem to be without effect. Cash wheat in all markets will be closely watched for the next few weeks. The bulls believe that May will work up gradually instead of selling off, while the bears hold that with increasing receipts and a slow demand the edge will be off the cash market for a time. The maintenance of prices for futures will depend to a predominating extent on the cash markets, as there probably will be little in foreign cables for some time to influence prices in a pronounced manner. The big millers have liberal supplies of wheat, but the smaller concerns are not supposed to have more than usual, and have been taking enough wheat in all markets to hold the cash markets firm.

The official yield of Argentine wheat is placed at 159,000,000 bu and flax at 35,000,000 bu. The estimate on flax is believed to be too high.

The world's shipments were 8,720,000 bu, against 12,096,000 bu, which is considered a bullish factor.

Minneapolis stocks increased 50,000 bu in two days.

Some small imports of flax are being held here, duty paid. This practice was common last spring and it is probable that it will be in vogue again this year, depending upon the prices for Canadian flax and the duty in comparison to the prices in the local market.

The great increase in the amount of corn sent through this port last year, compared with 1908, was due to peculiar price conditions. Corn is handled here almost entirely by one firm.

Cash durum closed at 1c 2¼c over Friday. Oats closed ⅛c up and rye closed ⅛c up. Cash wheat closed 1c over May.

Grain stocks in store at the Head of the Lakes follow: Wheat—No. 1 hard, 250,680 bu; No. 1 northern, 484,080 bu; No. 2 northern, 145,080 bu; No. 3, 2,002 bu; special bin, 23,624 bu; durum, 520,660; bonded, 263,639 bu; total, 1,887,926 bu, an increase for the week of 237,104 bu. The total stocks of wheat a year ago were 6,169,852 bu. Stocks of other grains are: Oats, 1,001,378 bu, an increase of 126,248 bu; rye, 24,946 bu an increase of 2,780 bu; barley, 474,844 bu, an increase of 53,543 bu; flax, 316,089 bu, an increase of 1,626 bu.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 41 against a holiday last year, and at Minneapolis 794 against 264 for three days last year, a total of 835 for the Northwest compared with 304 last year. Chicago received 11 against 19 last year, and Winnipeg 185 compared with 56 last year. Kansas City received 2,000 bu against 111,000 bu last year, and shipped 34,000 bu against 31,000 bu last year. St. Louis received 151,000 bu for three days against 119,000 bu for four days last year, and shipped 52,000 bu against 85,000 bu last year.

Primary receipts of wheat for three days were 1,427,000 bu; last year, 572,000 bu; shipments, 211,000 bu; last year, 161,000 bu; clearances, 166,000 bu; oats, 7,000 bu; flour, 66,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 463,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 958,000 bu; last year 807,000 bu; shipments, 325,000 bu; last year, 411,000 bu; clearances, 638,000 bu.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—"Total world's shipments of breadstuffs last week, 8,720,000 bu; previous week, 12,096,000 bu; last year, 6,032,000 bu. Corn, last week, 3,208,000 bu; previous week, 2,966,000 bu; last year, 2,048,000 bu. The wheat market at the start was firm, with values 1d higher. The easier American cables of Friday being offset by light offerings and a good demand for both parcels and cargoes. Following the opening and during the morning the market was firmly supported and prices showed a further advance of ¾@⅞d. Support was attributed to the firmness in Argentine future markets, which show a persistent upward tendency and the scarcity of La Plata offerings. Private cables received by prominent houses here state the rains are interfering with thrashing and shorts in March were nervous and covered freely. The world's shipments were bullish being 8,720,000 bu, against 12,096,000 bu. Late cables from Argentine report that there is no chartering of steamers being done. Corn market is featureless, with prices unchanged. Monthly stocks of wheat, 3,992,000 bu, and corn 1,576,000 bu. These compare with wheat, 760,000 bu and corn, 2,672,000 bu last month. Cargoes strong with few sellers. Cotton quiet, with buyers reserved."

Bartlett-Patten wired—"Cables on wheat 1¼d to 1⅝d higher and on corn unchanged. Our Liverpool advices state the market advanced on shorts covering. A great deal depends on whether a good demand develops for our cash wheat here. We will see a nervous market and it is difficult to predict price fluctuations until the atmosphere becomes more clear. Receipts of corn about as estimated. Eastern demand has been slow and with better prices and railroads to operate with more ease we should see larger receipts here."

Finley, Barrell & Co., said: "Until foreigners show more anxiety and disposition to take American wheat think it will prove prudent not to ignore profits on quick bulges when offered as prices are not cheap and our invisible supply is exceedingly large."

Minneapolis wired—"There is an improved demand for flour and most of the mills have larger inquiries a little below the market. A moderate break would bring this business immediately and if the market holds strong or goes higher so as to inspire confidence among buyers believe flour orders will enlarge."

On Passage Statement—Last week, 26,872,000 bu.; previous week, 27,128,000 bu.; last year, 22,464,000 bu.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Early Trading Shows Advance All Through the Lists.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Early trading in grain and provisions here today showed an advance all along the line, with May wheat leading in the upward tilt.

Foreign cables showing a strong Liverpool market, with an advance of 1@1¼d induced by reported scarcity of Laplata offerings coupled with a good demand, had a bullish effect on the wheat market here. The upward tendency was strengthened by severe cold in the Northwest. The idea was that the cold might impede shipping. Opening prices on May wheat were ⅛@⅝c to ⅞@1c higher than last Friday's closing quotation, the starting prices today being $1.12⅛@1.12⅛.

The advance of the morning continued through the session. May wheat reached its high point at $1.13⅜, closing 1⅜@1⅝c higher than Friday's close, at $1.13¼. Good demand for cash wheat contributed to strength of the leading future.

A slightly increased shipping demand for corn was evidenced by a small advance in prices. May corn opened unchanged to ⅛c higher than Friday's close, the initial figures being 66½@66⅝c.

Corn showed less activity than wheat May corn closed at ⅛c net higher at 66⅝c.

Oats influenced by other grain showed an advance. May opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@⅝c higher at 45⅞@45¾ and held within that range early.

Responsive to the receipt of 8,000 fewer live hogs than were expected today, provisions showed a uniform advance of 5c to 20c. Opening January figures were: Pork, $21.50; lard, $12.27½; ribs, $11.40.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Is Stronger on News and Cash Advance.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 3.—The wheat market was stronger today on the falling off in the world's shipments, unfavorable Argentine news, higher cables and an advance in the cash premiums. May opened ¾@⅞c higher than Friday's close and advanced exactly 1c higher than the opening. At the close near option was 1½@1⅝c higher than Friday.

Local elevator stocks increased 50,000 bu. for two days. Minneapolis today received 794 cars of wheat, compared with 304 cars a year ago; Duluth, 41 cars, against 35, and Winnipeg 185 cars, against 58 cars. May opened $1.11⅜; high $1.12⅞; low, $1.11⅜; closed $1.12¾@1.12⅝. July opened $1.11⅜; high, $1.12⅜; low, $1.11¼@1.11⅜; closed $1.12¼@1.12⅝. Cash wheat was in strong demand today. Receipts for three days were light and the majority arrived on sale, so offerings were far from heavy. No. 1 northern sold for 1@1½c above the May option, and No. 2 northern for ½@1c under. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.13@1.14; No. 2 northern, $1.13@1.14; No. 2 northern, $1.11@1.12; to arrive, $1.11@1.12; No. 3 wheat, $1.09@1.11.

Flax—Receipts, 104 cars; a year ago, 286; shipments, 5. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 3c above the Duluth May options. New high points were reached today. Offerings were fairly liberal. Closing prices, $2.10¾.

Barley—Receipts, 141 cars; a year ago, 58; shipments, 69 cars. The market was fairly active today. Offerings were liberal and demand for both feeding and malting grades strong. Prices were unchanged. Closing range, 57@66c.

No. 2 yellow corn, 57¾@58¾c; No. 3 white oats, 42½@43⅛c; No. 2 rye, 73¾@74¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,647 tons. The continued strong and general demand made prices advance. Shipments were light. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $22.

The flour market showed no new developments over Sunday and Saturday. Demand continued only fair at the last and shipments were light. Shipments, 88,909 barrels. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.50@5.70; second patents, $5.30@5.50; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.40@3.50.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Opened With Gains, But Selling Soon Caused Prices to Yield.

Flurry in the Call Money Rate Was Chief Bearish Factor.

New York, Jan. 3.—Today's first prices of stocks showed general gains over the last preceding prices which were limited to small fractions except in the case of some of the low priced railroad stocks. Opening sales of Rock Island were of 3,000 shares at 56½ and 56¾ compared with 54⅞ on Friday. St. Louis Southwestern rose 2½, Granby Mining 1 and Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville, Atlantic Coast Line, Chesapeake & Ohio and American Locomotive large fractions. Prices were inclined to yield after the opening except for Rock Island, which rose above 57.

Persistent selling of United States Steel which depressed it 1⅜@89⅝, created uneasiness among the traders and there was a general unloading of active stocks. Rock Island reacted a point from its best figures, and Reading, Southern Pacific, New York Central and Colorado Fuel were forced down a point below Friday's closing. Union Pacific 1¾ and Wheeling & Lake Erie first preferred 1½. Pacific Coast was marked up 2 points and Erie first preferred and Pittsburg Coal preferred 1.

Prices reached a considerably lower level before there was any let up to the selling and resultant losses ran pretty generally to a point or more in the most active stocks. The copper group and other specialties were heavily sold in the second hour, Anaconda losing 2¼. Shortly before midday the market steadied a fraction and became very quiet. Bonds were heavy.

The rally stopped when call money went to 7½ per cent bid, but the market did not yield. Colorado & Southern advanced a point.

The market closed irregular and unsettled. The flurry in call money brought out stocks for sale in large volume again and there was a further considerable fall in prices. Union Pacific lost 2⅝, Reading and United States Steel 2¼, Rock Island preferred 2, St. Paul, Southern Pacific, Atchison, Wabash preferred and Illinois Central 1½ and Pullman 4. There were only slight rallies when the shorts covered.

We can use over 3,000 shares part paid Scott at $5.63, and orders are coming in from every direction. We are going to give you a real mine, not a phything, but a property like the great Minnie Healy, worth millions. You talk about a mine. Why the Scott is worth fifty times what many of the others are worth. Get this into your head. Scott is one in ten thousand and the likes of which you will not have a chance to get for many and many a day at these low prices. Remember Live Oak went to $25 and Scott will sell higher than Calumet & Sonora very soon. Mines on Butte Hill are worth millions and this has been proven both in Ballakiava and Tuolumne, and the Scott is just as big as either of them and may be bigger.

The wide veins passing from the High Ore to the Leonard will have a great story to tell. We advise the purchase of the Scotia for the biggest sure money made on any since North Butte and Calumet & Arizona were put on.

St. Mary's is going up. It is strong at 40 cents. We can use big blocks at this price. Big news is just in from the mine; showing is getting bigger every day.

Ballakiava will soon advance fast. You can bet anything you want to on this one. The crowd back of it are strong and the mine is a real one. Big shipments will soon go forward daily.

Amazon-Montana should be bought for a stiff advance.

MONDAY, JAN. 3, 1910.

The market was a boiler from start to finish. All kinds of stocks were in first class demand, but the foremost was Calumet & Corbin, which was far and away the heaviest trader in the whole group. We have advised the purchase of Calumet & Corbin ever since it was 40c a share and it is as cheap today at $1.25 as when it was at 40c, by reason of the fact that the company is now fully financed to an extent of $100,000 cash in its treasury as soon as the new company has completed its organization. We advise the purchase of any of the best stocks, and amongst these we strongly advise the purchase of Red Warrior, Live Oak, Duluth & Moctezuma, Calumet & Corbin, Calumet & Montana and the Scotts. This market is getting in shape to have a big advance and the next three months will, in our opinion, witness one of the biggest markets which Duluth has ever seen, and we sincerely believe that the present price for a great number of these stocks will look ridiculously cheap as compared with what they will sell at two months from today. Amongst the high priced stocks we are strongly in favor of Shattuck -Arizona and Duluth & Moctezuma. They are both bound for much higher prices. Both of them are shipping ore, and both will do much better for the reason that they are both good mines. A telegram was received from the superintendent of the Red Warrior stating that ore was coming in the bottom of the shaft, and if this should increase in size to any extent it will mean an entirely new body of ore. We remain distinctly bullish on Red Warrior, as we feel sure that it will sell for much higher prices the coming winter, and we base our conclusion on the fact that the property is selling entirely too low from an intrinsic standpoint.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—

Default has been made in the payment of the sum of Seven Hundred and Twenty-nine Dollars, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by Gabriel Cleerche, Mortagor, to Ronald M. Hunter, Mortagee, bearing date the Thirteenth day of January, 1892, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of St. Louis, and State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of January, 1892, at 8 o'clock A. M. in Book 71 of Mortgages, on page 623, and no action or proceeding has been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said Mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said Mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said Mortgage, viz: Lot number Fifteen (15), in Block One (1), "Hunter's Park," First Division, according to the recorded plat thereof, in St. Louis County and State of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said St. Louis County at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 11th day of January, 1910, at 10 o'clock A. M., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of Seven Hundred and Twenty-nine Dollars, and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and Twenty-five Dollars, Attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said Mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated November 29th, A. D., 1909.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED VACATION—

Notice is hereby given, That there has been filed of record in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Duluth a petition for the vacation of the alley lying between Fourth and Fifth streets from Twenty-second avenue east to Twenty-third avenue east.

The object of the proposed vacation is to allow the abutting lots to be improved to better advantage, the presence of deep ravines in said block making it impracticable to improve the alley.

Said petition will be heard and considered by the Committee of the Common Council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, on Monday, February 14, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock P. M., in the City Clerk's office in the City Hall in the City of Duluth, at which time and place said committee will hear the testimony and evidence on the part of the parties interested.

H. W. CHEADLE,
City Clerk.
D. E. H., Jan. 3, 10, 17 and 24, 1910. D 448.

SHERIFF'S EXECUTION SALE.

Under and by virtue of an execution issued out of and under the seal of the District Court of the State of Minnesota, in and for the Eleventh Judicial District and County of St. Louis, on the 27th day of December, 1909, upon a judgment rendered and docketed in said Court and County, wherein Charles E. Buckremah was plaintiff and The Syndicate Investment Company, The American Loan and Trust Company, John McKinley, George A. Elder and William McKinley, were defendants, in favor of said plaintiff and against said defendants, The Syndicate Investment Company, The American Loan and Trust Company, George A. Elder and William McKinley and each of them for the sum of twenty-three thousand ninety-five and 34-100 dollars, which said execution has to me, as Sheriff of said St. Louis County, Minnesota, been duly directed and delivered, I have levied upon and will sell at public auction to the highest cash bidder, in the office of the Sheriff of said County of St. Louis, in the St. Louis County Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County of St. Louis, on Tuesday, the 8th day of February, A. D. 1910, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, all the right, title and interest that the above named judgment debtor, George A. Elder, had in and to the real estate hereinafter described, on the 9th day of February, 1900, that being the date of the rendition of said judgment, or any interest therein which said judgment debtor, George A. Elder, may have since that date acquired.

The real estate so levied upon and to be sold, is situated in the County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot two (2), Section four (4), Northwest quarter of Southwest quarter (NW¼ of SW¼) of Section five (5), lots two (2), three (3) and four (4), and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter (NE¼ of the SE¼) of Section six (6), all in Township fifty-eight (58) North, Range seventeen (17) West of the Fourth Principal Meridian; also the East half of the Southeast quarter (E½ of SE¼) and the Southwest quarter of the Southeast quarter (SW¼ of SE¼) of Section thirty-three (33), and the Southwest quarter of the Southwest quarter (SW¼ of SW¼), of Section thirty-four (34) in Township fifty-eight (58) North, Range twenty (20) west of the Fourth Principal Meridian.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., December 27, 1909.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION —OF—
McLAURIN MINING COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, have associated ourselves together to form a corporation for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter Fifty-eight (58), Revised Laws, Minnesota, 1905, and acts amendatory thereof; and to that end have organized by subscribing, acknowledging and adopting the following Certificate or Articles of Incorporation:

Article I.

The name of this corporation shall be McLAURIN MINING COMPANY.

The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be the mining and smelting of iron ore and other metallic ores and substances; the quarrying, mining and marketing of any kind of ore, stone, slate or other mineral substance; the buying, owning, improving, selling, leasing and generally dealing in lands, mineral or otherwise, tenements and hereditaments; the buying, owning, selling and dealing in any and all kinds of personal property, including the capital stock of other corporations and securities of every kind and nature, corporate or otherwise.

Said business may be carried on in the State of Minnesota or elsewhere.

The principal place of transacting the business of this corporation shall be the City of Duluth in the State of Minnesota.

Article II.

The time of the commencement of this corporation shall be the 10th day of January, 1910, and the period of its continuance shall be thirty (30) years.

Article III:

The names and places of residence of the persons forming this association for incorporation are as follows:
Wilson G. Crosby, Duluth, Minnesota.
Bert Fesler, Duluth, Minnesota.
A. J. Roth, Duluth, Minnesota.

Article IV.

The names of the first Board of Directors of this corporation shall be as follows: Wilson G. Crosby, Bert Fesler and A. J. Roth.

The government of this corporation and the management of its affairs shall be vested in the following officers, to-wit: A Board of three Directors who shall be stockholders of this corporation and a President, a Vice President, a Secretary and a Treasurer, but the offices of Secetary and Treasurer may be held by the same person. The Board of Directors shall be elected by the stockholders of this corporation at their annual meeting and the President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer shall be chosen by the Directors at their first annual meeting held next after the annual meeting of the stockholders. The directors and officers of this corporation shall hold their respective offices for the term of one (1) year and until their respective successors are duly elected and qualified. The officers of this corporation until the first meeting of the stockholders shall be:
Wilson G. Crosby, President;
Bert Fesler, Vice President;
A. J. Roth, Secretary and Treasurer.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of this corporation shall be held on the third Monday in January in each year, at such hour and place as shall be fixed by the by-laws of this corporation.

Article V.

The capital stock of this corporation shall be Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) and the same shall be paid in by money or by property at such time and in such manner as the Board of Directors shall determine and if by property, then at its fair and true value in money. Said capital stock shall be divided into Five Hundred (500) shares of the par value of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) each.

Article VI.

The highest amount of indebtedness to which this corporation shall at any time be subject, is the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000).

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have hereunto set our hands and seals this 11th day of October, 1909.

GETTING OVER DIFFICULTIES.

W. D. Boyce, the Chicago publisher, was discussing some of the difficulties of his contemplated ballooning expedition in South Africa.

"Oh, we'll get over them," said Mr. Boyce, smiling. "We must, eh—in a balloon? Where there's a will there's a way, you know. We'll show the indomitable spirit of little Willie of Commonwealth avenue.

"'No, Willie,' said his French nurse, 'no more gateaux tonight. Don't you know you can't sleep on a full stomach?'

"'Well,' said the indomitable Willie, 'I can sleep on my back, can't I?'"

Duluth suffered with the cold this morning more than it has at any time previously this winter. The lowest temperature was recorded at 8 and 9 o'clock, when the government thermometer at the weather bureau, on the hill, registered 17 deg. below zero. At 7 o'clock the mercury stood at 16 below, and again at 10 and 11 the registration was 16 below.

The temperature began to fall last night, and from 1 o'clock this morning to 8 o'clock the fall was rapid. The greatest drop in any one hour was in the hour between 3 and 4 o'clock, when the mercury fell from 1 deg. above zero to 5 deg. below.

Though the mercury is climbing in the tube this afternoon, there will be another decided drop tonight, and Forecaster Richardson predicts that the temperature some time tomorrow morning will be 20 deg. below zero.

The extremely low temperature this morning was attended by very little wind, but the cold was gripping and penetrating, although the discomfort was not so great as it would have been had it been accompanied by a high wind.

FOR LOUELLA.

Chicago News: "Mr. Wallaby," said Wallaby's very superior half as she took an extra fold in her battery of chins, "I want to talk with you for a few moments on a very special subject."

"All right," said Wallaby. "Go ahead and talk. I don't know that there's any law to prevent you from talking."

"Mr. Wallaby," said his wife, icily, "that is no way to speak to the woman you inveigled from her parents' roof and dragged into comparative poverty!"

"I never saw you on your parents' roof in my life," said Wallaby, with asperity. "And, more than that, you never showed any inclination to take to the roof when you saw me coming. However, I suppose that was not the subject you wanted to talk about."

"It was not," said Mrs. Wallaby. "I want to speak to you about our daughter Louella. I suppose you are aware that she is nearly grown up."

"If weighing 150 pounds is being grown up, I should say that our daughter Louella was getting along."

"That was not my meaning," said his wife. "I am aware that Louella has grown rapidly and has been rather heavy and awkward. But she has outgrown that largely—"

"She has outgrown everything she ever had,' said Wallaby.

"I am endeavoring," declared Mrs. Wallaby, "to convey to you the idea that our daughter has reached the age when young women in her position are brought out."

"Brought out!" repeated Wallaby, blankly. "What's she in for?"

"That is a mere equivocation," said Mrs. Wallaby, with increasing frigidity. "You know perfectly well that I allude to the fact that Louella is out of school and ready to be introduced into society."

"She knows everybody in this town by their first names, from the rector to Loony Louey," said Wallaby. "What do you propose to do now—import a lot of fresh faces or move to another town?"

"Mr. Wallaby!" said his thoroughly exasperated wife, "if you will persist in being an idiot I refuse to answer you according to your folly. I tell you once for all that our daughter Louela Maud will be 18 years of age the 21st of next month and it is my desire and intention to give her a party and a reception befitting the occasion and our social position."

"Well, what do you expect of me in all this insurrection?" asked Wallaby gloomily.

"Louella will have to have dresses, flowers, cards and many other things," said Mrs. Wallaby. "All of these cost money and have to be paid for."

"Very well," said Wallaby. "Go ahead with your party and I'll foot the bills. Louella will have to be brought out—but I am certainly being taken in."

A SAVING.

"Sir Thomas Lipton told me he is going to take to flying instead of yachting," said a member of the Aero club in New York. "He says the air is cheaper than the water.

"He said in his jovial way that he liked to save, even in the matter of sports. He said he was rather like the old fellow in the smoking car.

"Crossing the plains in a smoking car, an old fellow and a young one sat side by side. After some hours of travel they fell into friendly talk, and finally the old fellow filled his pipe from a big pouch and lit up.

"The young man took out his own pipe.

"'Would you kindly oblige me with a match?' he said.

"The old fellow gave him a match, and the young man began to search his pockets.

"'The deuce!' he said, with a sheepish smile, 'I haven't got my tobacco with me.'

"'Then you won't need that match,' said the old fellow, and reaching out his hand he took it and replaced it in his box."

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Mayor Stoy of Atlantic City was praising the remarkable efficiency of his corps of life guards.

"These men have presence of mind," he said, "the right kind of presence of mind. Not the wrong kind—everybody has that.

"I used to know," Mayor Stoy continued, "an aged duck hunter that we called Old Presence of Mind. We called him that because he once went duck-ing in a sneak box with a friend. The bay roughened up, and the friend fell overboard. But, as he was sinking in the icy water, he managed to clutch with his chilled hand the edge of the frail little sneak box.

"The old duck hunter used to conclude this thrilling tale with the words:

"'And, gents, if I hadn't had the presence of mind to unship an oar and whack him over the fingers, I'd have been drowned—as he was.'"

It wouldn't have required much more persuasion in your ad. to have brought a hundred more buyers to your store today.

SPECIAL WARNINGS OF BIG STORM ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

Blizzard Now Raging in Central West Will Strike the East, Too.

Will Grow in Intensity as It Goes---Traffic Likely to Suffer.

Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska Are Centers of Severe Weather.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A heavy snow storm which undoubtedly will have serious effect upon railway and other traffic conditions has developed in the Middle West and will set in over the lake region and Middle and North Central valleys today, and begin in the middle Atlantic and New England states by Wednesday.

In a special bulletin this morning Prof. Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, warned all points throughout the Northeastern part of the country on the approach of the storm. The disturbance is of marked intensity, and was first noted this morning over the plain states and is causing snow today in the Missouri and Middle Mississippi river valleys and the Rocky mountain region, and rain and snow in the Southwest.

Storm Will Get Worse.

Officials of the bureau predict that the storm will increase in intensity and move eastward, attended by decided falls in temperature throughout the East and as far south as the northern portions of the Gulf states. The temperature is below zero today in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Northern New York and the Northwestern states. The cold will continue tonight over the northern districts east of the Mississippi.

Dangerous for Shipping.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—With the wind blowing thirty-six to forty-eight miles an hour from the northwest, the Virginia, Carolina and Maryland coasts were today swept by a winter gale with high seas which made it dangerous for all shipping caught at sea. A

FOUR KILLED IN FORT WILLIAM FIRE

Five Others Injured By Jumping From the Burning Building.

Fort William, Ont., Jan. 4.—Four persons were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed F. H. Babcock's boarding house on McKellar street, and five others were injured, being compelled to jump from windows.

The dead:

—. —. HOPSON, an oiler in the Ogilvie mills.

ANDREW SORENSEN, laborer.

MINA CLYSOLIS, kitchen girl.

A CHINESE COOK.

The five persons who jumped from the windows were seriously injured and one of them, Mrs. Littlejohn, may die.

The temperature was 20 deg. below zero and those who escaped from the building through their night clothes suffered severely from the cold.

SHIP BILL IS INTRODUCED

Humphreys Presents Measure Which Is to Be Center of Fight.

Subsidies and Conditions Are Provided For in the Proposed Law.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Humphrey of Washington today introduced in the house a bill providing for ship subsidy by the United States government, which measure is understood to have the approval of President Taft and the administration and to be the one upon which the proponents of subsidy bills will concentrate their efforts to secure its enactment into law.

The Humphrey bill provides an increase in pay to American ships for carrying the mails to South America, China, Japan, the Philippines and Australasia, bringing it up to $4 per mile for an outward voyage of 4,000 miles or more. An increased tonnage tax on trans-oceanic trade is provided, and it is proposed to admit foreign-built ships to American register for the foreign trade.

Raise for Second-Class Ships.

The author of the bill, in an explanation of its provisions, said the proposition to increase the pay for carrying the mails was the most important feature of the measure. The postmaster general is authorized to pay second-class ships for carrying the mails the

FIRST DIRECTOR OF CONSULAR SERVICE

—Copyright, 1909, by Harris & Ewing.

WILBUR J. CARR.

Wilbur J. Carr, formerly chief clerk of the state department, has been appointed by Secretary Knox to the new post, recently created, of director of the consular service. For the past two years Mr. Carr, besides his work as chief clerk, has also exercised general supervision over the affairs of the consular service. As both these branches of his work have increased, Mr. Knox decided to create a new office with a view to improving the efficiency of the organization of the state department.

MEDIATORS ARE PUZZLED

Get Conflicting Reports on Status of Strike of Switchmen.

Roads Claim Traffic Is Moving and Strikers Say It Is Impeded.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Negotiations still are pending between the Northwestern railroads and their striking switchmen and the Erdman act mediators—Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Dr. Neill, commissioner of labor.

Precisely what can be done by the mediators has not yet been determined. Neither the railway officials nor the striking switchmen show any disposition to yield. The mediators have been in telegraphic correspondence with both parties to the contrary, but the information received by the mediators is conflicting.

The roads declare their ability to move traffic as usual, although they admit that recent storms and the cold wave have somewhat impeded the movement of freight. On the other hand, the strikers assert that only passengers and high-class freight are moving, and that everything else is at a standstill.

H. B. Perham, the representative of the strikers, is yet in the city, but had no conference today with Chairman Knapp and Dr. Neill. The mediators were otherwise engaged.

Sent 1,000 Men Out.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—It is announced here by the railroad managers that more than 1,000 men had been sent to the Northwest to take the place of striking switchmen since negotiations for a settlement of the difficulties were closed last Wednesday in St. Paul. The men were recruited in large numbers from railroads not affected by the strike and assembled in Chicago, according to O. L. Dickeson, spokesman for the Railroad Managers' association.

SICK BOY IS LEFT ON ST. PAUL STREET

Carl Hansen of Detroit, Minn., Once More Taken to Hospital.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Carl Hanson, the 9-year-old Detroit, Minn., boy who was brought to the city a short time ago by his father for treatment for heart failure, and who has three times narrowly escaped death from cold and exposure, is again at the city hospital in a serious condition, and his father, who deserted him at Fifth and Robert streets yesterday afternoon, cannot be found.

Charles Hanson, the father, is believed by the police to be mentally unbalanced. Two years ago, according to dispatches from Detroit, Hanson was committed to an insane asylum, but he was afterwards released as cured.

When picked up on the street the boy was taken to the county jail, but later his condition became serious again and he was once more taken to the hospital.

WILL SEEK TO RAISE $200,000 TO SUPPLY CITY WITH FARM PRODUCE GROWN ON ST. LOUIS COUNTY SOIL

Plan for Marketing Garden Truck Outlined By John G. Williams.

Would Build Electric Line to Connect With Street Railway.

To Clear Lands Near City and Sell to Actual Settlers.

Open Market in Duluth---Commercial Club Behind the Venture.

A solution of Duluth's problem of supplying the city's demand for farm produce from adjoining farms was offered by John G. Williams to the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club last evening.

The suggestions of Mr. Williams were made after he had read the report of the special committee, consisting of O. H. Simonds, John G. Williams, C. P. Craig, A. B. Hostetter and E. A. Schultze, appointed to investigate the methods by which the people of Duluth are supplied with their produce, the relations of the commission men to the furnishing of this produce, and to report the reasons why higher prices are charged for this produce in Duluth than in other cities of the Northwest. The report was signed by Mr. Simonds just before his death, and Mr. Williams stated that it was probably the last time he signed his name.

The report was a lengthy but very interesting one. It went into the subject fully, but treated it from a general standpoint, and was much similar to the one presented to the real estate exchange recently on the same subject.

THE SOLUTION OFFERED FOR OPEN MARKET PROBLEM.

Organize a parent company, known as the Duluth Garden company, formed of public spirited citizens, not as a charitable institution but as a business proposition, to purchase 2,000 or 3,000 acres of land now under option along the East Duluth and Lester river road; clear these lands and make them ready for the plow; dispose of them to actual settlers at as low a price as possible; construct an electric suburban line some seven miles in length through this district, to connect with the Woodland line; run the cars of this line over the lines of the Duluth street railway, through an agreement which has already been secured; have them discharge their produce at a central, co-operative market to be established later, through the efforts of the combined committees of the Commercial club and the Country club; and let this market be the receiving point also for outside shipments by rail from the farmers' co-operative societies already organized and being organized.

This line and the adjoining lands will be the first unit of the market garden system.

It showed that Duluth had sprung up in the wilderness, and had developed ahead of the country around it. As a result the commission men came into being, importing supplies from outside points. It showed that the commission houses were not organized for the purpose of handling supplies from local producers, and that they looked upon these as a nuisance.

Supplies at City's Door.

The committee reported that with proper attention to the development of the district about Duluth, the city need look no further than the district immediately surrounding it for its supplies of potatoes, cabbage, rutabagas, cauliflower, lettuce, celery, carrots, beets, parsnips, green corn, peas, onions, summer and winter squash, tomatoes, small fruits, eggs and poultry.

Quoting from the report:

"Produce merchants divide food supplies of the kind we are considering into two classes—perishable and non-perishable. The former include celery, lettuce, green peas, string beans, green corn and any vegetables out of season, poultry and eggs. The latter include potatoes, rutabagas, beets, carrots, cabbages, most winter vegetables and fruits. Unless perishable products are grown very near the place of consumption, they become luxuries and become subject to large charges in the way of duplicate commissions, transportation, shrinkage and decay. It is the concensus of the opinions of all gardeners, commission men, produce dealers, stu-

SLEUTH HELD AS WIFE'S SLAYER

Authorities Claim Woman Died of Poison and Husband Got Insurance.

New York, Jan. 4.—Morris Lustig, proprietor of a private detective bureau, was arrested today in connection with the death of his wife, who was buried Nov. 1 at her old home, Milroy, Pa. The body was exhumed afterward, and the police say evidence was found that Mrs. Lustig had died from strychnine poisoning. Spinal meningitis was the cause given in the death certificate.

The authorities were led to investigate on receipt of letters which said that several days previous to his wife's death Lustig had attempted to purchase strychnine in drug stores near his home.

Mrs. Lustig's life was insured for $3,000 in her husband's favor. Lustig and his wife were married in Pittsburg six years ago. She was only 22 years old when she died.

Upon finding a certificate that Lustig had married his wife, who was Rhoda Irene Mills, in the orphans' court of Pittsburg, the police here asked Pittsburg for information. Inspector McCafferty said there was a question of Lustig's willingness to marry the girl, who is now believed to have been killed by strychnine poisoning.

TAFT IN FAVOR OF RAISING THE MAINE

Approves Bill for That Purpose Prepared By Representative Loud.

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Taft is heartily in favor of the plan to raise the battleship Maine from the bottom of the Havana harbor and suitably inter the bodies of the sailors who went down with the ship. The president has informed Representative Loud of Michigan that he desired to see the latter's bill appropriating money for the purpose enacted into law. President Taft said that he stood ready to offer any sort of support to the proposition that could be suggested. Mr. Loud will push the measure in the house.

KILLS HIMSELF AT SCENE OF MURDER.

Akron, Ohio, Jan. 4.—Charles Schmidt, alias Mike Jordan, who last night murdered Mrs. Teresa Barnhart, with whom he boarded, gave that crime a sensational climax this morning when he returned to Akron and killed himself in front of the Barnhart home.

WANTS POWER TO FIRE EMPLOYES

Governor Willson of Kentucky Sends Message to the Legislature.

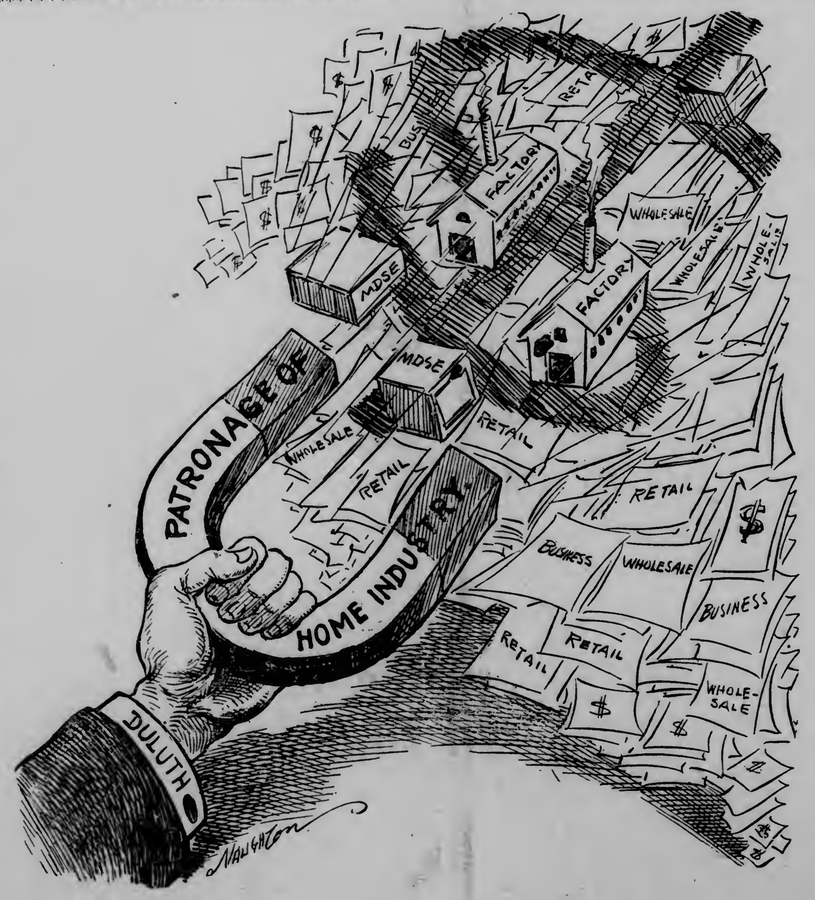

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 4.—The message of Governor Augustus E. Willson, transmitted to the Kentucky legislature today, urges the restoration of full appointive power to the executive, which it is declared has been unwisely decreased by legislative act, advises the adoption of an improved system of accounting; calls attention to the state's financial condition, and appeals for a prompt re-districting of the state into senatorial and representative districts.

With regard to appointive power, the message says:

"It has come to pass that the governor of Kentucky, whether Democrat or Republican, is shorn of the usual and proper power of the executive department and has practically almost no part in the appointments, no power of correction or removal for neglect, inefficiency or dishonesty of minor officers and employes, as it is enforced in other lines of business."

Upon the subject of county unit bill, Governor Willson repeats that he is strongly in favor of a uniform local option law with the county as a governing unit.

DO IT FOR DULUTH.

PROPOSES SWEEPING CHANGES IN LAW ON RAILROAD MATTERS

Representative Mann Gives Bill Different From Taft's Proposals.

Provides for Federal Payment of Costs in Rate Complaints.

Long and Short Haul and Routing Provisions Come in for Attention, Too.

Washington, Jan. 4.—A bill making sweeping changes in the interstate commerce laws for the regulation of railroads was introduced in the house today by Representative Mann of Illinois, chairman of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. The bill is not in accord with the one prepared by the committee acting under the direction of President Taft and known as the "administration railroad bill," but was prepared by Chairman Mann during the summer vacation of congress.

The measure does not provide for a special court to hear interstate commerce cases, as has been reported would be the form of legislation on this subject which President Taft would recommend. It proposes, however, to create in the department of labor and commerce a bureau to be called the "bureau of transportation," where a shipper may file complaint against a railroad.

Government to Foot Bills.

If, after an investigation, the commissioner of the bureau of transportation finds that there is justice in the complaint, he may report the facts to the attorney general of the United States, and if the attorney general is satisfied that there is a cause of action, he is required to file a petition with the interstate commerce commission and prosecute the case at the expense of the government.

The shipper may, if he prefers, still file his complaint direct with the commission and prosecute it at his own expense, as the present law provides.

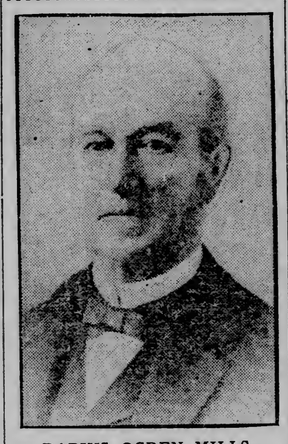

The bill makes it the duty of common carriers to establish just and reasonable classifications, and authorizes the interstate commerce commission to prescribe what they shall be.

Limits on Tariffs.

The long and short-haul clause of the interstate commerce act would be

NOTED FINANCIER AND PHILANTHROPIST DEAD

DARIUS OGDEN MILLS.

D. O. MILLS SUMMONED

Famous Financier and Philanthropist Dies in California.

Leaves Remarkable Record of Achievement in Both East and West.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 4.—Darius Ogden Mills, philanthropist and financier, father of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the ambassador to Great Britain, director in many corporations, died at his winter home near here last night of heart disease. He was 84 years old.

Death came almost without warning, after a period of better health than Mr. Mills had enjoyed in several years. Mrs. Reid was the only child at his bedside when the end came, his son, Ogden Mills, and his wife having started for New York yesterday, believing the aged financier to be in excellent condition.

Mr. Mills was born in West Salem, Westchester county, N. Y., in 1825. He was educated at North Salem and at Mount Pleasant academy, Sing Sing, N. Y. Starting his business career as a clerk in New York city, he became cashier of the Merchants Bank of Erie county at Buffalo, in 1847. Mr. Mills came to California in 1849 and took a large part in the development of the Golden State.

Bank of California.

The "luck of D. O. Mills" became a proverb, but it was attended with a reputation for judgment, rapid decision, boldness, and absolute integrity. He became largely interested in mines on the Comstock lode, in railroads, forests, quick-silver mines and ranches and other property. He dealt in everything boldly, but not in a speculative way.

In 1864 he founded the Bank of California in San Francisco, heading the subscription for capital and assuming the presidency. It became one of the best known banks of the country, both here and abroad. In 1873, Mr. Mills resigned the presidency, leaving the bank with a capital of $5,000,000, large surplus, profitable business, first-rate organization and unlimited credit. Two years later he was called back, to find it with liabilities of $13,500,000 above its capital and surplus, with only $100,000 in its own vaults and with many doubtful assets. His old cashier, William Ralston, had been president meantime. He had lent Ralston the capital

WILL HAVE LOOK AT COOK'S DATA

Geographical Society Loses Its President as Result of Controversy.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook's polar data is on its way to Washington to be examined by the National Geographic society. Prof. J. H. Gore says the document was started from Copenhagen Dec. 21, which would get it to Washington about the end of the present week.

Prof. Gore, Rear Admiral Pillsbury and Dr. W. M. Hayes, of the geological survey, will examine the papers and make a report early this month.

Yesterday President Willis L. Moore of the society let it be known that he will not be a candidate for re-election. Some see in this one of the reflections of the polar controversy. Prof. Moore has been president of the National Geographic society five terms. In his letter declining a further election he expressed the hope that a successor would be chosen if the polar fight became an influence in the society.

POLANDER HANGS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Circumstantial Evidence Alone Leads to Conviction for Murder.

West Chester, Pa., Jan. 4.—Protesting innocence to the last, Jan Choquwosky, a Polander, was hanged here today for the murder of Harry James and wife, an aged couple who were found dead with their skulls crushed in. Choquwosky had been a former employe at the James farm and left after a disagreement. The accused man was convicted on circumstantial evidence, and his case was carried through all the state courts and to the board of pardons.

CHANGES HIS PLANS AGAIN

Taft Will Hold Back His Railroad Message Until Next Week.

Ballinger-Glavis Papers Will Be Sent to Congress on Friday.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Another change in President Taft's messages to congress was announced today. It was stated that the message on interstate commerce law probably would not go to congress until next Monday or Tuesday. The anti-trust message is still scheduled for Thursday.

On Friday President Taft will send to the senate a brief message transmitting all of the papers and the report of the attorney general concerning the Glavis charges against Secretary Ballinger. These papers were called for by a senate resolution.

The president had intended yesterday afternoon to send his special message on interstate commerce law changes to congress on Friday. It was said today, however, that he desired to consult with members of the interstate commerce committees of the senate and house.

Has to Be Reprinted.

It was also stated that the verbal changes agreed to in the conference

ROSSI MAY NEVER HANG

Governor Eberhart Declares Against Death Penalty for Crime.

Strong Pressure Will Be Brought to Secure Commutation.

Mike Rossi convicted of the murder of Antonio De Meo and sentenced by Judge Cant to be hanged after the expiration of one month, the governor to set the date, will probably never feel the noose tighten on his neck. In some quarters a revulsion of feeling is appearing and Governor Eberhardt will probably have strong pressure brought to bear on him to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

That the governor may be susceptible to the pressure is shown by the fact that he has come out with an interview declaring his opposition to the penalty for crime and favoring its abolition in Minnesota. He says it is a relic of barbarism and should be abolished, adding that it is responsible, more than any other factor, for numerous miscarriages of justice, jurors refusing to bring in verdicts of guilty in certain cases in which they have only the one alternative—a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree or a verdict of not guilty.

The attitude of the governor is taken to mean that in cases where he can find reasonable excuse for commuting sentences of death to life imprisonment he will take that action. Taking Rossi's youth and ignorance into consideration, it may be that the governor will find ground for commuting the sentence Judge Cant pronounced last week.

At a meeting in Eveleth Sunday the united temperance societies adopted a resolution protesting against the execution of Rossi, and petitioning the governor to commute the sentence. The resolution also declared for the abolition of the death penalty and the substitution of life imprisonment as the extreme penalty for crime.

In Duluth, the feeling against the execution of Rossi is not so strong, as there have been no less than twelve murders in Duluth during the past three years without the extreme penalty being pronounced in any case. According to the evidence introduced by the state, Rossi's crime was an atrocious one, prompted by a primitive spirit of revenge. According to the evidence, he stole up behind his victim and shot him in the back without giving him a chance to fight back for his life.

The law of Minnesota provides that the penalty for murder in the first degree shall be death, but gives the court use of its discretion to a limited degree by providing that on certification of exceptional circumstances in the report, sentence of life imprisonment may be pronounced. In sentencing Rossi, Judge Cant stated that in his opinion there was nothing in the record to show circumstances exceptional in the sense that they should be taken to operate in reducing the penalty, and he saw nothing to do under the law but pronounce sentence of death.

FAITHFUL DOG WARNS MASTER

Keeper of Negaunee Dry-house Escapes Death, But Animal Perishes.

Negaunee, Mich., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Had it not been for his dog, John Veal, the keeper of the dry-house of the Negaunee mine, which was destroyed by fire New Year's morning, would have been burned to death.

Veal was sleeping soundly at the time, and his dog, scenting danger, jumped on the cot and endeavored to awaken its master. After barking incessantly for several minutes, the animal was successful. Veal made his escape from the fire trap, but his face and hands were badly burned.

The charred body of the faithful dog, who for some reason was unable to escape, was found in the ruins.

SUIT OVER PIANO.

Julius Gerwin Would Force Company to Refund Purchase Price.

Julius A. Gerwin this morning brought suit against the Chickering Bros.' Piano company of Chicago and the Hall-Kreidler Music company of Duluth, to recover $600, the price of an instrument sold to him, which he claims to have found unsatisfactory.

Gerwin claims that he purchased on April 30 last a grand piano from the Duluth firm, and that they guaranteed it to be a perfect instrument, for use in the house.

He now claims that it was made of wood that was not properly seasoned, that the keys warped, that the lid will not close, that it will not stay in tune and that it is in other ways unsatisfactory. Gerwin demands the $600 returned.

RAILROADS

SHIPMENTS ARE DELAYED

Some Shippers Are Complaining That Conditions Are Not Normal.

In certain quarters complaints are being heard from shippers that shipments in many cases, are being held up, and that when the railroads represent the traffic conditions of the country as normal, they misrepresent the facts.

At least two examples of the holding up of freight shipments have been given by Duluth shippers. One Duluth shipper had a consignment of lumber from Spokane. After waiting two months for the order, he sent out tracers. He found that the lumber was still in the yards in Spokane.

A Duluth man ordered some goods through a Duluth store. The goods were ordered from St. Louis and to date have been on the road for two months. They have not reached the city as yet, though the man has been given assurance that the goods will be here some time the present week.

It is claimed that though the railroads have been rushing some freight through as rapidly as possible, in order to make a showing during the strike, there is a large quantity of freight that has been held up at various points along the line.

PATRONIZE NEW FREIGHT DEPOT

Local Jobbers Have Begun Shipping Goods By Soo Road.

Yesterday afternoon and this morning a large quantity of freight was delivered at the new Soo freight depot. Practically every wholesale house in the city brought a consignment of freight to the depot yesterday afternoon. Local officials of the Soo state that the greater part of the freight that formerly came to Superior and was hauled by team to this city, will now be consigned direct to Duluth.

Came Near Choking to Death.

A little boy, the son of Chris D. Peterson, a well-known resident of the village of Jacksonville, Iowa, had a sudden and violent attack of croup. Much thick, stringy phlegm came up after giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Peterson says: "I think he would have choked to death had we not given him this remedy." For sale by all druggists.

AGENTS ARE LEFT IN COLD

Many Lumber Companies Are This Year Hiring Their Own Men.

A "Curb" Labor Market Is Growing Up on the Bowery.

Duluth employment companies, at least some of them, are considerably incensed over the fact that certain large lumbering companies of the northern part of the state, that formerly threw their business to the Duluth employment agencies, are now hiring their men direct, through some agent of their own.

It is not an uncommon occurrence to see a large crowd of men on the Bowery around a busy man in the center of the pushing group of men. At first glance one might be pardoned for the belief that a fight was going on. However, it is nothing more than an agent of one of the lumber companies hiring men for the woods.

The other morning one of the "spielers" for a local agency come in and informed his boss that one of the agents of a lumber company had hired over 100 men that morning. By sending their own agent direct to the labor market the companies get the kind of men their agent thinks will be suitable and the men are also saved the fee of the employment companies.

Several of the larger employment companies of this city used to get most of the business of the Northern Minnesota lumber companies. These employment agencies used to keep in long-distance communication with the lumber companies during the busy season, and in many cases the size of their telephone bills indicated the amount of business done.

This fall there has been a gradual change. The policy of some of the companies seems to have become more decided with the advance of the operating season. It is a common sight to see men being hired on the street for work in the lumber companies, and as a result there is a loud complaint from the employment agencies.

In some cases employment agencies that have done business for a number of years with the lumber companies have felt the effects of the new policy of the lumbermen.

The employment agency managers have been given no reason for the independent hiring of laborers by the lumber operators. As yet they have received no statement from the lumber companies. It may be that some of the more irresponsible employment agencies are responsible. There has been considerable complaint about the treatment of laborers. Whether it is because of this criticism of the treatment some laborers have received who have been sent to the lumber camps, or whether it is that the lumbermen have found the new system cheaper and more satisfactory is not known.

TO DEDICATE MEMORIAL HALL

Local Grand Army Men Take Possession of Their New Home.

With a campfire and appropriate exercises the old soldiers' memorial hall, located on the ground floor of the new St. Louis county courthouse, will be dedicated this evening.

The exercises will be held by the two local G. A. R. posts. Ex-Governor Van Sant, who is national commander-in-chief and Commander Collins of St. Cloud will be present. Both men will speak briefly.

The meeting will be opened with the assembly call by a bugler. Chaplain J. E. Kimball will ask the invocation and a choir will sing "The Star Spangled Banner." A snare drum solo will be given by Comrade Keller, who was a drummer boy during the Civil war. Miss Effie Brotherton will recite

The rest of the program will consist of a recitation by Miss Agnes Poirier, a song by the Young Men's Christian Association Glee club and addresses to be delivered by the various members of the G. A. R.

CRUELTY TO LITTLE BOY

West Duluth Woman Is Arrested for Abusing Her Stepson.

Claimed That She Left Him in Cold With Wet Clothing.

Because little Daniel Brown, 7 years old, a son of Charles Brown of 421½ North Fifty-first avenue west, was kept out of doors in the cold without proper protection from the freezing weather, his stepmother, Mrs. Charles Brown was arrested this morning and charged with cruelty to children.

A pathetic story promises to be brought out in the trial of the Brown woman, if Humane Agent George B. Fifer, who is prosecuting the case, proves his charges. She was arraigned this morning before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court, where she pleaded not guilty and asked for a hearing.

The date of the examination has not yet been set on account of Mr. Fifer not being in the city today. He is expected to return to Duluth this evening and the arrangements for the hearing will be made.

The warrant upon which Mrs. Brown was arrested today, charges that she unlawfully, wrongfully and willfully caused her stepson unnecessary pain and suffering, stating that she kept him out of doors for long periods of time and in extreme cold weather, his clothes being in a wet condition. It is further charged that the boy was not properly clothed and protected from the cold.

The inhumane treatment accorded the child by its stepmother came to the attention of neighbors a few months ago, and after they noticed that the child had been abused, they reported the matter to the West Duluth police. Lieut. Wilcox investigated the case and then turned the matter over to Humane Agent Fifer.

There is another child in the Brown family, a brother to Daniel, but it is said that he fares better at the hands of his stepmother. Mrs. Brown has no children of her own.

Besides keeping the child out of doors, the woman is said to have denied the youngster of sufficient food, and to have abused the little fellow in a number of other ways. Lieut. Wilcox, of the West Duluth police station, stated that he understood that this had been going on at the Brown home for two or three months.

The maximum penalty for the crime of which the Brown woman is accused is $100 fine or ninety days in the county jail.

SOLD LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE.

Joseph Uscenski, 34 years old, who conducts a small confectionery store at 7015 Grand avenue, was found guilty of having sold liquor without a license last evening, in a trial before Judge J. B. Flack of the West Duluth justice court. He was fined $100.

Surprised By Friends.

Miss Lillian Soderberg was pleasantly surprised at her home, Sunday afternoon, by a number of her friends. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in music and games.

Connelly Funeral.

The funeral of James Connelly, who was killed Saturday at the Missabe ore docks, while in the employ of the Barnett Record company, which is repairing one of the docks, has been changed from Wednesday to Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the St. James Catholic church with interment at Calvary cemetery.

Has Painful Accident.

William Meyers, superintendent of the Duluth Ice company at Spirit Lake, was the victim of a painful accident this morning when a huge ice chisel dropped onto his foot nearly cutting it off. He was hurried to the Duluth hospital where the wound was dressed. It is not thought that he will lose his foot.

Will Repair Church.

The congregation of Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street, is making plans to repair the old church edifice this spring. The structure was built twenty years ago and is in such a shape that repairs must be made.

For financial reasons, the trustees of the church are not considering the erection of a new church building at the present time, but the repairs to the church will be made. A new roof will be placed on the church during the spring and the structure will be repainted.

With the Curlers.

In the Manley-McLennan contest last evening at the Western Curling club rink, Method went down to defeat at the hands of M. Evered, 13 to 7, only one game being played in this event during the evening.

Tonight Everes and Ittis will play and Zaart will take on Buckley. The first drawing for the West Duluth Commercial club trophy will be made tomorrow and on tomorrow evening the first squads will play.

Asbury Church Activities.

This will be a busy week at the Asbury M. E. church, Sixtieth avenue west and Raleigh street.

This evening a men's club will be organized at a special meeting which will be held at the church parlors. It is expected that the society will have about twenty-five charter members. The purpose of the organization is to bring the men of the church together for social and literary gatherings.

Tomorrow evening the Epworth league of the church has planned a party at the church parlors. A good musical and literary program has been arranged for the evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Asbury M. E. church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. F. Rockwell of 114 North Fifty-fourth avenue west.

West Duluth Briefs.

Dr. I. T. Burnside of 701 North Fifty-sixth avenue west is reported to be recovering from a serious illness.

Ben Reilling, who has been spending his Christmas vacation in North Dakota, returned yesterday afternoon to his home at West Duluth.

Hurst, Watch repairing, W. Duluth.

Mrs. W. M. Cook and son Gideon have gone to Virginia, where they will visit relatives for a few days.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Holy Apostles' Episcopal church will give a January tea and sale tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Samuel Dix of 5616 West Sixth street.

Mrs. Andrew Jackson of Midway entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the Midway Lutheran church at her home this afternoon.

Miss Susie Burr of 302 North Fifty-fourth avenue west is visiting with relatives at Proctor for a few days.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church will be held tomorrow evening at the church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street. Officers for the coming year are to be elected.

Mrs. Maude Leverton of 505 South Sixty-ninth avenue west left yesterday for Seattle, Wash.

Rev. A. J. Hoag, pastor of the West Duluth Baptist church, and Frank Ashley have returned from a visit at Minneapolis.

Painter and decorator. Free estimates. New 'phone 3174-D. O. V. Murray.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Westminster Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. August Murnane of Cody street.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Fillatrault undertaking parlors for Mrs. Gideon Nylander, 72 years old, mother of Rev. G. Nylander of West Duluth. Burial was at Oneota cemetery.

Mrs. T. C. Keene of Forty-second avenue west is back from a visit on the range.

A baby son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Eber of No. 5 Merrill & Ring row.

Miss Maude Wallace has returned from a visit in the Twin Cities.

PLAY OR FORFEIT RULE IN EFFECT

The Curlers Must Hurry to Clean Up the Local Events.

The curling draws for Wednesday and Thursday night have been made.

The play or forfeit rule will be enforced and the committee wishes everybody to understand that it is not a joke.

The games have not been going along as rapidly as they might and extreme measures are now being taken so that play in all the events can be finished by the end of the season. Some of the curlers do not seem to realize that two weeks will be taken up with the bonspiel in getting the rink in readiness and tearing it up again. This is the case, however, and two weeks in the middle of the season means a very great deal.

The draw follows:

Wednesday Night.

CHECKERS BY MAIL.

International Contest Will Last Until Next Summer.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 4.—Henry Hutzler of Cincinnati, member of the American team of ten experts, who are playing a correspondence match with the Canadian checker club, has retired from the contest, because of a head injury received several days ago. His place was today taken by John McCormick, formerly of Atlanta, Ga. The match started before Thanksgiving day, and will probably last until summer. Forty games are to be played, each move being transmitted by mail. Often weeks lapse between moves.

MORRILL MAY GO TO NEBRASKA UNIVERSITY.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—Dr. R. G. Clapp of the University of Nebraska is on his way East to confer with Athletic Director Morrill, of the Annapolis naval academy, relative to obtaining Morrill's services for Nebraska. It is understood that Morrill is not averse to a position in the West.

Dr. Roller Recovering.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4.—Dr. B. F. Roller, the Seattle wrestler-physician, is in no danger of blood poisoning and will be able to continue his tour with James J. Jeffries in a short time. This information is given in a statement by Roller's physicians today at Mercy hospital here.

Simple Remedy for LaGrippe.

LaGrippe coughs are dangerous, as they frequently develop into pneumonia. A HEAVY FALL IS EXPECTED

Much Snow Headed This Way, According to Washington Dispatch.

The ski riders may be happy tomorrow morning, for tonight it is expected that a deep blanket of the beautiful will descend on the city.

Duluth has not had a heavy snowfall so far this present season. If things work out right, there will be snow in plenty for that sleigh ride promised since the cold weather began.

A special dispatch from Washington this morning informed H. W. Richardson, the local weather forecaster, what he might expect.

The snow is expected to set in over the entire lake region and the North Central valleys. The fall is expected tonight. Wednesday it will extend to the Middle Atlantic and New England states.

Unexcelled Values in the White Sale

Monday and Tuesday Are Direct Evidence That the White Sale is a Big Success.

If we don't go into the family history of Sheetings and Pillow Cases, we quote you the lowest prices in town—and that's all you are interested in. We don't saddle cheap cottons with fictitious values. We won't buy job-lots at a price where only about half are saleable styles.

Two important points to remember, when your linen larder needs refilling.

A hotel man on Superior street laid in a year's supply yesterday at this store. He passed no adverse criticisms on other White Sales, but he bought right and left.

We want every woman in Duluth, who loves fine linens, dainty undermuslins, new embroideries, etc., to share in the extraordinary (sensational in fact) values offered here tomorrow.

ARE TALKING OF DULUTH

Eastern Financial Interests Think Well of Zenith City.

Karl A. Heine of New York, private secretary to Dr. W. Seward Webb, who is heavily interested in Duluth real estate, was in Duluth yesterday, a guest of C. E. Lovett, Dr. Webb's local agent.

Mr. Heine said that the financial interests of the East are very optimistic over the prospects for 1910 and they look forward to one of the most prosperous years in the history of the country. People in the East are talking Duluth, Mr. Heine says, and are expecting great things of the city.

Dr. Webb has large holdings of land and city property at Spirit Lake and West Duluth and none of it is for sale. He has great faith in the future of Duluth and is holding his property in support of his faith.

NELSON COUNTY, N. D., COURT TERM BEGINS.

Lakota, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A term of the district court of Nelson county was opened here by Judge C. F. Templeton yesterday afternoon and will remain in session about two weeks. There are several important criminal cases pending, among them being that of Frank Baboltz of Aneta, charged with rape. Four alleged blind piggers, L. W. Wyman of McVille, John McDonald of Petersburg, Tom Parks of Aneta, and Frank La Rue of McVille, will also be tried.

FEARS HUSBAND WILL LEAVE HER

Woman Insane on One Subject Is Committed to State Asylum.

Mrs. Andrew Anderson of 412½ East Eighth street was this morning found by Dr. Mary McCoy and Dr. Salter, to be the victim of a peculiar form of insanity. The examination took place in probate court.

Mrs. Anderson suffers from a species of insanity known as jealous insanity. She has been for years afraid that some one, she knew not whom, would take her husband away from her. She is very jealous and has often since her marriage, some twelve years ago, accused her husband of treachery.

The information was filed against the woman by her husband. Although she seems to be sane on most subjects her mind is almost constantly occupied with her imaginary domestic trouble. She thinks of nothing else and cares to talk of nothing else. When she is led on other subjects she seems bright and rational.

After years of constant friction in the family, the husband and wife last Sunday came to an agreement that henceforth their life's happiness should be marred by no discord. Anderson suggested that they go together to his brother's home and tell them the good news.

On the way to the house, which is only about a block distant, Mrs. Anderson had another outbreak. She fell on his arm and sobbed that it wasn't true. That they had come to no agreement and that he had spoiled her life.

The doctors think that Mrs. Anderson will recover her reason and that she will have to be detained at Fergus Falls but a few months.

DECEMBER WAS A CLOUDY MONTH

Sun Shone But Five Days Out of the Thirty-One.

There were but five clear days during the month of December, according to the monthly weather report just completed by Forecaster H. W. Richardson of the local bureau.

OBITUARY

James Otley, familiarly known to the students of the University of Michigan as "Uncle Jimmie," for eighteen years keeper of the cloakroom of the general library, died at Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 3, having reached the age of 96 years. Otley had been employed in various capacities about the university for half a century. He had the distinction of having served the university more years continuously than any other man.

Prof. W. H. De Motte, for sixty years one of the most prominent educators of the deaf and dumb, died in Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 3. He was 80 years old. Prof. De Motte was at different periods superintendent of the Wisconsin and the Kansas institutions for the deaf and dumb. He went to Washington as Indiana military agent during the Civil war and was in Ford's theater the night President Lincoln was assassinated. Prof. De Motte did not often describe the scene in words, but he vividly reproduced it in signs and pantomime for his pupils. Prof. De Motte's body will be taken to Jacksonville, Ill., for burial. A widow and seven children survive him.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

The gymnasium, educational and domestic science classes at the Young Women's Christian association have been reopened for the second half of the year's work. Miss Pullar, physical director, and Miss Ruth Patrick, teacher of domestic science returned yesterday from their vacation in Chicago and tomorrow all of the classes will be reorganized for the regular work. The gymnasium classes are popular, the matrons, school girls and young business women's classes all being largely attended.

The educational classes are doing good work this year, the classes in English for foreign young women being among the most popular. The new term for the classes in sewing which will be opened soon will attract many as the opportunity to learn to make shirt waists and the simple garments is welcomed by many.

ARTIST'S RECITAL.

Corinne Rider-Kelsey Sings Before Matinee Musicale.

Corinne Rider Kelsey, soprano, was the second artist of the year to appear before the Matinee Musicale, and the program she presented last evening at Pilgrim Congregational church before the members of the society was a delightful one. The zero weather and promise of colder kept a few of the members of the society at home, to their loss, as Mme. Kelsey's warm and beautiful soprano voice in the program of twenty-one songs which she had selected to sing was heard to advantage and her recital gave much pleasure. Her voice is clear and beautiful, is held in splendid control and her singing from the stately group of songs from Handel, Bononcini, Haydn and Carey through to the last group of the program, including five numbers from Rummel, Leoni and Woodman, was artistic and most satisfying. Her second group of songs was from Schumann, Brahms, Strauss and Wolf. Her third number was composed of two arias from Puccini's "La Tosca," "Vissi d'Arte" and "Non la Sospiri," and the latter she repeated at the insistence of the audience. Her fourth group was composed of two Grieg songs, two of MacDowell's and one by Henschel.

The sincerity of the recital would have been greatly enhanced if Mme. Kelsey were not forced to such constant reference to notes for the words of her songs. Perfect musical expression can only come with perfect memory of music and words, and her reference to the small bit of paper she carried seemed to be more habit than a necessity of depending upon it.

The accompanist for the evening was Mrs. Fred G. Bradbury of this city, who, without a rehearsal, the music having arrived only yesterday morning, filled her role with sympathy and understanding. Mme. Kelsey graciously acknowledged Mrs. Bradbury's share in the honors for the evening, at the conclusion of the program.

WED AT EAU CLAIRE.

Miss Grace Ely Becomes the Bride of L. H. Skeels.

A wedding of interest to many Duluthians took place yesterday at Oshkosh, Wis., when Miss Grace Ely, daughter of Cook Ely of this city became the bride of Lee Hazen Skeels. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. A. Libby. After a wedding trip Mr. Skeels and his bride will be at home for a time at Eau Claire, Wis. The out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Skeels of Eau Claire, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hawley of Chicago, Cook Ely and Miss Ruth Ely of this city.

MAY MARRY AN AMERICAN HEIRESS.

COUNT ANTON SIGRAY.

Count Anton Sigray is reported engaged to the daughter of an American tin magnate whose name is not given. It is said that she will receive $40,000,000 on her wedding day. The young woman was introduced to the count by Countess Szechenyi, formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt. Count Sigray was best man at the Szechenyi-Vanderbilt wedding.

GOOD TEA

Properly Brewed Is Rather An Exception.

Tea is responsible for many ills, especially among women. While it is the simplest matter in the world to make tea properly, it is unhealthfully prepared more often than otherwise. Tea is absolutely unfit to drink when the brewing process has proceeded beyond a certain point and tannin is liberated, but if care is taken the evils of moderate tea drinking may be reduced to a minimum. The old rule, which calls for a teaspoonful for each person and one for the pot, is unthinkable from the standpoint of the modern dietitian. Such a brew is ruinous to skin, stomach and nervous system, says Dr. Jean Williams in the January Woman's Home Companion.

To make tea properly and as nearly as can be hygienically, buy good tea, preferably black. Heat the receptacle in which the tea is to be made with hot water, use one teaspoonful or less of tea to a pint of boiling water; allow the water to remain in contact with the leaves five minutes, then pour off and use at once. Never put the tea pot directly in contact with intense heat. A very safe and satisfactory way of making tea is by the use of the tea ball, as very little tannin contaminates the beverage thus made. The abuse of tea is common and a fertile source of serious nervous disease. The habit of giving tea and coffee to young children is little short of criminal.

While on the subject of beverages, let me remind you of buttermilk. The beauties of three generations back looked on buttermilk as an invaluable aid to their charms. They used it as a wash and they drank it freely. While it does not appeal to our modern ideas of cleanliness, to bathe in it, we still consider buttermilk one of the most healthful foods.

Let me suggest a few luncheon menus for our girls who want to look wholesome and feel well. For instance, try a glass of sweet milk or buttermilk with Boston brown bread, between thinly cut slices of which cream cheese has been spread. If these sandwiches are made at home, variety may be obtained by adding to the cheese a few chopped nuts, a little chopped sweet pepper, a few pistachio nuts, etc.

BE DONE HERE.

No Need of Buying Rugs in Europe.

It is beyond question cheaper to buy in America your rug and the ingenious tale that goes with it than to wait until you visit Constantinople or Smyrna or Cairo or Tiflis, writes John Kimberley Mumford in the January Century. They are much more skillful and insinuating over there; they have the advantage of local color and environment, and your common sense is under the spell of the East to begin with.

Here is an incident to illustrate. A party of rich Americans arrived in Cairo one day several winters ago on a yachting trip, and passed a week or more in sight-seeing. One of them had just finished a palatial house not far from New York, and throughout Europe had bought marbles and bronzes, woodwork and velvets, for it with a lavish hand. The journey to Cairo was made in order to secure rugs. What happened is best told in the words of a dealer in the bazar from whom I had it:

"There was a fellow in our concern," he said, "who was always buying nightmares, and I had to work myself black in the face to get rid of them. The week before the Americans came this chap had taken in a shocking bad pair of Kirmans, enormously big, new and, to my mind, utterly unsalable. When the head of the house saw them, he held up his hands and shouted, 'Get rid of those things for $500 to the first person who'll buy them.'

"So I rolled them up and put them one side, intending to send them to a commission man in the bazar to unload. Next morning in came Moneybags from New York, with his whole company. He said he wanted to see the best carpets I had, and he saw them. I turned the place inside out. Nothing pleased him, for some reason that I made the common mistake of showing him too much. He thought I had something hidden away, so he winked me over to one corner and told me who he was. 'Now,' said he, 'I want you to limber up. I want the best, and I don't mind price if I get what suits me.'

"I was in despair, for I had actually shown the man every carpet I had. All of a sudden I thought of these two freaks baled away the day before. I almost laughed in his face, but finally I pulled my mouth down and began salaaming and asked him why in the world he hadn't told me who he was in the beginning; then I shouldn't have wasted his time and abused his patience so.

"He grinned triumphantly. 'I thought you had them,' he said.

"'But,' said I, 'it will take a little time to get at them, and I must ask you and your friends to wait patiently.'

"They waited, and I tell you for the next half hour the men around that shop carned their pay We went upstairs and unrolled those two rugs. We had a great, big curtain of green plush which we hung against the wall. Then we pressed the carpets out and put them up against the curtain. That, you know, is worth 50 per cent to the looks. Then we adjusted the lights, and stationed men all around to look as solemn worshippers. Nobody was to speak above a whisper and every man was to murmur 'Mashallah!' at appropriate intervals.

"When everything was ready, I ushered the customers up and on tiptoe led them in. There is no doubt about it; the effect was fine. At first everybody was still. It was like a church.

"'Ah!' said the great man, 'that is what I came for. I knew you had them. You needn't tell me the price—just send them to the yacht at Alexandria.'

"That night I went up to the hotel where they were stopping and got his check for $12,000 for the pair. And that wasn't the best of it. I had got into my stride then, and while he was busy annexing the Kirmans, I had the porters bring up seven of the carpets he had refused downstairs and showed them in that dim, religious light, unrolled them as if they had been sacred, and sighed soulfully every now and then. He bought the whole seven, and to the day of his death fully believed that I was the original wizard of the East."

BE FASHIONABLE

And So Be Beautiful and Adored.

I am a believer in fashion wrote Robert G. Ingersoll at one time. It is the duty of every woman to make herself as beautiful and attractive as she possibly can. "Handsome is as handsome does," but she is much handsomer if well dressed. Every man should look his very best. I am a believer in good clothes. The time never ought to come in this country when you can tell a farmer's daughter simply by the garments she wears. I say to every girl and woman, no matter what the material of your dress may be, no matter how cheap and coarse it is, cut it and make it in the fashion. I believe in jewelry. Some people look upon it as barbaric, but in my judgment wearing jewelry is the first evidence the barbarian gives of a wish to be civilized. To adorn ourselves seems to be a part of our nature, and this desire seems to be everywhere and in everything. I have sometimes thought that the desire for beauty covers the earth with flowers, paints the wings of moths, tints the chamber of the shell and gives the bird its plumage and its song. O daughters and wives, if you would be loved, adorn yourselves; if you would be adored, be beautiful.

CREPE WAISTS

Are Among the New and Smart Models.

Simple models in crepe de chine and soft silks are smarter than the simple silk waists we have seen in former seasons.

Most of these blouses have shallow white or cream guimpes, though occasionally the blouse colors run to the collar top.

A little note of black enters effectively into the best of these models, and this note is cleverly sounded, sometimes by narrow hems of black chiffon or black silk mousseline joined to white folds of the same material by a hemstitch.

To carry the suit color on up to the throat without sacrificing the becoming cream guimpe, designers have, to some good blouses of crepe, satin chiffon, etc., embroidered the blouse with self color and carried the embroidery design in the suit color on up over the shallow cream guimpe and collar. This effect, when handled artistically, is very successful.

Exquisite printed silks, particularly in the beautiful Parisian designs, are often utilized by the French blouse makers.

A dark chiffon may be made up over a Persian silk with only folds of the figured silk showing, or the Persian may be allowed to figure more conspicuously, as in one black chiffon bodice which was made with a bolero of the chiffon braided in fine black soutache and falling only to the top of a folded Persian girdle.

The oversleeves were of braided chiffon and the undersleeves, close and long, were of the Persian silk.

The silk rose above the chiffon by the width of an inch fold lying over the tiny cream lace guimpe, and there was a minute cravat of black satin harmonizing with the little loops and buttons of black satin set in double rows down the front and back of the Persian girdle and along the outer seam of the sleeve from elbow to wrist.

Bride's Taming Club.

Young women of Grangeville, Ind., married during 1909, have formed the "1909 Club."

The brides refuse to tell the motive of the club, but it has leaked out. The object is for the exchanging of ideas as to the proper governing of a husband, the best things to make for him to eat, and how generally to please him.

At each meeting some one member of the bride's club delivers a dissertation on some specific branch of husband taming. Then all discuss what has been said and offer suggestions.

Fashion Hints.

A pretty Paris novelty is a black umbrella lined with black and white checked silk.

A charming idea is the glueing of colored velvet petals on lace bands of a flowered design.

Golden flowers and jeweled butterflies are the favorite trimmings for the modish ball gown.

Shawl scarfs are a novelty of the season.

Zibeline and serge in dark colors are among the leading suit materials.

Draped skirts are very much in vogue.

Changeable satin is one of the very latest materials, and is wonderfully beautiful.

A small ribbon sunflower is the season's caprice in slipper ornaments.

THE EVENING STORY

THE MERMAIDS THAT LURED PERKINS

By Claude Matson.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

Perkins had not been drinking, and there really was no reason why he should be "seeing things," but when he saw the mermaid emerge from the water he became very much alarmed about himself.

"By Jove, I didn't get away from the city a day too soon," he said, his eyes bulging and the cold sweat standing out on his forehead. "The doctor has been warning me for months that if I did not break away from business and take a good rest I was liable to go to pieces all of a sudden. I guess he knew what he was talking about, and this is the first symptom."

He glanced at the vision which had emerged from the sea, and pinched himself to see if he really were awake. Yes, he seemed to be awake all right, and the mermaid seemed very real indeed, lying there not twenty feet from him.

Perkins had only been down to the seaside two days when this queer experience came to him. He had risen early to enjoy the bracing morning air, and he had sought a secluded nook around the bend where he had perched himself on a bowlder, lighted his favorite pipe and proceeded to commune with Nature in one of her most delightful moods.

"This will make a new man of me," he said to himself. "The fact is, I have neglected this vacation business too closely. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy; there's no mistake about it. Who knows but if I drift about such places as this I will run across some fair maiden who will stir my bachelor heart. I suppose in the natural order of things I have to marry and set up an establishment some time."

It was just at this instant that Perkins caught a glance of the figure of a young girl in the water some distance out. She was a very pretty girl, too, and Perkins could not but notice the whiteness of her rounded arms as they swept the water, and the perfection of her chiseled neck. The sun put a glint of gold into her masses of auburn hair and seemed to surround it with a halo.

She seemed to be laboring under some difficulty, although the sweep of her arms bespoke of the practiced swimmer. Yet she seemed to be making awful hard work of it and little progress. The shore shelved off rather abruptly at this point, and presently a great wave rolled in, caught her on its crest, and landed her in the shallow water almost at Perkins' feet. As she lay there breathless and almost unconscious, her thin bathing waist clinging to the curves of her form, Perkins could not but note that nature had been lavish in its gifts to her. The bust, which would have been the despair of a sculptor, was surmounted by a face of rare perfection and sweetness.

Then, as the wave receded and the lower portion of her form was revealed, Perkins gave a gasp—and then came to him the doubts as to his own powers of perception. For from the waist down her body was that of a great fish splashed with spots of brilliant color, and sparkling with dashes of silver and gold—the whole ending with a regular fish's tail.

As he sat spellbound, wondering what had happened to him—fearful even of his own reason, the mermaid opened her eyes and they met his—and such wonderful brown eyes were they and so full of intelligence and goodness and of promise, that the thought flashed across his mind that it was no wonder that men had been lured to death and to Hades by such as she—as told in classic tradition and story.

Then she spoke.

"Oh, sir," she said, "please help me out of the water."

In an instant Perkins had waded in, and gathering the mermaid in his arms, he carried her to a soft, dry spot in the sand. Then overcome with wonder and doubts he had retired to his bowlder and given vent to the doubts and apprehensions with which this story opens.

In the meantime the mermaid was involved in the most wonderful series of contortions, which appeared to be to no avail. Presently, she turned once more to Perkins with flaming cheeks and said:

"Oh, please, sir, will you help me get it off?"

Perkins now was sure that he was headed directly for the asylum, but he could not resist the appeal, and leaped to the side of the struggling mermaid.

"Get what off?" he asked, thickly.

"Why, this terrible thing I'm hooked up in. The hooks have got twisted, and I can't undo them."

She indicated a place along the line where the maiden seemed to leave off and the mermaid to begin and Perkins saw that there was a sort of concealed hook which was twisted so it would not slip out of the eye. He loosened it in a minute, as he did several others, when, lo! and behold, the girl wriggled herself out of a sort of bag and stood revealed like any other damsel in a proper and regular bathing suit.

The fish end of the girl was simply a bag into which she had thrust her feet and fastened it cunningly about the waist. Perkins fairly shouted for joy. He was not insane after all. It was all natural.

"Then you are not a mermaid, after all," he remarked, lamely.

She laughed—a clear, silvery laugh which was good to hear.

"Only for the circus," she replied. "Father wants me to be a mermaid in the circus, and makes me learn to swim with this bag on. That's why I have to get up so early and come here where nobody comes. And, say, it's awful hard work to swim with your arms alone; did you ever try it?"

Perkins admitted that he never had. He also admitted that it must be a difficult feat.

"Who is your father?" he asked.

"Blimbley," she replied. "Blimbeley's Great Consolidated Shows, you know."

Yes. Perkins did know. He knew Blimbley and he knew little good of him. He could not conceive that he should have a daughter so dainty and evidently so good.

"Why has he not taught you this before?" he asked.

"Oh, I never knew he was my father until a month ago. I have always lived with mamma until she died, three months ago, and then I went to live with Aunt Maria, and then father came and took me away with him, and told me that I was old enough to do something to help pay for my living. And, oh, sir, you will not tell what I told you, will you, because he will beat me—and he strikes so hard."

"Your father should be beaten for making you do such a thing," replied Perkins, warmly. "No, I will not hurt you, little one."

"Oh, I must go," she exclaimed, and gathering up the imitation fish, started for the hotel. In a moment she returned, and held out her hand shyly to Perkins and, looking with childish innocence into his eyes, said:

"Thank you for your kindness, sir. If you were my father, you wouldn't make me swim with my feet in a bag, would you?"

"Indeed I would not," replied Perkins, emphatically, holding the little hand in his a moment longer than strict etiquette demanded.

As she ran away, with the grace of a gazelle, Perkins muttered to himself: "Blimbley, indeed! I'll wager there's some mischief afloat. I think I'll take a hand in the game and see what it is all about."

All that day Perkins was very busy gathering information. That night he returned to New York, and the next morning he sat in the office of a very wise and very powerful lawyer. Presently the lawyer and he got into a cab and were driven to a tenement house on the East side, where they had a very serious talk with a very frightened woman, at the end of which they departed with certain signed documents in their possession. That afternoon they went together to the seaside, and that evening paid a formal call on Blimbley, who did not seem overjoyed to see them. There was considerable loud talk and blustering, but when Blimbley realized the fact that they had absolute proof that the girl was not her daughter and had been turned over to him as the result of an iniquitous deal with her impecunious aunt, who in turn had betrayed him; and when the doors of the penitentiary were, figuratively speaking, shown him, he caved and turned over the girl to their keeping.

That night the mermaid was the guest of the hotel keeper's wife. On the following day she went to a high-class boarding school as the ward of the lawyer—but at Perkins' expense.

Perkins' reward? Oh, that was three years ago. There was a quiet little wedding last month, and now Perkins lives no longer in bachelor quarters, but has one of the coolest flats adjacent to the park. His friends cannot understand why he persists in calling his wife "Mermaid."

Gained 93 Pounds Feels Like a Boy

MR. PATRICK J. QUIRKE

Mr. Patrick J. Quirke, Before He Started to Use Duffey's Pure Malt Whiskey, Weighed 147 Pounds. Now He Tips the Scales at 240 Pounds, and Feels as Healthy and Lively as He Did When He Was a Boy.

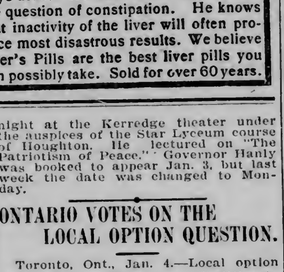

He writes as follows:—"In this communication I wish to state facts which are facts. I was born in Ireland, and at the early age of 18 I was accidentally unhorsed at a hunt, receiving internal injuries, which I never overcame, though the best physicians on both sides of the ocean were sought to discover my ailment, but without success, until some eight years ago a friend gave me, for a trial, half a bottle of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey (which he was then using himself for a general broken down complaint, as he called it), and the results accomplished by it were such that I continued to use it to the grand satisfaction of not only myself, but of my friends and acquaintances.

"Before its use I weighed only 147 lbs. I now tip the scales at 240 and feel as though I was a boy again, through the continuous use of your great elixir of life, to which many of my friends can attest with a like result." Patrick J. Quirke, 302 9th St., Troy, N. Y.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

as a renewer of youth and tonic stimulant is one of the greatest strength-givers known to science. It aids in destroying disease, and by its building and healing properties assists in restoring tissue in a gradual, healthy, natural manner, thus keeping the old young in spirits. Bilious?

Doctors all agree that an active liver is positively essential to health. Ask your own doctor about Ayer's Pills. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

"How are your bowels?" the doctor always asks. He knows how important is the question of constipation. He knows that inactivity of the liver will often produce most disastrous results. We believe Ayer's Pills are the best liver pills you can possibly take. Sold for over 60 years.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WILL EXTEND THEIR LINES

Northern Pacific and Great Northern Busy in North Dakota.

Several New Sections of Country Are to Be Opened Up.

Dickinson, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question of railroad construction is being generally discussed throughout this section. Announcement has just been made that the Northern Pacific has let the contracts for grading work on an extension from Stanton, Mercer county, to Manning, the county seat of Dunn county. This line is to be extended along the course of the Knife river, keeping close to the water grade.

The section that will be tapped by this extension is a very rich one that is at present without railroad facilities. The operation of the line into Dunn county will open a new era for that section, as it is at present entirely without railroad connection with the outside world.

New Rockford, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new Great Northern cutoff line, from Ayr to Surrey, will run through New Rockford, the company having already procured right-of-way and townsite properties. It is understood here that the contract has been let for sixty miles of grading in either direction from this city, and that the work is to be commenced not later than June 1.

Bremen is one of the new towns that will come into existence as a result of the Great Northern's work through here. It will be located fifteen miles west of New Rockford, at what is now known as Twist postoffice. A new bank has been organized there and several other improvements will be made at the opening of spring.

DALY'S CASE IS INTERNATIONAL

Once Successfully Fought Extradition Is Having Hearing at Rugby, N. D.

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—After having already been held to the district court of Pierce county on a charge of obtaining property under false pretenses, Jack Daly is being given a preliminary hearing here on a charge of arson. Under the first charge he was held under $1,000 bonds, which amount he has been unable to furnish.

Daly was arrested about two months ago at Medicine Hat, Can. The authorities of Pierce county became active in an endeavor to extradite him, but after weeks of fighting, they were defeated.

Sheriff Erickson returned home without the man, giving up the fight. He had only been home a few days when a telegram was received from Canadian officials, saying that they had decided to deport Daly as undesirable citizen, and they announced that he would be conveyed to Portal. Sheriff Anderson went to that place, and when the Canadian officers reached there with Daly, he was at once arrested and brought to Rugby.

Daly's operations resulted in a clean-up for him of about $10,000, but a large amount of the money was expended in fighting extradition.

INSTALLING MACHINES.

International Falls Paper Mill Is Nearing Completion Stage.

International Falls, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The paper mill is becoming more of a completed plant each day. Two of the paper machines have been placed in position and work has been begun on the third one. Outside work has been pretty well wound up for the present, and the larger force of men are now doing the finishing up-work inside the various buildings.

SAYS HANGING IS BARBAROUS

Governor Eberhart Declares Himself Against Executing Human Beings.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald)—Governor Eberhart is quoted in a Twin City newspaper interview as expressing himself as opposed to the death sentence as a punishment for crime and intimated that he may embody in his message to the legislature recommendations looking toward a repeal or modification of the present law.

"I am absolutely opposed to the infliction of the death penalty, and do not believe in it either as a preventive or permitive measure so far as crime is concerned," said the governor. "I say this without reference to any special case, but it is a matter of my own observation that the law as it now stands tends to hinder rather than aid the process of justice.

"The death penalty is a relic of an archaic and barbarous penal code, and the whole tendency of modern penology is away from it. As the law now stands a jury, in trials for murder in the first degree, must either sentence the defendant to be hanged or acquit him.

"Under these circumstances, when there is no other option left the jury, it is the tendency of all juries to consider even the slightest matters which may tend to raise a doubt, and the result is frequently acquittal when there is every reason to believe that imprisonment for life been a possibility, there would have been a conviction and the law would have been vindicated.

"I have in mind now a number of noted trials which resulted in the defendant going free, simply, as I believe, because the jury had to decide between hanging and acquittal, and on account of the very slightest doubts, the latter resulted."

EX-TREASURER DEAD.

Henry Baetz Who Handled Wisconsin's Finances Years Ago.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 4.—Maj. Henry A. Baetz, former state treasurer and for years prominent in politics, died Sunday.

Maj. Baetz had been living in retirement for the past five years. For the last four years he had been a helpless invalid. His illness took a serious turn four weeks ago, compelling him to take to his bed.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon. Services will be conducted at the residence by the German Musical society, at which a eulogy will be delivered by Albert Wallber. Interment will be at Manitowoc.

Maj. Baetz was born in Stockhausen, Hesse-Darmstadt, Germany, on July 27, 1830. He came to the United States in 1853, coming at once to Wisconsin and settling at Two Rivers. Two years later he removed to Kaukauna, and a year later to Manitowoc, which was his home until he came to Milwaukee to live in 1873.

He was elected county treasurer at Manitowoc in 1866, and was re-elected two years later. He was a delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention of 1868.

The following year he was elected state treasurer, and was re-elected two years later. In 1862 he was persuaded against his will to become a candidate for congress from the old Fifth district, which was strongly Democratic, and was defeated.

DIPHTHERIA ABATING.

Epidemic in Mille Lacs County Is Growing Less.

Cove, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The diptheria scare in Cove and Onamia seems to be abating. But few new cases have developed, and the majority of these are in the homes that had been stricken on the start. The authorities have taken hold of the matter and a strict quarantine established, and it is now believed that the disease is under control.

NO RECONCILIATION.

Cando, N. D., Man and Wife Have Drifted Apart.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—All hope of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wenzel becoming reconciled is at an end. Mr. Wenzel went to Cando Wednesday to consult a lawyer as to the necessary steps to take to secure his three children and a separation or divorce from Mrs. Wenzel.

When asked what reason Mrs. Wenzel gave for not going back to him he said that she gave many, and she claimed that he said some one was responsible for her leaving home, and that she proposed to make that some one suffer for it. He called on police headquarters last night before taking the train.

The case seems a sad one. Mrs. Wenzel is without means and has three interesting and bright children with her at the hotel here, and there is a board bill owing, but just how much Mr. Wenzel says he does not know. He said that when the bill was presented to him he refused to pay it, because he had warned all people from trusting his wife for anything.

LAUDS JOHNSON'S LIFE.

Chairman Mack of National Democratic Committee Wants Biography.

St. Paul, Jan. 4.—Frank A. Day, who is engaged in writing a biography of the late Governor Johnson, has received a letter from Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, ordering one of the de luxe volumes of the governor's life. In ordering the book, Mr. Mack took occasion to express a tribute to the memory of the late governor. He wrote in part:

"The story of his life, together with his state papers, public speeches, etc., will find a welcome place in any home library. It should be in every public and private library in the land, for the example set by John Albert Johnson might well be emulated from one end of the land to the other, and that the future may know the man as well as we of the present knew him, will, I am sure, be a loving task to those who are engaged in writing the history of his life."

MILL CITY CAT SHOW.

Annual Exhibit of Felines in Minneapolis Begins Tuesday.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—For years the annual cat show of the North Star Cat club has been becoming more and more of a feature in the winter attractions of Minneapolis, but this year the exhibition, both for number and grade of entries, promises to excel anything of the kind in the country. Fully 100 entries are expected.

Today has been set for the opening day, and this year the cats will be shown entirely separate from the poultry exhibition, having been provided with a roomy hall at 7 Third street south. New compartments have been built for the entries, so that the danger from infection will be reduced to a minimum. There are ten cups this year, seven more than the club offered last year, besides dozens of special prizes and trophies. A. E Fieldmarshall, Ontario, Can., is to be judge.

DEATH CONCLUDED SPREE.

Alcoholism Claims Young Man Who Came to Town to Celebrate.

Sebeka, Minn., Jan. 4.—George Eddy, a well-known resident of White River township, met a distressing death a few days ago. Eddy, with Henry and Charles Bowers hauled a load of shingles to this village and after selling the shingles, proceeded to celebrate.

They became under the influence of liquor and when they started for home they got a gallon of alcohol to drink on the way. Eddy soon became quite intoxicated and laid down in the sleigh box. When the Bowers boys reached home they attempted to arouse Eddy, but to their horror, discovered that he was dead. They immediately notified the authorities.

Deputy Coroner C. F. Coulter of Wadena went out to review the remains and his verdict was that Eddy came to his death by the excessive drinking of alcohol. No inquest was thought necessary.

The deceased was 29 years of age and lived in Wing River the greater part of his life.

WILLISTON, N. D., LID NOW CLOSED DOWN TIGHT.

Williston, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Williston is a strictly "closed" town just now, not a single blind pig being in operation. R. Rinehart was the last member of that profession to suffer in consequence of his tendencies towards law-breaking, and he is now serving time in the Williams county jail. The authorities have made a complete cleanup of the city and propose to maintain the present policy of "no pigs."

Bemidji Couple Celebrates.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Saturday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Elletson of this city and in commemoration of the event, they gave a party at their home to a number of invited guests. A large number of beautiful presents were presented.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—Ensign Swanson, commanding the Salvation Army in Houghton, has presented each prisoner at the county jail with a book, a copy of "The Prince of the House of David," by J. H. Ingraham.

South Range—The Italian Dramatic club of South Range opened the new year with a drama which was produced in the Santori hall Saturday evening. The club was greeted by a crowded house who became very enthusiastic as the play progressed and repeated encores for the members were given.

Hancock—Funeral services for the 5-year-old son of Christ Arvola of Quincy were held Sunday afternoon from the West Hancock Finnish Lutheran church, Rev. John Back, pastor. Interment was made in Lakeside cemetery.

Calumet—At a recent meeting of the Calumet Ski club a committee was appointed to wait on the Calumet & Hecla Mining company with the view of securing permission to use the hill near Swedetown this winter for a ski jump. This is one of the best places in the Calumet district for a jump and a good one could be prepared.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Milwaukee—Mrs. Dorathea Maercklein, mother of Doctors B. G. Maercklein and Robert Maercklein, Milwaukee, and Mayor Maercklein, Port Washington, Wis., died at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night. She would have been 94 years of age on May 5.

Manitowoc—Manitowoc brick will be used in the construction of the new $100,000 postoffice building for the city, G. W. Kennedy of the Clay Product company of this city having been formally notified by the Majestic Construction company of Milwaukee, contractors of the building, that the product of the local company has been accepted for use. An order for 450,000 brick will be placed.

Ashland—The Outing Boat company plant will start up in full force about the second week in January. It has a large number of orders, two being for cruisers for Michigan people. Men are being put on daily, and from twenty to thirty men will be employed when it starts up in full force. E. B. Denbly, a well-known draftsman, has arrived and is busily working on the plans for the new boats.

Park Falls—Preparations for the active season of the sawmill of the Roddis Lumber & Veneer company are now under way and the mill will commence sawing on Jan. 5. The coming year's cut of this mill will be 8,000,000 feet, which ranks it among the largest mills in the country in point of capacity.

Manitowoc—Manitowoc contractors will erect a new three-story addition to the Silver Lake convent at Alverno, the foundations of which have already been completed. The total contract will aggregate $32,000. The plans drawn by Architect Reynolds of Green Bay call for an addition 50 by 140 feet. The excavating and basement were finished last fall.

La Crosse—A coal famine affecting seventy towns and villages along the line of the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee road is reported to have reached a serious climax.

South Germantown—The directors of the Germantown Farmers' Mutual Insurance company of this place declared a dividend of $50,000 to its policy holders in 1903 and with this dividend the policy holders of the company received $100,000 in dividends during the last three years and the company still retains a surplus of about $200,000.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—An important meeting of the builders and traders exchange is scheduled for this evening in the Commercial clubrooms. The principal business will be the annual election of oficers.

Fargo, N. D.—Miss Pearl Burley died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Effie Johnson, 1330 First avenue south, Saturday evening, the cause of her death being tuberculosis, from which she had been suffering for some time.

Willow City, N. D.—August Johnson, representative of the Standard Oil company here, died half an hour after an operation for a growth on his throat, which had been troubling him for some time. Heart trouble is supposed to have occasioned his death.

Fargo, N. D. — The Scottish Rite bodies of this city are preparing to celebrate the birth of Gen. Albert Pike, and the date has been fixed for Feb. 2. An elaborate program will be arranged which will include an address on the life work of Gen. Pike.

Minot, N. D.—Albert Warren, well known in this city, where he has resided for the past three years, committed suicide with chloroform. Family and financial troubles are given as the cause of his rash deed.

Grafton, N. D.—Ed McGregor and Alex McDonald of Langdon, have left for Chicago to make arrangements for the manufacture and placing on sale of their automatic shocker, which has now reached a stage of perfection which warrants the machine being put into actual use in the harvest fields.

Fargo, N. D.—James Kyle, the well-known Oregon land man, who made Fargo his headquarters last summer and fall, and who has been at his old home at Stanfield, Or., for a few weeks, has returned to Fargo and will spend considerable time here.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The fourteenth annual meeting of the North Dakota Retail Hardware association will be held here Jan. 25, 26 and 27. In point of enthusiasm and interest as well as large attendance the meeting will surpass anything ever seen in the state.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Brainerd—At a meeting of the library board Monday night, Miss Halladay, librarian, was granted a three months leave of absence. Miss Lillian M. Follett was appointed temporary librarian to fill her place. It was decided to open the library on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock instead of from 7:30 to 9.

Fosston—Martin Haley, who went to Idaho a few weeks ago with the intention of spending the winter with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley, found that the climate there did not agree with his health and returned to his own home here.

Aitkin—Miss Clara Clausen, who has been teaching at Columbus, Mont., will succeed Miss Rhodes as teacher in B seventh grade of the public schools, Miss Rhodes having resigned with the closing of the term.

Warroad—John G. Wolfe, who a year ago resided near Warroad, was accidently shot through the head by the discharge of a gun in his own hands, while hunting near Remson, Ia., Dec. 8. He lived until Dec. 11. The remains were taken to Baxter, Ia. for burial.

Warren—B. E. Tonberg, formerly of Warren, is now cashier of the First National Bank of Baudette, succeeding John Dahlgren, also a former resident of Warren, who has resigned in order to assume the cashiership of the recently organized Scandinavian American Bank of Missoula, Mont.

Onamia—Chairman Mullen, of the state highway commission, will speak at Onamia in the near future on questions pertaining to good roads, and kindred topics. It is possible that he will also speak in Wahkon.

Stillwater—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Gelhaye died Thursday night at her residence here, age 73 years. Her husband, an old sailor, died about two years ago. Surviving are the children, Mrs. Emil Semple, Mrs. H. E. Johnson, both of this city; Mrs. Josephine Stussi of British Columbia and Joseph C. Gelhaye of St. Paul. The funeral was held Monday.

International Falls—The telephone exchange was moved Friday night to its new home in the Koochiching county building. In rebuilding the system, the exchange was so planned that future increases in the business can be taken care of without interruption of the service.

Little Falls—John Koselke, an old resident of the county, passed away at his home in Swan River Friday of apoplexy. Deceased was 60 years of age and was born in Germany, coming to America shortly after his marriage and locating in Minnesota thirty-five years ago. Twenty-four years ago he moved to this county and has resided here continuously since.

International Falls—The piling for the sawmill has about all been driven so that active work on construction can begin. The piling has been driven on the river shore at the dock, for the railroad which will connect the sawmill site with the other industrial plants. This road will run up the river bank past the mill.

SAYS DEAD MAN WAS REAL LORD

Sister of Chicago Safe-Blower Testifies at His Inquest.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—H. B. Featherstone, bandit and safe blower, who was killed by a Chicago policeman while holding up a saloon New Year's morning, was the scion of a noble English family, according to the testimony of his sister. Miss Emma Featherstone, at the inquest yesterday. She declared that her brother was rightfully the bearer of the title Lord Featherstonhaugh.

Featherstone lived here with his mother, sister and wife under the name of Featherstonhaugh, but to the police, he always was known as Featherstone. His sister, in describing the dead man's lineage, said at the inquest:

"My grandfather, Henry Bardiff Featherstonhaugh, was nephew and heir of the last baron of the oldest families in Essex, Eng. The daughter of an English neighbor had been picked out for him to wed, but he ran away and married a poor Irish girl named Lee. For this he was disinherited. He came to America and settled in Oswego, N. Y., where he prospered. Twenty years ago we learned that the last Lord Featherstonhaugh was dead, and that we were heirs to part of his estate. Harry went to England to claim the estate and found it had been secured by his brother Wallace. Harry was the rightful heir, but we never could secure our rights in the case."

PARADES GARRISON FOR OLD SERGEANT.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4.—An unusual military honor to a non-commissioned officer was paid to Sergeant Jackson R. King, who retired from the army yesterday after thirty years of service. Col. Gardner paraded the entire garrison to do honor to King, who stood at the left of the officers as the regiment marched past. Sergeant King has a distinguished record and was retired by the publishing of a commendatory order.

Governor Hanly At Hancock.

Hancock, Mich., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor J. Frank Hanly of Indiana appeared Monday night at the Kerredge theater under the auspices of the Star Lyceum course of Houghton. He lectured on "The Patriotism of Peace." Governor Hanly was booked to appear Jan. 3, but last week the date was changed to Monday.

ONTARIO VOTES ON THE LOCAL OPTION QUESTION.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 4.—Local option was voted on in 161 municipalities in Ontario yesterday. In 16 it was defeated on a straight majority, in 55 it was carried, and in 31 it failed to get the three-fifths majority necessary to carry.

A vote to repeal the prohibition by-law was taken in ten places. Of eight towns heard from, repeal was carried in two and defeated in six.

Kenora, Ont., Jan. 4.—Local option by law was defeated here in yesterday's election by 279 votes. The campaign was a bitter one and the result is a surprise to those opposed to local option, it being believed that it would carry.

Sault Ste Marie, Ont., Jan. 4.—This city yesterday voted to continue "wet." The "drys" got a majority, but lacked the necessary three-fifths.

What to Do For a Cough

Here is a home-made remedy that overcomes an obstinate cough quicker than any costly medicine you could buy. Any woman can easily make it in five minutes.

Granulated Sugar Syrup..13½ oz.
Pinex ..... 2½ oz.

Put the Pinex in a clean pint bottle and fill up with the syrup, made as follows: Take a pint of Granulated Sugar, add ½ pint of warm water and stir for about 2 minutes. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. It tastes pleasant—children like it.

This simple medicine is also splendid for colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, incipient consumption, chest pains, etc.

Pinex, as you probably know, is the most potent form of Norway White Pine Compound. It is rich in all the well-known pine preparations compare with the real Pinex itself. Your druggist has it, or will gladly get it for you.

The full pint of this effective cough syrup can be made for 54 cents. It keeps perfectly, and lasts a whole family a long time.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

DIRTY KIDNEYS CAUSE BACKACHE

A Few Doses Clean and Regulate the Kidneys and You Feel Fine.

A real surprise awaits every sufferer from kidney or bladder trouble who takes several doses of Pape's Diuretic. Misery in the back, sides or loins, sick headache, nervousness, rheumatism pains, heart palpitations, dizziness, sleeplessness, inflamed or swollen eyelids, lack of energy and all symptoms of out-of-order kidneys simply vanish.

Uncontrollable urination (especially at night), smarting, offensive and discolored water and other bladder misery ends.

The moment you suspect kidney or urinary disorder, or feel any rheumatism, begin taking this harmless medicine, with the knowledge that there is no other remedy, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

It is needless to feel miserable and worried, because this unusual preparation goes at once to the out-of-order kidneys and urinary system, distributing its cleansing, healing and strengthening influence directly upon the organs and glands affected, and completes the cure before you realize it.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape of Cincinnati is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Only curative results can come from taking Pape's Diuretic, and a few days' treatment will make any one feel fine.

Accept only Pape's Diuretic—fifty-cent treatment—any drug store—anywhere in the world.

THE TRUE TEST

Tried in Duluth. It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Duluth. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

H. G. Hibke, 1123 Woodland Ave., Duluth, Minn., says: "I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble, brought on I believe by constant driving and exposure to all kinds of weather. Severe pains in the small of my back made stooping or lifting difficult and every cold I caught settled in my kidneys, aggravating my complaint. I was also subject to headaches and the kidney secretions often became highly colored and irregular in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had a symptom of my trouble since."

The above statement was given on Oct. 20, 1904, and on Nov. 20, Mr. Hibke added: "Since using Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago I have had no need of a kidney remedy. I willingly confirm all I have previously said about this preparation, as I know it is very effective in cases of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

NEW BARN ORDINANCE

Council Passes the Measure With One Minor Amendment.

East End Residents Want the Municipal Collection of Garbage.

The flood of oratory at the council meeting last night over the proposed route of the Canadian Northern railroad through West Duluth pushed all other business to the background and only routine matters received attention.

The barn ordinance was passed with a small amendment relative to the definition of a block. Last week the committee on ordinances met with some large companies who thought the measure too stringent, but it was found that it did not effect them.

Residents of the East end want the system of garbage collection, which has been tried in the downtown section the last summer, extended from Tenth avenue east to Twenty-sixth avenue east. The petition asking the enlargement of the garbage system had about 100 signers.

* * *

W. S. McCormick, city comptroller, turned in his report on the value of city buildings and property and the various amounts of insurance carried. The value of the buildings is placed at $253,200 and the amount of insurance carried is $72,700. This includes the police station, the city hall, the fire departments, the armory and other property owned by the municipality. The information was asked by Alderman Joseph Shartel, who with a view to ascertaining whether or not a saving could be made on insurance by the cooperative plan used by some large corporations.

James Sheehan was appointed custodian and engineer of the city hall to succeed the late Thomas Brian with a reduction of $15 in salary. The reduction was made because Mr. Brian was given an extra allowance with the understanding that he would pay for window washing. The first assistant was raised $10 a month. The fire department was given permission to sell two horses unfit for service and to purchase three new ones. Chief Troyer was requested to notify the council at the end of the month the kinds and number of lights out each month.

The city attorney was directed to ascertain whether or not the end of Twelfth avenue west below Michigan street has been platted and if the city has a right-of-way to ask the railroad companies to build a foot bridge or a wagon bridge to Railroad street. The bridge was petitioned for several weeks ago.

* * *

John A. Johnson asked that he be given additional time to pay his paving assessment on Second street, giving illness as the cause of his inability to meet the account. Irving R. Wagner, who was injured by a projecting gas pipe, informed the council that he has raised the amount of damages asked to $1,000. The accident occurred at Lake avenue and Michigan street Dec. 2. He first wanted half that sum.

* * *

M. Fitzgerald wanted another extension of time for reducing the grade of Piedmont avenue between Third and Tenth avenues. He claims that he has encountered unexpected shell rock and had to do more masonry work than he figured. He has already had several extensions and the council laid the matter over a week for consideration.

* * *

C. L. Rakowsky, city assessor, informed the council that he has appointed J. J. Hefron as clerk, R. S. Forgy as special clerk and W. K. Fowler as deputy appraiser.

* * *

The water and light board is evidently shy of funds. The minutes of the last meeting of the water and light board submitted to the council last night, show that an agreement was entered into between the board and the Zenith Furnace company to pay the gas bill for November by Jan. 20 next. The board is generally shy at this time of the year, as are some other of the city departments.

WILLARD HEAD OF THE B. & O.

DOCTORS DIFFER ON LUTZ' SANITY

One Physician Says Ashland Minister Is Sane; Other Says Insane.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The examination of the Rev. Mr. Lutz as to his sanity, before the county judge, lasted all the forenoon today. The two examining physicians, Dr. Andrus and Dr. Dodd, disagreed on the finding, Andrus holding that Lutz is sane, and Dr. Dodd believing him to be insane. Lutz was locked up again, pending further inquiry.

USE "CLUB" ON INSURGENTS

Regular Republicans Are Asking Taft to Hold Up Patronage.

President Is Said to Be Considering the Plan Seriously.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—It was ascertained today upon good authority that the Cannon organization in the house has appealed directly to President Taft to withhold patronage from insurgent Republicans, that these men may be beaten into line and forced to support Speaker Cannon, at least throughout the life of the present congress. The president is said to have the question of using such a club under serious consideration.

Pending a determination as to what the attitude of the administration shall be, the insurgents have been informed that their recommendations for the appointment of postmasters will not be acted upon. There have been reports here for the last few weeks that the administration intends to support the Cannon organization, and that in all matters of patronage, notably postoffice appointments those Republicans who were not listed as "regulars" would be ignored.

Patronage As a Club.

It did not become known until today that this information had been conveyed directly to a number of the insurgent clan. Representative Miller of Duluth is one of the insurgents who was informed that, for the present at least, his recommendations in postoffice cases would not be acted upon.

There are a number of vacancies in Minnesota districts, including two or three where changes should be made owing to irregularities of incumbents. Even in such cases, it is said, Representative Miller could not induce the postmaster general to act.

Representative Miller was in his seat when the house convened this morning. During the early morning he called upon Postmaster General Hitchcock to submit some postmaster recommendations.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH"

Commercial Club Is Compiling List of Industries of the City.

The list of Duluth industries and the articles manufactured in Duluth, compiled by the Herald during its "Do It For Duluth" campaign, has been turned over to the Commercial club, and that organization will make an effort to complete the list and keep it up to date.

The club is now sending out circular letters to all the manufacturers in Duluth, asking for a list of the goods manufactured. This information will be tabulated and kept on file at the club. Few people realize how many articles are manufactured in Duluth, and there are no available statistics of Duluth's industries.

KEEPING AFTER THE SUGAR FRAUD

Rumors of More Indictments Hover Round the Grand Jury Rooms.

New York, Jan. 3.—Investigation of the sugar underweighing fraud was continued today by the federal grand jury and it was intimated that further indictments, possibly of important personages, might be expected soon.

Rumors of confessions have been in the air recently and today's report had it that not only had important revelations been made by employes of the American Sugar Refining company, five of whom were recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud, but that employes of other sugar importing firms had become convinced of the advisability of making a clean breast of it.

The grand jury also is expected to take up shortly the investigation of the alleged paper combine, which the federal authorities have been looking into following the action which led to the dissolution of the manilla and fiber pool.

ICE GORGE RUSHING DOWN THE RIVER

Danger Results From Sudden Rush of Big Mass Down Stream.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 4.—The ice gorge in the Ohio river near Steubenville, Ohio, broke today and is rushing down the river, threatening all lower points. In one hour the river rose two feet here.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4.—Three ice gorges have formed in the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Chester, Ill., seventy miles below, according to the weather bureau today. One gorge, forty miles below St. Louis, is ten miles in extent.

The gorge at Jefferson Barracks has backed up the water in the Mississippi river as far as the mouth of the Illinois river. The gauge at St. Louis is at 21.1 feet.

WIFE PLAYED DETECTIVE

Superior Woman Has Husband Arrested in Duluth Rooming House.

Then Relents and Refuses to Swear Out a Warrant.

Yesterday Mrs. William H. Ratz of Superior came to Chief Troyer with wrath in her heart. She wanted her husband arrested, because she knew, she said, he must be going with another woman. She did some logical reasoning, such as a real detective might have done. She explained that her husband is a bartender, who works in Superior, and that three or four times a week he has not been coming home until 5:30 o'clock in the morning, although he is through work at midnight at the latest. She figured that 5:30 is the time the first street car gets over from Duluth. Therefore, he must be going to Duluth and coming back on that car. Chief Troyer agreed to help her, and last night under his directions Detectives Terry and Toewe arrested Ratz with a woman called Nina Noll, formerly an inmate of a Superior resort, in a rooming house at 1117 West Michigan street. Statutory charges were preferred against them. This morning Mrs. Ratz came to the station to see her spouse. He was penitent, and after shedding a few tears she refused to swear out a warrant for him, and they left the station together.

Carl Mandelin was fined $12.50 in police court this morning on pleading guilty to assaulting Spurs Lasikovski. The complainant and his two companions had had some trouble with Mandelin over employment tickets. He had shipped them and later refused to send them out, it is claimed. They went to the police and two of them got their dollar back. When Laskovski wanted his money back it is stated that he threw him out.

Rudolph Miller, arrested for stealing chickens on Michigan street by Patrolman Walsh, who saw him carrying them off, got $75 and costs or sixty days on pleading guilty to petty larceny. Edward Walsh, arrested for begging by an officer at the union station, had $83 on him when brought to the station. The charge was changed to trespass and he paid a fine of $20 and costs on his plea of guilty.

John Donaghue, an old timer, got $10 and costs or ten days for being drunk.

SAY R. SMITH IS BANKRUPT

Creditors File Petition for Receiver in United States Court.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against Roderick Smith in United States court today by five firms who claim Smith is indebted to them. Smith, who lives at Superior, has been doing business in Duluth as a grain commission agent and a railroad contractor, with offices in the Board of Trade building. The claim filed against him aggregate $2,234.34 and they range from $55.56 to $1,260.62. The claim is made by the creditors that Mr. Smith gave to Joseph Sellwood recently a chattel mortgage on personal property valued at $5,000 in order to make Mr. Sellwood a perferred creditor and to prevent the other creditors from collecting their claims. It is claimed that Mr. Smith is indebted to Mr. Sellwood for about $15,000.

NO OPPOSITION TO McINNIS

Chairman of County Board Will Probably Be Re-Elected.

The county board is holding its semi-annual meeting this afternoon, and Neil McInnis will probably be re-elected chairman, with Alex Fraser commissioner from the First district, vice chairman. The business of the meeting will be largely routine. Among the matters to be disposed of are: The appointment of standing committees; the fixing of salaries in the offices of the sheriff, register of deeds and superintendent of schools; the letting of the printing contracts; the appointment of a member of the poor commission to succeed John Jenswold; the appointment of a jail physician and a county physician; the appropriation of money for the Duluth Humane society and the Duluth branch of the state laboratory board of health.

OFFICIALS IN DULUTH

General Traffic Manager of Northern Pacific Inspects Terminals.

Soo Officers Look Over New Freight and Passenger Depots.

J. G. Woodworth, general traffic manager of the Northern Pacific railroad; Thomas E. Sands, general freight agent of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie railway and William L. Martin, vice president and traffic manager of the same railway, were at the Head of the Lakes this afternoon.

Mr. Woodworth spent part of the day in Superior, looking over the terminals there, coming to Duluth later for a general inspection of traffic conditions upon this side of the bay.

Mr. Woodworth stated that the traffic on the Northern Pacific was in very good shape and that despite the strike, freight was moving very smoothly. He also stated that the traffic of the road was very heavy at the present time.

There was nothing of importance in the visit here at this time of Mr. Woodworth, except that he made a close inspection of the work that is being done here and in Superior. He expressed himself as well satisfied with the condition of the terminals.

Mr. Sands and Mr. Martin came up to look over the new freight depot that was opened Monday. Both of the Soo officials expressed the opinion that the Soo business at the Head of the Lakes was but in its infancy, and that within a few years Duluth would be one of the principal traffic points of the Soo system.

In company with G. A. Sherwood, local agent of the Soo, the two Soo officials visited the work on the new passenger station, the tunnel and the tracks on this side of the bay.

Mr. Martin stated that the Soo officials expected to do a very large business here in the next year, as he believed Duluth would rapidly develop as a gateway to the West and to Canada.

KILLED BY AEROPLANE

Leon Delagrange Meets Death While Making a Flight.

Famous Frenchman Has Record for Sensational Work.

Bordeaux, Jan. 4.—Leon Delagrange, the noted French aviator, was killed while making a flight here today.

Leon Delagrange ranked among the first of the aviators of the world. On Dec. 30 last, at Juvisy, he broke all speed records. The occasion was an attempt to win the Michelin cup. He did not succeed in beating Henry Farman's record for distance, but did establish a new distance record for monoplanes and a new world's speed record. He covered 124 miles in 2 hours and 32 minutes, maintaining an average speed of approximately forty-nine miles an hour.

Delagrange had been a well known autoist and was one of the first men in Europe to take up aviation. His feats soon attracted wide attention, and he is said to have been offered a guarantee of $10,000 if he would visit the United States.

Set Speed Record.

In October last, Delagrange made a flight at Doncoster, England, establishing a speed record for one mile and 860 yards in 1 minute and 47 1-5 seconds.

His first public flight was made March 16, 1907, at Bagatelle, France, when he ascended in a biplane. The machine moved thirty feet in the air and descended. Some days later Delagrange made a flight of 453 feet, carrying a passenger. He continued experiments with a biplane, and visiting Rome in 1908, made a flight in the presence of royalty. Soon afterwards at Turin, he took a woman passenger on a brief trip.

On Sept. 6, 1908, the Frenchman beat the then existing time record by traveling 15 2-5 miles in 29 minutes and 53 seconds. In May, 1909, at Juvisy, he won the Lagatineri prize, making 36-10 miles in 10 minutes and 18 seconds.

Won Prizes at Rheims.

He entered the competitions at Rheims in August last, appearing for the first time in a monoplane. He captured the tenth prize for speed and the eighth prize for distance. In September last he visited Denmark and made a flight of fifteen minutes' duration before King Frederick.

Delagrange's first really sensational flight, and the one that made him a contender for all the prizes, was accomplished at Doncaster, Oct. 26, 1909. At that time he flew six miles in seven minutes, thirty-six seconds, at more than fifty miles an hour, at times.

Delagrange had exhibited great daring and at times did not hesitate to assume grave risks rather than disappoint crowds that had gathered to see him. On Nov. 5, 1907, he fell with his aeroplane while giving an exhibition at Issy. The machine was smashed, but the aviator escaped with a few cuts and bruises.

It was also at Issy that Delagrange narrowly escaped crushing a crowd of spectators who had taken possession of one end of the field during his exhibition.

In Several Accidents.

This accident happened in May, 1908. Delagrange was traveling at a rapid rate close to the ground when his machine swerved towards the crowd. The aviator promptly shut off the power, and in descending, collided with an automobile.

During aviation week at Rheims, the propeller of Delegrange's machine broke and the aeroplane fell. Delgrange was badly bruised.

In July last, Delagrange was decorated with the order of the Legion of Honor, and last month the Academy of Sciences at Paris voted him a medal for aeronautic achievements. In 1907 Delagrange was elected president of the Aviation club of France.

The name of Delagrange is the fourth to be added to the roll of those killed in a motor power aeroplane, all within fifteen months.

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE BACK

Two of Nine Who Went to Overthrow Brazil Return to New York.

New York, Jan. 4.—Samuel R. Sparker of this city and Robert G. Kinsaid of Moosejaw, Sask., two of the nine young men who set out from this port three years ago to overthrow the government of Brazil, returned today on the steamship Verdi. They were enlisted by Stephen Magali, who came to this city shortly before that time in an effort to obtain capital and raise a filibustering expedition which would at least place him in control of one of the states of Brazil.

On reaching Bahia they proceeded to Atheos, where the nine Americans attacked the state police station. The police were expecting the attack and Maj. Davies of the expedition was killed and George Gordon, also a soldier of fortune, who had fought in the Boer war, was captured. Gordon died later.

The remaining seven filibusters retired along a railroad track and cut the telegraph wires. They were run down two days later, and in the fighting before their capture George Vice of Hackensack, N. J., and Everett Wilson were wounded and the others disarmed. They had been in prison ever since and after two trials their release was effected, largely through the intercession of the state department at Washington.

IMPOSSIBLE.

Lippincott's: In a certain town are two brothers who are engaged in the retail coal business. A noted evangelist visited the town, and the elder brother was converted. For weeks after his conversion he endeavored to persuade his brother to join the church. One day he said to him: "Why can't you, Richard, join the church, as I did?"

"It's all right for you to be a member of the church," replied Richard, "but if I join, who's going to weigh the coal?"

THE HERALD'S GROWTH.

The daily average circulation of The Herald during the last six months of 1909 was 25,283. The December average was 25,992, and each month of the six showed substantial gains over the preceding month.

The Herald is pleased with this showing of appreciation, and proud of it; and it has a significance that should be pleasing not only to The Herald but to the community in which and for which and by whose patronage it lives.

The passing of the 25,000-mark is an epoch in the history of The Herald and of Duluth that is very important to both. It places this newspaper in the class of metropolitan newspapers, recognized as such by advertisers and others throughout the country. The growth of its leading daily newspaper into this recognition means also a new recognition of the growth and progress of Duluth.

For years The Herald has gone daily into practically every home in Duluth. The growth of local circulation, therefore, has kept abreast of the growth of Duluth's population. Meanwhile, however, The Herald's territory has widened as Duluth's territory widened, and has developed as the country tributary to Duluth has grown in population and business. Today The Herald circulates widely through Upper Michigan, Wisconsin, Northern Minnesota and the Dakotas, and its field now is widening out into Montana and even farther west.

The Herald was the first newspaper in the Northwest outside the Twin Cities to reach a circulation of 10,000. It was the first to reach a circulation of 15,000, it was the first to reach a circulation of 20,000, and now it is the first to pass the 25,000-mark—and the only one.

This newspaper is even prouder of the manner in which this splendid growth has been won than it is of the growth itself. The Herald is the only newspaper in the Northwest that has won its circulation solely upon its merits as a newspaper and its service to its clientage. It has never used voting, guessing or premium schemes of any character to give temporary artificial stimulation to its circulation. Those who buy The Herald buy it because they want a newspaper, and because they want this particular newspaper. They do not get it because it is thrown in with a premium, or because they are importuned to take it to help out a friend who is seeking to win a prize. There is on The Herald's books no account whatever for the purchase of prizes, premiums, etc. The money that goes to this useless purpose from the receipts of other newspapers in this case goes into the making of a newspaper. This fact, and the fact that this is true in the Northwest of no other newspaper but The Herald, is the secret of The Herald's success. Having no waste account of this character, The Herald is able to devote itself exclusively to the making of a newspaper, and that explains why The Herald is able constantly to add to its facilities for furnishing the news. Its local circulation is based upon the fact that it gives the local news and all the local news, and gives it completely day in and day out, the year around. Its outside circulation is based upon the fact that it furnishes the news of the Northwest every day of the year, and this service will be even more complete in the future than it has been in the past.

The Herald is dedicated to the service of Duluth and the Northwest. It provides the news of the world, and particularly the news of Duluth and the Northwest. That is its sole business, that is its reason for being, and that is the reason for its success. That is why it is the home paper of the Northwest.

FOR A GREATER DULUTH.

Work for a greater Duluth is proceeding actively, with an awakened and concentrated public spirit back of it.

But one thing remains—to subordinate the several branches of the work under one comprehensive plan, to be carried out under the direction of one central committee. That condition nearly exists now, and the difference proposed is perhaps more sentimental than practical; but it is a case where sentiment is exceedingly practical.

What the movement needs is a definite name, a definite and co-ordinate being. The different branches of the work are being pushed satisfactorily. The Commercial club has taken hold admirably, and the new public spirit furnishes support and aid at all times. But the campaign yet lacks the one touch needed to make it coherent. All these various projects are aimed toward a definite objective—the making of a Greater Duluth. Pushed separately, they will accomplish much; correlated as parts of one big, broad plan for the making of a Greater Duluth, they will do much more. Pushed separately, it is possible that some worthy objects may absorb part of the energy required by other objects equally worthy.

In the public affairs committee of the Duluth Commercial club is found the machinery for this work, already assembled and already busily at work. It is now doing practically what is needed, and in nearly the manner required. As we have said, the change would be more sentimental than practical, yet in a case where arousing and keeping aroused a lively public spirit is so important, sentimentality becomes practicality. But the movement for a Greater Duluth should have a name, and so should the committee having general charge of it. Whether it is called the "Greater Duluth committee," or the "150,000 club," to take names used for similar purposes in other communities, or something else, the movement and the organization in charge of it should have a definite name that will illustrate its definite object; a name by which it may be known at home to stimulate and keep active the local sentiment, and abroad to arouse interest and curiosity about Duluth.

This committee, with a definite name and a definite object, should map out a broad and comprehensive plan and assign the various branches of its works to subcommittees, much as they now are assigned. This will add the touch of coherence and substance that still is lacking in the movement. The suggestion is in no way based upon the slightest thought that the committees now organized are not doing their full duty, for they are doing it, splendidly, as last night's meeting of the public affairs committee showed.

There are many divisions of the work of making a Greater Duluth, but they all have one object, and they are all related. They should be parts of a definite plan, under a definite name and a definite organization. That point has not quite been reached, but it is time that it was reached. The development of manufactures, by going after new industries and by encouraging those now here; the promotion of a spirit of preference to home industries; improving railroad service; reducing the cost of living; encouragement of agriculture and help in marketing agricultural products: these projects are all being pushed energetically, but not yet coherently. Let the movement be made coherent. Let it be given a definite name. And then let the news go abroad as a part of a systematic advertising of the city's advantages and prospects. To advertise that Duluth is taking active steps to develop itself to the fullest extent, with a definite objective expressed by a definite name, is as necessary and as valuable as the work itself.

A PLAIN BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

The plan proposed by John G. Williams to the public affairs committee of the Commercial club last night as a solution of the chief problem in the making of a Greater Duluth is a plain business proposition. It calls for the expenditure of a good deal of money, but those who contribute will not be making "donations." They will be investing in a business enterprise which, altogether aside from the good that will come out of it for the city as a whole, will yield an honest profit on the investment. It is as susceptible of demonstration as any other business project, and more susceptible than many.

Duluth's great need is cheaper cost of living. The first essential is that enough food be raised on near-by soil to supply the city. The plan, in brief, is to buy 2,000 or 3,000 acres of good farming land near the city; to clear it and make it ready for cultivation; to construct a rural trolley line to carry its products to market; to sell the land to those who will make actual use of it; and then, as a separate but not less essential project, to establish market places in Duluth.

First comes the concrete attack upon the near-by soil, under the plan proposed by Mr. Williams and approved by the public affairs committee last night. Mr. Williams has the land needed under option, and as some of the options will soon expire, prompt action is required. The public affairs committee has delegated investigation of the financial aspects of the plan to a subcommittee which, if it approves, will seek subscriptions to the proposed stock issue. The parent company will be the Duluth Garden company, which will acquire the land and make it ready for cultivation, and also will hold the stock of the Duluth & Northern Traction company, which will build a rural trolley line tapping as much farming land as possible, making its entry to Duluth over the tracks of the Duluth Street Railway company.

First it should be borne in mind that this is no scheme intended for the personal profit of its proposers. It is for one of the most important of public purposes, and while the stock should yield profits upon the investment, those profits all will go to subscribers.

Second, it should be made emphatic that this is a plain business proposition, which may be subjected to the same tests and judged by the same standards as any other new business project. It is in no sense a charity or philanthropy, in spite of the great good to Duluth that it is capable of doing. There are so many acres, to be bought for so much an acre—$50 outside the city limits and $80 inside. It will cost so much per acre to clear this land for immediate use. There is so much timber of various kinds which will bring so much. The land will be cut up into small tracts—and as far as gardening purposes are concerned ten acres should be the limit and five acres would be better—and will accommodate so many families. It can be sold for so much an acre, at a profit definitely to be estimated. The trolley line will cost so much to build and equip, and with the cleared acres producing its business may be estimated with reasonable accuracy.

There is no charity or blind speculation about this deal. Those who enter it do so after careful investigation. They will act either upon their own knowledge and business judgment, or upon the expert knowledge and judgment of men like John G. Williams and Charles P. Craig, who have made the soil of this section a special study, and who are positive not only that this plan will work out profitably to stockholders, but that within two years the land it covers will be yielding enough to supply the needs of all Duluth, and will be shipping to other markets certain things like celery, cauliflower and head lettuce, which can be grown better here than elsewhere. There isn't the slightest doubt about the fertility of the soil; it is not only as good as that of any other section, but in some respects it is marvelously superior. There isn't the slightest question about the market; for years to come Duluth will be a bonanza market for truck-gardeners, poultry raisers and dairymen.

Mr. Williams last night told a story about how Joseph Chamberlain, as mayor of Birmingham, saw the sewage and garbage going to waste, while a tract of poor land lay waste near the city. He had the city buy the land, apply to it the waste products of the city, and presently that waste tract was feeding Birmingham.

In almost any other country in the world the city of Duluth would buy this land, build this road, establish the needed markets, and solve the problem at public expense. The profits would all go to the public. But in this country government can't, it seems, do these things; they are "unconstitutional" and "socialistic." Government can do anything for individuals; it can prostrate itself at their feet and offer its neck to their heels; but it mustn't do much of anything for the common good. Some time it may be different, but now the city can't take up this splendid project. The citizens must; and it is particularly fortunate that an assurance of profit accompanies the opportunity to perform a great public service. This is Duluth's chance. Let it prove its faith and its capacity for self-help.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TAKE THE ASHES, TOO.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The municipal system of garbage collection is a good thing, and I would like to see it extended. But before the extension is made, one defect in the system as it is at present should be remedied.

The city has made no arrangements for the collection of ashes, and that is the rock on which the system will be wrecked unless it is removed. If a householder pays the city for removing the garbage from his back yard, he must pay another man to take away the ashes; whereas, if the private individual is employed in the first place, he takes ashes, garbage and all other refuse that may be around.

I should think that some sort of a cart could be obtained or devised that would carry garbage and ashes in the the cart without mixing them. I should think there could be a division of the cart, the garbage going in one compartment and the ashes in another. Then people would not have the trouble and expense of securing two different men to haul away refuse, and I am sure the city would find it much easier to extend the municipal garbage collection system and put it on a firm basis.

I think Dr. Patton will see the wisdom of this suggestion. Until the difficulty I mention is removed the municipal garbage collection plan will have hard sledding, but once it is removed, the system will be adopted without question all over the city.

Duluth, Jan. 3.

Nelson and Pinchot.

Omaha World-Herald: It is believed that the contemplated senate investigation of Secretary Ballinger and his department is to be placed in the hands of the committee on public lands, of which Senator Nelson of Minnesota is chairman. Senator Nelson is a man of strong character and much independence, and his vote against the tariff bill served to class him with the insurgents. These facts are cited, by those who are behind the senate program, as carrying assurance that any investigation conducted by Senator Nelson will be searching and impartial.

It is interesting, therefore, to read, in the New York Globe, in an extended article on Senator Nelson, the following:

"Senator Nelson regards Mr. Pinchot with warm affection—played with reverse English. Senator Nelson believes that the noblest destiny of a river is to be bridged and dammed, while Mr. Pinchot, he believes, thinks that a river ought to be bottled and placed in a museum, labeled 'Saved by T. R.' Back in the administration of the colonel some of the senator's friends wanted to play tricks with a Minnesota river, and Gifford came galloping in and rescued the river and went and hid behind the throne with it, which wasn't sporting, to say the least. Ever since then Senator Nelson has been demanding the papers, and now that he has a chance to put Mr. Pinchot on the grill he very sure that the forester will sizzle to make a senate holiday. Of course, this investigation is primarily to clear Secretary Ballinger's reputation, which has been somewhat blown upon. But depend upon it, Pinchot will also be in the dock before the trial is over. It is the firm conviction of certain senators that he was caught with the steel spring in his hand."

Poor Pinchot. The net appears to be closing around him even before the alleged "investigation" is begun. No charges have been made against him, no scandals have involved his department, and certainly his duties have not been neglected. "But he has trampled ruthlessly on the toes of certain big interests. Men who are friends of his have been active in making trouble for Ballinger, the friend of those same interests. Now that an investigation is faced Pinchot is to be dragged in by the heels and made to pay the penalty. The program is to clear Ballinger and convict Pinchot of whatever high crimes and misdemeanors may be necessary to excuse his discharge.

Other public officials before Pinchot have found that it doesn't always pay to be too active in protecting public property or public rights.

Man's Debt to the Horse.

Pittsburg Press: No animal on the face of the earth works like the horse; no animal anywhere is his equal in usefulness to man. He is the one real slave of humanity; for never lived a human slave in any age or in any land who went about his task and his crushing labors more uncomplainingly, more steadily and more faithfully than does the horse. He brings help when the home is aflame; he drags in the harvest that feeds millions; he scurries over the ground to bring the physician to the bedside when we come into the world; he paces solemnly onward as he drags us to the grave. He carries the joyous children upon his broad back, and he thunders to the hospital with the clanging ambulance. Through the streets he drags the mighty iron supports for the giant skyscraper, and over the boulevards of the park he sweeps with fashion and beauty at his hoofs. In the midst of plenty he carries food in abundance to countless homes, and in the midst of starvation he yields up his own body to keep life in the famished human frame.

And for this sublime devotion, this life-long labor, this noble martyrdom, how often is the faithful animal repaid with atrocious cruelty and vile and inhuman neglect! The treatment of horses by some people is immeasurably base; and it is all the more hideous and scoundrelly because the poor animal has no means of defense, no chance for aid, no voice to demand help.

He is driven at terrific speed for immense distances; he is forced to wear rough and heavy harness over a sore and lacerated body, dragging after him heavily laden wagons, all the while suffering silently the most awful torture. He is compelled to drag overloaded wagons up steep hills, often cruelly lashed with the whip, and then after a long day of dreadful slavery he is poorly housed, often with insufficient food.

Yet there are owners and drivers of a different stamp. These are men into whose hardened soul no appreciation of the value and devotion of the horse is allowed to penetrate. They misuse the animal to an atrocious degree, and are impervious to his appealing look, when he is racked by pain or worn down with toil, as though the poor beast were but a senseless rock. Such men as these know no pity, and because they know no pity they know no horse.

There is nothing overdrawn in the recital of man's inhumanity to his one best and most constant friend. Happily, though, it is not a recital of the usual treatment of the horse. Turning from the consideration of illtreatment, it is pleasant to know that in the hearts of the vast majority of men, women and children there is genuine love for this fine and good friend in the animal kingdom. And assuredly he deserves that love.

When you love a horse, you love man's best, truest and most useful friend in all the range of the world of animals.

Trusts.

Ellis O. Jones in Life: There are two sides to the trust question—the inside and the outside. Nobody on the inside of a trust was ever known to object to it and nobody on the outside was ever known to do anything else.

The American trust has no counterpart in history. Starting as the dream of a few men, it had a difficult time in getting a foothold, until, in the latter part of the nineteenth century, congress passed the anti-trust law. From that moment trusts began to multiply, wax and grow fat, while the people began to grow lean. The trusts have had smooth sailing ever since. They soon covered the face of the land, while the officials thereof covered their tracks.

THE WEATHER.

The extremely cold weather of yesterday gave way to a gradually moderating temperature today, but don't lay away the furs and ear muffs, for there is no thaw in prospect. Tonight will bring milder temperature and a fall of snow and by tomorrow normal winter weather conditions will be restored, with the mercury a little above the zero mark.

A year ago today was a cold, snappy day.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 a. m. and it will set at 4:32, giving eight hours and thirty-eight minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on the weather:

"The cold weather is spreading eastward and southward to and including North Atlantic states, the Ohio valley and the Eastern and Southern Lake region, in all of which districts the temperature has fallen decidedly during the past twenty-four hours. Zero weather prevails in the northern and western lake region, and northward from and including Iowa, Nebraska, Wyoming and Nevada. The barometer is abnormally high over Western Ontario and a secondary area of high pressure overlies British Columbia. A disturbance of moderate intensity central over New Mexico is causing snow or rain in Central Valley states, the Rocky mountains, Eastern slopes and Southwestern states.

"The easterly movement of this low pressure condition will cause snow and milder weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following were the maximum temperatures for the last twenty-four hours and the minimum for the last twelve:

The Security of Property.

From a speech by Winston Churchill of the British ministry: The security of property depends upon its wide diffusion among great numbers and all classes of population, and it becomes more secure year by year because it is gradually being more widely distributed. The vital processes of civilization require, and the combined interests of millions guarantee the security of property—I speak of the immediate security of property; but, ladies and gentlemen, the periods of time requires another condition. It must be supported by the moral convictions of the people; and, if those moral convictions of the nation are to be retained, there must be a constant and successful effort to reconcile the processes by which property is acquired, with ideas of justice, of usefulness, and of general benefit.

A society in which property was insecure would speedily degenerate into barbarism; a society in which property was absolutely secure, irrespective of all conceptions of justice in regard to the manner of its acquisition, would degenerate into barbarism, but again. And that is, I think, the message, the main message, which is to be found in the heart-stirring speeches which my right honorable friend, the chancellor of the exchequer, (Lloyd George), is delivering in the country, and which are arousing people to face all sorts of awkward facts which hitherto they have been glad to leave neglected and unattended on one side.

No one claims that a government should from time to time, according to its conceptions of justice, attempt fundamentally to recast the basis on which property is erected. The process must be a gradual one, must be a social and moral process, working steadily in the heart and in the body of the community. But we do contend, when new burdens have to be apportioned, when new revenues have to be procured when the necessary upkeep of the state requires further taxes to be imposed—we do contend that in distributing the new burdens a government should have regard first of all to ability to pay; and secondly—and this is a newer point—that they should have regard to some extent, and so far as is practicable, to the means and the process by which different forms of wealth have been acquired, and that they should make a sensible difference between wealth, which is the fruit of productive enterprise and industry or of individual skill, and wealth which represents capture by individuals of socially created values.

Applied the Dressing.

Denver Post: A couple from a Central Kansas farm went to the Shirley hotel for dinner last night. They looked like bride and groom. Their meal included some sliced tomatoes for the young man. He ate them with a relish. When the tomatoes were gone he discovered a queer-looking dish containing a queer-looking fluid on the table. He called the young woman's attention to it.

"What's that for Lulu?" he asked.

The waitress was standing near. She overheard the question. "That's for the tomatoes," she said. "It's dressing that is put on tomatoes."

"Aw, pshaw, Lulu!" said the young man. "I've already eat my tomatoes. I can't put this dressing on 'em now."

"Yes, ye kin," she replied. "Drink it."

And he did.

A Simile.

The Youth's Companion: "What a beautiful sight it is, Mrs. Bates, to see your two little boys always together!" the summer boarder exclaimed, in an ecstasy, on the approach of Bobby and Tommy Bates, hand in hand. "Such brotherly love is as rare as it is exquisite."

Mrs. Bates nodded in pleasant assent. "I tell Ezry," she said, "that they're as insep'r'ble as a pair of pants."

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

One of the social events of last week was the wedding of George H. Crosby to Miss Charlotte V. Stultz, which was solemnized at St. Paul's church by Rev. W. M. Barker. The bride was attired in a broadcloth traveling suit. Immediately after the ceremony, which took place at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Crosby left for Minneapolis for a short trip. They were the recipients of many beautiful and useful wedding gifts. The bride is the daughter of County Superintendent of Schools Stultz, and Mr. Crosby is chief clerk in J. H. La Vaque's establishment.

Politics in the West end is beginning to attract attention. In the Fifth ward the fight will be between H. C. Nelson and Alderman Harry Armstrong. The Sixth ward situation is badly split up, six or seven candidates being discussed, the most prominent being H. C. Helm, S. A. Siverts, P. L. Johnson and Charles Pierce.

The Angus Smith system of elevators at Milwaukee has been sold to an English syndicate for an amount exceeding $1,000,000. A. K. Shepard of the Duluth grain firm of A. K. Shepard & Co., and a former Milwaukeean, engineered the deal and makes quite a snug little sum out of the deal.

In a short time the Duluth weather office is to become what is known as a "first order" station, ranking with the chief office at Washington, New York, Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. It is expected that next July the weather bureau will be taken from the control of the war department and put in charge of the department of agriculture.

A. E. Jackson and Miss Lulu M. Streeter were married by Rev. T. M. Findley of the Second Presbyterian church at the residence of the bride's parents, 905 West Fourth street. They will occupy the historic house at 1702 West Superior street.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Redwood Falls Gazette: The Duluth Herald prints a detailed statement showing that sixteen New England manufacturing corporations—mostly in cotton goods—have in ten years returned to stockholders over $35,000,000 in dividends on their capitalization of less than $26,000,000, besides accumulating nearly $23,000,000 surplus. That is, they have more than doubled their capital in ten years—$10,000,000 more. Coupled with the statement that the operatives in these mills have averaged less than $5 a week in wages, the statistics from a Democratic source, are calculated to make an old-fashioned protectionist admit that while protection has been a good thing in building up American industries and stimulating invention, there is always a possibility of having too much of a good thing.

The Christlike Spirit.

Hibbing Tribune: The Right Rev. James McGolrick, bishop of the diocese of Duluth, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of his consecration as bishop of the diocese this week, and signalized the time with an act significantly befitting the character of the season—the Christ Child time, for a purse of $7,000, presented to him by members of his diocese, he immediately turned over to the orphan asylum fund which he has been carefully nourishing these many years, a project which will eventually become the good bishop's enduring monument. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." For years Bishop McGolrick has thought and labored for the little ones, whose welfare is dearer to his heart than gold or the wealth of this world. Doubtless he has his reward in this world, as well as that laid up for him in the next.

Naughty Beauchamp!

Warroad Register: The Duluth Herald would bar not only Cannon but Payne, Tawney and all the other leaders of the present house from consideration for the speakership in the next congress. Whom would it substitute? In the ranks of those known as insurgents there are probably two or three men of speakership size—no more. But The Herald says the Democrats will organize the next house. What will happen in that event? Why, unless all signs fail, the person chosen will be Beauchamp ("Champ") Clark, that Missourian gentleman who threatened to jump down from the platform and knife a man who asked him a perfectly natural question while he was delivering a political harangue at a Chautauqua assembly a few years ago. A man who cannot control himself better than that will surely make a fine record at governing congress. If Clark, as speaker, substitutes the bowie knife for the gavel, congressional doings will, for two years, have the sporting page beaten to a frazzle.

A Real Philanthropist.

Princeton Union: Upon the day preceding Christmas every year The Duluth Herald's newsboys pay nothing for their papers—a kind-hearted man of that city foots the bills and all the papers the boys sell bring in a clear profit to them. This man is indeed a philanthropist in the true meaning of the word.

Get In the Game.

Biwabik Times: The ranges and Duluth should work together, of course, but Duluth should not attempt to do all the working. Business men down on the shore of Lake Superior should realize that range people know a few things.

Achievement.

I dunno—I may be foolish, but it allus seems to me
That our dreams is jest like childurn,
sech as you might have er me;
We kin look back here an' see 'em ez
they used t' be in youth,
When we thought life was all pleasure
an' th' speech o' men all truth;
We kin look back an' remember how they made us glad all day,
When they jest walked hand in hand with us, before they went away;
They was allus bright ez sunshine an'
ez light an' fine ez foam,
An' then they growed up an' left us—
jest like childurn leavin' home.

Once th' house was peopled with 'em, an' they played like childurn
play,
Inter every nook an' cranny, never
restin' all th' day;
Once we heered 'em allus laughin' jest like childurn laugh fer you,
An' a-talkin' of tomorrer, jest th' same as childurn do,
Once no day was bright without 'em,
and' they gathered in th' light
Of th' grate an' smiled about us jest like childurn do at night;
An' then they went back to Dreamland, an' they left us in th'
gloam
Of our life alone and lonesome—jest like childurn leavin' home.

Why, it ain't so long, I reckon, leastwise thet's th' way it seems,
Sence I was th' happy daddy of a family o' dreams;
When they clustered all about me an'
they climbed up in my chair,
An' they smiled at me an' greeted me
from almost everywhere;
Every night I heerd 'em singin'—I could hear 'em jest ez plain!
An' they usel t' dance before me all th'
way along th' lane.
How they kep' me sweet an' hopeful on what rough road I might roam,
But they've all growed up an' left me,
jest like childurn leavin' home.
An' sometimes I set at evenin' where
I used t' see 'em play,

Sort o' solemn like an' lonesome, sence
they're growed an' gone away;
Sort o' glad I used t' have 'em, when
I git t' dreamin' on,
Bout ez glad I used t' have 'em ez I'm sorry thet they're gone.
How I used t' set a-dreamin' in this big, old-fashioned chair,
With th' dreams like childurn playin'
in my castles in th' air.
They was colored jest like rainbows an' ez light an' fine ez foam,
But they've all growed up an' left me—
jest like childurn leavin' home.

SCHOLARSHIPS TO KEEP CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

Plan to Pay Pupils Wages They Might Earn If Working.

Not "How Old?" But "How Much Do You Know?" The Test.

A scholarship law that will help to keep the children of the poorer families in school until they have acquired a certain amount of knowledge is the work Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, has now set for herself.

The plan is to pay the children of deserving parents who need their help the price of their young labor, so that they can be going to school and at the same time earning money for the support of hte family. In this way they will receive the same wages that they would be capable of earning, and they would at the same time attend school regularly, the same as children of more fortunate parents.

The young boy rarely earns more than $2 or $3 a week when he first starts to work. Most of the families of these boys need the money, and unless there is some such law, they are usually taken out of school and set to work. The result is that they seldom rise to a living wage because they do not know enough to hold a responsible position. It is this that is aimed at more than anything else--to educate the boys and girls so that in after life they will be more successful. After they are worked out with their hands, they usually fall back on the county for support. If they were better educated they would be undoubtedly be able to care for themselves through life.

Keep Them in School.

"Keep the boy and the girl in school," is a slogan with Miss Poirier, who daily comes in contact with small children who wish a permit that they may remain out of school and work to help support their parents and their younger brothers and sisters.

A little fellow barely 13 years of age appeared at the office in the courthouse building this morning and asked for a permit. He was asked as to his family, their condition and the other particulars of the matter. The family really needed the small amount of money that he was capable of bringing in, and the only thing that could be done was to issue the permit.

Pathetic cases each day occur. The little fellows are broken-hearted when they are refused. Four have been taken care of. Some of those who have asked what they could do to help some one more unfortunate than themselves have been told of the conditions, and they have gladly taken the matter up. Four little Duluth boys are now attending school and are being paid. Not being paid to go to school, but paid that they may remain in school, acquire the knowledge they so much need, and at the same time deliver to the parents the money that would otherwise be earned in a mercantile house. The Kings Daughters, a local society, has taken the matter up, and they are supporting two boys. Two other individuals have fallen heartily in with the scheme and are supporting the other two.

The results are even better than might be expected. The boys are bright and wish to continue their education. The parents are glad to find a way that the thing can be worked out. They all realize that the theory is a good one.

When the families no longer need the help, the scholarship is transferred to a family where it is needed. In this way the scholarship is constantly changing hands. It is not a permanent affair with any one. It is shifted about as it is needed. The conditions are carefully investigated, also, before the scholarship is given.

In New York and in Massachusetts this law has been passed and is proving satisfactory. The Minnesota law requires that children go to school until a certain age is reached. The laws of other states have been changed to read: "Until they know a certain amount and are able to pass an examination."

It was known when the school law was passed that it would cause much suffering. Miss Poirier and her associates (for there are many interested in such a law) believe that it is up to the state to overcome this suffering by adopting a clause providing for the scholarships. It is believed that the money should come out of the general school fund.

Gathering Statistics.

Miss Poirier is gathering statistics to prove that the law is necessary. These will be put up at the next session of the state legislature and an effort made to get it through. W. E. McEwen, state labor inspector, had a long conference with Miss Poirier regarding it and he is very enthusiastic over the idea. It is said that no one can appreciate the child labor conditions unless experienced in the work. Miss Poirier thinks she has found the key to the situation.

There are just at present in the city fifteen very young children who need the help that they may remain in school. Some of the cases are as pitiful as they are pathetic. They all want to work for they know they must, and many are sent from the office weeping because they are not given the permit they so much desire. Irate parents descend on the office, too, and wish to know why. The situation is explained to them, but some of them even then cannot seem to understand.

If things go as they are expected the state will work in connection with the schools. The principals will report and the representatives of the state will investigate. If they are found to be deserving, help will be extended them.

Those interested in labor conditions in Duluth are much interested in bringing a condition of this kind about, and Miss Poirier is not the only enthusiastic one. Each year more and more children go to work at an earlier age than their older brothers and sisters did, and the question is becoming a big one. That the young children of the city be properly educated is indeed necessary, and many will work hard that this law may not only be put up to the legislature, but passed, as well.

DIRECTOR IS ANXIOUS

Scarcity of Enumerators Gives Head of Census Some Concern.

Sufficient Applications for the Positions Not Received as Yet.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Census Director Durand stated today that, as a result of his conferences with the supervisors of census throughout the country he finds that in many sections, especially in the larger cities, there have not been as yet sufficient applications for the positions of enumerators. It looks, he thinks, as if the country is so prosperous that people are not anxious to get these responsible places as had been expected.

The scarcity is giving the director some concern, as only a few weeks remain before the date for closing the consideration of applications. It will be impossible generally to extend the application time limit, as to examine the "test" papers, with the necessary care to insure the designation of qualified persons, will consume every moment of the time allowed for this phase of the work of selecting the enumerators, leaving nothing for an extension of the date for shutting down on applications.

The director therefore urges all persons desiring places as enumerators to make application as quickly as possible, and he hopes that, in order to help get a perfect census, public-spirited and energetic people throughout the country will offer themselves for these positions, even though they may not care for them from the standpoint of the pay involved. He also trusts that employers will deem it their duty to give leave of absence to their employes who may desire to act as enumerators. Some slight sacrifice of this sort will be amply repaid by the improved quality of the census returns. Continuing, the director said:

Should Apply At Once.

"Although the actual work of taking the census will not begin until April 15, it is essential that those who wish to act as enumerators should apply immediately. Except under unusual circumstances, no application received after Jan. 25, will be considered. About 68,006 enumerators will be required. Each will work in his own locality. Any competent person is entitled to apply for this position, and will be fairly considered for appointment.

"Political recommendations are not necessary. The supervisors, to whom application must be made, have been instructed to consider all candidates and to select solely on the basis of efficiency. For the purpose of aiding the supervisors in determining the competence of the candidates, a written test will be prescribed, and any person between the ages of 18 and 70 who is a citizen of the United States will be permitted to take it.

"The test will be of a strictly practical character, substantially the same as was used in 1900. It will consist of filling out a sample schedule of population, and in the case of rural districts, filling out also a sample schedule of agriculture, these schedules being precisely the same as will actually be used by the enumerators in their work later on. In order to assist candidates in preparing for the test, copies of the blank schedules and general instructions regarding the manner of filling them will be furnished to each candidate in advance. Any person of ordinary common-school education and good judgment should have no difficulty in passing.

Test Not Severe.

"This test is not a civil-service examination. It will be conducted under the direction of the supervisors of the census, and the papers will be examined only by the supervisors and by the census bureau. In order that convenient examination places may be provided for all candidates, local civil-service examining boards and postmasters will be called upon to preside at the actual taking of the test in certain cases, but in this respect they will act merely as the representatives of the supervisors of the census.

"It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of obtaining a correct census of the population and agriculture of the country. The correctness of the returns depends wholly upon the competence of the enumerators."

The enumerators will earn about $60 each. Those in the rural districts must complete their work within thirty days, and those in cities of 5,000 and more population at the preceding census within two weeks, from April 15, 1910.

BIG REWARD OFFERED FOR LLOYD MURDERER.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 4.—The city council has offered a reward of $2,500 for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Miss Anna Lloyd, whose mutilated body was found Saturday morning.

Although three suspects have been arrested the police are still without any real clue to the identity of the criminal. The men under arrest are Henry Cook, butcher, James Fields, negro laborer, and George Lewis, steamer engineer, whose home is in Cleveland. The suspects claim they can establish alibis.

I Cured My Rupture

I Will Show You How To Cure Yours FREE!

I was practically helpless and bed-ridden for many years from a double rupture. I wore innumerable different kinds of trusses and appliances. Some of them were tortures, some positively dangerous, and none would hold the rupture in its proper place. The doctors told me I could not expect to have it entirely healed unless I would consent to a surgical operation. I fooled them all, however, and cured myself completely and permanently by a simple method which I discovered. Anyone can use it, and I will gladly send the cure free by mail to anyone who writes for it. Fill out the coupon below and mail it to me today. I will send the cure by return mail, postpaid.

NEW MERGER OF MILLIONS

Morgan, Ryan and Morton Unite $150,000,000 in Resources.

Guaranty Trust Company Is Formed—Morton to Be Chairman.

New York, Jan. 4.—J. Pierpont Morgan, Thomas F. Ryan and Levi P. Morton linked hands in New York yesterday in a trust company merger which united resources of $150,000,000. It is a triple combination bringing the Guaranty Trust company, the Morton Trust company and the Fifth Avenue Trust company, all of this city, under one head with the title of the Guaranty Trust company. The merger is perhaps the largest of its kind in the United States.

Directors of all three companies met and informally approved the terms of the merger, which will be put in more definite form on Wednesday, when another directors' meeting will be held and the plan ratified by the stockholders, although a formal vote on the matter will not be taken until later.

L. P. Morton, Chairman.

Levi P. Morton, who is president of the Morton Trust company and the Fifth Avenue Trust company, both known as Morton-Ryan concerns, has consented to act as chairman of the board of the merged companies for which no president has as yet been selected. The name of Alexander J. Hemphill, vice president and acting president of the Guaranty Trust company has been mentioned for the position, however.

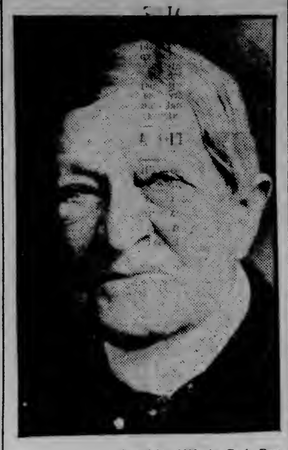

This new move in finance follows the recent absorption of the Guaranty Trust company by the so-called Morgan interests, but upon just what terms the merger was made was not disclosed. The Guaranty Trust company was organized in 1891 and has deposits of more than $88,000,000. The Morton Trust company, which was formerly the banking house of Bliss-Morton & Co., was organized in 1899. Thomas F. Ryan is vice president. Its deposits aggregate more than $45,000,000. Like the Guaranty Trust company, its capital and surplus are $2,000,000 each.

The Fifth Avenue Trust company, founded ten years ago, is one of the better known uptown financial institutions with a capital and surplus of $1,000,000 each. It has payed large dividends of recent years.

Capital May Be $5,000,000.

The capital stock of the new company will probably be fixed at $5,000,000 with a like amount for surplus. It is believed that the merger will involve large stock and cash dividends to the shareholders of the three companies. The present headquarters of the Fifth Avenue Trust company will be retained as a branch of the combined companies, while larger offices will house the combined company in the financial district.

It was rumored that the Morgan interests had acquired the holdings of Thomas F. Ryan in the Morton Trust company, but no statement on this point was obtainable.

TO BEAUTIFY THE BUILDING

Gifts to High School Hereafter Will Conform to Plan.

It seems there is always room for improvement even in a $500,000 high school. Retiring classes in times past have left a remembrance in the form of statuary, although probably no one remembers the donor even though the gift is long-cherished. These occasional contributions have awakened in high school students an interest in art with a capital "A," and hereafter the beautifying of the building will be done systematically.

The Central High School Improvement society has been organized under the direction of Principal George W. Buck. An advisory board from the faculty will aid the students in selecting their contributions.

The senior class met yesterday afternoon when Miss Lois Fee was elected to represent that class in the society.

CANNOT ABSORB LINES.

Effort to Combine Wisconsin Telephone Companies Fails.

Racine, Wis., Jan. 4.—Because the Wisconsin Telephone company could not purchase all the stock of the Citizens Telephone company of this city, the action brought against the former company to restrain it from doing so was, upon agreement, dismissed in circuit court yesterday. The stock, which had been purchased by the Wisconsin Telephone company will be returned to the stockholders.

The case is of importance to all telephone companies in the state, especially to the independent telephone companies, because this was the first effort on the part of the Wisconsin company to absorb the important independent companies in this state.

Identified as Criminal.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—A man known to the police as Edward Heywood, who was shot and killed here New Year's morning by a policeman, after he had robbed a saloon, was identified yesterday as Marion Hedgepeth, notorious safe blower and train robber, who came originally from Prairie Home, Mo.

BITTER FIGHT DEVELOPS BETWEEN TWO FACTIONS IN CANADIAN NORTHERN HEARING BEFORE THE CITY COUNCIL

Charges of Being "Financially Taken Care Of," Are Made.

West Duluthians Accused of Blocking Every Progressive Move.

Speakers Frequently Interrupted By Hoots---Action Is Postponed.

The city council postponed final action upon the Canadian Northern franchise one week, last night, after listening for two hours to the bitterest invective, the most withering sarcasm and the most impassioned speeches from the two factions favoring and opposing the entrance of the road, ever heard in the old council chambers.

Abuse was showered upon the opposing factions. Prominent men were accused of having been "financially taken care of." Alderman Getchell of West Duluth was declared a traitor to his constituents for having helped buy the right-of-way, instead of coming forward to prevent it. Every West Duluthian was put in the Ananias club, and accused of blocking every move for the benefit of the city unless every man, woman and child got a "divvy."

Hoots and jeers were bandied from one side to the other, while cries of "I didn't," "you did," "that's so," "I never did any such thing," interrupted the speakers. President Jordan did not place any time limit upon those who wished to be heard, but several times when men in different parts of the room jumped to their feet to contradict what was being said, he had to force the anxious one to sit down again.

The Bone of Contention.

The fight centered upon the route which shall be followed by the Canadian Northern in coming into the city. The West Duluthians living close to either side of the right-of-way had hired Attorney Bert Fesler to represent them, and were particularly severe in their arraignment of the other side. They protested that the best residence section of that end of town is being spoiled without good cause, asserting that some other less objectionable route should be followed. They suggested that the road come down the hill at Sixtieth avenue west and parallel the tracks of the Northern Pacific eastward to the point near Forty-ninth avenue west, where it dips towards the bay front. They asserted that this was practicable and that the grade would be 1.24 per cent instead of 1.15 per cent, which is secured by the proposed route. Among those who spoke with Mr. Fesler were David Sang, J. J. Frey, A. G. Macauley, Hanson E. Smith and J. D. Hoar.

The other side was represented by H. H. Phelps, Henry Hewitt, J. L. Cromwell and Julius Barnes. They contended that the interests of the entire city should not be injured to satisfy a few West Duluthians on the right-of-way. They contended that the road will tap the great Northwestern empire, helping build up Duluth as no other road now coming into the city. "It will be distinctively a Duluth road," they said.

These people declared that their information was that the route selected was the only one over which the road could make a practicable entrance. They stated that any other would necessitate putting the yards and roundhouses outside. To the surprise of those present Bert Fesler, speaking for the others, said that this would be agreeable to the protestants. He thought they would be satisfied if the other route suggested were taken and the yards built outside. He said that in many cities no yards or terminals have recently been built inside the city, but that belt lines have been built outside to reach terminals.

The pyrotechnics were opened by Mr. Fesler with the first statement he made after taking the floor. "I cannot keep on the trails of serpents," he said. He then went on to explain that he could not be in two places at the same time, and unfortunately he was the only person the protestants had retained to represent them. He asserted that he was at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club, where the matter came up for consideration, adding that a real estate agent was present in the interests of the company trying to get a resolution through there. At the same time, he said, the attorney of the company was at the council meeting working to get the franchise put through. Referring to the recent proceedings of the park board he said that the protestants had no opportunity to be heard.

Not for Good of Duluth.

Mr. Fesler maintained that the road is not coming into Duluth for the good of Duluth. He stated that he observed that railroads generally come into Duluth to benefit themselves. He claimed that it is the business of the railroad and not of the residents to find another route, and he was confident that if the company looked for another route it could find it.

The attitude of past councils was both commended and criticised. He declared that the aldermen were not in the habit of going beneath the surface; that they had never adopted the policy of asking for something better. He didn't think there was any foundation for the expressed fear that if the road did not get just what it had picked out for itself, it could go to Superior and referred to instances in the past when the city had benefited by standing out boldly for its rights.

The first case he mentioned was that of the old Duluth Gas & Water company. He said that the best element declared that it should not be purchased by the city. He spoke of Henry Truelsen's attitude in sticking to one thing. He declared that the company asked $2,106,000 for the plant, but that Truelsen stuck to one price, $1,100,000. "And then the city was cheated," said Mr. Fesler. "It paid more than the plant was worth."

Next he spoke of the Wisconsin Central. He said that when the railroad was told that it could come in under certain conditions, it balked, putting up a strong bluff that it would go to Superior. He said that this was in the face of their legal advisors that it could condemn a way into Duluth.

He mentioned the case of the Duluth-Edison Electric company two years ago, when reduced rates were demanded. He stated that not only did the public affairs committee echo the claim of the company, but that many of the best men in the city took the company's views that it could not reduce rates and live. "But they haven't gone into bankruptcy yet, have they?" he questioned. He told of the company's issuing bonds a short time after the city got the new contract and of its stating in its statements that it had big profits and had a fine contract with the city.

Touching upon the two petitions that have been circulated in West Duluth, he thought that the one that had been circulated in favor of the railroad coming in over the proposed route would not stand rigid inspection. He claimed that some of those on the list had signed twice; that many of the signers were not directly affected, and that numerous others had received emoluments from the railroad in one shape or another.

"Would any railroad be permitted to condemn a route over the hill to the east and come in through Woodland and the East end?" he asked. He declared that some way would be found to stop it, and he challenged any one to show why West Duluth is not entitled to the same consideration as Woodland or the East end.

Mr. Fesler deemed the route he mentioned, paralleling the Northern Pacific tracks from Sixtieth avenue, feasible. He said that he was informed by reliable engineers that the grade would not exceed 1.24 per cent. At this point he said that the tracks would be about fifty feet lower than the present grade, but that the road had ten miles in which to make this up. He didn't think that ceremony should stand in the way of the company making some alterations, such as a change in the ore docks or yards. He stated that the Duluth, Missabe & Northern comes in over a 2 per cent grade and that the cut-off to the new steel plant calls for a 1.9 per cent grade, while the Northern Pacific short line to St. Paul, the old St. Paul & Duluth road, has a grade of 1.75 per cent.

"Refuse the company a franchise over the proposed route and the company will find another way," he said in conclusion. "If it could condemn a way into Duluth, why should it accept any unnecessary burdens? As I understand it, the company was willing, even though the matter were carried into the courts, to incorporate the assessment clause now in the franchise that has been submitted."

H. H. Phelps declared that the interests of the whole city are involved in the entrance of the road, and that the objections of one section should not be allowed to stand in the way. He said that no matter over which route the road came, there would be some one to object, it being impossible not to run counter to the wishes of some one. He asserted that notwithstanding all declarations to the contrary, the road could condemn a right-of-way into Duluth. He spoke of living at West Duluth a block and a half from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, and said that under no consideration would he have the road removed. He didn't think that the ore trains bothered any one on the hillside very much. He was inclined to the opinfon that people exaggerate the harm that will be done by the coming of the road. He referred to the home of Theodore Wellister at Lakeside, which he had built recently near the tracks of the Duluth & Iron Range road. He hoped that the matter would be adjusted amicably. He held that the road will be a Duluth road, contrasting with the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern. He said all that the latter has coming into Duluth is a stub, whereas the Canadian Northern will open the vast possibilities of the Northwest to the Zenith City.

Says Phelps Switched.

Jumping to his feet David Sang, ex-alderman from the Eighth ward, attacked Mr. Phelps hammer and tongs. He said that it was not so very long ago he heard Mr. Phelps make just as strong an address against the road as he made in favor of it last night. He claimed that when told the route over which the road was staked, Mr. Phelps had declared that "If that's so, it's a damn outrage and I'll sell my place and go." He also declared that Mr. Phelps must have been financially taken care of by the railroad. He said that when Mr. Phelps had made his vehement declaration against the road he held some property through which the road passes, but that since then "the influence of McKenzie and Mann, who own the Canadian Northern, had reached him."

Mr. Sang stated that there is a mile between the hill and the river, giving the company room to come in over a different route. He said that if it were a narrow stretch there would be some excuse for its claim that the route it surveyed was the only one that could be used. He was also opposed to going to the courts to recover damages. He said by the time the litigation was finished, those coming into court against the railroad would not have much left. He didn't think the council would grant the franchise if it became fully acquainted with the facts.

Henry Hewitt, who was instrumental in securing signers to the petition favoring the coming of the road, stated that the route is the most feasible that could be selected although he would not say that it was the only route. Among other things he mentioned was the fact that not more than two of the houses over the property taken by the company have basements or modern improvements. "Part of the ground it has secured is nothing but a cow pasture now, and it should be improved," he said.

J. J. Frey went after Mr. Hewitt much in the same manner Mr. Sang referred to Mr. Phelps. He went into personalities and also took a swing at the aldermen, declaring if the council grants the franchise because it was backed by a petition, it would be easy to get up a petition to hang every man in the council. He accused Alderman Getchell of bad faith. He didn't mention his name, but he said that "our alderman" had bought property for the railroad company and helped keep its coming a secret as long as possible. Alderman Getchell is the only alderman in the Eighth ward who is in the real estate business. He also said that Mr. Hewitt had been "financially taken care of," having sold lots to the railroad which cost him $40 for $200.

A Slam at West Duluth.

J. L. Cromwell declared with feeling that West Duluth is worse than the end of creation, because of a backward policy that end of the city has pursued. He said that his only interest in the matter was that he had been appointed chairman of a committee of the Real Estate exchange to investigate the matter and learn the true situation. He wanted the road to come in, and wanted the people of West Duluth knocked over the head, if necessary, using strong expressions to explain just the way he felt over the situation. He said that when at West Duluth not a single figure had been presented to show that the route platted by the company was wrong. He declared that before any enterprise could get support in West Duluth every man, woman and child had to get in on a "divvy."

A. G. Macauley said he wants to see justice done. He was told by a real estate man that he could get $3,000 for his place before the railroad announcement was made, but that after the coming of the road was learned the same dealer told him he couldn't gt more than $2,000, despite the fact that he spent several hundred dollars in the shape of improvements.

Hanson E. Smith stated that it is a mistaken notion to suppose that there are no good homes in West Duluth, saying that that part of Duluth has some that will compare favorably with those in the East end. He claimed that although the road is not abutting his property, its coming will damage him $10,000. But if to change the route meant driving the shops out of town he would rather see the route remain as it is.

Julius Barnes spoke in favor of granting the franchise over the proposed route. He referred to the vast grain belts of Canada that are being opened by this route and predicted that this grain will be stored in Duluth elevators if the road comes into the city. He didn't want to see this business go to some other city.

J. D. Hoar made an appeal for the working man who has invested his all in a home along the route selected by the railroad, and wanted the council to refuse the franchise over the proposed route.

Several amendments were made part of the franchise. One requires the road to consider the bridge at Oneota street under which it passes as a viaduct and to stand all expense connected with rebuilding it and maintaining the approaches. The road is willing, it is said, to stand the expense of the approaches and part of the cost of construction, but does not want to bear it all. When the road goes under it will be necessary to elevate this bridge. Another governs the construction of the trestle between Fifty-ninth avenue and Grand avenue. A third requires a solid fill for the ore tracks from Grand avenue to Oneota street, while the others are of a minor nature. The amendments were the result of a committees meeting in the afternoon.

When the meeting of the public affairs committee at the Commercial club was concluded a large delegation came to the city hall to listen to the discussion of the franchise by the West Duluthians and others interested.

HAS NEARLY FINISHED WORK

Courthouse Commission Will Soon Make Its Final Report.

The courthouse commission, the body which had charge of preliminaries and actual construction work on the new courthouse, held a meeting yesterday and transacted some routine business in the way of allowing estimates on some of the minor contracts.

Although the new building and the task of maintaining it have been turned over to the county building commission, which consists of County Auditor Odin Haldin, County Treasurer W. A. Holgate, and Neil McInnis, chairman of the county board, the courthouse commission will not go out of existence as a body for about a month yet. Before the commission ceases to exist it will have to pay out all money for the construction of the new building, accept all work, release all contractors and close up everything, just as it had to arrange the preliminaries before the actual work of construction was begun.

The courthouse commission has been in existence for nearly two years now and the members have worked hard and conscientiously without compensation. Their work will be completed shortly and they will then make a report to the judges of the district court by whom they were appointed and will be released from further service.

FOUR FIREMEN GIVE UP LIVES

Caught Beneath Falling Walls During a Fire in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 4.—Four firemen lost their lives here last night by being buried underneath falling walls, while fighting a fire in the local plant of the American Bridge company, which suffered a loss of $500,000.

The dead:

CAPT. JOHN J. HENNESSY, Engine Company No. 4, skull crushed.

LIEUT. DOMINICK O'DONNELL, Truck No. 4, skull fractured.

WILLIAM FOLEY, truckman, Engine No. 4, skull fractured.

JOSEPH SULLIVAN, truckman, skull fractured.

The engine company, which suffered all the casualties, was first to arrive and took up its position in front of the building. Without warning, the wall toppled and fell upon the men, and it was thought by the spectators that all of the members of the company met death.

Two bodies of injured men were soon recovered, Foley and Sullivan and Capt. Hennessy and Lieut. O'Donnell, Hennessy and O'Donnell were dead when found, but Foley and Sullivan lived for nearly two hours. The fire was soon under control, for the structure was nearly solid brick and the flames swept through, rapidly destroying the trusswork which knit the walls and roof together.

LADY GORDON MOURNING LOSS OF SMART GOWNS.

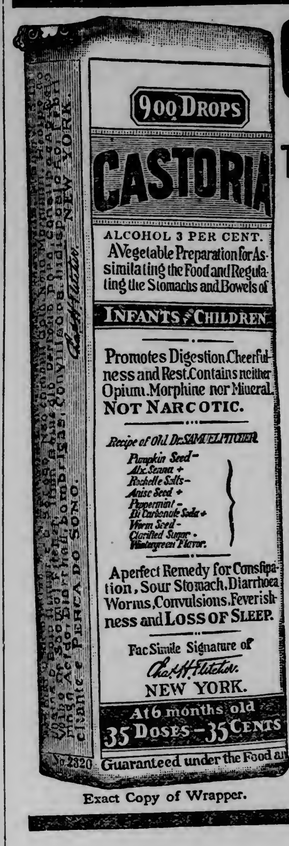

New York, Jan. 4.—Three of the most beautiful gowns in which Lady Duff Gordon expected to appear at several smart functions were discovered to be missing upon her arrival here. The gowns are valued at $2,500 and were taken from among the English lady's effects after she sailed for America.

"I discovered my loss when my trunks were opened," she said, "and it seems curious the robbery could have been committed except by some one who had access to the ship's hold."

Despite the loss of her three favorite gowns, she still has in her wardrobe enough superb creations to make her the most stared-at woman in fashionable New York.

At a dinner party on New Year's eve at the Paul Mortons and later at a party given by Miss Elsie de Wolf the gown in which she appeared was voted to be the most exquisite evening frock seen during the winter.

Foley's Kidney Remedy will cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. It invigorates the entire system and strengthens the kidneys so they eliminate the impurities from the blood. Backache, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles are all cured by this great medicine. Sold by all druggists.

WILL SEEK TO RAISE $200,000 TO SUPPLY CITY WITH FARM PRODUCE

dents of economics and others, whom we have consulted, that produce of this character should be grown within hauling distance of the consumer; and that means, under existing conditions at Duluth, within ten miles of the market places in the city. Non-perishable vegetables may be advantageously grown and marketed for considerable distances up to 100 miles or more. In some cases; and the treatment to be given to these two classes of products must vary accordingly. The one is exclusively the product of the intensified grower; the other in large measure is the product of the farmer and is raised as a part of his scheme of crop production.

Two Zones.

"The country is, therefore, divided as to this matter of vegetable supply into two separate zones—one near the city and extending but a few miles from its central markets, and the other comprising the agricultural territory in St. Louis and adjoining counties.

"The conditions at Duluth, partly delineated above and well understood by you all, are believed to be materially different from those found in any other city in the Northwest. By a natural evolution without central supervision, markets of much merit and advantage to both producer and consumer have become established at St. Paul and Minneapolis. These markets are resorted to by merchants, commission men and consumers for their supplies and an open and free competition exists therein. The prices are determined by the ratio of production to demand. Around those cities there has sprung up a large line of producers who make a satisfactory livelihood by raising produce to be disposed of in these open markets. The number of gardeners there is now fully up to the local demands and some of these producers are looking elsewhere for a more profitable field of labor where the demand for their crops will be keener and, perhaps, command better prices. This is the experience of many of the older cities in the country. The excess of production over the demands of consumers is such at Cincinnati as to reduce the returns of the gardener to bare compensation for labor. At Duluth the reverse of these conditions is found. And your committee believe that a concerted and well organized plan should be adopted, supervised and in part, at least financed by the business interests of this city. This plan should have for its definite purpose the supplying of the city with its perishable supplies—articles which will not stand long transportation without deterioration in quality. For that purpose, some definite business organization must be created after a more thorough study of the situation than your committee have thus far been able to give.

Market Not Restricted.

"It is represented to your committee that 1,500 to 2,000 acres of land devoted to intensive cultivation and glass farming will produce all the vegetables of the class now under consideration, which Duluth could consume, and that when these market gardens are once established, they will naturally expand their operations so as to afford a surplus for shipment to surrounding towns.

"An important feature to be considered in this connection is that of transportation. The hillside upon which Duluth is built, and which must be surmounted in all cases to reach the productive lands away from the lake, constitutes a handicap upon the delivery of supplies and the transportation of fertilizers that must not be overlooked. This hill in effect adds a large per cent to the distance that must be traversed. Modern methods must be brought into requisition to overcome this condition, and your committee believes that the easiest solution at hand is the construction of a suburban line of railway along the public highways to connect with the existing street railway system, which, under recent legislation, is authorized to transport freight originating beyond the borders of the city. Such lines could be built and operated to advantage in different directions.

Clearing the Land.

"One of the preliminaries to the raising of garden produce here is the clearing of the land. This is work to which gardeners are unaccustomed. It would, therefore, be necessary to acquire lands and clear them up ready for use. When this is done, and satisfactory transportation facilities are created, there will be no difficulty in finding purchasers among practical men, who will be glad to engage in the profitable work of growing and delivering such supplies as the locality demands. Elsewhere such lands are purchased and operated profitably by gardeners at a cost of $300 to $500 per acre. At Duluth they could be delivered in good condition for immediate cultivation at a much less sum.

"This subject, as your committee sees it, is not one to be disposed of by a few weeks of investigation and the report of a special committee. It is one that will continue for a long time to come to demand the intelligent attention and effort of the membership of this club, and your committee regards its efforts as but a beginning of the steps that must be taken in order to emancipate Duluth from the handicaps which have been placed upon her as to matters under consideration in this report. The work thus far done will be of no value unless it be treated as an opening wedge merely, in the consideration of this subject, and your committee feels that the Commercial club should call to its aid its very best business material to map out plans and devise methods for the accomplishment of the objects that will be so plainly advantageous to the whole body of the people.

"Michigan street is an aggregation of merchants and commission men handling produce. It is not elemosynary nor educative. It has not been found profitable or convenient for it to take up such questions as are discussed in this report with a view of developing the surrounding country and cheapening the supplies demanded by the people. Producers for many miles around have often sought in vain for a market for the products of their farms and gardens in this city, where remunerative prices seem to prevail. The machinery for handling the unclassified productions of the vicinity has not been brought into existence. The time is now ripe, in the belief of your committee, to take a forward step. There should be organized an open, public market association, in which not only the people of Duluth but the producers of the country about, are to be interested. This association should be organized along lines that will foster production and open ways for the satisfactory disposition of the same, which should be educative in character, and its influence should be toward the securing of the best classes of vegetables prepared for market in the most approved methods. There have already sprung up under the impulse of the agricultural development of this locality farmers' clubs in St. Louis and adjacent counties, which are willing and anxious to co-operate with the people of this city in the establishment of such a market as is herein suggested. The details of a market adapted to this situation are still to be worked out, but once opened, it would afford an outlet for the produce of all classes. The subject has already attracted the serious and even enthusiastic attention of the farmers' clubs in the surrounding country, and there was never a time in the history of Duluth when conditions were so ripe for action along this line as they appear to be today.

"O. H. SIMONDS, Chairman.
"E. A. SCHULZE.
"JOHN G. WILLIAMS.
"A. B. HOSTETTER.
"CHARLES P. CRAIG."

The report of the committee, as will be seen by reading the above, simply discussed conditions and offered no definite solution to the problem.

Following a brief discussion of it, during which Bishop James Morrison, A. B. Siewert, W. J. McCabe, E. A. Schultze and T. W. Hugo spoke, Mr. Williams offered a supplementary report, which he read.

Mr. Williams' Solution.

The report contained the first definite, well planned solution yet offered for the problem. It was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

"The question now before the club is the devising of a method or methods of carrying forward the suggestions of the special committee in the report just adopted. You notice the committee found the territory naturally subdividing itself into two zones. I desire to suggest for the consideration of the committee, a method of developing the nearby zone mentioned in the report. The importance of both zones to this city is great, and no doubt developing the nearby zone will tend in many ways to improve our relations with the other. Indeed, they will to a large degree work out together.

"Adequate development of the perishable vegetable zone necessarily comprehends three main features, and they must each be embodied in any feasible scheme adopted, viz: Land, market and transportation.

"1. Land: There must be enough land secured to make an appreciable impression on this inner zone to begin with, and on the market demands in these green vegetables. The land purchased must be cleared and sold to actual settlers, ready for cultivation. The expert gardeners, special dairymen, poultry raisers, nurserymen and small fruit growers who are going to settle this zone are tillers of the soil, and are not versed in clearing lands, have no equipment for such work, and in most cases, if they undertook it, they would become discouraged and quit, curse the country, and thus retard its development.

"Proposed Solution: We have gathered together for this purpose some 2,000 acres of land, needing no apology as to quality of soil or of surface contour. A thousand acres more adjoining these can be secured, if desired. The lands secured are partly within and partly without the city limits, along the East Duluth and Lester river road. Some 900 acres of these lands are under option expiring the 18th inst. These lands, and as many more as thought best should be purchased forthwith. The price is reasonable, being $250 per acre for 500 acres in the city, and $50 per acre for those outside the city. The clearing operations should be commenced as soon as the snow is off the ground, and carried on on as extensive a scale as can be economically employed, and the lands brought ready for the plow. On about 900 acres of these there is no timber of value, and all of these should be cleared as early as possible. Some of the other lands are quite heavily timbered, mostly with hardwood, consisting of yellow birch, sugar maple, basswood and the like. Much of it will make high-grade merchantable lumber; another portion of it will make lower grade lumber, and the remainder firewood. In addition, there are some thousands of telegraph poles and fence posts, besides quite a quantity of shingle material. The timber and wood products will go a good ways towards clearing the land, and should all be preserved. The lower grade lumber and the posts and shingles, so far as necessary, will be bought by the settlers for the erection of their buildings and the fencing of their lands. All the high-grade lumber and the surplus of the other timber products and firewood will find a ready market in the city. To these ends provisions must be made for the manufacture of this timber into lumber and into shingles.

Sell to Settlers.

"As the lands are brought ready for the plow they should be surveyed and platted according to topography; roads and lanes should be laid out and built according to the contour of the ground. The avoiding of steep grades will be of importance in the future development, and will also add beauty to the landscape. The lands are rolling, and the tracts to a great extent will be irregular and of varying area, say from two and a half acres to forty acres each. These tracts should be sold to experienced truck gardeners, fruit growers, nurserymen, poultrymen and special dairymen. There would be no difficulty in finding buyers for these tracts as thus prepared; and, to begin with at any rate, they should only be disposed of to actual settlers. There are already numerous inquiries for such lands from some of the most experienced men in their respective lines in other cities. It is likely, however, that some of the lands must be sold on easy terms as to payments, but the security will enhance with the improvement, so that the unpaid purchase price is a good investment to carry when the interest on it is regularly paid.

"2. Market. This question is really one of marketing, rather than of market. When this inner zone is brought to the intensive stage of cultivation it is susceptible of, the products will be of great variety and large quantities. The supplying of Duluth and the range towns with perishable vegetables during the summer season and from under glass during the winter season, with, in my judgment, a farm but a small part of it. Very soon there will be a surplus of these, and this surplus must be marketed elsewhere. Indeed, I do not see why from the year 1911 on Duluth should not practically supply its own needs with the perishable vegetables.

"The committee, during the investigation, found that at least three of these vegetables should be grown here to supply outside markets, as well as our own. We found that when grown here they are of superior quality and flavor, owing to the character of the soil and the cool humid climate. These are of almost universal consumption. They are celery, cauliflower and head lettuce. It is well known that the Hartley celery in blanching quality, flavor and crispness is at least the equal of the famous Kalamazoo celery, and much larger in size. Arrowhead and Mr. Hartley owns over one hundred acres of the best celery land, and a large portion of it already under cultivation. Many acres, also, which we have under option are especially adapted to celery culture. As to cauliflower a Duluth man took first prize at the Minnesota state fair in 1908, and again in 1909. As to head lettuce, all who have tried it know to what perfection it develops here. With our soil and our climate, supplemented by expert knowledge of their culture, it is safe to predict that in size and quality these three varieties cannot be surpassed, if equalled, in any other section. After supplying Duluth and the range towns they will be shipped by the carloads to other markets that are even now clamoring for them.

The Canning Industry.

"Again, in this zone the truck gardeners and special dairymen will devote portions of their land each year to the growing of peas and sweet corn to an extent away beyond the necessity of the market for table use at the time they are grown. This excess will be profitably disposed of in one of two ways, or likely some of each, viz., canned green, or matured for seed. Canning industries in these two products will develop naturally as a necessary expansion of truck farming, and as a profitable adjunct of special dairying, and no section of the country can grow them of superior quality of flavor. The state of Wisconsin at the present time leads the country in pea canning industries, and her product commands a premium in the market. Peas can best be grown on land having a good clay subsoil. For this reason Wisconsin canners are now looking to the Lake Superior region, and I think shortly pea culture by these people in Ashland, Bayfield and Douglas counties will be carried on on an extensive scale. Ex-Governor Hoard of Wisconsin, an expert on soil and climate, as well as on crops, has repeatedly written us that pea raising should be encouraged around Duluth, and that he knew of no soil or climate better adapted for it. In Wisconsin the canneries now make large profits out of the by-product of this canning. The pea vines are cut green. The peas are not picked by hand, but are thrashed in what is called a viner. Some of the peas are too young, and some are broken in the vining process. Only the perfect ones are used for canning, the rest go with the thrashed vines to the refuse heap. The vines and imperfect peas are utilized for feed. The most approved method of utilizing them is in the form of silage. It is a highly nitrogenous animal food, and each fall train loads of thin cattle and sheep are bought at Chicago and South St. Paul, and during the winter they are fattened with great success on this pea silage, supplemented with some corn meal or other concentrated food. The result in the spring is an excellent quality of beef and mutton.

"In Minnesota the canning industry is in its infancy. The year 1909 was only the sixth season, and yet in that season the product of the state was over 7,000,000 cans, of which 5,000,000 was corn.

"In this inner belt sweet corn can also be grown of excellent quality for canning purposes. What a great opportunity for Duluth wholesale grocers to distribute peas and corn grown here.

"Canning, as it is developing, is scarcely greater or more promising of profitable returns than that of maturing both peas and sweet corn for seed. Both can be ripened in this zone; and it is well known that the farther north they n ature the better they are, the more they are sought after by seed men, and the higher price they bring in the market.

"Again, experience has shown that this belt is especially adapted for the development of the small fruit. In 1908 and 1909 at the state fair we had an exhibit from this county, which was a veritable object lesson. Strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries, currants and the like ought to be raised here in large quantities. We ought to have one or more nurseries here; and the outlook is promising in this direction. It would be of great benefit to Duluth and the surrounding country to be able to buy acclimated trees, shrubs, plants, and the like.

"In this inner belt, of course, there will also be grown large quantities of the staple vegetables, poultry, eggs, milk, cream, butter, veal, pork, etc., needing careful marketing; so that the marketing is a great question.

A Public Market.

"For marketing generally, the committee became convinced, after investigating conditions elsewhere, that we must have in this city a public market, not as now, spasmodically maintained at the Armory, but permanently with branches established at the West end, West Duluth, and, in the near future, at some point in the vicinity of the coming steel plant. These market places must be arranged where the individual producer who desires to may go and sell his goods himself. The marketing, however, must be on a much broader scale. The committee found that the old method of public marketing by the producer in person is being rapidly displaced by the new and more economical method of co-operation. It found that the new method has at least three distinct advantages over the old. First, the nearby producer, by co-operation, can spend his time more profitably raising his products and preparing them for market, instead of hauling back and forth to market. Second, almost an indefinite area of production can be covered by co-operation, whereas by the old method it is limited to a reasonably driving distance from the market. Third, carlot rates can be secured by producers shipping by railroads or trolley lines. This is an immense saving over shipments in broken lots; and at no point does co-operation show to better advantage than in transportation.

Co-operation.

"Co-operation sentiment is fast growing in this section; and this club must give it fostering care, at least parental supervision and counsel, in the interest of the Duluth consumer and also in the interest of the producer, not only in this inner zone, but in all the section of right belonging to Duluth, in Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin. The St. Louis County club is actively engaged on this work now. The meetings to be held at this club on the 18th and 19th of this month should be productive of much good. It is a good sign, also, that the farmers in adjoining counties are co-operating and are eager to join the movement in this county. All of this is of the utmost importance to Duluth; not only will it aid in solving the problem of living here, and making the city develop as a manufacturing center, but will also have far-reaching effect on the commerce of the city. The farmer who markets his products in Duluth will, almost as a matter of course, make it his banking and buying center, also. Think what this will mean to the bankers and merchants of the city when this section is peopled as it will be, and they do their selling, buying and banking here.

Transportation.

3. Transportation: This is as vital as cleared land on the one hand, and good marketing facilities on the other. The hill back of this city are hard to overcome; and some power other than animal power must be secured. The products of this belt must be brought to market quickly and at reasonable rates. In a short time they will form a large volume. Then, again, the merchandise originating in this city, destined to this inner zone, must be delivered to the inhabitants quickly, and at reasonable rates. Notwithstanding that these lands have all their virgin fertility in them, yet intensive cultivation and the raising of large crops will before long exhaust it. Methods must, therefore, be devised to prevent this exhaustion. The buying of commercial fertilizers is expensive. Tens of thousands of tons of valuable fertilizers in the form of garbage are wasted or burned each year in this city. They can be gotten for the hauling, but up to date the hills have proved too serious an obstacle to overcome. Adequate transportation must embody the feature of removing to this section the fertilizers that are now going to waste in the city. It is done in all other cities where adjoining truck gardening is successfully pursued.

"Proposed Solution: The last session of the legislature passed an act authorizing street railway companies to permit the freight and passenger cars of suburban railway companies to use the street railway tracks in reaching central points in the cities, two conditions being imposed: First, that the cars and equipment of the suburban line be substantially like the cars and equipment of the street railway lines; second, that the arrangement between the two railway companies be approved by the common council of the city. Under this law it is proposed to organize a suburban railway company, and, with the consent of the common council, enter into an agreement with the street railway company of this city for the use of its tracks. The terms of this agreement have, in the main, been agreed upon, and details of operation, etc., are now being worked out, ready to be embodied in a written contract. Under this arrangement the suburban line will reach the several main portions of the city for the discharging and receiving of freight; and provisions will also be made for the convenient handling of passenger and express traffic between the city and this outlying section. It is proposed to connect with the Woodland line of the street railway company at a point near Hardy street, in the Glen Avon division, then follow the Snively road northeasterly to a point at or near the East Duluth and Lester river road, then proceed north along or near this road as far as the Magie corner, on the center of the west line of section 6, 51-13. The total length from the connection near Hardy street will be about seven and a half miles. Surveys and profiles have been made for the road, and it is found that the steepest grade is about 6½ per cent, and that only for a distance of some 400 feet.

The First Unit.

"The above is my suggestion for the first unit of development of the inner one. The working out of this unit will doubtless show the practicability of tapping it from other portions of the city; or it may be that this unit will expand so as to include the whole zone. These are matters which the future will develop.

"Now, if these suggestions are adopted, how is it going to be carried out? Under our law there is but one way, and that is by private enterprise. At the outset, I want to say that the investment will be safe and profitable in and of itself, in addition to being of incalculable benefit to this city.

"There should be a corporation organized; and I have prepared articles ready for signature. It is called the Duluth Garden company. The general nature of its business is set forth as follows:

"'The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be to buy, sell, improve and lease lands, tenements and hereditaments in the state of Minnesota, and especially to acquire lands in the county of St. Louis in said state; to sell said lands to actual settlers, and to further the settlement, improvement and intensive cultivation of lands in the vicinity of the city of Duluth and elsewhere in said county; and to purchase, own and dispose of the stocks, bonds or other obligations of railroad or other corporations engaged in enterprises designed to encourage and further the settlement and improvement of lands in said territory; and to do all things necessary or incidental to the above named purposes.'

"This company should buy these lands, clear, survey and plat them, build such roads and lanes as shall be necessary to connect the several tracts with suburban line and the main highways. It should in some manner arrange for the manufacture of the timber on the lands. This is the parent company, and in order to have proper backing for the suburban railway, it is proposed that this parent company shall own all of the stock of the railway company, except sufficient to qualify its directors; and shall advance to the railway company sufficient money to build and equip its road.

"To this end I have prepared, ready for signatures, Articles of Incorporation of a Suburban line, under the name of Duluth & Northern Traction company. The general nature of its business is thus explained in the Articles:

"'The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be to build, own, lease, equip and operate one or more lines of electric or other railway for the transportation of persons and property from some convenient point or points in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, to such point or points in the territory surrounding the said city of Duluth, as may be deemed convenient or necessary in the settlement and development of such surrounding territory; and to facilitate communication and promote commerce between such territory and said city; also to acquire, lease and own all real and personal property necessary or convenient for the purposes aforesaid, and for the building and operation of any such line or lines of railway.'

"The parent company, you notice, is also authorized by its articles to hold the stock or bonds of other corporations which may be engaged in developing this section. The idea is that a canning factory, a nursery, or some institution of that character, might desire Duluth capital identified with it, and this would enable the parent company to take stock, for instance, in part payment for lands, or otherwise, if such step be thought best by its board of directors.

"From the above brief outline it will be seen that the parent company is the real force; that it will buy and prepare for cultivation the lands; that it will own and finance the transportation company, and may aid other corporations in the development of this section. It will, also, of necessity be interested in the marketing facilities. This, however, must be done, as I view it, by a separate organization or association; but the parent company will be in a position to aid it to the extent deemed best by the board of directors.

The Money Needed.

"I estimate that it will require, sooner or later, not less than $200,000 to properly finance the parent company, payment on subscriptions to be made subject to call of the board of directors, as the necessities arise. Between now and spring or early summer, its needs would be about as follows:

For cash payments on lands	$40,000
To be available for clearing lands and lumbering operations	30,000
To be available for the use of the railroad	30,000
Total	$100,000

"The cash payments on the lands must be made very shortly, for the option on a large part of them expires the 18th of this month.

"As to the railroad, much can be saved by securing the ties at once, and distributing them along the proposed right-of-way before the snow disappears; and possibly some work on the right-of-way could be done to advantage before the frost is out of the ground.

"As to the clearing, it ought to commence as soon as the snow is off the ground, regardless of frost. The first clearing would naturally be on section 36, 51-14, inside the city limits. It is high ground, and can be cleared with comparative ease.

"Should the plan above outlined be approved by this committee, either in whole or in part, I would be pleased to furnish any information in my possession to any committee appointed to carry out the scheme. Yours truly,

"JOHN G. WILLIAMS."

At the conclusion of the report W. B. Patton moved that it be accepted and that the committee pledge itself to do all in its power to bring this result about. This motion was carried, but on a motion by Julius H. Barnes it was reconsidered. "I do not wish to sound a discordant note," said Mr. Barnes, "but it strikes me that this committee is going before the people in a rather unbusinesslike way. We ask them to subscribe $200,000 to a proposition which we have not thoroughly investigated. If such a plan were put to me, I would want to know the value of those lands, the earning capacity of the road, the cost of construction, and many other details. I would move as an amendment that the chairman appoint a committee to investigate this plan and prepare a prospectus concerning it and giving the details of it. When this prospectus has been prepared, and it should be done at once, as the option on some of these lands expires on Jan. 18, the chairman can appoint another committee to assist Mr. Williams in securing stock subscriptions to it. Our recommendation should be something more than a mere formal vote on the subject. If we are going to stand behind this plan, we should do so in some other way than to simply indorse it blindly."

Mr. Williams promptly seconded Mr. Barnes' amendment, and it was carried unanimously.

Mr. Schulze suggested that the open market proposition was being lost sight of in the discussion, and urged that immediate steps be taken to establish such a market to be open for twelve months in the year to receive shipments of produce from the many farmers' clubs now being organized by Mr. Hostetter. The chairman stated in reply that this subject would be thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the County club on Jan. 18, when the committee from the Commercial club would get together with the committee from the County club and work out the details of the plan for a co-operative market.

Don't Weep At The Ice House.

Some people swell up on "emotion" brewed from absolute untruth.

It's an old trick of the leaders of the Labor Trust to twist facts and make the "sympathetic ones" "weep at the ice house." (That's part of the tale further on.)

Gompers et al sneer at, spit upon and defy our courts, seeking sympathy by falsely telling the people the courts were trying to deprive them of free speech and free press.

Men can speak freely and print opinions freely in this country and no court will object, but they cannot be allowed to print matter as part of a criminal conspiracy to injure and ruin other citizens.

Gompers and his trust associates started out to ruin the Bucks Stove Co., drive its hundreds of workmen out of work and destroy the value of the plant without regard to the fact that hard earned money of men who worked, had been invested there.

The conspirators were told by the courts to stop these vicious "trust" methods, (efforts to break the firm that won't come under trust rule), but instead of stopping they "dare" the courts to punish them and demand new laws to protect them in such destructive and tyrannous acts as they may desire to do. * * * The reason Gompers and his band persisted in trying to ruin the Bucks Stove Works was because the stove company insisted on the right to keep some old employees at work when "de union" ordered them discharged and some of "de gang" put in.

Now let us reverse the conditions and have a look.

Suppose the company had ordered the union to dismiss certain men from their union and, the demand being refused, should institute a boycott against that union, publish its name in an "unfair list," instruct other manufacturers all over the United States not to buy the labor of that union, have committees call at stores and threaten to boycott if the merchants sold anything made by that union. Picket the factories where members work and slug them on the way home, blow up their houses and wreck the works, and even murder a few members of the boycotted union to teach them they must obey the orders of "organized Capital?"

It would certainly be fair for the company to do these things if lawful for the Labor Trust to do them.

In such a case, under our laws the boycotted union could apply to our courts and the courts would order the company to cease boycotting and trying to ruin these union men. Suppose thereupon the company should sneer at the court and in open defiance continue the unlawful acts in a persistent, carefully laid out plan, purposely intended to ruin the union and force its members into poverty. What a howl would go up from the union demanding that the courts protect them and punish their law-breaking oppressors. Then they would praise the courts and go on earning a living protected from ruin, and happy in the knowledge that the people's courts could defend them.

How could any of us receive protection from law-breakers unless the courts have power to, and do punish such men.

The court is placed in position where it must do one thing or the other—punish men who persist in defying its peace orders or go out of service, let anarchy reign and the more powerful destroy the weaker.

Peaceable citizens sustain the courts as their defenders, whereas thieves, forgers, burglars, crooks of all kinds and violent members of labor unions, hate them and threaten violence if their members are punished for breaking the law. They want the courts to let them go free and at the same time demand punishment for other men "outside de union" when they break the law. * * * Notice the above reference is to "violent" members of labor unions. The great majority of the "unheard" union men are peaceable, upright citizens. The noisy, violent ones get into office, and the leaders of the great Labor Trust know how to mass this kind of men, in labor conventions and thus carry out the leaders' schemes, frequently abhorrent to the rank and file: so it was at the late Toronto convention.

The paid delegates would applaud and "resolute" as Gompers wanted, but now and then some of the real workingmen insist on being heard sometimes at the risk of their lives.

Delegate Egan is reported to have said at the Toronto convention:

"If the officers of the federation would only adhere to the law we would think a lot more of them."

The Grand Council of the Provincial Workingmen's Ass'n of Canada has declared in favor of severing all connection with unions in the U. S., saying "any union having its seat of Gov't in America, and pretending to be international in its scope, must fight industrial battles according to American methods. Said methods have consequences which are abhorrent to the law-abiding people of Canada involving hunger, misery, riot, bloodshed and murder, all of which might be termed a result of the practical war now in progress in our fair province and directed by foreign emissaries of the United Miners of America."

That is an honest Canadian view of our infamous "Labor Trust."

A few days ago the daily papers printed the following:

(By the Associated Press.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Characterizing the attitude of Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor in the contempt proceedings in the courts of the District of Columbia, in connection with the Bucks' Stove and Range company, as "a willful, premeditated violation of the law," Simon Burns, general master workman of the general assembly, Knights of Labor, has voiced a severe condemnation of these three leaders. Mr. Burns expressed his confidence in courts in general and in those of the District of Columbia in particular.

APPROVED BY DELEGATES.

This rebuke by Burns was in his annual report to the general assembly of his organization. He received the hearty approval of the delegates who heard it read at their annual meeting in this city.

"There is no trust or combination of capital in the world," said Mr. Burns, "that violates laws oftener than do the trust labor organizations, which resort to more dishonest, unfair and dishonorable methods toward their competitors than any trust or combinations in the country."

Mr. Burns said the action of "these so-called leaders" would be harmful for years to come whenever attempts were made to obtain labor legislation.

"The Labor Digest," a reputable workingman's paper, says, as part of an article entitled "The beginning of the end of Gompersism, many organizations becoming tired of the rule-or-ruin policies which have been enforced by the president of the A. F. of L."

"That he has maintained his leadership for so long a time in the face of his stubborn clinging to policies which the more thoughtful of the workingmen have seen for years must be abandoned, has been on account partly of the sentimental feeling on the part of the organizations that he ought not to be deposed, and the unwillingness of the men who were mentioned for the place, to accept a nomination in opposition to him. In addition to this, there is no denying the shrewdness of the leader of the A. F. of L., and his political sagacity, which has enabled him to keep a firm grip on the machinery of the organization, and to have his faithful henchmen in the positions where they could do him the most good whenever their services might be needed.

"Further than this, he has never failed, at the last conventions, to have some sensation to spring on the convention at the psychological moment, which would place him in the light of a martyr to the cause of unionism, and excite a wave of sympathetic enthusiasm for him, which would carry the delegates off their feet, and result in his re-election.

"That his long leadership, and this apparent impossibility to fill his place has gone to his head, and made him imagine that he is much greater a man than he really is, is undoubtedly the case, and accounts for the tactics he has adopted in dealing with questions before congress, where he has unnecessarily antagonized men to whom organized labor must look for recognition of their demands, and where labor measures are often opposed on account of this very antagonism, which would otherwise receive support.

"There is no doubt but what organized labor in this country would be much stronger with a leader who was more in touch with conditions as they actually exist, and who would bring to the front the new policies which organized labor must adopt if it expects to even maintain its present standing, to say nothing of making future progress."

We quote portions of another article, a reprint, from the same labor paper:

"Organized labor, through its leaders, must recognize the mistakes of the past if they expect to perpetuate their organizations or to develop the movement which they head. No movement, no organization, no nation can develop beyond the intellects which guide these organizations, and if the leaders are dominated by a selfish motive the organization will become tinged with a spirit of selfishness, which has never appealed to mankind in any walk of life at any time since history began.

"It can be said in extenuation of certain leaders of organized labor that the precarious position which they occupy as leaders has had a tendency to cause them to lose sight of the object behind the organization. The natural instinct in man for power and position is in no small measure responsible for the mistakes of the leaders, not necessarily in labor unions alone, but in every branch of society. This desire for power and leadership and personal aggrandizement causes men who have been earnest and sincere in their efforts in the start to deteriorate into mere politicians whose every act and utterance is tinged with the desire to cater to the baser passions of the working majority in the societies or organizations and this is undoubtedly true when applied to the present leaders of the Federation. We mention the Federation of Labor particularly in this article because that organization is the only organization of labor which has yet found itself in direct opposition to the laws of the land. There are other organizations of labor whose leaders have made mistakes, but they have always kept themselves and their organizations within the bounds of the law and respected the rights of every other man in considering the rights of themselves and the constituency; whereas, the motto of the federation is just the reverse, and unless the leaders conform themselves and their organization in accordance with the laws of the land, the leaders and the organization itself must be disintegrated and pass into history, for in America the common sense in mankind is developed to a greater extent than in any other nation on the earth, and the people, who are the court of last resort in this country, will never allow any system to develop in this country which does not meet with the approval of the majority of the citizens of the country.

"This must have forced itself upon the leaders of the Federation by this time. If it has not, the leaders must be eliminated. The organization which they head has done many meritorious things in times past and the people are always ready and willing to acknowledge the benefits which their efforts have brought to their constituency as a whole, but at the present time labor organizations in general, and the Federation of Labor in particular, stand before the bar of public opinion, having been convicted of selfishness and a disposition to rule all the people of the country in the interest of the few. The people are patient and awaiting to see if the object lesson which they have been forced to give these leaders is going to be recognized and if they are going to conform themselves and their future work and actions in accordance thereto."

Let the people remember that comment, "The Federation of Labor in particular stands before the bar of public opinion having been convicted of selfishness and a disposition to rule all the people of the country in the interest of the few."

The great 90 per cent of Americans do not take kindly to the acts of tyranny by these trust leaders openly demanding that all people bow down to the rules of the Labor Trust and we are treated to the humiliating spectacle of our Congress and even the Chief Executive entertaining these convicted law-breakers and listening with consideration to their insolent demands that the very laws be changed to allow them to safely carry on their plan of gaining control over the affairs of the people.

The sturdy workers of America have come to know the truth about these "martyrs sacrificing themselves in the noble cause of labor" but it's only the hysterical ones who swell up and cry over the aforesaid "heroes," reminding one of the two romantic elderly maids who, weeping copiously, were discovered by the old janitor at Mt. Vernon.

"What is it ails you ladies?"

Taking the handkerchief from one swollen red eye, between sobs she said:

"Why we have so long revered the memory of George Washington that we feel it a privilege to come here and weep at his tomb."

"Yas'm, yas'm, yo' shore has a desire to express yo' sympathy but yo' are overflowin' at the wrong spot, yo' is weepin' at de ice house."

Don't get maudlin about law-breakers who must be punished if the very existence of our people is to be maintained.

If you have any surplus sympathy it can be extended to the honest workers who continue to earn food when threatened and are frequently hurt and sometimes killed before the courts can intervene to protect them.

Now the Labor—Trust leaders demand of Congress that the courts be stripped of power to issue injunctions to prevent them from assaulting or perhaps murdering men who dare earn a living when ordered by the Labor Trust to quit work.

Don't "weep at the Ice House" and don't permit any set of law-breakers to bully our courts, if your voice and vote can prevent. Be sure and write your Representatives and Senators in Congress asking them not to vote for any measure to prevent the courts from protecting homes, property and persons from attack by paid agents of this great Labor Trust.

Let every reader write, and write now.

Don't sit silent and allow the organized and paid men of this great trust to force Congress to believe they represent the great masses of the American people. Say your say and let your representatives in Congress know that you do not want to be governed under new laws which would empower the Labor Trust leaders with legal right to tell you when to work, Where! For whom! At what price! What to buy! What not to buy! Whom to vote for! How much you shall pay per month in fees to the Labor Trust! etc., etc., etc.

This power is now being demanded by the passage of laws in Congress. Tell your Senators and Representatives plainly that you don't want them to vote for any measure that will allow any set of men either representing Capital or Labor to govern and dictate to the common people, who prefer to be free to go and come, work or not, and vote for whom they please.

Every man's liberty will disappear when the leaders of the great Labor Trust or any other trust can ride rough shod over people and mass their forces to prevent our courts from affording protection.

"There's a Reason."

IDENTITY OF A CHINAMAN

Will Have to Be Decided By U. S. Court Commissioner.

"You are Sue Sin Chung," say the federal authorities to a little Chinaman in the county jail.

"Wlong, wlong, all wlong," replied the dapper Oriental. "Me be Moie Bing, Cainee merchant man."

Sue Sin Chung, or Moie Bing, was arrested at the instance of Immigration Inspector Dean. Chung will have a hearing on Friday before U. S. Commissioner T. H. Presnell. The Chinaman denies that he is an alien. He claims that he was born in San Francisco, of Chinese parents.

SCOTCH NOW MAY JOIN HIBERNIANS.

Dublin, Jan. 4.—There is much interest here in the announcement of the removal of the ban against the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Scotland. Hitherto Catholics in Scotland were forbidden to join the order. Now, however, Cardinal Rampolla, who is a member of the consistory congregation of the Vatican, writes to say that in view of the revision of the rules the order may be tolerated. The effect of the removal of the ban will be to strengthen the order in Ireland.

COLLEGE GIRLS SAVE TROUSSEAU FROM FIRE.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 4.—The residence of Bishop Mills Haugh of the Episcopal diocese of Kansas was destroyed by fire yesterday. The house was filled with guests, who were here to attend the marriage of Miss Nellis, the bishop's daughter, to Harold Copeland tonight. Most of the wedding presents and the bride's trousseau were saved by girls from Bethany college.

OILS HIS REVOLVER WITH NITROGLYCERINE.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 4.—With his jawbone broken, one hand blown off, and his face frightfully burned and mutilated, John Gregory, a Wayne county farmer, was found by neighbors who rushed into his room yesterday following an explosion. Gregory had oiled his revolver with nitro glycerine by mistake, and snapped the hammer. Physicians pronounce Gregory's injuries not fatal.

Improvement In Health.

Washington Jan. 4.—Officials of the public health and marine hospital service here are congratulating themselves on the fact that during the past calendar year there was a general and marked improvement in the public health conditions throughout the United States. Not only was there no yellow fever in the United States, bu there was an absence of that dread disease in the Latin-American countries.

Aged Wedding Couple.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—A marriage license was issued here to Daniel Ainsworth, 71 years old, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Phoebe Maria Haynes, also aged 71 years, of Oberlin, Ohio. Mr. Ainsworth, who applied for the license, appeared to the marriage license clerk to be a man of military bearing and prosperous. He said nothing about the time and place of the wedding.

Died From Injuries.

New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Charles Ellis, who was burned when her gown caught fire during the New Year's celebration in a Fifth avenue restaurant, died yesterday.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

FEELING IS GROWING THAT JEFFRIES CANNOT COME BACK FOR HIS FIGHT WITH JOHNSON

Many Believe He Cannot Get Into Condition--- Walter Camp, Author, Financier, and Sporting Expert.

(BY BRUCE)

If there is one question that is exciting the interest of the sporting world more than any other, it is the momentous question as to whether James J. Jeffries can "come back."

James J. Corbett has undertaken to tell the world whether Jeffries can come back. No man in the world can tell the public whether the giant from the Pacific coast can re-enter the ring and be nearly as good a man as he was when he retired, some six years ago.

There is a feeling, almost akin to fear, that the colored man will beat his white adversary.

When the day comes for the greatest battle of a decade, there will be many wondering whether Jeffries has reached a stage anywhere approaching the wonderful physical condition he was in the last time he fought Jim Corbett. He was right at the zenith of his powers then, and the only question now seems whether he can come back to a state anywhere near that of some years ago.

It is a question that is becoming more intense with the passing of every day.

Jeff has been seen in Chicago and Milwaukee of late. In neither of those two cities do the sporting writers seem to have the least opinion as to whether the big man is in any kind of physical shape. It is a cinch that Jeff is not in the best shape in the world, or that he does not look in any too good condition, either, or the sporting writers around the country would be waving compliments at the white race.

There is slowly creeping up a belief that the white man cannot get into the proper kind of condition. In some quarters it has amounted to conviction. Why does Jeffries only box three short rounds with Berger? He has been taking exercise now for some months, and according to the best reports, the big fellow has a bad spell of puffing whenever he tries to hit up the pace.

Why is Johnson so cocky? He believes Jeff is all in. Johnson never did like punishment, and if he was going to face the Jeff who beat Corbett at San Francisco, he would know down in his heart that he would have to take punishment at some time during the fight.

Every one is attempting to answer it. Don't take too seriously any stuff that Jim Corbett is telling over the country. That stuff is the same old bunk that has been peddled before. John L. Sullivan was handed his. They are all in the best of condition before they are beaten. Then we hear the "never should have fought" stuff.

There are a lot of people wonder what kind of a chap Walter Camp is. A college man, a Yale man was giving a very good description of the man. He told some very interesting things about the man who is the practical head of the football system at Yale.

This Yale man says Walter Camp is a "horseshoe guy." You know what that is, do you not, Algernon? It means that he was born with horseshoes around his neck. That he is lucky, that things break nicely for him.

Walter is a bright and progressive chap. He worked in a bank and made a great rep in his early Yale days. Then he was offered the position of the presidency of the New Haven Clock company. That is the position Walter holds at the present time. It is said that the first year Walter was at the head of the company it paid a 7 per cent divident. For bringing the affairs of the company up to such a state of perfection, Walter was given a nice addition to his salary and a nice bonus, a kind of "Y" in finance. He had made his athletic "Y" before entering business.

You will be surprised when you read this—Mr. Camp plays golf. Played it before the president took it up, too. Bet you, Walter is no imitator. He has patented a device for holding your golf stick in the proper manner. Doesn't want the money for the device, just likes to give them away to some man who is making a blooming mess of the drive, don't you know? Awfully considerate of Walter.

Besides the very nice salary Mr. Camp makes in the clock business, he makes a lot of money out of the books he writes on the fascinating subject of football. He is the editor of Spalding's football guide and in addition to this writes for all the standard publications. They say his wife does some of his literary work.

Mr. Camp is as young in athletic spirit as the most verdant freshman at Yale. He wears young clothes and nice, up to date, low shoes. He is an athletic chap and keeps in the best of condition. He combines business with pleasure, for when he comes West to see some of the teams in this glorious section of the country perform, he also sees that he gets in some business.

As an industrious man and one who is ever on the job of being alert, it would seem as if Walter Camp, business man, financial wizard, inventor, head coach, editor, frequent contributor and all round adviser on things in general at Yale, would make Teddy Roosevelt get up half an hour earlier in the beautiful morning.

Rutt and Clark have won another six-day bicycle race. They are getting into a kind of a Rutt.

* * *

In a highly literary article, Frank Gotch tells why he is great, how he is great, and how he beat the other fellows and what he thinks of them. Surely this must be consoling to the also-wrestled clan.

* * *

Some Poles greeted Zybszko at the station at Buffalo with affectionate kisses. Then Zippy went on and threw Fred Beell. Wonder did little Freddy have no one to lend kissing courage to him?

* * *

It is said that Bob Fitzsimmons will journey to Egypt and attempt to hook up with the champion of that country.

* * *

Charley White wants a return battle with Abe Attell. What a foolish boy. He should read what happens to most of the foolish little fellows who fight Able the second time.

Jeffries told the people of Chicago that he was of the West, liked the West and thought Chicago was the best city in the country—so representative, so strong, etc. It would be a shame to double column what he said about New York—if the people of Chicago were to read it. Jeffries seems inured to taking desperate chances.

* * *

William Randolph Hearst is the name of a running horse. He was named after a running man.

* * *

When tonsolitis Tommy Ryan discovered Jeffries was not going to engage him as a trainer he stated Jim had no chance to win the fight. Would he have told Jeff that if he had been paid for it?

CENTRAL WINS FROM SODALITY

High School Boys Defeat St. Clement's at Basket Ball.

The Central high school advanced a step in the direction of the city basket ball championship last evening by the defeat of the St. Clement's Young Men's Sodality basket ball team by the score of 37 to 20.

The game was played at St. Clement's hall, which is to small for the proper regulations of basket ball to be observed properly. Two 20-minute halves were played, Father Raymond and Ray Deetz acting as officials.

For the high school Waldron was the bright particular luminary, shooting sixteen points by his fast offensive work. The all-round work of Capt. Larry Boyle also featured the play of the winning team. "Morrie" Harris also played fast ball for the Centrals.

Owens threw thirteen of the points scored by the losers, and Lavel's playing was very clever and fast. The play of the two teams was fast and at times brilliant.

Last night's work strengthens the belief that the Duluth Central team has an excellent chance for the state high school championship. The team has been improving rapidly of late, and with more practice and coaching the team will give any high school team a hard game.

The Centrals will play Hibbing Saturday. The range boys are said to have a very fast team this season.

The lineup last evening was:

High School	Position.	Sodality.
Waldron	c	Owens
Boyle	f	Lavell
Harris	f	Wade
Johnson, Kelly	g	Miller, Emerson
Solheim	g	Arimond

Murphy Denies Charge.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4.—Neither Charles P. Taft, the brother of the president, nor Charles W. Murphy, of the Chicago Nationals, owns stock in the Philadelphia club of the National league, according to a signed statement issued by Mr. Murphy here. Mr. Murphy also made the statement that he does not know who are the backers of President Horace Fogel of Philadelphia.

AMENDMENT IS REFUSED

Request of Minor Leagues Turned Down By National Commission.

Players Purchased By Minors Must Report Before Sept. 1.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 4.—In a decision reached by Thomas J. Lynch president of the National league, Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league, and August Hermann of Cincinnati, composing the national baseball commission, the commission denied the request of Class C and D leagues for an amendment of the rule concerning the purchase of minor league players. The attention of the commission was called to the case by J. H. Farrell, secretary of the National association who submitted a resolution offerer at the recent meeting held at Memphis by the Class C and D leagues requesting that rule 26 be amended so that minor league players can be purchased by one minor league club from another without having such players report to the purchasing club on or before the commencement of the major league drafting season.

As the rule now stands, when minor league players are purchased by one minor league club from another, and they do not report by Sept. 1, they are subject to draft from the clubs that they are with on Aug. 20.

The commission in its ruling says:

"We reiterate that if the rule was changed so as to cover the request as now made, it would be detrimental not only to the major league and Class C clubs, but all players operating under organized baseball as well.

"The statement recently issued by the national commission shows the amounts expended by major league clubs alone during the past year for drafted and purchased players to be about $300,000, and in addition to this, if all the players in question are to be retained, payments amounting to practically $64,000 additional are made. This shows that the minor league interests have been fully protected. The request of the Class C and D leagues is therefore refused."

WOULD STOP LEAKS.

National League Club Meets—Want Secrecy Regarding Waivers.

New York, Jan. 4.—The National league club owners are now taking a mail vote on the question whether a manager or president shall be required to keep secret the requests for waivers on his players sent him by other clubs.

There has been complaint from some clubs that the present practice does them damage by giving away their plans in advance.

A circular letter also has been sent out by President Lynch of the National league asking club owners to fix dates when their teams will have to carry only twenty-five players and when thirty-five. When the National league clubs adopted a resolution last month to have a limit of thirty-five men during the off season and of twenty-five later, no dates were specified.

Elis Defeat Cornell.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 4.—The Yale hockey team defeated Cornell 4 to 2 here last night, thus winning two out of a possible three games of the series being played here.

Racing Dead on Coast.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—Thomas H. Williams, president of the new California Jockey club, set at rest all speculation as to whether a race meet will be attempted at Santa Anita park this season, in a telegram to a sporting man here last night.

"I do not think there is any chance for racing at Santa Anita this winter or spring," said Williams.

"DOC" ROLLER WRESTLING WITH JOB'S CURSE.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Dr. B. F. Roller, the Seattle wrestler, is in a serious condition at the Mercy hospital, threatened with blood poison. He underwent an operation yesterday. Dr. Roller had been suffering with boils for a week, but paid little attention to them until today. He kept on wrestling until he found that the boils were becoming infected.

Hockey Season Opens.

Tonight's hockey game between the Adams and the Northern Juniors will bring out some of the very fastest hockey players in the city. The Adams team has gathered some of the strongest players in Duluth, with the idea of maintaining their winning streak in general athletics. The Northern Juniors, however, are looked upon as the winners of the contest tonight.

The lineup of the two teams:

Northern Jun.	Position.	Adams.
McFadyen	c	Adams
Harbison	r	R. Olson
Taylor	rw	Crozier
S. McRae	lw	Rankin
Holgate. Caulkins.	cp	Ed Nelson
R. McRae	p	Pearling
Feetham	g	Wallin

DULUTH RIDERS BEATEN AT MINNEAPOLIS MEET.

Ole Feiring did not fare very well in the ski tournament held in Minneapolis last Sunday. The Duluth man secured third place in the first Northwestern meet of the year. Oscar Gunderson of Chippewa Falls, national champion, securing first place and T. Hammesvelth, second place. John Evenson of Duluth was fourth.

The following standing indicates the work done by the jumpers:

	First jump.	Second jump.	Points.
Oscan Gunderson	90	94	220
T. Hammesevelth	91	93	217 2-3
Ole Feiring	88	93	216
John Evenson	90	92	215 2-3
Andrew Haugen	90	92	215 2-3
Lars Haugen	90	90	214 1-3

Longest standing jump—Oscar Gunderson, 96 feet.

HAVE RAISED OVER $1,600

National Ski Tournament at Coleraine to Be Great Success.

It is now assured that the national ski tournament to be held in Coleraine Feb. 19 and 20 will be the biggest affair of its kind ever held in America.

A meeting of the club members and of the committee in charge of arrangements was held at Bovey Sunday. It was found that over $1,600 has already been contributed toward the construction of the new steel slide. Subscriptions are still coming in.

James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern road, sent his check for $25, and practically every citizen in the vicinity has contributed toward making the tournament the greatest ever held in this country.

It is expected that the big steel slide will arrive the present week. The American bridge crew will have charge of its erection, and once the steel is on the ground it will not require long to put the slide in place.

JOHN RUDD,
Who Will Perform His Sensational Feat at Coleraine.

Governor A. O. Eberhart has been asked to be at the tournament on the closing day, and the Coleraine committee has been practically assured that the chief executive will accept the invitation.

At the present time invitations are being sent to ski riders in all parts of the country. Duluth ski riders are looking forward to the Coleraine meet as there are at least two of the crack riders of the Duluth Ski club who will go after the American championship.

John Evenson and Ole Feiring are confident that they will be able to wrest the laurels from Oscar Gunderson of Chippewa Falls, Wis., who last year won the national championship.

John Rudd, the Duluth ski rider who does the sensational somersault on skis, will be present at the Coleraine meet and will perform his startling feat. Other members of the Duluth club will attend the meet, and it is expected that the delegates from this city will return from the big tournament with their share of prizes.

A large number of amateurs from Duluth will be present. At the present time there are a number of young riders practicing at the Duluth slide, and by the time of the Coleraine tournament it is expected that there will be quite a large number of simo pures ready to compete with the other amateurs of the Northwest.

Will Meet Hart Later.

Frank Bryant, Head of the Lakes champion roller skater, left today for Minneapolis, where he will enter some of the races that will be held there the present week. As soon as he returns to Duluth Bryant announces that he is ready and willing to give Joe Hart, the Chicago boy, a race.

Bryant says he is ready to meet Hart for any side bet he is willing to cover.

Leaders Clash.

One of the deciding games of the Military league pennant race will be played tonight at the armory between Companies A and E. If E loses tonight's contest it will be out of the pennant race. If Company A wins there will be but little chance of keeping the league leaders away from the flag. Fisher and Foster will work in the points for Company E and Lee and Bennett will form the battery for the leaders.

GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE OF TWO TO SEVEN YEARS.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 4.—Ernest Powers, the former Denver university student, who was found guilty recently of defrauding a Denver man out of $13,700 through a "fake" foot race at Council Bluffs, Iowa, was sentenced yesterday to from two to seven years in the penitentiary.

Judge Whitford scathingly rebuked the young man for what he had done to disgrace his "fine family, his prominent and respected father and his beautiful wife."

GLAD HAND IS EXTENDED

Commercial Club Will Welcome Merchants From Small Towns.

Excursion Will Be Run Over Brooten Extension of the Soo.

Plans were made at the meeting of the public affairs committee of the Commercial club last night for a big excursion over the Soo line from the towns on the Brooten branch of the road to bring the merchants from those towns to Duluth that better relations may be established between them and the Duluth jobbers and wholesale dealers.

The jobbers' sub-committee of the public affairs committee was authorized to make the detailed arrangements for the excursions and to provide entertainment for the visitors The officials of the road have expressed their willingness to run the required trains.

The business men in the towns along the Brooten extension of the Soo are enthusiastic over the prospect of visiting Duluth and meeting personally the men with whom they are doing business. They have written to B. F. Neff, chairman of the jobbers' committee, and G. Roy Hall of the traffic commission assuring them that every town will be well represented in the delegation that will visit Duluth. They say they are anxious to make Duluth their business headquarters and every advance on the part of Duluth wholesale dealers to establish more friendly relations will be met half way by them.

The excursion will probably be held early in February and it is planned to give the visitors from noon of one day to noon of the next to see Duluth and meet people. The Commercial club will have charge of the entertainment of the visitors and besides the entertainment at the club, a ski tournament will probably be held during the time they are here.

The jobbers and wholesale houses of Duluth will welcome the excursion with just as much enthusiasm as the visitors will show in coming, for Duluth is anxious to have pleasant commercial relations with towns around. Duluth is a business center for a large part of the Northwest and it is anxious to hold the trade and extend its field of operations.

UNCLE SAM AFTER BURLEY SOCIETY

Will Aim at Night Riders Through Organization of Growers.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The government is preparing to go after the night riders in the tobacco districts of Kentucky and Tennessee by beginning proceedings against the Burley Tobacco society. Convinced that the society is a combination and a conspiracy under the terms of the Sherman anti-trust law, the department of justice is investigating its operations on that ground.

The Burley society is an organization composed largely of farmers and it is believed that, when taken, the government's action will create a sensation. It is contended by the members of the society that they have been forced to band themselves together to resist the operations of the American Tobacco company. The company, the members of the society charge, systematically depressed the market for Kentucky and Tennessee tobacco and kept prices down to the lowest point.

PARK BOARD BUYS GROUND

Three New Tracts Purchased in Western Part of the City.

The park board yesterday agreed to purchase three tracts of land in the western part of the city for park purposes. One of the tracts is near the Bryant school in the West end and the other two are in West Duluth, but the deals for the two in West Duluth have not yet been closed and the members of the board will not announce the exact locations.

The board also took up the matter of building new roads in some of the parks and decided to condemn and purchase the Snively road from Congdon park to the boulevard. A new road may be built through Congdon park to connect with the Snively road. It will be parked and extended to the boulevard, giving Congdon park an outlet to the north and extending the boulevard eastward seventeen additional blocks.

FIRE TUG FOR TWO HARBORS

Iron Range Road Will Have Duplicate of the McGonagle.

Two Harbors will have a fire tug similar to that stationed at the Missabe docks in West Duluth. The Iron Range has ordered a tug to cost $125,000 from the American Shipbuilding company. It will be ready to go into the water by the opening of navigation in the spring. The boat will be 120 feet long, 28 feet beam and 15 feet deep. It will have a double high pressure engine with cylinders 20 and 24-inches, two Curtis turbine centrifugal fire pumps of 6,000 gallons capacity per minute at a pressure of 150 pounds per square inch. Steam will be furnished from two Scotch boilers, 13 feet 4 inches in diameter and 12 feet long. Each of the boilers will have two furnaces 50 inches in diameter inside.

The boat will be built at Lorain, Ohio.

SURVIVORS OF FIGHT

Two of Participants in Last Indian Battle Hold Reunion.

One Was Lieut. Col. Taylor to Whom Red Cloud Surrendered.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Nineteen years ago, Red Cloud, the famous Sioux Indian chief, "threw up the sponge," and surrendered to a young officer of the United States cavalry, Capt. Charles W. Taylor. Recently Red Cloud died, and by a strange coincidence on the exact anniversary of his surrender, two of the participants in that last of the Indian fights met and celebrated in Washington, that anniversary.

Dec. 30, 1909, the coldest day in fourteen years in Washington, was a particular reminder to some of them of that blizzard, with the thermometer 40 deg. below zero in Dakota when the small United States "army" in the field ended the outbreak of the Sioux brought peace to the West and virtually settled the "Indian question" for all the time.

Two old campaigners on that occasion entered "Harvey's" on Pennsylvania avenue with frost on their faces and dust in their throats to hold another reunion.

Lieut. Col. Charles W. Taylor of the adjutant general's office, then a captain in the Ninth United States' cavalry, and commander of the enlisted Ogallala Indian scouts, was one and John M. Burke, "the major," so long associated with Col. Cody (who by the way was a participant in the campaign) was the other. But the death of that most celebrated Indian warrior, Red Cloud brought the career of this noted chief out prominently, and the fact of his presence in the hostile camp and the stubborn determined fight of "the Mission," left that last contest almost a drawn battle. The old rover demonstrated that his hand had not lost its cunning in the game of Indian war and native strategy in which he had been pre-eminent for nearly a score of years.

That is the history, but it was of especial interest that the old opponent of Harney, Sherman, Sheridan, Miles, Merritt, Crook, Carr et al "came in," practically surrendered, to an old Rochester boy, Capt. Charles W. Taylor. As commander of the Indian scouts, Capt. Taylor occupied an unenviable position, as the reliability of his red scouts was by many doubted.

Scouts Were Loyal.

The official records, however, show that they stood loyal to a man and there was nothing they would not do and dare for their beloved "Chief Charley White Hat," as they named Capt. Taylor.

After the battles, peace overtures (in which Col. Cody and his associate, Burke, assisted with effectiveness) were made to the recalcitrants, and with that diplomacy which marked old Red's career, it was learned that he claimed to have "been forced out" or "soldiered" by his people and wanted to "come in." A sly way he had of gaining the admiration of his warriors in battle and the plaudits of both white and red in the resulting peace.

It was through Taylor's scouts, some of whom had been captured and mortified by contemptuous treatment, that the wiley chief sent word to "White Hat." The negotiations were carried on, and one night the old fox, with a couple of youngsters, met a scout-guide and was soon in the tent of Capt. Taylor, enjoying what comfort it possessed, and in the morning was taken by him to "Beaver Coat," Gen. Miles, to the end that he might assist in the final negotiations which were completed after a visit to the hostile camps of the two last Indian peace commissioners, Gen. Jesse M. Lee and Maj. John M. Burke. It will always remain history that he of the greatest name for actual achievements, most tenacious opposition, most bloody records, most continuous enmity to white rule and the very last and greatest native general in the history of the red race, old Red Cloud, made his last actual surrender and smoked his final pipe of peace with Lieut. Col. Charles W. Taylor, "Chief White Hat of the Ogallala Indian scouts."

In the twenty years which have elapsed since Red Cloud surrendered to him, Capt. Taylor commanded the colored troops which saved the Rough Riders at San Juan, when he was "shot all to pieces," has served in the Philippines and again on the frontier, and now is on staff duty where the inactivity is decidedly irksome to a cavalry leader who is at home in the saddle and at sea in front of a desk.

SAYS WOMAN WAS CRIME PLOTTER

One of Pair of Men Arrested at Kansas City Makes Confession.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—Ward Mower and William Nelson were arrested by the police of Kansas City, Kan., yesterday, charged with the murder of Neil McCoig, a restaurant keeper of Falls City, Neb. McCoig's body was found in a clump of bushes just across the Kansas state line on Dec. 27. He had been shot, cut with a knife or hatchet, and then beaten and kicked to death. Robbery followed the murder. About $1,500 was taken.

Mower's confession led to the arrest. He also named Mrs. Alice Barber of this city, McCoig's erstwhile sweetheart, as a party to the crime. She and Bert Boyd, a boarder at her home, are held pending an investigation of the confession. Nelson also boarded at Mrs. Barber's home.

Mower, who is a cook, also from Falls City, made a thrilling statement. He accused Mrs. Barber of planning a robbery of McCoig, who was her guest. Mrs. Barber was to administer a drug to McCoig, but this plan failed, Mower says, so he and two men, one of whom was Nelson, invited McCoig to a lonely spot, where he met his death. Mower denies that he had a hand in the actual killing.

MISS MORGAN OBJECTS.

Daughter of Financier Says Socialists Take Mean Advantage.

New York, Jan. 4.—Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, objects to the injection of Socialism into such meetings as the striking Shirtwaist Makers, held at Carnegie hall Sunday night. She was at the meeting as a friend of the strikers' cause, but in a statement issued yesterday afternoon she deplored the fact that some Socialistic orators were permitted to preach to tie girls.

"It is very reprehensible," she said, "for Socialists to take advantage of the dire straits of these poor girls to teach them their doctrines."

How To Get Fat Free

Don't Be "All Skin and Bone" When You Can Speedily Become Plump and Attractive.

50c Box of New Discovery Mailed Free

"Gee! Look at that pair of skinny scarecrows!" Why don't they try Sargol?"

This should attract the eyes of every skinny, scrawny, cadaverous man or woman who reads this paper. The missing link between food eating and fat making has at last been discovered.

The principle which turns food into solid flesh has been located, analyzed and reproduced in tablet form for all to take.

The chronically thin are generally hearty eaters. Many a man with a big bay window eats less than some withered up shrimp with hips like two clam shells nailed to a board.

Eating will not produce fat unless the food be assimilated.

Assimilated is the word.

Plump, well-nourished men and women assimilate their food. Skinny people do not.

That is all there is to it.

Give a thin scrawny woman the power to assimilate her food properly and in a fortnight she may develop a rounded figure which will be the admiration of passersby. Let any fat and sassy happy-go-lucky business man lose the power to properly assimilate his food and in a jiffy his clothes will hang in festoons upon his emaciated frame.

During the past ten or twelve months some very convincing tests have been made with a new treatment. It seems to center in what might be called the active principle of assimilation. Its record as a fat and tissue builder has been so remarkable that arrangements are now being made with leading papers whereby all readers can have an opportunity to test this new discovery free of charge.

The name Sargol has been given to this new preparation. By using it you may quickly become plump, strong and hearty. The food you eat will be turned into firm, healthy tissue, red blood, bone and muscle, and will not pass unassimilated from the system—as formerly.

Take Sargol and you can eat anything and everything in reason, you will be free from fits of the blues, can hold up your head and meet the world with a smiling face.

No one knows the mortification that thin persons suffer but they themselves. Thin folks get the sneers and rebuffs. Scrawny men never look like real money and they are crowded aside in the race for success. Thin women are pushed up against the wall and left there. It is seldom that a skinny woman is very popular.

By special arrangement, all readers who are lacking in bodily development and symmetry can make a test of Sargol, free of charge. All you need to do is to cut out the coupon below and send it today with your name and address to the Sargol Co., 170-N, Herald building. Full directions will be sent with the free treatment. You will be shown clearly why it is that you have remained thin and what to do to put on more flesh.

COUPON.

Take certificate and 10 cents to help defray distribution expenses entitles the holder to one 50-cent package of Sargol tablets, the home treatment which makes thin folks plump and attractive.

Issued for account of Duluth Herald.

WEST END

LAST INDOOR BALL GAME

St. Clement's Sodality Team Will Play Company I at Superior.

Catholics Turning Attention to Basket Ball for the Winter.

The Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic school will wind up its indoor baseball season this week, when the Superior militiamen, Company I, will take on the West end Catholics for a return game. The affair will be pulled off at the Blaine high school gymnasium at Superior.

The Superior boys defeated the Sodality bunch by the narrow margin of one point in a game which was played at St. Clement's hall about three weeks ago. At that time, it was agreed that a return game should be played, but up to this time the Superior aggregation could not make satisfactory arrangements for a gymnasium in which to hold the contest.

With the close of the indoor baseball season, the Sodality men will pay more attention to basket ball activities. The defeat administered last evening by the Central high school aggregation has not disheartened the St. Clement's players who will take on a number of fast teams during the season.

Several out-of-town games have been secured and others will be scheduled within the next few days. It is expected that the fast team from Cloquet will be the next opponents of the St. Clement's. Other games are being arranged with Two Harbors, Bemidji and Sandstone.

OLESEN-WRIGHT.

West End Young People Will Be Married at Bride's Home.

The marriage of Miss Kathryn C. Olesen to Thomas H. C. Wright will be solemnized tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's parents, 320 North Nineteenth avenue west. Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian Danish M. E. church, will officiate.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Olesen. The groom is an electrician in the employ of the Northern Electric company. Both of the young people are well known about the city and have a wide circle of friends in the West end. They will be at home after Feb. 1 at their new home on Park Point.

REPUBLICANS GATHER.

Efforts Made to Increase Interest in City Campaign.

For the purpose of putting a little enthusiasm into the campaign for the coming election, two Republican meetings were held last evening in the Sixth and Seventh wards. One was held at the voting place at Twenty-eighth avenue west and First street and the other in the Sloan block.

At the Seventh ward meeting short addresses were made by Fred W. Erickson, aldermanic candidate, and other members of the ward organization.

The meeting at the Sloan block was held for the purpose of testing the sentiment among the Sixth ward Republicans in regard to putting an independent candidate in the field against Sands Van Wagner. Several names were mentioned, but many politicians are doubtful as to whether anything will develop in the matter.

A meting of the Seventh ward Democrats is planned for this evening at the voting place.

TAKES CASH FROM SAFE.

Thief Takes $119 From Saloon and Escapes.

While John Holland, who conducts a saloon at 1920 West Superior street, was at work in the rear room of his saloon, an unknown man rifled his safe of $119 last evening.

The robbery took place about 10:20 o'clock, when there was no one in the saloon but Holland. He had left the safe open while he stepped back in the rear room, and the unknown intruder took advantage of the occasion and made away with all of the loose cash.

Charged With Assault.

On a charge brought by his wife, in which he was accused of coming home in a deplorable state of intoxication and of having beaten her, Phil Pearson, 36 years old, of 2418 Coates street, was arrested last evening by Sergeant Barber. He will be arraigned in court today.

West End Shortrails.

Rev. C. G. Olsen, pastor of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church, returned this morning from Two Harbors, Minn., where he has been on a short business trip.

Mrs. Boden of Garfield avenue will entertain the Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish M. E. church, at her home on Thursday afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Swedish Christian Sick Benefit society will be held Friday evening at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

The Sunday school teachers and officials of the First Swedish M. E. church will hold a business session Thursday evening at the church, Twentieth avenue west and Third street.

The Ladies' aid society of the First Swedish Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gust Lundgren of 2723 West Second street.

Miss Clara Summerville of 2601 West Sixth street left today for Willow River, Minn., where she will teach school during the winter.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Central Baptist church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. D. Campbell of 111 North Twenty-fifth avenue west.

Miss Lillian Nelson of 1822 West Second street has returned from a visit at Two Harbors, Minn.

CLEVER BILL AT THE BIJOU

The Baltons Head the Best Vaudeville Program in Some Time.

It would be hard to determine the headliner at the Bijou this week for every act is in a class by itself. Every number makes a strong bid for popularity and the big audience of first-nighters in attendance at the opening performance distributed the applause very evenly.

The Baltons, a troupe of young women acrobats, held the crowd spell-bound while they went through their thrilling tricks in mid-air. There are five young women. Besides being the best in this line to appear at the local house in some time, they are good to look upon. Some of the feats performed are very difficult and require much strength as well as pluck and nerve. The appear natural and graceful and have a style of their own. Their act is novel and interesting.

Fred and Wilson announce on the program that they do a pantomime novelty introducing juggling, singing and bare pumping. They succeed in doing all these and doing them well. Miss Wilson sings and when it comes to juggling and barrell jumping, Fred goes his share. All his tricks are new. They are as difficult as they are unique. The man can keep more things going with his hands and still be doing something else with his head, than any juggler seen in Duluth this season. His buggy-whip trick in which he balances a plate on the butt balancing the lash across his nose, brought forth round after round of the heartiest applause.

Earl Morse this week sings a new song entitled "Rosenbaum." The song is a hit with the patrons of the theater, and he sings it with his usual pleasing air.

Smith and Harris have a skit entitled "At the North Pole." There are special scenery and special costumes for the act, the scene of which, as the title suggests, is as near as possible to the top of the world. Every line gets across and creates a laugh. The pole turns out to be of the red and white barber variety.

"The Lunatic and the Girl" is the title of a laughable skit presented by Miller and Russell. Miller is something of a rambler and Miss Russell sings well. Their act is funny and the audience let them go last night with reluctance.

Reese Fraser, the sweet tenor singer, who was for many years a feature of Lew Dockstader's minstrels, appeared in Duluth for the first time on a vaudeville stage. He was given a warm reception. He has lost none of his charm and his voice is if anything better than ever. He sang several pleasing little Irish airs that made a distinct hit with the audience.

The moving pictures this week deal with the adventures of a young woman newspaper reporter who was assigned to rob a house and write an account of how it felt. She has many adventures, but finally succeeds.

All in all, the bill at the Bijou this week is one of the best ever staged at the local house.

"The Yankee Prince."

The attraction booked for the Lyceum on Jan. 6, 7, and 8 is "The Yankee Doodle Prince," the author of the musical farce, Geo. M. Cohan, playing in the title role. Mr. Cohan's mother and father and sister Josephine are also in the cast, which includes Tom Lewis, the comedian, whose work occasioned such favorable comment during the long runs of the piece in New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia. "The Yankee Prince" is generally considered to be the best production of Mr. Cohan's pen. The fun is continuous, and the music is said to be the most tuneful that he has composed, while the staging of the piece leaves nothing to be desired in completeness and beauty. The scene of the first act finds the company gathered on the terrace of Windsor castle, and the third moves everybody to Chicago, where the action takes place in a great mansion on the lake front.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis By Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On Oct. 18 last my little 3-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold, which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," says Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, Oct. 23, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly, as I have found it the surest, safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." WALSH WILL NOT BE MADE PAUPER

Ex-Banker Can Pay $7,000,000 and Still Have Over $600,000 Left.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—John R. Walsh, former president of the defunct Chicago National bank, convicted on charges of misappropriating its funds, whose case will come up on Wednesday before the United States supreme court for final settlement, will not be penniless after a settlement of claims aggregating more than $7,000,000 with the Chicago clearing house banks.

The clearing house banks hold notes of the ex-banker amounting to $7,121,887.12, and plans are being perfected for the payment of these obligations within a few days. When Mr. Walsh has paid this amount, it has been revealed here, he still will be worth between $600,000 and $750,000.

Stocks and real estate worth nearly three-quarters of a million will be left Mr. Walsh after all obligations have been satisfied, the remnant of a fortune variously estimated from $10,000,000 to $35,000,000.

NEW PUMP IN OPERATION

Test Made of New Equipment for the Middle System.

Gasoline Pumps Will Be Held in Reserve in the Station.

The electrical pump installed in the new pumphouse for the middle system erected just east of the reservoir at Fifteenth avenue east and Sixth street was put in operation for the first time this morning and was given a thorough test by the engineers for the contractors, the General Electrical company, and for the city.

The new pumphouse and its equipment form a great improvement to the facilities for supplying water to that part of the city served by what is known as the middle system. Under the old order of things, the middle system was supplied by two gasoline pumps with a combined capacity of 1124 gallons a minute. In the event of either of the pumps going out of commission, the water department was greatly handicapped.

The new electrical pump is a double-acting triplex pump with a capacity of 1,250 gallons a minute, so that the one new pump will do more than the two old pumps at les cost and with less probability of mishaps occuring. The two gasoline pumps have been moved to the new pumphouse and they will be held in reserve, so that if anything should happen to the new pump or the electrical supply should give out, the department will fall back on the gasoline pumps and pumping will go on at almost the same rate as before.

The new pumphouse is a fireproof structure of brick, stone and steel and the building and pump represent an outlay of about $17,000.

Prinzess Irene Being Steered By Propellers, Says Wireless.

New York, Jan. 4.—Officials of the North German Lloyd today received a wireless telegram from the captain of the company's steamship Prinzess Irene, stating that the liner had lost her rudder and was continuing the voyage to Bremen, steering with propellers. The message says all are well on board. The Prinzess Irene sailed from New York Dec. 30.

HAD BOYS' CRIME SCHOOL.

Deer River Man Said to Have Encouraged Youth to Steal.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—By creating a market for thread, which he purchased from boys of the city who had stolen it from local stores, Henry Lerch, formerly of Deer River, Minn., found himself under arrest yesterday. He pleaded guilty to a chage of purchasing stolen goods and was fined $35.

Boys ranging in ages from 9 to 15 years furnished the evidence against Lerch. They had stolen linen thread from merchandise stores, selling it to Lerch at about half its actual value. One boy confessed to having stolen five dozen spools of thread from one store, taking one spool at a time.

Grand Forks Barber Hurt.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—E. J. Densmore, a prominent Grand Forks barber, suffered a broken leg yesterday afternoon when he fell from a ladder. He had mounted the ladder to remove a small stove from the rafters of a small shed when it slipped. The leg was broken just above the ankle joint.

CITY SAVES MUCH WATER

Consumers Paid for 208,000,000 Gallons More Than in 1908.

Plant Pumped But 3,000,000 Gallons More Than in Previous Year.

The water and light department of the city of Duluth saved 205,000,000 gallons of water during the year 1909. In other words, the city was paid for nearly that amount of water which went to waste in the year 1908, according to Manager L. N. Case.

The receipts of the department for the year just closed show an increase of $42,000 over last year in the items of water and gas sales, the amount being exclusive of the increased revenue from the sale of fixtures. The increase in receipts from water was $18,412, and in receipts from gas, it was $24,088.

As opposed to the increase in the receipts from water sales, the records of the department show an increase of but 3,000,000 gallons in the amount of water pumped, that being less than a half-day's supply, so that the large increase in receipts came from the sale of water which was wasted during the previous year.

The total receipts from water sales were $187,895, and that sum divided by the water pumped gives an average rate of 8.85 cents per gallon. Dividing $18,412, the increase in the receipts from water, by the rate, the result shows that the city was paid for 208,000,000 gallons more than in 1908, whereas the amount of water pumped increased but a little over 3,000,000 gallons.

Mr. Case ascribes the large saving to the extension of the meter system of the department. "Some people say that the installation of meters not only cuts down the amount of water pumped but also cuts down the receipts, but the results in the department this year do not support that argument." Mr. Case observed this morning.

COLE WANTS SECOND PLACE.

Fergus Falls Man Is Candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dr. A. B. Cole of Fergus Falls is a full-fledged candidate for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. He believes he is correctly located geographically to pull down the plum.

The Fergus Falls man was a caller on Governor Eberhart yesterday, and following his visit to the executive, practically announced his candidacy. He said he was receiving much favorable mention.

"I am going after the nomination, but I am not going to make a fight for it," said he. "I prefer to see a Republican governor elected than to start something that might make trouble. The success of the party is uppermost with me, and I will not thrust my own ambitions forward to its detriment. If the governor is taken from the northern part of the state, I believe I have a good show for the nomination."

Spooner Masons Install.

Spooner, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The installation of the newly elected officers of the Osiris lodge, No. 272, A. F. & A. M. occurred on Friday last at the new quarters of the lodge. A number of brethren from the Ionic lodge of Rainy River, Ont., and Warroad lodge of Warroad were in attendance.

The officers installed are: W. M., Albert Berg; S. W., J. E. Huss, J. W., J. R. Harmon; treasurer, James A. Mathies; secretary, C. H. Dudds. Appointed officers: S. D., W. F. Steffes; J. D., O. H. Diercks; S. S., P. S. Nelson; J. S., F. A. Henderson; T., Miles A. Henderson.

SENATOR PUGH IS CANDIDATE

Representative in Upper House Will Work for Reapportionment.

T. M. Pugh, state senator from the Fiftieth district, filed for renomination on the Republican ticket today. His is the first nomination paper to be filed in this county, and it marks the opening of what seems likely to be a very lively political year. Senator Laymourn's announcement of his candidacy for re-election Saturday was the first of the campaign, but Senator Pugh's is the first filing in the county.

Senator Pugh is now serving his second term of four years in the state senate, and prior to that was a member of the house from his present district for two terms. He has a wide acquaintanceship throughout the state, which has often come in handy when a vote for Duluth was needed.

"If elected I shall stand for reapportionment of legislative representation," said Senator Pugh today, "at whatever cost to myself. If a reapportionment bill is passed next winter, it means that the terms of senators elected this year for four years will be cut in two. Notwithstanding that, I shall work and vote for reapportionment as I have in the past."

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A CLOSE SHAVE

Many of Them Happening Every Day But Soon Forgotten.

Close shaves would be of more frequent occurrence but for the tender face of many men, which will not permit of shaving often. Heretofore, nothing has been said in these columns about poslam, a new skin discovery, in connection with its use after shaving. Its publicity and sales have been confined almost exclusively to its remarkable properties as an eczema cure; it stops the itching at once and cures the worst cases in a few days. While the application of poslam after shaving is one of its minor uses, such as for pimples, the complexion, etc., shavers will find it a revelation, as it does for abrasions, roughness, and severe scrapings what it does for all manner of skin difficulties—heals and cures in a few hours. It is the only article possessing real antiseptic and curative value that has ever been exploited for this purpose, and will soothe and tone up the skin as no toilet preparation could possibly do.

Poslam can be had for fifty cents at any reliable druggist's particularly the Lyceum Pharmacy and Abbett's in Duluth, and Holmberg's in Superior, who make a specialty of it. Or the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York city, will send a trial supply free by mail to any one who will write for it. This is sufficient to show results in twenty-four hours.

ICY GRASP IS WEAKENING

Snow and Milder Temperature Are Predictions of Weather Man.

The pronounced cold snap, which struck Duluth Sunday, is not over, but it is weakening and normal winter weather is expected tomorrow. The lowest temperature in Duluth last night was 16 deg. below zero at about midnight. This morning at 7 o'clock, the mercury stood at 7 below zero and at 10 o'clock, it was 5 below, according to the official thermometer at the weather bureau on the hill.

The temperature will rise gradually during the day and tonight will be much more comfortable, the lowest temperature in prospect being zero or a little below. The range tonight is expected to be from zero to about 10 deg. above.

The weather is moderating all through the Northwest and the district will be relieved of the extreme cold by tomorrow. The lowest temperature reported last night was 36 deg. below zero at Minnedosa.

with the railroad presidents yesterday would require a reprinting of both the message and the Wickersham bill embodying the president's views. This bill is to be placed at the disposal of the congressional committees, if they desire it.

The special message on the conservation of natural resources, which the president had hoped to get ready by Monday next, has been postponed until the latter part of next week.

Will Ask For $30,000,000.

In the special message on conservation which President Taft will send to congress, a loan of $30,000,000 to complete the existing reclamation projects will be suggested.

Western senators who have visited the president during the last few days have been given to understand that such a loan will be recommended in the message. The loan probably would be floated as a short-term bonds or certificates of indebtedness.

Senator Carter and some of the other Western senators are inclined to favor the issue of certificates, but Senator Borah who is the author of a bill for a $30,000,000 bond issue, is opposed to an issue of certificates. He believes that an issue of bonds would be taken up more readily.

Brown not Alarmed.

New York, Jan. 4.—"I know pretty well what the bill will provide, and I say that it need not alarm any investor, nor embarrass any railroad that wants to do business in a straightforward and orderly manner," was the assurance given today by W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines.

Mr. Brown was one of the six railway presidents who conferred with President Taft yesterday on railroad legislation which the president will recommend to congress next week in a message on interstate commerce.

Wall street and the railroad world have been keenly interested in the coming legislation. President Brown's declaration allayed in a great measure the fears that the president's message would prove embarrassing to the present control of the country's carriers.

Clemenceau to Make Tour

Paris, Jan. 4.—Former Premier Clemenceau, in the coming spring, will make a tour of South America and deliver lectures on Socialism, at Buenos Ayres and Montevedio. It is possible that he will also visit the United States.

The Cause of Colds

Good Advice Regarding the Prevention of Coughs and Colds

If people would only fortify and strengthens the system, the majority of cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When the skin is weakened it becomes easily infected with germs which cause many of the diseases to which flesh is heir. Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of coughs, colds, pneumonia, and such like infectious diseases, is a remedy that will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of thirty years of cures gained through the use of this formula. We promise to make no charge for the medicine should it fail to do as we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to prove the reasonableness of our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why any one should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucu-Tone, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Sometimes a 50-cent bottle is sufficient to give marked relief. As a general thing the most chronic case is relieved with an average of three large bottles. You can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

ON THE IRON RANGES

MUCH WORK AT GILBERT

Mines About Growing Community Are Preparing for Busy Seasons.

Considerable Public Improvement Is Also Planned for 1910.

Gilbert, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work is being pushed on the new Pettitt-Schley location contracts, in order to have the residences ready for occupancy when the spring mining operations begin, at the opening of the shipping season.

Over a score of fine two-story residences are being completed for employes of the Pettitt and Schely mines.

As many more one-story cottages are also nearing completion. These, with the large number of dwellings recently moved from the site of the two mines to this addition to Gilbert, make this part of the village a highly creditable one to the people and mining companies.

The new addition is on the southeast side of the city and is platted on both sides of the county road running east and west through the southern part of the village.

Two Mines Very Busy.

The Pettitt and Schley mines are having a very busy season of winter mining and development. The former has quite a large stock already and the latter is preparing to mine ore on quite and extensive scale in the near future.

The Schley mine has just completed a large machine shop of steel, a large engine room and boiler house, and an immense brick smoke stack. The large power plant is made necessary on account of the great flow of water in the Schely mine, which smaller pumps were not able to handle. This difficulty has also been a source of much trouble and annoyance at the adjacent Hobart mine of the M. A. Hanna company, which has not been operated since the panic of 1907, but which will start again soon, according to persistent rumors. The Schley mine is to be one of Gilbert's best mines, being an underground proposition, and will work full complements of men both summer and winter. A large steel shaft has just been erected on the Schley property and two more will be erected before the shipping season of 1910.

Gilbert Plans Street Work.

Much improvement work will be done here this coming spring and summer on the streets and in relieving the famine in residences and rooming places. The town of Pagel, on the great Broadway street, the main thoroughfare of Gilbert, next spring and surface the road with gravel and cinders. The road will be one of the finest drives on the ranges and will extend from Eveleth to Gilbert. Business interests here will erect a large number of cottages and residences in the Sparta addition to Gilbert, and the United States Steel corporation will donate $25,000 in improvements, in the way of sewers, water mains and grading of streets to that section of the city.

ROBS PARTY WHO BEFRIENDED HIM

Charged That Harvey Green Gave Fine Sample of Ingratitude.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ingratitude of the basest sort is attributed to Harvey Green, who is to have a hearing today before Court Commissioner Pratt on the charge of stealing a valuable locket from the home of County Attorney Price at Pokegama lake.

Mr. Price had taken pity on Green on account of his youth, and when the boy finished a jail sentence for a petty crime, gave him a job on his farm. Mrs. Price missed a gold locket, and Green was arrested with the article in his possession.

Illegal Voting Alleged.

Henry Logan was arrested and brought before Court Commissioner C. L. Pratt yesterday on the charge of illegal voting, it being alleged that he voted under the name of Ole Loganson in Sand Lake precinct in the fall election of 1909. Logan waived examination and was held to the district court, his bond being fixed at $500, which was furnished.

This case is an echo of the Riddel-Riley election contest for the office of sheriff of Itasca county, Logan having been one of the conspicuous witnesses in that case.

Murder Charge Hearing.

Charges of arson in the first degree and murder against E. H. Phelps and his son, Ray Phelps of Cass Lake will be taken up before Court Commissioner Pratt here today. It is alleged that the object of the arson was to secure the insurance on the house burned at Winnibegoshish dam on the Mississippi river, it being asserted that insurance to the amount of $600 was taken out on the property a short time before the fire.

VIRGINIA FIXES PRICE ON PROPERTY

Block 43 to Be Sold to the County for $25,000 for Courthouse.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Block 43, recently acquired by the city for park purposes, will be turned over to St. Louis county as a site for proposed $100,000 courthouse, providing the county pays the city at least $25,000 for it.

This was the gist of a resolution adopted by the council at a special meeting last night.

The city attorney is instructed to make the offer at the condemnation proceedings to be instituted by the commissioners to acquire the property.

The resolution directs the city attorney "to immediately appear in said proceedings in behalf of the city, and to procure if possible an award therein of the sum of $25,000 and no less, and to ask no more, as such amount is hereby declared to be the fair and actual present value of said property to the city, and that taking hereof for such purpose would damage the city only to the extent of said amount."

FIND LITTLE SEDIMENT.

Intake Well of Two Harbors Plant Not in Bad Condition.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The state board of health will be asked to ascertain the cause of the recent epidemic of typhoid fever here as the result of the examination Sunday of the intake well at the pumping station did not disclose much sediment or other deleterious matter as exxpected. When thewaterwas all pumped out of the well it was found to contain only a few gallons of sediment, consisting of fine gravel and sand. The side walls of the well were found to be perfectly clean, and there was absolutely no evidence of seipage through the walls. The well was last cleaned in May, 1909, and since that time there have been about 250,000,000 gallons of water pumped so that the amount of sediment per 1,000 gallons of water pumped was infinistesimal.

VACATION DAYS OVER.

Eveleth Pupils Have Again Returned to Their Books.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—School was resumed after a two weeks' vacation yesterday. All the teachers were present, and many new pupils have joined the classes.

Programs for the second semester have been completed. Civil government and commercial geography will be the new subjects taught during the last semester. Some of the subjects have been changed, but all the periods and subjects have been so arranged that none conflict. The subjects are but of a half year duration and political economy and United States history have been dropped.

TO BE GREAT BAND.

Hibbing Expects Oliver Band to Rival Michigan Affair.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing boasts of a new band which has been christened the Oliver. It is the intention of those having the interests of the new organization most at heart to have it in time rival the famous Calumet & Hecla band of Calumet, Mich. All the members are employed by the Oliver Iron Mining company here, and they have already had enough practice to make it one of the most proficient on the range.

NEW EVELETH ADDITION.

Is Called Northside, and Mayor Smith Is Interested.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Walter Smith, Postmaster J. C. Poole, James A. Robb and City Attorney J. P. Boyle, who three months ago purchased eighty acres of land in the north end of the Adams district from Harry Hill, have placed the property on sale.

The new addition will be known as the Northside division and will soon be incorporated into the city.

MATTERS COMING BEFORE THE HIBBING COUNCIL.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Among the most important things which the council will consider tonight are the considering of bids for the new fire hall in the Pillsbury addition, and the taking up of the liquor license of L. Sares, who runs a saloon at 102 Third avenue. Sares was convicted a few days ago of running a house of ill fame in connection with his saloon.

NEW EVELETH COUNCIL AT BAT TUESDAY NIGHT.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald)—The new council, Aldermen-at-large Charles Jesmore and Matt. J. Doyle; Aldermen Joseph S. Wilson, Walter G. Sutherland and Jacob S. Saul, will begin their duties this evening.

The old council will finish its business and the retiring aldermen will give their seats to their successors.

EVELETH RED MEN PLAN GREAT TIME ON JAN. 13.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald)—The Degree of Pocahontas and the Redmen, have completed arrangements for the "Making of Chiefs," on Jan. 13, in the Elks' hall. The arrangements committee is assured of the appearance of two great chiefs, John Erickson of Red Wing and Thomas McKeon of Duluth. Past Great Chief Vivian Prince of this city, will also speak.

HIBBING IN BRIEF.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Stevenson and wife, who have been making an extended visit with friends and relatives in Marc Atkinson, Alexander Ekstrom Iowa and Missouri, have returned home. and George Cobb and others who are entered at the university and who spent the Christmas holidays at home here, have returned to their studies.

D. D. Hailey, who is taking a medical course at Marquette, left this noon to resume his studies.

Arthur Haben of Los Angeles has arrived here and will be the guest of Judge Thomas F. Brady for the next week or ten days. Mr. Haben is well known in Hibbing, having formerly made this own his home.

Deputy Sheriff George Donohue broke the record last week, going down to Duluth five different times with prisoners.

MRS. WUNDER IS BURIED AT ELY

Duluth Friends Join With Sorrowing Relatives in Last Tribute.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The body of Mrs. H. E. Wunder, who died in Duluth, Friday, was brought to this city for interment on Monday's train accompanied by relatives and friends. The funeral party went to the residence of Capt. Charles Trezona, where a large number of Ely friends of the deceased and sorrowing relatives, paid their last respects. The funeral services took place at the M. E. church, Rev. L. W. Powell of Duluth, assisted by Rev. J. D. Manly of Ely, officiating. The services were very impressive.

Rev. Mr. Powell spoke very touchingly, dwelling on life in its various phases. Miss Myrtle Holmes sang "Face to Face," and the choir gave several selected funeral hymns. Six Masonic brothers of Dr. Wunder were pallbearers. The body was laid in the family lot in the Ely cemetery by the side of a departed brother. Those who came with the body were the sorrowing husband and daughter, Lois, Mr. and Mrs. James Bale, Mr. and Mrs. William Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Wunder and son and daughter.

The floral offerings were most numerous and showed the high esteem in which the departed was held by her many friends. Mrs. Wunder was 30 years of age and before her marriage resided here for many years, being Miss Aimee Bale. She was a talented and accomplished lady and will be missed in social and musical circles. Her demise was caused by tuberculosis, following an attack of pneumonia. She had been ill since April last.

ELY PERSONALS.

Ely, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. S. Fry has been called to Kentucky by a message announcing the death of her husband.

Miss May Brown departed for her home in Aurora, Monday, after a weeks visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chappel and daughter, Alvina of Eveleth came here Sunday to attend the funeral of Mrs. William Phillips.

Matt Thomas and son, William, also Dennis Whalen returned to Hibbing, Monday, having been here attending Mrs. Phillips funeral.

Mrs. William O'Rourke is visiting her mother, Mrs. William Tracy, in Two Harbors, this week.

Miss Olive Callaway is in Superior visiting friends for a few days.

Peter Schaefer returned Monday from Duluth, where he had been since Saturday, on a business trip.

Crookston Doctor Accused

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald)—Dr. J. S. Kjelland of Crookston was arraigned before Justice Huson on the charge of buying deer meat while hunting near here during the last season. The hearing was continued to Jan. 14, and the defendant's bond was fixed at $100, which was furnished.

Eveleth Boy Buried.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funeral of Richard Gordon Sundberg, aged 9 years, who died Saturday of spinal meningitis, was held yesterday afternoon from the Methodist church, where services were read by Rev. R. C. Johnson. Interment was held at Virginia.

amended so as to provide that charge for a short haul shall in no case be greater than the charge for a long haul, and the charge for a through rate shall be no greater than the aggregate of the local rates. False or padded claims for damages by a shipper are prohibited as rebates are.

The provisions of the law in regard to filing complaints and authorizing the commission to adjust complaints and fix rates are very much enlarged, and they give power to the commission not only to fix rates upon complaint, but also to adjust and prescribe classifications, regulations and practices generally.

The commission may suspend the taking effect of any proposed rate or change in classification until full hearing could be had on the subject.

The commission also is given the power to establish through rates and joint rates, and the shipper to select the entire route over which a shipment shall be transported.

Railroads are required to furnish rates on written application.

Offenses in Rebating.

Every shipment of property on which a rebate is paid is made a separate offense, and the Elkins law is amended to that extent.

The railroads, under the Mann bill, may exchange transportation for advertisement of their time tables in newspapers.

A common carrier is prohibited from owning or acquiring ownership of stock in any competing carrier.

The bill also makes it unlawful for a railroad company to issue any stock or bonds except for the acquisition of property, the construction of its lines, the improvement of its road or the discharge of its obligations, and after filing with the commissioner of transportation a statement setting forth the full details of the issue. The bill requires stock to be sold for not less than the reasonable market value, and provides a penalty of $20,000 fine and imprisonment for five years for the illegal issuance of stocks and bonds.

The bill also makes it unlawful for any railroad to acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise the ownership of any connecting line, and forbids any form of ownership to acquire control of two competing lines of transportation unless permitted by the interstate commerce commission.

The bill was referred to the committee of which Mr. Mann is chairman.

SHIP BILL IS INTRODUCED

same rate of $4 per mile that is now paid first-class ships.

Mr. Humphreys points out that opponents of ship subsidy seem to be aware that we already have this subsidy for first-class ships under a law enacted in 1891, which, law he claims, "is responsible for every American vessel on he Atlantic ocean, and if repealed would cause the American flag to disappear from the seas within sixty days."

Present Law Too Strict.

The law of 1891, says Mr. Humphreys defines a first-class ship as one of over 8,000 tons and of twenty-five knots speed, which has been such a high requirement that vessels of that class have not found it profitable to engage in South American and Pacific ocean trade. Mr. Humphreys proposes to give the same subsidy to vessels of 5,000 tons capacity and of sixteen knots speed. The bill lays down many requirements for vessels before they can secure the subsidy.

The ships must be built according to plans approved by the secretary of the navy, of iron or steel, and with a view to their use in time of war, and be able to carry four or more cannon of not less than six-inch caliber. They must at all times be at the command of the government. They must carry American boys and train them in seamanship, and be officered by American citizens, and have crews composed of 50 per cent or more of American sailors. The vessels cannot be sold without the consent of the secretary of the navy.

Limit on Expenditures.

Mr. Humphreys adds:

"It might be well to add, for those who have been declaring that the proposed legislation was to benefit existing lines, that not a ship now running can take advantage of the provisions of the bill. Neither need any of the 'watchdogs' of the treasury exercise their lungs, for there is no danger of national bankruptcy. It is specifically provided that the amount that can be expended in any one year shall not exceed the estimated revenue from the foreign mail service for that year."

Mr. Humphreys' measure proposes to bring into the national treasury about $1,000,000 annually through increased tonnage tax on vessels engaged in the trans-oceanic trade, "every dollar of which will come from foreign ships," he says. American vessels subject to this tax may have rebated the per cent of their tonnage dues by carrying American sailors, one for each 1,000 tons of the vessel.

D. O. MILLS SUMMONED

on which he began business in San Francisco, and had trusted him.

Kept in Directorate.

Mr. Mills had resigned his directorship in the bank when retiring from its management, and finally had sold his stock. But Ralston, against his wishes, had continued to have him elected a director, buying enough of Mr. Mills' stock to qualify for a directorship, and keeping it in Mr. Mills' name, without his knowledge. Mr. Mills returned from Europe shortly before the crash, and was first appealed to by William Sharon to save Ralston's personal credit. He at once responded, loaning Mr. Ralston $400,000 that day, and $350,000 more within the week. It subsequently appeared that this money was used to take up fraudulent over-issues of the bank's stock.

A few days later the bank failed, creating an excitement that convulsed the Pacific coast. Mr. Ralston committed suicide, and Mr. Mills was recalled to the presidency. He headed the new subscription with $1,000,000, and raised nearly $7,000,000 more and opened the doors of the bank one month and five days after they had been closed. He insisted on holding the presidency now without pay, and resigned peremptorily within three years, as soon as he felt that the bank was firmly re-established. Afterward he uniformly refused the care of any business but his own.

Active in Many Charities.

The greater part of his time since 1880 was spent in New York city, where he built a system of lodging hotels for the poor, founded a training school for male nurses and was active in many other charities.

He was president of the Bank of New York, the Moreton Trust company and the United States Trust company. He was a trustee of the Atlantic Steamship company, chairman of the Fordham Home for Incurables, and trustee of Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Carnegie Institute of Washington, Lick observatory and the American Geology society.

Mr. Mills had a prominent hand in the building of the Southern Pacific and for many years was a member of its directorate. His holdings in upwards of thirty corporations, in whose affairs he once took active part, are said to total many millions of dollars.

Sorrow in New York.

New York, Jan. 4.—News of the sudden death of D. O. Mills at his winter home in California was received with sorrow here, where he had so long been prominent. Mr. Mills' withdrawal from business and active interest in his various philanthropic enterprises as a cause of ill health had prepared his friends for the sad news, although a fatal termination of his illness at this time was not expected.

Although his active participation in business affairs had ceased, Mr. Mills, up to the time of his death, remained a director in many corporations. His railroad interests included the holding of a directorship in the New York Central and Lake Shore companies, and he held a place, as well, in the directorates of several New York banks and trust companies and numerous industrial enterprises.

Established "Mills Hotels."

One of Mr. Mills' notable philanthropic enterprises was the establishment of the chain of hotels, the name of which is familiar the country over as the "Mills hotels." These hotels, of which there are three in this city, were intended as places equipped and maintained in efficient modern fashion, where meals and lodgings could be furnished to reputable men at nominal prices. Mr. Mills always declared that he did not class this enterprise as "philanthrophy," maintaining that it was a sagacious public spirit that prompted him in establishing them.

The hotels have been self-supporting. Not long ago Mr. Mills deeded them and the adjacent Mills dwellings to three trustees—himself, his son, Ogden Mills, and his daughter, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid—making stipulations as to succession in membership in the board which will take on the work indefinitely.

While no definite announcement has been made, it is believed Mr. Mills' body will be brought east and buried in the old Sleepy Hollow cemetery, just north of Tarrytown, N. Y., beside that of his wife.

Death Postpones Marriage.

London, Jan. 4.—Ambassador Whitelaw Reid is arranging to sail for the United States either on the St. Louis tomorrow or on the Lusitania Saturday to allow him to be present at the funeral of Mrs. Reid's father, D. O. Mills, who died in California last night.

The temporary absence from his post of Mr. Reid will detain Secretary of Embassy William Phillips here, and arrangements are being made to postpone his marriage with Miss Caroline A. Drayton of New York.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may, as a rule, be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by all druggists.

SPECIAL WARNINGS OF BIG STORM ISSUED BY WEATHER BUREAU

number of vessels put into Hampton Roads.

Central West Suffering.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—Snow and sleet, accompanied by a cold north wind with the temperature close to zero in Iowa and Nebraska, fell in the Central West today, the storm extending from Oklahoma northward. In Iowa and Nebraska the proportions of a blizzard were reported and railway and street car traffic suffered. The fall of snow and sleet in Missouri, Kansas and Northern Oklahoma was the heaviest of the season.

In Central and Western Kansas the fall of snow was the heaviest in ten years. In Western Kansas the snow began falling at midnight. This morning the snow was a foot deep in that portion of the state. Trains on all railroads were late.

Snow and Cold Weather.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 4.—Des Moines is in the grasp of a severe snow storm today. Trains are late and street car service is so impeded it is questionable whether it can be maintained throughout the day. Zero temperature accompanies the storm. The minimum during the night was four below zero.

Omaha Schools Closed.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 4.—The worst blizzard of the season is raging in Northern Nebraska. In Omaha the weather bureau reported the temperature as 2 deg. below zero at 7 o'clock. A heavy snowfall during the night tied up street car service and crippled railroads in this section.

The high schools and many of the graded schools of this city are closed on account of the snow blockade.

The snowfall in Northern Nebraska and Southern South Dakota is reported as one-half foot, adding new handicaps to train service, which for a more protracted period has been seriously demoralized by weather conditions this winter than ever before. The temperatures range around 12 below zero, but there is no wind.

Railways are Hampered.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 4.—Drifting snow impeded railway traffic throughout Southern Nebraska today. Trains were belated on all railroads. Telephone and telegraph companies encountered persistent troubles.

In Lincoln the street car service was completely paralyzed. The lines to the suburban points were snowed in.

POLICE WIN HARD RACE

W. H. Reynolds Captured as He Was Leaving for Superior.

Automobile Catches Car and Chase Ends With Foot Race.

The police caught W. H. Reynolds, the real estate dealer arrested several days ago for petty larceny, just as he was leaving the state this morning, after an exciting chase in the new Franklin automobile and a hot foot race.

Reynolds' trial was set for this morning. His attempt to leave the city delayed it for a time, but the drawing of a jury was started as soon as he could be taken to the courtroom. The state began the presentation of its case and will continue this afternoon.

Reynolds is out on bail, and as he has been in trouble with the police before, although never convicted of any wrongdoing, the police have been keeping pretty close watch over him.

This morning he took the Superior car at Fifth avenue west. A few minutes later Sergeant John Roberg notified Capt. Fiskett of his action. The big machine was called into play, but it had to be crowded to catch the street car just before it got on the bridge. Reynolds was evidently standing on the rear platform. He saw the police coming and made a break to get away, with Detective Irvine and Capt. Fiskett after him at top speed. Capt. Fiskett says that Reynolds would take a prize at a country fair for a foot racer, but that Detective Irvine would be elegible to enter events at the state fair. The detective caught Reynolds before he reached safety and he was taken back to police headquarters in the machine.

Reynolds is accused of obtaining $3 from Ralph Fiskett on a check drawn on the City National bank. It was made out to "Cash," and it came back with the notation that he had no funds in the institution. Another warrant charges him with obtaining $5 from I. S. Guinn, a clothing dealer, in a similar manner.

The police say that if Reynolds got to Superior, which is in another state, he could not be extradited, as he is charged with but a misdemeanor.

Dickinson at Santo Domingo.

Santo Domingo, Jan. 4.—The U. S. S. Mayflower, having on board Secretary of War Dickinson, Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards and party, who have been visiting Porto Rico, arrived here this morning. The political situation here is quiet.

FAT REDUCTION IS NO SIN

The purpose of Beauty is to refine the native uncouthness of human nature. We all bow to its power. It is the only autocracy that has no nihilist shadow. Alas! This means the fat woman must serve instead of rule, for beauty in woman is a composite of both line and feature.

Thousands of fat women are beautiful of face. But they lag behind in the race for preference—because a too ponderous outline dashes the favor their face has gained them.

Now, pretty fat women can reduce that fat (not the good pure-lined flesh) in a very simple way. No exercise—no dieting is necessary. Let them take one Marmola Prescription Tablet after each meal and at bedtime for a month. The fat will simply fade. No wrinkles or pouches of skin will form, but the loss will be uniform. The fat will go as stealthily as it came; fade away. The health will improve, the eye grow more brilliant, the wit sprightlier. Marmola Tablets are a boon—and harmless (being made from the famous fashionable prescription, ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Fl. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 2½ oz. Peppermint water), and are likewise cheap, a large case of the druggist or the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., costing only seventy-five cents.

TEACHERS HAVING HARD ROW TO HOE

Prof. Marx of Stanford Says They Are Paid Too Little.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 4.—That 80 per cent of the assistant professors in American universities must supplement their salaries by outside work in order to "make both ends meet;" that they receive, on an average, just enough to suffice for an unmarried man, and that 74 per cent of them are married and have families to support, were facts presented with other statistics by Prof. Guido Marx of the engineering college of Stanford university, in a paper on the "Problem of the Assistant Professors," before the Association of American universities, which opened its annual convention at the University of Wisconsin today.

In the absence of Prof. Marx the paper was read by Prof. C. H. Huberich of the Stanford law school.

"Sixty-three and a half per cent of the assistant professors have received some assistance financially in pursuing their studies, preparatory to university teaching," said Prof. Marx. "The scholarships are rarely enough to support the incumbent, and he must go in debt or undertake some outside employment to eke out his funds.

"The rapid increase in the cost of living has made the situation of the assistant professor acute."

This afternoon Dean Louis F. Reber of the University of Wisconsin extension presented a paper on university extension work.

The convention will close tomorrow.

SHOW COURSE OF ZELAYA

Gen. Medina Gives Out Letters and Telegrams About Americans.

Groce and Cannon Were Not Allowed to Communicate With the Consul.

Managua, Nicaragua, Jan. 4.—Gen. Medina of the government forces made public today letters and telegrams in substantiation of the claim that Gen. Toledo and he did all in their power to prevent the execution of Groce and Cannon, the Americans whose death was decreed by President Zelaya.

One of the letters received by Gen. Medina from Groce on the day of the execution is as follows:

"As a last favor, I beg and implore you to delay the execution of the death sentences until an answer is received from Zelaya to our plea for mercy. For God's sake let us live until you can hope no longer as a brother Mason to be proven a friend magnanimous and kind. I beseech you to continue doing everything possible to save us. Words are inadequate to express our gratitude for all that you have already done for our welfare."

Delayed the Executions.

Gen. Medina, who was commanded to see that the will of Zelaya was obeyed, declares that he delayed the execution of the Americans purposely, in the hope that the reprieve asked by Groce would be received. He produces the original copy of two telegrams which he received from the Nicaraguan president on the day preceding the execution, in which Medina was ordered specifically to proceed with the enforcement of the death penalty.

Another telegram received by Medina from Zelaya on the day after Groce and Cannon had been shot, reads:

"I acknowledge your notification of the executions and rejoice that the requirements of the law have been complied with."

The following telegram was sent by Gen. Toledo to Medina, the day before the condemned Americans were killed:

"Am telegraphing president asking that lives of Cannon and Groce be spared. Suppose you have already done so. I await final decision of the president before proceeding with the executions."

Their Message Stopped.

Gen. Toledo also sent a letter to Medina in the course of which Toledo said:

"Show the vanquished every consideration."

Gen. Medina makes public a telegram which was received by him from the director of telegraphs and which indicates that Zelaya attempted to prevent Groce and Cannon from communicating with the United States consul. The director of telegraph wired:

"President disapproved your permitting transmission of telegrams from Groce and Cannon to American consul. He will not permit such concessions, as they are liable to place the government in difficulties."

A private banquet was given by personal friends to Gen. Irias on the eve of his departure for Costa Rica.

President Madriz was present. Irias is leaving the country, he says, in order that the Madriz administration may be relieved of the suspicion of being under the influence of Zelaya's friends.

No Efforts at Peace.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Apparently neither President Madriz nor Gen. Estrada is making any effort in the interests of peace in Nicaragua.

A telegram from United States Vice-Consul Calderra received this morning says that military activity continues at Managua.

Unofficial advices indicate that Estrada is putting his army in readiness for an early move on the capital, and that Madriz is hastening an army eastward to meet Estrada's advance. A conflict, therefore, may be expected before Estrada's army has reached the neighborhood of Managua. Details as to the strength and preparedness of either army are unknown, and what will be the issue of the conflict can only be guessed.

RECORDER SHORT ABOUT $4,500

Missing East Grand Forks Official's Bondsmen Called on to Settle.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—C. P. Zimmerman, the missing recorder of this city is short approximately $4,500 in his accounts.

Last night the city council authorized City Attorney Finlayson to make a demand on the Metropolitan Surety company for that amount, Zimmerman being bonded by that concern.

The defalcations of Zimmerman were made through the juggling of light accounts and have been carried on since last January.

He disappeared Dec. 9 last and shortly afterwards rumors of a shortage began to circulate. An investigation followed and the report presented to the council last night reveals the condition of the city's books. Zimmerman has left his wife here. He was well educated being a graduate of German university. He was also executor of the Father Greene estate and had made a final accounting in that two days before his disappearance, everything being correct.

HULL WANTS COST OF LIVING PROBED

Resolution in House Directly Assails Payne Bill as Causing Rise.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Increased cost of living was the subject of a concurrent resolution offered in the house today by Representative Hull of Tennessee. It provides for a joint committee of seven members of the house and five members of the senate to investigate conditions and report on them as to what remedies may be effected through legislation.

The resolution sets forth that during the last twelve months there has been an advance in the price of commodities of from 11 to 20 per cent, and during the past thirteen years of more than 56 per cent was entirely disproportionate to the increase in wages, making it difficult for millions of people to procure food, clothing and shelter consistent with their needs.

The resolution charges the Payne bill with being a large factor in the rise of prices of necessities through permitting trusts to monopolize products and raise prices. By the terms of the resolution the committee is authorized to sit anywhere and administer oaths to witnesses.

FIGHT MADE ON BRACKEN

State Board of Health Is Said to Be Torn By Dissensions.

Ultimatum Demanding Action Is Served on the Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. M. Bracken of the state board of health, chief working officer of that institution, must choose between his board membership and the secretaryship. He now has both.

This ultimatum, it was reported today, has been practically served on Governor Eberhart by other members of the board, and relates to three appointments on the board which he is now preparing to make. The terms of Dr. Henry Hutchinson of St. Paul and Dr. H. M. Bracken, the present secretary, expired Jan. 1, but they hold over till their successors are named.

How extensive and vigorous the fight on Dr. Bracken has become was made public today in a statement by one close to the new administration that, if Dr. Bracken were reappointed to membership on the board he would lose the position of secretary.

Trouble at University End.

One of the main sources of friction is said to be the university end of the department. The state laboratory is maintained there, and Dr. Bracken, from all accounts, is not on the best of terms with some of its heads. They make the charge of despotism against him, and have carried their grievances to members of the state board, several of whom, it seems, also resent Dr. Bracken's alleged excess of authority.

Governor Eberhart admitted today that a fight was being made on Dr. Bracken, but he refused to discuss the outcome.

SUPERIOR

WELL KNOWN IN SUPERIOR

Alabama Brewer, Who Committed Suicide, Had Relatives Here.

Despondency over his business affairs and poor health are said to be responsible for the death of Frank Pabst, 40 years old, who committed suicide this morning at his home at Montgomery, Ala. News of his act came to relatives at Superior shortly after his death.

Pabst, a relative to the well known Milwaukee brewer, conducted a brewery at Montgomery, Ala., but since the state went prohibition a short time ago, Pabst failed in his business and at the time of his death, it was reported that he was losing money daily.

His wife died three years ago. He is survived by a son, William, 14 years old. He was a brother to Mrs. J. A. Klinkert, the wife of a Superior brewer and was also a brother-in-law to Alderman Paul Domsch of the Seventh ward.

No funeral arrangements have been made, but it is expected that the body will be sent North, either to Milwaukee or Superior for interment. He was well known in Superior where he had frequently visited.

SUPERIOR MAN KILLS HIMSELF IN ASHLAND.

Edgar J. Aker, formerly of Superior, committed suicide last evening while alone in his room at Ashland, Wis., where he has been for the last seven months in the employ of an insurance company. He shot himself through the head with a revolver. He was 24 years old and leaves a wife and two children residing in Superior. He is also survived by two brothers, who reside at Superior. No motive is known for the act.

Early Morning Fire.

A small fire broke out tthis morning at 111 Cumming avenue, one of the resorts in the red light district. The inmates of the house knew nothing of the fire, which was blazing on the roof, until the department arrived. Some one turned in an alarm when they noticed the fire, but did not tell the inmates of the place. All escaped in safety from the building, which was saved by the department.

Admitted to Bail.

H. H. Phelps, former town chairman of Solon Springs, and formerly of the county board, who was convicted in the circuit court of having uttered a forged county order, has been admitted to bail by the court. Bonds in the sum of $2,500 have been arranged for Mr. Phelps by his friends. As soon as the court approves of the bond, he will leave for West Baden, where he will try to regain his former health.

WRITER LIVES WITH THREE BULLETS IN HEAD.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 4.—Miss Margaret Marshall, the former newspaper writer, who attempted suicide at Virginia Beach, first by drinking laudanum and then by shooting herself three times in the head, has recovered sufficiently to leave St. Vincent's hospital in this city. The prospects are that she will fully regain both her sight and hearing, which were impaired by the bullets that entered her head. The doctors have been unable to extract any of the bullets.

Man Blown to Bits.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 4.—One man was blown to atoms and several others are reported injured as a result of a boiler explosion on a pumping boat of the People's Coal company at Industry, Pa., down the Ohio river from here. The explosion was caused by a flue collapsing.

Greek Crisis Passed.

Athens, Jan. 4.—The political crisis is regarded as having been passed. The demands of the military league affecting representatives abroad, especially the ministers at Paris, Berlin, Vienna and Rome, have been met by the government's promise to pass a law limiting the age of diplomats and which will lead to the early recall of the four ministers.

WEAK TONE TO COPPER MARKET

Prices Are Lower in Boston and on the Duluth Exchange.

The copper market opened weak and the tone was heavy throughout the day. There was a slight rally shortly after noon, but prices again eased off and the market closed after a listless session.

The Duluth copper market was moderately active with many soft spots, there being some selling pressure due probably to profit taking on recent bulges in some of the active leaders in the lower priced issues. This was especially true of Calumet & Montana.

Calumet & Sonora was the feature of the market today. This issue has acted well for some time on receipt of advices from the property that development work is showing up an immense tonnage of rich ore. The property is in a position where it can quickly become a large producer. The issue today sold at the opening at $15.50 and quickly went to $16. It sold up to $17 and was firm at the close, there being a few small, scattered offerings at $17.50. Giroux was strong and buoyant on news from the mine which is regarded as extremely favorable. The company has ordered two hoisting engines and a battery of eight boilers. The stock opened at $11.37½ and sold up to $12.37½ and then declined to $12.50.

An important factor in the market is the president's attitude toward corporations, which will be outlined in his special message which will be sent to congress tomorrow. Traders today were disposed to wait until they had read the context of the message. Three messages will be sent to congress in the next few days dealing with railroad rates, trusts and conservation.

London metal was slightly weaker today and American stocks in that market were about on a parity with here. Money rates are higher which is not conducive to a bull market. The report of the copper producers is expected to show a reduction in the stocks in December. Further reductions are expected in January and February. The red metal market is stronger and there is every indication that copper will sell at 15 cents by the middle of March or the first of April. The suspension of all of the mines in the Butte district means a reduction of 27,000,000 pounds of copper monthly. The strike situation there is a serious menace to the stock market.

Butte-Alex Scott part paid sold at $5.75 down to $5.50, then at $5.62½ and at $5.69¼. The full paid sold at $9. Butte Ballaklava sold at $11.25 on the local market and from $11.12½ down to $11 in the East. Zenith sold at $1.75 and $1.81¼. Butte & Superior sold at $2.81¼ up to $2.87½. Calumet & Montana at $2.87½ down to $2.25 and then at $2.18¾. Calumet & Corbin at $1.25.

Amalgamated sold at $89.50 and then at $89 and back to $89.37½. Calumet & Arizona sold at $102 up to $102.50. Greene was a sale at $11.50 and then at $11.37½. North Butte sold at $48 down to $47.75 and then at $48.

THIRD THIEF IS KILLED IN CHICAGO

Man's Clothing Contains Letter From Woman in Minneapolis.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Dan Anderson, alias John Borden, and also known as "Texas," "Bordo," and "The Kentucky Colonel," said by the police to have been an accomplice of Otto Olson, now under arrest, in the attempted robbery of the Norwood Park postoffice yesterday, was shot and killed by the police here today.

Three letters addressed to James Addision and signed by Miss Doris Whitney, 1019 South Second street, Minneapolis, Minn., were found in his pocket.

The shooting occurred as Anderson attempted to escape from a house in which he had been surrounded by the police. The house in which he was found was occupied by Annie Merrill, who says she is the wife of Olson. She was arrested, but at first refused to divulge the identity of the dead man.

This is the third alleged robber who has been killed by the police here since Jan. 1. One of the others was Marion C. Hedgepeth, said to be a noted safe-blower. The third was Harry Featherstone, who had a long record as a daredevil highwayman.

Anderson according to the police, has a criminal record extending back to 1903. He is said to have served a term in the Iowa state prison.

Pope Appoints Bishop.

Rome, Jan. 4.—Upon the recommendation of the consistorial congregation, the pope today appointed Rev. J. J. Rice of St. Peter's, Northbridge, Mass., diocese of Springfield, to be bishop of Burlington, Vt.

FLOWERS WITHOUT FOLIAGE.

Garden Magazine: One of the most extraordinary flowers in cultivation is Hall's amaryllis, which reverses the order of nature by blooming in midsummer without any foliage. Ordinary bulbs bloom in spring and rest in summer, but Hall's amaryllis suddenly appears out of the bare ground during the dry season.

This extraordinary plant has fragrant, rosy lilac flowers which are banded with yellow. In the spring the leaves make their growth, die down, and after a long interval of rest the flower stalks appear with the strange effect here described.

LIGHT BUYING AGAIN SENDS FLAX SOARING

The May Option Sells at $2.16 in the Duluth Market.

Wheat Is Firm and Advances on Buying By Millers.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 4.—Flax again broke all records today by selling up to $2.16 after opening at $2.08¾, a spread of 7¼ points. May flax closed $2.15 asked, 6 cents over yesterday's close. May wheat sold at the opening at $1.13¼ and advanced to $1.14¾, the highest price for the current crop. May durum sold up to $1.01⅝, the record price for the current crop.

The flax market was highly sensitive and responded instantly to the slightest buying. Crushers bought moderately, the demand sending prices upward swiftly. Eastern crushers will not require much flax from this market, but the Minneapolis crushers probably will need all of the available supply in the Northwest, including the stocks in the country. The insistent demand is indictated by the fact that Minneapolis May is about 30c over Duluth, having maintained that differential for several days.

The wheat market was strong, fairly heavy buying by millers, the strength of cash and higher cables sending the market upward from a firm opening. All markets opened strong. Duluth May was higher practically during the entire session than Minneapolis, and it was almost on a parity with Chicago. All of the Northwestern markets were buoyant, Winnipeg reporting a good demand at higher prices. Cash was in demand at higher prices. Cash was 1c under May. Cash at Kansas City went up 2c.

Many traders look forward to a large general speculative trade for the next six months. Speculative excitement, they believe, will become more intense as the "seare season" approaches. The cotton, corn and provisions and wheat markets have just returned large sums in profits to many traders and the market now seems to be in a position to draw upon a large public speculative interest.

Prices are now above those of last year and are at a high level from which to start a bull movement. In wheat the visible supply of the United States is more than 20,000,000 bu less than last year, but there is a theory fondly cherished by the shorts that interior reserves are much in excess of recent years, and that material advances in prices will bring them out. North Dakota reports to The Herald indicate that in some parts of that state from one-fourth to one-third of the wheat crop is in the country, and that farmers are borrowing money more freely than usual in order to carry their grain.

One of the most pronounced factors in the market is the absence of accumulations. The United States visible supply is about 17,000,000 bu more than last July, while the increase in the same time in 1908 was 42,000,000 bu, although the crop in 1909 was 73,000,000 bu larger. There is believed to be wheat enough in this and other countries to supply the world, but there is no surplus. Further damage to the Argentine crop or injury to the Australian crop which is just beginning to be harvested, would easily change the situation.

Receipts in the Northwest are increasing, weather and strike conditions being more favorable for the transportation of shipments. A big movement is not expected, however, for a week or two. Stocks here and at Minneapolis are light and larger supplies are needed before the pressure of cash wheat will be much of a bear factor. Increased receipts should stimulate the milling trade.

There undoubtedly will be a continued liberal run in the spring wheat country as receipts have been kept back by strike conditions and the unwillingness of farmers to tie up their supplies. In other parts of the country recent arrivals have shown a tendency to increase, but there has been no shading of cash prices in the Southwest and shipments have been sufficiently large to make accumulations of consequence impossible.

Bears, who are in a minority, claim that the visible, instead of decreasing from now on, as usual, will show steady increases. They claim that there is more than enough wheat to meet all domestic requirements and in the absence of an export inquiry to afford ample surplus stocks at the end of the crop year. Cash dealers are both sides of the fence. Some are bullishly inclined and others hold an opposite view. The former believe that the government has overestimated the winter wheat crop.

From a foreign standpoint the situation continues bullish. Argentine news being disappointing and English and continental markets displaying a tendency to higher prices. Much concern is felt in regard to the quality of Argentine wheat and there is said to be some doubt about its grading high enough to be delivered on contracts. Cables from Argentina indicate that the crop was damaged to a greater extent by frost than was first reported. Growers and traders there are bullish, but there has not been much of an export demand yet. The official Argentine crop last year was 161,000,000 bu. Estimates place the crop this year at from 150,000,000 to 157,000,000 bu.

Advices from India and Australia are favorable. Reports from the continent are also satisfactory. European stocks are fairly liberal and consumers abroad appear to be in a secure position so far as supplies are concerned. Even though the Argentine surplus is less, the continued heavy shipments from Russia will make up for any ordinary deficit. Wheat on Canadian farms yet to be marketed is estimated at 24,000,000 bu, out of an entire crop of 123,000,000 bu.

Export bids on Manitobas are close to the market. Flour business is moderate. A little cash wheat is being bought by the mills constantly. There is plenty of material for operators on both sides of the market to draw upon and the prospects are for a good scalping market for some time to come.

Durum was ⅝c up, oats ⅜c up, rye, 1c up and barley unchanged. Cash wheat closed 1c under May.

Car receipts at Duluth were 117 cars against 90 cars last year and at Minneapolis 342 cars against 107 cars last year, a total of 459 cars for the Northwest compared with 197 cars last year. Chicago received 41 cars against 11 cars last year and Winnipeg 533 cars in two days compared with 92 cars last year. Kansas City received 128 cars against 42 cars last year and shipped 49 cars against 25 cars last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 683,000 bu, last year, 262,000 bu; shipments, 223,000 bu, last year, 108,000 bu; clearances, 259,000 bu; oats, 3,000 bu; flour, 30,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 394,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 574,000 bu, last year, 205,000 bu; shipments, 350,000 bu, last year, 554,000 bu; clearances, 194,0000 bu.

Broomhall cables from Liverpool: "Firmness characterized the early dealings in wheat, and at the opening values were a penny higher. Offerings were extremely light and shorts excited, stimulated largely by the advance in America yesterday and light American offerings. The continent was a free buyer, and the demand from the early trading, although the receipts were more than had been anticipated. The range at the opening varied from ¼@½c on the different futures with May at 66⅞@67c. In the first hour prices advanced slightly from the opening.

There was a large trade in corn. Prices held firm, advancing slightly toward the close. Final figures for May were ⅝@¾c up at 67¼@67⅝c.

Offerings in oats were limited and the opening prices ranged from ⅛@¼c higher than yesterday's close. May opened at 45⅞@46c.

Provisions started with comparatively few changes but rapidly gained strength and showed an advance of 7½@25c. Opening figures were: January pork, $21.40@21.45; lard, $12.40; ribs, $11.47½.

United states was urgent. Following the opening a further advance of ¼d to ⅝d occurred with good speculative support."

Bartlett-Patten wired:

"Cables on wheat 1¼d to 1½d higher and corn unchanged. Liverpools advices state that the advance caused by shorts covering and the scarcity of Argentine and Australian offers. It is reported that 300,000 bu cash wheat was taken here by domestic millers yesterday. If this should continue we would see higher markets. A great deal depends on how far the farmers market their supplies as to how prices will go. Receipts of corn are over the estimate. Stocks accumulating here and demand moderate. Our Liverpool agent cables: 'Broomhall makes wheat and flour to Europe increase 988,000 bu. Wheat strong with active demand. Consuming buyers are moderately supplied. Argentina and Australian offers scarce and dear. Corn inactive, tendency downward.'"

Minneapolis wired: "There have been four sales today, some mills reporting fair sales and others moderate bookings. The general line of the market is encouraging and better than expected. Cash wheat in good demand, No. 1 northern selling ½@1½c over May. Mills taking the top grades and elevators buying softer grades at ½c over. St. Louis shipments from this market yesterday were equivalent to 386,527 bu of wheat; shipments of wheat, 52,500 bu, making total out movement of 439,027 bu against receipts today of 379,620 bu. With the millers expecting a more active flour market and the trade showing a livelier demand, it is going to be hard to accumulate much wheat in this market. At the present rate it will be spring before stocks are normal.

"Reports from territory along the Soo road show very little wheat moving from farms. One large line reports its elevator holdings moderate, but that it has a lot of wheat in transit. The manager of this line thinks farmers' holdings are little more than normal."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Firm on Estimates of Country Elevator Stocks.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Estimates that the country elevator stocks of wheat in the Northwest would not exceed 65 per cent of last year's holdings, caused firmness today in the wheat pit. The firmness was accentuated by foreign cables denoting a strong market in England with good continental demand. Light offerings abroad and higher premiums paid on La Plata cargoes advanced Liverpool prices 1⅛@1¼d.

The strong cash demand which was felt to a marked degree yesterday in the wheat market here was reflected today in a general good demand during the first hour, many commission houses having buying orders.

May opened ½@¾c higher at $1.13¾@1.14 and soon advanced to $1.14⅜. The more distant futures held to a slightly closer range.

The market continued strong throughout the session in wheat. The high point of the day for the May option, which led the other futures, was $1.14⅞. The market reacted shortly before the close. The final figures for May were $1.14½@1.14⅝, a net gain of 1¼@1⅝c.

Demand was good in the corn pit and a firm tone was maintained in

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Market Opened With Evidence of Continued Pressure to Liquidate

Southern Pacific Had Sharp Gain and Stocks Rose Generally.

New York, Jan. 4.—The opening stock market today showed evidence of continued pressure to liquidate and there were some feverish fluctuations in prices. Running sales of 7,000 shares of United States Steel were made at 88¾@88¾ compared with 89⅛ last night and 3,000 shares of Amalgamated Copper sold at 89¼ and 89½ compared with 90⅜ last night. One hundred shares of Rock Island sold at 54¾ followed by 300 shares at 54⅛ compared with 55 last night. Union Pacific, National Railways of Mexico first preferred and Railway Spring declined 1 and Reading large fractions. Rock Island preferred rose 1 and International Harvester 2.

When Southern Pacific was bid up a point, the list stiffened for a time, but later went to a lower level than before. St. Louis Southwestern rose 2 points, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Ste. Marie 1½. Amalgamated Copper and American Smelting 1⅝, United States Steel and Great Northern ore certificates 1¼ and Pennsylvania, New York Central, Reading, Chicago Great Western, Tennessee Copper, General Electric and Pittsburg Coal, 1. International Harvester preferred rose 1¾.

Prices made further recessions until liquidation had spent its force. Good recoveries followed, but brought the trading to a standstill. Southern Pacific recovered to the best. LaClede Gas rose 1 and Reading and some others got back their declines. New York Central declined 1½; United States preferred 1½ and some others a point or more. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed slightly irregular. Southern Pacific's gain was strength-ended to 3 points, Norfolk & Western sprang into prominence at an advance of 2⅝. The level of prices rose generally over yesterday's close. The rise reached 1 2⅝ in Union Pacific 1⅞ in St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred, 1⅜ in American Sugar and 1 or more in Reading, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pittsburg C. C. & St. Louis, Atlantic Coast Line, Atchison, Kansas & Texas, Pittsburg Coal preferred and Inter-Metropolitan preferred. Board room traders sold prices down a fraction in taking the profits accrued on the upward turn. Norfolk & Western reacted 1½.

Treasury Statement.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The condition of the treasury at the beginning of business today was as follows: Trust funds—Gold coin, $875,614,869; silver dollars, $487,914,000; silver dollars of 1890, $3,841,030; silver certificates outstanding, $487,914,000. General fund—Standard silver dollars in general fund, $1,676,906; current liabilities, $108,298,115; reserve balance in treasury offices, $28,840,667; in banks to credit of treasurer of the United States, $36,141,394; subsidiary silver coin, $16,038,470; minor coin, $1,091,660. Total balance in general fund, $86,562,178.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 4.—The cotton market opened steady but at a decline of 11@16 points, and sold off to a net loss of 27 points in the active months. The decline was owing to weak Liverpool cables and to rumors that leading spot interests were heavy sellers yesterday. Liquidation was very heavy at the start. Stop loss orders were uncovered on a scale down but the market became steadier on support from Southern bulls, with prices recovering 10 or 12 points of the early loss.

Spot closed quiet, 20 points lower; middling uplands, 15.90; do. gulf, 16.15. No sales. Futures closed steady; closing bids: January, 15.68; February, 15.85; March, 15.90; April, 15.98; May, 16.17; June, 16.09; July, 16.15; August, 15.70; September, 14.40; October, 13.69; December, 13.35.

TUESDAY, JAN. 4, 1910.

Scotts are going way up. It is in the air. Minneapolis brokerage houses now being heavy buyers. Look what they are doing to Calumet & Sonora. Mr. N. F. Hugo is one of the biggest holders in that company. He is vice president and general manager of the Butte-Alex Scott company and is a valuable man for this company. At the mine a big rich strike should soon be reported.

We advise the purchase of the Scotts for the biggest safe money of them all. We look for the Scotts to pass Calumet & Sonora after news reaches here that the big vein has been opened up and that the showing is big. Many veins are to be cut before the 1,400 is explored. Don't be afraid now; buy the Scotts with every dollar you can get hold of.

I know of some big orders now in the market, and the insiders are beginning to buy heavily.

Bailakiava is a cinch for a big advance. We certainly advise the purchase, for we believe it is another North Butte, and it is a virgin mine.

St. Mary's will soon have her day. I look for this one to break through 50 cents before Saturday. Buy St. Mary's for the property is proving to be a big one.

Calumet & Corbin, and Calumet & Montana are very strong and look higher soon.

You can not do better at present than take on the Scotts. We absolutely know they are big winners and have got to advance.

PRIVATE WIRES TO ALL MARKETS.

JANUARY 4, 1910.

The market today was a good one, and good trading was in progress throughout the day. Whatever profit-taking appeared was easily absorbed by out-of-town investment orders. We feel that the market is a purchase on any reaction which may occur, and if same should, we strongly advise the purchase of any of the best stocks. However, from the outlook of the market it does not look as though it would have any reaction, and to those who have more money, we strongly advise the purchase of stocks at going prices. Calumet & Sonora was strong today, selling up to $16.50. This issue is hard to buy when one wants to buy, and equally hard to sell when one wants to sell, and we would prefer to take in a stock which has a broader market. We remain very friendly to Calumet & Montana, Calumet & Corbin, Red Warrior, Live Oak, Warrior Development, Savanna, Cactus and the Scotts. They are all worth more money, and on account of the excellent market which they enjoy, they are bound for much higher prices.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE—
Default has been made in the payment of the sum of $20.00 interest, which became due on September 29th, 1909, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Katheryn C. Murphy (unmarried), Mortgagor, to Susie H. Church, Mortgagee, bearing date of September 29th, 1908, and with a power of sale therein contained, and duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in St. Louis County, Minnesota, on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1908, at 9:30 o'clock A. M., in Book 236 of Mortgages, on page 195.
Under and by virtue of the terms of said mortgage, the mortgagee has elected, and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum, together with interest to be due, and there is, therefore, claimed to be due, and is due at the date of this notice, upon said mortgage, the sum of $427.50.
Now, therefore, notice is given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, said mortgage will be foreclosed by sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz.:
The West One-half of the Southeast One-quarter (W½ of the SE¼) and Lot Five (5) of Section Seventeen (17), in Township Fifty-five (55) North of Range Twelve (12) West, and situated in St. Louis County, Minnesota, which sale will be made by the Sheriff of said County, at the front door of the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County and State, on the 20th day of January, A. D. 1910, at 10 o'clock A. M. on that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said sum of $427.50 and interest, and $25.00 Attorneys' fee, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law, subject to redemption at any time within one year, as provided by law.

MANY WOULD HANG ROSSI

Sheriff Bates Beseiged With Applications for the Job.

Some Applicants Would Like Small Cash Payment in Advance.

Many people wish to take a distasteful job off the hands of Sheriff Bates and hang Mike Rossi, who is in the county jail waiting for the date of his death to be set.

While some are doing all in their power to keep the condemned man from death others are just as anxious to take his life, provided, of course, they are well paid for the job.

The requests come in all forms. Some make personal application and others write out their application and state that they will do the hanging and do it well for a certain sum. Some want as high as $150 and others will do it for $25. Some of them would like a small payment in advance.

Since the death sentence was pronounced some time ago by Judge William A. Cant, the applications have become numerous. They come from people in the city and the nearby towns. Most of them are poorly written. One party feels sure that Sheriff Bates' nerve will go back on him when the moment comes and he asks that he be allowed to be present so that if this does happen he can be on the spot to carry on the job.

Sheriff Bates only smiles when the applications come in. "I wonder who is sheriff of this county," he asked this morning. "I am laboring under the delusion that I am and so long as I see things that way I will carry out the orders myself."

Rossi murdered Antonio De Moe in the Omaha railroad yards last fall, was found guilty of murder in the first degree and recently sentenced to hang by Judge Cant. Unless the supreme court interferes, this sentence will be carried out.

NEW NORWEGIAN BUILDING BURNS

Building for Old People's Home at Chicago Ruined By Flames.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The new building of the Norwegian Old People's home, which was to be occupied Jan. 15, was destroyed by fire today. The loss is $65,000. It was thought the fire might spread to the old building, immediately adjoining and the sixty-three aged inmates were taken to places of safety after a small panic. The new home was to be opened with elaborate ceremonies and prominent Norwegians from all parts of the country were planning to attend the opening.

REARRESTED AT JAIL DOOR

Joseph Amborsky's Dreams of Liberty Are Rudely Shattered.

Joseph Amborsky, who yesterday finished his term of six months at the county jail was rearrested at the door of the jail as he was about to depart. The arrest was made on a separate and distinct charge. The offense for which he served time was the sending of obscene matter through the mails. He will now be tried on a charge of using the mails of the United States to defraud.

It is claimed that Ambrosky did a thriving mail-order business, sending out printed matter from Duluth, St. Paul and other cities. He had a printing shop in his house where the pamphlets were set into type.

BIBLE SOCIETY IS HOPEFUL OF FUND

Belief Is That $500,000 Needed to Get Sage Gift Is Raised.

New York, Jan. 4.—A casting up of the books of the American Bible society late today is expected to show that the organization had raised the $500,000 necessary to secure the equal amount given it by Mrs. Russell Sage. This morning's mails brought still further contributions from the South and West and it was expected that, added to yesterday's receipts by mail of upwards of $20,000 and Saturday's $30,000 or more, the $100,000 found to be needed at the last casting up of the books would be supplied.

Duluth, Minn., December 6th, 1909.
TO THE SHAREHOLDERS OF AMERICAN EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK OF DULUTH:

BALLINGER-PINCHOT RESOLUTIONS GIVEN IN BOTH THE HOUSES

Joint Measure Provides for Deep Probe of the Land Office.

Nelson Likely to Head the Committee Chosen for Investigation.

Senator Jones Makes Speech Declaring His Faith in the Secretary.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Investigation of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy is ordered by a joint resolution today introduced in the senate by Mr. Jones and in the house by Mr. Humphrey, both of Washington. The provision is for the broadest kind of public inquiry, the resolution being of the character requiring the signature of the president, which gives to it all the force of general law.

A committee of twelve is to be appointed to conduct the investigation, six of whom shall be designated by Vice President Sherman and six by Speaker Cannon. Unquestionably Senator Nelson, chairman of the senate committee on public lands, will head the list of senators, and this doubtless, will result in his selection as chairman of the joint committee.

"Thorough and Complete."

The scope of the investigation is outlined as follows:

"The committee is hereby empowered and directly to make a thorough and complete investigation of the administration and conduct of the interior department, its several bureaus, officers and employes, and of the bu-

TAFT MAKES NEW CHANGE

Decides to Send Special Message to Congress on Friday.

Glavis Matter Will Be Submitted Thursday Instead of Later.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The further announcement was made at the White House today that President Taft's combined special message on the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws would not go to congress until Friday.

It was stated that the president desired that further time should be given for the distribution of the message, which will be sent out in printed form this afternoon.

The message transmitting the attorney-general's report on the Glavis charges against Secretary Ballinger will be sent to congress tomorrow, instead of Friday.

Talked With Senators.

Today's announcement caused some surprise, since last night it was given out at the White House that after a

HEAR MORE OF PRICE OF MILK

Investigators in New York Resume Probe of an Alleged Trust.

New York, Jan. 5.—Milk at the increased price of 9 cents a quart will enable the large milk companies to pay dividends three times as high as the big ones of recent years. This was the assertion of counsel for the state in the milk investigation, which was resumed here today, and it was expected that much of today's testimony would be on lines calculated to sustain this contention.

District Attorney Whitman of New York, who succeeded William T. Jerome on Jan. 1, appeared in the proceedings today, having volunteered his assistance to the state authorities.

NEW HEINZE SENSATION?

Hints Are Thrown Out in Filing of Demurrer to the Indictments.

Account of Scenes in Grand Jury Room Is Promised By Counsel.

New York, Jan. 5.—Hints that there would be sensational developments shortly in the cases of the indicted officials of the United Copper company were thrown out today when counsel for F. Augustus Heinze entered a demurrer to the indictments against Heinze and obtained the adjournment of a hearing on a charge involving other officers and directors of the company.

Heinze and his brother, Arthur P. Heinze, were both in the United States circuit court when the cases came up, having arrived early today from Montana. F. Augustus Heinze pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging him with over-certification and misapplication of the funds of the Mercantile National bank, the former Morse-Heinze institution. Argument on the demurrer was set for Jan. 13, when a motion to quash the indictment also will be entered.

Graud Jury Scandal?

It was stated that the motion will be accompanied by allegations of unusual interest concerning acts and statements in the grand juryroom when the indictments were found.

It is the general charge of the prosecution that the Mercantile bank funds were used in financing a pool in United Copper stocks, and when the books of the United Copper company were wanted by the grand jury the books were spirited away. In this connection Arthur P. Heinze, Carlos Warfield, Samuel Robinson and Galvin Geer, directors and officers of the United Copper company, were indicted for conspiracy. The conspiracy case also was continued to Jan. 13.

In the Mercantile bank case, Heinze's original bail of $50,000 was continued.

INQUISITIVE BOY SAVES GIRL'S LIFE

Messenger Reads Note Telling of Intention to Commit Suicide.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 5.—The inquisitiveness of a messenger boy saved the life of a young woman giving the name of Miss Eva Hains, 19 years old, who had taken several bichloride of mercury tablets with suicidal intent.

The girl wrote a note to a male friend informing him of her intentions and gave it to the messenger to deliver. The messenger read the missive, hurried to the police station and Police Surgeon Mudd reached the girl's room in time to save her life.

AMERICAN IS HELD BY RUSSIAN COURT

Condemned for Negligence in Explosion on Submarine Last August.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 5. — Joseph K. Meads, an American, and two local engineers were condemned by the superior court today to one week's arrest for negligence in connection with the explosion on the submarine Dragon, in the Neva river, last August. This reverses the decision of the admiralty investigation committee, which found that the accident was due to unavoidable causes.

Meads, whose home is in Baltimore, was the engineer of the Dragon, and in the employ of the builder, Simon Lake of Bridgeport, Conn. He and sixteen others were injured in the explosion, which was said to be due probably to the ignition of benzine. The submarine, built for the Russian government, had not been formally accepted at the time.

PASSENGERS STALLED ON TRAIN BURN TIES IN FIGHT WITH DEATH

Hundred Are Caught Between Washouts in Mountains in Nevada.

Storm and Cold Wave Still Hold Parts of Country in Tight Grip.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 5.—A missing passenger train, according to a message received at the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake road office, is stalled between two washouts, 100 miles from Caliente, Nev. There are more than 100 passengers on board. They have burned all the coal in the tender, and now are burning ties to escape freezing. Food has been obtained from the diner.

Arrangements are being made to remove the passengers by wagon.

Suffering in New York.

New York, Jan. 5.—New York, after one of the coldest nights of the winter, was confronted with a snow storm today.

The sufferings of the night, induced by a minimum temperature of 9 deg. above and a biting wind, were intense in the poorer quarters. The municipal lodging house alone entertained nearly 500 persons, over a score of them women.

Two men and two women fell from the waiting line at the lodging house and had to be taken to hospitals, suffering from exposure. One of the women may die.

A thinly clad wanderer was picked up dead on the street today. He had died from exposure. Another unidentified man fell unconscious in the snow

NOTHING DOING ABOUT STRIKE

Knapp Says It Is Up in the Air---Perham Makes No Statement.

Washington, Jan. 5.—"What we can do has not been determined yet, and what we may do is wholly problematic."

This statement was made today by Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, respecting the situation created by the strike of the switchmen of the Northwestern railways.

Dr. Neill, commissioner of labor, the associate mediator with Chairman Knapp, returned to Washington today, having been absent for two or three days on official business.

H. B. Perham, unofficially representing the striking switchmen, hopes to have a further conference with Chairman Knapp and Dr. Neill late today or tomorrow. Meantime, Mr. Perham has no statement to make.

GOVERNOR HUGHES TELLS SOLONS TO KILL TAX LAW

Special Message Criticises Plan for Levying on Incomes.

Says State Rights Are Imperilled By Proposed Amendment.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5. — Governor Hughes, in a message today to the state legislature, urges that body not to ratify the proposed constitutional amendment conferring upon the Federal government the power to lay and collect an income tax "from whatever source derived" without apportionment among the states according to population. The governor says:

"I am in favor of conferring upon the Federal government the power to lay and collect such a tax. I believe that this power should be held by the Federal government so as properly to equip it with the means of meeting national exigencies.

"The power to tax incomes should not be granted in such terms as to subject to federal taxation the incomes derived from bonds issued by the state itself, or those issued by municipal governments organized under the state's authority.

VOTE IN FAVOR OF COPPER MERGER

Boston Consolidated Shareholders Ratify Terms at Special Meeting.

London, Jan. 5.—At a special meeting of shareholders of the Boston Consolidated Copper company today the agreement signed on Dec. 20 providing for an amalgamation of the Boston Consolidated and the Utah Copper company, under the terms arranged in New York, was ratified.

The agreement was criticised sharply by the stockholders present, and the motion to ratify was lost on a show of hands. However, in a subsequent poll, the directors produced American proxies giving an overwhelming majority in favor of amalgamation.

WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN PERISH

Husband Leaps From Burning Building and May Die of Injuries.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Linton Davidson and her two children were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed the Hovenden livery barn on Main street. Mrs. Davidson's husband jumped from a second-story window to the icy pavement, and suffered injuries which may cause his death.

Davidson did not jump until after he had put his wife and children on the roof, where he thought they would be safe until rescued. Mrs. Davidson feared to jump from the roof with the babies, and when it tumbled in, all three went down with it.

Joseph Pacey, an aged man who roomed with the Davidsons, is supposed to have perished also.

BISHOP PLEADS FOR GOLDMAN

Urges Detroit Police to Remove Ban on Speech By Anarchist.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 5.—Bishop Charles D. Williams of the Episcopal diocese of Michigan yesterday, with Carl E. Schmidt and Conrad Pfeiffer, called on Police Commissioner Croul to see whether the police prohibition against Emma Goldman's proposed speech here next Sunday could be withdrawn. The commissioner's callers made it plain that they were acting purely in the interests of free speech and were not espousing Emma Goldman's cause. Commissioner Croul asked for time to consider the matter.

DECLARE 2 PER CENT ON BIG FOUR COMMON.

New York, Jan. 5.—The directors of the "Big Four" declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on the common stock. The last dividend paid on the security was in March, 1908, a dividend of 1 per cent.

Negro Executed in Prison.

Dannemora, N. Y., Jan. 5. — Frank Jackson, a negro, was electrocuted at Clinton prison today for the murder of his wife at Sandy Hill, N. C., in August, 1908.

SUBMITTED TO SECOND SURGICAL OPERATION

JANE ADDAMS.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Miss Jane Addams, head of the Hull House social settlement, successfully underwent a surgical operation today, and is pronounced out of danger. The operation was necessary because of an unsuccessful operation for appendicitis twelve years ago.

NEGROES TO HANG FEB. 5

Assailants of Kansas City Woman Bitterly Scored By the Court.

Judge Refuses to Classify Them as High as Murderers.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—"I do not care to desecrate the day by ordering these two brutes hanged on the legal hanging day."

With this unusual declaration from the bench, Judge Ralph S. Latshaw, in the criminal court here, today sentenced George Reynolds and John Williams, negroes, found guilty last night of assaulting Mrs. W. F. Jackson. The judge sentenced the pair to be hanged Saturday, Feb. 5.

"They do not even deserve to be classed with the murderer who must pay the penalty for his crime with his life," said Judge Latshaw. "It would be an insult to men who had at least a spark of manhood in their hardened souls to have such brutes as these put in their class."

Verdict in Six Minutes.

The verdict of guilty was returned last evening after the jury had considered the case less than six minutes and following Mrs. Jackson's pathetic relation of terrible experiences at the hands of the negroes.

Other prisoners in the county jail loudly applauded the verdict, and become so demonstrative that it was necessary to remove the negroes to another part of the building. Reynolds and Williams were even scorned by the other prisoners of their own race.

Unmoved by Sentence.

The convicted negroes maintained a stolid indifference throughout. They slept heartily last night, ate breakfast this morning with relish and received their sentence unmoved.

Two negro lawyers, who defended the pair, refused to prepare an appeal. Judge Latshaw sentenced the two convicted men to be hanged at the earliest date allowed by law.

ROCK ISLAND SALES HEAVY

Thousands of Shares of the Common Stock Thrown on the Market.

New York, Jan. 5.—Unloading of thousands of shares of Rock Island common stock today on the stock exchange drove the price of that security down from 54 to 50% and opened the flood gates of countless reports, chief of which was that Daniel G. Reid, one of the controlling interests in the railroad, was reducing his commitments preparatory to a trip to Europe.

Mr. Reid was at his office today and it was said that he expected to take his usual winter vacation next month. Whether Mr. Reid was selling any of his holdings in the Rock Island could not be learned.

The governors of the exchange will act next Wednesday on the report of the special committee appointed to investigate the recent sensational skyrocketing of Rock Island stock when the price bounded from 51 to 81 and back again in fifteen minutes.

Refined Sugar Advanced.

New York, Jan. 5.—All grades of refined sugar were advanced 10 cents per 100 pounds today.

Amazement and Indignation Are Expressed Over Miller Episode.

Heads of Administration Have Yet to Deny the Charges.

Members Regard Cutting Off of Patronage as Call to Battle.

Washington, Jan. 5.—With amazement, in some cases bordering on anger, the insurgent Republican members of the house today read the published reports that they are to be singled out by the administration for punishment for their "rebellious conduct" as members of the majority party of the house. It was the great topic of conversation among them in the cloakrooms and, indeed, wherever two or more of them met.

Several of the insurgents were unsparing in their denunciation of a policy which sought to punish a man for freedom and independence of thought and action, as they expressed it. Not a few were loath to believe that President Taft would lend his aid to an effort to administer castigation to them for supporting the very principles and policies for which they claimed the party itself stood pledged. Representative Madison of Kansas expressed a view of the matter to which several of his associates subscribed.

Speaks For Insurgents.

He said: "We insurgents, as we are called, are not against Taft or his policies. We are unanimously, I believe, in favor of every leading reform to which the president and the Republican party are committed. For instance, I am in favor of postal savings banks, conservation of natural resources, regulation of injunction, reform of federal court procedure, government regulation and control of industrial and carrying corporations, the publication of campaign

KELLY MAY RUN AGAINST TAWNEY

Time to Break Up Combination With Aldrich and Cannon.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Capt. Thomas H. Kelly of Owatonna, who was the firebrand of the "harmony" banquet in that city last Wednesday, denouncing Congressman James A. Tawney in vigorous fashion, was in St. Paul yesterday and explained where he stood towards contesting Mr. Tawney's renomination.

"I haven't any use for a congressman's job," he said, "but if I have the support of the Roosevelt Republicans in the First district, I will file for it. "It is about time to break up the combination between Aldrich, Cannon and Tawney, and I am willing to try it if I am wanted.

"There is plenty of time yet before I need to file. Next summer will be soon enough."

Capt. Kelly is proud of the fact that he was a Civil war soldier, and has been in flour milling and other business in Owatonna for forty-five years. He has never held any office except mayor of his city and chairman of the board of county commissioners of Steel county, but he has had his hand in politics always as a Republican.

"But I put Mark H. Dunnell out of business twenty years ago and helped put Milo White in his place, because he turned down the postmaster in my town," he added with a chuckle.

COXE TO HEAD COURT

New York Jurist Picked to Preside in New Customs Tribunal.

Nominations Are Sent to the Senate By President Taft.

Washington, Jan. 5.—President Taft today sent to the senate the nomination of members of the new court of customs appeals, authorized under the Payne tariff law.

To be presiding judge: Alfred Coxe, at present United States circuit judge of the Second circuit.

To be associate judges: William H. Hunt, at present United States judge for the district of Montana; James F. Smith, formerly governer general of the Philippine Islands, former judge of the supreme court of the Philippine islands, and former collector of customs in the Philippines; O. M. Barber of Vermont, a prominent lawyer of that state; Marion Devries, at present chairman of the board of general appraisers at New York.

CLIMB NOT TOO HIGH, LEST THE FALL BE GREATER.

COPPER SHARES ARE ERRATIC

Trading Is Active But Several Weak Spots Are Hammered.

The local copper market was spotty today although trading was broad and active. The Eastern markets were in the dumps. Trading was professional in character and the shorts took advantage of the decline to hammer leading issues such as Amalgamated and Steel common. The market lacked strength and the trend was downward with few rallies.

Copper has sold at 14 cents for electrolytic and 14½ cents for lake. Some producers think there will be 15-cent metal by Feb. 1, but such a quotation for electrolytic by that date is not likely. That the price of the metal will advance and will be strong in the spring is predicted by all leading producers.

Some of the Butte mines resumed work today but the labor situation is still critical and it is doubtful if the mines will be able to operate

The local market had many soft spots today, due to some profit-taking on the recent bulge and small liquidation. Offerings were absorbed easily. Calumet & Sonora is still a tower of strength. It sold at $18 at the opening and declined, however, on profit-taking and in sympathy with the market to $17.50 and then to $17.25. It is rumored that this stock will enter the dividend class in the near future with a flattering disbursement to shareholders. Its small capitalization makes it susceptible to quick movements. It has not been considered a speculative stock for some time, in fact, since it was selling at more than twice its present quotation several years ago. Speculative interest is becoming centered in it, however, and it occupies a strong strategic position in the market.

One thousand shares of Rawhide changed hands on the local market at 7½ cents. St. Mary's sold at 38, 40 and 39 cents. Keating was a sale at $2.25, $2.37½ and then at $2.12½. Calumet & Corbin sold at $1.25 and $1.37½. Calumet & Montana sold at $2.12½ up to $2.18¾. The Scotts were bullish on news of further discoveries on the 1,400 level and a pronounced buying movement from Butte. The part paid sold at $5.75 up to $6.25 and the full paid sold at $9 and then at $9.50.

Cactus was a sale at $6 and Copper Queen was active at 80 cents. Full paid Cordova sold at $3.50, $4.37½ and then at $2.37½. Warrior sold at $15.25 and declined to $14.87½. Butte-Ballaklava was traded in at $11.12½ up to $11.62½ and down to $11.50. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $16.

Amalgamated sold at $89.50 down to $87.12½ and Calumet & Arizona declined from a sale at $101.50 to $101 and back to the opening. Greene sold at $11.75 down to $11.50. North Butte was weak and on liquidation declined from $48.25 to $46.50. Steel common declined from $89.50 to $87.25

N. F. Hugo, general manager of the Butte Alex Scott properties, received the following telegram from Capt. Charles J. Stone late last night: "Have cut vein north on 1099 drift. In six feet on vein, chalcopyrite ore." It is not yet known here whether the vein is Modoc or one of the several smaller strata of mineral matter between the vein and the shaft from which drifting toward the Modoc vein has been in progress for about two weeks. From the confident characterization "vein," the local office is inclined to believe that "vein" means the big Modoc.

A car of ore averaging slightly more than $200 in gold to the ton was shipped yesterday from the mine of the Duluth-Toroda company, near Republic, Wash., to the Granby smelter. Besides smelter ore shipments the mill is being operated continuously. The returns from the mill are sufficient to meet all expenses and leave a profit. The smelter ore is clear profit. On the present basis of production, it is expected that the initial dividend will be declared in the near future and that disbursements to shareholders can be easily maintained with the present ratio of values and production.

PANAMA LIBEL CASE IS SET FOR JAN. 24.

New York, Jan. 5.—Although the government asked to have the trial begun at once, Judge Hugh, in the United States circuit court, today set Jan. 24 as the date for the trial of the Press Publishing company, publishers of the New York World, for alleged libel growing out of published statements regarding the Panama canal purchase.

A. O. H. Division No. 1

Annual installation of officers will take place this evening. A social session will follow the work. All members are requested to be present.

WOMEN RELEASED IN RHEINSTROM AFFAIR.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 5.—The charges of loitering preferred against Edna Loftus of New York and a female companion, by relatives of Harry Rheinstrom, whose alleged infatuation for Miss Loftus caused his confinement in a sanitarium last week, were dismissed when brought to trial in police court today. The women were arrested Monday at the conclusion of a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, by which Miss Loftus sought Rheinstrom's release.

SUPERIOR

RAILROADS WILL REDUCE ALL SWITCHING CHARGES.

After a two day's conference with the traffic committee of the Superior Commercial club, the representatives of the railroads entering Superior, yesterday afternoon agreed to lower the switching charges now prevailing in the city limits of Superior to equal those in force in Duluth. The reduction will amount to almost 40 per cent. Resulting from the agreement, the complaint filed sometime ago by the city officials with the state railroad commission asking that the matter of switching charges be looked into, will be dropped at the city's request.

PHELPS IS OUT ON BAIL.

Judge Vinje of the circuit court today approved of the $2,500 bond furnished for E. D. Phelps, formerly of the county board and at one time chairman of the town of Solon Springs, who was convicted recently of uttering a forged county order, and Phelps was admitted to bail. Upon his release from the custody of the sheriff, Mr. Phelps left immediately for his home in Solon Springs.

It is rumored that the attorneys for Alex McAloon, who is awaiting trial in the circuit court on a charge similar to that upon which Phelps was convicted, will move for a change of venue in the case. It is understood that it is desired to have the case tried in the superior court. The attorneys are expected to make the motion today or tomorrow.

Defer Vote Until 1911.

The city council at a meeting last evening, adopted the majority report of a license committee, in which it was advised that the matter of placing the $1,000 license question on the ballot at the spring election be turned down, and instead the matter brought up at the municipal election in 1911.

Caught After a Year.

Jerry McCloud, a fugitive for over a year, was arrested yesterday by the Superior police on a charge of burglary at the Daisy mill at the East end, which occurred in November, 1908. He was arraigned in municipal court yesterday and demanded an examination. His trial was set for Jan. 10. In default of $300 bail he was taken to jail.

Fugitive From Justice.

Sam Simonson, wanted by the sheriff of Virocqua county to answer to a serious charge preferred by a young woman, was arrested late yesterday at Superior. The man is held at the police station awaiting the arrival of the Virocqua county authorities. Simonson has been a fugitive from justice for several weeks.

MINNESOTA MAN NAMED CONSUL AT CHUNGKING.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albert W. Pontius of Minnesota was today nominated to be consul at Chungking, China.

Butte-Alex Scott Mine

Located on Butte Hill

Namely the Richest Hill in the World

This mine is on the same vein system as the great Leonard and High Ore mines and only a short distance from the Minnie Healey, for which Mr. Augustus Heinze received $13,000,000.00, after taking out millions. This mine, on account of the immense fortune it made for Heinze had much to do with causing the great panic we had in this country.

Now then, we are giving the stockholders of the Butte-Alex Scott another such a mine. Big bodies of Chalcocyprite ores are being opened north of the shaft, and last night they were in six feet and still in ore. We are opening up one of the very richest mines in Montana today, and our people should easily make two million dollars before ninety days have rolled around. This is a mine in ten thousand and as big as fifty of many you read so much about. This is a real mine like the North Butte or Calumet & Arizona.

MADRIZ INVESTIGATING DEATHS OF AMERICANS.

Managua, Jan. 5.—Gen. Vasquez has left to assume command of the government forces at Acoyapa, where an engagement with the insurgent army now moving westward may take place soon. Members of the local Red Cross branch have gone to Bluefields, where remain many of the prisoners taken by Gen. Estrada in the battle of Rama.

President Madriz today began a personal investigation of the executions of the Americans, Groce and Cannon, with the object of placing the responsibility. Salomon Selva, who appeared as government prosecutor before the court-martial, will be found jointly responsible with Zelaya, it is expected.

City of Mexico, Jan. 5.—Jose Zelaya denies that Groce and Cannon were forbidden to communicate with the American consul. He was shown a dispatch stating that Gen. Medina had produced evidence to show that Zelaya had forbidden them to put their case before the consul.

CONCERNING WOMAN.

There comes to all people at times of course, moments of a dull but glorious blue when one questions oneself, intensely, "What's the use?" and up to the hour of going to press no one has answered. Woman has her share of this self inquisition or maybe a little more, and it seems at times when many of her particular pleasures are made impossible; when she must greet the new year by bobbing for apples or some other infantile pastime, when her whole nature desires to be singing, "We'll all have just one more hot chocolate—and then do what?—Go home," when, to return to the original thought that began this discursive discourse, she plumbs the depths of despair, and nothing, not even the sensation of new silk stockings will bring from that abysmal darkness one faint flickering gleam of comfort to lead her on and up from the lugubrious gloom that envelopes, surrounds, penetrates and engulfs her then—to return to the original thought—there is a moment when some slight bit of comfort comes to her and that is when she thinks what a keen source of satisfaction woman is to mankind. Every man who would inveigh against established orders begins with woman and ends there. She has sat in church and heard thunders of accusation hurled at her well coiffured but defenseless head. She has been called simple-minded; college professors have psychologically analyzed her; decadent poets have written about her poisonous influence; rabid dramatists have made her the snaky heroine of many five-act dramas, and that's something is it not? Does it not give one a feeling of filling some useful place in the world when one happens to think that one has been the subject of inspiration of such diatribes? Surely it does. When women really begins to feel the place that she occupies in the psychologic dissection of all the human weaknesses it checks her right up, and she feels as useful as the next, for what would the decadent poets and the psychologic investigators and the morbid dramatists do without woman? What would they do?

But a new finger of scorn has been pointed at her. (Every one who should be reading the sporting section instead of the woman's page is requested to discontinue right here and turn to the front page to find out what congress is doing.) Rheumatism is woman's fault, so say some doctors. She will wear corsets, and she undoubtedly wears them too tight, and the poison that causes rheumatism becomes congested in her stomach, and then her knuckles swell up, and there you are. The mere fact that not a few men who no one in their maddest flights of fancy would accuse of wearing straight fronts have been known to hobble around with lack-luster eye and pain-tortured bodies, has nothing to do with it. Woman and her corsets are the cause of rheumatism in the world. Isn't that nice? Added to her mean disposition, her mindlessness, her lack of progress, her oft times uselessness to society, is added this culminating charge of bringing rheumatism upon a suffering humanity. So long as one is going to be a peace-disturber, one might as well be a first-class, front-row sinner, and this accusation is what might be vulgarly known as a beaut.

The doctors hasten to add that X-ray photographs and medically prescribed corsets may offset the work of generations, and that's some comfort. But being the mere cause of so much excitement quite lifts one out of the slough of despond.

SIEGEL-MARCUS

Wedding Takes Place at Old Masonic Temple.

The wedding of Miss Mae Siegel of this city and Cassel Marcus of Fargo took place last evening at 5:30 o'clock at the old Masonic Temple hall. The bride was attended by Miss Rose Cohen of Superior, Miss Sara Hurvick and little Miss Pearl Siegel and Master Leslie Hurvick, the latter as ring bearer and flower girl. The groomsmen were Julius Siegel and Julius Cohen. The bride wore a gown of white satin trimmed in silver lace and pearls and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore yellow satin and carried pink roses and the bridesmaid wore a gown of pink satin and carried pink roses.

After a wedding trip Mr. Marcus and his bride will be at home at Fargo, N. D. The out of town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. I. Cohen and daughters of Hibbing, Mrs. Marie Kosing, Miss Natalie Kosing, Miss Etta Kosing of Minneapolis; Mrs. Franklin of New York city, Miss Jennie Aronsohn of St. Paul, Miss Celia Sloane of Hurley, Wis., Miss Rora Levitz, Jake Levitz and Alexander Rosenbloom of Fargo, N. D.

MARDI GRAS FESTIVAL

To Be a Shriners' Event For February.

Duluth is to have a mardi gras festival this year and the Shriners will be the hosts and backers of the affair. The festival will be given the evening of Feb. 8, the day before Ash Wednesday and will be held at the Armory. In the costumes, floats and gay decorations, the spirit of the famous festival will be emulated as far as possible and the evening will be given over to a riot of color and fun. The committees of the Shriners are working on the affair and the details will be announced as soon as possible. The members and their friends will be guests at the festival.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION

Formal State Affair Is Held at White House.

Washington, Jan. 5—The first and probably the most brilliant of formal state receptions planned for the present White House season was given last night by the president and Mrs. Taft in honor of the diplomatic corps. Some 1,500 guests in all were invited.

The reception marked a change in the manner of conducting the great state affairs at the White House and for the first time for many years, refreshments were served.

The Blue Room circle, which flourished during the Roosevelt administrations, when a selected coterie of social friends were invited "behind the line," was entirely done away with.

The number of invitations issued to each of the big receptions had been materially reduced by Mrs. Taft, whose idea is said to be that every guest present should feel himself or herself the personal guest of the president and his wife, and all should be treated alike.

In the receiving line were only the vice president, Mrs. Sherman, the members of the cabinet and the women of their households.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular meeting of the West Duluth W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. T. Culbertson of 1625 Jefferson street. The meeting will open at 2:30 o'clock. The leader for the afternoon will be Mrs. Alfred Jaques and the subject, "Wasted Resources."

FIRST WOMAN FOOTBALL COACH

ESTELLE SHERWIN.

"Football coach" is a new departure for women. Miss Estelle Sherwin is the first of her sex to adopt this profession. She is the football coach for the children of San Pedro, who use the street playgrounds for their recreations. She also inculcates the fine points of baseball, basket ball and volley ball. When not engaged in her athletic work she teaches a grade in the San Pedro schools.

THE SLIM FIGURE

Continues to Be the Designers Favorite Model.

The slim silhoutte for another season—that is the latest Paris edict, says Women's Home Companion for December. The big, famous couturieres today are tyrannical only about this one thing. They insist upon designing their most effective gowns for only the slim, svelte figure. The large woman with broad hips, full bust and proportionately large waist is apparently regarded too impossible to consider. In all other ways, these Parisian arbiters of fashion are becoming less and less rigid in their dress edicts and this season, more than ever before, the costumes displayed show an infinite variety of styles.

On a number of points, however, the largest establishments all agree. For instance, shoulders are still narrow, skirts are round in length and fall straight in line. Sleeves are long and narrow for the street, but both elbow length and long for indoor wear. The transparent sleeve is not so much seen. Waists definitely define the deviation from this, it is the waistline raised a trifle rather than lowered. Draperies are greatly used, but the narrower they are the more fashionable. Coats are seen in all lengths. Drecoli favors the short suit-coat. Separate coats are invariably long.

Fashion's Fads.

Petunia color is a new shade for street suits.

One of the striking evening wraps seen in a restaurant the other night was of heavy white silk embroidered with colors which resembled an old cashmere shawl.

This decoration was at the hem of the wrap, while rows of narrow bands of white fox were used on the upper part.

A huge collar of white fox completed this lovely manteau.

Black or brown chantilly lace veils are fashionable. White veils are no longer worn by Parisian women who keep in close touch with the whims of fashion.

Champagne-colored veils of very large and usually unbecoming meshes are displayed in the shops.

Veil pins are worn, and those who attend to the important details of dress aim at a color harmony with the rest of the costume.

One is used to hold the veil on the top of the hat, and another at the back of the neck.

A novelty in jewelry is a tiny locket containing a watch. This is worn on a narrow band of black velvet, with jeweled clasps. The striving for the unusual has caused the Parisienne to place this around her neck.

CLOQUET IS PROSPERING

Sawmill Center Sees Rainbow of Promise in Year 1910.

Much Has Been Accomplished During the Year Just Ended.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—During the past year Cloquet enjoyed a period of prosperity that is immensely gratifying to those interested in the city's welfare. Work in plenty was to be found on all sides, and the demand for labor was so urgent that during the past summer wages were advanced 10 per cent by all the lumber companies to induce new men to come and supply the demand.

Many Civic Improvements.

Along the lines of civic improvements the city has made an enviable showing. The new system of water works and sewer, which was started in 1908, was completed last year, and now practically every part of the city has water connection. A new postoffice was built and the carrier force enlarged, thus relieving the congested conditions experienced theretogore. The erection of the new brick Garfield school, which will be completed within a few weeks, can not be underestimated, as the enrollment of pupils in the schools far exceeds the present accommodations. At the last session of the state legislature a bill was passed accepting the tract of land south of here to be used as a state experimental station and an appropriation for the establishment of the same was secured mainly through the efforts of local citizens.

The year 1910 will in all probability be a banner year for Cloquet, if the plans laid by the Commercial club and other organizations materialize. The watchword of the community is "boost," and opportunities for growth and advancement will not be wasted.

Expect Experimental Station.

A thoroughly equipped experimental station will undoubtedly be established this year, and its value is unquestioned. On the Fond du Lac Indian reservation there will be a large tract of land opened for settlement, and an effort will be made to advertise the opening in such a way that people will realize the splendid productiveness of the soil and so make the surrounding country one valued for its farming facilities.

In the city proper the outlook for the erection of several new wood-working factories, and the like, is encouraging. In the wake of the steel plant at Duluth will come the smaller factories, and as Cloquet can furnish good sites, good shipping facilities and an abundance of raw material, it seems more than probable that she will get her share of these subsidiary factories.

GIFFORD PINCHOT WIRES DYING MAN

Head Forester Cheers W. R. McKinnon Before Latter Expires.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Word was received here this morning from Denver, Colo., that W. R. McKinnon, a highly esteemed member of the forestry service, was dead. At his bedside were several of his old comrades and one brother.

Shortly before dying Mr. McKinnon stretched out his hand to one near him and said, "I am going to leave you; don't forget to say good-by for me to all the boys."

Message From Pinchot.

A few hours before passing away he received the following telegram from Gifford Pinchot, chief forester: "I have heard with regret of your condition, and wish to express my deep appreciation of your faithful and efficient work as a member of this service."

The telegram pleased the dying man immensely. The body will be brought here for interment. Mr. McKinnon's father, mother and three brothers are living here.

Chief Clerk Not Implicated.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Palmer Nickey, chief clerk of the Dakota division of the Great Northern in Grand Forks, who was called to St. Paul Friday night in connection with the pass fraud investigation, returned Monday night and resumed work in Supt. Kelsey's office. A letter was made public here from Chief Agent Ray showing that Nickey is in no way implicated in the affair.

Advises China to Arbitrate.

Pekin, Jan. 5. — Because of Great Britain's position as Portugal's protector, Sir John N. Jordan, British minister to China, yesterday, in a friendly capacity, counselled the foreign board that China adopt arbitration as the best means to a solution of the Macao boundary dispute. While China, in a dispatch sent last Sunday, notified the Portuguese government that it would not submit the matter to The Hague, it did not close the way to arbitration by some other court.

Copper Magnate Killed.

Cordova, Alaska, Jan. 5.—Harry Curtis Elliott of Chicago, president of the Elliott Hubbard Copper company, and H. Y. Greer of Seattle were killed in a snow slide at the company's property at Elliott creek, 100 miles northwest of Cordova, on Dec. 30.

THE GARMENT CLEARANCE should bring hundreds of women to this store tomorrow. Notwithstanding the popularity of this annual outclearing, assortments are still good. Why, we ask, will women buy ordinary looking suits and coats and pay more than three-fourths of their regular price when they can pick the cream of the best manufacturers HERE and pay what the price tag shows you—exactly HALF—sometimes less. You owe it to yourself to make comparisons.

THE FUR CLEARANCE goes merrily on. S. & B. furs are in a class by themselves. What wonder then that women should grow enthused over this annual opportunity when 25c is clipt off every dollar invested in S. & B. furs.

The Half-Price Sale

On suits and coats includes every coat in the house and every suit (custom-made lines excepted.)

(Nobody knows better than women themselves what a difference there is in suits—between S. & B. suits and other suits.) Suits of Broadcloths, Serges, Diagonals, Worsteds and Mannish Suitings; Coats of Broadcloth, double-faced materials, Worsteds, Meltons and Diagonals.

REYNOLDS GOES TO JAIL

Real Estate Dealer Not Given the Option of a Fine.

Police Claim That Motorman Tried to Help Him Escape.

W. H. Reynolds, the real estate dealer who gave the police a sensational chase in an effort to get to Superior yesterday morning, was found guilty of petit larceny by a jury yesterday afternoon and sentenced to ninety days in the county jail today. He was not given the option of paying a fine.

Other complaints have been made against Reynolds, and it was stated this morning that when he finishes serving his ninety days he may be rearrested on other warrants before he has an opportunity to get away from the county jail

Reynolds was arrested for getting $5 from L. S. Quinn on a check drawn payable to "Cash" on the City National bank when he had no funds in the institution. Another warrant charges him with getting $3 from Ralph Fiskett in a similar manner.

Reynolds' trial was scheduled for yesterday morning, but he failed to show up. About the time the court officials were looking for him the police got a message that he had boarded a car for Superior. The big Franklin automobile was brought into use and started after the car. Without regard for speed laws, it raced down to the foot of Garfield avenue, where it caught up to the car. The car stopped, but Reynolds managed to get away. The police say it was with the help of the street car men. Reynolds ran through the front of the car, with Detective Irvine and Capt. Fiskett at his heels. But they claim that the motorman let Reynolds out and slammed the door in their faces. They reported the matter to Chief Troyer, and he has taken it up with Herbert Warren, general manager of the street car company.

Despite the alleged assistance of the street car men, Reynolds was not fleet enough to show his heels to Detective Irvine, who nabbed him after an exciting race of several blocks. Reynolds was out on bonds up to that time, but last night he was kept behind the bars to await his sentence this morning.

INCREASE CLOSE TO MILLION MARK

Building Inspector Completes His Report for the Year 1909.

The official report of S. M. Kielley, building inspector, for the past year substantiates the prediction of The Herald that the complete figures for the year would show a gain of nearly $1,000,000 over 1908. The department issued 1,312 permits, representing improvements costing $3,680,227, as compared with 1,236 permits for improvements estimated at $2,739,536 in 1908. The year just closed also contained the largest month ever recorded in the office, when 150 permits were issued in October for improvements costing $907,500. The next largest month was February, with sixty-four permits for improvements costing $104,625. The indications are that the coming year will run still heavier. The records of the office show a steady gain each year.

ASSISTANCE FOR ENUMERATORS

Commercial Club to Work for Accuracy of Census in City.

The census of the city of Duluth will be taken in just fifteen days, thirty days being allowed for the county outside of the city, and efforts are now being made by the Commercial club and the County club to assist the census enumerators in every way, so that a complete census may be secured.

H. V. Eva, secretary of the Commercial club, has received a map of the census districts of the county from H. L. Hollister, the supervisor of the census for this district. Mr. Hollister asks for many suggestions regarding the rearrangement of the district. The map will be submitted to the meeting of the County club here on Jan. 18, and some changes may be made at that time. It is believed that some of the districts are too large for one man to properly cover.

Mr. Eva is also securing suggestions in regard to the sub-division of the city, from local politicians, who have had occasion to compile voters' lists.

Owing to the fact that but fifteen days are allowed in which to count the people in Duluth, the division of the city must be carefully made. It is not yet known how many enumerators will be allowed for the city, but the Commercial club will try to see that the number is sufficient.

Cass County Board Organizes.

Walker, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The county commissioners met in their annual January session yesterday and elected W. B. Jones as chairman of the board.

The Walker Pilot was made the official paper for the year. The board denied the petition of parties for a saloon along the new route of the Soo railroad, preferring to uphold the ruling of Chief Special Agent W. E. Johnson in keeping saloons out of Indian territory.

Constipation Should not be neglected. It leads to more serious troubles. It shows that the important functions of the liver are imperfectly performed. The best medicine to take for it is the mild, gentle and purely vegetable cathartic

TO PASS ON THE PLANS

Committee Appointed to Report on Proposed Garden Company.

If Report Is Favorable, Commercial Club Will Actively Back It.

On the report of a committee, consisting of E. P. Towne, T. H. Hawkes, Jr., and George Rupley, will depend whether or not the Duluth Commercial club will vigorously back up the plan for the Duluth Garden company, outlined by John G. Williams to the public affairs committee Monday evening.

These three men have been appointed a committee to go into the details of the plan by T. W. Hugo, chairman of the committee. They will make thorough study of the plans outlined by Mr. Williams for a suburban electric line to connect with truck farms beyond Woodland, ascertain whether a fair price will be paid for the lands, decide whether it is a legitimate investment offering fair returns, and in brief, report whether or not the Commercial club can afford to back it, and recommend it to investors.

If the report is favorable, the chairman of the public affairs committee will immediately appoint another committee to give Mr. Williams every assistance possible in disposing of the stock of the proposed company, and raising money to finance the road.

The plan is being very favorably received by the business men of the city. They see in it the first unit of a suburban electric system, which will connect all the small truck farms about the city with the market here.

"What is the use of having an open market until you get some truck farmers?" said one man this morning. "This plan should result in enough farmers starting in business to supply the city market. If this is the case, and they get cheap and quick transportation for their truck, the market will come quickly enough. Meanwhile the County club and the Commercial club can be working on the market plans."

The report of the committee investigating the plans of Mr. Williams will be completed within a day or two. The first meeting was held at noon today. The option on a large part of the land expires on Jan. 18, and prompt action is necessary, as the option will not be renewed by the owner.

WEST END

BUSY WEEK FOR BETHANY CHURCH SOCIETIES.

This is a busy week for the several church societies of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street. Many of the organizations are planning to hold annual meetings this week.

This afternoon a meeting of the Westra society, an auxiliary to the ladies' aid society, is in progress, at the home of Mrs. Leander Wikland of 108 South Twenty-third avenue west. The meeting is an annual one and officers will be elected.

Tomorrow afternoon, the ladies' aid society of the church will hold its annual session at the home of Mrs. Ed Oberstrom of 2316 West Second street. New officers for the coming year will be elected and reports showing the work for the past twelve months will be read. Mrs. Oberstrom will be assisted in entertaining the ladies by Mrs. L. A. Willner.

On Saturday afternoon, the members of the Busy Bee society will be entertained at the home of Miss Emma Nelson of 1820 West Third street. The meeting will be held at 2 o'clock. The officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and other business transacted.

Missionary Will Speak.

Peter Nehleen, a theological student from Gustavus Adolphus college, who has for the past few months been engaged in missionary work on the ranges, will speak this evening at the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

Mr. Nehleen arrived in the West end this morning from the ranges and while in the city he will be a guest at the home of Rev. C. G. Olsen, pastor of the church at his home, 2305 West Third street.

Mr. Nehleen has announced for his topic "The Laymen's Missionary Movement," a subject to which he has been devoting much attention for the past year or so. The address will be given free. The speaker will leave tomorrow for Virginia and Eveleth.

BOYS' CLUBS WILL HOLD BANQUET.

The second annual banquet of the boys' clubs of the Neighborhood House will be held tomorrow evening beginning at 6:30 o'clock at the clubrooms, 2423 West Superior street.

A good program has been arranged for the occasion and a number of prominent men have been invited to attend the affair as guests of honor.

The invitations for the affair have been issued in the names of the presidents of three clubs. Simon Peterson, president of the Twentieth Century Boys' club; Clarence Thomas, president of the Knights of the Round Table, and Walter Lafex, president of the Newsboys' club.

FORMER PASTOR SPRINGS A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Rev. F. O. Kling of Minneapolis, a former pastor of the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, unexpectedly visited the West end church last evening just before the revival services were held. He was extended an invitation to occupy the pulpit for the evening, which he accepted. After the meeting he was tendered an informal reception by the members of his former congregation. He left for Minneapolis last night.

Circle Elects Officers.

At a meeting of the Queen Esther Circle of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, held last evening at the deaconess home, 216 East Fourth street, the following officers were chosen for the coming year: Miss O. Holdhusen, president; Miss Mabel Cummings, vice president; Miss Gisa Perry, secretary; Miss Frances Berg, treasurer, and Ida Leonard, mite box secretary. The Misses Sarah Atel, Eva Adams and Martha Perry were chosen as a program committee.

A musical program was given during the evening and a lunch was served.

West End Shortrails.

Dr. Adolph Olson, dentist at the Sloan block, who has been spending the holiday season at the home of his brother at Minneapolis, returned to the West end this morning.

Mrs. George Wilson of Winnipeg, Man., is in the West end on a visit at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McFarlane of 323 North Twenty-eighth avenue west.

Rev. M. O. Stockland, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, who has been at Aitkin, Minn., on a business trip, will return to the West end this evening.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Swedish Episcopal church will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Olson of 110 North Twenty-eighth avenue west.

The revival meetings which are being held at the several West end churches this week are drawing large crowds. Special song services have been arranged in many of the churches.

Mrs. Oscar Lilligren and son, Harry, of Grand Lake, Minn., arrived in the West end this morning on a short business trip, and for a visit with local friends.

The annual meeting of the Central Baptist church will be held Friday evening. New officers for the coming year will be elected and the annual reports will be submitted.

Mrs. M. K. Whitney of 2129 West First street is visiting her parents at Brule, Wis., for a few days.

Peter Nelson has left for Chicago, where he has a position for the winter.

Miss Alma Erickson of 419½ North Nineteenth avenue west has gone to Grand Forks, N. D., for a month's visit with relatives.

Barney L. McClain of Springfield, Ill., transacted business at the West end yesterday.

Fred Sutherland has returned from the West, where he has been employed as an engineer on one of the railroads for the past seven months.

MANY HOLD OVER.

Only One New Appointment By New Cloquet City Government.

Cloquet, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The new city council, which was elected in November last, met for organization yesterday afternoon

William Kelly was elected president and L. F. Leach vice president. The other members are A. K. Oswald, E. S. Schiebe and A. M. Brunelle. The appointments made were identical with those made by the last administration, with the exception of city clerk, J. A. E. Grenier being appointed to succeed Joseph Loisel, who was not a candidate for reappointment. The city engineering and water works departments were amalgamated, and City Engineer Moyer was put at the head of his department.

C. I. McNair, the mayor-elect, also assumed his official duties yesterday.

WERE PALS YEARS AGO

Duluth Men Ate Out of the Same Bucket With "Dan" Willard.

New President of the B. & O. Was Roundhouse Foreman Once.

A. M. Fenton, local district freight and passenger agent of the Omaha, and W. H. Strachan, assistant superintendent of the Lake Superior division of the Northern Pacific, used to eat their midnight meal out of the same dinner pail with "Dan" Willard, the man who was yesterday made president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Away back somewhere about 1879 "Dan" Willard was night roundhouse foreman for the Soo railroad at Turtle Lake, Wis. At that time the entire St. Paul, Minneapolis & Sault Ste. Marie system included only sixty miles of railroad. A. M. Fenton was night telegraph operator and Strachan was agent at Turtle Lake. The three men were the very best of pals. When men eat out of the same dinner pail, they have a community of interests that is hard to beat.

Today Mr. Fenton was telling some of the characteristics of Mr. Willard, whose rise in the railroad world has been very rapid.

"He was one of the most observing men I have ever known," said Mr. Fenton. "Sometimes at night, when time would hang heavy on his hands, he would take parts of old engines to pieces and put them together again. He was curious and ambitious and he wanted to learn everything possible about the railroad business.

"He was a deep student of men and detail. There was nothing that escaped his observation, and he was also an indefatigable worker and never thought for a moment he knew all there was to know about the business."

According to Mr. Fenton, Mr. Willard was made day foreman of the roundhouse at Turtle Lake, going from that position to that of locomotive engineer. He was made trainmaster and later master mechanic of the Soo. It was then that he went to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul as superintendent. He was later promoted to the position of general superintendent, and some time after this accepted a position with the Erie as general manager.

Mr. Fenton says F. G. Underwood, at one time with the Milwaukee, took a decided liking to Mr. Willard and when he went to the Erie, he took Willard with him. From the employ of the Erie, Mr. Willard went to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy as vice president. It was from this position that Mr. Willard accepted his latest promotion in the railroad world.

Mr. Strachan went from the employ of the Soo to that of the Wisconsin Central. Later he went to the employ of the Minnesota & International, a part of the Northern Pacific system, from where he was called to his present position.

Mr. Fenton left the employ of the Soo and cast his future with the Omaha. He finally became station agent at St. Paul and was promoted from that position to general agent at Helena, Mont. From Helena, Mr. Fenton came to Duluth as district freight and passenger agent. Most of Mr. Fenton's railroading has been done with the Omaha.

DRUNK VICTIM APPLIES FOR AID

Once Husky Woodsman Asks County Official to Arrest Him.

Down and out, without a cent to his name, in a weak physical condition and with all he possessed in the world on his back, John Olson, 43 years of age, applied this morning to A. P. Cook, county poor commissioner, for aid.

"Booze did it, eh?" asked Mr. Cook.

"Yep, I guess you are right," answered Olson.

Olson follows the woods. He has been about Duluth and vicinity for many years. As his money comes, so it goes.

"What are you good for, anyway?" asked Mr. Cook. "Are you married? Do your wages go to supporting an aged mother and a wife with seven small children?"

"Nix on that stuff," said Olson. "I never asked for help before. Believe me it was hard to come here today. I know I am a failure and I know it's my fault. I want to get this hand fixed and then I will trouble you no more."

The big fellow was almost in tears as he finished and his voice faltered as he twirled his cap in his hands awaiting an answer.

The man did have a bad hand that was injured while he was working in the woods near Cloquet, and after a severe lecture on wise ways to spend money, Mr. Cook gave him an order on the county doctor, who will treat the injured member. It is thought that blood poison has already set in.

FATHER OF ST. CLOUD DEAD.

John L. Wilson, One of Oldest Citizens of Stearns County, Called.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 5.—John L. Wilson, the father of St. Cloud and one of the oldest pioneers in this section of the state, died at the hospital in this city Monday afternoon at the age of 89 years.

Coming to this city in the year 1853, he had lived here continuously, and up to the time of his retirement was prominently associated with everything that led to the upbuilding of the city and county.

He was born at Columbus, Me., Feb. 4, 1820.

During his residence of sixty years in this city Mr. Wilson has held several offices of importance. In the year 1859 he received notice from Governor Gorman that he had been appointed chairman of the county board. He held this office for several years. The first office held by Mr. Wilson was that of representative in the territorial legislature. He was elected for the terms of 1855, 1856 and 1857. He was again elected a representative to the state legislature in 1870. He was the first president of the city council in this city.

ISLE OF PINES
News from the Isle of Pines indicate the greatest arrival of visitors and new settlers ever known in any previous season. In fact, the island is booming. Land is changing hands rapidly, and present prices cannot be maintained much longer. We look for $100 per acre land very soon. We still have a little left at $50 and $60 per acre, and will give reasonable terms. Don't delay buying if you want to buy at all. Come and talk it over. Let us tell you all about it. We both know the island from personal knowledge, having been there several times. We say again, come and see us.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ARE RAISING MANY THINGS

Farmers Around Cass Lake Just Awakening to Possibilities of Soil.

Institute to Be Held Jan. 15 Promises to Be Well Attended.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald)—Extensive preparations are being made for the farmers' institute which will be held in this city Saturday, Jan. 15. The affair will be in charge of F. B. McLeran of Wrenshall, Minn. Mr. McLeran will be assisted by several other able speakers, among them being Frank Gibbs of Morriam Park and H. G. Larsen, who owns a valuable dairy farm in Clearwater county.

The farmers in this vicinity are becoming very enthusiastic over the agricultural possibilities of their soil. Two years ago there were very few vegetables of any kind raised around this section.

Supt. McGuire Pointed Way.

But last spring after Supt. A. J. McGuire of the Grand Rapids experiment farm held a school here and explained to about 200 farmers how they could get just as much success in farming on this sandy soil as the farmers in North Dakota could on their soil, the farmers got busy. Potatoes, corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, cabbage, etc., were planted in large quantities and when the harvesting time came one could drive many miles around and find some of the richest and most stalwart crops that could be found anywhere in the state.

The result has given encouragement to the farmers and they are waiting with eager anticipation of next year having a crop which will at least double that of this year.

FARGO SPECIAL ELECTION ON FRIDAY, JAN. 28.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The citizens of Fargo will have an opportunity on Friday, Jan. 28, of voting on a proposition, or rather two propositions, of bonding the city in the sum of $65,000 for the purpose of building a filtration plant and new water works, and on a proposition of bonding the city in the sum of $35,000 for an electric light plant.

BREWERS PROPOSING TESTING C. O. D. LAW.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local brewery mega state that the new federal laws, which went into effect Saturday, will not affect the beer business to any appreciable extent. It is said that the traveling men will be kept on the road, at least until a test case is fought through the courts, and the fact that only express companies are forbidden from receiving C. O. D. shipments, will not affect the freight business, but rather increase the same. The situation is being watched with considerable interest here.

MICHIGAN JURIST IS GIVEN BANQUET

CLAUDIUS B. GRANT.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The members of the Ingham county bar recently tendered Assistant Justice Claudius B. Grant a banquet, in recognition of his long and honorable service on the supreme bench. It was notable for many heartfelt tributes to Justice Grant, because of his sterling qualities as a man, his excellent legal attainments and his unimpeachable record on the bench.

It is now nearly twenty years since Justice Grant left this circuit to take office as one of the members of the supreme court, and in the intervening time he has rounded out a public career that has been full of credit and usefulness. He has well earned a rest, but in answer to felicitations that he would now be able to enjoy one he informed the banqueters that it was his expectation to continue to busy himself with both public and private affairs. Justice Grant has no intention of "rusting" away.

DIVIDE AITKIN COUNTY.

Scheme Being Advocated Making Hill City County Seat.

Aitkin, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A movement is on foot to divide Aitkin county, according to a local paper, the northern residents having been convinced that with the coming of the Soo road and the completion of the Hill City railroad, prosperity and new settlers will be in evidence in that section of the county to that extent that they prefer to manage their own affairs

The reason assigned for deferring action until after the taking of the census, is that the law requires that "no new county shall contain less than 400 square miles, nor less than 2,000 inhabitants." It is proposed to divide the county on the line between towns 47 and 48, the new county to include the territory lying north of such line. This would comprise thirty townships, twenty of which are organized, and includes such population centers as Hill City, McGregor, Tamarack, Palisade, etc., but we were not informed which of these points is to be designated as the county seat.

COURT MARINETTE.

Several Important Criminal Cases Are Coming Up for Trial.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The January term of circuit court began here this week with over a score of cases some of which are important on the calendar.

Ten cases are on indictments by the grand jury against Emmet Butts, A. P. Yorkton, Thomas Brown, Joseph M. Selbel, Fred Pierce and Andrew Johnson.

Other criminal cases which will be tried are those against C. R. Johnson, charged with malfeasance in office, Joseph Rezfranck, who shot and so badly wounded Stephen Laferski that the amputation of the man's leg was necessary, and that of Albert Carvenaugh. The latter case will be watched with a great deal of interest. The man is charged by his wife with a crime against his own child. He was afterwards, it is alleged, "railroaded" to an insane asylum, and funds were raised by public subscription to bring him back to stand his trial.

THREE CLOSE CALLS.

Dickinson, N. D., Man Comes Near Being Poisoned Three Times.

Dickinson, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Three times within nine months L. R. Baird of this city has been a near victim of poisoning. His last trouble of this nature was Monday when he accidentally drank a large quantity of liniment, the component parts of which were laudunum, arnica and other drugs, and which he had taken in place of cough medicine. Ptomaine poisoning was the cause of his other two fights against death.

WOULD ARBITRATE SUIT AGAINST CRYSTAL FALLS.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Arbitration is suggested by Attorney George Power of Menominee, for the settlement of the damage suit case brought by Ray Kimball against the city of Crystal Falls, for alleged loss sustained through water backing up from a dam over his mineral property, making it unfit for mining.

SUPERIOR MINISTER MARRIED AT SPARTA.

Sparta, Wis., Jan. 5.—Rev. F. W. Court, pastor of the Cumming Avenue M. E. church of Superior and Miss Lulu E. Bush, formerly a teacher in the public schools of Superior, but who has spent the past several months at her home here, were married here at noon yesterday. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Irish in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends. Rev. and Mrs. Court will return to Superior the last of the week to take up their residence.

North Dakotans to Raise Figs.

Bottineau, N. D., Jan. 5.—L. B. Wolfe, C. M. Patton and a number of gentlemen at Souris, including Banker Tollefson, have organized a company for the purpose of growing figs and other fruits on their farms lately acquired in Texas. Mr. Wolfe, who is secretary, has been busy for several days getting up a constitution and bylaws.

PETERSON GIVEN EIGHTEEN MONTHS

Mitigating Circumstances Help Man Convicted of Cuynua Killing.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge McClenahan yesterday afternoon sentenced Adolph Gottfried Peterson, who was convicted of manslaughter in the second degree, to the penitentiary for the term of eighteen months. Judge McClenahan stated that there were mitigating circumstances that the act of Peterson was one that under ordinary circumstances would only have resulted in assault in the third degree, punishable by a fine of $100 or imprisonment in jail for ninety days, but that the victim was dead and some punishment must be inflicted. Peterson killed James Gallagher in a drunken row at Cuyuna Thanksgiving morning. The sentence gives very general satisfaction.

The case of the state against Herbert Sargent, charged with grand larceny, was given to the jury at noon yesterday.

William Sinclaire pleaded guilty to violating the ordinance regulating obstructions to the view into saloons when closed, in the district court and was fined $10.

SIX MEN KILLED IN SOUTH DAKOTA WRECK.

Aberdeen, S. D., Jan. 5.—In a wreck between a Milwaukee work train and an extra freight between Gretna and Roscoe, Tuesday, three workmen were killed outright and three, who were injured, died later.

Two others were hurt. The names of the victims are unknown.

ISHPEMING MAN IN ROCK ISLAND WRECK.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank H. Bargh, son of Thomas H. Bargh of this city, was one of the forty-five or more passengers injured when the California Special on the Rock Island system was wrecked Friday near Trenton, Mo.

Mr. Bargh received a letter from his son, in which he stated that he had not been seriously injured, but that he would probably be unable to work for several weeks. His right arm was badly wrenched and his wrist was bruised and cut. He stated that he considered himself very fortunate, as it was said that about a dozen persons who were in the same car with him would probably die as a result of their injuries. Three passengers on the train were killed.

Many Fargo Weddings.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Cupid was quite busy in the county of Cass, N. D., during the year 1909. He was a busy little fellow the entire year and he had his work right over in the county court-house in the courtroom of Judge A. H. Hanson. During the year no less than 274 marriage licenses were issued by Judge Hanson and Clerk of Court Harold Sorenson.

Farmer Fatally Burned.

Green Bay, Wis., Jan. 5.—Funeral services were held at Mount Keller today for Albert Wessely, a retired farmer, living alone at Luxembourg, who perished Sunday night in a fire which burned his home to the ground.

He was 65 years old and wealthy. He recently divided several hundred acres of land between three boys.

A sister, Mrs. B. Nejedle, lives in Green Bay.

New Eau Claire School.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—A new Sacred Heart school building to cost between $25,000 and $30,000 will be started in the spring.

This decision was the result of a meeting of the directors of the Sacred Heart congregation held on Sunday morning.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Houghton—The new Houghton public library, gift of Andrew Carnegie to the people of Houghton and Portage township will be opened about Jan. 15.

The school board is planning some sort of an opening ceremony. The details of this have not been worked out.

Calumet—The St. Joseph's society has elected the following officers: President, Frank Sadler; vice president, Joseph Sotlich; secretary, Joseph Stefanic; assistant secretary, Joseph Schneller; treasurer, A. Sterk; trustees, Joseph Gerich, Karl Jerle, John Spehar, Peter Madromic, John Likovich, Paul Shaltz, Joseph D. Grahek Peter Belopavlovich.

Hancock — The Hancock German Maennerchor Lyra made the parting with the old year and the welcome to the new a real pleasure for the several hundred Portage Lake people who attended the comic opera, concert and ball given by the society at Germania hall, St. Sylvester's eve.

Calumet—The Y. M. C. A. and the Social Purity League of Houghton county, under whose auspices Dr. Winfield S. Hall of Chicago will lecture in the Calumet theater Sunday afternoon, Jan. 9, at 3:30 o'clock, have completed all arrangements for that event.

Hancock—District Deputy Alex Stevenson will inspect Hancock lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, on the evening of Jan. 13, when there will be initiatory work, a smoker and a rousing social session. Hancock lodge has accepted an invitation from Calumet lodge to attend some big doings this month.

Marquette—During the quarter ending Dec. 31 the Marquette postoffice did by nearly $1,000 a larger business than ever before in the same period of time, the total receipts of the office being $10,084.92, compared with $8,252.10 for the same period in 1908, and $9,288.80 in 1907.

Hancock—Members of St. Bernard's court, Catholic Order of Foresters, to the number of forty or fifty are planning to attend the public installation and banquet to be held by Hubbell court next Saturday afternoon.

Marquette—D. H. Hall, J. E. Ball, A. T. Roberts, F. H. Begole and J. E. Sherman left Sunday evening for Duluth on a business mission. From Duluth Mr. Begole is planning to go to Boston, where he will spend the next few weeks.

Menominee—Clifford Stocklin will purchase the drug store business of Charles H. Law. Mr. Law will be associated with his father-in-law, John W. Wells in the flooring factory which is being built here, which is to be the largest in the world.

Negaunee—The supreme court has denied the application of Mrs. D. McDonald of this city for a writ of mandamus to compel the circuit court to set aside the order of Judge Stone, striking out a large part of the answer filed by her attorneys in the cemetery condemnation case. This will mean a new trial.

Marquette—Duncan McDonald, day baggage master at the South Shore station, has resigned that position and has entered the employ of Longyear & Hodge, the diamond drill contractors. He is succeeded by Will Smith, formerly night baggage man, and Mr. Smith is succeeded by Carl Rydholm.

Ishpeming—The remains of Charles W. Hunt, a former resident, were received here Monday from Newberry, where he died Sunday of apoplexy. The deceased left here a few years ago. His wife died in this city seven years ago.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Dickinson, N. D.—There are no new developments in the affairs of J. S. White, the defaulting auditor of Stark county and treasurer of the city of Dickinson. Accountants are busily engaged in checking up the books, but they have made no announcement yet as to their findings. The work will probably be completed by the end of the week.

New Salem, N. D.—The North Dakota Holstein Breeders' Circuit association met here in annual meeting for the election of officers and the transaction of any other business. The following officers were elected: President, John P. Christianson; vice president, William Neas; secretary, Fred Kroeder.

Larimore, N. D.—Dick Fadden, chief of police of Larimore, has returned to his home from Minneapolis where he has been for some time past. Mr. Fadden is recovering rapidly from the effects of his illness and within two weeks will be back in charge of the Larimore police work.

Grand Forks, N. D.—The thermometer at the university crept down to 25 deg. below zero this morning, making it the second coldest day this winter and those who got out early felt the chilly atmosphere considerable.

Miller, S. D.—Although the officers and scores of farmers living in Hand and Jerauld counties have conducted a persistent search, not the slightest trace can be found of Ivar Lindberg, a plasterer and mason, who disappeared several weeks ago after leaving the little town of Lane on foot.

Dunseith, N. D.—Recent discoveries have filled the people of this place with dreams of future wealth. An unusually good vein of coal has been discovered within a stone's throw of the city limits, and a test made of the oil indications on the surface of the waters of the creek. The latter proved to be good petroleum and there are indications of a good supply.

Lemmon, S. D.—The town of White Butte, ten miles west of Lemmon on the Puget Sound line, is one of the many new towns on that line which is making a substantial growth. At present it is enjoying a building boom of large proportions.

Bismarck, N. D.—Sheriff McGillis has returned with Jay Russell, who is wanted in McLean county on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Russell was under arrest and was released on bail, but did not show up when court was called, and his bonds were forfeited and a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

Williston, N. D.—In speaking of the gang of horse thieves which has operated in this section of the state for several years, and of the work of bringing the members to justice, Judge Goss praised very highly the work of the present sheriff, Benjamin Olson.

Fargo, N. D.—The Cass county commissioners reorganized by selecting Henry Heath of Gunkel, for chairman. The Fargo Daily News, the Casselton Reporter and the Page Record were chosen official papers. A. D. Hodgson and wife were respectively chosen superintendent and matron of the county hospital. Dr. George Carpenter of Fargo was made superintendent of the county board of health.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Stillwater—The state of Minnesota, through the board of control, is offering for sale certificates of indebtedness, the proceeds of which will be used in building the new state prison near this city. The redemption of such certificates has been provided for by a levy of taxes.

Crookston—Albert Torgerson went to Warren Monday to take charge of the completion of Judge Grindeland's fine $5,000 residence. The party who had the contract did not complete the job and Mr. Torgerson has been given the work.

Brainerd—The board of county commissioners went to the poor farm on New Year to take inventory of the personal property. Quite a number of farmers were present to look over the farm while the commissioners were there, in accordance with the invitation extended by the chairman of the board.

Mankato—Mrs. C. J. Laurisch of this city has just received the appointment of district deputy grand matron of the Eastern Star for this, the twenty-fourth, district.

Baudette—Joseph Barkelow, who has been mail carrier between Manitou and Loman, died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. Slaughson, at Manitou on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. The funeral took place Saturday to the Birchdale cemetery. Deceased was one of the pioneers of this section of the state and held the position of mail carrier for a long time.

Red Lake Falls—Mrs. Carrie Goulgan, a former well known resident of Red Lake Falls, passed away Sunday morning, Dec. 25, at her home in Walnut, Ill., aged 53 years, death being due to heart failure. Mrs. Gonigam was in perfect health on Christmas day and news of her death comes as a surprise to all her old acquaintances in this vicinity.

Winona—J. H. Seekamp, the local ice dealer, has received the contract for filling the ice houses here of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company, and will also fill those at Rochester and Zumbrota. The contracts for the houses at Waseca, Mankato, New Ulm, Sleepy Eye, Tracy and Watertown have been let to parties west of Winona.

Red Lake Falls—Thomas Thibodeau, who left here Dec. 1, for Van Buren, Me., has arrived at his destination, and has accepted a position as agent for the Thibodeau Sewing Machine company. It is twenty-five years since he left Van Buren, and he writes that he finds a big change in the vicinity of his boyhood home.

St. Cloud—Mrs. Olivia Campbell, aged 80, wife of Abraham Campbell, died Monday morning at her home here. She is survived by her husband and five children, Charles M. Campbell of Redlands, Cal.; Mrs. Morrill C. Crasson of Los Angeles, Cal.; Amos A. Campbell of Watab; D. M. Campbell of this city, and N. Campbell, who has made his home with his parents.

Anoka—Thursday, at the city hall in Anoka, will be held the annual meeting of the Ramsey-Burns Oak Grove Good Roads association. The meeting is called for 1:30 p. m., and will, without doubt, be largely attended.

Rochester—Sheriff Griswold of Dodge county has taken to Kasson a young man by the name of Albert Anderson, aged about 24 years. Anderson is accused of forcibly entering the residence of Mrs. Grass, in Kasson, last Thursday night, and attempting to commit a statutory crime therein.

Moorhead—Cornelius Rushfeldt, son of A. N. Rushfeldt of Skree township, this county, is now located up in the Rainy river country, in the vicinity of International Falls. Cornelius is the owner of a gasoline launch, and during the summer time he is engaged in carrying the mail with his boat up and down the Rainy river, going up the river one day and back down the next.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Eau Claire—Word has been received here of the death at Edgewater, Colo., of Edward Palmer of this city, after a lingering illness. The deceased had gone to Colorado for his health some time ago. He was 31 years old at the time of his death.

Stoughton—Saturday the National Skiing association held a meet, which was attended by Governor Davidson. The gold medal was won by Carl Solberg, who jumped eighty-two feet on his first try, and eighty-five feet on his second. He also got seven points for his form during the jumps. Solberg is the celebrated Norwegian ski jumper who in 1907 won first prize at Holmenkolm Hill, Christiania.

Marinette—The Marinette Knitting mills are operating with a force of 200 employes. The mills are under the direction of four sales managers. There will be offices in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

Courderay—G. O. Chaurette's store and all its contents in the village of Winter were destroyed Monday night by fire caused from a defective chimney. Dr. Burns occupied the upper floor, and his loss is nearly $3,000, with $1,700 insurance. Chaurette's loss is $6,000, insurance, $4,000.

Eau Claire—Mrs. K. A. Franklin of Duluth, Minn., and Miss Mildred Hailing of Superior, who have visited their parents at Kjorstad and near relatives went home on New Year's day.

La Crosse—Noticing that Dan Clark was threatened with the loss of his reason, relatives had him operated upon for a dent in his skull, inflicted when a child. He has recovered.

Racine—Alcede Gerarde, one of the proprietors of the Merchants' hotel, died here Sunday after a short illness. Mr. Gerarde was 58 years old and came to Racine six years ago.

THE TOTALLY DIFFERENT SALES!

JANUARY CLEARANCE SALE

Take Notice!

The Columbia's big January Sale starts on Friday Morning.

THIS WEEK IT'S MEN'S SUITS, OVERCOATS, PANTS

Young Men's Suits go at the same prices.

Next Week Other Items Will Follow.

Young Men's Overcoats go at the same prices.

These Columbia Sales have become an annual event to the people of Duluth like Marshall Field Sales, or like Alexander Revell Rug Sales are to the people of Chicago. Duluthians have learned during the past five years that what the Columbia advertises will be done. Whether it is a dollar tie at 10 cents or a $25 suit at $12, the goods are there when you call for them. For reasons known to every one who has followed the recent trend of prices, the values in this sale will be greater than in any previous year. The old price tickets are untouched—no new ones.

Glove Sale on Friday

Simultaneously with the other sales we'll have a special Glove Sale.

It includes a lot of Working Gloves and Gauntlets, and a lot of Dress Gloves. The latter in large sizes only.

$1 and $1.50 values at the low price of.. 59c

These Gloves are all either samples or taken from incomplete lots in our stock.

Remarks

Black and Blue Suits are not excluded. No new tickets put on any suit or overcoat. You can wait on yourself. We don't have to lock the doors to prepare a sale.

No garments can be placed aside, and no credit can be extended during sale.

Pants

Second Floor.

Here is a big and well kept department that receives but little mention in our advertisements—yet it is far the biggest and best stocked single trouser section in the city.

These January prices should keep the boys busy this month:

$1.95 for $2.50 and $3.00 Pants, including some odd $3.50 and $4.00 ones.

$2.95 for all Pants heretofore selling at $3.50, $4.00 and $4.50.

$3.95 for the choice of our big line of $5.00 Trousers, and for some that were $6.00.

$4.95 for Paragon Trousers that were marked to sell at $6.00, $6.50 and $7.

$5.95 for the unlimited choice of all our finest and highest priced Paragons.

Girls' Winter Coats

AT HALF PRICE.

All made by Remington of New York.

Choice of Suits

(Main Floor)

$12.00

$12 buys the unrestricted choice of any suit in the store that heretofore sold up to, but not including, $25. This includes about 500 suits for men and for young men of the well known Stein-Bloch, Sincerity, Brock's union-made, Society and Sampeck makes.

$19.10 This is the January 1910 price at which we offer the wide- $19.10

open choice of our highest-grade suits—those which were retailing at $25 and up to $35. Not a suit in this stock that was not made for the present season.

Overcoats

Second Floor.

In looking down this list of January prices you will notice that the prices quoted are somewhat higher than some of our competitors ask for their stock. But the character of our stock is such that it precludes any possibility of offering any other reductions than these:

$8.50 for all former $12.50 Overcoats.

$10.50 for all former $15 and $16.50 Overciats.

$13.50 for all former $18.00 Overcoats.

$15.50 for all former $20 and $22.50 Overcoats.

$18.50 for all former $25 and $27 Overcoats.

All our former $30.00 overcoats—at..... $22.00

All our former $35.00 Overcoats—at..... $25.00

All our former $40.00 Overcoats—at..... $30.00

All our former $45.00 Overcoats—at..... $33.00

All our former $50.00 Overcoats—at..... $37.50

Fur and Fur Lined Overcoats

No argument needed, that here is the only Fur Coat stock in Duluth worthy of the city—everybody knows it. Coats that were....$35, $45, $55, $60, $75, $85, $90. 100, Can now be had at $26, $34, $43, $48, $59, $66, $70, $79.

Special prices made on higher-priced Fur-lined Coats.

One-fifth off the prices of our Outside Fur Coats.

THE OPEN MARKET PROBLEM.

The plan of solving the problem of cheaper living in Duluth proposed by John G. Williams to the public affairs committee Monday evening, and approved by that committee, attacks practically and concretely the nearest and most profitable aspect of the problem—the cultivation of near-by soil. The plan proposed, as The Herald stated last evening, is a plain business proposition capable of mathematical demonstration as accurately as any business project can be demonstrated. If there was doubt about the fertility of the soil, the plan would be dubious. If there was doubt about Duluth's ability to consume the products of near-by soil at good prices, it would be more dubious still. But there is doubt about neither of these points. The soil is prodigiously fruitful, and the market extraordinarily large and profitable. The plan, if carried out, will place several hundreds of families on near-by soil, and within a year or two those families will be making money while supplying Duluth with all the fresh and perishable vegetables, fruits, eggs, and milk it needs.

The next associated problem is that of the open market, which will be taken up later. For complete satisfactory success there must be the soil, the tiller of the soil and the market. Duluth has the soil and the market, and the work before it is to bring them together. The Williams plan will make the soil ready, provide the tillers of the soil, and transport the soil's products to market.

The next thing needed is the market place. There must be a place where buyers and sellers can meet; where the farmer can bring or send his produce, and where the buyer, whether he is wholesaler, retailer or consumer, can buy it. This also the committees of the public affairs committee are working out. The word in connection with this part of the problem is "co-operation." The farmer within a few miles of the market does not actually need co-operation, but it will help him. Co-operation in marketing will enable him to devote his time to the more useful purpose of cultivating his soil.

Producers outside the zone that can be reached by wagon or trolley absolutely must have co-operation. Their produce must go by rail, and few of them raise enough to get the advantage of carload rates. But if all the farmers in any given community form a co-operative marketing association, they can reach the market to better advantage; certainly there can be no doubt of that when at present many of them are unable to reach the Duluth market at all.

Duluth must provide the market place for near-by farmers and for those farther away. It must direct the serving of that market, also. It must induce farmers who ship by rail to study the needs of the Duluth market, shipping what is needed when it is needed. It must arrange to receive and dispose of their products.

Work in the two zones referred to in the report to the public affairs committee of the sub-committee on open markets will be carried on vigorously. The Williams plan will take care of the near-by zone up to the point of marketing The open market plan will take care of the marketing of products of near-by soil, and also it will take care of marketing the products from the outer zone which involve rail transportation. The doctrine of co-operation is being taken up by the farmers of St. Louis and adjoining counties, and the prospects now are that by the time the market place is ready, the shipments from the two zones will go far toward supplying Duluth with the food at reasonable cost of which it has been so much in need.

COMPROMISE.

President Taft had outlined a number of amendments to the interstate commerce law which he proposed to submit to congress in a special message.

The character of his recommendations had been made public, and Monday, when the message presumably was written and ready for submission, and when Mr. Taft's attorney general had drawn up bills to carry its suggestions into effect, the president had some visitors. They were President McCrea of the Pennsylvania, President Lovett of the Harriman lines, President Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, President Baer of the Philadelphia & Reading, and President Finley of the Southern.

The meeting was arranged by J. Pierpont Morgan, who visited the president himself before breakfast last Friday morning.

These gentlemen, who came represented by counsel, are interested in railroad legislation. They are interested from the viewpoint of the railroad president and director, somewhat from the viewpoint of the stockholder, and not at all from the viewpoint of the people. They didn't like the president's recommendations as they had come to their ears, and no doubt they had accurate knowledge of the character of the proposed amendments. They did not like the proposed amendments, and they had come, by arrangement with Mr. Morgan, to say so. They did say so, it appears, though the precise nature of the conversation was not made public. Neither is the precise nature of the impression made upon the president's mind by this gathering which had been arranged by Mr. Morgan made public.

It was announced, at first, that the president would defer sending his railroad message to congress. He had intended to send it in with his anti-trust message, which will go to congress tomorrow. He gave it out that he would separate the two and delay the railroad section until Friday, because he believed that the message "probably would receive greater attention if divided into two parts." Possibly the visitors of Monday afternoon gave him this intelligent pointer about engaging public attention. Later, however, it was announced that the president had reconsidered this plan, and would send both sections to congress in one message Friday. Engaging public attention, he finds after a conference with Senator Aldrich and Senator Root, is not now so important.

Though only a few verbal changes are to be made in the railroad message, it is stated now that Attorney General Wickersham is making some changes in the bills he had prepared to carry out the president's recommendations. These, doubtless, are "only a few verbal changes" suggested at the meeting arranged by Mr. Morgan. The railroad presidents went to see the president solely because of a desire to help him out. They did not want him to make any mistakes, however trifling, in his recommendations. The railroads must be made the servants of the people. They must no longer be the people's masters. And these railroad presidents, as arranged by Mr. Morgan, came to help the president get up a message that would accomplish what is needed.

Beyond doubt those "few verbal changes" in the message and in the bills are designed to strengthen both. The people should be grateful to the president for his spirit of compromise and conciliation, to the railroad presidents for their timely suggestions, and to Mr. Morgan for arranging the conference.

PRESIDENTIAL BUSHWHACKING.

If we were the Democratic party, we should feel immensely tickled over the news from Washington that the administration is using its control over federal patronage to whip balky Republican statesmen into line, and to punish those who refuse to stand without hitching.

The hope of the Republican party for further existence lies not in Aldrichism and Cannonism, but in the spirit which the insurgent Republican senators and congressmen represent; a spirit which is rampant in their districts, and in the districts of many who are either not insurgents at all, or are only very timid ones. When the president uses his official power to obstruct representatives of the people who are seeking to do the people's will, he is inviting the complete destruction of himself and his party.

The chief offenses of the "insurgents" seem to be that they have refused to bow to President Taft's desire that they vote for Cannon for speaker and support him throughout; that they have refused to accept the word of Aldrich as embodying all patriotism and business judgment; and that they have refused to indorse the president's statement at Winona that the new tariff law is "a substantial revision downward" and the "best tariff bill the Republican party ever passed." Therefore they are classed as enemies of the Republican party.

Nevertheless, they are far better friends of the Republican party than either Aldrich, Cannon or Taft. We have not heard that the administration is throwing the slightest straw in the way of Aldrich or Cannon. Its enmity is reserved for those who dare deny the absolutism of these vice regents of Special Privilege.

THE REVOLT SPREADS.

It seems to be the fashion in some quarters to assume that because most of the real insurgents in congress live in the Middle Wset, and because their courage is applauded by their constituencies, the revolt against Cannonism and Aldrichism is largely confined to the Middle West.

This is a view that The Herald has consistently combatted. It is not a correct view. The people of the Middle West may be a little more emphatic in their independence, and may have gained for themselves by primary election laws better facilities for expression; but the plain people of the entire country are sick of Aldrichism and Cannonism, those twin spawns of Special Privilege that are making free government a mockery by setting up and maintaining an economic oppression more burdensome and more vile than any race slavery that ever existed.

That the revolt is spreading is proved by a significant development of sentiment in Ohio, the state which furnished the present occupant of the White House, who is affronting public opinion by co-operating with Aldrich and Cannon and rejecting the advice of those members of his party who are in tune with advanced public thought.

Says the Toledo Blade, a staunch Republican Ohio newspaper: "There is encouragement for progressive Repnblicans everywhere in the rapid growth of anti-Cannon sentiment in Ohio, as evidenced in the columns of the state press. The declaration of the Blade against the reactionary forces in congress, with the demand for anti-Cannon pledges from all Republican congressional candidates, has met with hearty approval from the four quarters of the state. Throughout Ohio the newspapers of influence and standing are insisting on the overthrow of the self-constituted bosses of the nation's legislative bodies. The Republican party has had enough of Aldrich and Cannon and their isms."

Speaking of the reported plan of retiring Cannon and putting in his place some mild, safe and sane congressman who lacks Cannon's bad name but none of his good will for Special Privilege, the Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "Unless every indication fails, these aspiring patriots will find their plans to accomplish the self-effacement of Mr. Cannon wholly futile. Mr. Cannon has given repeated and abundant proof that self-effacement does not appeal to him as an enjoyable pastime. To bring about any effacement whatever these eastern and 'respectable' regulars must inaugurate a new little insurgent movement of their own, and acquire enough strength to compel Mr. Cannon to bow to the inevitable. The entire plan seems useless and of small worth to the country. It is not so much the personality of Cannon as the principles for which Cannon stands that must be eliminated from the Republican party. The eastern gentlemen may desire to kick out Cannon, but they have no desire to put an end to Cannonism. There is nothing back of such a movement to win or deserve popularity. The hope of the party must lie with the out-and-out insurgents, who are attacking not only the speaker, but the entire structure of standpatism. And at the same time it should be remembered that at least one other small hope remains. If the insurgents fail to make the required gains in the next congressional primaries, there is at least a possibility that the voters will turn to the Democrats and call for an entirely new deal."

This is a very likely possibility, indeed. The people are impatient with Aldrichism and Cannonism. They can't reach Aldrichism—yet; but they can and will reach Cannonism. If they can't reach it through electing enough insurgent Republicans, they will reach it by electing enough Democrats.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

NO NEED TO GO HUNGRY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Recently there appeared in the Northwestern Agriculturist of Minneapolis a report of how Jay Cook Howard, a suburban resident of Duluth, by a system of green manuring, had succeeded in raising thirty-five bushels of potatoes on a plot of ground 60 by 60 feet. The article has been widely copied by the agricultural press all over the United States. Now it occurs to me that about the time Mr. Howard was getting his ground in shape for this remarkable crop there was a bread line in Duluth of some 300 persons, taking their daily rations of a sandwich and cup of coffee. At the same time there was within a radius of twenty miles of Duluth thousands of acres of just such land as Mr. Howard grew his crop upon. Not one acre in a hundred of all this land has ever been cultivated and much of it can be bought today for $10 per acre. At the present time we are seeing "increased cost of living" discussed on every hand, and an association has been started to live on snowballs and hot water when the price of farm products goes above a specified price.

It strikes me that if some of these city people would get off the sidewalks and help the farmers till the soil there would be a greater surplus of products and the price would be less. But farmers find it impossible to secure help in the country and if any of these people go out on the farms to work they want to stop "when the whistle blows" and conform to labor union rules. That sort of thing will not work on the farms. Crops must be taken care of when they mature, regardless of hours, and as the farmer works hard he is entitled to good pay. If these city people want to take things easy then let them feed light.

Considering the cost of labor, teams, machinery and everything used by the farmer present prices of farm produce are not excessive, and considering the amount of work Cook Howard put on his potato patch he did not get abnormal returns. But he did the work, hoed his potatoes and picked potato bugs after office hours uptown in his real estate and insurance business. The point is that if others are willing to work and have the brains to work right they need not go hungry.

Yours very truly, R. E. DIMICK.

WILLING TO COMMIT MURDER FOR A PITTANCE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Sheriff Bates ought to make public the names of the buzzards, who are willing to prey on the victim of the law by hanging Mike Rossi, the convicted murderer, for a few dollars. Their names ought to be published, that those who know them may shun them as men with murder in their hearts.

I am sure that no man with a sense of decency would relish taking the life of another, even if it is done legally. Sheriff Bates will hang Rossi, because it is his duty as an officer of the law; but I know the sheriff would not court the task, and will perform it with a feeling of repugnance for the duty the law thrust upon him.

But the others are deliberately courting an opportunity to shunt a human being off into eternity that they may earn a few blood-stained dollars. If they would perform a legal execution for a pittance, shielding their murderous instincts behind the cloak of the law, they hold human life lightly, and if they thought they could elude the punishment for the crime, they would murder any man if they were paid for the job.

A legal execution is not a nice thing. Sheriff Bates doesn't want the job, but he will do his duty and not turn the execution over to any friend with a thirst for blood and a desire to kill. The men who ask to be allowed to conduct the execution ought to be taken in charge as menaces to the community. L. T. C.

Freemasonry and Liberty.

Brooklyn Eagle: The news that the active and open efforts of Freemasonry in Porto Rico have led to a reconciliation between Rivera, leader of the Unionist party, and Barbosa, leader of the Republican party, on a platform demanding citizenship and "the fullest self-government;" and that an appeal is being made to all Freemasons in congress to bring about the desired legislation in Washington, has a peculiar interest for the student of history. That Masonry has stood for what is regarded as "the rights of man" in many countries is conceded. That its activities have been rewarded with success in the wiping out of abuses in several lands may be acknowledged. Whether what it is doing in Porto Rico is really for the best interests of the islanders is another question.

Romance, backed up by much sober history, attributes the vital force of the French revolution to Masonry. Joseph Faisano openly announced that the object of Masonry was to destroy the French monarchy. The identification of the craft with the revolutionary efforts in Germany in 1849 has not been proved, but is generally accepted as a working hypothesis. That Cavour and Garibaldi had Masonic influence with them in Italy is a reasonable conclusion. Masonic lodges carried red banners and marched as bodies in the "Commune" insurrection in Paris, 1871. That there is a connection between Russian nihilism and Masonry is freely asserted by the priests of the Russian church. That Spain had to meet in the Philippine islands, Masonic forces veiled under the names of the Association Hispano-Filipina, the Liga Filipana and the Katipunan, may hardly be doubted. There is some question whether in his late efforts against the authority of the United States Aguinaldo had Masonic support.

Masonry, is of course, not without influence in the politics of the United States. It has strength enough in congress to compel a full and fair consideration of the Porto Rican issue. Such consideration is a good thing, whether it results in granting or refusing what the Porto Ricans are inclined to demand.

Bootless Generosity.

Puck: There is something finely chivalric in the attitude of the literary market, whereby it selects its material with such restraint that the best stuff may at all times be written for posterity. The editing of magazines has now become so exact a science that only the milk is retained for contemporary uses, leaving the cream to thunder, as it were, down the corridors of time.

But what of those vital statistics which lead us to forebode that there will eventually be no posterity to speak of? There, no doubt, is the rub—certainly it isn't pleasant to think of so much good literature never finding a public, even though it shall be offered in five-foot shelves and uniform bindings.

Clinching the Mormon Vote.

Eau Claire Telegram: It is related that just after Miss Mary Alice Spry of Salt Lake City, daughter of the governor of Utah, broke the bottle of champagne against the bow of the Utah, at Camden, N. J., last Thursday, Senator Smoot of Utah turned to an assemblage of distinguished members of the Mormon church and said: "Isn't it a happy coincidence that this launching of the battleship Utah should be made on the anniversary of the birth of the prophet, Joseph Smith, who made possible the state of Utah?" At the navy department it was denied that any suggestion was made as to the date of the launching, or that any coincidence as to dates was mentioned. It is generally agreed that Senator Smoot would have shown better taste had he refrained from conjuring up the shade of Joe Smith, but the coincidence is remarkable.

THE WEATHER.

The snowfall last night was fine for the coasters, ski jumpers and snow-shoe fiends, but it's all over for a while. The temperature will drop again tonight to zero, and there'll be no snowfall.

A year ago today was clear and cold.

The sun rose this morning at 7:43, and it will set at 4:33, giving Duluth eight hours and thirty-nine minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following commoner on weather conditions:

"Areas of low barometric pressure central thi smorning over Lake Superior and Western Gulf districts caused light to heavy falls of snow or rain in nearly all sections to the eastward of the Rocky mountains during Tuesday or last night, together with much warmer weather in the lake region, Ohio, Mississippi and Red river valleys. The Eastern cold wave is central over North Atlantic states, attended by abnormally high barometric pressures off the New England coast. Another strong high pressure condition occupies the Rocky mountain plateau, zero weather resulting in Nevada, Utah, Northern New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Western Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wyoming.

"Indications favor a return to zero temperatures in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight."

The maximum temperatures for twenty-four hours, and the minimum for twelve hours were:

The Dethronement of Man.

When Nature first made woman she unquestionably told her
Man's mission was to dominate, to have her and to hold her;
She said that woman's work was just to do the baby toting,
While man could be relied upon to manage all the voting.

But Fashion came to tea one day, and while they all sat drinking,
She looked so fascinating that she set the women thinking.
Why couldn't they wear pretty clothes and go out a-calling?
And now among their gods, the men, there came a great downfalling.

The women wanted this and that and mankind had to scurry,
And so they took to working graft to get cash in a hurry.
And some were forced to cook their food and some were downed completely.
But women's work grew easier and each was costumed neatly.

Now man is on his uppers quite—the women have him stranded—
They've shorn him of his primal might since Fashion squarely landed.
Of nearly all his perquisites they've gleefully hereft him.
And now they want the ballot box—the only thing that's left him!

—L. S. Waterhouse in New York Sun.

Poor Harry!

Puck: "It isn't as if the dear child were going away off to some remote place far from all of her relatives and friends," said the bride's mother to the caller who had run in the day after the wedding to have a second look at the presents.

"You see, she is going to live right here, so near us that I can run in every day, and her sister, May, will live just across the street and will be running in every day, and her grandmother lives just around the corner, so she can run in every day, and her Aunt Maria lives only four blocks up the street, so she can run in every day, and her Aunt Harriet lives so near that she will probably be running in about every day, and she has half a dozen other aunts and cousins right here in town who will be running in at any time; but, of course, it will be a little hard for poor Harry, for all of his people live miles and miles from here, and the dear boy hasn't a relative to run in; yet, with so many of May's relatives to run in, the dear boy can't get very lonesome—dear, good boy!"

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: You can't get fat on a chafing dish diet.

He who drifts with the tide is apt to go broke on the rocks.

Of course a guilty man never gets a fair trial—from his viewpoint.

Love makes a woman believe a lot of things that she knows are not true.

A man boasts of his past, and a woman is proud if she hasn't any at all.

Don't be afraid to take a day off occasionally. It is necessary for good work.

Many a coming man fails to arrive because he got cold feet shortly after starting.

And woman might have had her rights long ago had she understood the manly art of grafting.

When a man is sick he expects the rest of the family to drop everything and listen to his grunts.

Somehow a girl doesn't imagine she is happy unless her love for some man is strong enough to make her miserable.

Dramatic Argument.

Collier's: For ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain, theatrical folk are peculiar. Take the common method of advertising "runs." A play begins its metropolitan career—name furnished on request—in mid-April; it plays until July; and in September it reopens with "seven months' run in New York" eight-sheeted across the country. Another opens in November and plays until the 1st of February. "Two years on Broadway." "Isn't 1908 one year?" the press agent asks. "Well, isn't 1909 another?"

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

•••The first of this week the work of building machinery at the Marquette shops of the Iron Bay company ceased, and the entire force began tearing down, that all may be moved to the magnificent new shops that now stand ready at West Duluth.

•••"We are working a few over 300 men just now," said General Manager Ettenger of the Minnesota Iron company. "In about two months the number will be 500 and by the middle of summer I have no doubt there will be more than 1,000 men in our shops." P. L. Collins, lately of the Washburn-Hunt Company of Jersey City, has arrived to become foreman of the wheel shop. The company will begin work soon on 150 houses, which will be rented at low rates to its employes.

•••At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lakeside Land company the following directors for the ensuing year were chosen: O. P. Stearns, George C. Stone, D. G. Cash, Charles H. Graves and William C. Sargent. The directors then elected the following officers: President and treasurer, O. P. Stearns; secretary, W. C. Sargent. These offices have been held by Messrs. Stearns and Sargent since the company was organized. The capital of the company has been increased from $125,000 to $500,000, to be paid up.

•••The real estate transfers filed during the past week aggregated $1,621,688, an average of $270,281 per day.

•••Robert Swan of Fairport, Ohio, and James Chapman were in the city last week to open negotiations for the use of docks at Duluth. Fairport harbor is to be improved, and within a year a line of boats will be running to Duluth in the interest of the Baltimore & Ohio road.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

How About the Switchmen's Coal Bin?

Waverly Star and Tribune: James J. Hill says that the switchmen's strike was a strike in name only. But then, Hill's coal bin is always filled anyway.

Discrediting the Administration.

Sauk Rapids Sentinel-Free Press: The subsidized press is showing much concern over an alleged conspiracy on the part of the muckrakers to discredit President Taft before the country. But when it comes to discrediting the Taft administration, Collier's and La Follette's and Success aren't in it with W. H. Taft.

A Discovery.

Foley Independent: With food and clothing out of sight we're beginning to find that it's h—ll to be poor.

Minnesota in Revolt.

Le Sueur News (Ind.): The Republican party today offers little of inducement for the laboring man to affiliate with it. Only the insurgents in congress give a thought to the people they represent. The only moral question left in politics is the liquor question and that the Republican party divorced long ago. The only issues are ones of business, and in shaping them the moneyed interests own congress and the president. Why deny it? The sooner we open our eyes to the true condition, the sooner will we get relief. Sentiment will not buy bread or clothe the naked. Minnesota, excepting Tawney, is ready for revolt, and it's representatives in congress are of and for the people.

Polyboxing.

Albert Lea Standard: Governor Eberhart will appoint 1,000 farmers throughout Minnesota as a commission to investigate conditions and formulate plans whereby farm conditions may be improved. And to help him fix the fences, eh? There's nothing like "workin'" the farmers when a campaign is in sight.

Don't Believe It.

Riverton Union: It is said that Joe Cannon will be compelled to retire from the speakership. You can't compel Joe to do anything. If he insists upon holding down that office until his knees wabble and his nose and chin strike one another as he speaks, the house of representatives will acquiesce. The talk of firing Cannon is poppycock.

Right!

Cannon Falls Beacon: If the past year has not been all you wished for, neither has it been all you could have made it. Think this over.

It Will Be High Time.

St. Peter Herald: A year hence we hope to see a lot of Cannon congressmen sorrowfully surrendering their seats to representatives of the people.

Acclimated?

Walker Pilot: Seeing as how Dr. Cook has spent several years in the polar regions, the mere fact that the American public is turning him the cold shoulder ought not to bother him much.

The Most Ancient Copper Mine.

New York Times: The most ancient copper mine in the world is the Rio Tinto, in Spain. Three thousand years ago the Phoenicians found just beyond Gibraltar extensive deposits of copper ore. Copper was one of the most desired metals of those days, and the Phoenicians, skilful artificers, set to extracting it. When their sea trade was usurped by Carthaginians several centuries later, ore from the mine was carried to the various ancient trading ports. When Carthage fell, the Romans took possession and worked the Rio Tinto for centuries. Then came Goths, and later Moors, digging more gold out of the Iberian mountain. When Ferdinand and Isabella drove the Moors out of Spain, the crown took possession of the Rio Tinto mine and leased it from time to time to adventurers from various countries of Europe; in the seventeenth century it was leased to a Swede and later to a Frenchman; in the eighteenth century to a company of Englishmen. During the French invasion the mine was abandoned, to be reopened by the crown about 100 years ago. In 1873 English bankers offered a good round price, and the Spanish government turned the property over to them; a public company was formed, and the shares offered investors. The yearly output was enormously increased, and since the English took possession some $30,000,000 worth of copper has been mined. In 1906 and 1907 dividends of $10,000,000 were declared, the largest ever paid by any copper mine in the world. The steam shovel has added generations to the life of Rio Tinto.

As the property has been entered deeper and deeper the ore has become poorer—the rich ores were all extracted years ago. Six years since, when the owners were puzzling over mining the low grade ore at a profit, along came an American with an idea. A few steam shovels, he showed, would do the work of thousands of Spanish miners, and even though the miners were paid only 60 cents a day, steam shovels would save much money. The English timidly sent to the States for two shovels; now American shovels are grunting and snorting all over Rio Tinto, within sight of the old slag piles of the Romans, Carthaginians and Phoenicians.

The Fatal Street Corner.

Lippincott's: In a Nova Scotia town lived an old man whose wife had recently died, leaving him in a comfortable house with no one to look after him. He soon began "lookin' round" for a second helpmate, and settled on a widow, whose status as a housekeeper for her former spouse was well established. The old man had but one objection to her: she was a Methodist, and he had been a devout Presbyterian all his life.

"It's all right but for that one thing," he confided to his crony, when they fell to discussing this drawback. "Come week days, she will be fine, I'm a-thinkin'. She can keep me tidy, mind the house, and, man, ye know she can cook. But then," and he shook his head doubtfully—"then will come Sunday. We will be starting off to church together, just as husband and wife should be doin' on the Sabbath day, and we will come to the corner. Then Mandy, she will be turning to go down the street to that Methodist place, and I will go on to the house of God alone!"

Mutual Interest.

Wasp: A few days after a farmer had sold a pig to a neighbor he chanced to pass the neighbor's place, where he saw their little boy sitting on the edge of the pig-pen watching its new occupant.

"How d'ye do, Johnny," said he; "how's your pig today?"

"Oh, pretty well, thank you," replied the boy. "How's all your folks?"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Bon Vivant: "If I buy six eggs at 1 franc the dozen, and 4 sous worth of gruyere, what does that make?"

"A cheese omelette."

Life: "I wish I had known what a poor cook you were before I engaged you, Bridget."

"I wish you had mum," said Bridget devoutly.

London Opinion: Elsie—They're twins, aren't they?

Bob (scornfully)—Twins, you duffer! Can't you see one's a boy and one is a girl?

Cleveland Leader: "What do you do for a living?"

"I'm a farmer."

"Oh, A scientific up-to-date farmer?"

"Am I? Say, I pasteurize my milk weed!"

Baltimore American: She (sternly)—I heard a noise very late.

He (facetiously)—Was it the night failing?

She—No, it wasn't. It was the day breaking.

Philadelphia Record: Mr. Sillicus—Every time I read a newspaper I get some new thoughts."

Miss Caustique—Indeed! I don't suppose you find time to read very much.

Washington Star: "Our new girl objects to being referred to as 'the help,'" said Mrs. Crosslots.

"Let us respect her philological scruples," replied her husband. "Hereafter we will call her 'the hindrance.'"

Chicago Daily News: Myer—According to reports there are no cats in the Arctic regions.

Gyer—That's a fortunate thing for the natives, isn't it?

Myer—How so?

Gyer—Well, just imagine cats in a country where the nights are six months long.

Boston Herald: Hiram Hutchins—Hope your boy Eph ain't on one uv them college football teams?

Abijah Perkins—Not much; Eph got ketched under a steam roller once an' he knows how it feels.

Cleveland Leader: "Do you and your husband ever disagree?"

"He never does."

Baltimore American: "My footman left me without any warning."

"Mine left me without any spoons."

Philadelphia Record: Blobbs—Hardupe says he owes everything to his wife.

Slobbs—Harduppe is a double-distilled prevaricator. He owes $10 to me.

Chicago Daily News: Mrs. Stubb (poetically)—Ah, John, the dun skies, the dun fields and the dun forests. Everything is dun these autumn days.

Mr. Stubb—Blamed if they aren't, Maria. Here comes another bill collector now.

Chicago Record-Herald: "For twenty years I've been fighting for a principle in this town, and I'm discouraged."

"The people won't have it, eh?"

"They've decided to adopt it, and I shall have no excuse, after this, to keep on fighting."

In Scraptoria.

Lippincott's: Surrounded by an admiring circle of reporters and sporting men, the two noted pugilists were completing the arrangements for their decisive contest.

"There's one more detail," said one of the prospective contestants. "When is the fight to take place?"

The other pondered a moment. "How would the year 1924 do?" he asked finally.

"No," replied his future antagonist, with a frown. "That's too far off—the public wouldn't stand for it. Better make it 1919."

"All right," was the answer. "We can easily postpone it, I suppose, if we care to."

"Of course," responded the other carelessly.

Then the meeting broke up, and the reporters hurried away, so that the "extras" might be gotten out promptly.

A Modest Doctor.

Lippincott's: While on his vacation, a city doctor attended the Sunday morning service at a little country church. When the congregation was dismissed several of the members shook hands with him, and one, wishing to learn if he were a Methodist, inquired. "Are you a professor, brother?"

"Oh, no indeed," answered the physician modestly; "just an ordinary doctor."

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING STORES WILL CLOSE AT 6

Leading Concerns Have Already Agreed to Close at That Time.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—There is an effort being made by the larger of Hibbing's stores to close every evening at 6 o'clock. The Itasca, the Galloway Dry Goods company and the Bazaar have started the movement, and it is expected that the rest of the merchants will see their way clear to follow the leaders.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stevenson, who have been in Indiana and Missouri on an extended trip over the holidays, returned home last evening.

Miss Tillie Brown, who has been sick for the past ten days with pleurisy, has returned to her stenographic duties.

Clarence Dwyer, one of the district court stenographers, was in Hibbing for a few hours yesterday on his way to attend the session at Virginia.

James McGee, the cruiser, is laid up in his rooms in the Superior hotel with a severe cold.

Leo Kilduff has returned to his duties in Godfrey's store, after a ten days' illness.

M. J. Soaners is in Duluth combining business with the medical treatment of his right eye, which was seriously hurt New Year's day in an accident.

Dr. Cumming of St. Paul has taken offices in the Harkins building.

Martin J. Hurley, the attorney, who has been visiting in Pine City with his parents, is expected back tomorrow evening.

TACONITE MAN IS INSTANTLY KILLED

Louis Dash Brakeman at Holman Mine Run Over By the Cars.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—A train backing onto the dump at the Holman mine last night parted and Louis Dash, aged 23, a brakeman was thrown under the wheels and cut to pieces.

The deceased has a mother and step-father residing at Taconite, the latter being foreman of the Holman pit. He was a member of the Eagles lodge of Chisholm. Dash did not want to go to work last evening, complaining of a cold, but his partner refused to substitute for him and he felt compelled to do his duty.

GET $5 MORE A MONTH.

Three Two Harbors Officials Have Cause to Rejoice.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night raised the salaries of the street commissioners, poundmaster and janitors from $65 to $70 per month, effective from Nov. 1, last.

The committee on buildings and grounds, to which was referred the application of the Glen Theater company for a license, reported that the theater complied with the requirements of the ordinance, except that the doors of exits were four feet wide instead of five. The report was referred back to the council and laid over for another week to give the council as a whole an opportunity to investigate.

The auditing committee was authorized to employ a competent person or persons to audit the books of the water and light collector for the year of 1909.

EVELETH MAN MARRIED.

Engineer W. H. Wright Takes a Bride at Marquette, Mich.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Margaret May Smith, daughter of D. F. Smith of Waldo street, at 8 o'clock Saturday evening was married to William H. Wright of Eveleth, Minn., at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. A. A. Maywood being the officiating clergyman. The bride has been employed at Watson & Palmer's store for some time and the groom is a locomotive engineer on the Mesaba range. They will make their home in Eveleth.

DRUNK IS EJECTED.

Thrown Out of Hibbing Saloon and Rendered Unconscious.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Considerable excitement was created last evening about 7 o'clock on Third avenue. A drunken man after trying to break the windows of one of the saloons on that street with his hands attempted to enter the place and was promptly ejected by the bartender with such force that he remained unconscious until the arrival of the police who carried him to the jail.

IN NEW ELKS' HALL.

Knights of Pythias Will Be First to Use New Place.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Elks' hall was opened for the first time last evening, when the Knights of Pythias held its meeting there. The Elks will hold their first session in their new hall Friday evening.

The other lodges who have arranged to hold sessions in the hall, are the Red Men and Degree of Pocahontas. Other lodges are negotiating for the use of the hall.

The formal opening of the hall will take place during the latter part of the month, it is planned to have out-of-town speakers, and out-of-town lodge members in attendance. Music and other entertaining features are being arranged.

NEW EVELETH COUNCIL HAS TAKEN HOLD OF AFFAIRS

PRESIDENT WILSON.

VICE PRESIDENT SAARI.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The retiring city council wound up its business last night and the new council was inducted into office. Joseph S. Wilson, alderman for the First ward, was chosen president of the new council and Jacob S. Sarri, alderman for the Second ward, vice president.

The organization of the new council was not complete, and adjournment was taken to Thursday evening, when it is expected that the appointments will be made. It is stated that the present city attorney, J. P. Boyle, is a candidate for re-appointment and Attorney J. C. McGillvery is also a candidate for that position. C. B. McIntyre is a candidate for re-appointment as city clerk and will probably have no opposition. C. Vandall desires to succeed himself as superintendent of the waterworks and E. E. Forstell is also said to be a candidate. William Nelson desires to be re-appointed as chief of the fire department and there is another candidate for the position. The chief of police is appointed by the mayor, and it is not expected that Mayor Smith will make any change.

Franchise Is Passed.

One of the last acts of the old council was to pass the street railway franchise sought by the Prindies of Duluth.

The street railway is to be constructed within noe year, and no line can be run between Gilbert and Virginia, except by way of Eveleth.

The annual reports of officials were accepted.

The annual report of the city clerk showed total revenue, $45,444.84, with taxation, $127,077.71; total expenditures, $103,473.70.

The applications of Frank Winchester for transfer of license to Shuta and Majurale for transfer to Lund and Forseman; John Shute and Vite Vitullo for renewals of licenses, A. C. Emmons for license, were all granted.

The report of Chief of Police Kent showed a total of $657.50 collected in fines for the month of December. The payroll for the last half of December was allowed. Claims, acts and bills for the month of December were also allowed.

BOATHOUSE IS BURNED.

Spark From Stove Causes Fire at Trout Lake.

Coleraine, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—There was another fire at Trout lake Monday night, when Ingalls' boathouse was badly burned, the interior being damaged to the amount of $100 or more.

The Ingalls family is in California for the winter, the house being occupied by Billy Hillis. A spark from the stove is supposed to have started the blaze. The Ingalls' boathouse was destroyed by fire last spring, but was rebuilt.

EVELETH ENTERTAINMENT.

Third Series in Star Course to Be Given Thursday Evening.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Skovgaard Concert company, consisting of Skovgaard, Danish violin virtuoso; Miss Harriet M. Hertz, and Miss Alice McClung, pianist, will give an entertainment tomorrow evening in the high school auditorium.

This will be the third entertainment of the Star course, which is being given under the auspices of the school board, assisted by Fergus Ellsworth.

NEWSPAPER MAN WEDS.

Theodore Johnson of Two Harbors and Miss Anderson Made One.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Theodore G. Johnson of the Journal-News of this city and Miss Helga Anderson were married yesterday morning by the Presbyterian church pastor, Rev. J. F. McLeod.

Miss Anderson is the daughter of A. Anderson, residing on Ninth avenue, and has lived here the greater part of her life. She has been engaged as nurse in the Budd hospital for the past few years.

After the ceremony at the parsonage the couple were driven to the home of the bride, where an elaborate breakfast was partaken of, and at about 10:30 o'clock a number of friends of the couple drove to the house and took the couple to the 11 o'clock train behind a yoke of oxen which were hitched to a small sleigh. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for the Twin Cities for a few days, and will then go to the home of the groom at Cannon Falls, and will return to this city in about ten days. They will reside on Third avenue, where Mr. Johnson has engaged apartments.

EVELETH BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION TO ELECT.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The annual election of officers of the Eveleth Business Men's association will take place tomorrow evening. Two members of the association will also be appointed delegates to the Minnesota Confederation of Commercial Clubs' annual convention, which will be held soon in the Twin Cities.

GOVERNOR HUGHES TELLS SOLONS TO KILL TAX LAW

cies at the mercy of the federal taxing power would be an impairment of the essential rights of the state which, as its officers, we are bound to defend."

After reviewing the legal aspects of this question, the governor declares, in conclusion:

"We cannot suppose that congress will not seek to tax incomes derived from securities issued by the state and its municipalities. It has repeatedly endeavored to lay such taxes, and its efforts have been defeated only by implied constitutional restriction which this amendment threatens to destroy. While we may desire that the Federal government may be equipped with all necessary national powers in order that it may perform its national function, we must be equally solicitous to secure the essential basis of state government."

New Attack on Racing.

In view of the efforts which the governor in his regular message says have been made to prohibit bookmaking at race tracks he commends an amendment penalizing the practice of bookmaking, even though no bets are recorded.

Revelations as to the "white slave traffic" are referred to and the governor recommends the enactment of whatever additional or more stringent provisions of law are necessary to make the statutes more efficacious.

The governor renews his former recommendations for direct nominations and a short ballot.

Reference is made to the report of the committee appointed to investigate the stock exchanges of New York, whose recommendations the governor approves.

He again recommends that the public service commission law be extended so as to bring telegraph and telephone companies under the jurisdiction of the commission.

INSURGENTS IN THE HOUSE ARE MUCH WROUGHT UP BY DISCLOSURES BY MILLER

funds, and other reforms. Most of the other insurgents are for these same things.

"It is slanderous to say that we can be swerved from the course of supporting these reforms by the withholding of any patronage by anybody, or be induced to support this or that proposition by the offering of official sop of any kind. We are committed to the principles which I have enumerated because we believe they are right, and not because the president or anybody else is for or against them.

Who Must Be "Induced."

"It is not the insurgents of the house, but men like Aldrich and Cannon whom the president will have to induce to support his 'policies.' The insurgents are for them already and have been all the time."

Representative Norris of Nebraska added his approval of the above declaration, as did Representative Hayes of California. Mr. Hayes said that his fight was solely against the rules of the house and its present organization. Upon the latter proposition Mr. Hayes said that he was ready to go the full limit, and fight to the finish, and ascertain the independence of the representative in congress which he was contending for, he said.

The insurgents are discussing the desirability of holding an early meeting and ascertaining from President Taft where they stand. The calling of the meeting is in the hands of Representative Hayes of California.

Senate Not Disturbed.

There was no apparent sign of the insurgent difficulty on the senate side of the capitol, further than the numerous conferences which insurgent Republicans from the house side were holding with the senators from the insurgent representatives' states regarding the best policy to pursue.

Senator Cummins said that he had experienced no difficulty with the postoffice department or any other government department in regard to his patronage. His recommendations had been asked for in Iowa appointments, and had been acted upon wherever he furnished them.

Speaker Cannon remarked that if he were to express his own views on the situation, they would sound "chestnutty." He denied knowledge of any specific determination to crush the insurgents. But he turned to a copy of a speech which he delivered in Kansas City on Dec. 7 last, and quoted from it the following paragraph as expressive of his opinion of the course that ought to be pursued against the insurgents:

What Cannon Thinks.

The paragraph reads:

"When Lincoln found an army marching on the national capital from the South and a body of sympathizers in the North encouraging that army, he said it was difficult to determine which was the most threatening to the welfare of the nation. History repeats itself, and when Senators Cummins, La Follette, Bristow and their so-called progressive following join hands with Mr. Bryan in waging war upon the Republican members of congress, who passed the tariff bill, and upon President Taft, who signed it, in that contest I know of but one way to treat them, and that is fight them just as we fight Mr. Bryan and his followers."

Life and Death Struggle.

Most of the radical insurgent leaders on the house side feel that with the elections but a few months distant, it is a life and death struggle with them and consequently when forced into the fray, have no hesitation about carrying the war to any extent.

The effort to defeat insurgent congressmen by starting a fight against them in their home districts, as was reported yesterday had already begun in several districts in the West, has hit hard, and the congressmen so attacked probably will make no choice of weapons in defending themselves.

Statement Looked For.

It was expected that some statement would be forthcoming today from the administration side, as to its attitude regarding the insurgents.

So far, Postmaster General Hitchcock has remained silent under the statements emanating from Representative Miller of Minnesota to the effect that Mr. Hitchcock was holding up the appointments of postmasters, recommended by insurgent Republican members of the house.

Representative Miller was instrumental in "blowing the lid off" of the situation. He did it by his statement to the effect that Postmaster General Hitchcock had informed him that his (Miller's) recommendations for presidential postmasterships were being held up because of his insurgent activities in the house. He quoted the postmaster general as saying, in substance:

"A great deal of pressure is being brought to bear upon me to withhold from the insurgent Republican congressmen the patronage in their districts. I am very loath to do this, and the matter is still under consideration."

Said Hitchcock Asked Delay.

Mr. Miller said he told the postmaster general he intended to carry the thing to the open floor of the house, but that Mr. Hitchcock urged him to defer any action until that subject could be further considered. Whereupon Mr. Miller agreed to await developments before precipitating an open fight.

As soon as the congressman's statements were made the postmaster general called him on the telephone and took him to task for not having kept the conversation confidential, and he replied that he felt he had violated no confidence.

Representative Miller said last night that a month or more ago he complied with a request from the postoffice department to forward his recommendations upon several presidential postmasterships in Minnesota. After a wait of several weeks he called at the department he said, but could get no information, and was for a long time unable to see the postmaster general. He succeeded in gaining an audience Monday, and it was during that conversation, according to Mr. Miller, that Mr. Hitchcock informed him of the existence of a situation which had made it impossible for him to act as yet upon his recommendations.

Told Clapp About It.

Mr. Miller said he had no idea that the interview was to be considered private, as there were three other callers in Mr. Hitchcock's office at the time who might have heard the conversation. Representative Humphrey was one of the three present, and one or both of the others were congressmen. Before making the matter public he had conferred with Senator Clapp from his own state, also an insurgent. He did not desire, he said, to precipitate any final break, but he had merely repeated remarks which he considered were official and authoritative.

Representatives Cooper and Lenroot of Wisconsin also are said to have filed recommendations for patronage upon which no action has been taken. Neither would talk about the matter last night, but said the position is similar to that of Representative Miller.

TYPHOID GERMS IN THE WATER

Lake Shore Families Using Water Shipped From the Lake.

Several cases of typhoid fever have been reported among the residents along East Water street. The health inspectors say the disease there is due to the fact that they are using water dipped from the lake. It is impure as a sewer empties near this point and the seepage from a big farm barn also contaminates the water in this locality. The same thing has happened before.

BIG GRAFTS ON SHORES OF LAKE

Illinois Committee Reports and Says Ballinger Refused to Help Its Work.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 5.—B. M. Chiperfield, chairman of the special committee that has had under investigation submerged lands, made charges before the house appropriations committee yesterday that lands valued at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 have been reclaimed without legal warrant from the shores of navigable rivers and lakes in Illinois and the shores of Lake Michigan.

Representative Chiperfield made the charges in asking the committee to appropriate $15,000 additional to continue the investigation.

"The committee is prepared to state," said Chairman Chiperfield, "that there is not an inch of the shore of Lake Michigan from South Chicago to Waukegan that is worth anything that is not being held by unlawful owners.

No Help From Ballinger.

"Secretary of the Interior Ballinger refused to give the co-operation of the Federal government to our committee in determining what claims the state has to reclaim lands. He told this committee that the state of Illinois is in no wise different from a private citizen and that if it wished any maps or plans from the interior department it would have to pay for them just as a private citizen would."

It is to pay the expenses of the data to be secured from Washington that the committee desires another appropriation.

BLIND WOMAN WOULD PAY FINE OF MAN WHO BEAT HER

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Michael Kane, a blind woman, who said that her blindness was due to her husband's blows, obtained judgment of $50 one against him for disertion in the police court yesterday, and then relentfully turned about and offered to pay the fine. She said that Kane put out her eyes with blows from a pistol but five years ago and then deserted her and two children.

"But after all he's my husband," she argued as she offered to pay the fine.

The court frowned on her leniency and Kane, himself unable to pay, was sent to prison for a year.

WANTS MEN TO TRAIN INDIANS IN FARMING.

Washington, Jan. 5.—"Expert farmers wanted, salary $1,200 per annum." The Indian service is making this attractive offer to agricultural students, who are sufficiently equipped to train the braves on Indian reservations in raising farm products. The appointments will be restricted to graduates of agricultural colleges. The successful applicants will be designated by Indian Commissioner Valentine to manage demonstration farms on reservations in arid and semi-arid regions of the West.

INDIANS APPROVE CLAY MODEL OF SQUAW'S STATUE

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Chief Spotted Weasel and James Holding Eagle, two full blooded Mandan Indians from the government agency at Fort Berthold, N. D., spent several hours in Chicago yesterday in the capacity of art critics.

They were inspecting a statue of an Indian maiden, the work of a Chicago sculptor, which is to be placed in the state capitol at Bismarck, N. D.

The Indians, accompanied by Prof. O. G. Libby of Grand Forks, president of the North Dakota Historical society, gave their approval of the clay model statue. It will represent a young Indian maiden, Sakajawea, who guided the Lewis and Clark expedition through the Rocky mountains. The money for the purchase of the statue is being raised by the Federation of Women's clubs and the school children of North Dakota.

PROVIDES FOR DRINKS FOR MEN IN THE ARMY.

Washington, Jan. 5.—A lowering of the bars in favor of fermented malt or fruit beverages at army post exchanges and on army transports, but permitting "no distilled or ardent spirits to be sold," is provided by a bill introduced in the house by Representative Parker, chairman of the judiciary committee. The measure provides that the favored beverages may be sold under proper regulations, by enlisted men or other persons authorized.

Obtaining unanimous consent to address the house for thirty minutes, soon after that body reconvened after the holiday recess, Representative Douglas of Ohio declared that the method of making appropriations for government expenditures appeared to him to be radically wrong. He said that no opportunity was offered members of the house to consider the relative importance of various appropriations proposed.

NOW CUTTING ICE ON SPIRIT LAKE.

The Duluth Ice company has started the annual "harvest" with operations on Spirit lake. The ice is between sixteen and eighteen inches thick.

PLEADS GUILTY AND PAYS FINE.

Joseph Bpnek of the town of Stuntz, near Hibbing pleaded guilty in police court yesterday afternoon to keeping an unlicensed drinking place and was fined $100 and costs or sixty days in the county jail. His friends will try to raise the money. Another charge of unlawfully selling whisky was made against him to which he pleaded not guilty. The cases against Nynial Wolfrom and Alex Lasseczki were dismissed as they were only boarders and not proprietors of the place.

Uchida's Stables Scorched.

Washington, Jan. 5. — Fire threatened the Japanese embassy early today. The flames broke out in the stables in the rear as Baron Uchida and Mme. Uchida were returning home from the diplomatic reception at the White House. The baron was alarmed for the safety of his house, but the quick work of the firemen saved it. The damage was not great.

SHOE SALESMEN GATHER IN CITY

Field Force of Northern Shoe Company Is Receiving Instructions.

If one has any question as to the future of Duluth in general and of the Northern Shoe company in particular, he should encounter a group of the salesmen for the above company, all of whom are spending this week in Duluth. Most of them have been off their territories since about the middle of December, having spent Christmas and New Year's and the intervening holidays at their homes, and are now in the house getting out their new lines of samples and mapping out the campaign for the coming season.

Yesterday the salesmen and the management had luncheon at the St. Louis, and this evening the salesmen will be guests of the officers and directors of the company at dinner at the Commercial club, at which time remarks will be in order regarding the past year's results, and the plans for the coming year.

Among the best territories of the house is that of Southern North Dakota, which is covered by Benjamin Rud, a former Duluth boy. Although this territory was among the topnotchers in 1908, he has increased his shipments the past year by about 65 per cent over previous records. Mr. Rud is an enthusiastic booster for Duluth, and a thorough believer in the future of Duluth wholesale houses in North Dakota.

C. C. Cutts, who represents the company in Montana, is another one of the Western men who has practically doubled his business during the past season, and although the company has recently added two men to help out on the territories in Eastern Washington, Idaho and Oregon, it is evident that additional force must be added to take care of the business in Montana.

The company is now considering adding Wyoming to the list of states covered.

Every territory out of the house during the past season has shown a substantial gain, and the prospects for the coming year are exceedingly favorable.

The salesmen representing the company at the present time are as follows: L. A. Kent, Northern Michigan; John Hoehle, Northern Wisconsin; Robert Little, Central Minnesota; W. N. Donaldson, Northern Minnesota; E. J. Erickson, Minnesota and Wisconsin; George B. Stickels, Southern Minnesota; Robert Leick, Northwestern Minnesota; John Eggum, Southern North Dakota and Northern South Dakota; Ben Rud, Southern North Dakota; Barney Leiburg, Northern North Dakota; C. C. Cutts, Montana; F. S. Chambers, Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho; O. A. Netter, Oregon; F. F. Hanes, Western Washington and Alaska; John Murray, Duluth and Superior; Frank Halbert, Duluth and Superior.

The officers of the company are as follows: A. W. Hartman, president; J. L. Washburn, vice president; George L. Hargraves, secretary; L. D. Stickles, treasurer; F. E. Church, assistant treasurer.

The active management of the company rests with L. D. Stickles, general manager; M. J. McMahon, superintendent; George L. Hargraves, buyer, and E. E. Church, credit manager.

To these men is largely due the remarkable success and growth of the company.

MRS. LEDBETER DEPARTS.

Acquitted of Killing Her Husband, Goes to Spooner, Wis.

Mankato, Minn., Jan. 5.—Mrs. Grace Ledbeter, declared innocent of the murder of her husband, H. J. Ledbeter, has left the city, accompanying her father to his farm near Spooner, Wis. Her departure occurred sooner than her attorneys had given out. Mrs. Ledbeter and her friends thought it would be wisdom on her part to leave the city. This she did quietly and before the public was aware of it she was gone.

She did not remain long enough to remove her belongings from the county jail, and they are there yet. Few people expect that she will ever return to Mankato.

LABORER'S TORPEDO SELLS FOR $100,000.

Eldora, Iowa, Jan. 5.—Fred Ikerman, until recently of Eldora, has just received $100,000 from the government for a naval torpedo, invented for coast defense. After a test lasting over a period of five months, in which time Ikerman demonstrated the torpedo for $10 a day and his expenses, the government has finally adopted the torpedo, and bought the patent.

Several periodicals of late have been telling of a new torpedo that the government has been testing. This was Ikerman's torpedo. The cruising of the battleship Texas and its maneuvers in the last few months have been common knowledge, but it was not generally known that this battleship was carrying Ikerman and his patent from place to place to demonstrate the torpedo before various naval officers.

One naval officer, at a demonstration in the Philippines said: "Give me twelve men and a sufficient number of these torpedoes and I can successfully withstand an attack from the combined navies of the entire world."

Ikerman has said that from the time the torpedo is started up to the time that it strikes it is under perfect control. The torpedo has a nine-mile range.

PROGRAM FOR TEN DAYS OF JOY FOR THE CURLERS

Biggest Bonspiel in History of Association This Year.

Attendance Will Be Large and Prizes Are Valuable.

"Hurrah! Hurrah! ye jolly curlers a',
Hurrah! Hurrah! get up and come awa.'
The day is fair, the ice is rare,
The piebroch soon will blow
A rousing invitation to the bonspiel."

The program for the seventeenth annual bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association has been issued and the period of the bonspiel, Jan. 12 will be a busy one for the curlers. There are games or entertainment for every minute of the time and the visiting curlers will find that Duluth has arranged the finest bonspiel ever held in the Northwest.

The first draw will go on the ice Wednesday morning, Jan. 12, at 10 o'clock and the events will be run off as rapidly as possible. The International event, to be played between four Canadian and four American rinks, will be played Saturday, Jan. 15, at 1 o'clock. Saturday evening, the visiting curlers will be entertained at a banquet and reception at the Commercial club. The annual meeting of the association will follow the banquet.

The present officers of the Northwestern Curling association are:

President, Henry T. Hudson, Duluth; first vice president, Joseph E. Catlin, Duluth; second vice president, R. W. Chalbourn, Minneapolis; secretary, Walter C. Poehler, Duluth; treasurer, F. W. Hargreaves, Duluth; executive committee, George F. Orde, Minneapolis; Thomas McDermott, St. Paul; W. D. Stewart, St. Paul; George B. Reedal, Phillips, Wis.; Dr. R. C. Oglivie, Superior.

The following committees are in charge of the bonspiel this year:

Executive committee—Elmer Whyte, chairman; Phil Heimlck, Edward Hazen, Henry Hewitt of West Duluth, D. B. McDonald and W. C. Winton.

Reception committee—Charles D. Brewer, chairman; C. E. Tweed, Ron Smith, John Pusch, James McLennan, Joel Gates of Superior and F. H. Wade of West Duluth.

Ice committee—Alex Macrae, E. A. Forsythe and E. N. Bradley.

Manager of bonspiel—J. H. Blackwood of Winnipeg.

Official umpire—G. W. Meldrum of West Duluth.

Prizes Are Valuable.

The prizes for the different events this year are richer and more elaborate than ever and they should inspire a hearty feeling of competition between the entering rinks. The events are the Duluth Curling club, St. Paul Jobbers', Minneapolis Curling club, Western Curling club, Duluth, Canadian Soo, the International, the Ordway.

The Duluth Curling club, St. Paul Jobbers and Minneapolis Curling club events are the only ones that are open. The rinks competing in those three events and having the greatest number of games won will receive prizes for the grand aggregate. The Western Curling Club of Duluth trophy will be competed for only by rinks from the United States. The Canadian Soo event is restricted to those who shall have been defeated in the first draws, including preliminaries, in at least two of the first, second and third events. For the International trophy, all Canadian rinks at the bonspiel will be opposed by an equal number of American rinks. If the Canadians win they shall play down for the trophy and if the Americans win, all American rinks at the bonspiel shall play down. The play for the Ordway trophy is restricted to rinks affiliated with regularly organized clubs of Minnesota outside of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth.

General Rules.

Following are the general rules governing the bonspiel:

1. Play will begin at 10 a. m., Wednesday, Jan. 12, and will continue as rapidly as possible at hours set by the manager.

2. In order to get into the first event, all rinks must be entered by 9 a. m. Jan. 12, and as much earlier as possible. Give names of skip, third, second and first in order, and events for which it is desired to contest.

3. No rink shall be eligible to enter for any competition or match under the jurisdiction of the association unless in the first game they have four bona fide active players. If, however, after starting in any event, any member, through sickness or unforeseen circumstances, is unable to play, then the following rules to apply:

(a) If the skip be absent, then the third man becomes skip, and the second man plays his own and the third pair of stones.

(b) If the third player be absent, the second man shall play second and third place.

(c) If the second player is absent, then the lead plays first as well as second place.

(d) If the lead is absent, the second player shall play his own as well as the lead stones.

(e) A sweeper will be allowed for the absentee, but no rink shall continue play with less than three men.

If any of the competing rinks are not ready to begin play at the hour named for the match, one end shall be counted as played for every ten minutes' delay; and the opposing rink, if ready to play, shall count one point in the game for each such period of time it is kept waiting.

The executive committee will permit of no deviation from the rules under any circumstances.

4. In the event of any disagreement between skips, the decision of the impire shall be final. The skips at the close of each game shall sign the score cards, and in the event of a dispute, the umpire shall sign the score cards.

5. Rinks may be required to play at least three games per day, and in the event of tying-up competitions they can be made to play four games.

6. All drawings shall be by the Bagnall-Wyld system, and skips will have to accept all responsibility in regard to having their men on hand at the specified time for play.

7. All trophies, tankards and cups shall, unless otherwise provided for, remain the property of the association, but winners of such, who may desire to retain possession of them for the year, must deposit with the secretary an insurance policy to guard against loss by fire.

8. Unless otherwise specified, all games shall consist of twelve ends.

9. All the competitions will be open to rinks affiliated with any regularly organized curling clubs, except fourth event.

10. All events single rink competition.

It is expected that the attendance at the bonspiel this year will be the largest in the history of the association. Rinks are coming from all over the United States and from Western Canada, and it is believed that the extra time given this year for the completion of the events will be needed.

TAFT MAKES NEW CHANGE

conference with Senators Aldrich and Root, and Attorney General Wickersham, President Taft had decided to revert to his original plan of combining his views as to amendments to the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws in one message which he would send to congress Thursday noon. This decision on the part of the president was declared to be final.

The combined messages will be about 8,000 words in length.

This was the original form of the messages which were to have gone to congress shortly after the recess. Following the conference of the president with the railroad presidents, however, it was announced that the messages would be separated, and that the one bearing on interstate commerce would not be submitted until some time next week.

Will Have Right of Way.

The president has been urged by some to treat the two subjects in separate messages, and announcement was made yesterday that this would be done. The time that the messages should go forward was subject to frequent changes. The conferences on the message have been completed, and so has the message, which was sent to the government printing office last night.

At the conclusion of the conference between the president and Senators Aldrich and Root, it was announced that the president's proposed railroad legislation would be given the right of way in both senate and house.

BALLINGER-PINCHOT RESOLUTIONS GIVEN IN BOTH THE HOUSES

reaus of forestry in the agricultural department, its officers and employes, touching or relating to the reclamation, conservation, management and disposal of the public lands of the United States, or any lands held in trust by the United States for any purpose, including all the natural resources of such lands; and said committee is authorized and empowered to make any further investigation touching said department, its bureaus, officers or employes, and of said bureau of forestry, its officers or employes, as it may deem desirable."

The authority to sit during sessions of congress and in recesses, to require the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, usual to congressional inquiries, is granted by the resolution.

Must Answer Questions.

It is provided further that any person refusing to obey the process of the committee or to answer any question propounded shall be deemed guilty of contempt, and jurisdiction is conferred upon the court of appeals of the district of Columbia to try and determine any such charges of contempt:

Employment of assistance, "legal or otherwise," is specifically authorized. This provision is for the purpose of enabling the committee to procure the services of able attorneys to take charge of the probing, so far as the directing of questions is concerned. It is the intention of President Taft to have the committee name some competent attorney to conduct the case, and it is possible that both of the principals to the controversy may be represented by counsel.

Open to the Public.

It was agreed by all persons who have given close attention to the Ballinger-Pinchot squabble that the investigation should be open to the public, and this is ordered by the resolution. One of the big rooms in the new senate office building will be used for this purpose.

In presenting the resolution, Senator Jones said:

"The various departments and bureaus of the government are organized to do its business in the interests of the people. Every official is but the servant and agent of the people, to act for them, under and within the limits of the law. The efficiency of public service depends much upon the confidence of the people in the honesty and integrity of their servants and agents.

"It is a sad commentary upon the state of public opinion that the moment a man accepts a public office he becomes a scoundrel in the eyes of many of our people and his previous life of honesty and rectitude is no warrant of official integrity. His acts are misconstrued and his motives questioned. Insinuation and innuendoes are freely made under the guise of the public welfare, but in reality to foster some private interest. Popular views are taken advantage of to discredit an official who, after investigating all phases of a subject, may reach a decision at variance with some private interest.

Action and Opportunity.

"Many do not stop to think how seldom have government officials gone astray compared with their opportunities and temptations for wrong doing. In the 125 years of our national life few of the men in high positions have been actuated by other than the highest and most patriotic motives. This should cause our people to hesitate to accept charges of base conduct against their public servants without investigation and proof.

"The press and magazines of the country for several months have been filled with charges against the present secretary of the interior and his conduct of the office he holds. These charges range from petty insinuations and inuendoes to direct charges of malfeasance and misconduct in office, which, if true, show that he has most unworthily discharged his trust. A moment's thought should cause an honest and fair-minded man to hesitate to accept such charges against a man whose life heretofore has been one of the highest rectitude and against whom no dishonorable charge has ever been made in either private or public life.

Ballinger and His Record.

"Such a man is the present secretary of the interior. He is over 50 years of age, an honored graduate of Williams college and a lawyer of distinction. He came to our state in 1889 and has lived there ever since. He was a superior judge for four years and mayor of the city of Seattle, Wash., and his administration of that office has been a model for his successors. He accepted the office of commissioner of the general land office at the urgent solicitation of Secretary Garfield, who knew personally his sterling character and exceptional ability.

"He did not seek that office. He accepted his present position only upon the earnest solicitation of the president. He did not seek it. It meant nothing to him but hard work and poor pay. He gave up a large and lucrative law practice simply at the call of patriotic duty.

"Is it possible that he at once became the scoundrel and arch enemy of the people that he has been depicted in the public press? I cannot believe it. If he has used his high office to advance special interests, if he has sacrificed the people for private or personal gain, let it be shown.

Justice Should Be Done.

"If, on the other hand, the people have been deceived, and he has been unjustly accused, that should be shown, not only that justice may be done him, but that the confidence of the public in the honesty and integrity of its public servants may be restored and strengthened and the animus of the attacks disclosed.

"Much has been said regarding his views on the conservation of our natural resources. This I shall not discuss at this time. I believe that it will be shown that his purposes and objects are substantially the same as those of the most radical conservationists, and the main difference is but one of methods. Assuredly there is room for an honest difference of opinion as to how our great natural resources can best be conserved.

"I may agree with some of the views of those who criticise the policies, the methods and proposals of the secretary, but that he is honest and patriotic in his views I have not the slightest doubt. One thing is sure, we have had several years of talk about conservation, we have had platitude piled upon platitude in the most dramatic way, but no specific or detailed plans for conservation have been presented.

What Ballinger Has Done.

"The present secretary of the interior instead of drawing glittering generalities, has made specific recommendations regarding all the important conservation problems so far as they come within the jurisdiction of his department, and has prepared and submitted to the careful scrutiny of the people and of congress legislation that he considers necessary to effect the objects so much desired by all.

"He recommends the repeal of the timber and stone laws and the disposal of the timber separate from the soil. He recommends that coal deposits be separated from the title to the surface and that the coal be disposed of separate from the land by sale or lease. He recommends legislation to prevent the acquisition of power sites on the public domain by private persons or corporations with the view of monopolizing or adversely controlling them in the interest public interest.

"He has withdrawn all locations known to possess power possibilities on unappropriated lands outside of national forests, over which his department has no jurisdiction, and he recommends that congress pass a measure authorizing the classification of lands capable of being used for water power development and to permit of their disposal through the interior department upon substantially the following conditions."

No Spirit of Antagonism.

Mr. Jones then gave a synopsis of seven of the most important recommendations made by Mr. Ballinger, and continuing his remarks, said:

"Conscious of the purity of his motives and the rectitude of his intentions, the secretary of the interior welcomes this investigation. I have presented the resolution calling for this investigation, not in his benalf or in antagonism to any other official of the government, but in the interests of good administration and in order that the people may know the facts of this deplorable controversy, and for the judgment thereon of an impartial body.

"This resolution has been drawn directing the committee to investigate along certain and specific lines, and tlen authority is given to it to make any further investigation that it may deem desirable. The intention is to secure the broadest and most thorough investigation. If the resolution can be made broader and more rigid, and a more thorough investigation secured, it should be done, and will be welcomed by the secretary. He wants no whitewash; he wants no partial investigation; he wants it rigid, thorough, complete and conducted without fear or favor."

Pennsylvania Gets Chill.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 5.—Pennsylvania today was in the grip of the coldest weather of the winter. The cold wave, which arrived from the West Monday night, passed this section during the night and a little warmer weather with snow was expected. The weather bureau thermometer registered a minimum temperature of 9 deg. above zero at 7 a. m., the lowest of the present season, and equalling the coldest day of last winter. Zero weather is reported from the mountain districts of the state.

Coldest Yet at Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 5.—The minimum temperature of the winter, 14 deg. below zero, was recorded at 7 o'clock this morning. Clear weather prevailed. At Omaha, another low temperature record was reported by the weather bureau today. At 7 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 10 deg. below zero.

Rain in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 5.—Rain which fell during the night froze this morning and covered the streets and walks with ice half an inch thick. Telegraph and telephone companies experienced great trouble from falling wires. In general trains arrived one to four hours late. Trains from the north were hours behind time.

Floating ice in the Mississippi river added to the gorge, which formed recently at Jefferson barracks. Today the gorge was ten miles long.

The gauge at the river stood at 21.6 feet this morning, a rise of six inches in twenty-four hours. The two gorges between Jefferson barracks and Chester, Ill., continue to increase.

Colder in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 5.—The blizzard which prevailed throughout the night abated early today, followed by considerably lower temperature. The storm caused local street railway and suburban lines a great deal of trouble, some of the latter being tied up on account of huge drifts.

Considerable damage to telephone and telegraph wires throughout the state is also reported.

Iowa University Closed.

Iowa City, Iowa, Jan. 5.—With the worst storm of the winter blowing, a coal famine has forced the Iowa State university to close until next week. Only enough coal is on hand in Iowa City to heat the state hospital for two days. Railroad traffic has been impeded by snow and cold.

Cold Day in Maine.

Portland, Me., Jan. 5.—Yesterday was one of the coldest days ever experienced in this state. At the local weather bureau, at 10 a. m., the thermometer registered 4 deg. below, and at noon it was 1 above zero. Greenville reported 16 below zero at 10 a. m. In the Rangeley lake region the glass showed 30 below.

Railroad Traffic Suffers.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—Railroad schedules throughout Western Missouri, Kansas and in most of Oklahoma were demoralized today, and many telegraph and telephone wires were out of commission. Snow and sleet yesterday were followed last night by lower temperatures.

The Golden State limited, eastbound on the Rock Island, was annulled this morning at Herington, Kan., being twelve hours late. Many other trains were four to six hours late.

The natural gas supply in Kansas City, Topeka and Wichita and in other Kansas cities was still weak today, and much suffering resulted. The mercury reached the lowest mark of the season at Topeka this morning, registering 3 deg. below zero.

Limited Twenty Hours Late.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Trains from the West today were one hour to twenty hours late. The Overland limited on the Chicago & Northwestern railway was twenty hours late.

INDIANS KILLED IN RUNAWAY

Noble Red Men Meet Death on Road Near Bena.

Two Indians who "bummed" a ride from a teamster near Bena Monday were accidentally killed when the team ran away. One was thrown out and the leg of the other was caught when he tried to jump, being dragged a considerable distance before his foot finally became loosened. The information was brought in by passengers on the northern division of the Great Northern. The names of the Indians could not be learned. They were evidently under the influence of liquor, it is said. They hailed the driver, who was in the employ of the Gibson company, for a ride. When they approached the tracks the team took fright and became unmanageable. After checking his team the man looked for the Indians, and found their dead bodies.

PAPA MAKES PAIR DELAY HONEYMOON

Wisconsin Elopers Wire the News Home and Are Headed Off By Parent.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—The honeymoon of youthful elopers, William Schneck, 20 years old, son of Frederick W. Schneck, a Milwaukee furniture dealer, and Naomi Wilson, 16 years old, daughter of Charles E. Wilson of Wauwatosa, Wis., was brought to a sudden ending here yesterday. The young couple had been married at Waukegan, Ill., in the afternoon and telegraphed the news to their parents. The father of the girl telephoned to a friend asking him to intercept the young lovers. He found them in a down-town hotel and held them until Mr. Wilson, who took the first train from his home, arrived.

The father took his daughter from her husband and insisted that she accompany him home. Though he has nothing against the young man, and is a friend of his father, Mr. Wilson was against the marriage because of his daughter's age. The boy and girl objected to the separation, but were persuaded, finally, that it was for the best, with the suggestion that they might continue their honeymoon when they are older.

NEW MEMORIAL HALL IS DEDICATED BY VETERANS

Former Governor Van Sant Speaks to Local G. A. R. Members.

Congratulates Them on Living in Such a Patriotic County.

The handsome new room on the ground floor of the new St. Louis county courthouse set aside as a meeting place and lodgeroom for the Duluth posts of the Grand Army of the Republic, was last night dedicated to the use of the order, with fitting exercises.

The room was packed to the doors when the ceremonies began. The walls were hung with old and new flags. Bunting was draped in every corner. The handsome lodge furniture, furnished with the room, was in place. The new home of the Duluth order was the admiration of all.

Old time pictures, dear to the heart of every Grand Army man, were hung all about the room. They consisted of old prints of famous people and several slogans printed during the time of the Civil war.

The room is complete in every way. A dining hall, a kitchen with all modern improvements and the lodgeroom itself, go to make up one of the finest memorial halls in the entire country. Many an old soldier grasped the hand of an old-time comrade and with faltering voice expressed his admiration of the room and his gratitude for its use.

Former Governor Samuel Van Sant, who is national commander, was present. He was, before and after the ceremonies, in the center of a happy bunch of the "old boys," and his hand was shaken heartily hundreds of times.

Judge L. W. Collins was the presiding officer of the evening. Willis A. Gorman post drum corps furnished musical selections several times during the evening, and Miss Effie Brotherton and Miss Levi gave readings. The drum corps was stationed in the main corridor, outside Memorial hall.

Past Commander Bates, Chairman Neil McInnis of the county board, Chaplain Kimball, National Commander Van Sant, Adjt. Gen. Eddy, aid to Commander Van Sant, and the two young women who contributed readings were on the platform, besides Presiding Officer Collins.

Judge Collins Talks.

Judge Collins spoke of his first visit to Duluth to attend court in 1866. Duluth then had about 10,000 people, he said. There was but one lawyer in the city at that time, and only about a dozen in the district. It took two days at that time to come to Duluth. The journey was made by stage. It was then that he first heard Duluth called the Zenith City, the name it is today known by all over the world. Mr. Collins told the veterans how thankful they should be for being spared to see the great change in the city from that time to this.

Commander Van Sant in beginning his address said, "You boys look good to me. I congratulate you on your splendid new home. I congratulate you that you live in so splendid and so patriotic a county."

Continuing, Mr. Van Sant said: "To Chairman McInnis I want to say that every old soldier in the country thanks him for this beautiful hall dedicated forever to its patriotic purposes.

"I am just as proud of Duluth as any person who resides in it. You are practically in the center of North America. You have made wonderful progress but have but just started.

"Never in my life have I been prouder than at the present moment. Thinking of the county and what it has accomplished makes me very happy. My services to the Grand Army as commander will soon be forgotten, but your services to the country will be remembered so long as liberty is prized and patriotic valor is remembered.

"I feel that it was the greatest honor that can come to any young man when in the prime of youth I seized my gun and marched southward to save the land given us by our fathers.

"Be proud of your membership in the Grand Army. Some of those men who amassed money while you were fighting at the front may have $115,000,000 to give some English dude to marry his daughter, but he can't be a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

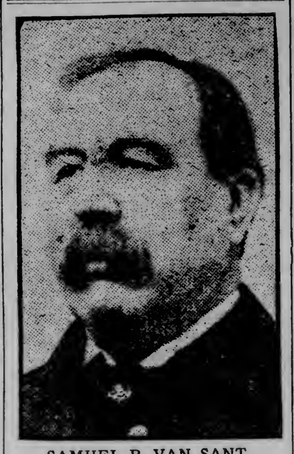

"I like to think of the advancement since you laid down your arms. We have made more progress in dollars and cents in that forty-four years since you marched down Pennsylvania avenue than England has made in all the 500 years of her history.

"We needn't fear any foreign foe—not at all. We are so rich and prosperous that we could stop any invasion of this country. I doubt if in 500 years all the armies of Europe could walk in far enough to water their horses down here in Lake Superior.

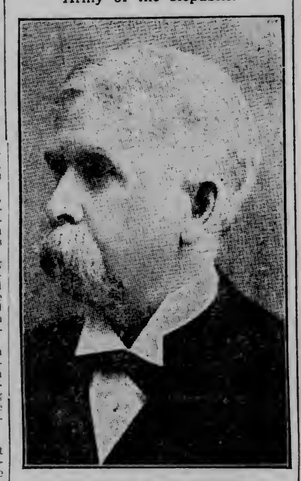

"Think of the past. One minute you were citizens. Then Sumter was fired upon and you were soldiers. Then came Appomatox and you were citizens. Then all you boys wanted was to get back and take hold of the plough where you had left it in the furrow, and you were there. All you wanted of the government was transportation to your homes and the girls you had left behind you, and imperialism was dead forever."

Mr. Van Sant complimented the women of the relief corps on their work, and closed by wishing all the Grand Army men happiness and long life, that they might be an example to the younger men of the present day. He announced his intention of traveling during the entire coming year, and visiting among old soldiers wherever they can be found. "It is going to be the happiest year of my life," said Mr. Van Sant, in closing.

The drum corps played "The Girl I Left Behind Me." Past Commander Bates spoke briefly and urged a large attendance at the grand encampment, to be held this year at Atlantic City.

SAMUEL R. VAN SANT,
Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

SNOW HELPS THE LOGGERS

Will Make Conditions Right for Operations in Northern Woods.

Much Activity Along Alger-Smith and Great Northern Roads.

The snowfall yesterday was a boon to logging operations in the territory tributary to Duluth. There had been some snow in the woods, but in many places the roads were becoming worn. The swamps became frozen several weeks ago. The snow that fell last night will be sufficient for logging purposes even if there is no more snow in the remaining winter months.

An itinerant lumberjack stood on Michigan street this morning and squinted at the sky which was a dull lead color. Atmospheric conditions seemed to indicate more snow, but the lumberjack was not worrying about that which is properly for the plaguing of Mr. Richardson on the big hill. The snow had aroused a latent ambition in him and had stirred up a potential energy that had impelled him to ask the genial dispenser of pasteboards at the union passenger station what was the price to Lax Lake.

You see, Lax Lake is on the Duluth & Northern Minnesota, and probably the most extensive logging operations in the state are being conducted along this road, which extends from Knife River to twenty miles this side of the international border, a point in Cook county.

Many lumberjacks and woodsmen are employed on this line, and it is a favorite one with "jacks" who know the north country. Others go to Brookston and other towns on the Great Northern, which skirts the southern edge of what is probably the greatest single area of standing white pine in the world. Inroads are being made on this tract by loggers between Bemidji and the international border.

Many lumberjacks went to Tower and Ely this year. More were hired for work at Tower than for several years. The Weyerhaeusers own large holdings near there. The Alger-Smith company also owns timber in that neighborhood. There is much logging in progress along the Cloquet and the Duluth, Rainy Lake & Winnipeg. Large amounts of pulpwood are being taken out in St. Louis and Lake counties, especially along the Duluth & Iron Range railway.

TWO NEGROES TO BE HANGED

Convicted of Assault on Woman in Kansas City---Will Die Next Month.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 5.—George Reynolds and John Williams, negroes, were found guilty last night by a jury of assaulting Mrs. W. E. Jackson, and their sentence was fixed at death by hanging.

The verdict was found on the first ballot, the jury being out but five and one-half minutes. But two days were occupied in selecting a jury, hearing the evidence and returning a verdict. Both men probably will be hanged the first week in February.

Every precaution had been taken during the trial to protect the prisoners from violence, as intense public feeling was aroused. The public was not admitted to the trial. Mrs. Jackson swooned while testifying.

Prisoners in the county jail raised a bedlam when the verdict became known. They had previously threatened to lynch the negroes in the exercise room of the jail, but the officers removed the negroes to another part of the prison.

Copper Magnate Killed.

Cordova, Alaska, Jan. 5.—Harry Curtis Elliott of Chicago, president of the Elliott Hubbard Copper company, and H. Y. Greer of Seattle were killed in a snow slide at the company property at Elliott creek, 100 miles northwest of Cordova, on Dec. 30.

Washington, Jan. 5.—Had the president's daughter and son, Miss Helen and Robert Taft, remained in the house gallery a few minutes longer yesterday they would have heard their father roundly criticised by Representative Adair of Indiana for alleged extravagances of the executive department.

Mr. Adair said the president's salary should not have been increased to $75,000 a year, adding that a president "with practically no expense, who could not save from an income of $50,000 a year a sufficient sum to live in ease the balance of his life, in my judgment does not have sufficient business

LOSS OF MEMORY

Suffered By a Trainman Who Fell Through Bridge.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 5.—Walter Estes, a brakeman of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, completely lost his memory after a fall through the bridge that spans the Wabash river at Maunie, Ill., striking the ice gorges in the river fifty-five feet below. The gorges prevented his drowning. He was picked up and rushed to a hospital here on a special train.

CENTENARIAN DOES JIG FOR HIS GUESTS.

New York, Jan. 5.—William Redmond, whose family Bible is authority for the claim that he was 100 years old yesterday, celebrated his centennial by dancing a jig at a birthday party which neighbors at Oakhurst, N. J., arranged in his honor. Redmond climbed on the "water wagon" twenty years ago and swore off tobacco then, but before that time he had smoked and drank regularly. He recently walked across the Brooklyn bridge.

"LITTLE TIM'S" ESTATE FOUND TO BE VERY SMALL.

New York, Jan. 5.—While it was generally thought that the late "Little Tim" Sullivan, Tammany aldermanic leader, had died a millionaire, it is now understood that he left practically nothing. Only $2,000 on deposit in a bank is all the cash said to be available for his widow and son. The report that he had held stocks and bonds or deeds for large parcels of real estate in this city is said to be unfounded.

MAY CONTROL $210,000,000

Further Trust Company Consolidation By the Morgans Is Predicted.

Bankers', Manhattan, Mercantile and Equitable Subject of Rumors.

New York, Jan 5.—J. Pierpont Morgan and associates may control, through further trust company mergers in New York under consideration, the enormous sum of $210,000,000 in the deposits alone. This is approximately $25,000,000 more than the deposits of the National City bank of this city, the largest financial institution of the United States.

Reports of the additional trust company consolidations are given credence in view of yesterday's announcement of the merger by J. P. Morgan & Co., of the Guaranty Trust company, Morton Trust company and Fifth Avenue Trust company, with combined deposits of about $150,000,000. This brought a revival in the financial district of rumors embracing the Bankers' Trust and Manhattan Trust companies in the same combination. There were rumors that the Mercantile Trust company and the Equitable Trust company eventually will be taken into some sort of a powerful alliance.

Already Closely Allied.

The Bankers Trust company is affiliated closely already with the so-called Morgan interests in that two partners in the Morgan banking house, George W. Perkins and Henry P. Davis are directors of the former. Other directors of the Bankers Trust company, including A. B. Hepburn and A. H. Wiggins, president and vice president, respectively, of the Chase National bank and William H. Porter, president of the Chemical National bank are active in the affairs of the Guaranty Trust company, which is to be made the titular head of the Guaranty-Morton-Fifth Avenue consolidation.

Relations between the Morgan interests and the Manhattan Trust company have always been intimate, though the latter is not regarded as a Morgan appendage. It is perhaps significant that the building now occupied by the Manhattan Trust company is to be razed soon to made way for a thirty-story building to be erected by the Bankers' Trust company.

More Than $200,000,000.

Deposits of the Bankers' Trust company aggregate $46,500,000 and those of the Manhattan Trust company $13,400,000, so that the two companies, if combined with those now in process of absorption by J. P. Morgan and associates, would total in deposits more than $200,000,000.

National banking interests do not look with uniform favor on the increase in trust company power. It is said that as the law makes it possible for the trust companies to hold stocks and to enjoy other advantages forbidden to banks by the provisions of the national banking act, it would be easily possible for the larger trust company to take up many underwriting properties which the large banks of Wall street, under the law, find it expedient to handle.

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—McIntyre and Heath in "In Hayti."

"The Yankee Prince."

George M. Cohan, the author and composer of "The Yankee Prince" and a dozen or more other musical plays, is a self-made man. Practically born on the stage and at a time when the parents' resources were at a low ebb, George was forced to take up the white man's burden at a very tender age. Foregoing an education which later came to him by rubbing elbows with the world, George Cohan began his stage career by appearing on the bill with his father, mother and sister as a boy violinist when he was 10 years of age. It was about three years later when he began to write sketches in which the family, then known as the "Four Cohans," became identified, and at 18 years of age George M. was already known not only as a sketch writer but also as a composer of no mean ability.

Of his rapid advancement the public is well aware, for George M. Cohan's name has become a household word and his reputation as an author, composer and playwright international.

George M. Cohan will be 32 years of age the Fourth of July next, and he has already written and produced no less than sixteen successful plays. He has also written a tremendous number of sketches, many of which are being presented on the vaudeville stage at the present time. As to his musical compositions—hundreds of them—it is doubtful if George M. could tell the exact number himself. Cohan songs are always popular, for he has the happy faculty of composing rhyme and rhythm that tickles the ear, and lyrics that are famous for their logic and the story they tell.

"The Yankee Prince" will open at the Lyceum Thursday.

"The Third Degree."

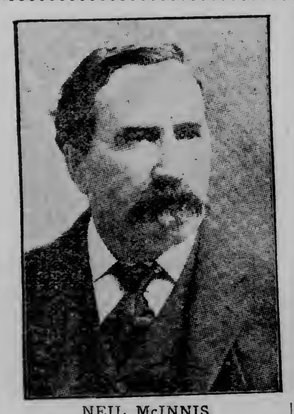

Few, if any, of the home-loving citizens of America really and truly understand—or, for that matter, have devoted any thought—to the methods used by the police in some large cities, in extorting confessions from supposed criminals. And for that reason, if no other, Charles Klein's latest dramatic success, "The Third Degree," which comes to the Lyceum next week, will prove a revelation, and at the same time a genuinely interesting evening's entertainment.

The author, Charles Klein, was on the dock at Marseilles, waiting to go aboard a steamer for Egypt. Picking up a New York newspaper, he espied an article telling of the arrest on a murder charge of an innocent young man, the scion of an old and respectable wealthy family, from whom the police had wrung a false confession, after subjecting him to hours of physical and mental torture, "the third degree," and thereby exhausting his energies to such an extent that he became temporarily an imbecile and repeated, parro-like, the words put into his mouth by his persecutors. From this incident the playwright gained inspiration for his play, "The Third Degree," and, odd as it may seem, he was in Cairo, Egypt, at Sheppard's hotel, where he executed his work, that has already revolutionized the methods of over-zealous police officials of the United States.

Postpone Jones' Case.

OLD OFFICERS OF THE COUNTY BOARD TO SERVE ANOTHER YEAR

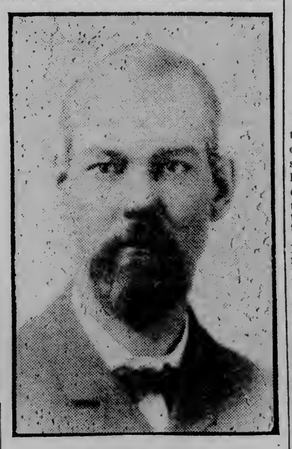

NEIL McINNIS.
Chairman of the County Board.

Neil McInnis of Eveleth, who was yesterday re-elected chairman of the county board, has served one year as chairman and has been for years an active member of the board. Road improvement is a hobby with Mr. McInnis, and he is not content to take the opinion of others in regard to their needs or their condition. Last summer he took a long drive over a great many of the St. Louis county roads, and the result was that bridges that were rotting were caught in time to save the county much money. He reported the condition of all the roads to the board, and the result was that the roads already established are being kept in the best of condition. Mr. McInnis is always ready to listen to the needs of the county, and his suggestions are always heard with respect, for they are always sound.

Alex Fraser, who was elected vice chairman, is serving his first term on the board, but was elected vice chairman last year when he first took office.

The standing committees were allowed to continue their work with the same members as last year.

ALEX FRASER,
Vice Chairman of the County Board.

NINE KILLED BY EATING PEACHES.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—Nine persons are dead and two others are not expected to survive, as the result of eating canned peaches containing ptomaine poison on Sunday night, at Sawtelle, Cal., a suburb of this city. All are members of a family which was the first to settle in Santa Monica.

BLACK ANGEL

Driven From Man's Side By Marriage in a Hospital.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 5.—R. W. Rowley, who married Miss Lillie Isabell Brod Dec. 1, when informed by physicians at the Ellen M. Osborn hospital that he had only twenty-four hours to live, spent New Year's at home with his wife, the first day of their long-deferred honeymoon.

Mr. Rowley's right arm was injured more than seven weeks ago. Ten days later peritonitis developed. Miss Brod, whose engagement to him had been announced, assisted the nurses at the hospital in caring for him. When informed he was about to die, Mr. Rowley decided upon an immediate marriage. The ceremony was performed beside Mr. Rowley's cot.

The sick man's improvement dated from the hour of his wedding.

TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE IN SMUGGLING CASES.

New York, Jan. 5.—Theresa A. Mahoney and Elizabeth R. Dinsmore, partners in a fashionable dressmaking establishment, pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court to a charge of participation in the alleged conspiracy of smuggling costly gowns and dress goods into this country in "sleeper trunks." The maximum penalty is two years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

There are twenty-seven dressmakers under indictment and it is said the Mahoney and Dinsmore women have agreed to tell the government the inside story of the smuggling scheme in view of their sentences being suspended until July.

GUARDSMAN SENTENCED TO TERM IN PRISON.

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 5.—Ortis Hamilton, former adjutant general of the Washington National Guard, convicted of embezzlement of $1,188 of the state's money, has been sentenced to from five to ten years in the penitentiary. Three additional cases are pending against him. Notice of an appeal was given. Hamilton's shortage is $38,000.

ELECTRICIAN KILLED.

Grabs Hold of Live Wire at Enderlin, N. D., Being Electrocuted.

Enderlin, N. D., Jan. 5.—R. E. Adams, a young man in the employ of the Enderlin Electric Light & Power company of this city, was instantly killed through contact with a live wire carrying 1,100 volts. He was working about the switch board and had evidently taken hold of an insulated wire with a pair of steel pliers having a sharp edge which cut through the insulation.

He was alone in the building at the time, and it is not known at what hour the accident happened. The body was found huddled up beside the switch board, the pliers still adhering to the wire and the burnt palm of the right hand indicating how the accident occurred.

Superintendent of Marinette Institution Makes It Self Supporting.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 5.—Supt. Smith of the Marinette county insane asylum at the annual meeting of the board of supervisors presented a report showing that the institution was self-supporting. This winter affords him an opportunity for further economy. A farmer in Porterfield telephoned Mr. Smith some weeks ago that he had about ten acres of second growth timber admirably suited for fuel, and explained that there was a house which would shelter a working force. Fifteen inmates with their attendants were sent down with the result that they are busily accumulating a large amount of firewood.

DAUGHTERS' TRINKETS

Tender Bit of Sentiment Revealed By Will of Duchess.

Jewels of Girls Who Died in Youth Are Bequeathed.

New York, Jan. 5.—A London cable to the World is as follows:

"A tender bit of sentiment has been revealed by the will of the late dowager duchess of Manchester. In a sealed packet, which was intrusted to her sister, among other small personal bequests were found the jewels and trinkets worn by her two beautiful daughters, who died when they were 16 and 17 years old, of consumption. They were Lady Jacqueline and Lady Alice Montague, and the ornaments have been left to Lady Mary Montagu, the 8-year-old grandaughter of the dead duchess. The packet has been given to the present duchess, who was Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati, and will be held inviolate until her little girl is old enough to appreciate the significance of its contents.

"The will, in some other respects, has not been made public, but the sad little story of the girlish treasures of the two daughters, whose death left a scar on the heart of their mother, has become known. The packet was opened at Kylemore, whither the duke and duchess returned after the funeral, when Lady Lister Kaye, the dowager's sister, presented it. One item is a very beautiful miniature of the late Senor Antonio Yznaga Del Valle of Louisiana, father of her grace and grandfather of the present duke. This miniature was painted when the late senor was 18 years old, and on the other side is a miniature of his wife, a year younger. Both portraits are rimmed with pearls and each is only two inches long.

"The second girl possessed a modern miniature of her own parents, the eighth duke and duchess, and among other little souvenirs of these beautiful sisters was a small gold etui, with gold scissors, a thimble and two long, fair tresses cut from each lovely head. There was also a pair of gold bangles, with two diamond hearts, and to Lady Mary is given the gold locket which Consuelo wore around her neck for years, and which contained two excellent miniatures of her beloved daughters.

"The large quantity of Flemish and Italian lace which the late duchess collected, most of which was used as bedspreads, and some of which was inserted in the tablecloth for royal dinners, was given to the king and queen Only last summer two long strips of Milanese lace and a very odd old Flanders point were sent to Queen Alexandra.

"What remains of the collection is to be divided among her two sisters, and all the exquisite lace frocks which the present duke of Manchester and his sisters wore as infants are to pass into the keeping of the present duchess and to be worn by her offspring."

Health Cranks and Food Faddists

Have Evolved Some Strange and Wonderful Theories Concerning Stomach Treatment.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Within the last twenty years there has sprung into existence theories by the score relative to the kinds of food that human beings should eat, and should avoid. With the tremendous increase in nervous and stomach diseases which are caused by the strenuous life of this neurotic, neurasthenic age in which we live, we are constantly having our attention called to some food faddist's "new idea" on the subject of alimentation.

Most prominent among these theorists is the vegetarian who insists that meat was never intended for the human stomach, despite the fact that his ancestors for 6,000 years or more, used it as their principal article of diet; and the old patriarchs of Biblical history who lived to prodigious old ages, were meat eaters. All of the great nations of history have been users of meat, and all of the most powerful and advanced coutries of today employ it extensively in their dietaries, and their superior development and high degree of civilization are in strong and striking contrast to the decadent and degenerate nations of Asia and the tropics, whose inhabitants are vegetarians.

Another fallacy which has lately become a fad, is the so-called "low-proteid" diet. Now, the foods which are rich in proteids are the ones which build up nerve, brain, muscle and blood, so that any great reduction in the amount of proteid used simply means semi-starvation for the most important centers of the system—the ones on which we depend the most to enable us to successfully fight the battles of life. Those nations whose people use foods containing but little proteid are never of large frame or well-built. The Japanese, who have always been small of stature, have, since adopting a more liberal proteid diet shown a remarkable increase in size, vigor and general development; and it is only since Japan became a meat-eating nation that it has developed into a world-power.

Still another theory lately advanced is that sugar, pepper, and salt are gastric irritants and irritate the mucous membrane of the stomach, although it is known that sugar possesses a high caloric value, while pepper and salt assist digestion rather than interfere with it, as is claimed.

The no-breakfast plan, the two-meal per day, and even the one meal daily has been advocated, while some advise a two or three weeks' fast, during which all food is withheld from the stomach "to give it a rest," completely ignoring the fact that the system's tissues are being constantly torn down and cast off, and new material to rebuild them must be supplied from the food.

It is utter nonsense to concern one's self about all these absurd and illogical theories, as life is entirely too short, and there are other things requiring our attention. Eat what you want when you want it, and as much as the system needs to replenish its waste, and then take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and forget all about food fads and stomach troubles. They digest all kinds of food so thoroughly you won't know you have a stomach. They are powerful digestors of every kind of food though harmless to the system, and may be taken at any time and in any quantity.

TELLS SENATOR HE IS CHRIST

Wisconsin Man Is Being Sought By Police in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 5.—A young man who has been known here for more than a year as Gilbert Ringer of Two Rivers, Wis., is being sought by the police because of threats he has made against Vice President Sherman and Senator La Follette, and suggestions that it might be necessary for him to go to the White House to get satisfaction. He became a frequent caller at the office of Senator La Follette a year ago and sought the aid of the Wisconsin senator in "getting his rights."

Not receiving the attention he thought he deserved, the young man called at the office of the vice president and complained of Senator La Follette's indifference. Remarks alleged to have been made by the young man after leaving the vice president's room led to the police being notified.

A year ago the young man claimed to be the president. When he appeared at the capital at the beginning of this session of congress he said to Mr. La Follette:

"You wouldn't pay any attention to me as president, but I guess you will notice me now, for I am Christ."

ALIENS SENDING MILLIONS AWAY

Postoffice Auditor Says $76,622,629 Was Sent to Europe Last Year.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The immigrants' lack of confidence in the safety and security of private financial institutions of the United States is officially declared to be probably responsible for the flood of millions of dollars which flows through postal money orders to foreign countries each year. Auditor Chance of the postoffice department points to this condition as an indication of what might be accomplished through the establishment of postal savings banks.

The large total of $640,640,817, representing the surplus earnings of foreign laborers employed in the gigantic industrial and commercial enterprises of the United States, has been sent abroad since 1890. A total of $76,622,629 was sent abroad by foreign workmen in 1909. The millions sent out of this country have steadily increased each year in proportion to the influx of foreign immigrants.

Mostly To Six Countries.

Most of the amount sent abroad last year found lodging in six countries of Europe—Austria, Great Britain, Hungary, Norway, Italy and Russia. Postal officials declare that in transferring their money to foreign countries, foreigners prefer money orders to checks and drafts on banks. Auditor Chance declares that probably a majority of the foreign element would rather patronize government banks with interest paid on their money. Thus a considerable share of the millions sent abroad would remain in the custody of the secretary of the treasury.

FOSTER-FATHER OF SLAIN WOMAN DIES.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 5.—Col. Charles E. Thompson, fosterfather of Mrs. Edith May Woodill, whose murder by "Lame Bob" Eastman, near McDaniel, Md., last June, created a country-wide sensation, died suddenly at his home near McDaniel yesterday. Col. Thompson was seated at the breakfast table when he was stricken. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. He was 78.

STEEL AND DREDGE MEN SET CONFERENCE DATE.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—The biennial convention of the International Brotherhood of Steel and Dredgemen closed here yesterday after a four days' session. Charles Rees of New York was elected president and T. J. Dolan, Chicago, secretary-treasurer. It was decided that the annual conference with the Great Lakes Dredge Owners will be held at Detroit Feb. 14. Reports from members of the organization working on the Panama canal showed that there is some dissatisfaction on account of wages and conditions.

ATTACKING KING ALBERT'S MARRIAGE

Catholic Papers in Belgium Make Sinister References as to the Dynasty.

Brussels, Jan. 5.—Le Soir asserts that the marriage of King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, who was the princess of Bavaria, was sanctioned neither by the late King Leopold nor parliament. According to Le Soir, such sanction is required by the constitution. The paper insists that sanction of the marriage by parliament is imperative.

Since the confirmation of Leopold's religious marriage, the Catholic papers seem disposed to raise a threat against future dynastic issues unless King Albert submits to Catholic influence.

TELLS OF THEFTS FROM THE D. A. R.

Mrs. Scott Issues Letter Telling More About Robberies in the Office.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The mystery surrounding the defalcations recently discovered in the Washington office of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is explained in a letter sent out by Mrs. Julia G. Scott, president-general of the society, to the regent of every chapter in the United States. Mrs. Scott says that postoffice authorities made the discovery of thefts in the society's office of money, postoffice orders and checks and mail. The amount of the defalcation has been somewhat exaggerated, writes Mrs. Scott, the thefts scarcely running into many thousands.

Miss Sarah B. MacLay, the society's former curator, is accused by Mrs. Scott as responsible for the thefts. The president-general says she makes the name public in order to clear other employes of suspicion.

Miss MacLay has disappeared and will not be prosecuted.

SOUTH DAKOTA TOWN SCORCHED

Twelve Buildings on Main Street of Castlewood Gutted.

Watertown, S. D., Jan. 5.—The town of Castlewood, eighteen miles south of here, narrowly missed being wiped out by a fire of unknown origin last evening during a heavy wind. The entire southside of Main street is gone entailing a loss of about $180,000. Twelve buildings are gutted. The fire did not stop until the last building on that side of the street was destroyed.

The fire started in a hardware store, and fanned by the high wind, spread rapidly.

Messages came to this city asking for aid and thirty men with fire apparatus responded on a special train. When four buildings were gone, an attempt was made to check the flames by dynamiting two stores, but the wind carried the flames over the ruins and the fire continued to spread.

Late last night the fire burned itself out on the extreme edge of Main street.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes. "My skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing forty pounds; growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death, in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine, Electric Bitters, cured me. I regained the forty pounds lost and now am well and strong." ORPHANAGE IS INCLOSED

New Building Will Be Ready For Occupancy By June 1.

The new St. James' orphanage at the end of the car line at Woodland will be ready for occupancy, June 1, when the children now at the orphanage at Twentieth avenue west and Third street will be transferred. The new building is inclosed and interior work has begun.

The building is a commodious structure of brick and stone, built on the Elizabethan style of architecture. There will be quarters for 200 children and a corps of about twenty instructors.

Besides a good common school education, the children will be instructed in practical subjects that will fit them to care for themselves when they go out in the world. The boys will be taught the rudiments of agriculture, and ten of the forty acres of the orphanage grounds have already been cleared for division into garden tracts. Ten more acres will be cleared this year. The garden, besides being used for the instruction of the boys in the institution, will supply the orphanage table with fresh vegetables The boys will also be instructed in the branches of manual training and a shop will be equippd for instruction in practical work.

The girls in the orphanage will be taught branches of domestic science, in addition to regular school work.

The board is considering the abolition of the plan of allowing families to adopt children, the orphanage to keep the children and instruct them so that they will be able to make their own living when they are sent out in the world.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

SAM BERGER, FORMER PUGILIST, PRESS AGENT EXTRAORDINARY TO JEFFRIES-JOHNSON CIRCUS

The Rise Of Sam---Person Made Big Hit With Copper Country Wrestling Fans.

(BY BRUCE)

One of our real busy little citizens these days is Mister Samuel Berger. Those who know the former Frisco haberdasher better do not think of calling him anything but plain "Sam," which like plain Mary is a grand old name.

Sam is supposed to be the manager for James J. Jeffries. Sam will keep up his work until the afternoon of next Fourth of July, when big Jim will take up the burden of keeping the public interested.

This Berger person is some loquacious. He has black shiny hair and he parts it in the midle, all slicked down. He likes to plant his ample person in front of a goodly crowd and talk. He is one of the many press agents for big Jeff, as well as his manager, and therefore talking is part of Berger's business.

Before he became sparring partner and manger for James J. Jeffries Samuel was in the business of selling neckties and shirts and things. Before that he was in the business of fighting. He was not a shining success in his first calling.

Mr. Berger was a great friend of James Edward Britt when the pride of Frisco was in his prime. Berger believed that because Britt was a champion, he also was cut from the same general mould. There is where Berger was hazy in the balcony.

He became the sparring partner of James J. Corbett. Corbett is the best jollier in the world. He told Berger that he was nothing less than a wonder. He was, too—in his own peculiar way.

Well, Berger believed he carried so many bells that he chimed when he walked up Market street. Oh, but he didn't. He fought Al Kaufman and that was long before Al was nearly as good as he is at the present time, and was badly beaten. Can't you imagine how bad Berger was as a fighter? He deserted the ring for the necktie business, but not before giving many long statements as to the why and wherefores.

If a press agent is judged from the amount of stuff he gets in the papers, then Berger is one of the leading lights and is entitled to membership in the Friar's club. However, there is a suspicion that Jim Jeuries picked out Berger for a sparring partner, principally because Berger is even slower than some of the Chicago papers report big Jeff as being.

Give it to a man when he gets there. It is hard to keep a good man down, as witness Jonah and his unpleasant little experience, and you must hand it to Sam, for he is basking in the golden sunlight of publicity, along with James J. Jeffries, though of late that master private press agent, James J. Corbett, is kind of crowdin' Sam a wee mite.

We hate to think what Sam will do in the event of Jeff's losing the fight with Johnson. It would seem hard for Sam to go to work, after enjoying himself so much these long months. He has such a jolly, infectious smile, that you can't imagine him really working.

Sam comes from that same town that produced the late Willus Britt and Jimmy Coffroth. Coffroth actually went to work as a clerk of court. But a very good friend of his warned him against it, telling him that there was no money in it. James took his tip and today is reputed to be worth quite a bunch of greal money.

But this only really concerns Sam. He took the tip of the other fellow—he hasn't worked for a long time. He has grown stout and prosperous looking, and even if big Jim is soundly whipped, Sam might capture a job pilloting some melodrama around the country.

Big Chris Person made a great hit with the wrestling fans of the Copper Country. The great match he put up against Demetral, one of the very best wrestlers in the business, convinced the devotees of the game in the Copper Country that the Duluth man is one of the toughest men in the country.

Demetral came to Hancock with a great reputation. He informed the good people of the Michigan town that he did not believe he would experience much trouble in beating the man from Duluth. He did, however, find that in Person he was up against one of the hardest men to beat in the business.

After the match, Demetral, according to the Mining Journal, made the statement that Person would give Zybszko an awful battle. Demetral is quoted in this paper with offering to wager that Person could stay an hour with the great Pole.

Demetral met the Pole and may know what he is talking about. He also met Champion Gotch in one of the hardest matches ever wrestled in this country. That Demetral was unable to beat Person, stamps the Duluth man as one of the best heavyweights in the West.

Our old college acquaintance, Edward Payson Weston, will start some time during next month for an ocean-to-ocean hike. As a breezy old gentleman, we know of no one that has such a moving personality as the old man of two seas.

Dr. Osler surely did not think of what Old Man Weston might be doing when he made that prediction about people hitting for the graveyard when forty winters clamped their hoary hands upon their necks. Veteran Weston is nearly fourscore, and yet he plans transcontinental walks with all the enthusiasm shown by a soubrette ordering a lobster dinner. A moving personality is about the best term to apply to this wonderful old man.

Chimes, the famous stallion, the only sire who has had four performers with marks of 2:06 or better, is dead. It has never been claimed that the horse was a ringer.

Ollie Chill is the name of an umpire. Most umpires are frosts.

Joe Tinker comes out with the statement that it was due to the enforced absence of Capt. Frank Chance that the Cubs did not win the pennant the past season. He bah-hahs the Kling absence as the reason the Chicago boys did not repeat. With Frank out of the game there was no Chance to win.

The Chicago papers say Jeffries shows no fire or steam in his work.

Jack Johnson says Ketchel is the hardest hitter he ever met. But think of the future.

Barney Oldfield, the automobile driver who many thought was about through as a driver, seems to have taken a new lease on the speed life. In his big Benz he is breaking all records these days. He recently smashed all records from one to fifty miles, and now announces that he will go after all the other records under 100 miles. As a reckless and dare devil driver, there is no one in the auto driving game that has anything on Barney.

SAM BERGER.

What a more magnetic name could a college athlete want?

Tommy Burns coached Fitzsimmons in the Lang fight. Is it any wonder that the veteran lost?

* *

Hugh McIntosh brought Fitz to Australia for the purpose of engaging in three fights. His defeat by Bill Lang knocks the whole thing into a cocked hat. But think of the long and pleasant trip Fitzsimmons had.

* *

Jem Mace, when contemplating the great purse that is being put up for the Jeffries-Johnson fight, remarked that he was born fifty years too early. Ah, but really, Jem, there are a lot of fighters of today who are not getting quite as much as Jeffries and Johnson.

If all the records are broken at the Coleraine tournament, why would it not be a splendid idea to convert the incline into a ski slide and bring the honor back to Duluth. What a splendid start John Evenson or Ole Feiring could get on that place.

They are now calling Circus Sally Hofman, the star center fighter of the Cubs, "Mary Jane's Pa." It all happened on the Cuban invasion of some of the stars of the game. Mrs. Hofman wrote what a shame it would be for Circus Sally to be absent on the first Christmas of little Mary Jane. That settled it. Hofman started home. His departure broke up the aggregation and now the manager is suing the outfielder for damages.

COMPANY A CINCHES FLAG

Leaders Defeat C Boys By 9 to 4 in Deciding Game.

Company A last night practically cinched the Military League pennant by defeating Company E in a poorly played game by the score of 9 to 4.

Fisher, the regular slabman of Company E, was ill and unable to perform. Foster went on the rubber and was hit freely by the league leaders. In addition to this, Foster's teammates supported him about as well as a man supports his wife when he allows her to wash for a living.

Errors and stupid plays were made behind Foster, which robbed Company E of any chance to haul down the lead of the undefeated Company A boys.

After the victory of last evening it is practically certain that the Military League bunting will go to Company A. It is probable that some of the best teams of the military companies of the Twin Cities will be brought here to play against Company A, after the close of the regular season.

The lineup and score of last night's game follows:

Company E — Baumgartner, catcher; Lester, left short; Wagner, first base; Foster, pitcher; Southwick, second base; Balduc, right short; Bordeleau, left field; Norski, right field; Beatty, third base.

By innings:	R.	H.	E.
Company A ....40300011x—9	8	4
Company E ....00100301 0—4	10	8

Summary: Two-base hits—H. Foster, 2; Norski, Bennett. Double play—Norski to Beatty; Beatty unassisted. Struck out—By Foster, 10; by Lee, 16. Bases on balls—Off Foster, 10; off Lee, 16. Bases on balls—Off Foster, 3; off Lee, 5. Wild pitches—Lee, 4; Foster, 5. Umpires—Fitzmeyer and McGraw.

AL KUBIAK MAY BOX JEFFRIES

AL KUBIAK.

It has been reported that Al Kubiak, the big Michigan heavyweight, will box a six-round bout with Jeffries some time this month. Kubiak is a veritable giant with comparatively little skill alongside Jeffries. If Kubiak trains down a ton or so it should prove a good test for Jeffries. Kubiak is not a classy mit artist, but he is a willing rough and tumble fighter.

SCHOOLBOY MADE WORLD'S RECORD

A. R. KIVIAT.

A. R. Kiviat, a Brooklyn schoolboy, wearing the colors of the Irish-American Athletic club, broke the world's record of two-thirds of a mile last summer at Asbury park. Kiviat covered the distance in 2:47 2-5, or three-fifths of a second better than William C. George's time, made in New York city in 1882.

E. M. F. CO. WINS ANOTHER POINT

Studebakers Are Greatly Restricted in Starting a New Suit.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 5.—A new suit will be filed by the Studebaker Automobile company within a day or two against the E.-M.-F. company, based on the selling contract existing between the two concerns up to a short time ago.

But, by the order drawn up by Judge Swan, and to be signed this afternoon, the powers of the Studebaker company in filing this new suit are greatly circumscribed. The bill must be filed within ten days and in this court, and no suits may be started in regard to this subject matter, the selling contract, in any other court.

The victory, therefore, appears to still rest with the E.-M.-F. company, up to this point in the litigation. The case will have to be fought out here in Detroit in the federal court, and the Studebaker concern is prevented from starting other and harassing suits against automobile dealers handling E.-M.-F. cars all over the country.

The Studebaker legal forces have gained the advantage of being able to shift their plea from a bill of equity, in which an injunction was the relief sought, to a bill in law, in which damages running up to millions in the aggregate may be asked for. The law bill may include damages based on the entire three-year period of the selling contract or on a shorter period.

PERSON WILL MEET GORDON

Champion Police Wrestler of United States Will Be Seen Here.

John Gordon of Minneapolis, champion police heavyweight wrestler of the United States, winning the title by beating John Rooney of Chicago, and considered one of the best heavyweights in the West, will be the next opponent of big Chris Person, the match being wrestled before the Duluth Athletic club.

Gordon has met Frank Gotch, Fred Beell, Zbyszke and practically all of the stars of the mat game. Gordon met Gotch in a finish match in Minneapolis, shortly after Gotch had won the title of American champion from Tom Jenkins. Gordon was only a youngester then and a novice at the catch-as-can game, but he put up a wonderful fight against the great and only Gotch.

Person's next opponent is a large and powerful man. He will be heavier than the local man, as Gordon strips over 200 pounds. He is also one of the strongest men in the Northwest and if Gordon possesses as much science as Person, he will give the Duluth man the battle of his strenuous career.

Young Beell of Worcester, Mass., a featherweight who claims to have met some of the fastest boys of his class, may go on in the preliminary to the Person-Gordon finish match.

LOOKS LIKE A RE-ELECTION FOR CHAIRMAN HERRMANN.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Many of the magnates of the major leagues will be in Cincinnati today to attend the regular annual meeting of the national commission. Beyond a few questions of minor importance there is no vital matter which the national body will be called upon to decide. It is assured that August Herrmann will be re-elected as chairman of the commission and it is also certain that John E. Bruce will remain as secretary. Some pending deals for players may be closed during the day.

SWEATERS TO BE PRESENTED

Only Thirteen Men Will Receive Football "D" This Year.

Friday morning at the high school assembly hall the football sweaters and the high school letters will be presented to the members of the football team.

Only thirteen "D's" will be given out this year. Asher Taylor is the only member of the regular squad who will not receive his football letter, injuries keeping the speedy end out of the big games. However, as Taylor has about all the other athletic letters in school, he can wait another year for the most prized athletic decoration.

Yesterday the first basket ball team of the Central defeated the senior class team by the score of 29 to 8.

Joe Boyle, brother to Capt. Larry Boyle of the first basket ball team of the high school, was yesterday elected captain of the junior team. The juniors have one of the strongest teams in school, and are expected to win the school championship.

Saturday the first team will play the Hibbing quint at Hibbing, and a week from tonight a return game will be given to the sodality five, which was decisively defeated by the Centrals Monday night. The sodality boys have requested the return game, as the members of the team believe they can make a better showing.

Steps toward the organization of a hockey team will be taken up the present week. If all the candidates in school can be gotten out for the team, Central should make a very good showing with any of the teams of the city.

BOWLING SCORES

DR. McCOMB MADE GOOD.

Former Stroke on Wisconsin University Team Prospering.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The college athlete and the success and usefulness of his subsequent career or his probable failure and disappointments has long been a subject of debate. It may be therefore of passing interest to point to one college athlete who has made good.

E. Y. McComb, who has just been elected president of the Menominee County Medical association, is well remembered as one of the best all-around athletes the Wisconsin university ever produced. He was a member of the Wisconsin crew for four years and stroke for two years.

Brillion, Wis., was the birthplace of Dr. McComb. He attended the public schools there and graduated from the high school at Oshkosh. Upon entering the University of Wisconsin he distinguished himself in literary work and became one of the best-known college athletes in the country. He graduated with distinction, taking the degree of A. B. He entered upon his medical studies at the Northwestern Medical college in Chicago, from which he graduated with high honors.

Mr. McComb entered upon the practice of medicine at Reedsville, Wis., and afterwards came to Menominee, where he opened offices in 1907.

ICEBOAT RACES SATURDAY.

Speedy Boats Will Sail Over Course of Twenty Miles.

"Sid" Macdonald will be officer of the day at the iceboat races to be held on the bay next Saturday. The course will be twenty miles, and practically all of the boats at the Head of the Lakes will be entered in the event.

The boats will be divided into two classes. Boats carrying more than 400 square feet of canvas will compose one class, and those boats carrying under this amount will constitute the lower class.

It is expected that several boats from Superior will compete in the races of Saturday.

LYNCH'S FIRST BULLETIN APPROVES RELEASES.

New York, Jan. 5.—In his first official bulletin to the presidents of baseball clubs, President Thomas J. Lynch, of the National league, announced that the following releases have been approved: By Boston to Indianapolis (A. A.) John F. Coffey; by Brooklyn to Milwaukee, (A. A.) W. R. Marshall; by Cincinnati to Wilkesbarre, (N. Y. S. L.) Frank J. Egan; by New York to Kansas City, (A. A.) John Cocash; by Pittsburg to Omaha, (W. L.) William H. Fox; by St. Louis to New York (N. L.) A. S. Shaw and to Toronto, (E. L.) Joseph Delehanty.

1910 Sporting Annual.

T. S. Andrews of Milwaukee, Wis., sporting editor of the Evening Wisconsin, has published his 1910 Sporting Annual Record Book, containing records of all the noted fighters, trotting, pacing, running, bowling, athletic, baseball, automobile and also aeroplane, etc. The books contain many fine illustrations of the world's prominent fighters, and all the up-to-date records.

CLABBY MATCHED WITH PADDY LAVIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 5.—Jimmy Clabby, welterweight of Milwaukee, was yesterday afternoon matched to meet Paddy Lavin of Buffalo in a 10-round boxing contest at Buffalo, Jan. 20.

SKI RIDERS BUSY AGAIN

Snow Will Start Winter Sport Program at Local Club.

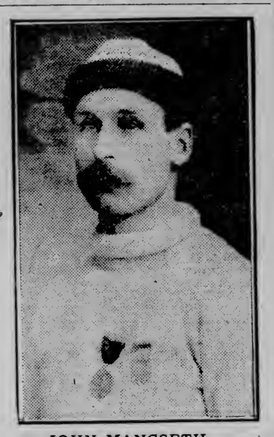

Duluth Out for National Ski Championship---New Jumpers Here.

Yesterday's snow brought gladness to the hearts of the active members of the Duluth Ski club. The firm foundation of the beautiful stuff that fell yesterday will make the best of skiing, and will bring out the ski riders who have been kept idle most of the season.

This afternoon some of the members of the club will be out to try the slide for the first time this season. The new toboggan slide of the club will also be tried by some of the enthusiastic followers of winter sports.

John Evanson and Ole Feiring are both intent upon capturing the national championship at the tournament to be held in Coleraine, Feb. 19 and 20. The national title is at the present time held by Oscar Gunderson, who won it at Eau Claire last year.

Ole Magnusson is another of the local distance jumpers who will be a daily devotee of the skis between now and the time of the tournament at Coleraine. Magnusson showed a great deal of improvement last year, and if he shows improved form the present season he may be one of the leading contenders at the Coleraine meet.

In addition to these men, three of the strongest riders in the Northwest, there will be a large number of new riders in the club the present season, according to Dr. Hovde, president of the Duluth Ski club. He says there are three new members that he knows of who have been in Alaska the past few years, and who are said to be among the best riders in this country.

Duluth members of the ski club believe that the local riders will make the greatest showing the present season that any Duluth team has ever made at a national meet.

The first local tournament will be held Jan. 16. Invitations will be sent to all the clubs in the state to be represented.

The second tournament to be held before the national meet at Coleraine will probably be held Feb. 12, when the merchants from the Brooten line of the Soo will be in Duluth. Stillwater has this date for a tournament, but the local officials are negotiating with the Stillwater Ski club officials with the object of having Stillwater change the date for its tournament. If this can be brought about, the second big tournament of the season will be held here Feb. 12.

LYNCH SAYS WAIVERS WILL BE CONFIDENTIAL.

New York, Jan. 5.—Thomas J. Lynch, the new president of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, announced yesterday that the club owners by a mail votte had decided that National league waiver requests shall hereafter be kept strictly confidential.

Considerable complaint has arisen over the fact that rumors of pending requests for waivers have been allowed to leak out.

President Lynch left here yesterday to attend the meeting of the national commission at Cincinnati.

CATCHER CHARLEY DOOIN WILL MANAGE "PHILLY."

Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—President Fogel of the Philadelphia National League Baseball club announced the election of Charley Dooin, the catcher, to manage the club for one year in place of William Murray, who has been deposed.

Dooin and the club officials were in consultation until late in the afternoon before they could agree on the salary which was to go with the position.

Mackey Beats Delmont.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—"Biz" Mackey of Cleveland had the better of Al Delmont of Boston from the third to the last round of a 10-round bout at the Armory Athletic association last night, and clearly won the decision.

Two 10-round bouts were also held at the Armory club. Pat Moore of Philadelphia and Henry Miers of Charlestown secured a draw in the first and Charles Griffin of Australia and Eddie Shevlin of Roxbury a similar decision in the second.

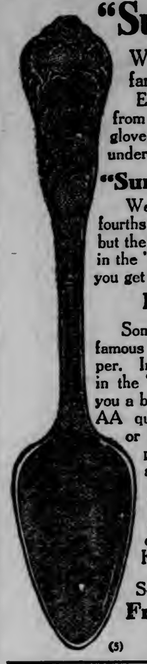

Cornell Defeats Yale.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 4.—After experiencing two defeats at the hands of Yale's heavier men, the Cornell hockey team took the game into its own hands here last night and won the third and last game of the series by a score of 3 to 1. Yale's single score was made at the tag end of the game.

Snow Prevents Game.

Snow last night prevented the playing of the scheduled hockey game between the Northern Juniors and the Adams team. The game will be played some night during the week.

Only Gloved Hands Pick "Sunkist" Oranges

We use great care in picking the famous "SUNKIST" ORANGES. Each "SUNKIST" ORANGE is picked from the tree and packed in the box by a gloved hand. No orange that falls to the ground is packed under the "SUNKIST" label.

"Sunkist" Navel Oranges Are Seedless

We grow 60% of all the California oranges. Three-fourths of all the lemons. Most of them are sold in bulk, but the choicest selections of this great quantity are wrapped in the "SUNKIST" label, so that if you would be sure that you get the choicest pick, insist upon the "SUNKIST."

Beautiful Orange Spoon FREE

Some dealers may claim the oranges they sell are the famous "SUNKIST," but that they have removed the wrapper. Insist on your dealer giving you oranges and lemons in the "SUNKIST" wrapper. If you do this we will give you a beautiful orange spoon—one of Rogers' best standard AA quality. Just send us twelve "SUNKIST" orange or lemon wrappers, with six 2c stamps to pay postage, packing, etc., and receive one of these beautiful spoons by return mail.

The choicest quality of lemons also go under the "SUNKIST" label. You can easily secure a whole dozen of these beautiful orange spoons. Get a dozen "SUNKIST" oranges or lemons today.

COHAN SPECIAL REACHES CITY

Busiest Young Man in Theatrical Business Arrives in Duluth.

George M. Cohan, playwright, song writer, stage director, composer of musical ditties that have set the feet keeping time to musical glorifications of the grand old flag, and actor, is with us today, automobile, Japanese valet and all.

The Cohan company pulled into Duluth this morning in a special train. One of the cars of the train carries the automobile used by young George. A private car houses the four Cohans.

Mr. Cohan is about the busiest man in the country. He had just a few moments to give to an interviewer, "I have lots of plans for next season," he stated in response to a question as to what he would do next season. "I am writing a new play for myself and I am also at work on a new play for Tom Lewis, the man who is with me now, and the same actor who created the part of the unknown in 'Little Johnny Jones.'

"I am awfully busy today. You will have to excuse me. Come over the the theater and see me tomorrow night. See you later."

Mr. Cohan is an ardent baseball fan. He met Harry Tuthill, the trainer of the Detroit Tigers at the Spalding today. The two started a fanning bee. Cohan came very near becoming a baseball magnate. He told Tuthill that he saw the world's series by electric score board diagram at New Orleans. He said he liked the games that way almost as much as he would had he witnessed the actual play.

The most versatile man in American theatrical life looks very much like his pictures. He is small and very slight. Sometimes he talks through one corner of his month. Sometimes he talks through his nose. That is one of the reasons why so many actors have tried to imitate George M. Cohan. He is all nervous force and activity. He doesn't keep still very long. He looks like a boy, and like his pictures, has big, Irish blue eyes. At first glance you would never take George M. Cohan for the man who has accomplished more than most men have accomplished in a long and active life.

TIGER OWNER VISITS DULUTH

W. H. Yawkey Says Detroit Has Good Chance to Repeat.

W. H. Yawkey, owner of the Detroit American league team, and Harry Tuthill, the famous trainer of fights and baseball teams, are guests of the Spalding today.

Mr. Yawkey is here on business. He is interested in some mineral property on the range and came here to look over his holdings. Mr. Tuthill is here simply on pleasure.

"We have a very good chance for the pennant next season," said Mr. Yawkey. "We have a number of promising youngsters in reserve, and in addition have the men who won the flag last season. Jennings has some very good young players in reserve, and we look for some very good things from these men."

Harry Tuthill is the man who tipped off the signal system of the New York Americans. He was the first man to get wise to the plant in the Highlanders' grounds. He is also the man who handled Young Corbett in most of his fights. He saw Jeffries in Chicago, and to The Herald gave his opinion that Jeffries could never come back. Tuthill came out flatfooted and stated that in his opinion Johnson will beat Jeff.

RIDER AGENT FOR GAME COMMISSION.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart's request to be permitted to name the executive agent of the state fish and game commission was granted today when that body appointed H. A. Rider of Little Falls to the position.

Mr. Rider was named a member of the board to succeed Carlos Avery by Governor Eberhart last week, and with the appointment went the recommendation that he made executive agent.

Robert Hanna of Fergus Falls was made president of the board; Joseph A. Wessel of Crookston, secretary; George J. Bradley of Norwood, first vice president, and O. J. Johnson of Glenwood, second vice president. The position of superintendent of fisheries, made vacant by the forced retirement of S. F. Fullerton, was not filled.

THE EVENING STORY

THE TERRACE

By Roney Weir.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

In spite of himself, Rodman caught his breath as the woman trailed across the brick floor of the terrace and seated herself upon the stone bench at its edge.

She was there, and alone, and he was afraid of her, and he asked himself fiercely why? Was his emotion a laudible masculine tribute to her womanhood, or was it—and Mather Rodman, socialist, iconoclast, shuddered at the possibility—was it but the common American awe of wealth?

He meant to discover whether he was a sycophant, or merely a fool; whether he, a gray-headed professor of astromony, on a salary of $2,000 a year, was in love with this woman of millions, or whether, in spite of his high disdain for wealth and its worshippers, he was overpowered by Mrs. Draper's possessions.

In his youth he had had his dreams. But in these days poverty had driven him with a whip of scorpions. Later his profession, his socialistic work, absorbed him completely, until, suddenly, youth was past, and the prosiness of middle age full upon him. He accepted the fact philosophically, setting with deadly earnestness to the task appointed him.

And now this episode of the terrace—this weakness, this inexplainable influence wielded over him by a softly trailing little widow!

He sat down upon the bench at Mrs. Draper's side.

"I am very glad of this opportunity to thank you again, Mrs. Draper, for your hospitality to a homeless astronomy class. This summer's work has been of vital importance, I am sure, and without your aid we should have been obliged to await the completion of the observatory at the university—"

She stopped him with an impatient little gesture. "Don't talk any more astronomy to me, Prof. Rodman. I have had enough of it this summer."

He was angry at her brusqueness. Here was the arrogance of millions. Because she had sold herself into mercenary bondage for a certain number of years, she was enabled to call him, a learned man, to her feet like a hungry hound, toss him a bone from her abundance, and then drive him from her gates with scorn.

"It matters very little to you whether the square of Pegasus makes its appearance in January or July, doesn't it?" he asked, with sarcasm.

"Very little," she answered.

"And I was egotistical enough to hope that your pleasure in our study might stand as an infinitesimal balance against your kindness. Your only motive, then, was interest in the progress of your niece?"

"I have very little faith in Mildred's astronomy," she answered, with a laugh. He had never heard her laugh before. There was something alluring in her laughter. It brought to the surface some long-buried instinct of the prehistoric man; a longing to take this woman in his arms by force—to hold her, in spite of conventions as his natural mate.

He was dismayed that such savagery should find lodgment in his mind. It taught him one blessed truth—that it was not her wealth which made him tremble and stand dumb before her.

From the open window of the basement dancing hall came the vapid cackling and chatter of the class where they were forgetting Cassiopeia and Cepheus in a farewell hop. Young Henly began playing "Woman's Love" for the benefit of the dancers. Rodman wished he would cease. There was tension enough in the night without that foolish, compelling waltz floating over the garden.

"If you were not interested in astronomy either for yourself or your niece, may I ask your motive in turning your home into an observatory, and yourself into a bored and long-suffering chaperone for the entire summer?"

"If I were to tell you, you would think me a fool," she answered, and laughed again

"Then tell me," he demanded.

"You wish to think me a fool?"

"I should be glad to know that you have your foolish moments."

"Very well. But please sit down. I can't begin a humiliating confession to a man stalking about my terrace in impatient longing to be gone. See how the moon entangles herself in the pines yonder. When she comes it is too late for the constellation, isn't it? By and by when she frees herself from the pine tree tops she will ride high in the zenith and make a golden patch across the bay; a path which will lead out into the mists and lose itself in the shadows on the other side. On such paths souls, having slipped the lash of mortality, speed on to happiness. Do you see the unfolding of the plot? An old woman still hugging the sentimentalities of youth. I will explain:

"This terrace is to blame for it all. If Mr. Draper had built only the house with its great rooms and heavy furnishings, I might have remained a well-fed, conventional, commonplace woman. But he caused this terrace to be built—to swing out here upon its buttresses of stone above the mottled forest, the green meadow, and the bay, where the moon makes a path to Paradise.

"Did he, too, dream dreams? Was there left somewhere a living spark of romance? My knowledge of him would hardly lead me to believe it. But you can never tell. You see, he had his day, back in the dark ages before I was born. He had loved and wooed and won the wife of his young manhood, that divine Matilda, whose name was ever on his lips.

"Yes, he had his day, and he seldom came to the terrace; but I—I had never seen love at a distance. Back in yonder I was surrounded by the commonalities of life, absorbed by its petty social duties. But here upon the terrace I threw off the shackles and cried out for something I had never known; something—I could hardly have named it—which was my due, but which had passed me by—"

Rodman suddenly leaned toward her and took her hands in his. She made a weak attempt to withdraw them.

"Why were you not woman enough to wait?" he cried. "Why did you not hold yourself serene and immaculate, until love came your way?"

She snatched away her hands. "Suppose all women waited? Suppose all women held themselves 'serene and immaculate' awaiting the perfect love? How many marriages would there be? I sold myself well! I brought a magnificent price!

"I should have been a fool to let slip such a bargain—I, an overworked, 35-year-old teacher, with an invalid mother and two younger nieces on my hands! My friend, Minnie Haywood, with her sweet face and pie Haywood, went to a blacksmith, yellow hair, went to a blacksmith, earning $3 a day, who, when drunk, used to beat her! She is out of it long ago, thank God! She went out over the golden path, and they carved upon her headstone: 'Here lies the beloved wife'—and so one—the usual lie!

"As the years went by, and I grew elderly, I felt that at least fate owed me the satisfaction of allowing me to stand a silent spectator while the drama of love was being played. Here, upon my own terrace, was the magnificent setting for the play—the empty stage, where I longed to see the actors assume their several parts.

"My niece Mildred, young, beautiful, unquestionably romantic, as youth has a right to be, would prove a most acceptable heroine.

"But I was particular about the hero; and Mildred's heroes were never mine. I hoped in vain for the right one until —the coming to my terrace of the astronomical class. Then for the first time I saw the outward semblance of the hero as I had fancied him. Such a hero, and such a pair of shoulders should stand outlined against the sheen of the distant waters above my terrace wall; such eyes should beam with the light of love; such lips should breathe burning words into willing ears, and the great drama reach its fitting climax here upon the spot which I had chosen.

"The opening of the play I hoped to see; the finale I was willing to imagine. I humbly asked this very reasonable satisfaction from a surly fate—but I have been denied. Tonight ends the astronomy lessons. There has been love-making, undoubtedly; was there ever an astronomy class without it? But my chosen actors remained dull, declining to accept the parts assigned them."

"Mrs. Draper, which one of the boys dancing down there did you select for your hero?"

"None of those."

"Myself, then? Mrs. Draper, your hero shall not disappoint you! The trouble is with your heroine."

Mrs. Draper rose. Her black skirts swished sharply as she endeavored to regain that eminently safe and respectable interlior of which she had spoken, but Rodman barred the way.

"Too late, my Lady of the Terrace," he breathed; "you have confessed too much. You shall be satisfied—after you have changed heroines. The leading lady of the terrace drama is not to be an immature schoolgirl—"

"Prof. Rodman, you forget yourself!"

"I do not forget myself! I have been the hero of your terrace dream—you have confessed it. If such is the case, it is because you love me; and if you love me, you will come to me in spite of everything!"

"Hush! They have stopped dancing! They will be coming up into the house—we must go in! Did I say that I wished a lover? I want no lover! I am old! As I have told you, I but wished to stand a silent spectator at the play of love—"

"And you selected me as the hero in your play of love. I accept the part. I, too, am old. We are both near the end of our terrace days, and those of quiet fireside enjoyments loom ominously near, but we shall take the more sedate pleasures together after, at least, one night of terrace rapture."

"Don't you realize," she asked, solemnly, "that when Mr. Draper built this castle—this great battlement, he forever walled me in? It is the sign of wealth! It cries aloud to the world of my riches, and any man who dares approach will be called—"

His face grew terse in the moonlight, but he only crushed her to him in a rougher embrace.

"You shall not say that of me! No one shall ever call me a fortune-hunter! You—not your money, shall be mine! You are my Andromeda—my chained lady. He walled you in with his wealth, did he? He chained you to a rock to be devoured by the sea-monster Mammon? Then I will be your Perseus. You will come to me, dear, leaving the wealth behind."

"But, Prof. Rodman, my money—"

"Money is easy to get rid of."

"But my home—my beloved terrace—where I have dreamed dreams—"

"Which shall it be, Mrs. Draper, the dream or the reality? The terrace, where you may dream of love, or love itself? You can't have both, you know?"

"Think what my wealth would mean to you in your work."

"It would mean ruin to me! I do not want your wealth! I will not have your wealth, but I do want you. Prove to me that it was for the old mother's sake—for the little nieces—that you endured your slavery—oh, prove this to me, and stand in my eyes the most perfect of womankind!"

"The terrace crumbles beneath my feet," she laughed, "and I will come to you even as the beggar maid came to King Cophetua."

MANY SEALS SLAUGHTERED ANNUALLY.

Wide World Magazine: It is very seldom that the captain of a sealing vessel can be induced to take a spectator with him. This is not because the captains object to any one watching their movements, but because the vessels are unusually full and space is both limited and valuable. In addition to the crew, there are the hunters to be considered, and should many seals be taken, the ship is loaded to her utmost capacity. Indeed, if seals are speedily sighted, and in large numbers, even the coal is thrown overboard to make room for the skins.

As already stated, the ships return as soon as a sufficient number of seals have been caught. Sometimes the vessel is back in harbor again in a couple of weeks, loaded to the gunwale with as many as 30,000 or 40,000 seals, worth from $2.50 to $3 apiece. The crew of a single vessel has been known to capture as many as 20,000 seals in seven or eight days. Two seasons ago the crew of the Neptune secured 42,000 seals in eighteen days, the pelts not only filling the hold, but being piled up on the decks as well. The watchers on the harbor know at once whether a vessel has been successful, for it is the custom to hang a broom aloft if the catch has been a particularly good one. Sometimes, however, the steamer is unlucky, and, after buffeting about among the ice for a period of six weeks, returns with only enough skins to pay bare expenses. The Southern Cross, for instance, returned on May 5 last to St. John's with only 1,200 seals, valued at $2,400, of which the crew of 170 men secured less than $5 apiece for their seven weeks' work. As the ice fields may be over 100 miles in breadth and of unknown length, the sealer may be weeks running along the edge of the field before the lookout detects the little dark spots which show the presence of the prey. The annual catch of seals run into well over 500,000, and the total value of the industry to Newfoundland is about $1,500,000.

ENGLISHMEN GETTING PLAINER.

Hon. Mrs. Fitzroy Stewart in the Strand: That famous criticism, "God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man," might be applied with much aptness to certain scraps of humanity that one sees about in the world of today. For the fact must be faced that men are getting plainer. Women grow taller, straighter and handsomer, but men seem to shrink in height, and to become more feeble in form and frail in constitution. With the upper classes this may be the result of undue luxury and of frequent intermarriage, which two causes are, no doubt responsible for our somewhat effete aristocracy. And the strenuous sels are unusually full and space is way we live may have something to say on the subject, for in all walks of life the modern man soon takes on a careworn look that lines his face, pinches his lips, stoops his shoulders. And these signs are, no doubt, the result of hustle, of our getting-rich-quick methods, and of the storm and stress of present-day competition. Also, no doubt, of wrong food, too much smoking and the rapid rate of up-to-date locomotion.

Handsome men are, of course, still to be found, but no one can deny that they are in a decided minority. The men one sees about are far too often short and stunted, pale and puny; and this applies in equal measure to the golden youth one meets at balls and parties, to shopmen behind counters, and, sad to say, to the wearers of naval and military uniforms. One and all are on the down grade as regards appearance; and this is triste, as our forbears left us a rich legacy in the way of health, strength and bodily perfection. The Celts gave dark eyes and hair and a bright complexion; also a soft voice, quick but graceful movements, and the added charm of a vivid intellect. The Anglo-Saxon supplied blue eyes, fair hair and skin, straight features and vast powers of endurance. And we owe a debt to our Danish invaders, for they left us their great height, fine forms and splendid physique. Any one who saw the Danish athletes at the Olympic games of 1908 can bear witness to the truth of this statement. Then, if old portraits can be trusted, Englishmen were taller and handsomer a century ago than they are in this year of grace 1909. Perhaps—like other nations before us—we have now, as regards make and muscle, to pay the price of an ultra civilization.

WHEN THE KING VISITS TEMPLES.

Once a year, says a writer in the January Wide World Magazine, all the Buddhist temples in Siam are visited by the king, or his deputies, bearing the Phra Kathin (yellow robes), in conformity with an ancient custom by which the priests were made to seek their apparel for the ensuing year. During the lifetime of Buddha monks and priests were sent out to beg for old, cast-off garments, which were afterwards dyed yellow and patched together to form the required robes. This ancient mendicant custom gradually gave place to the present one of making the garments from new cloth of a bright canary yellow, provided by joint contributions of kings, princes, nobles and commoners. When the king goes in the royal throne barge to present the robes in person, he does so with great pomp and ceremony. The priestly garments, folded in bundles, are carried to the door of the temple to await the appearance of his majesty and his suite. The king, on arriving, takes a priestly robe and places it on a decorated altar. The chief priest then lays his hands on the garment and chants an acknowledgment.

Actual Starvation

E. M. Tredway Gives Facts Regarding Dyspepsia.

Although indigestion and dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and how to obtain relief. There is no reason why people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them.

Dieting can't cure dyspepsia. If we refuse every article of food that disagrees with us, before long we have nothing left, and find ourselves chronic dyspeptics.

We are so confident that we can furnish relief for indigestion and dyspepsia that we promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who uses it according to directions who is not perfectly satisfied with the results. We exact no promises and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely nothing could be fairer. We are located right here where you live, and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one who is troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and get a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them home, and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. They are very pleasant to take; they soothe the irritable stomach, strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, promote a healthy and natural bowel action, almost immediately relieve nausea and stomach irritation, produce healthy digestion and assimilation, and promote nutrition.

A 25-cent package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases this is sufficient to produce complete relief. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases we have two larger sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

G. G. HARTLEY APPEALS FOR ROADS FOR FARMERS

Owner of Island Farm Talks Forcefully to County Board.

Says Good Roads Are Salvation of Agricultural Ventures.

After listening to a lengthy and forceful talk by G. G. Hartley, owner of Island farm, in regard to roads in the vicinity of Floodwood, the county board of commissioners, which had been in session since yesterday afternoon, adourned this morning to meet again Thursday, Jan. 20.

Mr. Hartley wants a road from the vicinity of his farm to Floodwood, a distance of about five miles. One-half the road is already built. That the road is a very much needed one, he went into details to explain to the members of the board. He said that he could build it, but that he wanted to show those farmers who are plodding along their best to improve their own condition and that of their community that the county board was with them in their endeavor to help themselves. He said that the rugged life led by these sturdy people needs encouragement.

"What are we going to be," asked Mr. Hartley, "if these men get tired of trying and forsake their farms? We need them, and we need them badly. They are doing their best against great odds that here in the city cannot be properly appreciated by people who have no experience in clearing a farm in a wild and rugged country.

"They have great difficulty in getting their produce to the market, and I know one man who has to take second price for the most beautiful garden produce you ever laid eyes on, because he cannot get it to the railroad without damaging it to a certain extent. The constant jarring of the wagon bruises it, and he has to be satisfied with what he can get."

Mr. Hartley told of the hardships endured by these country people that they might have a place to call home. He said that the struggle is almost beyond human endurance, and that roads, more than anything else, would encourage the farmer to stick to his fight and finally win out.

"You may talk as you like about the pure country air, the happy life and how very fine a thing it is to be a farmer, but I want to impress on your minds, gentlemen, that without proper encouragement the life is not one that you would care to live. With those who have money the life is easier, but when you take a piece of land, heavily timbered, try to clear it, build a house, obtain stock, do all the work for yourself without means, the fight is an uphill one," continued Mr. Hartley. "These state lands have been cleared of their timber, the only revenue the farmer in a new country has. He has paid $5 an acre. It is more than the land is worth in the first place. He is surrounded by state and railroad lands on which there is no tax. Of course, he becomes discouraged and often gives up the fight.

Country Needs the Farmer.

"I tell you that the farmer is the coming power. We are all going to get down on our knees to him soon. We must be provided with foodstuffs. He must furnish them. He must be given a chance. Particularly up here in this northern part of the state we need the farmer. This question has been overlooked too long.

"You will never have farmers without roads. The poor devils have not the money themselves, nor have they the time to devote to building them. It is up to you, gentlemen. Do you realize your power to bring all these things about? You are the most powerful body. They all look to you for help. Up there where I am located we are without schools, we need roads and there must be much work done before we are in shape to supply you as we should.

"I am doing my part. I have expended thousands of dollars in improvements. I have built some of the roads. I have the best bloodred stock that money can buy. I help these people all I can. I want you to appreciate the circumstances and help all you can. We want the road finished between the surrounding country and Floodwood. We must have a way to get out produce to the station. You are doing a good work and the results of your work are being felt all over the county. We need the help at Floodwood and I ask you to think it over and see what you can do."

After the talk by Mr. Hartley, Chairman McInnis said that there was no doubt of the good being done by Mr. Hartley and that there was no doubt in his mind but that the road would be completed. He suggested that the whole board visit the country, look over the conditions and at a future meeting take the matter up with a view to finishing the work already begun.

Mr. Barthey offered to entertain the entire board at his farm. Some time during the month the board will in a body go to Floodwood, look things over and convince themselves.

Clothing for Prisoners.

The matter of clothing for the prisoners at the county jail came up when the sheriff asked for a number of articles of clothing. The board thought that as the city was reaping the benefits of their labor on the chain gang it should furnish the prisoners with proper clothing. Deputy Sheriff Pierce was called in and he explained that the prisoners were not divided into two classes. Mr. Pierce said that all the men had was on their backs and in a great many instances that had to be torn from them and thrown away before they could be allowed to mingle with the others confined at the jail. The men, whether city or county prisoners, are put to work when the court so orders and as there is nothing else than city work to be done, they are set at that. The board authorized the purchase of the clothing desired.

W. H. Collingwood made application for the use of the property at First street and Fourth avenue west during the months of February and March for a public skating rink. The matter was left to the building committee.

The County's Wealth.

Figures presented at the meeting yesterday show that St. Louis county is very wealthy for its assets are nearly $250,000,000.

There are some happy clerks about the courthouse today for at the meeting yesterday the county board authorized that in some instances the salaries be increased. In some cases the appeal for a higher wage was turned down, the members of the board thinking that the applicants were being paid the full value of their services.

The residents of Spina made another application for the incorporation of the village. The matter was opposed by the mining interests, and the board after much discussion and listening to the attorneys and residents talk both for and against the proposition, put the matter over for consideration at an adjourned meeting of the board to be held about the middle of the month.

Some time ago an application from Spina was turned down by the board. Yesterday forty residents of the proposed town sent in another application in a somewhat different form. The only difference, however, between the new and old application is that in the new the residents will be satisfied with less territory. William J. Stevenson, counsel for the board, was asked to look into the matter and return an opinion.

The reports from the several county offices were not presented yesterday because they were not ready. The heads of the several departments have ten days in which to finish the reports and turn them in for the consideration of the board. It is known that in several instances they will be the largest in the history.

Figures from Auditor Halden's office presented to the board at yesterday's meeting show that the assets of the county exceed the liabilities by $247,-990. This includes liabilities on bonds for railroad aid, roads, bridges, ditches and the new courthouse building, several hundred thousand dollars of which will not be due for many years. The assets include $69,449.43 in taxes from 1905 to date, which have not as yet been paid. They do not include the current taxes, which amount to $740,-946.98, or the real and personal property of the county.

The liabilities are $1,482,932, the amount being due on bonds. Interest amounts to $36,765.97, a total of $1,-519,697.97. The total warrants drawn by the auditor during the year amount to $298,826.48. This amount includes all salaries, running expenses, printing and other expenses.

Dr. R. E. Cavanaugh was chosen jail physician, at a salary of $50 a month. He was allowed $150 for expenses, which consist mostly of medicines furnished the prisoners.

T. W. HUGO OUT FOR SENATOR

Former Mayor of Duluth Will Be Candidate Against Pugh.

T. W. Hugo, former mayor of Duluth, will be a candidate for the state senate, opposing T. M. Pugh, member of the senate from the Fiftieth district. Mr. Hugo today confirmed the report that he will re-enter the political field.

Mr. Pugh filed for the nomination on the Republican ticket yesterday. Mr. Hugo served two terms as mayor, and has many acquaintances throughout the state. He is prominent in Masonic circles, and has long been a worker in the Republican party. He stated today that he had neither the time nor inclination to make an active campaign, but that he would file for the nomination, and if the voters of the district cared to indorse him, he would devote his best efforts to the office.

A Republican nomination is practically equivalent to election in the Fiftieth district.

DIVORCE MILL IS GRINDING

January Term of District Court Opens With Call of Calendar.

The January term of the district court opened this morning with the call of the calendar by Judge Martin Hughes.

There are 104 jury cases and 59 court cases to be settled by the court. For trial there were marked 132 cases. Twenty-three cases were continued, three were stricken, and the attorneys in four cases failed to answer as to the disposition of their cases.

After the call to the calendar, Judge Hughes listened to motions regarding the cases to be taken up at the January term.

The divorce mill will begin grinding this afternoon. Eighteen people desire the bonds which bind them to others severed, to make their life happier. These cases will be rushed through as fast as possible, and the civil and criminal cases begun.

SALADIN GOES TO REFORMATORY

Abductor of 15-Year-Old Girl Must Suffer for Crime.

Frank Saladin was yesterday afternoon sentenced to the state reformatory at St. Cloud by Judge Cant of the district court.

Saladin on Sept. 9 last enticed away from the village of Proctor Knott Ophelia Roberts, a girl 15 years of age.

Under the state law Saladin will be confined at St. Cloud until by good behaviour he proves that he will endanger society no longer.

Saladin asked for leniency in his case, saying that he was the sole support of his aged mother and that the disgrace brought on her would break her heart.

A peculiar feature of this case is that in 1907 Judge Cant, who now sentenced Saladin to the reformatory, granted him a divorce from his wife, Maude Saladin, on the ground of desertion.

NO ANSWER TO LETTER ABOUT KELLNER GIRL.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 5.—"We have not received an answer to the communication we sent to the writer of the letter about Alma Kellner, which for a time we thought to be genuine," said Frank Fehr today, "and it seems as though we are as far away from the solution of the mystery as on the day the child disappeared, four weeks ago."

Capt. Carney, chief of detectives, said today that he did not have a single development on the case.

SOMETHING WORTH WHILE

Our January Clearance Sale of Men's and Boys' High-Grade Clothing

Made Expressly for us by HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX, ALFRED BENJAMIN & CO. and JOSEPH SKOLNY & CO.

This is the time of year we clean up our stock to make room for our spring goods, which will soon be coming in, and this year we propose doing it with a vengeance.

Your Unrestricted Choice of Any Suit or Overcoat in the Store for $14.75

This sale includes every Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Alfred Benjamin & Co. and "Clothcraft" Suit or Overcoat in the store.

This sale is for cash only. Do not ask for credit or to have goods sent on approval. Blues and Blacks are included in this sale.

All Suits and Overcoats that sold all Fall for $13.50 to $18, and easily worth that much right now, sell at $9.75

All Suits and Overcoats that Sold regularly all Fall for $9.00, $10.00 and $12.00—on sale at $6.75

January Clearance Sale in Our Boys' Dept.

Our inventory, which we have just completed, revealed to us the fact that we have too many odd suits of different lots—two and three of a kind which cost us $7.50 to $12.00. We don't want to carry these over until next season and we'll close them out during this sale for ..... $2.50 and $3.50

These suits are all-wool and well tailored and the only criticism to be made on them is the fact that the short-pant suits have plain knee pants instead of knickerbockers—and in the long-pant suits the coats are a trifle shorter and the lapels a trifle narrow. But every one is a good, serviceable suit and well worth the regular retail price.

"WHEN I GOT OFF THE ARK, McINTYRE GRABBED ME," SAYS THOMAS HEATH

James McIntyre and Thomas Heath have been partners in the show business since 1874. Both of the veteran showmen were in a reminiscent mood at the Spalding today. Though veterans in the business, they are comparatively young men.

"I got off the ark and McIntyre saw me coming," says Heath. "He grabbed me by the hand and told me he needed a fellow to go into the show business with him. We have been together ever since."

Mr. Heath says when the two men started in the show business together, down Texas way, you couldn't ever tell any one in Texas that a greenback would ever be worth anything. There was a lot of that particular kind of money, but it wasn't worth anything.

Both of the comedians were in Duluth when about the only thing to mark the site of the present city was a few old sod huts. They passed through here in 1879 by wagon. They were in the circus business, where a long apprenticeship was spent. Heath says he remembers something about Duluth, how it looked in those early days, and how he predicted its future greatness. McIntyre gives you the wink on the side. You can take it or leave it.

The two men have witnessed the development of the show business in this country. They have traveled by wagon; have walked from town to town; have traveled over the almost impassable railroads of the early days of the Southwest, and today are traveling on Pullmans.

"We sure have earned all we have today," said McIntyre. "We have been through the show business from soda to hock. We have taken the worst with the best. We have played practically one line of work since we started out together. Look over the field and see how many of the old-time black-face comedians are left. Practically none. Willus Sweatman, who was here with Cohan's 'George Washington, Jr.,' is one of the few of the present day black-face comedians who have really made a study of the Southern darkey."

The two men have studied the Southern darkey as he really is. Every so often, according to McIntyre, they go South to renew their acquaintance with the ways of the negro. Down in New Orleans, McIntyre says he gets out on the levee with the negroes and just listens and observes. He says it brightens him up and gives him new ideas.

Both of the men have in their possession darkey clothes that they secured from Southern negroes years ago. McIntyre had one suit of clothes that was literally nothing but patches, layer on layer. He walked five miles to get the suit, and then lost it in a fire in New Orleans. Heath has a hat that he also made a long trip to get, and gave a darkey a new hat in exchange for it.

McIntyre and Heath organized the first minstrel show in the country in 1878. They showed over the country in wagons. It was this combination show that passed through what was to be Duluth, a number of years later.

McIntyre says there is an old Southern darkey woman, who was slave before the war, who, every time their old theatrical firm brings a show South, comes in and asks if "you all got Mista Mac-Heath wif you." Many of the Southern negroes know the two comedians as "Mac-Heath."

MEETING OF COUNTY CLUB

Annual Gathering to Be Held in Duluth Jan. 18 and 19.

Unusually Large Attendance of Delegates Is Expected.

The meeting of the County club held here on Jan. 18 and 19, will be a most important gathering.

The County club was organized a year ago in Duluth, and since then three meetings have been held at Biwabik, Virginia and Hibbing. This will be the first annual meeting, and the new officers will be elected. The County club is composed of all the commercial clubs and farmers' clubs in the county.

Owing to the fact that the chairmen of the county school districts will be in session here on Jan. 19, it is expected that there will be a large attendance. The delegates to the convention of school district chairmen will be named delegates to the meeting of the County club also, and practically every school district in the county will thus be represented, in addition to the delegates from the commercial clubs of the larger towns of the county.

The principal matter of importance to be taken up will be the plans for securing a complete census of the county, and the plan to establish an open market in Duluth.

GAMES OF CHANCE STILL RUNNING

Some Dealers Have Not Obeyed Mandate of the Police.

Despite the leniency of the police in giving them until the first of the year to get rid of the stocks they carried with games of chance, it appears that some candy and cigar dealers are still running them on their counters.

They consist mostly of cards from which tags are pulled. If a person draws a lucky number he gets a box of candy or a cigar. And then he marks his name over whatever number he draws, still standing a show for the big box, which goes to another lucky man after the card is empty.

Complaints were made to Mayor Haven and the police early in December, but as the dealers were stocked for the Christmas season they were given until Jan. 1 to clean up. Some managed to do so while others sent back what they had left.

The police will start a man out tomorrow probably to make the rounds of the places where these cards have been in vogue to see that they are discontinued. If the order is not obeyed warrants will be issued for the arrest of the dealers, but it is not thought that this will be necessary after they are informed that the police mean business.

GRAFT DAYS ARE PASSED

Mayor O'Leary of East Grand Forks Issues an Emphatic Warning.

Makes Several Recommendations in Taking Up His New Duties.

East Grand Forks, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.) — Sweeping changes in the methods of administering the affairs of this city were recommended in the message of Mayor J. J. O'Leary, when he assumed office last night, succeeding Mayor Hugh Dunlevy. The new mayor once before served the city as mayor.

With reference to the municipal court, which is now operated under the laws of 1895, making it independent of the city council, Mayor O'Leary urged that steps be taken to place it under the jurisdiction of the law passed in 1905, which would place it under the control of the city council.

Would Abolish Commission.

Action to do away with the city commissioners of public utilities was also recommended. This commission, which was named by the outgoing administration a short time ago, takes from the council the power over public buildings and municipal water and light works. Action in the courts to abolish the commission is the step he proposes.

Concerning the city's finances, which are in a rather muddled condition because of the defalcations of the former recorder, C. P. Zimmerman, Mayor O'Leary advises that the state examiner be called in that a full and complete statement of the moneys may be secured. He also calls attention to the state law requiring the payment of 10 per cent of saloon license fees into the state treasury, which means a reduction of about $2,500 in the city's income during the coming year.

More Pay for Police.

A larger salary for the members of the police force is recommended. The chief of police he proposes should be allowed $125 a month; the assistant, $100 a month, and patrolmen, $85 a month. "While this may seem to you to be a large amount," says the mayor, "to my mind the city will be much better off financially, as well as morally, as it will do away with the receiving of 'tips' for privileges by any policeman, or what is commonly known as 'graft.' Any policeman that I see or find who has accepted any moneys or taken any 'hush money' will be promptly discharged from the force with no chance of reinstatement."

After Mayor O'Leary had submitted his regular message he made a brief statement to the effect that no gambling, wine rooms or houses of ill-fame would be allowed to operate during his term of office.

Fire Damages Cass Lake Home.

Cass Lake, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fire early yesterday afternoon did about $400 damage to the residence occupied by James Morrow. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have originated in some manner from the chimney. There was no insurance on either the building or furnishings.

Excellent work of the firemen prevented a much greater loss.

TWO FROM MINNESOTA

Nelson and Stevens May Be Picked for Land Office Probe.

Former Is Expected to Be Chairman of the Joint Committee.

Washington, Jan. 5.—It seems likely now that Minnesota will have two members on the joint committee that will be appointed to conduct the investigation of the general land office under the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. They are Senator Nelson and Representative Stevens, the former of whom probably will be chosen chairman of the committee.

While it is not likely that the committee will be appointed for a few days, the indications are that the following will be selected:

Senators—Nelson of Minnesota, Root of New York, Flint of California, Sutherland of Utah, Republicans; Jaynter of Kentucky, and either Clarke of Arkansas, or Hughes of Colorado, Democrats.

Members of the house—Dalzell of Pennsylvania, McCall of Massachusetts, Stevens of Minnesota, Martin of South Dakota, Republicans; and Howard of Georgia, and Moon of Tennessee, or Shirley of Kentucky, Democrats.

There is some doubt as to the appointment of Senator Flint, but it is reasonably certain that the other Republican members named will be chosen. As heretofore announced, Senator Nelson will be the chairman.

House Refers Resolution.

In the house the resolution was referred to the committee on rules; in the senate, reference was postponed until tomorrow.

In presenting the resolution in the house, Representative Humphrey declared that the time had come when the whole country demanded investigation of the whole underlying the so-called Pinchot-Ballinger controversy.

"Secretary Ballinger had demanded an investigation and has insisted that it shall be thorough and wide enough to include everything connected with him and his department," said Mr. Humphrey, who added:

"The country demands this investigation. Let us have light. As I have known Secretary Ballinger for many years, so I have known Gifford Pinchot for several years. I have been a friend of both, and am today. I believe that in their public lives both have tried honestly to serve the public.

Retire Those Who Are Guilty.

"If the facts demonstrate that either or both have been guilty of any act deserving it, let them be promptly removed from public life. If there is nothing in the charges, then let us have an investigation that will make the truth so plain that it will forever close the polluted lips of slander."

TO ISSUE NEW MILEAGE BOOK

Uniform System in Western and Southern Association Territories.

A new passenger mileage book will soon make its appearance in the Western passenger field, as well as in the territory of the Southwestern Passenger association. The new mileage scheme will be a 2,000-mile book, which will be purchased for a straight price of $40, there being no refund after the book has been exhausted.

Formerly 2,000-mile books were sold to commercial travelers for $50. When the covers of the book had been turned in $9.50 of the amount was returned, providing it had been shown that the books had been used by the original purchaser. If the book was confiscated by the railroad companies, because it was being used by some one other than the original purchaser, no refund was made.

The object in issuing the new book is to provide a uniform system in both the territory of the Western Passenger association and the territory of the Southwestern Passenger association. On railroads, such as all the roads in this state, where a straight 2-cent fare is charged, a coupon will be taken for each mile. On railroads where a 2½-cent fare is charged, the mileage will be torn out on the basis of a coupon and a half for each mile.

However, there will be a saving, according to passenger men here, from the fact that 2½ cents will be the maximum rate charged to the holder of the book, while some railroads today charge a fare of 3 cents in some sections of the country.

It is expected that the book will be issued some time next month, as it will be considered at the meeting of the Western Passenger association today, and it will be necessary to give a thirty-days' notice to the interstate commerce commission.

Duluth passenger men say it will be very convenient for commercial traveling men, as it will be uniform through a large territory. Other forms of passenger mileage in the two territories will be recalled when the new book is issued.

TWO RAILROAD MEN LOSE THEIR LIVES

Frank Graff Killed at Fargo, Henry Smith Perishes at Dilworth.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Graff, aged 30, a strikebreaker, was instantly killed here last evening in the local yards of the Northern Pacific.

A few hours after Henry W. Smith, a switch tender, was instantly killed in the Northern Pacific yards at Dilworth, Minn., three miles east of here.

Graff was walking between the tracks and in stepping to one side to avoid a train which was approaching he stepped directly into the path of another engine coming from his rear. He was hurled beneath Engine No. 1 and was crushed to death. He is a single man and came here from Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 29.

Smith was 50 years of age and was one of the oldest employes of the Northern Pacific at this point. He was cleaning a switch and was struck down by a switch engine.

OBITUARY

Rear Admiral William Turngall Burwell, U. S. N., retired, died at a hotel in Llanduno, Wales, Jan. 4.—Admiral Burwell was on leave of absence dating from Jan. 23 of last year. He had decided to make a trip through Europe before settling down in the United States. The admiral went to Wales for the Christmas season. He was taken suddenly ill last week and steadily grew worse until the end came. Mrs. Burwell will return to America with Admiral Burwell's body. William T. Burwell was born at Vicksburg, Miss., July 19, 1846. He was graduated at West Point in 1866 and became a rear admiral in 1896. He was commandant of the navy yard at Puget sound in 1905.

William Helme Moore, a lawyer and business man, widely known in financial and scholastic circles, died of pneumonia at his home in New York, Jan. 4. He was 85 years old. Mr. Moore was president of the Mutual Life Insurance company for a number of years. He was a trustee of Union college, from which he graduated in 1844, and for nine years was vice president of the Seamen's bank for savings.

Edward Moore Robinson of the banking firm of Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia, died Tuesday night at his home in Villa Nova, Pa., his death occurring just nine days after that of his wife. Mr. Robinson was also a member of the firm of Morgan, Harjes & Co. of Paris.

Henry C. Van Hovenberg of Eau Claire, Wis., died Monday afternoon. He had been ill and confined to his house for two years. He was one of the earliest settlers in Eau Claire, and was long actively identified with the business interests of the city and county. He was 78 years old last September. Mr. Van Hovenberg was born in Schenectady county, N. Y., and came West with his parents, settling in Green Lake county, Wis., in 1842. He removed to Eau Claire in 1856 and worked as carpenter and millwright, for some years, when he associated himself with Mr. Mills and started the Chippewa Valley News, afterwards changed to the Eau Claire News. Mr. Van Hovenberg was one of the originators of the old West side city government. He owned considerable property in the city and county.

Edward C. Babcock, since 1885 engaged in the mercantile business in Helena and Butte, Mont., and one of the pioneer merchants of Leadville, Colo., is dead at San Diego, Cal., aged 56 years. The body will be buried at the birthplace of the deceased, in Monmouth, Ill.

Dudley B. Finch, aged 57 years, one of the pioneer merchants of St. Paul, died suddenly at the home of Mrs. J. F. Fulton, where he and his wife had been living for a short time, at 11:15 o'clock Monday night, as the result of a sudden and acute attack of heart failure. Death came without any warning. Mr. Finch was talking with members of his family when the stroke came, and in the midst of a sentence he collapsed in his chair, and before aid could reach him he was dead. Mr. Finch seldom experienced illness till about a month ago, when he suffered an acute attack of indigestion. He recovered in a few days, and was able to leave the house again. Since then he had had no trouble. Mr. Finch is one of the three sons of the late Judge Sherman Finch of Ohio. He was born at Bellevue, Ohio, in 1853, and moved to St. Paul with his parents in the early '60s. The Finch family settled near Mankato, where Mr. Finch spent his boyhood days.

In 1869 Mr. Finch went to St. Paul and entered the wholesale dry goods house of Auerbach, Finch & Scheffer, predecessors of the present firm of Finch, Van Slyck & McConville. In 1875 he left the dry goods business and with C. A. Albrecht and O. P. Lanpher founded the firm of Lanpher, Albrecht & Co. He remained in this new firm until 1901, when he retired for a time. Three years later he became associated with L. W. French in the firm of French, Finch & Henry, wholesale dealers in boots and shoes. He remained in the business until 1907, when he retired from the business world. Since 1907 Mr. Finch has spent considerable time in traveling.

Mr. Finch is survived by a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Edward Holbert of St. Paul and Mrs. Sewell Andrews of Minneapolis. George R. Finch, of the firm of Finch, Van Slyck & McConville, is a brother of the deceased. The other brother, Sherman Finch, is living in the West.

DAHL IS AGAIN ARRESTED

Jail Sentence Did Not Improve His Treatment of His Family.

When Rudolph Dahl, 38 years old, a laborer, who resides at 19 South Sixtieth avenue west, was released from the county jail about a week ago after serving a 90-day sentence for non-support he did not mend his ways and last evening, he was arrested again for drunkenness, and this morning doled out the usual sentence for the common drunk in police court.

There is a peculiar and pathetic story in connection with the Dahl affair. At the Dahl home at West Duluth, the family of a wife and two children have a hard time to make both ends meet and an investigation by the authorities has shown that Dahl has been contributing very little toward their support for the past year.

About three months ago, he was arrested at the instigation of his wife, who claimed that her husband spent all of his earnings for liquor and did not provide anything for her support, and that of the children.

When Dahl's sentence had been half served, he was released on parole at the request of his wife, who believed that he would brace up and try to support the family again. Almost as soon as he had left the prison doors, he became intoxicated and came home to make things disagreeable for his wife and children.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

Series of Evangelist Meetings Will Be Held at Plymouth Church.

A series of evangelistic meetings during the winter, which will be of general interest in church circles in the city, has been planned by Rev. D. G. Cole, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Fifty-fourth avenue west and Bristol street.

If arrangements can be made, it is intended to have two of the most prominent evangelistic speakers in the Twin Cities here for a series of meetings. Among the men who are under consideration are Rev. W. B. Riley, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. H. P. Dewey, pastor of the Park Congregational church of Minneapolis.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Plymouth Congregational church, which was to have been held tomorrow evening, has been postponed until Jan. 20, when the annual supper will be served by the ladies of the church.

The trustees of the church did not meet last evening as was expected, but will hold a meeting at some later date. An attandant at the services of the church recently set in motion a fund for the relief of the worthy poor. This fund will be known as the parish fund. Mrs. L. P. Swangie and Rev. D. G. Cole have charge of it.

WILL HAVE HEARING IN JUSTICE COURT.

Mrs. Charles Brown of North Fifty-first avenue west, who was arrested yesterday morning, charged with cruelty to her stepson, will be given a trial tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the West Duluth justice court.

Humane Agent George B. Fifer is prosecuting the case.

COMMERCIAL CLUB WILL HOLD ANNUAL ELECTION.

The annual election of officers of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held Friday evening.

There is not much interest taken in the outcome of the election, and it is probable that the old officers will be re-elected. The meeting will be followed by a social session and smoker.

With the Curlers.

Only one game was played last evening at the curling rink, in which Itis defeated Evered, 11 to 10. Itis will play McAuley this evening for representation in the Manley-McLennan event.

Tonight it is expected that play will begin for the West Duluth Commercial club trophy. Three games have been scheduled, Olson vs. Holland, Miller vs. Clark and Wade vs. Method.

Joint Installation.

An installation of the officers of Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians, will be held jointly with the ladies' auxiliary, tomorrow evening. On account of the death of Joseph Connelly, a member of the order, the affair will be for members only. The Hibernian officers to be installed follow: Philbert Morin, president; Thomas Godfrey, vice president; Rev. D. W. Lynch, pastor of St. James' Catholic church, chaplain; John Caslin, recording secretary; P. H. McGraw, treasurer; James Connelly, financial and insurance secretary; Dr. C. H. Payette, physician; Nicholas Collins, marshal; William B. Godfrey, sergeant-at-arms; Axel Morrow, sentinel.

CLAIMS LAW WAS IGNORED

State Examiner Accuses Two Officers of Red Lake County.

Malfeasance in Office Is Laid to Lindquist and Latendresse.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Red Lake county seat fight broke out in a new spot today when Public Examiner Anton Schaefer preferred charges of malfeasance in office against C. A. Lindquist and A. A. Latendresse, commissioner and auditor, respectively, of Red Lake county.

The charges were filed with Governor A. O. Eberhart, and immediately on their receipt the executive named Peter Matson of Ada to take testimony. Mr. Matson is a former law partner of J. O. Preus, the executive clerk.

The charges made against Lindquist, who is chairman of the board of county commissioners, is that he put and declared carried a motion transferring $35,000 from the county ditch fund to the county revenue fund, and the he approved the payment from the same fun dof money for the purchase of a site for a new courthouse.

Says Law Was Violated.

The law says the full board shall concur in such actions, and Mr. Schaefer declares that only three commissioners voted in te affirmative.

The charge against the county auditor is that he made record of their illegal acts and gave sanction to them to the extent of making the transfer complained of, and also paid the warrants authorized by the board.

The fight for the county seat between Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls has been on for years.

LAND OFFICE BUSINESS DULL

Receipts for the Last Quarter of 1909 Show Falling Off.

The report of the Duluth United States land office for the last three months of 1909 shows an increase of about $10,000 in the receipts over the preceding quarter of the year, and a falling off from the corresponding quarter of 1908. The receipts during the last quarter of 1909 were $65,261.42 against $108,856.43 in the corresponding quarter of 1908.

The receipts of the quarter just closed are divided as follows: Fees and commissions, $3,877.40; sale of public lands, $58,835.75; sale of Chippewa lands, $2,548.27. During the month of December the office collected $22,644.17, divided as follows: Fees and commissions, $1,043.24; sale of public lands, $20,153.86; sale of Chippewa lands, $1,447.07.

The falling off of receipts during the year 1909 is attributed largely to the change in the laws regulating the taking up of timber and stone claims, as there has been a decided falling off in the business of the office in that branch since the ruling establishing an appraisal system of paying for timber and stone claims, replacing the system under which a flat rate was paid.

CARNIVAL QUEEN GIVEN DIVORCE

Mrs. Ida S. M. Erickson has been granted a divorce from her husband, Albert E. Erickson, a Spanish war veteran, at Seattle. Both are former residents of Duluth. Mr. Erickson having been at one time employed at a bakery here. Mrs. Erickson was queen of the carnival here in 1903. They were married at Carlton July 16, 1904.

Mrs. Erickson secured the divorce on the grounds of desertion and non-support. The decree carried with it an allowance of $50 a month alimony.

Mrs. Erickson attributes her domestic troubles to Victor Erickson, a brother of her husband, who, she says, has made much trouble in the family. Two brothers of Erickson were also divorced from their wives, and she says that Victor was the cause of their troubles, also.

OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED.

President Lynch of National League Attends Meeting of Commission.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Thomas J. Lynch, new president of the National Baseball league, appeared for the first time as a member of the supreme court of baseball at the annual meeting of the National commission here today. During the meeting all the officers were re-elected. The annual report of August Herrmann, chairman of the commission, was read. Tonight President Lynch will be the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. Herrmann and President Johnson of the American league. Thirty others have been invited.

MORSE PETITIONS ARE CIRCULATED IN MAINE.

Portland, Me., Jan. 5.—Petitions addressed to President Taft, asking for the absolute pardon of Charles W. Morse, who upon Monday began his sentence of fifteen years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., are in circulation in this city. The petitions set forth that he did no intentional wrong; that he has repaid his debts; that the jury which found him guilty was largely influenced by popular clamor, and that, even though guilty, Morse already has paid the penalty by the term of imprisonment he has served while waiting for the outcome of the case.

APPEAL DISMISSED IN MISSOURI RATE CASE.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 5.—The appeal from the injunction of Federal Judge McPherson, restraining Governor Hadley, Circuit Attorney Jones and Circuit Judge Williams from interfering in the railroad rate cases, was dismissed in the United States circuit court of appeals today. No reason was given for the dismissal by the state's attorney.

CAPTAIN AND MATE BLAMED

Inspectors Decide in Case of Sinking of Steamer Richardson.

E. J. Burke's License is Revoked and Robinson's Is Suspended.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Blame for the foundering of the steamer W. C. Richardson in Lake Erie, Dec. 8, and the loss of five members of the crew, has been placed upon the captain and first mate by the local steamboat inspectors.

The license of Chief Mate Robinson is suspended for one year, and the license of Capt. Enos J. Burke is revoked.

The decision of Frederick L. R. Pope and William P. Nolan, the inspectors, was announced today, as a result of evidence said to show that the steamer was undermanned and that the crew was inexperienced.

FLAX JUMPS 7 CENTS, BUT DECLINES AT CLOSE

The May Option Sells at $2.22 in the Duluth Market.

Wheat Is Lower, Reacting on Some Profit-Taking Sales.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 5.—Flax again broke all records today when May option hit $2.22, 7c up from yesterday's close and today's opening. Profit taking caused prices to tumble, and the option closed at $2.17. Wheat was softer, due to profit taking on the bulge of the last two or three days. May sold up to $1.14½ after opening at $1.14¼ and closed at $1.13½b.

The demand in flax from Minneapolis crushers and Argentine cables, combined with a short interest which has been more manifest in the last two or three days than for many weeks, have resulted in top-notch prices. Minneapolis bought flax in the local market, and there was some acquisition by shorts. Several long lines were slightly liquidated at $2.22 and on a scale down, causing a softer tone toward the close. Eastern crushers were not in the market to a noticeable extent.

The crux of the future situation lies in the country supplies. Whether or not the farmer is profiting by the current high prices can be determined later with more accuracy than now. That all of the flax supplies in the Northwest will be quickly absorbed is available, there is no doubt. The perplexing question is whether or not the farmer will hold for still higher prices. Another factor of doubt is whether the farmer has sufficient supplies to dictate to the market. This year the agriculturalist has not released his supplies on a scale downward from high prices, but has held on with unprecedented tenacity. Minneapolis is still paying about 3c over Duluth, a condition which has a tendency to divert shipments to that market.

Crushers are not apt to dicker about prices, neither are they greatly concerned in the long run whether prices are high or low, as the consumer foots the bill. So long as the public pays the price for oil and the foreigner buys the cake, the manufacturer is not liable to bother himself about the values of the raw material, not if he continues make what he considers a proper profit.

Receipts in the Northwest have not been of a nature to weaken the cash position. In the local market cash is selling on the same basis as May and in Chicago it is 1⅞@1⅝c over. The cash demand is good. Current arrivals of wheat in the Northwest comprise grain that has been sold to arrive. Nearly all shipments from interior points have already been placed. When this is out of the way the status of receipts will depend to a larger extent upon the co-operative ability of the farmers to hold their supplies, which is undoubtedly large. Stocks in Duluth increased 113,000 bu in the last three days, supplies aggregating 2,001,000 bu. In Minneapolis stocks have increased 225,000 bu in four days.

Cables were higher today on the firmer position of American markets yesterday and further news of a disappointing nature from Argentina. The Argentine cables today contained no new information, being of a confirmatory nature. Le Count cabled an estimate of 90,000,000 bu as the exportable surplus. These estimates arrive with daily regularity and the market is now inclined to regard them with a considerable degree of lightness. Methods of collecting crop statistics in Argentina are even more haphazard than in the United States and other countries where the system is capable of considerable improvement. That all of the Argentine estimates have fallen short of the average exportable surplus is significant, regardless of the wide discrepancies between the figures issued.

Manitobas occupy a strong position and the foreign demand is gradually cleaning up available offerings. While on the subject of Canadian grain it may not be amiss to refer to the proposed ordinance now pending before the city council granting the Canadian Northern a franchise. The city insists that Duluth shall not be discriminated against with regard to freight rates and that it shall be placed at least on an equal footing with other cities. This can be interpreted to apply particularly to grain rates from Canada to Duluth and to Fort William and Port Arthur. The average haul to Duluth will be shorter than to the twin Canadian ports which will mean the placing of grain on the lakes with a minimum railroad haul by way of Duluth. Rates being equal Duluth should be in a position to handle a greatly increased tonnage of bonded grains.

From a pit standpoint the wheat market is similar to that at this time last year. Stocks of contract wheat are less than supplies a year ago and are closely held by bull interests. So long as the grain is held and there are no hedging sales the pit is subject to overselling by the bears frequently, which is conducive to sharp rallies, as the greater part of the sales seem to be short wheat. Last year the principal holders of May stood pat and permitted the pit to sell the market, knowing that there was no hedging and no surplus stock, and that the short seller who was offering what he did not own, would have to recover it eventually.

The position of cash wheat was made firmer today by the storm of last night which cut down country receipts and caused the mills to seek cash with more eagerness than if receipts had been larger. The decline in May placed that option and cash on a par.

Cash durum at the close was ¾c off; oats closed ½c up; rye closed unchanged and barley 1c up. Cash wheat closed at the same price as May.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 109 cars against 13 cars last year and at Minneapolis, 279 cars against 112 cars last year, a total of 388 cars for the Northwest compared with 125 cars last year. Chicago received 56 cars against 4 cars last year and Winnipeg 100 cars, compared with 20 cars last year. Kansas City received 49 cars against 41 cars last year and shipped 70 cars. St. Louis received 54,000 bu against 25,000 bu last year and shipped 108,000 bu against 45,000 bu last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 606,000 bu; last year, 304,000 bu; shipments, 239,000 bu; last year, 137,000 bu; clearances, 210,000 bu; oats, 600 bu; flour, 3,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 224,000 bu.

Primary receipts of corn were 982,000 bu; last year, 583,000 bu; shipments, 339,000 bu; last year, 400,000 bu; clearances, 119,000 bu.

Broomhall wired—"The wheat market at the start displayed a firm undertone, with values ½d higher, being influenced by the firmness in America and the further advance in Argentine futures. Following the opening, May future advanced ¼d, with offerings light. During the morning there was some pressure as a result of a pause in the demand for both cargoes and parcels and larger Australian offers. The market appears overbought. At midday the undertone was easier and prices ½d lower than the opening and unchanged to ¼d higher than yesterday. The undertone to corn was easier, with prices unchanged. The strength in America was offset by the slow consumptive demand. The Buenos Ayres market at the close yesterday was firm and 5/8@1c higher than the opening."

Broomhall's world's crop wheat estimate is 400,000,000 bu over last year and 280,000,000 over any previous year.

Bartlett-Patten wired—"Cables on wheat unchanged to ¼d higher and on corn unchanged. The cash demand for wheat has fallen off materially. We do not see nothing to cause further advance. General sentiment remains bullish."

Finely, Barrell & Co wired—Wheat: Failure of Liverpool to respond to our advance of yesterday and fact that conservatives are not disposed to follow the advance, which has been quite rapid of late, will doubtless result in some reaction. Sentiment, however, will continue to be influenced mere by possibilities than facts."

Chicago wired — Twenty loads of wheat were worked for export today.

Australian shipments this week were 200,000 bu, as compared with 464,000 bu last week and 320 bu last year.

Paris wheat closed ¾@1¼c higher; flour 1c higher. Antwerp wheat closed 1¼c higher. Berlin wheat closed 1½c higher. Budapest wheat closed ¾c higher. Liverpool wheat closed ¼d higher; corn unchanged to ¼d higher. Liverpool wheat opened ½@¾d higher; corn unchanged to ⅛d higher.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Lessened Demand for Cash Wheat Weakens Options in That Grain.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Responsive to a decreased demand for cash wheat, yesterday's strength of the leading grain vanished in the early trading today, the decline ranging from ½c to ¼@½c in the different futures. General commission selling freely participated in by prominent longs overcame underlying bullish sentiment. Foreign cables telling of easier condition in Liverpool, in spite of continued reports of a decreased estimate of the Argentine crop had a bearish effect here. The major part of the buying was credited to elevator interests. May wheat opened ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c lower at $1.14⅜@1.14; and kept practically within the opening range through the first hour of trading.

A rally in the morning brought the price of May wheat to $1.14⅝, a shade above yesterday's close. The slight advance was followed by a sharp drop to ¼c below yesterday's closing figures for the nearby futures. May closed ¾@⅞c lower than yesterday's closing, at $1.13⅜.

Strong demand for cash corn at the opening kept the market from yielding to the break in wheat. The range on the different futures was a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher. May opened ⅛@¼c higher to a shade lower than yesterday's close, at 67½@67¼c. There was a slight falling off in the first hour.

Good commission house buying gave strength to the corn market after the easy opening. May sold up to 67⅝@67¾c and closed a shade lower than yesterday's final figures at 67¼c.

Oats were steady early. Opening prices were unchanged in all the futures. May started at 46½c. Prices remained in a narrow range the first hour.

Continued light receipts of live hogs held provisions firm, prices varying from 26c to 27½c higher in the anuary products. May pork showed the only decline opening 2½c higher to 7½c lower than yesterday's final figures. Opening prices in the anuary products were: Pork, $21.85; lard, $12.80; ribs, $11.60.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Liverpool's Failure to Advance Takes Strength From Wheat.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 5.—The failure of the Liverpool wheat market to respond to the strength of American markets yesterday made May open ⅜@½c lower than yesterday's close. Early there was a decline of ⅜c, and then the market advanced to the high point. During the latter part of the session profit-taking made wheat decline and May closed exactly 1c lower than yesterday. Local elevator stocks increased 225,000 bushels for four days. Minneapolis today received 279 cars of wheat, as compared with 112 cars a year ago. Duluth, 109 cars, against 13, and Winnipeg, 100 cars, against 22 cars. May opened at $1.13¼; high, $1.14⅛@1.14¼; low, $1.13¼@1.13¾; close, $1.13⅞@1.14; July opened at $1.13¾; high, $1.13⅝; low, $1.12⅝; close, $1.12⅝.

Cash wheat was steady with yesterday. Demand was strong and offerings fairly liberal. No. 1 northern sold for 1@2c above the May option and No. 2 northern for 1c under to the even May price. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.14@1.15; to arrive, $1.11@1.15; No. 2 northern, $1.12@1.13; No. 3 wheat, $1.10@1.12. Corn—No. 3 yellow, 58¾@59¾c. Oats—No. 3 white, 43⅞c. Rye—No. 2, 74½@75¾c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,791 tons; prices were advanced today on account of the continued strong demand. Shipments showed an increase. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $22@22.50. The flour market was steady today. Demand continued only fair at the best prices and shipments showed a falling off. Shipments, 57,681 bbls. First patents, in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.60@5.80; second patents, $5.40@5.60; first clears, $4.35@4.55; second clears, $3.30@3.60.

Flax—Receipts, 12 cars; year ago, 10; shipments, 4. New high prices were reached again today. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 2c above the Duluth May option. Offerings were light. Closing prices, $2.18⅝.

Barley—Receipts, 28 cars; year ago, 33; shipments, 38. Demand was strong for all grades, especially choice feeding barley. Prices were steady to 1c higher. Offerings were light. Closing range, 59@66c.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Slump in Rock Island Was Chief Feature of Session.

Prices Touched Lowest of the Day in the Final Hour.

New York, Jan. 5.—Prices of stocks were higher for the most part at the opening of the stock market today, but there was a sprinkling of declines including Rock Island, which fell a point. Louisville & Nashville advanced 1¾, Missouri Pacific, Erie first preferred and Granby Mining 1 and Norfolk & Western, Erie, Kansas & Texas and Colorado & Southern large fractions.

The market was weak with the exception of a slight rally, which was not held long. Rock Island, the Harriman stocks and the copper stocks were the specially weak spots. Rock Island dropped 3¾, the preferred 2½, Pittsburg coal preferred 1⅝ and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, American Smelting, Anaconda, Amalgamated Copper, Utah Copper, Northwestern and Consolidated Gas 1. Erie, Illinois Central and Southern Railway preferred advanced a point.

The indiscriminate unloading of Rock Island had a disturbing effect. When that subsided the break in Amalgamated Copper unsettled the market. Rock Island declined 4¾, the preferred 3¼. Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper, 2; International Harvester, 1½; American Linseed, preferred, 1⅝, and Atchison, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, preferred, American Sugar, National Lead, Pacific Mail and Railway Steel Spring, 1. Bonds were irregular.

The market closed weak at the lowest. Prices touched the lowest of the day in the final hour when Rock Island's decline reached 7¼. Lackawanna sold at a decline of 20, Union Pacific and Pittsburg Coal preferred, 3¾; Reading and Wabash preferred, 3; American Smelting, 2⅝; American Linseed preferred, 2⅜; Wabash, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, United States Steel, Anaconda, Railway Steel Spring and Pacific Mail, 2. The rally from covering by room shorts was ineffective.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 5.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 5@18 points on the continued weakness in Liverpool and aggressive selling by local bears, as well as further scattering liquidation. There was a big demand, however, from Wall street, and from Western and Southern bulls, at the decline to 16.05 for May. As a result prices during the middle of the morning rallied 6 or 7 points from the lowest.

Spot closed quiet, 10 points lower; middling uplands, 15.80; middling gulf, 16.05; no sales. Futures closed weak. Closing bids: January, 15.52; February, no sales; March, 15.40; April, 15.48; May, 15.60; June, 15.61; July, 15.57; August, 15.22; September, 14.00; October, 13.40; December, 13.10.

CLAIRVOYANTS.

FRANCIS GIRARD, CLAIRVOYANT and palmist, startles Duluth with his strange powers which enable him to read human life truthfully from infancy to old age. His powers are wonderful, indisputable. His advice is reliable, his information clear, conscientious and to the point in business, speculation, stocks, wills, patents, journeys, absent friends and relatives. Domestic and love affairs made clear. He has had greater success than any clairvoyant that has ever been in Duluth. Special by mail, six questions answered. Send date of birth and $1. 10 East Superior street, upstairs, next to Bijou theater.

CLAIRVOYANT — MADAME MELLIE, the noted Egyptian palmist, tells past, present and future from birth up; gives names of friends or enemies; what business you are best adapted for. She tells you the exact questions on your mind. When and whom you will marry, the name, day and hour; settles and explains love affairs, and family troubles; unites the separated, etc. Why not see the best? Costs no more. Satisfaction guaranteed or no charge. 26 Fourth avenue west.

CLAIRVOYANT — MADAME VONGER, the noted Hindoo clairvoyant and palmist, is now located at No. 20 West Superior street. This lady can be safely depended on to read your entire life, past, present and future. No matter what your hopes, fears or wishes may be concerning business, love, law, health or family troubles, she is sure to point a way to overcome your difficulties and obtain your desires. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed or no pay accepted. She possesses all the marvelous arts and sciences known only to the people of the Orient. A reading by her will meet your every wish and hope.

PICTURE FRAMING.

GUSTAVE HENNECKE, 211 E. SUP. ST.

FULTON TOLD NAPOLEON HE COULD BUILD A STEAMBOAT.

Napoleon didn't believe it. By refusing to investigate, Bonaparte failed to realized the greatest ambition of his life, the invasion of England.

To every young man who can qualify, the United States navy offers a chance; a chance to see some of the United States, maybe foreign countries; a chance to become strong, erect, athletic; a chance to save money, as most of his expenses are paid; a chance for promotion to rank of officer; perhaps a chance to learn a trade, but a sure chance to learn by travel, study and high-class associates; and should he wish to leave the navy he will be in fine training for life's fight.

By refusing to believe it, by refusing to investigate, you, like Bonaparte, may fail to realize your greatest ambition, the ambition to win success.

The navy department doesn't urge any young man to become a bluejacket. It only urges him to investigate navy opportunities.

Will you refuse to investigate or will you talk it over with a recruiting officer today? You will find him obliging and glad to tell you everything. Ask him all the questions you wish. That's what he is there for. Should you decide not to enlist you will have done no harm.

If you can't call, write the recruiting office for an interesting free book which tells all about pay, play, work in the navy.

Call or write, Navy Recruiting Station, Room 16, Postoffice building, Duluth, Minn.

ASSESSMENT FOR LOCAL IMPROVEMENT.
Office of the
BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.
City of Duluth, Minn., Jan. 3, 1910.

Notice is hereby given, That the Board of Public Works of the city of Duluth has completed its assessment for construction of cement or tile sidewalks in said city west of east line of Twelfth avenue west and that at Ten o'clock A. M., on the Twenty-first day of January, A. D. 1910, said Board of Public Works will attend at the office of said Board in the City Hall building for the purpose of hearing objections thereto; that all objections made to said assessment must be filed in writing with said Board at least one day prior to the time above specified, and that unless sufficient cause is shown to the contrary, the said assessment so made as aforesaid will be confirmed.

Notice is hereby further given that the following is a copy of said assessment roll so completed as aforesaid:

ASSESSMENT ROLL.

The Board of Public Works of the City of Duluth doth hereby assess and levy upon and against the several lots, parts of lots and parcels of land below described, the respective sums of money set opposite each lot, part of lot, or parcel of land. The assessment is levied to defray in full the expense of constructing cement sidewalks in the streets, avenues and alleys hereinafter mentioned, according to benefits:

STATE OF MINNESOTA, COUNTY OF ST. LOUIS.—ss.

H. E. Smith and William O. Pealer each being duly sworn do certify under oath that at a special meeting of stockholders of the Mesabi Exploration Company duly called for that purpose and held at the company's offices in the Palladio Building in the city of Duluth, Minnesota, on the 27th day of December, 1909, the Articles of Incorporation of said company were amended by the adoption of an affirmative vote of stockholders holding a majority amount of the stock of said corporation by the following resolution:

RESOLVED, That the articles of incorporation of Mesabi Exploration Company herewith amended to General Exploration Company, be further amended by striking out all of Article Four thereof and by inserting in lieu thereof the following:

Article Four: The capital stock of said corporation shall be One Hundred Thousand Dollars ($100,000) and it shall consist of one thousand (1000) shares, each of which shall be of the face or par value of one hundred dollars ($100). Five hundred (500) shares of said capital stock shall be known as common stock, and five hundred (500) shares thereof shall be known as preferred stock until the preferred stock shall be taken up as hereinafter provided. No dividend shall be paid on common stock until dividends have been paid on the preferred stock to the amount of the face thereof with interest on the investment at the rate of 7 per cent per annum, after which the preferred stock shall be surrendered to the corporation and shall be cancelled and retired, and the corporation shall issue to the holders of such retired stock and in lieu thereof and without further payment or expense, a corresponding number of shares of common stock.

RESOLVED FURTHER, That the President and Secretary of this corporation be and are hereby directed to execute the necessary certificate of amendment in duplicate and cause same to be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota and in the office of the Register of Deeds of St. Louis County, Minnesota, and cause same to be published according to law to the end that said amendment shall be rendered effectual.

H. E. SMITH, President.
WILLIAM O. PEALER, Secretary.

SEVEN PERISH IN BLIZZARD ALONG SOO IN MANITOBA

Small Boy Who Gave His Life to Save Sisters Is Among the Dead.

Body Is Found in Haystack Beside Those of the Two He Saved.

One Man Dead of the Cold Is Found Beside Tracks at Owatonna.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 6.—With seven dead as a result of the blizzard which for the last few days has swept the country along the tracks of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie railroad in Manitoba, the most pathetic of all the incidents centers about a small boy, not more than a dozen years old, who gave his life that his sister might escape freezing to death.

The boy's name is not known, for the sisters, though found in time to save their lives, are still unable to talk enough to tell their names or where they lived.

Following are the known dead:

SHERIFF WHITEHEAD of Weyburn.

JOSEPH CLARK of Lang.

HILLBORN, homesteader, living south of Kolean.

LAWRENCE TREMBLEY of Estevan.

ANDREW COLEMAN.

CLEM BRADLEY, employed in the Darwin wood camp.

Found in Haystack.

Searchers in the country south of Yellow Grass found a haystack which looked as though somebody had burrowed into it, and they tore it to pieces. Inside the pile of hay they found the boy and the two girls. There was evidence that the little fellow had made the nest in the hay and had given his sisters the most sheltered places, and then had spent his own strength in rubbing the girls and even had taken off parts of his own wraps to make sure that they were protected from the cold. As a last resort he had lain down so that what little warmth there was left in his body served to keep them alive, and so that his body protected them as much as possible from the cold that penetrated the haystack by the openings which they had made in getting into the shelter.

One Death at Owatonna.

Owatonna, Minn., Jan. 6.—Joseph Phiek, a stonemason, living near this city, was found frozen to death beside the Chicago & Rock Island railway tracks today. It is thought he became confused and exhausted while on his way home during the severe storm of Tuesday night.

JOHN BULL KEEN AFTER SOUTH POLE

Capt. Scott's Expedition to the Antarctic Regions Now Is Assured.

London, Jan. 6.—The Scott expedition in search of the South Pole is now assured, the government having promised today $100,000 towards the $200,000 which is the estimated expense.

Heretofore the public subscriptions have hung fire, a total only of between $ 7,000 and $60,000 having been raised; but there will be no difficulty now in producing the balance. The expedition will set forth in July.

There is little doubt that the reported activity among the American Arctic explorers who advocate a South Polar expedition proved a convincing factor which determined the government to assist Capt. Herbert F. Scott.

EX-REBEL TO GIVE MEMORIAL TALK

Will Make Decoration Day Address at Harvard University.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—Maj. B. M. Harrod of this city, who was a Confederate soldier, has accepted an invitation to deliver the Memorial day address at Harvard university on May 30. In extending the invitation to Maj. Harrod, President Lowell of Harvard said:

"I feel sure you will appreciate my asking one who was in Harvard before the Civil war, and fought on the Southern side."

Maj. Harrod was formerly a member of the isthmian canal commission.

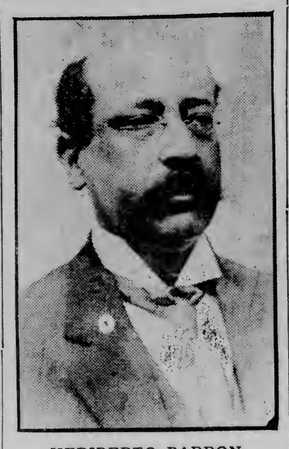

GUATEMALA TO BE PUT ON GOLD BASIS.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—The plans for the refinancing of Guatemala will soon be put into execution is the information received here by parties with Central American interests. It is stated that the Guatemalan government successfully concluded negotiations begun some months ago for a loan of $20,000,000 by a New York financial institution. The transaction, it is said, provides for the placing of Guatemala on a gold basis and the establishment of a central bank in Guatemala City.

Three Killed in Gas Explosion.

Jamestown, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Explosion of a gas oven in the Dahlstrom Metal Door company's plant today killed three men. A large section of the plant was wrecked.

OPPOSING DIAZ, BUT RUNS AWAY TO DO IT

HERIBERTO BARRON.

Heriberto Barron, member of the chamber of deputies of Mexico and editor and proprietor of El Progerso and La Republica, two newspaper published in the City of Mexico, was nominated some time ago by the Popular party to run for the presidency of Mexico. He recently fled to New York, because he asserted that if he stayed in Mexico he would be thrown in jail for darling to oppose President Diaz. He states that if his party attains sufficient strength within the next few months he will return to Mexico, no matter what risks he runs of being persecuted. Otherwise he will sell his property in Mexico and live in New York.

YOUNG NURSE SAVES LIVES

Gives Alarm in Hospital Threatened By Fire at 4 in the Morning.

Patients at Richmond, Va., Are Rushed Out Into Sleet and Rain.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 6.—Forty patients, terror-stricken, were hurriedly removed from a Virginia hospital through sleet and rain at 4 o'clock this morning while fire raged next door in the University College of Medicine. The college building, a three story brick structure was completely wrecked, causing $200,000 loss.

A 19-year-old nurse, Miss Bessie C. Arnold, proved herself a heroine. Discovering the flames in the dental department on the third floor of the college building, Miss Arnold gave the alarm, aroused all the doctors in the hospital and then began removing patients in nearby houses.

Through strenuous work on the part of the fire department, which had to contend with ice coated fire plugs and slippery streets, the hospital was saved, although for a time it was feared that the fire would spread to the hospital before all the patients could be removed.

ACKERT RESIGNS FROM SOUTHERN

Vice President and General Manager to Go to Another Railroad.

Washington, Jan. 6.—C. H. Ackert, vice president and general manager of the Southern railway, has tendered his resignation to take effect, Jan. 15, in order to accept an official position with another railroad company. It has been reported, but Mr. Ackert denied it, that he was to succeed T. P. Shonts as president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York city.

WISCONSIN MAN TAKEN UP BY CAPITOL POLICE.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The capitol police arrested Albert Ringer of Two Rivers, Wis., yesterday, while he was attempting to see Vice President Sherman at his office. Ringer is the young man who has been about Washington for more than a year seeking to obtain imaginary "rights" through Senator La Follette and the vice president, and has made a number of threats against both. His sanity will be inquired into by a lunacy board.

English Aviator Hurt.

Cannes, France, Jan. 6.—An Englishman named Meal, who was operating an aeroplane of the Bleriot type, fell with his machine from a height of thirty feet today. Meal was seriously injured and the aeroplane was ruined.

Patents for Minnesotans.

Washington, Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following patents were issued today: Elmer M. Johnson, St. Cloud, Minn., cuff holder; to Thomas T. Epley of Buhl, Minn., a switch-throwing apparatus.

MURDERED BY BLACK HAND

Chicago Man Is Killed for Refusing to Pay What Was Asked.

Three Masked Men Enter His House and Kick and Shoot Him.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Failing to comply with a demand for $5,000 contained in letters signed "The Black Hand," which he received through the mail some time ago, B. Sinene, 60 years old, an Italian merchant, was shot and instantly killed by three men this morning, while he lay asleep in the rear of his store. The assailants escaped before the police arrived.

As Sinene's wife cowered under a revolver held near her face by one of the three masked men who entered the house, her husband was thrown to the floor and fired at repeatedly. He was shot through the head and heart.

Since receiving the threatening letters, Sinene is said to have carried a revolver and slept with a shotgun, stiletto and revolver at his bedside. The masked men evidently knew of these precautions, as they threw him from his bed before he was awakened, thus putting the weapons out of his reach. Giving their victim a kick, the murderers ran out of the store, leaving Mrs. Sinene almost dead from fright.

MRS. DARLING DIES SUDDENLY

Founder of Daughters of the Revolution Succumbs to Apoplexy.

New York, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, founder of the Daughters of the Revolution, and United States Daughters of 1812, died suddenly today from apoplexy at the home of her brother, John Quincy Adams. Mrs. Darling will be buried at her birthplace, Lancaster, N. H. She was 70 years old.

FLEE FROM FLOOD; OUSTED BY FIRE.

People of Pennsylvania Village Suffer From Succeeding Disasters.

South Fork, Pa., Jan. 6.—The village of Gilestown, across the Conemaugh river from here, has practically been wiped out by flood and fire. Last night two bridges, connecting Gilestown and South Fork, were carried away by the ice and high water of the river. Today fire broke out, destroying a church, school, several stores and a number of houses. Loss, $50,000.

NO "CLUB" IS BEING USED

President Is Merely Holding Back Patronage "to Impress" Some Members.

"Mere Matter of Mutual Obligation" Is His View of Mooted Point.

Washington, Jan. 6.—While no formal statement has been made at the White House there is no attempt in administration circles to deny that President Taft is withholding certain customary congressional patronage from those "insurgent" senators and representatives who, the adherents of the president say, show no disposition to support the administration measures.

This is the latest development in the situation exposed by Representative Miller of Minnesota.

President Taft is reported as taking the attitude that, if any obligation rests upon him to give certain patronage to a representative of his party, there is a reciprocal obligation upon the representative to support the president.

A number of so-called "insurgents" have come out in interviews saying that they heartily agree with the president's legislative program, and asserting that instead of using the "whip" on them, the president should use it on those leaders who in the past opposed the Roosevelt policies which Mr. Taft is seeking to enact into law.

Does Not Concern Cannon.

On the part of the president it was said that the withholding of patronage does not apply to all of the insurgents, and has absolutely nothing to do with

TWO DIE FROM SEVERE BURNS

Can of Oil Explodes Mysteriously in Room of Pumping Station.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Philip Dolan and Michael O'Donnell were burned last night in an explosion of mysterious origin at the Lawndale pumping station, and died here this morning. The victims were within a few feet of some cans of oil, one of which exploded, shattering the south end of the boiler room. Flames ignited the clothing of Dolan and O'Donnell, burning them beyond recognition.

UNDERTAKER'S ROOMS PROVE POPULAR PLACE TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

Davenport, Iowa, Jan. 6.—Henry Rolfs, a farmer, walked into the Runge undertaking establishment, picked out a coffin, and going into the back yard, fired a bullet through his brain, dying instantly.

This is the second suicide in the same place within a year.

STRIPS COOK OF HONORS

Arctic Club Which He Founded Drops His Name From Its Rolls.

New Assailant of His Stories of Achievement Has Appeared.

New York, Jan. 6.—The Arctic Club of America—founded by Dr. Frederick A. Cook and his supporters in the North Pole controversy—through its board of directors, has dropped the name of the explorer from the roll of membership.

The action of the Arctic club directors last night was unanimous, and, following hard on the heels of the explorer's summary dismissal from the council of the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, two days ago, strips from the explorer almost every vestige of scientific honors, only the degree of doctor of philosophy, conferred by the University of Copenhagen, remaining.

The Arctic Club of America led in the welcoming festivities to Dr. Cook on his return from Greenland and Copenhagen. Later the club tendered Dr. Cook, a former president of the organization, a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria, while many of its individual members, including Admiral Schley and Capt. Osborn, warmly championed the cause of Cook when the latter's now discredited polar claim was challenged.

Brands Bear Story False.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 6.—A. D. Burton, an Alaskan prospector who has just arrived from the North and whom Dr. Frederick A. Cook, according to a magazine article published some time ago, alleged he rescued from a bear, says that the story was untrue.

"The year of Dr. Cook's last trip to Alaska I saw Edward Barrill at Seward, and as he was an old friend, I gave him a photograph of myself," said

BANK OF ENGLAND LOWERS ITS RATE

Minimum Discount Figure Is Placed at 4 Per Cent By Directors.

London, Jan. 6.—The directors of the Bank of England, at the regular weekly meeting, today, reduced the minimum rate of discount from 4½ to 4 per cent. This action was generally anticipated, and was due principally to the more plentiful money supply, as well as the fact that the open market discount rate was more than 1 per cent below the bank's minimum rate of 4½ per cent.

The market hardly anticipated a further reduction in the bank rate before April in view of the prospective new issues and the continued inquiry for gold for French and Indian account. The effect of the lower rate on the stock exchange was speedily discounted by the announcement of the early issue of a new Indian 2½ per cent loan amounting to $37,500,000, which will be offered at 96½. Indian stock and other gilt-edge securities eased off, and consols dropped to 82¼, a decline of ⅝, but recovered part of the loss later.

CUTTING OFF THE BRANCHES

COAL FAMINE IN IOWA IS SERIOUS; WINTER IN SOUTH

MAY BE SERIOUSLY INJURED BY TUMBLE

GEORGE C. PERKINS, Senator From California.

TWO HAVE BAD FALLS

Senator Perkins and Knox's Assistant Slip on Ice at the Capital.

Former Injures His Spine and Serious Consequences Are Feared.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Senator Perkins of California slipped on the icy sidewalk this morning in front of his hotel, and it is believed severely injured his spine. He was carried to his apartments where he was given prompt medical attention.

Senator Perkins had left his residence and was proceeding cautiously along the ice-glazed sidewalk when his feet shot from under him. He struck the ground with terrific force, and lay for several seconds in a semi-conscious condition. Passers-by rushed to his aid and he was quickly carried back to his apartments.

Dr. G. Lloyd Magruder said the senator had suffered a severe wrench of the spine in addition to painful bruises about the body. Senator Perkins has not enjoyed the best of health for some time, and because of the peculiar nature of the present injury his physician did not feel justified in stating how soon the senator would recover.

Knox's Assistant Hurt.

Huntington Wilson, assistant secretary of state, fell upon the icy pavement as he stepped from his automobile last night and cut his face so badly that he was taken to his home under a physician's care.

Mrs. Wilson sprang from the automobile at the sight of the secretary bleeding on the sidewalk, and she too fell beside her husband, but was uninjured.

The secretary has not been in the best of health lately and serious effects of the shock are feared.

GUGGENHEIMS WANT FAVORS

Government Guaranty of Bonds for Alaska Railroad Is Sought.

Washington, Jan. 6.—A scheme for a government guaranty for a through railroad project from tidewater to interior Alaska, in which the Guggenheim interests figure, looms back of a display of near-Arctic grain and vegetables that stacked the room of the house committee on territories today.

The Guggenheim mining interests have copper properties in the Copper river section, and until recently it has been claimed that they wanted no guaranty. Now a movement has been given new life looking to general legislation to guarantee the interest on the bonds of railroads built in Alaska after a certain amount of construction work has been completed. Its advocates claim that capital cannot be induced into the territory without government co-operation. The matter has not yet come before the committee.

The railroad project, with its proposed connections, contemplates tidewater outlet at Cordova, east of Valdez, the terminus to be at Fairbanks, not far from the Arctic circle, and the exhibit on the territories committee's table is intended to show what that section can produce and promise in the way of agricultural railroad business.

Governor Carroll Takes Special Action to Get Relief From Railroads.

Mercury Is at 18 Below Zero in Parts of Kansas---Coldest in Years.

Many Sections Suffer From Unusually Severe Weather and Storms.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 6.—Following a conference between Governor Carroll and Railroad Commissioner Ketcham in regard to the coal famine, which has become serious in Iowa cities and towns, telegrams were sent to the officials of every railroad entering Iowa, urging the necessity of the delivery of coal shipments. Unnecessary confiscation of coal was criticised. The railroads were hopelessly tied up yesterday by the heavy snowfall of the day before, but freights were moving slowly today.

Iowa Trains Halted.

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 6.—It was 17 deg. below zero here today, the coldest of the season.

When it became apparent Tuesday night that the snowfall would continue indefinitely, orders were issued by railroads throughout Iowa to suspend freight traffic. Efforts have been made to keep up passenger traffic, although trains on all lines are from five to nine hours late. At Marshalltown, where two feet of snow fell, even passenger service was annulled.

From all parts of Iowa reports state that there is a scarcity of coal and a fuel famine is staring Iowa in the face as a result. On account of the snow railroads have been unable to afford much relief.

Fear Fuel Famine.

Huron, S. D., Jan. 6.—Wolsey, Broadland, Yale and Virgil report no hard coal and very little fuel of any kind. Cavour, Wessington, Alpena and Hitchcock have only a small amount of soft coal and no other fuel. Huron dealers have a limited supply and are filling only small orders. The entire valley of the James river is under nearly two feet of snow, and with a stiff wind blowing there is danger of a complete blockade and a fuel famine.

Coal Shortage Felt.

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 6.—Owing to a coal famine, the Rock Island arsenal,

STRIKE HEARING IS ENDED

Mediators Have Final Conference With Perham at Washington.

Decide They Can Do Nothing More About Switchmen's Trouble.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Efforts to obtain an adjustment of the strike of switchmen on the railroads of the Northwest have been abandoned. Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission and Labor Commissioner Neill, the mediators, had a final conference with H. B. Perham today. It was determined that nothing further could be done to effect a settlement.

JOHN BURNS HAS FIGHT IN STREET

Labor Leader Is Attacked By Strange Man After a Meeting.

London, Jan. 6.—John Burns, president of the local government board and labor leader in the house of commons, had a smart mixup with an unidentified man as Mr. Burns was leaving a political meeting last night. The minister was about to enter his automobile when the unidentified man sprang upon Mr. Burns from behind and threw him to the ground. There was a lively struggle and exchange of blows until the police pulled the assailant away. In the excitement, the offender escaped.

INFAMOUS "CADET" SYSTEM FOLLOWED IN DULUTH

Straight Jail Sentence for Youth Arrested By the Police.

Fred Hagen got three months straight in the county jail from Judge Cutting this morning for living from the money earned by Esther Mack in the Rex hotel. He was refused the option of a fine.

Chief Troyer will take the matter up with the county attorney and will endeavor to have him indicted by the grand jury under the new state laws governing the white slave traffic. The statutes provide a state penitentiary sentence in cases of this kind and he can be prosecuted under them after he completes serving his time in he county jail.

The girl, who is just 18 years of age, told a sad story to the police. She claimed that Hagen brought her here from Bayfield, Wis., in company with another couple. They took rooms in the Rex hotel and Hagen went to work. While there, the other woman took all her clothes and what money she had and left, she thinks, for Bemidji.

Shortly afterwards she was taken sick and sent to the St. Luke's hospital, where she remained until Nov. 28. When she was discharged, Hagen either lost or quit his job. Since then he has done nothing. Although weak and sickly, the girl has been making enough money by immoral means to keep both of them. She has paid the room rent, bought him his meals, and given him spending money, according to her story.

This morning she told the police matron that until the time she came to Duluth, she had led a straightforward life. She claims that she wants to go to a hospital again. The matron assured her that if she wants to earn her living by working she will help her to get located.

There are believed to be other so called "cadets" plying their vocation in Duluth.

"OH! IF I ONLY HADN'T DONE IT," MOANS MIKE ROSSI

Mike Rossi is preparing for death.

Each day many hours are spent on his knees at the county jail, in prayer.

Sometimes he prays aloud and at other times to himself.

He reads no other book than the Bible. That book is now well worn, as it is in constant use.

He has given up all hope. Even the plans for an appeal have failed to cheer him. He sits with his head in his hands nearly all the day and never speaks unless spoken to. Then it is either "yes" or "no." He cultivates no friends at the jail and prefers to be by himself most of the time. It is with difficulty he is aroused and the jailors think that the man may lose his mind.

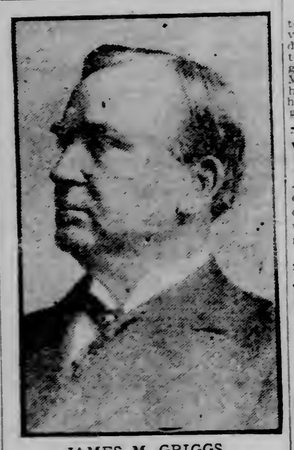

The other prisoners try to cheer him up, saying that many things can happen to save his life. His answer is always the same, "What's the use?"

He now seems to realize the extent of his crime and he is full of remorse. "Oh, if I only hadn't done it," is what he says over and over again, to himself, as he sits in the darkened cell and looks out over the playground of the boys of the neighborhood.

Rossi had hope up until the moment the sentence was pronounced. When that was over he lost his nerve and is now trying to raise himself from the depths of his despair by constant prayer and the reading of the Holy Book.

OBITUARY

Representative James M. Griggs of the Second Georgia district died suddenly of apoplexy at his home in Dawson, Ga., Jan. 5. He was in bed at the time, apparently convalescent from a slight attack of heart trouble. Congressman Griggs left Washington, Dec. 17, to go home for the Christmas holidays. Wednesday, he complained of not feeling well and went to bed immediately upon the advice of his local physician.

Re-elected to the session of congress which met only a month ago, Mr. Griggs had served as a member of six previous sessions of the national legislative body. As a member of the ways and means committee Mr. Griggs was especially active during the special session of congress which last year passed the new tariff bill.

Hal L. Roundtree, 65 years old, wealthy coal dealer and brother-in-law of F. C. Dillard of Chicago, counsel for the Hardiman lines, dropped dead on the street in St. Louis Wednesday night from apoplexy.

Prof. Samuel S. Sanford, long the head of the music department of Yale university, died at his home in New York, Jan. 6. He had been in poor health for several years.

SAYS TAFT IS CANNON'S ALLY

Norris of Nebraska Declares President Is Attacking Speaker's Enemies.

Washington, Jan. 6.—In an interview today Representative Norris of Nebraska charged the president with singling out the house enemies of Speaker Cannon for punishment by withholding patronage, and declaring that they would not be intimidated into silence by any commination between the president and the speaker.

"Speaker Cannon called at the White House today and had a few minutes' talk with President Taft. After some coaxing on the way out, the speaker made a few remarks concerning the doctrine of party regularity.

"My test of regularity in politics, church, finance, or family," he said, "is co-operation, harmony. I am a great believer in caucus—the wicked caucus. Get together and fight out the differences there, and if you are licked, come back and fight again. We can't all have our way in this world. We do not have our way, no matter how big or high we may be. The manly man gives and takes, fights or yields as he thinks best for his cause.

Says It Is "Chestnutty."

"I haven't much patience in these men who are wiser than all the other fellows put together and whose views are unchangeable. I always feel that a man of that sort has no business in organization. If he can't fight it out in party ranks and yield if he is beaten, then he had better get out and join the enemy, or better still form an organization of his own.

"But all this is chestnutty, boys," continued the speaker, "the worst sort of chestnuts. Moreover, I want it understood that I did not mention this subject to the president or he to me. I am not trying to run his business."

Came Near Choking to Death.

A little boy, the son of Chris D. Peterson, a well-known resident of the village of Jacksonville, Iowa, had a sudden and violent attack of croup. Much thick, stringy phlegm came up after giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Peterson says: "I think he would have choked to death had we not given him this remedy." For sale by all druggists.

WILL OUTLINE SCHOOL POLICY

Officers of County Districts Will Gather in Duluth.

The county school officers will meet in Duluth in annual convention Jan. 19. The meeting will continue but one day, and will take place in the rooms of the Duluth Commercial club. The call for the meeting has been issued by S. W. Gilpin, county superintendent of schools. It is expected that at least one director from each district will be present.

The annual meeting is for the purpose of instructing the directors and others connected with the schools in the Minnesota school laws. School matters will be gone over and the general policy of the county schools outlined by the county superintendent. The program for the convention has not as yet been issued.

On the evening of Jan. 18 the Commercial club will entertain the delegates.

C. G. Schulz of St. Paul, superintendent of public instruction, has been invited to attend.

CANDIDATES IN GUMSHOES

Municipal Campaign Is Attracting Little Attention From Voters.

Although the general election is scarcely three weeks away, the general public is not hearing anything about it. There appears to be absolutely "nothing doing." The mayoralty and ward candidates are doing some gum shoeing, but no strenuous campaigns are being conducted.

Two more days remain for registration. Jan. 18 and Jan. 22, and at that time the aspirants for office will hustle to get the vote out, for upon this depends much of their success. About one-third of the city vote registered at the primaries, but about 8,000 are still unregistered, and unless they get their names on the poll books one of the two registration days, they cannot vote at the general election Feb. 1.

BELTRAMI FAIR NEXT SEPTEMBER

Agricultural Association Elects Officers and Discusses Plans.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fifth annual fair of the Beltrami County Agricultural association will be held in Bemidji, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 14, 15 and 16. These dates have been set by the association at its meeting held Tuesday night when officers were elected and other important business transacted.

W. G. Schroeder, who presided as president of the association during 1909, stated that he did not desire to serve as an officer of the association during 1910, because he was a member of the Beltrami county board of commissioners.

The following were elected officers of the association: President, A. P. White, Beltrami; vice president, L. H. Townsend, Blackduck; treasurer, R. H. Schumaker, Bemidji; secretary, W. R. Mackenzie, Liberty township; board of directors, the above-named officers and A. G. Rutledge, W. Knox, J. P. Pogue, Dr. Rowland Rutledge, A. H. Jester and August Jacobow, Bemidji; L. F. Parker, Charles Trondsen, Blackduck; Charles Gustafson, Tenstrike, J. G. Morrison, Red Lake Agency, Thomas Moorman, Kelliher, J. Jerome, Arne Solberg, Andrew Johnson, Battle River township; F. D. Sibley, Island Lake; A. G. Gilbertson, Bagley township; C. F. Schroeder, Grant Valley township; Nils Sorenson, Jones township, Chris Rogers, Shotley township, Herman Eikstadt, Frohn township.

In Good Financial Shape.

Secretary Mackenzie reported that the association owed some $500 and that there was about $600 due the association from the state for premiums paid at the fair of 1909.

Mr. Mackenzie and A. G. Rutledge were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Fair association, which will be held in St. Paul next week.

W. R. Mackenzie, A. G. Rutledge and C. F. Schroeder were appointed a committee to prepare the premium list.

It is the intention this year to make the premium list even more liberal than that of last year and, among other matters, to so arrange the premiums for potatoes that so many different varieties will not be listed or exhibited at the fair, which is considered to be the best thing for the potato growers of this county.

NEW CLASSES

Joint Bemidji Installation.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters held a joint installation Tuesday evening.

J. Walker, deputy grand chancellor, was installing officer for the Knights of Pythias, while Mrs. George Rhea, deputy grand chief, installed the officers of the Pythian Sisters.

A lunch was served and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Andrew Larson is the new chancellor commander for the Knights of Pythias lodge, while Mrs. Larson is most excellent chief of the Pythian Sisters.

RAILROADS SAYS CRISIS HAS PASSED

Lehigh Representative Believes Roads Are Little Affected By Strike.

Dull Period of Year in Freight Traffic Is Now at Hand.

W. H. Stephenson, freight representative of the Lehigh Valley Railway company, has some interesting facts to give in connection with the strike situation in the Twin Cities. As the information given by Mr. Stephenson was obtained from the highest officials of the Great Northern at St. Paul, it may be taken as representing the situation in the Twin City yards.

"Every big railroad in the country maintains a scientific chart of the varying business of the different periods of the year," said Mr. Stephenson. "A rough idea of this chart may be obtained in this way. The greatest volume of business will be shown just before the holidays. Then the line on the chart, indicating the progress of the business of the railroads, drops down toward the figures indicating very low traffic receipts.

"Beginning with March or April the line of the railroad progress will be moved to the top of the chart again, indicating a return of normal business. The line on the charts runs up and down, like the mercury in a thermometer, indicating the dull and prosperous times of the traffic year.

"The point of the explanation I have been giving, is that right at the present time the chart will show a very dull time in the business of the railroads. For this reason the railroads are handling the strike situation with little difficulty in the Twin Cities and are making progress in getting additional men to take the places of the striking switchmen.

"In St. Paul and Minneapolis the railroad companies are gradually weeding out the green and incompetent men they were forced to hire when the strike was called, and are getting men that are thoroughly able to do the work of the strikers. One of the reasons that the railroads here are getting more men, is that business is light on railroads throughout the country at the present time, and some of the roads not in pressing need of men have sent some to the roads in need.

"There are a large number of railroad men floating over the country. Many of these have taken the opportunity to return to steady work. Many men new to railroad work have broken into the business. The railroads are getting men from many sources, and as the pointer of the chart indicates a return of greater business to the railroads, you will also see the men in the employ of the railroads at the present time gaining in experience and efficiency.

"At least that is the way the big railroad men of the Twin Cities look at it. They believe the hardest part of the strike has passed."

ACKERT GOES TO HAWLEY LINES

E. H. Coapman Will Succeed Him as General Manager of the Southern.

New York, Jan. 6.—Charles H. Ackert, who resigned today as vice president and general manager of the Southern railway, will become vice president and superintendent of operation of the following railroads: Chicago & Alton, Toledo, St. Louis & Western, Minneapolis & St. Louis and Iowa Central, which are known as the Hawley railroads. His headquarters will be in Chicago.

The announcement was made today by President Finley, who also said that E. H. Coapman, manager, had been promoted to the position of general manager. In speaking of the resignation of Mr. Ackert, President Finley said:

"Mr. Ackert is a very capable railway manager. He has served the Southern Railway company loyally and efficiently and the good wishes of the management go with him to his new field of usefulness."

SAYS THAT GLAVIS LIED

Wickersham's Report on Ballinger Charges Is Sent to the Senate.

Investigator Is Declared to Have Been Working to Get Promoted.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Denouncing L. R. Glavis as a megalomaniac and analyzing various correspondence and many of his acts in relation to the charges of misconduct against Secretary Ballinger and other officials of the department of the interior, in dealing with the so-called Cunningham group of coal land claims in Alaska, in a report to the president submitted to the senate today, Attorney General Wickersham declares that Mr. Glavis' statements are entirely disproved.

It was upon this report that President Taft dismissed Mr. Glavis from the public service.

"Glavis' actions," Attorney General Wickersham said, "appear to have been founded upon a wholly exaggerated sense of his own importance and a desire for personal advancement, rather than on any genuine desire to protect the interests of the government, and this species of megalomania has finally led him to submit to you charges of improper motives and conduct against his official superiors which, in my opinion, are so unjust and unfounded as to merit his immediate separation from the service."

Clears Ballinger Completely.

In conclusion, Mr. Wickersham says: "So far from taking action to favor the Cunningham claimants, the record clearly shows that Secretary Ballinger was scrupulously careful not in any respect to act upon those claims, for the reason that during the summer of 1908, while he was in no manner connected with the government, he had been consulted by some of the claimants with respect to the issuance of patents, and had called upon Secretary Garfield for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of the latter's department thereupon.

"Neither Mr. Ballinger's action nor any of his written or spoken expressions were favorable to the claimants. The utmost he did was to instruct the land office to promptly investigate and dispose of all pending cases."

Glavis Had Two Years.

The government, says Mr. Wickersham, had an abundance of time to investigate these claims, the attention of the land office being specifically directed to them in August, 1907. They were put in Mr. Glavis' hands, together with the investigation of all other Alaska coal land locations and entries, in January, 1908.

All the essential facts relating to the claims, he says, seem to have been ascertained by Mr. Glavis in the spring of 1908. According to Mr. Wickersham, Glavis was furnished with all the assistance required to make the investigations and had upwards of two years to complete them.

"All efforts to induce him to bring his investigation to a conclusion," the attorney general says in commenting upon the course pursued by Mr. Glavis, "were met only with requests for further assistance, coupled with criticism of his superior officers, as well as of other special agents, who had been connected with the cause."

Says He Wanted Promotion.

Mr. Glavis' claim that he prevented the government from being defrauded, Mr. Wickersham says, is disproved by the records.

"The intervention of the forestry bureau procured by Glavis," the attorney general continues, "is shown by the record to have been entirely unnecessary."

The attorney general cites one of Mr. Glavis' letters to show that Glavis expected Ballinger to be displaced and hoped as a result of other official changes to be made chief of the government field service.

SAY INDIANS ARE GETTING GOOD

Agents Report Less Trouble Since Liquor Is Kept From Redskins.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Uncle Sam's campaign for "moral uplift" among his wards, which has been continued with unabated vigor since it was begun by the Roosevelt administration, has become chiefly significant because of the total suppression of the sale and use of "firewater" among the braves and the consequent dimunition of warlike outbreaks on the reservations.

Annual reports of the reservation superintendents in widely scattered parts of the United States attribute the success of this crusade to the co-operation between state and federal authorities, which has been more generally practiced during the last year than ever before. This campaign of well directed effort among the Indian officials has been fraught with good results in other directions, and gradually the tribesmen are being drawn away from many of the destructive habits of their formal nomadic existence.

Gave Up Gambling Outfits.

Washington officials evinced much interest in the report to Assistant Indian Commissioner Abbott that 700 Navajo Indians went recently to their "white father" (superintendent), and, surrendering an enormous stock of gambling paraphernalia, enrolled their names alongside those of the "simple life" exponents. These gambling devices of varied sorts and descriptions were shipped here and have been placed on exhibition with the immense collection of relics and trophies at the Indian bureau.

SHERIFF BARNES' RECOVERY.

Three Doctors Failed.

Peruna's Work in this Desperate Case the Talk of the County.

Court-House, Warren County, Tennessee.

Relieved of Throat Trouble by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. B. W. D. Barnes, Sheriff of Warren County, Tennessee, in a letter from McMinnville, Tenn., writes: "I had throat trouble and had three doctors treating me. All failed to do me any good, and pronounced my health gone.

"I concluded to try Peruna, and after using four bottles can say I was entirely cured. That was three years ago. I am now well and sheriff of this county, able to ride all the time, thanks to you, gentlemen."

Catarrh of Throat.

Mr C Happy, Hardin, Ray Co., Mo., writes: "I can safely recommend Peruna as a remedy that will cure all catarrhal troubles.

"It was of great benefit to me, as it cured me of catarrh of the throat, and I took a very bad cold and had la grippe last February. It settled in my throat and lungs. I took three bottles of Peruna and it cured me.

"I highly recommend it to all who are sick, and I am glad to add my endorsement to that of others."

Head, Throat, Stomach.

Mr. George J. Neumeyer, 426 N. Water St., Menasha, Wisconsin, writes: "I am entirely well now of catarrh of the head, throat and stomach. I feel as though I had never had catarrh. I will recommend Peruna to all who are in need of it, for I find nothing better than this tonic, Peruna."

A Severe Cough

Mr. E. M. Stabler, Payne, Ohio, writes: "I thank you a thousand times for Peruna and I think every family ought to keep it in the house, and it would save doctor bills. I will do all I can for you.

"I had a cough this winter for six weeks and I took three bottles of Peruna and it stopped the cough and I am well."

Chronic Nasal Catarrh.

Mr. Charles H. Stevens, 122 16th St., Detroit, Mich., writes: "It affords me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

"I suffered for some time with chronic nasal catarrh, but after five months' treatment, during which time I used seven bottles of Peruna, I am pleased to say that I am entirely well, there not being the slightest trace of catarrh left."

HENRY H. BELL DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Pioneer Banker of Duluth Passes Away at Oakland.

A telegram has been received by Charles E. De Witt, stating that Henry H. Bell, one of the pioneer bankers of Duluth, who has resided in California for about fifteen years past, died on Tuesday last at his home in Oakland. Mr. Bell was head of the banking firm of Bell & Eyster, which did a large business in the early days of Duluth but collapsed in 1893 owing to the financial crisis which was precipitated by the Baring failure in London. He remained here for about two years after and then removed to Oakland, Cal., where he remained until his death.

The Bell & Eyster bank was latterly located in the building adjoining the northwest corner of Superior street and Lake avenue. Mr. Bell built and occupied for several years the fine residence on the lower side of Second street at Sixth avenue east, now owned by M. H. Kelley, president of the Kelley-How-Thomson company. He had many friends among the older residents of the city, who will regret to learn of his death. He is survived by his wife.

Negaunee, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Paul Hoglowski of Escanaba has given official notice that on Feb. 14 he will make application to the probate court for an order changing his name.

Hoglowski wants his name changed to Paul Hosford, for the reasons, as set forth in the notice, that "the name of Hoglowski is hard to spell and pronounce, and it is not pronounced the way it is spelled, or as it should be used; that it is difficult to obtain my right mail, and inconvenient in business."

WHAT "J. ADAM" THINKS OF RUMPUS RAISED BY MILLER

The Birchbark Statesman on the Gentle Art of Insurging.

What He Would Do If He Were an Insurgent.

Behind a red necktie such as might be used to flag an express train, J. Adam Bede came to town last night on the crest of the cold wave. The former humorist of the house of representatives remarked that it wasn't his fault, rubbed his ears a bit and bought the latest papers to see what my friend, Bill Taft, and the insurgents were doing in dear, old Washington.

Mr. Bede mused reflectively over certain portions of an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, wherein, it was indicated that one C. B. Miller is insurging all over the back lots from the Potomac flats to Columbia Heights and making the welkin ring with loud cries from Bladensburg to the monument.

Mr. Miller intimated that the president was handing him an assorted package of lemons that would make Pandora's prize seem like a vanity box loaded with a harmless powder puff and a sachet of violet perfume. Mr. Miller said some of his recommendations for federal pie had been held up to tame him and that the privileges of the peoples' representative were being sat upon by 400 pounds of presidential discipline.

Mr. Bede cast an appreciative eye over all this, and more. He read that the president denied any intention to discipline rebellious congressmen, but that he believed in reciprocity in politics; no special favors there no matter what might happen to the tariff. Far be it from him to plant a foot on the anatomy of any whooper-er-up for the grand old party, but so long as he was chef at the pie counter, there was going to be no free lunch. Any gentleman who wanted a few crumbs for his constituents would be expected to stay on the reservation, and a few more hunches to that effect.

"Well, well, mused Mr. Bede, "what do you think of that?"

"Do you know," continued the former representative, "that Congressman Hammond of this state, is one of the finest gentlemen you could meet in a seven days' journey? Yes, sir, and he is a Democrat, too. He is a college bred man, intelligent, patriotic and a good fellow."

No Pie For Democrats.

Just what Mr. Hammond's good points had to do with Mr. Miller's insurging wasn't quite clear and the person who was talking to Mr. Bede, said so.

"And he's a Democrat," continued Mr. Bede unheedingly." And that's the reason that he is not consulted about patronage in his district. He can work his head off, figuratively you know, for his constituents, but thy don't get any pie because the administration isn't handing out any favors to Democratic members of congress.

"Now, then," and Mr. Bede ground a fist into the palm of a hand, "is there any reason why Republican members of congress who do not support the administration any more effectively than Democratic members should be favored with federal patronage?"

No answer being forthcoming, Mr. Bede vouchsafed one himself. "There is no reason,' he said. "Republican members who do not stand by the platform of their party, who do not lend their moral aid and their voting strength in congress to the chief representative of their party, should not participate in the so-called 'spoils.' They should be treated as members of the opposition.

"I am glad the voice of the people is being heard. I told the boys down at Washington that I expected Clarence Miller to grab the palladium of our liberties by the hind legs and throw it over the capitol. I am surprised that men who go to Washington to reform the government would stoop so low as to the spoils system, a relic of an antiquated regime."

Mr. Bede remarked that he had heard it rumored about Duluth that Mr. Miller is not on speaking terms with the sage of Danville. He suggested that Mr. Miller's friends should raise a purse and send him to Washington to introduce Mr. Miller to the speaker, so "Uncle Joe" could bestow upon the Duluth representative a grouping plan, or a dock, as a testimonial of his good will.

Discussing Mr. Miller's troubles with his recommendations for federal appointments, Mr. Bede remarked upon the situation at International Falls. Postmaster Chamberlain died suddenly several months ago, and his bondsmen were influential in securing the appointment of his widow. A majority of the townspeople, according to Mr. Bede, favor the retention of Mrs. Chamberlain, but Mr. Miller desires the job for a cohort. He is trying to have Mrs. Chamberlain removed.

"How would President Taft look stepping on a widow for the benefit of an insurgent?" said Mr. Bede righteously. "Put me down for the widows and orphans every time."

At Hinckley a woman is postmaster, and Mr. Miller seeks her removal, said Mr. Bede. She has long resided in Hinckley, and most of the citizens desire her reappointment. She supports a widowed mother. The office has been raised from fourth to third class, which makes a new appointment necessary.

"These," said Mr. Bede, with a wave of a hand, "are fair samples of Mr. Miller's grievances against the Taft administration. If I were an insurgent down in Washington I would look with contempt on spoils and would bend my energies to the uplift and to the virtuous movement in behalf of American humanity.

"I notice considerable discussion about going back to the farm," said Mr. Bede ripping his mind off the political situation. "I heartily approve of the movement. I think it foolish, however, for people not accustomed to farm life and without knowledge of it to think they can move onto our undeveloped soil and wrest a good living from it. It is my opinion that there should be an agricultural department in connection with the public schools so that our young men can be trained for an agricultural life. One of the reasons for the high cost of foodstuffs is the exodus of people from the farms to the cities.

"I am a farmer, myself; but I was raised on a farm and know what farm life is. Being a philosopher I never get lonesome, but most city people could not endure the solitude. However, with the improvement of the farm home to a state approaching city life, conditions are not now so irksome as formerly. There is no reason why 25 per cent of the city population should not be turned back to the soil and made producers instead of consumers. With the introduction of the rural free delivery, the telephone, the automobile, the bicycle, the music box and other inventions that make home comfortable and attractive, there is no reason why thousands now eking out a meagre living in the cities should not be independent and contented on the soil."

WANT NIGHT SCHOOL HERE

Use of Washington Building Will Be Asked for Purpose.

Factory Inspector Has Applications From Twenty-Five Pupils.

Genius checked in its course, bright children, who are ambitious and have the ability to rise above the ordinary, held down because of conditions, mostly financial, are the conditions found in the Zenith City by Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, who is now trying to find some means whereby certain children of poor parents may have the chance they so much desire.

At the meeting of the school board Friday evening a petition will be presented to the board asking that the use of school rooms in the Washington building be authorized for a night school.

At the present time there are twenty-five applications for membership in the school if it is organized. All these children are of Jewish descent. There are both Russian and German Jews who are unable to attend day school because they are forced to work. Most of them have passed the age limit so that they cannot be forced to take advantage of the schools as are other children.

The applicants range in age from 13 to 48. They are all bright and are very anxious to learn. Huddled together in a small room Miss Poirier found several people attending school and paying the sum of 25 cents weekly for the instruction. The school is being taught by a little girl just through the fifth grade in the common city school. Some idea of how hard these people who have, some of them, passed the age limit, try to obtain knowledge can be imagined. They work all day, most of them with their hands, and at night they gather together that they may learn to read and write.

The great ambition among the greater number, seems to be to read the newspapers. All these people will gather from points distant in the city that they may listen to one of the very small children read. She spells out the words and the listeners lean forward in their eagerness to absorb every word.

Wants To Be Artist.

One young man who presses clothes for a living cherishes in his heart a longing to be an artist. He draws remarkably well, and all his spare time is spent in practicing.

Miss Poirier has visited all the families, and they seem so ambitious and try so hard to get a smattering of general knowledge, that she will present the petition to the board tomorrow night.

Just how the whole matter can be worked out is as yet uncertain. The providing of a place in which to carry on the work is the first step, however. The Jewish rabbis of the city will be conferred with, and it is possible that one of them will act as instructor.

All large cities have schools of this sort and there seems no reason at this time, why Duluth should not fall into line.

One man who has reached the age of 48, and who is a tailor by trade, is very anxious to continue his education. He was one of the first to ask to be enrolled in the new school.

At the Monroe school in the West end, the Y. M. C. A. is conducting a night school at which a number of people situated as those mentioned, are attending. Most of them are unable to pay even the small tuition fee and are therefore unable to get along as fast as they would like.

With only occasional help the work has been going on in private houses for years. Anyone who has attended the public schools is drawn into service as a teacher. Each year the number of incoming Russian and German Jews increases. They do not know the language and the attempts made to learn are sometimes pitiful.

The free night school would help these people greatly, as they would attend in large numbers of their own accord. It is planned to make this only the beginning of a big night school where those who have not time to attend during the day and are without means, may be taught during the evening.

That the people are ambitious has been proven again and again. They welcomed the chance as it was outlined to them, and they will eagerly await the decision of the board when the matter is presented Friday night.

HAWKINSON ON POOR BOARD

Mayor of Virginia Appointed By Chairman of County Board.

Andrew Hawkinson, mayor of Virginia, has been appointed to the position on the county poor board left vacant when John Jenswold resigned some time ago.

The appointment was made yesterday by Chairman Nell McInnis of the board of county commissioners, and today was confirmed by the judges of the district court. The appointment is a purely honorary one and carries with it no salary.

The Garment Clearance

Goes merrily along, making new friends for us every day.

Considering how many pupils this "day after Xmas Clearance" has had for the past couple of seasons, it has been a "head liner" for the S. & B. Co. Garment Clearance. It has given women an opportunity to see the difference between a Genuine Garment Clearance of high prict stocks and a motely collection of "Special Sale Bargains."

If you wish to judge how Duluth women have discrinimated,

OFFICIALS ARE ANXIOUS

Turn of Affairs in Washington Occasions Interest in Duluth.

Many Offices to Be Filled By Appointment During Session.

The conflict between the insurgents and the "stand-patters" at Washington, and the reported disposition of the president to withhold patronage from the insurgents who oppose the Republican leaders in congress, has occasioned a great deal of interest in Duluth on account of the extent to which Congressman Miller is involved in the imbroglio.

The report that Mr. Miller's suggestions as to appointments to federal offices will be held up is causing much speculation, as several important federal office holders in his district are on the anxious seat as to their fate, their terms expiring during the current year. If Mr Miller's appointments should be held up and he should be denied the presidential patronage that is usually accorded to members of congress, it is probable that several postmasters in the district, who have had visions of their official heads lying in the basket, will begin to look forward to further time in the service of the government. On the other hand, those officials who are reasonable sure of reappointment will not worry, for they will hold over in any event.

The most important offices to be filled by appointment during the present session of congress are those of the register and receiver of the land office in Duluth and the office of postmaster here. All of the postmasters in the large towns on the range hold their places through presidential patronage and in many of them the term expires this year, so that Congressman Miller, under ordinary circumstances, at least, would have the filling of the places. In some cases there were rumors of changes. There are numerous other offices of lesser importance to be distributed among Mr. Miller's followers, and his failure to put through the appointments would be a great disappointment to some.

The opinion prevails in political circles in Duluth that President Taft will not follow the course attributed to him. They believe he is too good a politician to believe for a moment that the people as a whole would countenance such methods of driving the insurgents in line. The president has always shown himself to be a good politician and Duluth people believe that he would not deliberately alienate thousands of supporters all over the country by pursuing a course which could have no other result.

The knowledge that such a course as that which is said to have been adopted by the president would be the very antithesis of tact is taken as a cause of hope by those who believe they are among the favored ones. They do not believe the president will pursue the course outlined, though they are ready for anything, in view of the turn affairs have taken.

CLUBS WILL BE PROBED

Cutting Scrapes Altogether Too Frequent in Colored Men's Resorts.

Gambling Said to Flourish While Bars Do Thriving Business.

Besides investigating the cutting affair of last night, when Ralph Jones, a negro porter, carved Walter Whitehead, colored pugilist, at the Douglas club, the grand jury will probably look into the clubs themselves.

Numerous cutting carnivals have had their origin in these places during the last few months. In nearly every instance the trouble has been over gambling differences, principally crap shooting, which is a favorite game with the negroes. In addition, the bars in these clubs are said to do a thriving business.

"Chess" O'Neil, who runs the Douglas club where Whitehead was stabbed, possibly fatally, was arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with keeping gambling devices. He entered a plea of guilty when arraigned before Judge Cutting and was fined $100 and costs, with the alternative of sixty days in the county jail. He paid his fine.

The police authorities would not be surprised to see him brought before the grand jury, which is now in session in this connection. He has been ordered, to appear this afternoon as a witness in the stabbing fray.

The colored clubs are said to run all night and do a thriving business. Most of the members work until late in the evening, but when they are through work they head for the clubs, where they can have the kind of time they like best as long as they have the cash capital to invest in this manner.

CHAFING BONDS ARE RELEASED BY COURT

Judge Hughes Hears Many Stories of Domestic Infelicity.

Mrs. O. A. Lynch, Formerly Millie Baker, Is Granted Decree.

An effort is being made by Judge Martin Hughes of the district court today to correct the mistakes of the little blind god.

Eight divorces have been granted since the mill began its grind yesterday afternoon. There are several more cases to be heard. The court expects to close the mill tomorrow night for lack of material. The criminal and civil actions will be taken up Monday and the January term of court will be in full swing.

This morning a decree was granted Frank Metz from his wife Annie Metz. He is 29 years old and his wife is 28. In his complaint he charged cruel and inhuman treatment and also that his wife was of low moral character.

On the stand Metz said that she threw anything that happened to be within reach and that she called him vile and indecent names. In fact, he testified that her vocabulary in this line was always very large and that she never was at a loss for words. She told him on various occasions that married life made her sick and that she was tired of it. Metz claimed that his wife was addicted to the use of liquors and that frequently she would stay out all night with low, depraved and immoral women.

On Dec. 25, while they were living near the Kinney location on the range she, he alleges, went into a wine room with several companions both men and women and became very drunk. She lay down in the street and refused to go home. He testified also that she became drunk in the city of Duluth and was arrested and was confined for a period in the St. Louis county jail. Metz got his decree.

Harry James Martin, 37 years old, was granted a divorce from his wife, Minnie, aged 29. He claimed desertion and was able to satisfy the court that such was the case. The couple were married at Winnipeg, in 1899.

• • •

George E. Budd, 35 years old, was granted a decree from Gertrude Budd, aged 32. Budd claimed that his wife deserted him in October of 1908 and has since that time traveled with a theatrical organization. The two were married Jan. 17, 1900. There is one child, a son, 7 years of age. The father was given the custody of the child.

• • •

Arthur L. Stevenson, 29 years old, was granted a divorce from his wife, Eliza Biznette Stevenson, aged 25. They were married at Laquis, Province of Quebec, May 5, 1902. His charge was desertion.

• • •

Estelle Batchman holds the distinction of being the first colored woman to get a divorce in the new courthouse. She was given a decree from Charles Batchman on the ground of desertion.

• • •

Ida Swift was granted a decree from Louis Swift on the ground of desertion.

• • •

Isabell A. Lynch was separated from her husband, Oliver A. Lynch. This case was tried by deposition, neither one of the parties to the action appearing. Mrs. Lynch was formerly Millie Baker, and has been for some time past with Anna Held's theatrical company. She claimed non-support.

• • •

Madge H. Foster was given an absolute divorce from George F. Foster.

This afternoon the case of Laura Skrove vs. Thomas Skrove was taken up. Mrs. Skrove makes a number of charges, desertion and cruel and inhuman treatment chiefly. Skrove has counter charges and both are fighting for the decree.

Mrs. Skrove says that he did not properly support her, that he often remained away from home nights, that he used vile and indecent language in her presence, that he preferred to spend his money in pool halls and with immoral women and that she has been subjected to much unpleasant newspaper notoriety because of his actions. She gives specific instances of his waywardness in her complaint and names two young women in her complaint. With one she claims he traveled for some time on the range and the other, she says, he escorted to an Armory dance.

On the other hand, Skrove claims that his wife neglected her duties as a wife, that she had a temper that was not of the sweetest, that she swore at him and treated him generally in an unkind manner. He says that it was unsafe for him to try to live with her. She struck him and on one occasion flourished a butcher knife, he claims. She didn't like it when he went traveling for a jewelry house, and on one occasion struck him in the face as they were passing the Glass Block store. He says that she threatened to kill him. He says further that she is not a fit person to bring up the child and asks for its custody in connection with an absolute divorce.

The case of Mary Peterson, 27 years old, against Louis Peterson, aged 26, was also taken up this afternoon. Mrs. Peterson claims that her husband, although engaged in business for himself as a drayman, fails to properly support her. She also claims cruel and inhuman treatment. There are four children and she asks their custody.

Elizabeth Longtin claims that her husband, Hermisdas Longtin, on one occasion said: "I want to kill you." She claims other inhuman treatment when he threatened to kick her out of doors and threw knives and forks. She thinks she has sufficient grounds for divorce, and asks that relief may be granted her. Mrs. Longtin is 31 years old and her husband is 49.

• • •

Kate Flowers married William Flowers in London, Eng., during the month of March, 1882. She now wants a divorce on the grounds of desertion. There is one child, a girl, 7 years old. She asks the custody of the child.

WEST END

PIONEER SAILOR PASSES AWAY

Malcolm McGillivary of West End Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke.

Malcolm McGillivary, pioneer sailor and for more than twenty years a resident of Duluth, died at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 1228½ West Superior street, after suffering since Dec. 23 from a paralytic stroke. He was 77 years old.

Up to the time of his illness he was apparently in the best of health, despite the fact htat he was well advanced in years. Forty years ago, Mr. McGillivary was a sailor on the Great Lakes and long before the ship canal was built, he used to make this port. He was mate on a lake carrier when he retired.

He is survived by a wife, three sons and two daughters. His sons are John Henry, Alexander Stewart, and Daniel McDonald, and his daughters are Mrs. John McKenzie and Miss Katherine. All of the immediate family reside in Duluth with the exception of Stewart, who is a North Dakota farmer.

Mr. McGillivary took an active part in the activities of the Second Presbyterian church and was a member of the local Clan Stewart. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence.

Mrs. John Uno Sebenius was hostess at a bridge luncheon yesterday at her home on London Road. Carnations were the flowers chosen for the decorations at the tables and after luncheon, bridge was played at eleven tables. The favors were won by Mrs. Carl Stillman, Mrs. E. W. Markell and Mrs. D. D. Murray.

FOLK MUSIC

Is Studied at Class for Musical Appreciation.

The Brahm's "Fest" overture founded on the themes of German student songs was played yesterday morning by Miss Josephine Carey and Miss Florence Williams in illustration of the lecture given by Miss Carey at her studio on "Folk Music." The lecture was further illustrated by folk songs sung by Miss Alice Sjosellus and Mrs. Leo Ball. The class which is open to members of the Twentieth Century club was largely attended. The meetings are held the first and third Wednesday mornings of the month.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Duluth Daughter Attends Illinois Celebration.

At Aurora, Ill., on Monday last, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Britz celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their son, Ernest B. White. Owing to the feeble health of Mr. Britz, the affair was a quiet one, only the children and other relatives being present. A bounteous dinner was served and many gifts were presented to the couple, among them being $50 in gold from the children and grandchildren.

The couple were married in Albany, N. Y., Jan. 2, 1860. Mrs. Britz being Miss Marie Welch. They moved to Illinois in 1863 and farmed in the vicinity of Aurora until 1890 when they moved into the city. Mr. Britz for years conducted a thrashing and general machine business.

There are seven children, Mrs. Margaret Dillenburg of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mrs. Joseph H. Behrs of La Grange, Ill.; Mrs. Charles K. Kelly of Chicago; Mrs. M. O. Davis of Duluth, Minn. and John N. Britz of Aurora. One son died in infancy. There are ten grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

CHURCH WEDDING.

Miss Magner Becomes Bride of W. G. Baldwin.

A pretty wedding took place last evening at Trinity procathedral, when Miss Frances Bond Magner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Magner, became the bride of William Gage Baldwin. The church was beautifully decorated in palms and bride's roses and ferns, and the service was read at 8 o'clock. The wedding music was played by A. F. M. Custance, and before the bridal party entered the church, Master Donald Alexander sang. The ushers, Ralph Magner, Rupert Meade, Lester Phelps and Henry Gowan, entered first. They were followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Hazel Owens and Miss Beulah Magner. They were gowned in pink crepe meteor with gold embroidery, and they carried Killarney roses. They were followed by Miss Florence Bradley and Miss Claire Church, in pale green crepe gowns with silver embroidery and they carried Killarney roses. The matron of honor, Mrs. Seybolt Lawson, in a rose pink gown with touches of gold and pink roses, immediately preceded the bride, who entered with her father. They were met at the altar by Mr. Baldwin with his groomsman, Seybolt Lawson, and the wedding service was read by Bishop Morrison, assisted by the Rev. Albert Perker of St. John's church and the Rev. Arthur Wurtele. The bride's gown was of pina cloth over white satin. She wore a long tulle veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her ornaments were diamonds and pearls, the gift of the bridegroom and her parents.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Lakeside. A large number of guests attended the ceremony and the reception. The out-of-town guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Grace Baldwin of Sparta, Minn.

After March 1 Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will be at home at their home, 2616 East Fifth street.

Home Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Kathryn C. Olesen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Olesen and H. C. Wright took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents at 320 North Nineteenth avenue east. The service was read by the Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church. The attendants were Miss Hannah Olesen and George Trosby. Thirty guests were present for the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Wright will be at home on Park Point.

MRS. McKIM JOINS THE DIVORCE COLONY AT RENO

MRS. SMITH HOLLINS McKIM.

Mrs. Margaret Emerson McKim is reported at Reno, Nev., where it is said she intends to sue for a divorce from her husband, Dr. Smith Hollins McKim, to whom she was married several years ago. Mrs. McKim is well known socially in this country and on the continent. She was one of the leaders of Newport society this year. She is a daughter of Isaac E. Emerson, the well-known yachtsman.

NEW YORK WEDDING.

Buffalo Bill's Granddaughter Marries Englishman.

New York, Jan. 6.—Miss Clara Bowles of Chicago, a granddaughter of Col. W. F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), and Franklin Hamilton Benn, a wealthy English lumberman, were quietly married yesterday at Trinity chapel, in this city.

Col. Cody was present at the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom sailed for England in the afternoon, and will make their home in London.

Mrs. Benn was born on the Crow Indian reservation, where her father was a rancher, and she studied in schools in the East and in Paris.

FIRE SPOILS WEDDING.

Bishop Millspaugh's Daughter Loses Wedding Finery.

The wedding trousseau of Miss Nellie Clarkson Millspaugh, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. Frank Rosebrook Millspaugh of Topeka, Kan., was destroyed in part by a fire at the bishop's residence in Topeka the day before the wedding. Bishop Millspaugh and his family are well known to many Duluthians, as he has visited the city often and since becoming bishop of Kansas he spends the summers at Frontenac, Minn. He formerly resided at Minneapolis.

The wedding took place Tuesday evening, as scheduled, and Miss Millspaugh was married in Grace cathedral to Harold De Loss Copeland, but the reception at the Millspaugh residence, 913 Polk street, was not held, for 913 was a pile of debris and ashes.

Mrs. Copeland not only regrets the fact that her trousseau was partly spoiled by smoke and water, but she lost a beautiful diamond engagement ring, for which a search has been instituted. The fire came at a time when the house was filled with wedding guests who had come to participate in prenuptial entertaining, and as every man and woman tried to save the costly wedding presents and the trousseau of the bride, they lost many of their personal effects. The total loss is valued at $4,000.

The fire started in the bedroom occupied by Bishop Millspaugh and Mrs. Millspaugh. The electric switchboard is situated just above this room, and the fire had spread to the attic, thence into the many gables of the house and down into the ceilings before the alarm was turned in.

The furniture and valuable books on the second floor were water soaked and in some cases ruined. One room especially, that occupied by Miss Millspaugh, was soaked and dripping.

The private library of the bishop, which is situated in the south wing on the first floor, was damaged.

The bishop's house is an old structure and has received many additions since the original house was built. On this account it was a house of gables and many rooms, and especially inviting to the fire. The house runs about fifty feet back from the front, and through this dry areaway the fire had attained great headway before it broke out into the open. As soon as the air got into the attic the fire broke out in a dozen places.

The main loss is on the contents of the house. Except to those who lost a number of priceless personal articles, the loss will be covered with insurance. The bishop's house will be rebuilt at once. It is thought that the home will be remodeled and made more modern in arrangement and in construction.

Mr. and Mrs. Copeland will be at home after March 1 in the Broadway apartments in Kansas City, Mo.

Linnaea Club.

The meeting of Branch I of the Linnaea club will meet tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Olssen of 102 South Eighteenth avenue east.

To Install Officers.

The members of the Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans will hold an installation of officers Wednesday evening of next week at Memorial hall in the new courthouse with Camp 5 of the Sons of Veterans. The officers in charge will be the retiring president, Mrs. Anna F. Huot and the following officers will be installed: President, Anna Kilgore; vice president, Louise Benton; treasurer, Alice Harrison; chaplain, Ellen Hurd; patriotic instructor, Susie Lavere; guides, May Donahue and Kathleen Kilgore; color guard, Ella Foster; guard, Rebecca Holcomb; trustees, Anna Huot, Rebecca Holcomb and Louise Beaton.

Auxiliary Meeting.

The January meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Paul's church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. H. Jones of 11 East Third street. Bishop Brewer will speak of his work in Montana.

BREAKFAST IN BED

No Longer a Thing to Be Ashamed Of—Perhaps.

"It's wonderful how the breakfast in the room habit has spread during the last year," said a trained nurse. "Five years ago I can remember that this was considered a luxurious thing, and a breakfast tray was sent only to a guest or to some member of the family who had been out late the night before.

"About two years ago the breakfast tray became a very usual thing to expect, and now I find it almost universal in the homes where I go. Breakfast is served downstairs only for the men of the family, every other member, including myself, having a wonderfully equipped little tray sent to her room.

"Some of the breakfast sets are costly in themselves, not to speak of the different pieces of silver that are put on the tray. In one home where I nursed recently two butlers were kept busy from 8:30 in the morning until 10 carrying the various individual trays to the rooms, and the cook must have had a nice time of it remembering just which breakfast went on which tray.

"Often each member of the family has her own monogrammed breakfast set, and the breakfast that each person likes must go on the special tray bearing the right monogram. Another distinction often made is the color—pink and white china going to the person having a pink room, and the breakfast set decorated in blue being taken to the member of the family who has a blue room.

"In another home I remember the things belonging to one member of the family were always marked with a bowknot and another sister chose a butterfly. Their breakfast sets were decorated in this way and the tray cloth and napkins embroidered to correspond."

Latest Motor Fad.

The latest automobile fad is a parrot in the place that has been filled with a few months with a hanging vase for flowers.

The parrot idea originated in New York, and is due to the fact that the long rides in the machine with no one to talk to has bored the lady, and the chatter of a blue, red and green parrot is a welcome diversion.

Of course, if one prefers, for the parrot may be substituted for some other kind of bird.

The parrot is not in a cage, but is is allowed to sit on the tonneau door and is naturally much observed.

THE EVENING STORY

MISS AUSTIN, THE MODEL

By Alex R. Schmidt.

(Copyrighted. All rights reserved.)

The blonde girl turned to me with a smile, but, at the same time her eyes were swimming. "You are very foolish," said she. I drew nearer to her and said softly: "You are mistaken. In your presence even a fool is wise," I went on more rapidly and loudly. "To me you are divine, perfect. You are a woman, a witch." I breathed deeply; she had turned away her eyes. "Oh, you must believe me," I finished lamely.

Miss Austin stood still and in the mellow light of the room I saw her breast rise and fall, and her voluptuous figure stood like a beautiful living statue. Shadow encircled the gold of her hair and her hat hid her forehead, but what I saw filled me with a great desire and I could do no more than wish for it. The streets lay silent before us, behind us, toward the lake, some blocks away, a cable car rumbled occasionally; sparse passers-by looked at us closely. Why did she not speak?

Ah, moon, torment and spirit divine, do not look upon me as you did that night. Your madness, which lulls and wins the tides, was in my blood and under the large, fragrant California trees with your rays filtering through I stood in utter agony and waited. It seemed a long time before the blonde turned to me and I looked into her deep, serious eyes. Just now they seemed so large and compelling that I did not see the beautiful contour of her face in which the orbs were set. Ah, heaven and hell for me lay with her now and she knew it not.

"Well," I said, with the little composure I had left.

"You're a very foolish boy," was all she said. "You've said that before," I told her, "and you don't believe it."

"No, I know it."

There was no hope for me now. I moved closer to her until our arms touched. "Listen, Florence," I said, "to me you are divine. You are my queen. For you I could commit murder and every other crime. For—"

"Could you go home?" "Ah, you don't want me to go—do you, do you?" I pleaded. I had called her Florence and she had said nothing. I felt as big as a stage lover. "Come," I said soberly, "if you want me to go, of course, I'll go."

She answered nothing. "I'll take it I may stay," I said.

A breeze rustled in the leaves of the magnolia tree above us.

"Do you remember the first time we saw each other?" she said.

"How can I forget it? You were divine in your pose of Venus," I answered.

"You should not have seen me," she supplemented. "That makes all the difference."

"Why Larring told me he had a model direct from the gods. I could not stay away."

"Mr. Larring is no gentleman."

"Why, Miss Austin, what an edict. Larring would never breathe a word against you. He's an artist and he saw the ideal perfection of your face and form. That is all. He knew what a vain search I had made for just such a being as you and he asked me into his studio."

"And when you saw me?" she asked, and I saw the color rise and flood her face.

"When I saw you I went wild. You were the divinity of my search."

"You are wild yet," she said.

"I am sane," I answered. "And have been since the time we called on your mother. Only there are times when I lose my control and then I say things that hurt you."

"You've never said anything to hurt me," she said.

"I'm so glad," I answered, conventionally.

"But listen to me. I can never be anything to you because of that afternoon in the studio. You came to see me, a model, because your artist friend told you it would be worth your while to come and see me. He did not say that I was a stunning girl you could add to your list of acquaintances, that is, to your legitimate acquaintances."

I tried to say something.

"Don't interrupt me, please."

Our arms did not touch any more. "You came and you saw me. I pleased you. There was something about you that was different from other men. But tonight I am afraid of you."

I took heart again.

"I am not through yet. When you came into the studio I was not expecting you. There was no time to throw any clothing over me. I thought Mr. Larring took it for granted that I was posing for him alone and not for you. My chaperon told me that such an arrangement had been understood. Oh, I hate Mr. Larring!" she exclaimed.

There was silence for a space.

"If I had met you in a legitimate way it would have been different."

"Why do you use the word legitimate? Were we not introduced in the proper way? Answer me, Florence." My courage had come back to me. What a foolish fight she was making.

"You must not, no, you must not call me that. It is better that you go home."

"But listen dear," I answered. I was by her side again. "Why didn't you have all these scruples at first? You let me call, why let me take you out? What has my conduct been?"

"Perfect," and she smiled.

"Ah, then why do you say all these things now and didn't say them then? Why?"

"Because I couldn't," she said.

I felt stronger than ever now.

"And now you would drive me away?" I asked, tenderly.

"Now I'm going to," she said, looking away.

"Why?" I asked. I put my arm around her but she resolutely put me away.

"Because you do not respect me," she said.

I was silent.

"Do you?" she asked. She was looking straight at me.

"Why, my dear girl," I answered, "of course I do. This is foolish."

"It is not foolish," she said. "Do you respect me very much?"

"Very much," I humored her.

"Enough—enough" and her voice broke and I held her in my arms.

"My bird, my dove," I cooed. "I've put you in verse a hundred times. You are my inspiration."

"It's all words with you," she murmured, "but, no, you mustn't do that."

"Let me kiss you once."

"No, I can't." I kissed her. "Oh, you mustn't do that."

"Let me kiss you again."

I held her tightly to me. "Oh, you are cruel," she said.

"You are divine," I assured her.

"Words again. You had better let me go, Mr. Eason. After you have answered a certain question."

"Any question, sweetheart. Fire away."

"Oh, it may sound foolish, but it means everything to me. Would you —would you—"

Instinctively I knew what was coming. My hands dropped from her.

"No, you couldn't," she said.

"What a wonderful brain you have. I am afraid I don't understand." But I did.

"Would you—no I can't tell you. You must go."

"Tell me now," I said. I would not let her off easily.

"You must know and yet—"

"Tell me—" I said. Her breath came short and fell on my cheek.

"Would you marry me?" Her voice was a whisper. So that was it.

"Am I to consider this in the light of a proposal?" I asked, smiling, but she had removed the last prop.

"You must forgive me," she said, "but after the scene of the studio I had to."

"I am sorry," I said.

"So am I," she answered. "Good-night, Mr. Eason."

"Goodnight, Miss Austin." I raised my hat and watched her as she went to the door of her house which stood back of the tall magnolia. A dull moon was shining down. I had a cynical smile for it. No, I could not marry Miss Austin, the model. She was a good girl, however, and I was too much of a gentleman to lie to her.

PROBATE JUDGES MEET JAN. 12

Annual Gathering of State Association to be Held in Duluth.

Jan. 12 at the St. Louis county courthouse the annual meeting of the State Probate Judges' association will be held. It is expected that between thirty and fifty judges from the various points in the state will be present. The judges get together once a year to talk over their work and exchange ideas.

The principal business this year will consist of the classification of salaries. It is said that many of the judges are underpaid for the work they do. The matter of clerks will also be taken up. Many of them think that they are allowed insufficient help in their offices.

The notices for the meeting are being sent out in the form of postal card invitations. The new St. Louis county courthouse is pictured on one side.

W. F. Hughes of Blue Earth county is president of the association, Judge J. E. Middlecoff of Duluth is vice president and Judge A. E. Doe of Washington county is secretary.

HE WANTED TO KILL SOMEBODY

Insane Man Had No Choice as to Identity of His Victim.

John Miller, 37 years of age, who claims Minneapolis as his home, was picked up on the street by the police yesterday and, at an examination held at the county jail later in the afternoon, was found to be insane. He was committed to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls.

Miller is the first violently insane case to come before the notice of the local court in some time. He was acting strangely on the street, and threatened to kill somebody. He said he had no choice as to whom he should kill.

He was so violent after being placed behind the bars that it was impossible to take him to the courthouse for examination. Drs. Chapman and Coventry conducted the examination at the county jail.

CANNOT ATTEND THE FUNERAL

One Child Dies and Father and Other Child Are Ill.

Neither father nor sister will attend the funeral of 4-year-old Dorothy Barbo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Barbo of 111 Cascade street, which will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the undertaking parlors of James L. Crawford. Mr. Barbo is so sick that he cannot leave his bed and the other child is also too ill to leave her home. The services will be conducted by Rev. Stenberg. Interment will be at Park Hill cemetery.

SQUAWMEN SAW LIVELY TIMES

Wealthy North Dakotans Who Figured in Early Day Thrillers.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward Hall and Henry Weldman, two of the wealthiest residents of Elbow Woods reservation, visited Minot this week. They are known as "squawmen," both having wedded Indian women in the early days of the state's history. Hall was the first stage driver between Bismarck and Fort Buford many years ago when the Indians still roamed the prairies. Once, during the winter and when he was near the mount of the White Earth creek, he was captured by Indians. The redskins undressed him and then turned him loose upon the prairies. He nearly froze to death before reaching shelter.

Weldman also has marks of the cruelty of the Indians of the early days. It was while he was with Gen. Custer that he was captured, the Indians pulling out all the toes of one of his feet while holding him a captive.

SAVE LAND FOR HIS WIFE

Mrs. William Schreiber May Be Given Patent to Homestead.

Unusual Case Will Be Taken Up Before Land Office.

Friends of Mrs. William Schreiber, wife of the man convicted of the murder of Frank Massapust and sentenced to the state penitentiary for life, will make an effort to save for her the homestead of 160 acres on which Schreiber lived from June, 1904, until he was arrested in April, 1908. An offer to submit final proof of homestead settlement will be made to the United States land office in Schreiber's name in a few days.

The case is an unusual one, and there are no authorities directly covering it, but it is believed that the patent will be issued to Schreiber and his wife will have the land. Schreiber had lived on the land nearly four years before he was arrested and his wife remained there, for about six months more, so that for only six months the family did not live on the land. The proof will probably show that the improvements were kept up during that time. It is said there are decisions providing that where a man is deprived of his liberty during the period in which he is living on land under the homestead laws, the fact shall not operate against his family in his securing title to the land.

In taking final proof, it will not be necessary to have Schreiber appear at the land office, for proof may be taken from his wife as to the duration of his residence on the land and the extent of the improvements made. After the testimony is taken in the land office here, the proofs go to the commissioner of the general land office and then they are submitted to a board of adjudication which has final disposition of the matter. Mrs. Schrieber is now working as a domestic in Duluth and but for that fact she would be in destitute circumstances. People who have befriended her are anxious for her to secure title to the land on which she lived previously, and they will very probably be successful.

Schreiber filed on the northwest quarter of Sec. 7, 62-20, Oct. 19, 1904, his entry being No. 20,980.

BUSY WEEK AT THE D.B.U.

Daily Attendance Swelled To Almost 300 Mark.

It looks as though 1910 will be the Duluth Business University's banner year. The college opened on Monday, the 3rd inst., with 291 students in attendance, 63 of whom are new members. The college begins the year with a staff of eleven teachers and the attendance 40 per cent greater than at any previous New Year opening. The school year just closed shows 573 enrolled; 618 applications for clerical help, which was far beyond the number of available students to recommend.

Special training courses will be given this year to teachers who wish to fit themselves to teach commercial branches in business colleges and high schools. Thirty-two applications were received during the past year for such teachers, with only two in evidence to recommend.

The demand for office assistants this year will be greater than ever before. Hundreds of applications will be received at the college during the year for clerical help. Ambitious young people should take advantage of the opportunities afforded them at this excellent training school to prepare themselves for the business world. Special day and night classes will be organized on Monday, Jan 10th, to accommodate students who could not enroll at the opening, Jan. 3rd. Location, 118-120 Fourth Avenue west, Christie building. Both 'phones. W. C. McCarter, Principal.

NEW ARREST IN WARRINER CASE

Edgar Cooke Is Accused o Receiving Goods That Had Been Stolen.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—A warrant charging the receipt of stolen goods was issued for Edgar Cooke of Chicago by Prosecutor Hunt of Hamilton county today. The allegation is that he received money from Charles Warriner, former treasurer of the "Big Four" railroad, who is under sentence of six years on a plea of guilty to embezzlement.

Cooke was arrested shortly after the warrant was issued.

The prisoner, who is a former employe of the treasury department of the railroad, came here yesterday with the avowed intention of investigating the source of reports which had linked his name with the case. He declared his innocence of any wrongdoing, and said he was ready to face his accusers on any charge that might be brought against him.

"I never knew of the shortage officially until the story came out in the newspapers in November," he said today. "Mrs. Jeanette Stewart-Ford came to me in 1902 and said that she had learned, while in Cincinnati, that Warriner was short in his accounts.

Woman Had His Letters.

"Shortly afterwards I came to this city and asked Warriner about the report. I laughed when I spoke to him about it, and he also laughed and seemed to take it as a joke. At the time I did not believe he was short."

"What was the basis of the hold which Mrs. Ford seemed to have on you?"

"Some letters which I had written to her six or seven years ago," was the unhesitating answer. "The Warriner shortage had nothing to do with it."

WILL HAVE WATER SOON

Proctor People Will Drink From Lake Superior in Two Weeks.

All That Remains to Be Done Is to Connect Power Wires.

Proctor people, who have been agitating for a number of years for a better water works system, will have direct connection with the water of Lake Superior in less than two weeks, if the plans of the recently organized Proctor Water & Light company are carried out as expected.

About three months ago, the company was organized as a subsidiary corporation to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. It was proposed, at that time, to lay water mains from the West Duluth reservoir at Sixty-fourth avenue west to Proctor.

Water connections for Proctor mean much to the people residing there and to the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, which will be the largest consumer of the Proctor supply. The water will be pumped from the West Duluth reservoir.

The laying of a 12-inch pipe seven feet below the surface between the reservoir and the hilltop village has been completed, the contract having been filled by Fairbanks Morse & Co. of St. Paul. The route taken follows the old Proctor road and the distance between the two points has been closely estimated at 12,300 feet.

The only work which is yet to be done, is to transmit electric power to the pumping station which has been constructed just above the reservoir at West Duluth. Poles are being placed this week and the connections will be made as soon as possible. The power will come from the distributing station at Fifteenth avenue west.

Heretofore all drinking water for people living at Proctor has been taken from wells only, and water for other purposes is taken from the creek running through the town. In case of a large fire, the supply in the creek would be insufficient, it is thought.

The consumption of water from the reservoir will be greatly added to when connection is made with Proctor and it is thought that the circulation of water in the reservoir will be enough so that the water will not become stagnant and unfit for drinking purposes, as it was found to be one summer, when one of the big factories at West Duluth put in a pumping station of its own and lessened considerably the consumption of water from the reservoir.

Purchases Store.

John Moran has purchased the small confectionery store and news stand on North Central avenue, known as Buck's smokery, which up to this week has been conducted by Nell J. Buckley. Mr. Moran, a few months ago, sold out his stand, located on the site of the new Kreidler building, after having been in business at West Duluth for sixteen years.

Elect Bank Directors.

The stockholders of the Western State Bank of Duluth, at their annual meeting this week, elected the following directors for the ensuing year: James Cochran, J. A. Scott, Dr. D. Graham, Fred J. Nygren, F. H. Wade, L. H. Ramstad, C. F. W. Korth, A. Hendrickson, A. J. Mcdaldi, L. R. Clark, H. W. Phelps, H. K. Elliott, A. H. Donald, J. P. Weir, M. M. Clark and L. A. Barnes.

The directors will meet next Tuesday and elect the officers of the bank, and also declare a dividend. It is expected that the dividend this year will be about 8 per cent.

HOPE FOR PEACE IN NICARAGUA

Negotiations Are Begun That May Terminate the War There.

Managua, Jan. 6.—Managua is jubilant over the prospects of early peace. President Madriz has made public a telegram from Gen. Fernos Diaz, one of the leaders in Gen. Estrada's insurgent army, saying that he was leaving Rama for Managua to discuss the situation with the president. Gen. Diaz's telegram was as follows:

"Be assured of our patriotism and of Gen. Estrada's honorable character. I am leaving for Managua to settle the country's situation with you directly."

President Madriz also gave out a telegram which he has received from Gen. Estrada, in which Generals Gozales. Castrillo, Gomez and other prisoners are reported well.

Flat Rate of Army Pay.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—Gen. Estrada, leader of the revolutionary army in Nicaragua, has adopted what is termed a "level rate" of payment of his soldiers, according to advices received by the acting consul of the insurgent government. A full-fledged general receives no more pay than a private. Twenty cents, gold, a day, it is stated, is the individual stipend, regardless of rank.

KILLS PLAN FOR RIVER

Chief of Engineers Reports Against Improvement of Red Lake Stream.

Steenerson Introduces Bill for Survey of Red River of the North.

Washington, Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. L. Marshall, chief of engineers, United States army, today reported adversely with reference to improvement of Red Lake river between Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls, Minn. The action came as a surprise, as the district engineer as well as the division chief considered the stream good enough to justify an annual expenditure for snagging operations.

Representative Steenerson today introduced a bill directing the secretary of war to cause a survey to be made of the Red River of the North and its head waters in Minnesota and North Dakota, with a view to determining whether storage reservoirs are necessary in the interests of navigation, and if so the estimated cost thereof, and that the secretary of war also shall report whether such reservoirs are desirable for the purpose of preventing floods and developing water power in addition to the purposes of navigation.

The bill carries an appropriation of $10,000 to carry out the purposes of the measure.

COPPERS WERE IRREGULAR

General Tone of Market Was Weak With Little Trading.

The copper market was irregular and full of weak spots today. Some Butte stocks such as Amalgamated and Anaconda were strong on reports that the labor disturbance in the Butte district was not as serious as had been expected and that many mines were opening again. The general condition of the market was emphasized by the fact that coppers generally did not trail after these two leaders which advanced in the morning. In the afternoon, however, they were unable to break through the general weakness and succumbed to short selling which had been in progress in other stocks, especially North Butte.

The market acted as if several pools were operating and the trading was entirely professional. The public was not interested. The effect of yesterday's collapse in Rock Island was depressing in the early hours. The market was assaulted by the shorts before it had an opportunity to shake itself free from weakening influences which seemed only of temporary character. Steel was fairly strong after a decline of two or three days, due to reports of a labor war against the United States Steel corporation. A decline came toward the close and the last quotations were near the opening.

The local copper market was weak and trading was dull and restricted. Butte-Ballaklava sold at $12 here and $12.12½ in the East. Copper Queen sold at 80 cents, Live Oak at $22.50, Warrior at $14.62½, Butte & Superior at $2.81¼ and Cliff at $2. Calumet & Montana sold at $2.25 and declined to sales at $2.18¼. Calumet & Corbin sold at $1.25 and advanced to $1.37½ sale. Calumet & Sonora was strong, selling at $17.62½ up to $18, and closed $17.50 bid. Carman was a sale at $1.93¾ and declined to $1.62½. Keating was especially erratic, selling at $2, then at $1.93¾, $2 and down to $1.75.

Amalgamated sold at $87.50 up to $88.62½ and down to $88. Anaconda sold at $51.50 up to $52.75. Calumet & Arizona declined from $101.25 to $101. North Butte was weak on short selling and heavy liquidation and declined from sales at $46.37½ to $45.25. Superior & Pittsburg sold at $16 up to $16.12½. Greene was a sale at $11.25 down to $11.12½ and Giroux was traded in at $11.62½ up to $11.87½ and down to the opening. Steel common sold at $87.50 up to $88 and back to $87.62½.

A message was received late yesterday afternoon from J. W. Norton, general manager of the Calumet & Sonora company, who is in Cananea, as follows: "Have struck another large body of lead and zinc in the south drift, third level. Mill is working fine."

PASSENGER OFFICIALS VISIT ZENITH CITY.

Harry Lewis, assistant general passenger agent of the Soo road; R. C. Hess, Northwestern passenger agent of the Baltimore & Ohio; R. D. Rovig, the Northwestern passenger agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and F. M. Rugg, Northwestern passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, reached Duluth on the afternoon train.

All of the passenger men are here to look over the passenger business at the Head of the Lakes. Mr. Lewis comes here to look over the business of the Soo, with a view of a Pacific Coast connection from Duluth to coast points.

"The Life of Governor Johnson"

The remarkable story of the late governor's eventful life, written by his most intimate associates, is now being sold in the city of Duluth by local agents. The story deals with his early environment, struggling against bitter poverty, his devotion to the brave mother, his career as delivery boy, grocery clerk, drug clerk, timekeeper and other incidents of his boyhood.

A chapter tells of his journalistic career and several chapters tell of the three campaigns for the governorship, which made him a national figure. His campaign methods, his dealings with the dominant party, his veto of the tonnage tax, are depicted in the author's best style. A chapter is devoted to the famous gridiron dinner at Washington, another to his candidacy for the presidency, his private life, his last illness and death.

The book will contain about thirty photographs of the governor and scenes in and about St. Peter, his early home.

So devoted was the governor to the public service that he found little time to accumulate a competency and hence a substantial royalty from the sale of the book will be paid to the widow.

A copy of this book should be in every home in Duluth, in every library and in every school room.

SUPERIOR

War on Gambling.

Mayor Crumpton today ordered the poolroom license of Harry Witz, who conducts a store on Tower avenue, revoked. This action by the mayor comes about as a result of Witz being convicted of being the proprietor of a gambling house, and it also marks another step in the fight that the police and city officials are waging against gambling in Superior.

Will Widen Drydock.

Work will begin in a few days on the widening of Drydock No. 1 at the Superior shipyards so that it will accommodate boats of a 64-foot beam, should it be necessary. It is not thought that the contract will be let out for any other part of the work than the pile driving.

Would Dismiss Case.

L. M. Sturdevant, formerly attorney general of Wisconsin, is in Superior to make a motion before Judge Vinje of the circuit court for the dismissal of the Ferguson-Truax case, which has been pending in the courts for the past few years. Mr. Sturdevant represents the Truax interests. The case grows out of an elevator accident which occurred in the Truax building a number of years ago in which Eddie Ferguson, a small boy passenger, was injured. In one trial he was awarded $10,000, but the case was appealed.

Big Bounty Money.

The hunters of Douglas county received $4,438 bounty money during the past year, according to a report of the county clerk just compiled. Half of this amount was paid by the county and tae remainder came out of the state funds. Of the total number of animals killed for which bounty was paid, 245 were wolves and sixty-one wildcats.

STATE'S ATTORNEY HAS HIS OWN COURT

Unique Plan Is Introduced By Prosecutor Wayman in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—A department, said to be unique in criminal court annals of a large city, was established in the office of State's Attorney J. E. W. Wayman today. It is to be known as "the state's attorney courtroom." In the new "court" all the old criminal cases on the docket, about 1,600 in all, will be practically tried before Assistant State's Attorney George Guenther.

Attorney Guenther will carefully go over the evidence of both sides and hear witnesses. If he thinks the evidence against the defendant is sufficient, the case will be tried before a regular criminal court judge. If the state's side of the case does not appear strong enough in Mr. Guenther's judgment, he will have the case non-suited.

In this way it is expected to clear the docket of all cases, some of which are several years old. The plan, it is hoped, will save a great deal of time for the regular courts.

NEGRO PUGILIST MAY BE FATALLY WOUNDED

Walter Whitehead Stabbed By Albert Jones at Douglas Club.

Crap Game Said to Be the Cause, But Stories Differ.

Walter Whitehead, colored pugilist, was stabbed half a dozen times by Ralph Jones, a negro porter, early this morning at the Douglas club, 14 West Michigan street, in a row over a dice game. Whitehead had two slashes in the back near the kidneys, two cuts below the heart, and wounds in other parts of his body, supposedly inflicted by a penknife. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. R. Graham.

Jones was arrested shortly after the fray by Lieut. Fritz and Sergeant Weber. He admits the stabbing but maintains that it was done in self-defense. Several versions of the affair were given to the police and they have been unable to ascertain which is the correct story. All are agreed that a dice game started the trouble, but the manner of the stabbing has not been determined. Some witnesses say that Whitehead was going out of the door of the club with two women when Jones jumped on his back and started to sink the knife into him. They say that Jones had the knife in his hand when they were separated.

At the police station Jones declared that Whitehead tried to cheat him in a "crap" game. He claims that he had several dollars on the table and that Whitehead had bet he would win. He asserts that Whitehead manipulated the dice in his hand to fix them so that they would come up in his favor without giving his opponent a fair chance. He says he asked Ches O'Neil, who is running the club, to make Whitehead shoot the dice right, whereupon Waltehead leaned over and slapped him. Then, according to his story, he went away, Whitehead following, and he protesting that Whitehead had not given him a square deal. He went to O'Neil again and then started for home, he says. Before he reached the street, he claims, some one called him back with the advice that he was a fool to go home without his money, and that he went to O'Neil the third time to get his stake. At this stage, he claims, Whitehead attacked him, and that he pulled the knife to defend himself. He says that he doesn't remember stabbing the pugilist in the back, but admits that it may be possible, as they were rolling around on the floor. He denies that he stabbed him in the back when he was walking out the door of the club.

Jones has worked around saloons, but has no regular occupation. He recently returned from Milwaukee.

Subpoenas were issued this morning bringing witnesses before the grand jury, which will probably take up the case this afternoon. Jones was in police court this morning and waived examination. He is charged with first degree assault.

Whitehead's condition was improved this morning. Dr. Graham said that it looked as though he will recover.

ACCUSED OF GIVING WINE TO LITTLE GIRLS

Children Go to School in Semi-Intoxicated Condition.

Arrest of Oscar Bengman Follows Discovery By Teacher.

Oscar Bengman, employed by a corrugating and roofing company, is at police headquarters to answer charges in two warrants charging him with giving wine and intoxicating liquors to Gerda Ekholm and Helen Sheehan, two 16-year-old girls living in the West end.

The girls go to different schools and when they came to their classes last Wednesday in what appeared to be a drunken condition, the matter was investigated by their teachers, who later called in the aid of the authorities. The warrants were sworn out by George V. Fifer, humane agent.

The story told is that Bengman met the two girls in front of a store near Nineteenth avenue west and Second street. "I'm going away and if you'll come up where I live I'll give you some candy," he is claimed to have said to them.

They accompanied him, but when he asked them to go to his room they refused, it is asserted. He then went up and brought back a box of candy, which he gave to the Ekholm girl. Making a second trip he is alleged to have returned with a quart bottle of wine and a glass. He is said to have given three glasses to the Sheehan girl and two glasses to the Ekholm girl.

After leaving him they went to school. Their actions were so peculiar and extraordinary that they attracted attention and came to the notice of their instructors. If Bengman is convicted he can be sentenced to the county jail for ninety days, the offense being a misdemeanor and punishable in police court.

He entered a plea of not guilty this morning, and his hearing will be held this afternoon.

WEATHER MAN HOLDS OUT HOPE

Cold Snap Will Give Way to Much Warmer Temperatures.

The lowest temperature recorded in Duluth last night was 11 degrees below zero, according to the weather man.

This point was reached at 7 o'clock this morning, and it then began to moderate. With a stiff breeze blowing, pedestrians found last night a chilly one.

The weather man looks for more moderate temperatures tonight and tomorrow.

STEAL FLOUR TO "GET DOUGH"

Men Arrested for Taking Main Ingredient of Staff of Life.

John Malone and John O'Brien were arrested last evening for stealing thirteen sacks of flour from the Universal Milling company on the bay front near the foot of Fourteenth avenue west.

Asked why they stole the flour, Malone said, "That's the only way we could get the dough," and despite the serious purpose of the question, the police inquisitor burst into a laugh.

The men were seen coming up Michigan street about 6:30 last evening with a spring cart piled high with flour. The unusual aspect of such a vehicle used for trucking purposes aroused the suspicions of Detectives Irvine and Toewe. They called in Sergeant Roberg and Patrolman Rothie and brought the men to the station on suspicion.

The men smashed in a mill window with a double-bitted ax. The charge preferred will likely be burglary, which means up to five years in the penitentiary upon conviction.

They asked for an examination this morning, which was set for Saturday.

STEAMER MOORE STILL ON THE JOB

Booth Line Boat Is Making Regular Trips to North Shore.

The steamer C. W. Moore of the Booth line is still making regular trips to North Shore points. She has as yet had no difficulty with ice, and she will continue on the run as long as the conditions will allow.

Last year the season ended Jan. 16. The Moore has, however, run as late as Feb. 25.

The boat carries supplies to the lumber camps and merchants along the shore. She brings back fish. The herring has been plentiful this year and the fishermen are reaping a harvest.

SHOW WILL BE LARGEST EVER

Poultry Association Will Have on Exhibition More Than 1,000 Birds.

The Duluth poultry show will this year be larger than ever. More than 1,000 birds will be on exhibition. The show opens Feb. 4 and ends on Feb. 10.

Many hundred new coops have been ordered and the committee in charge say that if applications for space are any indication of the success of the show, it will be the largest ever held in or about Duluth.

There are twenty-seven poultry organizations which have shows in Wisconsin and Minnesota during the next month. The prize winners at a number of these shows will be brought to Duluth.

James Tucker of Concord, Mich., has been engaged to judge the birds. The premium list will soon be announced.

STRIPS COOK OF HONORS

Burton. "Later I had an experience with a bear that came near ending my life, and I was chewed up pretty severely. I was greatly surprised when the Cook magazine article was published after he returned to this country, to see in it my picture and the story of my experience with the bear. Cook told how his party had rescued me from the jaws of death. As a matter of fact Cook was not within 150 miles of me at the time the bear and I mixed. In the magazine also was a picture of my struggle with the bear, which of course was a fake."

Says He Is Nervous Wreck.

New York, Jan. 6.—Another member of the Cook family—this time Mrs. Josephine Dudley, a sister of the discredited explorer's wife—has made a statement. She says Dr. Cook is a nervous wreck, unable to think conservatively, and that the reason he remains in hiding is that he could not stand the strain of further controversy.

"We are praying," says Mrs. Dudley, "that he will soon recover, so that he may come forward and defend himself. Mrs. Cook is at her husband's side. She loves him and trusts him. There has been no quarrel; there never was any trouble between them about money."

She has received a message, she said, from Walter Lonsdale, Dr. Cook's secretary, dated Copenhagen, and reading as follows: "Cable Fred's address at once. All important. Must see him now."

Mrs. Dudley has not answered the message yet, because she fears it may be a trap.

The doctor has had a disheartening relapse, she said, and it is important that his seclusion shall not be disturbed. She says she is aware of the doctor's whereabouts, but will not even specify whether he is here or abroad.

their fight against Speaker Cannon or the house rules.

Victor Rosewater, Republican national committeeman from Nebraska, one of the insurgent states, called on President Taft and, in an authorized interview, said:

"The president said to me that he wanted me to help correct the reports that are being circulated to the effect that he is using the patronage club to whip so-called 'insurgents' into line. The president says that there is a well-founded custom, that has become almost a rule, that in making certain appointments, such as postmasters, the president should act on recommendation of members of congress in whose districts the appointments lie, if reported by a member of the same political party.

Wants to Impress Them.

"This obligation resting on the president, however, is reciprocal, he feels. The Republican congressmen, he declares, are under similar obligation to support administration measures recommended by the president to carry out platform pledges on which both were elected. The president says he has not turned down recommendations of insurgent congressmen, but is simply preserving the status quo to impress them of their obligations."

COAL FAMINE IN IOWA IS SERIOUS; WINTER IN SOUTH

employing 1,700 men, was closed temporarily.

Heaviest Snow in Years.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 6.—Snow today covered the greater portion of Kentucky, Tennessee and Arkansas with traces as far south as Northern Mississippi and Alabama. In Louisville snow fell all night and today covered the ground to a depth of nearly a foot, the heaviest snow in many years. Street car service was considerably interfered with and all trains were late.

Livestock Is Suffering.

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 6.—It was 13 deg. below zero here at 7 o'clock this morning, the coldest of the winter. Much suffering of livestock is reported. This is the coldest since 1899.

Reports from Western Kansas say that thousands of cattle are dying in Logan county as a result of the rigorous winter.

Coldest in Twelve Years.

Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 6.—Eighteen deg. below zero was recorded unofficially in Kansas today, the lowest temperature in this part of the Southwest in twelve years. The intense cold covered Missouri and reached into Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

Railroad schedules were demoralized. A shortage of natural gas from the Kansas field caused much suffering to thousands of families. On the plains of Western Kansas unprotected cattle were reported dying by hundreds.

Mississippi Frozen Across.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 6.—The ice gorge which was ten miles below St. Louis yesterday, was increased during the night by floes until today it reached the local harbor. For the first time in four years the river at this point is frozen from bank to bank. The weather bureau announces that the Mississippi river from Chester, Ill., to St. Louis, a distance of sixty miles, is one continual ice gorge.

Ohio in Snowbound.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—The heaviest snow storm of the winter is raging in Southern Ohio today. All trains are reported delayed. In Cincinnati street car service was seriously hampered.

Tennessee Snowed Under.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 6.—Eight inches of snow fell last night, making transportation extremely difficult.

Sleet Storm in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 6.—The sleet storm is causing havoc here. Streets, trees and buildings are shrouded in ice. Public schools are closed. Dozens of persons have fallen and several have suffered broken limbs. More than a score of horses and mule have been killed. Stores refuse to deliver goods. Many telephones and telegraph wires are down and trolley wires broken.

Coal Supply Short.

Silverton, Colo., Jan. 6. — Telegraphic communication was resumed with the outside world late yesterday. But two deaths are known to have resulted from snow slides following the recent storm. Arthur Rice was killed at Animas Forks Friday and Carl Brun was caught by a slide at Tiowa-Tiger mine Sunday. Train service is still blocked between Silverton and Durango and the coal supply is short.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY MEN IN BATTLE AT MINE.

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 6.—It became known here yesterday that three men are dead and that fifteen are in a hospital as the result of a fight between two rival factions of miners at Phoenix, on New Year's eve.

The Welsh and English miners were arraigned against the Italians, there being about seventy men on a side. The fight took place near one of the hotels. It is said that a feud has been brewing among the different nationalities for some time.

THREE KILLED IN MARQUETTE PLANT

Chief Engineer and Two Laborers Perish During Explosion.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—An explosion of gas at the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company's furnace near here last night caused three deaths. The dead:

CHARLES DOLSETT, chief engineer.

JOHN TRUDEAU, laborer.

GEORGE NOWAK, laborer.

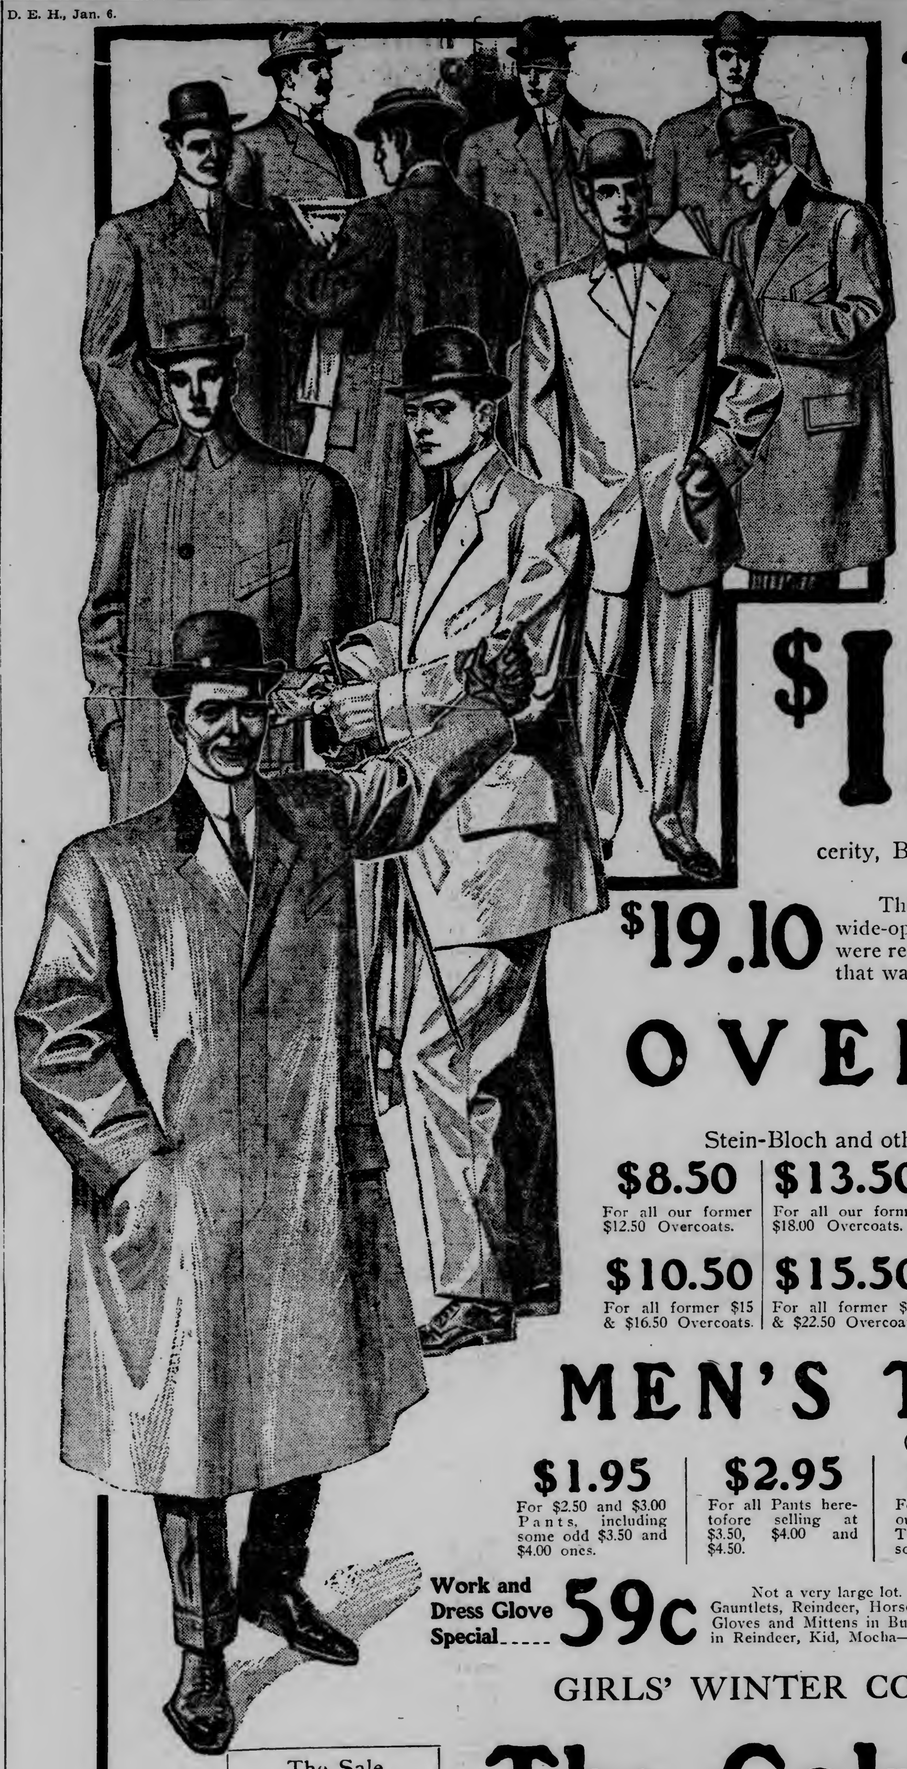

A fourth man, John Dazey, was asphyxiated, but will recover.

CHARTER AMENDMENT NO. 5.

Charter Amendment No. 5 of the list to be voted upon at the city election Feb. 1 substitutes for the present board of public works and engineer's department a single department, consisting of a board of public works to be composed of citizens appointed without pay and without regard to partisan considerations.

The proposed change is a long step ahead. It carries out the plan of department government by commission, which has proved so great a success in other departments, and which ultimately will result in the abolition of the present political government of Duluth and the substitution of the commission plan.

The department which has charge of public improvements is one of the most important under the city government. Each year the city spends from $275,000 to $300,000 in building and improving streets, sidewalks and sewers. As T. T. Hudson, chairman of the charter commission, says in his third article on the city charter and the proposed amendments, published elsewhere in The Herald tonight, the chief objection which is made to the present plan is to the condition which divides responsibility for the management of public improvements between two departments. This tends to create friction between these departments, and to confusion on the part of the taxpayer when he seeks to locate responsibility.

No private business would divide between two departments, each practically independent of the other, so great a responsibility as that of making public improvements. No private business would leave such work subject to partisan considerations and the frequent changes due to city elections. Neither should the city of Duluth consent to preserve the present condition of divided responsibility and political rule. It is not to be understood that there is any particular criticism of the present or recent occupants of the places of responsibility in the two departments. Friction and confusion were the inevitable fruits of the situation provided by the charter, and concentration of responsibility and authority is needed to give effectiveness to this important work.

The proposed new board of public works will consist of five members, appointed by the mayor without pay, not more than three to be of one political faith. This board is to appoint a director of public works, who is required to be a civil engineer, and who will have full charge of public works under the direction of the board. The director and his subordinates will be appointed and kept in office for reasons of fitness only. They will hold office at the pleasure of the board, and that means so long as they do work satisfactory to the board. The nature of the board is such that while much depends upon the judgment of the mayors who select its members, there is strong assurance that work which is satisfactory to that body will be pleasing to the people and property-owners.

But one criticism has been made of this amendment, and that is that it may prove difficult to get the right sort of men to serve on this board. This objection Mr. Hudson answers conclusively. In The Herald's opinion the point is not well taken, and the city's experience with other boards of this character prove them to be very desirable and very effective factors for better city government.

PINCHOT AND BALLINGER.

The real issue between the forces in this country typified by Pinchot and Ballinger is likely to be confused by the bitterness of the conflict between them. To reach that issue it is necessary even to throw out of consideration all charges of actual fraud, and to get down to the level of personal bias. Then it is made clear that the difference between Pinchot and Ballinger is the difference between Roosevelt and Taft, and between the administrations of these two presidents.

The kindliest view of the difference is that Pinchot and Roosevelt believe in conserving the people's natural wealth for the people, and that in the absence of any specific law, this wealth should be kept out of the hands of Special Privilege until a law disposing of it is adopted. On the other hand Ballinger and Taft, while professing in a general way to believe in the same thing, declare themselves helpless in the absence of any specific law. They must sit idly by and witness the seizing of water powers and other public riches by Special Privilege unless congress will give them a law specifically authorizing them to act. This, be it said again, is the view of the difference that is as kindly as possible to the stand of Ballinger. Not many hold so kind a view.

When it comes to providing law on this subject, there still will be a difference. Pinchotism would keep this wealth under the direct control of the people, through their government. Ballingerism would let it go into the hands of individuals, accompanied by an attempt to direct its disposal so that it shall be widely distributed. So that even on the question of providing specific law, there still will be a wide and significant difference.

The other day Mr. Pinchot said: "I hold it to be the first duty of the public officer to obey the law, but I hold it to be his second duty, and a close second, to do everything the law will let him do for the public good, and not merely what the law directs or compels him to do." That is the Roosevelt view—and beyond any question it is the people's view.

Walter Wellman in the Chicago Record-Herald thus puts the Ballinger-Taft view: "The Taft-Ballinger school say the law must be followed. Then the ultra-conservationists shout that millions upon millions of public property is to go to a 'ring' for a mere song; whereupon the present administration rejoins that it is not responsible for the law but only for an execution of the law."

In short, the Roosevelt-Pinchot school would do for the people all that the law does not prohibit, while the Taft-Ballinger school will do for the people only what the law compels it to do.

Says the Des Moines Register and Leader: "We have had this contrast between the statutory duty of the president and his larger duty defined once before in the nation's history. The conditions were different and the importance of the decision vastly greater. But the principle involved was the same. James Buchanan was willing to do all that the law ordered him to do to put down the Rebellion. But the American people did not sustain James Buchanan in that position, nor has posterity ever come to his defense." The comparison between Buchanan and Taft is a peculiarly happy one; though the issue between Special Privilege and humanity is of far greater importance than the issue of race slavery. Special Privilege seeks to enslave a whole people, not merely a small fraction of the people.

"DO IT FOR DULUTH!"

In the Williams plan for solving the problem of feeding the city upon the product of near-by acres Duluth has a chance to test the good faith and quality of its desire to help itself.

It has been made evident that the problem will not settle itself, and that to wait until the near-by acres are cleared and cultivated by men who are usually of small means to whom the cost of clearing is formidable is to wait until the procession goes by. Now is the time to settle this question once for all, and the way to settle it is clearly outlined.

There ought not to be the slightest difficulty in subscribing the amount of stock needed to make the Duluth Garden company a go. If it were mining stock, with a strongly speculative tinge, it would hardly take an hour to fill the subscription list. There is little of the speculative in this opportunity. It is as reasonable a certainty as almost any other business enterprise involving the sale of a popular commodity in a good field.

There is no question whatever about the fertility of the soil or the breadth and capacity of the market waiting for its products. The possibilities of the soil have been demonstrated beyond doubt by the practical experiments of men like John G. Williams, C. P. Craig, G. G. Hartley, S. F. Snively and others. As to the capacity of the market, any householder can testify who is paying high prices for garden truck imported from afar at heavy cost in transportation and heavy loss in freshness and succulence.

To buy the land covered by the plan, to clear it ready for the spade, to cut it up into small blocks and sell it to those who will cultivate it, to build a trolley line to convey its products to market, to establish an open market where these products and others from more distant points can be dealt in—this is a comparatively simple operation, and when carried out it will meet one of Duluth's greatest needs. So great is this need that it is hardly saying too much to declare that any great development of Duluth is impossible without it. The plan would provide Duluth with good food at reasonable prices. It would provide a safe outlet for capital certain to yield good returns upon the investment. It would add hundreds of producing families to the population of the near-by soil, every member of every one of which would be a patron of Duluth merchants. It would afford a means whereby city workers, now squeezing a scant living out of the fruits of their toil, would be enabled to go upon the land and gain independence, even wealth.

The success or failure of this plan will form a test of the quality of the new public spirit of self-help that has lately grown up in Duluth. Heretofore it has had little but generalities to deal with, and, it has been earnest and enthusiastic. Now it has something concrete and practical to deal with, and if it is still earnest and enthusiastic, it can make this plan a very large factor in the making of a Greater Duluth.

PRESIDENTIAL PEANUT POLITICS.

If we get the right of it from the authorized statements from the White House, it is this: the administration is not denying patronage to insurgents, but is withholding it for an assurance that the insurgents will swallow whole the president's measures, as they have been shaped after conferences with Mr. Morgan, various railroad presidents, Senator Aldrich and others. If they question the character of these measures, or deny their efficiency and sufficiency, their friends at home must go job-hungry. If they will agree to support whatever the president proposes, in the shape in which it is proposed, the obedient statesmen can run their hands into the barrel and grab what is coming to them.

Now the president can propose no legislation anywhere near so important as the honest tariff revision which the Republican party advocated in its platform, and which he strongly urged on the stump.

When Messrs. Aldrich, Cannon, Payne et al., were revising the tariff, and members of their party like La Follette, Cummins and Dolliver were daily pointing out the hypocrisy of the pretence at revision that was being made, where was the president, and what was his attitude? He was playing golf, and declaring that it wasn't nice for a president to interfere in the process of legislation! When the work was all done he made a futile furore about a few unimportant items, and then, after signing the bill, came out to Winona and rebuked the "insurgents," declaring the new law to be a "substantial revision downward," and the best tariff bill that ever happened. Yet every thinking citizen in the country knew that as an answer to the people's cry for relief it was a hideous mockery.

President Taft procured the re-election of Cannon as speaker, thereby sounding the death knell of honest tariff revision. He refused to interfere in the framing of the tariff law until only by a veto, which he withheld, could he have improved the situation. He refused to intercede in behalf of honest tariff revision, but at Senator Aldrich's suggestion—or command—he did intercede to prevent the passage of an income tax bill for which Senators Cummins and Bailey had enough votes pledged to pass. He wouldn't interfere to prevent a tariff law that belied his campaign promises, but he does use the patronage club in behalf of minor measures which Aldrich and Morgan and six railroad presidents and he have decided upon.

JUSTICE TO THE HORSE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I beg a small space in your column for a few words on the faithful animal, the horse. I can see from my window, and I often watch some of the poor beasts tugging with all their strength, sometimes falling on their breasts, trying to pull a load up the avenues that is heavy enough for two teams, instead of one, but the teamsters don't seem to think to let them stand just a few seconds to let them catch their breath before starting on a long pull again. I have also seen some young fellows that drive as delivery men for meat markets, grocery stores and department stores, after coming up the avenue and reaching the street, put the poor horse right under the whip without even giving it a warning to go. Why not give those boys strict orders to let the horse rest a few seconds before starting on a long, steady pull up a grade, and to keep the whip away from them? I am sure the horse will do his duty, if properly cared for, without the whip.

TIME TO ACT, NOT TALK.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Since the plan of John G. Williams for the Duluth Market Garden company was presented to the public affairs committee Monday evening, I have heard the argument used that it would benefit certain property owners along the line of the proposed railroad. Of course it would. Was any public enterprise yet started that would not benefit somebody?

There are not many points at which it is possible for a suburban electric line to reach this city from the surrounding territory. One of these points is at Woodland. The only other one that I can think of, is by the way of New Duluth. Out beyond the Spirit lake branch of the boat club, the hill slopes off, and it would probably be possible for an electric road to find an easy grade there. But there are no land owners out there who could help the proposition along like those out Woodland way can and will, so that seems to be the only possible route. I have no interest in the plan, aside from that of every Duluthian, but it strikes me as a very fair and reasonable proposition. Duluth has been talking electric suburban lines for years, and it has gone no further than talk. We have been waving our arms and talking about the future greatness of the city for twenty or thirty years. Now is a chance to act. As I understand the plan, it is simply the first unit in a system of suburban lines. There is no reason why a branch line should not be built to the westward from this line, tapping the country back of the hills. Then a new road some time in the future out Fond du Lac way, would give this city quite a complete system of suburban lines. There is nothing that will build up a farming community like electric roads, which offer cheap transportation. This plan looks to me like good business. If the Commercial club succeeds in putting it through, I believe it will be one of the best moves it ever made. It strikes me that this is a time for action, and not words.

POOR RICHARD.

Duluth, Jan. 5.

Ah, Sweet Is Tipperary.

Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring-time of the year,
When the hawthorn's whiter than the snow,
When the feather folk assemble and the air is all a-tremble
With their singing and their winging to and fro;
When queenly Slieve-na-mon puts her verdant vesture on,
And smiles to hear the news the breezes bring;
When, the sun begins to glance on the rivulets that dance—
Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring!

Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring-time of the year,
When the mists are rising from the lea,
When the Golden Vale is smiling with a beauty all beguiling
And the Suir goes crooning to the sea;
When the shadows and the showers only multiply the flowers
That the lavish hand of May will fling;
When in unfrequented ways, fairy music softly plays—
Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring!

Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring-time of the year,
When life like the year is young,
When the soul is just awaking like a lily blossom breaking,
And love words linger on the tongue;
When the blue of Irish skies is the hue of Irish eyes,
And love-dreams cluster and cling
Round the heart and round the brain, half of pleasure, half of pain—
Ah, sweet is Tipperary in the spring.

Glossary for Motor Maniacs.

H. T. Moore, in Life: Automobile—A gasoline gadabout, junketing Juggernaut and prodigal pleasure craft patronized by opulent optimists, exercised by frenzied fatalists and vilified by the pedestrian public.

Gasoline Motor—A multi-cylinder inferno for converting canned horse-power into uncanny locomotion.

Horn—A popular advertising medium for attracting public attention, distracting mental tension and contracting the mortality rate.

Chauffeur—A goggled, grimy spectre who gallivants through the scenery without regard for life, liberty or the pursuit of happiness.

Taxicab—A horseless hack licensed to practice highway robbery for nimbly negotiating the longest distance between two points.

Garage—An auto hostelry and infirmary where car masseurs and mechanical interns operate on the credulity of chauffeurs, diagnose their practical instincts and remove the swellings from inflated fortunes.

Speed Mania—An irresistible impulse to sever the adjacent atmosphere without disarranging the mural decorations or altering the topography of the landscape.

Fine (theoretically)—Casualty insurance, collected from ambitious motorists as a protecting stimulus to pedestrianism.

Fine (practically)—Petty graft exacted by courts of injustice to compel innocent chauffeurs to "set up" for the crowd.

Joy Ride—An unchaperoned tour de luxe with bacchanalian itinerary and frequent stopover privileges, terminating informally with tout ensemble finish—preferably jail, hospital or morgue.

Demonstration—A free ride, with itinerant lecture on the demerits of rival cars, indulged in by investing investigators, inveigling imposters and the mortgaged multitude.

Puncture—An explosive signal of distress often heard on highways, forecasting a local disturbance accompanied by a violent outburst of vocabulary.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature got to 12 deg. below zero last night, but nobody can complain very much on the weather today. The temperature is just where it ought to be in nice, snappy, Lake Superior winter weather with enough snow on the ground to give proper local color effects and enough sharpness in the air to make long walks exhilarating. The weather man says it will be cold again tonight, with warmer weather tomorrow for the chronic kickers. The westerly winds will swing around to the south tomorrow.

A year ago today was a day to remember, with the mercury down about 34 deg. below zero and an icy blast from the north traveling about fifty miles an hour.

The sun rose this morning at 7:54 and it will set at 4:35, giving eight hours and forty-one minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on the weather conditions:

"A cold wave of considerable intensity prevails this morning throughout Wisconsin, the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa with temperatures ranging from 10 to about 30 deg. below zero attending a decided increase in pressure. Zero weather also prevails in Northern Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Northern New Mexico, Southern Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and Southern Montana. The barometer is high over Kansas and Nevada. Low pressure areas overlying the lower St. Lawrence valley, Alabama and Northern Alberta are attended by snow or rain from the Mississippi valley eastward to the Atlantic seaboard and in the extreme Northwest, together with warmer weather in the Atlantic states, Colorado, the Western Dakotas and Saskatchewan.

"Continued cold weather may be expected in St. Louis and Douglas counties tonight, followed by milder temperatures during Friday."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the past twenty-four hours and the minimum for the past twelve hours:

The Young Idea.

New York Times: "Who made that man, mamma?" asked a child on a Broadway car, pointing to a hot sport opposite.

"Hush, my child," answered the mother; "why, Providence, of course."

"Oh!" said the open-mouthed youngster, "and what for?"

Then the sport changed cars.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Taken From the Columns of The Herald of This Date, 1890.

N. A. Leslie, the engineer in charge of the Hartman electric plant, fell off a ladder last night. Owing to the excitement caused by the accident, the fireman failed to keep up steam and it was necessary to shut off the lights for an hour.

The net receipts of Clerk of Court Pressnell's office in the past year were $9,537, the total receipts being $12,200. Sheriff Sharvy had net business of $4,386; gross, $7,853. The gross receipts of Register of Deeds Shephard were $10,964.78, and the net receipts were $6,037.43.

The Boak Fish company is the name of a new wholesale fish company that has been incorporated by Eastern men well known in the fish trade. The headquarters of the company will be at St. Paul or Duluth, probably the latter, as the concern's business will be almost entirely at this point.

Peary's Irreparable Loss.

New York Evening Post: In foisting this fraud upon the world, Cook was guilty of much more than an injury to the man whose laurels he was falsely claiming. It has been a great loss to all the world that one of those rare events in which the whole of mankind spontaneously finds occasion for triumph and rejoicing was converted into a time of wrangling and unpleasantness. As for Peary himself, he has been defrauded of something which can never be restored to him. Such is the temper of man that the enthusiasm that would in the first instance have hailed the accomplishment of a feat which heroic adventurers for three generations had strenuously sought to compass, can never be resurrected out of the possibilities of the past. False as it has been proved, the claim of the cheap swindler has dimmed the luster of the true discoverer's achievement. He will receive the full acknowledgement that his work merits, in the form of recognition from scientific and other bodies and of a sure place in history; but the joy of the acclaim that should have greeted him at the triumphant close of his twenty-three years' quest can never be his.

Embarrassing For Her.

Lippincott's: A Milwaukee man and his wife recently received a call from an old friend whom they had not seen for years. Just before the three sat down to a little supper in the German style, the wife, seizing a favorable opportunity, whispered to her husband:

"We have only three bottles of beer in the house—just enough to go around. Don't ask him to have more."

"Very well," answered the husband, who chanced to be thinking of something else at the time.

Half an hour later the host, to his wife's consternation, asked the guest to take more beer. The invitation was politely declined, but still the host did not desist. A dozen times the caller was urged to drink; a dozen times he firmly refused.

When he had departed the wife took her husband to task. "What on earth made you persist so? Didn't I tell you there were only three bottles? Why did you insist upon his having more beer, more beer, more beer?"

"Mercy!" exclaimed the husband. I forgot entirely."

"But," continued the wife, "why did you suppose I was kicking you under the table?"

"My dear," blandly replied the husband, "you didn't kick me!"

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

And Should Be.

Two Harbors Journal-News: James J. Hill is doing his real life work after retiring from business, by stirring up the country and arousing thought on the theme of conservation and better farming. If J. J. had railroaded the way some folks farm he would be working on a section gang.

They Are Poor Patriots, Then.

Cass Lake Times: An old gentleman who exercised his brain to untie political knots more than half a century ago remarked to us the other day that since the republic was organized that there is no longer any party cohesion; both political organizations are but machines, kept in commission for the sake of plunder. Neither fears the other, for, when pushed to the limit, they combine to keep the party in power in control of the machinery that serves their purpose. No patriot can ally himself with either of the old parties because of their crimes, and there are thousands of voters in every state of the Union who refuse to drag their good name in the filth of modern politics, and remain at home on election day.

Party Label Not Enough.

Montevideo Leader: It may be Eberhart or Jacobson or Dunn or some other in the convention, and it may be neither in the election. A Republican nomination to the governorship has not been equivalent to an election for a number of years.

But Are They Against Him?

Hibbing Mesaba Ore: It should be enough for the common people of the state that Governor Eberhart has all of the remnants of the old Republican machine against him. It was this same machine that gave us Governor Johnson, and if it can give us another governor half so good, no matter what his political affiliation, it will be a record that any machine might well retire on.

Will Be Shy of Strings.

Foley Independent: Shades of Abraham Lincoln! Does President Taft think that he will have so many strings to his bow three years hence that he can afford to alienate Wisconsin by depriving Senator La Follette of all consideration in the matter of patronage for the benefit of a self-confessed briber, such as is Senator Stephenson?

Easy!

Walker Pilot: Some of the state Democrats aver that one John Lind could whip the best Republican put up for gubernatorial honors, with one hand.

An Extinct Variety.

Fairmont Sentinel: Outside of the papers owned or edited by federal officials we cannot call to mind a thick-and-thin partisan newspaper in all Minnesota.

The Fickle Public.

Detroit Record: The "I-told-you-so's" are now out in force, knocking Dr. Frederick A. Cook and his fake discovery of the frozen circle erroneously called the North Pole. Ah, well, Dr. Cook has only followed in the footsteps of other famous men in discovering the fickleness of public popularity, a la Admiral Dewey and others.

Too Many Loopholes Now.

Madison Independent Press: Taft wants the Sherman law amended. That law was on the statute books a great many years before anybody discovered that it really meant anything. Now that the halter begins to draw, those fellows who have their necks in the loop are beginning to squeal like the porkers that they are, and an amendment is asked. The chances are that any amendment might so change the law as to allow the men for whom it was intended to make a safe getaway; therefore it may be best to let the law stand as it is.

He Leadeth Me.

In pastures green? Not always; sometimes He
Who knoweth best in kindness leadeth me
In weary ways, where heavy shadows be,
Out of the sunshine, warm and soft and bright,
Out of the sunshine into darkest night;
I oft would faint with sorrow and affright,
Only for this—I know He holds my hand,
So whether in a green or desert land
I trust, although I may not understand.
And by still waters? No, not always so;
Oft times the heavy tempests round me blow,
And o'er my soul the waves and the billows go.
But when the storm beats loudest, and I cry
Aloud for help, the Master standeth by
And whispers in my soul: "Lo! it is I."
Above the tempest wild I hear Him say:
"Beyond this darkness lies the perfect day;
In every path of thine I lead the way."
So whether on the hilltop high and fair
I dwell, or in the sunless valley where
The shadows lie—what matters? He is there.
And more than this; where'er the pathway lead,
He gives to me no helpless, broken reed,
But His own hand sufficient for my need.
So where He leadeth I can safely go;
And in the blest hereafter I shall know
Why, in His wisdom, He hath led me so.

The Last Straw.

Judge: An attendant at a Kansas institute for the deaf and dumb was undergoing a pointless rapid-fire inquisition at the hands of a female visitor.

"But how do you summon these poor mutes to church?" she asked finally, with what was meant to be a pitying glance at the inmates near by.

"By ringing the dumb-bells, madam," retorted the exasperated attendant.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CITY CHARTER

Non-Partisan Board of Public Works, Serving Without Pay.

T. T. Hudson Points Out the Benefits of Such a Change.

In the third of a series of articles, prepared by Chairman T. T. Hudson of the charter commission at the request of The Herald, the proposed Amendment No. 5 to the city charter is discussed. Mr. Hudson says:

Amendment No. 5.

The department having charge of public improvements is one of the most important departments in the city government. We are spending from $275,000 to $300,000 each year in building, improving and maintaining streets, sidewalks and sewers. Prior to the panic of 1893 and before the adoption of our present city charter we expended on an average for a number of years about $600,000 each year for these purposes without taking into account the expenditures in West Duluth, Lakeside and New Duluth which were then not a part of the city. Then the doors for expending the people's money were wide open; improvements were ordered without a petition from lot owners, who were required to pay for them. The old plan was greatly improved upon by the present city charter, which gives the lot owners, who are required to pay the cost, a voice in determining what improvements shall be made, except as to sidewalks, sweeping and sprinkling streets, and sanitary main trunk sewers which are ordered by the council without petition of lot owners.

Improvements are ordered by the city council. For many years prior to the adoption of the city charter and up to the present time all improvements have been made under the direction and superintendence of two separate departments of the city government, the board of public works composed of three members having a salary of $1,000 each, and a city engineer whose salary is $2,700 per year. There is no doubt that each of the officials, who have held these offices for many years past, has performed the duties of his office conscientiously and to the best of his ability. The chief objections, which are made, are to the plan which divides the responsibility for the management of public improvements between two departments, which tends to friction between these departments regarding the duties and responsibilities devolving upon aech.

A Non-Partisan Board.

Charter amendment numbered "Five" to be voted upon at the coming city election has been proposed by the charter commission with the view of improving the present methods of handling public improvements by placing the entire management of this department under the control of a non-partisan board of public works composed of five members who shall serve without pay.

The charter commission, in framing this amendment, aimed to place the control of this important department of the city in a board to be composed of competent business men, who will be entirely free from political dictation and influence, who will be good judges of the character of the improvements which will give the best satisfaction to the city and to its inhabitants, who will insist that the same business methods shall be followed in the making of all public improvements which are followed by our best business men in handling private business of equal magnitude, who will bring to bear a sound judgment as to what improvements shall be made and when and how to make them, and who will be able to pass intelligently upon the amount of benefits which will accrue to property by the making of improvements.

The appointment of the members of the board of public works under this amendment will be made by the mayor. Not more than three members shall belong to the same political party, and after the first board one member is to be appointed each year.

In the appointment of the members of this board the element of political reward is eliminated. The members are to serve without pay. No mere politician or political worker wants an office without pay. This element being removed, the appointing power is left free to appoint the best possible men he can find on this board.

Will Make Sacrifices.

Another important consideration in the makeup of this new board which will contribute to the advantage of the city is, that the man who accepts a position on the board, will be so much interested in the progress and development of the city that he will to some extent make sacrifices to serve the city.

We hear it stated frequently that men of the proper experience and capacity will not serve on such a board.

I think this is an erroneous assumption. There are many public-spirited men in Duluth, who have prospered in business here, who are identified with Duluth's industries and institutions, who are interested in Duluth's social and industrial advancement, and who take pride in good city government, that will serve upon this board. Such men are serving upon committees to investigate and report upon matters which pertain to the public welfare, and are also serving upon similar boards.

The commissioners under whose direction the magnificent new St. Louis courthouse was constructed served without pay. It is doubted if an equally painstaking commission of experienced business men could have been secured had there been salaries attached to their positions. That they performed great public service for this county is conceded by all. St. Louis county got value received for every dollar expended in the construction of its new courthouse.

Under the provisions of this amendment the director of public works and all clerks, inspectors, street commissioners and other employes are selected by the board, or hired under its direction, and are to hold their several positions at the pleasure of the board. It will be evident, from the proposed plan of organization of this department, that the director of public works, and all of the employes will be continually endeavoring to serve the city to the best of their ability, in order to retain their positions. The kind of service they are performing for the city will be the sole consideration upon which their jobs will always depend. The board of public works will be primarily responsible to the people of Duluth for the successful administration of this department. The director of public works and all of the other employes will be held responsible by this board for the complete, efficient and faithful discharge of the work assigned to them.

The Director's Duties.

The director of public works must be a civil engineer and is to be the superintendent, under the direction of the board, of all the work of the department; and in all his work he must have the approval of the board. It follows that he must consult with and keep the board fully informed of the progress and condition of all improvements under construction and of all matters pertaining to this department. The board acts as his advisor and he must carry out its directions. If anything goes wrong in the department, or any work is being improperly performed, or any employe is not performing his duties in the best manner for the interests of the city, this knowledge soon comes to the board, which can correct the wrong immediately without waiting for the term of office of some individual or individuals to expire. It is doubtful if a board could be devised which would be more independent of political influence, which would be more impartial in its treatment of all citizens and interests, which would be better qualified to pass upon the character and durability of improvements which ought to be made and which are made, and which would be more responsive to the general demand of the citizens of Duluth. I believe the adoption of this amendment would be in the interests of the city of Duluth.

A Sprained Ankle.

As a rule a man will feel well satisfied if he can hobble around on crutches in two or three weeks after spraining his ankle, and it is often two or three months before he is fully recovered. This is an unnecessary loss of time, as by applying Chamberlain's Liniment, as directed, a cure may as a rule be effected in less than one week's time, and in many cases within three days. Sold by all druggists.

WILLCUTS REAPPOINTED COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS

L. M. WILLCUTS.

L. M. Willcuts, collector of customs for the district of Duluth, has been reappointed to the office by President Taft, his name being among those sent to the senate yesterday by the president for confirmation. The appointment is for four years and is effective on the date on which it is made.

Mr. Willcuts has not yet been officially notified of his appointment. The appointment is for his fourth term, he having been named by President McKinley for his first term and President Roosevelt having appointed him twice.

Mr. Willcuts has a good record as collector of customs. The business of the office has increased greatly during his incumbency and he and his deputies have been vigilant and untiring in their enforcement of the laws. Mr. Willcuts has worked hard through Minnesota's senators for a new federal building in Duluth and has succeeded in securing the purchase of a site for the new building. During the next four years he hopes to see an appropriation made and work started on the new building. The appointment of Mr. Wilcuts is pleasing to Duluth people and he is being warmly congratulated by his friends.

SAYS ALBERT'S MARRIAGE IS INCONTESTIBLE NOW.

Brussels, Jan. 6.—Minister of State Beernaert says in an interview, that although the failure of the late King Leopold to issue a royal decree sanctioning the marriage of Prince Albert and Princess Elizabeth, now the king and queen of Belgium, might have been a theoretical violation of the Constitution, the marriage was long ago accepted by the country and was now incontestible on constitutional grounds.

Elopers Persuade Parents.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Parents of both having yielded to their entreaties, William Schneck of Milwaukee, 20 years old, and 16-year-old Naomi Wilson of Waukwautosa, Wis., who eloped Tuesday and were married by a justice of the peace at Waukegan, were remarried here last night by Rev. James Rowe, a Methodist minister.

SAN FRANCISCO GIVEN POINTERS

Committee Tells City How to Avoid Municipal Corruption Hereafter.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—Mayor F. R. Taylor has received the report of a committee appointed by him in October, 1908, to "investigate the causes of municipal corruption in San Francisco as disclosed by the investigation of the grand jury and the prosecution of certain persons for bribery and other offenses against the state."

The report makes a number of recommendations, among them the following:

"That municipal elections may be made non-partisan, the names of candidates to appear on the ticket without party designation; the annulment of public service franchises that have been obtained by frauds; the enactment of a statute compelling public service corporations to testify against themselves, and that it be a felony to sell the columns of a newspaper unless they are plainly marked as columns sold."

MURDERER TO BE TAKEN TO CHURCH FOR BAPTISM.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 6.—George Burge, who is to be hanged here next Friday for the murder of his wife, will be taken from the "condemned cell" next Thursday night to a local church and baptized.

"I do not want to be sprinkled," said the murderer, "I want to be ducked clear under."

As there was no place in the jail where this could be done, the prison authorities consented that the condemned man should be taken to the church.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

A LINIMENT FOR EXTERNAL USE.

Cheerfulness and a bright disposition during the months before baby comes, are among the greatest blessings a mother can bestow upon the little life about to begin. Her happiness and physical comfort will largely govern the proper development of the health and nature of the child. Mother's Friend contributes much to the mother's happiness and health by the relief and mental comfort it affords. It is a liniment composed of penetrating oils and medicines which lubricate the muscles and tendons of the body, soothe the swollen mammary glands, cause a gradual expansion of the skin and tissues, and aid in the relief of nausea. The regular use of Mother's Friend greatly lessens the pain and danger when baby comes, and assures a quick and natural recovery for the mother. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. Write for our free book, containing valuable information for expectant Mothers.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

KILLS WIFE, ALSO CHILD

Then Lays Down in Bed Alongside of the Two Dead Bodies.

Atrocious Crime Attributed to Farmer in Walsh County, N. D.

Grafton, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Mike, a Bohemian farmer of Perth township, slept all night in a bed with the dead body of his wife at his side and the lifeless body of his little boy lying across the foot, and if the verdict found at the inquest over their bodies stands, he is their murderer. The strangulation of the wife and son by the husband and father, who is now in the Walsh county jail, charged with the murder, form the details of one of the most cold-blooded crimes ever committed in North Dakota.

Evidence Largely Circumstantial.

Evidence against Mike is circumstantial, yet the story he tells is so entirely improbable that it serves to fasten guilt upon him.

Mrs. Mike and little son, the husband first reported, had died very suddenly. The boy took sick in the evening and in two hours was dead. The mother and father then placed the body of the dead child across the foot of their bed and went to sleep. In the morning he claims to have awakened to find that his wife was also dead.

But he failed to give any alarm, spending the entire day in the house with the two dead bodies, and eating three meals. That evening he slept in the bed on which were lying the two dead bodies.

Post-Mortem Shows Strangulation.

At the inquest, held in Lankin, post-mortem examinations showed that the two had been killed by strangulation. Marks on the neck of Mrs. Mike would indicate that a towel had been used in the murder. Several spots of blood were found on the sheets.

Mike stoutly denies being guilty of the murder and appears to worry but little over the loss of his case. Clinton, near as can be ascertained, the mother and child must have come to their death early last week.

ONLY INDIANS THERE

When Samuel Barney Visited Site of Marquette in 1847.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Barney, the only living member of the party that came to Marquette in 1847, is in the city and appears to be in the best of health, in spite of his advanced years.

He is generally considered Marquette's pioneer citizen, but for the last year or so he has lived with his son-in-law in Ishpeming. Mr. Barney stated that when he landed here in the summer of '47 there was no city and the only human beings were five wigwams of Indians. Mr. Barney, accompanied by his father and uncle and several others, came to the upper peninsula to build what later was known as the Jackson forge, between Marquette and Negaunee.

BEDE TO BANKERS.

Former Congressman to Speak at Menomonie Jan. 14.

Menomonie, Wis., Jan. 6.—An address by former Congressman J. Adam Bede will be one of the features of the banquet to be given at the Commercial club to the bankers of group 1 on Jan. 14. Fine music will be provided for the occasion, including numbers by the Ladies' Glee club of the Stout institute and by the male quintet.

FACES ASSAULT CHARGE.

Rev. Mr. Lutz of Ashland Is Again on the Carpet.

Ashland, Wis., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Mr. Lutz, deposed pastor of the German Evangelical Lutheran society, who is alleged to have made threats with a weapon against Rev. Mr. Bloede, his successor, New Year's, was arrested again yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to commit bodily injury.

He was released on $200 bail pending a hearing Monday. Mr. Lutz had a hearing a few days ago to determine his sanity, but the two physicians who examined him could not agree.

GRAND FORKS MAYOR IS HAVING TROUBLES.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor J. D. Taylor is having considerable difficulty in appointing a city assessor to succeed City Assessor Sim Miller. The mayor has named two men and Tuesday evening he suggested five more, all of them were turned down by a vote of 8 to 4.

WANT RESPONSIBLE MEN RUNNING THE SALOONS.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 6.—Liquor manufacturers outside of the Twin Cities will form a state-wide organization to stop the practice, if possible, of placing irresponsible men in charge of drinking places.

A start was made here Tuesday night when the representatives of ten breweries in the counties of Stearns and Morrison formed a temporary organization by the selection of George Kiewel of Little Falls as chairman and T. J. Winter of St. Cloud secretary. A meeting of all brewers in the state outside of the Twin Cities will be called for March 1., and will probably be held in this city. A state association will be formed.

MORE ECONOMY, SAYS ELLIOTT

Northern Pacific Head Urges People to Be More Careful of Money.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor A. O. Eberhart and Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific road, were principal speakers Tuesday evening at the house warming and dinner of the Transportation club at the Ryan hotel.

The governor argued that there should be 200 people to the square mile in Minnesota, instead of about twenty-five, the present number, and spoke along the lines of state conservation and development. He touched upon the relationship between the railroads and the legislature and congratulated his hearers upon the decline of the lobby, once so prominent.

Howard Elliott, in a summing up of the principle of economy as it applies to and affects all departments of railroad work and all persons therein employed, urged upon his hearers the desirability of the practice of economy in personal financial affairs and the promotion of that idea among railroad men generally. Mr. Elliott criticised the recent new accounting orders of the interstate commerce commission and said that the expense upon the railroads of making the changes in bookkeeping necessary to suit the views of the commission cost $3,200,000. He questioned whether the money, if spent in improvement work, would not have accomplished more permanent good than in the changes that were made in the clerical work.

STUDENT LOSES HIS LIFE.

Fatally Asphyxiated in His Room By Coal Gas.

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 6.—Two students of Concordia college were the victims of asphyxiation yesterday. They were found about 11 o'clock. One was dead, but there are hopes for the recovery of the second one. The dead boy is Edward Christenson of Brandon, Minn., who registered at the college Tuesday. The living one is Oscar Berger.

Their room was healed by a drum. The landlady supposed the boys had gone to the college, but a neighbor saw a light burning in the room which led to an investigation.

TWO MONTHS' INSTITUTES

Where Farmers of North Dakota Will Be Given Instructions.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.—There have been twenty-eight farmers' institutes arranged for the months of January and February and an unusually good line of speakers has been engaged for them. Most of the institutes for the mid-winter term have been scheduled for the Eastern part of the state, the slope and western part of the state having been covered by those held in the early winter and late fall months.

Following are the lists of towns and the dates on which the meetings will be held: Cando, Friday, Jan. 7; Churches Ferry, Saturday, Jan. 8; Lankin, Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 12 and 13; Joliette, Friday, Jan. 14; Drayton, Saturday, Jan. 15; Kindred, Monday, Jan. 17; also Reynolds, Monday, Jan. 17; Fargo, Tuesday to Friday, Jan. 18, 19, 20 and 21; Abercrombie, Saturday, Jan. 22; Walcott, Monday, Jan. 24; Wahpeton, Tuesday, Jan. 25; Milnor, Wednesday, Jan. 26; Gwinner, Thursday, Jan. 27; Monango, Friday, Jan. 28; Edgeley, Saturday, Jan. 29; Casselton, Monday, Jan. 31; Hatton, Tuesday, Feb. 1; Northwood, Tuesday, Feb. 2; Michigan, Friday, Feb. 4; Hillsboro, Saturday, Feb. 5; Neche, Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 7 and 8; Hamilton, Wednesday, Feb. 9; Hoople, Thursday, Feb. 10; Cavalier, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 11 and 12.

FIND LITTLE ONE DEAD.

Sad Experience for Father and Mother in Stearns County.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. John Stein, living near Kimball, were very much frightened Friday morning, when they awoke and found their 2-month-old baby dead in bed. The baby had apparently enjoyed good health, and the cause of death is not known. The case is a particularly sad one for the parents.

POLK COUNTY BOARD

Organizes and Lets the Annual Printing Contracts.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald)—The board of county commissioners, Messrs. Clements, Ecklund, Thoreson, Driscoll and Christianson, met in the commissioners' room at the courthouse and organized for the coming year by re-electing Commissioner Clements chairman, and proceeded at once to wade into the mass of business accumulated during the past month.

The county printing bids were opened Tuesday afternoon. There were several bids to choose from. The bids of the Crookston Times, Fertile Journal, Fosston Thirteen Towns and the East Grand Forks Valley View, were found to be the most favorable, and they received the contract.

AITKIN ODD FELLOWS INSTALL NEW OFFICERS.

Aitkin, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—District Deputy Grand Master Gwathmey, assisted by Worthy Past Grands Phillips, Krelwitz and Punteney, Monday evening installed the following officers to officiate for the current term in the local lodge of Odd Fellows: Charles Peterson, N. G.; Frank Erickson, V. G.; F. E. Seavey, recording secretary; Peter Larson, financial secretary; Fred Jenkins, warden; H. C. Beecher, conductor; Alfred Zoerb, R. S. of N. G.; Matt Osberg, L. S. of N. G.; W. H. Harrison, chaplain; Fred R. Heft, R. S. S.; O. D. Davis, L. S. S.; A. V. Bouton, R. S. of V. G.; Erick Ogren, L. S. of V. G.; Andrew Fajder, outside guardian; John Mattson, inside guardian.

On next Monday evening will be held the annual ball and banquet, in which all local and visiting Odd Fellows and their families are invited to participate.

MINOT'S GOOD YEAR.

Large Amount of Improvement in Magic City in 1909.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald. —Approximately $500,000 was expended here in 1909 in public improvements, it being one of the banner years in the progress of this growing city.

Foremost in the improvement work was the new water works plant, costing about $140,000. This plant is now practically complete, and is one of the very best in the state.

The Elks' club building, Zion Lutheran church, D. A. Dimnie flats, Mrs. Phillips' flats, Carroll flats, W. J. Carroll block, Smart flats, C. K. Brauer block and Youmans' bank building are among the best of the buildings that have been erected.

The 1910 building season promises to be equally as good as that of the past year. Already plans are being laid for the construction of a three-story building by the International Harvester company, while several others are also being considered.

ALDERMEN WAIVE PASSES.

So Barnesville Now Can Have Plays Profitably Produced.

Barnesville, Minn., Jan. 6.—For several years the Barnesville opera house has belonged to a circuit. This year the opera house remained idle and it has leaked out that the circuit management refused to send companies to this city, claiming they never made expenses on account of the large number of passes given to the aldermen. Rather than cheat the citizens out of any amusement, the city fathers yielded to the circuit's demands, and Barnesville will again receive the Walker plays.

MUST NOT REMOVE TOP FROM MUSKRAT'S HOUSE.

Aitkin, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Game Warden Eddy warns trappers that under a recent amendment to the game law it is unlawful to remove the top of a muskrat house to set a trap therein. Every such offense is punishable by a fine of $10. Traps may be set anywhere near or beside the houses, but the tops must not be disturbed.

SEVERAL MINNESOTA POSTMASTERS NAMED.

Washington, Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald)—The president has nominated the following to be postmasters in Minnesota: Roy A. Smith, Beardsley; Albert H. Sturges, Clinton; John Anderson, Sebeka; C. P. Christensen, Lake Crystal; Ferdinand H. Bernig, Renville; Hiram W. Severs, West Concord.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS INJURED OPENING BOTTLE.

Hamilton, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—T. R. Chambers, in attempting to open a bottle with the use of a knife, ran the instrument clear through the palm of his hand. The stopper was of the glass variety, but was covered with cork. In attempting to carve the stopper out, his knife slipped.

Frozen Limbs Amputated.

Mankato, Minn., Jan. 6.—Amel Schuerer of this city, while employed at Kasota, was found several mornings ago in the woodshed of his boarding house, with both feet and both hands frozen, and portions of his head frost bitten. He was brought to a hospital in this city, and it has been found necessary to amputate both feet and some of the fingers of his hands. It is supposed he will recover.

Oldest Northwestern Employe.

Fon du Lac, Wis., Jan. 6.—George E. Mosher, one of the oldest employes of the Northwestern in the point of service, has retired as roadmaster on the Northern Wisconsin division. He rose from the position of laborer on a wood and gravel train in 1866 to that of roadmaster of the Northern Wisconsin division in 1896.

Hotel to Become Hospital.

St. James, Minn., Jan. 6.—The Park hotel has been purchased by Mayor B. W. Utman of Hudson, Wis., for $25,000. It is understood that physicians and surgeons are associated with Utman, who will turn the property into a first-class hospital. Very few alterations will be necessary.

Death Bares Life Secret.

Linton, N. D., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The death of Patrick Moran, one of the pioneer residents of Emmons county, has brought to light the first information that has been obtainable concerning his life. Moran, though one of the first residents of this section, and though he was widely known, would never tell anything of his life. Remarks now and then lead his intimate friends to believe that he was a member of the Fenian organization, and had probably left Ireland, his native land, for that reason.

DAKOTA BRIEFS

Grand Forks, N. D.—The board of county commissioners organized by the election of J. R. Poupore as chairman for the coming year. Michael Reidy was selected as superintendent of the county poor farm, succeeding himself.

Grafton, N. D.—The preliminary trial of C. Cooper, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was commenced in Grafton Wednesday. He is the man brought back from Butte, Mont., where he was taken into custody several weeks since.

Kenmare, N. D.—Mrs. J. W. Merritt sustained a very serious injury when she fell on an icy sidewalk, her right leg being fractured. She is well on in years and the injury is one that will mean that she will be laid up for some little time to come.

Agricultural College, N. D.—Dean Sheppard and Prof. Martin, the latter just arrived from the dairying district of Iowa, are busily engaged in preparing for students who are to take up the course on butter making at the agricultural college this week.

Fargo, N. D.—Otto Skidmore, the La Moure man who has been in St. John's hospital for some time suffering from wounds, which it is charged were inflicted by George Wooddell with a dangerous weapon, has been discharged from that institution as convalescent. He returned to La Moure.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—A curfew ordinance went into effect Monday night. The ordinance prohibits minors under 16 years of age from remaining upon the streets and alleys between the hours of 8 o'clock in the evening and 6 o'clock in the morning during winter, and between the hours of 9 and 5 during summer.

Fargo, N. D.—Fargo court officials are busy this week. For the next several days they will make up for periods during the year when business is light. The opening of the United States court Wednesday transformed the federal building from its natural drowsy appearance, to one of the most active that could be found.

PENINSULA BRIEFS

Calumet—The Calumet lodge, Knights of Kaleva, is being incorporated under a new law passed by the last legislature. The twelve incorporators are prominent local Finns. The order is a fraternal one, organized in May, 1901. It is a very strong one, numerically and financially. The lodge recently acquired possession of the Finnish hall.

Hancock—The lecture given Monday evening at the Kerredge theater by Former Governor J. Frank Hanley of Indiana, in the Star entertainment course of the Grace M. E. church, was attended by a very small audience, probably owing to the stormy weather.

Houghton—The annual report of the births and deaths of Houghton and Portage township show a total of 99 births in the township and 96 births for, the village. A total of 52 deaths occurred in the village during the past year, and 37 in the township.

Hancock—Beginning Tuesday evening, the stores of Hancock and Houghton close at 6 o'clock each evening, with the exception of Monday and Saturday evenings, continuing until April 1. No meeting was considered necessary to take action on the matter, the agreement reached last year being effective this year.

Laurium—The Laurium male choir, which contains about twenty-five voices, under the direction of C. C. Uren of Laurium, will render a program of carols at the Kearsarge M. E. church next Sunday evening. The program will open with a hymn by the congregation.

Hancock—Mystic lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, installed its recently elected officers for the new year Monday night. Owing to the bad night, a number of the appointive officers did not attend, and they will be installed at a future meeting.

Negaunee—The annual collection for the orphans of the Marquette diocese, taken up Christmas at the St. Paul's church, in this city, amounted to $322.-65. The collection for the same purpose last year was $371.10.

Ishpeming—Oscar Anderson died Monday afternoon from kidney trouble. The deceased was an old resident of Ishpeming. For some few years past he had been in the city's employ as a street laborer. He was 55 years of age.

Marquette—The hearing of R. W. Blackwell, the negro porter, who is accused of taking from a sleeping car a jeweled card case valued at $600, the property of Mrs. E. N. Breitung, is being delayed, pending the arrival of the defendant's attorney.

Ishpeming—Mrs. John Power of Ishpeming gave a tea this week at which the engagement of her daughter, Mary Eleanor, to Joseph Kane Rogers of Marquette was announced. Miss Power is one of Ishpeming's best known society young women. This year she is attending the normal school at Marquette. Mr. Rogers is the son of Rev. J. M. Rogers, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

St. Cloud—Word has been received of the death of Thomas Sappington Ervin of Philadelphia, father of Mrs. C. Ervin of this city. The deceased was 80 years of age and one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Philadelphia.

Aitkin—Walter Knox has returned from Stillwater, where he attended the wedding of N. I. Cluff and Miss Minnie B. Smith of this place. The ceremony was performed at the Methodist parsonage on Dec. 26, the bride being attended by Miss Louise Rhodes and Mr. Knox being honored as best man.

Bemidji—The "Big Bemidji" basketball team won two games Saturday evening, defeating the Bemidji high school five in a preliminary contest by a score of 37 to 21, later taking on the Cass Lake team and winning from that organization by the decisive score of 19 to 6.

East Grand Forks—G. B. Kirkman, who is connected with the Roberts Filter company, has completed all work in connection with the installation of the new filtration plant for the city and expects to leave soon.

Aitkin—Miss Maud Allen came from Duluth to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Allen.

Crookston—Allen McKinnon has taken charge of the reins of the city government, the office being turned over to him on Monday morning. The appointive officers hold over until the council meets, when the new mayor sends in his list of appointments for confirmation. Mayor McKinnon has no statement to make at this time.

Stillwater—Theodore Kumfurt has has been received at the state prison from Polk county under a sentence of a year and three months for assault in the second degree.

Owatonna—James Latham of Albert Lea on Monday assumed the management of the Gem theater in this city, he having bought an interest in the venture from S. L. Manhart, who continues as an active member of the firm, but who felt that his increasing business interests made it impossible to give his complete personal attention to all of them.

Fergus Falls—Prof. D. G. Ristad, president of Park Region college, has resigned as a member of the library board of Fergus Falls, on account of his college work, and Mayor Townley tendered the vacancy to A. R. Kitts, who has accepted. Mr. ...tts is a man of scholarly tastes, of wide reading and genial personality.

Moorhead—County Treasurer Chris Paulson of Clay county reports the total receipts of his office for the year 1909 at $423,827.15, of which $85,000 is from the sale of ditch bonds. The remainder represents tax collections, with the exception of comparatively small amounts for fines, etc.

Little Falls—Joseph Poluck of Swan River died Monday at the home of his parents after a lingering illness from consumption. The deceased was 33 years of age and was unmarried. The funeral was held Wednesday.

Brainerd—The Retail Clerks' union has installed these officers: President, W. J. Mahoney; vice president, W. J. Lyonaise; financial secretary, C. C. Niles; treasurer, Lillian Lawrence.

St. Cloud—The Stearns county printing has been awarded to the Weekly Times, there being no other bids. The job printing was awarded to Der Nordstern. The contingent fund for the county auditor and the wolf bounty was left the same as in former years.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Mellen—Reynolds, the saloon keeper, who with his wife are accused of holding out money belonging to a customer, while making change in their saloon near Mellen, were brought here for examination before Justice of the Peace Simmonds. They made an affidavit of prejudice against Simmonds, and will be examined at Ashland.

Ashland—A large number of people gathered at the Odd Fellows' hall Monday evening to witness the installation of the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows for the ensuing term.

Milwaukee — George Millard, who came to Milwaukee more than fifty years ago, died Monday morning in the home of his son, Fred C. Millard, aged 93. Mr. Millard was born in Moravia, N. Y. He is survived by his two brothers, William and Corydon Millard, and one sister, Mrs. E. D. Holton, Milwaukee. He leaves three sons.

La Crosse—Henry Erickson, 65 years old, a cobbler, charged with assaulting Florence Stacey, aged 13, was bound over to the circuit court in $500 bonds, which he furnished. The mother of the girl, it is said, tried to shoot Erickson upon learning of the alleged crime.

Madison—The case against Mrs. Phil Allen and her sister, Miss Addie Jackson of Chicago, and her brother-in-law, Guy Roe of Winona, Minn., which was to come up Tuesday, has been postponed until Feb. 1. They are charged with conspiracy to conceal assets of Mr. Allen.

Stevens Point—The body of Lawrence Lewinski was found cold in death in the little house he occupied at Polonia. Lewinski had been a resident of the town of Sharon for many years, and since the death of his wife, ten or twelve years ago, lived alone and had been a town charge.

Fond du Lac—At a joint meeting of the executive committees of the Wisconsin Funeral Directors and Embalmers' association, the Wisconsin Furniture Men's association, and the Wisconsin Commercial Agents' club Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 1 to 5, was selected as dates for these three state conventions to be held in Fond du Lac.

Madison—The state railroad commission dismissed the complaint of A. P. Davis and others against the Wisconsin Telephone company of Hortonville against rates and service, except that portion which complains that the rates are excessive, which it held for further investigation.

SHOULD KEEP WALKS CLEAN

Bishop Morrison Urges Law to Reach Outside Property Owners.

"If there is not a law on the statute books or an ordinance of the city of Duluth now, compelling non-resident owners of vacant property to keep their sidewalks clear of snow during the winter, one should certainly be passed," said Bishop J. D. Morrison of the Episcopal diocese of Duluth, yesterday.

"I don't know just what the legal status of the matter is, but I do know that the failure of non-resident property owners or their agents to keep the sidewalks clear in front of some pieces of property is a great inconvenience to the people of Duluth.

"Resident property owners and tenants of improved property usually obey the law in regard to clearing of sidewalks, for they are easily reached and can be made to do the work if they fail; but no effort is apparently made to reach non-resident property owners, and in consequence the pedestrian is subjected to a series of ups and downs that is annoying, to say the least. If there is a law governing the matter, the authorities should see that it is enforced, and if there is no law, one should certainly be framed if it can constitutionally be done.

"Resident property owners make the unimproved property of outside owners valuable, and the outside owners should at least be made to keep their walks clean."

HORSEWHIPS EDITOR.

South Dakota Attorney Publicly Chastises Socialistic Scribe.

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 6.—Freeman Knowles, ex-congressman and editor of a Socialist weekly, was publicly horsewhipped here yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the board of county commissioners by Chamber Kellar of Lead, attorney for the Homestake Mining company. Kellar entered the room and told Knowles that he did not propose to submit to the severe strictures about him in Knowles' paper and proceeded to whip him, after first asking Knowles to remove his glasses.

The men were surrounded by the commissioners and the state's attorney. The affair ended amid much excitement.

APPROPRIATION MADE TO BUY MACHINERY.

George L. Reis, vice president and general manager of the Minnesota Steel company, has returned from New York. The United States Steel corporation, he said, has appropriated $275,000 for the acquisition of locomotives and other machinery to be used in the construction of the proposed $10,000,000 steel plant at New Duluth, work on which will begin in the spring.

The announcement that the company was opening bids for this machinery was made in The Herald several weeks ago.

TITCOMB IS CHOOSEN.

Former Government Fish Expert Is Offered Minnesota Position.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—John W. Titcomb of Washington was chosen state superintendent of fisheries for Minnesota by the new game and fish commission which organized yesterday. That Titcomb will accept is not absolutely assured, but the members of the board have been negotiating with him and they believe his services can be secured.

No salary was fixed at the meeting, but it was left to the new executive agent, H. A. Rider, to continue the negotiations and if possible close the contract with Prof. Titcomb. The salary of the position is limited by law to $3,000 a year, with the use of the residence at the St. Paul fish hatchery, fuel and light.

Prof. Titcomb was former chief of the department of fish culture in the United States department of fisheries, and members of the board said that he is recognized as one of the most eminent authorities and most efficient workers in this line.

The board announced that negotiations are in progress with E. C. Cobb of Taunton, Mass., also connected with the United States bureau of fisheries, to come here and become fish culturist for the commission. No action was taken on this matter, but members of the board expressed hope that his services can be secured.

POPULAR RECIPE

This Home - Made Cough Syrup Stops Coughs Quickly.

Make a plain syrup by taking one pint of Granulated Sugar, add one-half pint of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put two and one-half ounces of pure Pinex in a pint bottle and fill it up with the Granulated Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours. Keep well corked and it will never spoil.

The effectiveness of this simple home-made article is surprising. It usually stops a deep-seated cough in twenty-four hours. It is also excellent for colds, whooping coughs, pains in the chest, bronchial troubles and similar ailments.

Use the real Pinex in making it, however. It is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway White Pine Extract, and it is far superior to the numerous pine oil and pine tar preparations. If your druggist does not have it, he can get it for you without trouble.

The proportion above suggested makes a full pint of the best cold and cough remedy. The taste is so pleasant that children take it willingly. The total cost is about 54 cents.

Strained honey can be used instead of the syrup, and makes a very fine honey and pine tar cough syrup.

Emulsified Oil

When the doctor says you must take Cod Liver Oil he means Emulsified Oil and not the crude oil which is very heavy and hard to digest.

Scott's Emulsion

is the world's standard preparation of Cod Liver Oil; it is very easily digested and immediately absorbed, and will not upset the stomach like the crude or plain oil.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: JAN. 9. Matt. iii, 13-17; iv, 1-11; Baptism and Temptation of Jesus.

THE CONNECTION.

It was probably six months after the beginning of John's ministry that Jesus came to be baptized. The temptation followed at once, after the baptism.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Baptism. iii, 13-17.

"Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to the Jordan unto John to be baptized of him. But John would have hindered him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? But Jesus answered and said unto him, Suffer it now: for thus it becometh us to fulfil all righteousness. Then he suffered him. And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway from the water: and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove, and coming upon him; and lo, a voice out of the heavens, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

1. The Occasion.

Thousands from Judea had professed repentance from sin, in view of the coming king and His kingdom, and had been baptized as an external sign of that repentance, in which purification and the entrance upon a new life was implied. Some must have come from Galilee. From Galilee came Jesus. The traditional date of His baptism is Jan. 6, A. D. 27, but it was more likely a little earlier. The traditional place is about six miles up the Jordan from its mouth, and opposite the site of ancient Jericho.

2. Identified by John.

He had come from an inward Messianic consciousness that prompted Him forth at the right moment. He came to John because He was to take up John's task, and because He was a member of the nation, which John was calling to a new experience. He had no difficulty in finding the place, for the fame of the herald was everywhere; He could easily identify John, though they never had met, on account of the distance between their homes and the peculiar habit of John's life. The latter would need no introduction, for God had promised him a sign by which he would know the Messiah, and his eager soul was straining eager eyes for him. But there was another sign that he had not counted on, the overpowering purity and majesty of the Christ.

3. John's Reluctance.

When Jesus applied to him for baptism, John shrank back from the thought, for baptism was a confession of sin, and implied repentance, and he saw that there was no sin to confess, and there never had been, or could be, any repentance; on Jesus' face was hidden "the story of a hidden life spent in walking with God." At the same time, such purity in Jesus quickened John's sense of his own sinfulness, as it does in any one who really looks upon Him. He stood before his messenger in so rapt and exalted a state of mind as to depress him. In seeking to dissuade Him from such a confession as would be implied in His baptism, John proclaims his purity and majesty, confesses his own sense of sin, and expresses what seems to have been a desire of his own to be baptized. He may have longed to thus confess his sins and his repentance, as the others did, and may have felt that this noble stranger would do it for him.

4. Jesus' Motive.

The reply of Jesus is that since He is a man and one of the people who are called on to begin new lives and signalize it by baptism, He and John must fulfill every religious obligation, just as in any other case. He by being baptized, John by baptizing Him, He is made like His brethren in all things. He is simply acting on that principle of obedience which brought Him to the world and governed all His acts, and joined with it was the principle of identification with the lot of mankind. It is difficult to see in that act anything else, such as consecration to His office as Messiah or priest, or vicarious obedience.

5. The New Epoch.

John had the promised proof, and more, for, with the dove, as symbol of the Spirit, was the word from the Father, confirming all that he thought. This was the day for which he had dreamed, and longed, and prayed. This sign told him that in all his teaching and exhorting, and in the revolution which he had started there had been no mistake. For Jesus it was a thrilling moment. The old life of privacy was gone; the new career was begun. The life He had lived, the Messianic inspiration He had felt, the purposes and plans He had formed were approved by the Father. The Spirit who had built His body and had matured His human mind, so permeating it as to secure its perfect development and make it a "fit organ through which His divinity might act," was given with larger fullness, anointing Him for His work, and giving Him unfailing communion with His Father. The next thing is to have him tested in the right use of His powers, plans and opportunities.

II.

The Temptation. iv, 1-11.

"Then was Jesus led up of the Spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil. And when He had fasted forty days and forty nights, He afterward hungered. And the tempter came and said unto Him, 'If thou art the Son of God, command that these stones become bread.' But He answered and said, 'It is written, man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeeth out of the mouth of God.' Then the devil taketh Him into the holy city; and he set Him on the pinnacle of the temple, and saith unto Him, 'If Thou art the Son of God, cast Thyself down; for it is written:

"'He shall give his angels charge concerning thee; and

"'On their hands they shall bear thee up,

"'Lest haply thou dash thy foot against a stone.'

"Jesus said unto him, 'Again it is written, thou shalt not make trial of the Lord thy God.' Again, the devil taketh him unto an exceeding high mountain, and showeth Him all the kingdoms of the world, and the glory of them; and he said unto Him, 'All these things will I give Thee if Thou wilt fall down and worship me.' Then saith Jesus unto him, 'Get thee hence, Satan; for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve. Then the devil leaveth Him; and behold, angels came and ministered unto Him."

After forty days of ecstatic brooding over His work, He is hungry.

1. The Temptation to Selfishness.

How will Jesus use the new powers and gifts with which the Holy Spirit has endowed him? His fidelity must be tested and to tempt means to try, to test. He is not tested at all till He is tested to the utmost and he finds that utmost only in what Satan can do. The Holy Spirit does not employ Satanic agency, but must allow him to meet all Satanic ingenuity. The purpose of Jesus is to destroy the works of the devil and the latter is on the watch. Satan cannot hope to induce Jesus to do a thing wrong in itself but perhaps he can get Him to do a right thing in a wrong way, and thus misuse the power with which He was intrusted. After the long absorbed thought He had given to His work. He has come to the reaction and is hungry. It is right to have bread and also to win the attention of the people, for they were expecting him to do some miracle, but Jesus saw instantly that He would be giving the power bestowed on Him for self rather than for others and it would mean distrust of God, who had promised to take care of Him, in all such emergencies and He repelled the temptation with a sharp thrust of the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

2. The temptation to make use of the sensational, to win the attention which He so much desired. People were expecting it and therefore he would be safe in casting himself from the pinnacle of the temple. He first was asked to distrust God; now to trust Him presumptuously. It is right to win the admiration of the people and to trust God, and Jesus would probably have a nervous inclination to cast Himself down, but this test proposed a threefold wrong—putting God to a test He had not authorized; gratifying a vulgar desire of the people without bettering them; evading the pain and suffering through which alone He could win and save them. Again He used the word of God in repelling the tempter.

3. The temptation to use bad means for a good end, not to sin for the sake of sinning, but to do evil that good might come. Satan tries the old argument that the end justifies the means. The rulership of the world is what Jesus desired, what He came for. To rule them at once is very desirable, for it would save time and therefore the period of sinning. It would save suffering for Him. It was repelled because it could never be right to worship any but God, or to save men en masse rather than as individuals, or to exchange God's way for Satan's, the cross for a corroding crown.

Jesus came forth pure, after these fires, Satan left Him for a reason, but never ceased to dog His footsteps and try Him.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

To the real existence and personality of the devil the Scriptures are fully committed. He is represented as the chief of the fallen angels, and through these he is able, though not omnipresent, to be carrying on the temptation of many persons at the same time. He is, of course, limited in knowledge, though immeasurably superior to man.—Broadus.

Jesus emerged from the wilderness with the plan of His life, which, no doubt, had been formed long before, hardened in the fire of trial. Nothing is more conspicuous in His after life than the resolution with which He carried it out. Other men, even those who have accomplished the greatest tasks, have sometimes had no definite plan, but only seen by degrees in the evolution of circumstances the path to pursue; their purposes have been modified by events, and the advice of others. But Jesus started with His plan perfected, and never deviated from it by a hair's breadth.—Stalker.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1. Why should every disciple of Christ array himself on the side of Christ's people?
2. Can one be a follower who refuses to obey a positive command of Christ's?
3. Can we expect the presence and support of the Holy Spirit in every duty and temptation?
4. Can we be freely trusted till we have been fully tested?
5. Do not the three forms of temptation assail every one?
6. How does Christ's victory aid us?

KNOX PLANS WORLD COURT

Has Sent Letter to Powers Regarding Extension of Hague Tribunal.

Statement Points Out Great Advantages of Such Action.

Washington, Jan. 6.—With a view to making international arbitration judicial in fact as well as in theory, Secretary Knox has addressed a circular note to the powers, proposing that the jurisdiction of the international prize court, authorized in 1907 by The Hague peace conference, be extended so as to make it a court of arbitral justice. This note was dated Oct. 18, 1909. No responses have been received. A statement, explaining the contents of the note and the reason why the proposal was made, was given out last night by Secretary Knox.

The international prize court was to be composed of fifteen judges, eight of whom were to be chosen from the larger maritime countries—Germany, Austria-Hungary, France, Great Britain, Italy, Japan and the United States—and were to serve six years. The other judges were to be chosen from the remaining nations, and were to sit for a longer or shorter period, as determined by the maritime standing of their respective countries.

Advantage to Nations.

In his statement, Secretary Knox explains his reason for suggesting that the jurisdiction of the prize court be extended. He says:

"The advantage of investing the prize court with the functions of a court of arbitral justice needs no argument, because it is obviously easier to utilize an existing body than to create a new institution, and as the judges of the prize court must necessarily be versed in international law, they could well be intrusted with any question susceptible of arbitration.

"The proposition has the very great advantage of providing the nations with a permanent court of arbitration for the peaceful settlement of controversies in time of peace, whereas the prize court, as such, presupposes a state of war, for without war the capture of property is illegal.

"Utilizing the methods of composition of the prize court by thus investing it with the functions of a court of arbitral justice, would constitute this latter tribunal, and the world would thus have, for the states freely consenting to and accepting the proposition, one international judiciary to adjudge cases arising in peace as well as controversies springing from war.

Would Set Precedents.

"The court would thus be permanently constituted and would be in reality permanent; obviating the delay involved in the creation of a temporary tribunal, and developing international law by a series of carefully considered precedents by judges carefully chosen and acting under a sense of judicial responsibility. Arbitration would not merely be, as both Hague conferences have said, the most efficacious and most equitable method of settling disputes which diplomacy has failed to adjust, but would be judicial, in fact, as well as in theory."

TWO MINING LEASES FILED

Five Duluth People Assured of Annual Income of $10,000 Each.

Two leases on iron mining property in this county were filed with the register of deeds yesterday. One is for fifty years on the northeast quarter section 10, township 62, range 14 west. It was taken by E. C. Kennedy. The owner is Annie McCue of Duluth, who gets $150 a month and a royalty of 25 cents a ton.

The Maddera Iron Mining company agrees to pay Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Whiteside, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Chisholm and W. C. Robinson of Duluth $50,000 a year in royalties for a lease on land in the northeast quarter of section 36, township 58, range 21 west. A dollar a ton on a basis of a minimum yearly output of 50,000 tons will be the royalty.

HOGS NEAR TOP NOTCH IN CHICAGO MARKET.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Hogs sold here yesterday at an average price of $8.60—figures which, except during the summer of 1882, are the highest recorded since the Civil war. A few of the best grades sold yesterday at $8.75.

Exceptionally light receipts of live hogs at the leading Western packing centers, following a long period of similar scarcity, formed the moving factor in the advance. Total arrivals of hogs at the six leading packing markets aggregated 57,700 head, compared with 105,300 head the corresponding day a year ago. The light movement was partly due to severe storms and consequent inability of the railroads to transport the stock.

DIRECTORY OF AMUSEMENTS

WHERE TO GO TONIGHT.

LYCEUM—George Cohan in "The Yankee Prince."

"The Yankee Prince."

George M. Cohan will present "The Yankee Prince," one of his own compositions, surrounded by his "royal family" and a big cast and chorus to the number of upwards of 100 people, at the Lyceum tonight.

From the moment the curtain goes up on the first act of "The Yankee Prince" until its final drop at the end of the third act, there is something of interest to catch the eye or please the ear and to keep the audience amused. It tells in a bright way the story of a Chicago man of wealth and ambition who aspired to a marriage between his daughter and an English earl, whom no sensible American girl would tolerate, much less marry. The young woman's mother, American to a most patriotic degree, declares on every occasion that Chicago is good enough for her. Mother and daughter combine against the father and earl and in favor of a rich young American.

Of course, no play from Mr. Cohan's pen would be complete without music, and in "The Yankee Prince" there is said to be a riot of it; in fact, the musical numbers and ensembles follow each other in such kaleidoscopic fashion, interspersed with flashes of witty lines and bright repartee, that the average auditor is lost in amazement in contemplating the fact that the entire performance, in line, lyrics and dialogue, all emanated from young Mr. Cohan's gifted pen.

The complete cast of principals who will surround George M. Cohan includes Jerry J. Cohan, Helen F. Cohan, Josephine Cohan, Tom Lewis, P. B. Pratt, Samuel J. Ryan, Robert Emmett Lennon, J. Jiquel Lance, William Leyle, Donald Crisp, Dore Rogers, Lola Hoffman, Lila Rhodes and Mildred Blaine. A special feature of "The Yankee Prince" production will be an augmented orchestra.

"The Third Degree."

Miss Fernanda Eliscu, appearing as Annie Jeffries in Henry B. Harris' production of Charles Klein's drama, "The Third Degree," is a lover of the simple home life. Near New York she owns a beautiful home with all modern conveniences and improvements; has her garden, her pony and phaeton and a lot of chickens. All of which she can thank herself for. Every cent of money represented in her home was made by Miss Eliscu. She is thrifty, and as a business woman is decidedly shrewd. True, occasionally she dabbles in stocks and bonds, but it must be said to her credit that she usually buys and sells with keen discretion. She never "has a try" at a new Wall street stock. The standard stocks are good enough for her. At one selling last year she made a profit of over $19,000. However, it is not often that she makes more than a few hundred dollars on a deal.

TELL DETAILS OF BIG TRUST MERGER.

New York, Jan. 5.—Details of the Guaranty-Morton-Fifth Avenue Trust company merger were made public last night after a meeting of the boards of directors of the three companies. Among other things a further increase was authorized in the capital stock of the Guaranty Trust company as titular head from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000. The capital stock has been previously increased from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. It now only remains for stockholders formally to ratify the action of the directors at a meeting to be held on Jan. 25 and exchange their stock.

The generally credited report that the Guaranty Trust company ultimately will absorb the Bankers' Trust company and perhaps others is denied.

WOMAN HOLD-UP ARTIST USES GUN IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—A female footpad has made her appearance here. Assisted by a man, a well-dressed woman held up and robbed Ernest Yaegel of $8.50 and also battered the victim up a bit.

According to Yaegel, he was standing on a street corner and was accosted by a woman, who drew a revolver from her muff and ordered him to hold up his hands. A man then appeared, searched Yaegel and knocked him down. Both the robbers then disappeared.

D. OGDEN MILLS' BODY IS TO BE TAKEN EAST.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 6.—The body of the late D. Ogden Mills, who died suddenly at his winter home at Millbrae, Monday night, will be taken to New York Friday night in a special train. Mr. Mills' attorney here said that he thought the will of the late financier was in the hands of New York attorneys.

HIBBING CLUB ELECTS JAN. 10

Business Men's Organization to Choose New Officers Next Monday.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many matters pertaining to a Greater Hibbing were discussed at the last meeting of the Commercial club. It was decided to hold the annual election next Monday, Jan. 10.

The club did not take the determined stand expected in favor of increasing saloon licenses from $500 to $1,000, but sort of divided, leaving the matter to be worked out by the council.

The Great Northern was asked by resolution for a second passenger train on the Great Northern Nashwauk extension. The passenger service is now confined to one train running from Grand Rapids to Virginia, and the Commercial club want another running from Virginia to Grand Rapids in the morning and back at night. Such an addition would give the Mesaba an excellent train service.

A committee, consisting of D. D. McEachin, E. S. Wolfan and Nathan Nides, was appointed to consider the matter of securing a reduction in insurance rates. It is expected steps may be taken by the village to improve the water supply and to better the condition of buildings as to their care, which will result in a reduction of rates. The matter will be thoroughly investigated by the committee and a detailed report rendered to the club as soon as possible.

EVELETH CURLERS SLIDE THE STONES

Getting Ready for National Bonspiel in Duluth Next Week.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The curling club will play their first matches of the season with two rinks from the Virginia Curling club, here Friday.

The play for the Hayes & Casey trophy began last evening with eighteen rinks contesting.

After the Hayes & Casey trophy contests are over play will be begun for the Glode trophy, hung up by John Glode, proprietor of the Hotel Glode. Many other local, enterprising citizens signified their intentions of hanging up trophies.

Many of the local players will enter the Northwestern bonspiel, to be held at Duluth next week.

HIBBING DRUNK EXPENSIVE.

Ole Vingan Pays $25 and Costs for Toying With Booze.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ole Vingan appeared before Judge Thomas Brady in the municipal court yesterday charged with being drunk and disorderly and was fined $25 and costs or forty days in the county jail. Vingan pleaded guilty and paid his fine.

William Donavan was arraigned for petit larceny and was fined $25 and costs or sixty days in the county jail. Donavan was taken to Duluth this morning.

The judge was lenient with Fred Calling and A. R. Chapman, who pleaded guilty to being drunk. After a mild lecture the judge suspended sentence.

Alfred Aura, the young man, who created considerable excitement Tuesday evening in front of one of the Third avenue saloons was fined $5 and costs or twenty days. Aura paid the fine.

MANY NEW BOOKS.

Eveleth High School Library Provides Reading Material.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Many new books of fiction, science and history are being received at the high school library.

The following days have been set for the different grades to draw books on: Monday, eighth grade; Tuesday, ninth and eleventh grades; Thursday, tenth and twelfth grades.

The library is under the charge of Miss Teckla Jackson, a local high school graduate. The Crescent Literary society's library on the second floor of the high school building is under the charge of Miss Gertrude Owens, who commenced her duties as literary librarian, Tuesday.

The night school classes have resumed.

The teachers during the last semester are Miss Hattie Pennington, Lou Wilson, Ada Moulton, Olive Johnson. Each has charge of a separate class, and teach all the primary subjects.

Happy, Happy, Use TIZ

A Marvel for Sore Feet. Act; Right Off.

Sore Feet? Never After Using TIZ—

Good-bye sore feet, aching feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelling feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses and bunions and raw spots.

You've never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

It acts at once and makes the feet feel remarkably fresh and sore-proof.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you don't find all this true after trying a box of TIZ, you can get your money right back.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Dept. 490, Dodge Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

EVELETH FRIENDS GIVEN SURPRISE

Wedding of William Wright and Miss Margaret Smith Not Expected.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The news of the wedding of William H. Wright of this city and Miss Margaret May Smith of Marquette, Mich., caused much surprise. Although a resident of this city for only a short time Mr. Wright had become very popular, and holds an important position as railroad engineer at the Adams mine. His bride is also well known here, having visited in this city on former occasions.

CORPSE IS CHOPPED FROM FROZEN DITCH

Father of Two Mesaba Range Women Meets Tragic End in Michigan.

Ishpeming, Mich., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—A boy walking along the South Shore tracks, between the Barnum and Junction locations, Tuesday, found the body of David H. Dalton, well known in the county, lying in a ditch, within a few feet of the railway. The deceased lived near where the body was found, and the boy, who was one of his neighbors, knew him well.

The coroner and prosecutor were so certain that Mr. Dalton had been killed by one of the South Shore trains that they did not deem an inquest necessary. It was evident that death had occurred several hours before the body was found, as it was frozen in the ice, and it was necessary to use an ax to release it. The skull was badly crushed, and it is likely that death was instantaneous.

The deceased was an old resident of the county, and has lived at Humboldt for many years before moving to this city. He was supervisor of Humboldt township a few terms. He was about 57 years of age, and is survived by his widow, two sons and two daughters. Both of his daughters live on the Mesaba range. They arrived here yesterday. One of them is married. The son lives at home.

MANY SEEKING JOBS.

No Lack of Candidates for City Positions in Eveleth.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6—(Special to The Herald)—The new city council will meet again this evening to consider the appointing of the various city officials for the coming two years. A city clerk, attorney, superintendent of the water works, street commissioner, fire chief, and health inspector are to be appointed. Many of the places are being sought by several candidates.

OFFICER TO RESCUE.

Eveleth Policeman Prevents Sick Man From Freezing to Death.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Jerome, a saloon porter, while walking along Grant avenue, fell to the ground in a half dazed condition yesterday afternoon. Officer Zidar, who saw him fall, hurriedly secured a sleigh and brought the man to the local hospital. It was found that Jerome was not in very serious condition, and after some care he was allowed to go home. But for the timely arrival of the officer, the man would have frozen to death, as he was in a helpless state when found.

LINDSAY GOING SOUTH.

Logging Superintendent of Big Company to Leave.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—In order to be associated with W. H. Cook in the lumbering business in South Carolina, Robert Lindsay, superintendent of logging for the Virginia & Rainy Lake Lumber company, and Robert Smith, his assistant, have resigned.

F. H. Gilmor, for many years in charge of the logging from the Weyerhaeuser interests in this part of the country, with headquarters at Kinoross, succeeds Mr. Lindsey with the Rainy Lake company, and William Hughes takes Mr. Gilmor's position at Kinoross.

The new mill of the Rainy Lake company will begin operations tomorrow morning. The mill is one of the largest in the world, and is the most complete and best equipped in existence.

EVELETH IS PLEASED.

Re-Election of Neil McInnis as Chairman of Board Is Popular.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The many friends here of County Commissioner Neil McInnis were glad to read in The Herald that he was re-elected chairman of the county board. He is now the recipient of many Eveleth congratulations. He was one of the original founders of this city, and is one of the most popular citizens of this city, having been a resident of this city since its infancy.

HIBBING MILITIA IS PRACTICING FOR GAME.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald)—Company M is practicing regularly and will be in good trim for the next game, which will be played with the high school five Jan. 18.

At a meeting of the high school students it was decided to complete the organization of the hockey team. The high school has some excellent material for a hockey game this year and is ready and anxious to meet any hockey team on the range. Challenges have been sent to all range teams with Virginia, Eveleth and Ely preferred.

The Modern Brotherhood of America held its annual meeting Tuesday evening, E. C. Booth being elected president for the fourth consecutive time. Mrs. Packard was elected vice president. A light lunch was served after the installation ceremonies.

WATER MAIN FREEZES.

It Bursts and Two Harbors Plant Shuts Down Temporarily.

Two Harbors, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The freezing and bursting of an exposed water main on Seventh avenue on the lake shore, necessitated shutting down the water plant yesterday afternoon until the break could be repaired. The main was exposed by the action of the waves and burst, the water flowing back into the lake as fast as pumped.

Fortunately no fires broke out while the water supply was shut off.

HIBBING STOCK SOLD.

Clothing Establishment Goes Under Hammer to Satisfy Creditors.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Four bidders from Hibbing and half a dozen from Duluth, were on hand at the sale of the clothing stock of A. Freidman, 107 Pine street, Tuesday afternoon.

The stock was knocked down to the Hibbing department store for 45 cents on the dollar. The invoice figures were $6,500. F. E. Church of the Northern Shoe company of Duluth, was in charge of the sale, in the capacity of trustee.

SUPERIOR TRAINMAN TO EMBARK IN FARMING.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Hagadorn of Superior has purchased about thirty-seven acres of William Furlong's farm at the Prairie river, east of here, near Gunn Junction. Mr. Hagadorn is a trainman now working out of Superior, and it is said he expects to get a run which will make his terminal at this end at Gunn Junction, and that he is investing in land near what will be his future home. Eighteen dollars per acre is said to have been the purchase price.

HIBBING LETS CONTRACT FOR A NEW FIRE HALL.

Hibbing, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contract of the construction of the new fire hall was awarded to Graham-Young company of this city, for $5,000. The new fire hall will be a two-story brick building, and will be erected in the rear of the Longyear Exploration company building about the middle of the block and will face Superior street.

GRAND RAPIDS TO HEAR DISCUSSION OF SOCIALISM.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Miss Anna Agnes Maley, national organizer of women for the Socialist party, will lecture at the village hall on the evenings of Jan. 10 and 11 on "Socialism." On the 11th Miss Maley will speak at the high school in the morning.

IN THE DAY'S WORK AT WASHINGTON

Mann's Panama Bill Passed.

The Mann bill, providing for the administration of the Panama canal zone, passed the house, 119 to 102. The measure abolishes the isthmian canal commission and invests the legislative and judicial power on the isthmus in the president of the United States. The Democrats fought every inch of the way and the vote was on strict party lines.

Since the expiration of the Fifty-eighth congress there has been no act authorizing the government of the canal zone, but President Roosevelt continued in existence the civil government on the zone after the act of April 28, 1904, became ineffective automatically.

Protect Immigrants on Ships.

All treatment of women immigrants during their occupancy of steerage accommodations, resulting in some cases in gross immorality, led to the introduction by Senator Dillingham of a bill providing for the presence of United States surgeons, immigrant inspectors and matrons on all vessels carrying immigrant or emigrant passengers between United States and foreign ports. Disclosures of bad conditions on board vessels engaged in the immigrant traffic by the congressional immigration commission are responsible for the presentation of the Dillingham bill.

About the Astor Search.

"Show us why the treasury department sent three vessels to search for Col. John Jacob Astor's missing seagoing yacht, some weeks ago," virtually demands the house committee on expenditures in favorably reporting to the Hardwick resolution of inquiry.

The measure asks the secretary of the treasury what action, if any, was taken by the revenue cutter service to discover the whereabouts of Col. Astor's yacht, and what was thus expended.

Federal Control of Morals.

Characterizing Representative Mann's white slave bill as "drastic and revolutionary," three Democratic members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, headed by Representative Richardson of Alabama, have filed in the house the minority report on that measure. The Mann bill was favorably acted upon by that committee before the holiday recess. Representatives Adamson and Hartlett of Georgia signed the minority report with Mr. Richardson. The minority takes no exception to the provisions relating to the transportation of alien women and girls in foreign commerce, and regarding admission to American ports. Chief objection to the bills is "that regulation of morals" is an affair which belongs to the states.

Favors Settlers' Bill.

A favorable report was made by the house committee on public lands on the bill extending until May 15 next the time within which settlers who located land in the inter-mountain states, including Colorado and Idaho, last June, July and August, may establish residences on their homesteads. After locating, these settlers left for their old homes to close up affairs and were delayed in putting up buildings on their return because of a hard winter.

THE SUNDAY FREE CONCERT

The program for the free concert at the Masonic temple Sunday, Jan. 9, at 3.30 p. m., follows:

(a) March—"Lenore," ..... Raff
Organ—
(b)—Cavatine, Op. 85, No. 3 .. Raff
Vocal—"Divine Redeemer" .... Gounod
Miss Maud Matteson.
Organ—"Nutcracker Ballet Suite,"... Tschaikowsky
.....
(a) Overture.
(b) Feere-Marche.
(c) Trepak—"Danse des Mirlitons."
(d) "Valse de Fleurs."
Vocal—(a) "Just a wearyin' for you," ..... Bond
(b) "Coming Thro' the Rye," .... Old Scotch
.....
Miss Maude Matteson.
(a) Fantasie—"Nesbitt's Dream of Lismore"
Organ—
(b) Overture—"Trompten" .....
..... Mendelssohn

The soloist has not been heard before during this season, but those who attend may expect a treat, judging by the successes of last winter. The Raff pieces are well known, melodious and well written. The Nutcracker suite does not comprise all of those generally included, but the most pleasing are retained and in place of those omitted the overture is inserted. This is not usually given, but is a delightful piece of light music by this master of gloom and brightness. The fantasie, "Nesbitt's Dream of Lismore," is a characteristic collection of airs which the gentleman in question hears sung by the "little people" who have come to visit him from Ireland and are now quartered at the "potato patch." The final organ piece is a heavy, but tuneful composition, calling on all the resources of the organ.

BANNER PIG PRICE.

Farmer Near Princeton, Minn., Secures the Top Price.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—It pays to raise pigs in Minnesota. I. F. Walker, a farmer from Princeton, has good proof of the truth of that statement. He sold three hogs at South St. Paul yesterday for over $70, or at the rate of $8.75 per 100 pounds, the record price for such transaction in the state. The regular market price for hogs is hovering around $8.40, but the variety raised by Mr. Walker aroused the desire of John Frisch, a South St. Paul butcher, and he paid the high price for the three.

The animals are pure blood Poland-China. They were born last June, and were raised on clover and milk, under the personal care of Mr. Walker. They were part of a carload shipment made to the market, and were picked out by the buyer for special purposes.

The Doctor's Question

Some Advice Against the Use of Harsh Purgatives and Physics.

A doctor's first question when consulted by a patient is, "Are your bowels regular?" He knows that 98 per cent of illness is attended with inactive bowels and torpid liver. This condition poisons the system with waste matter and causes accumulation of gases which must be removed through the bowels before health can be restored.

Salts, ordinary pills and cathartics may be truly likened to dynamite. Through their harsh, irritating action they force a passage through the bowels, causing pain and damage to the delicate intestinal structure which weakens the whole system, and at best only produces temporary relief. The repeated use of such treatments causes chronic irritation of the stomach and bowels, dries and hardens their tissues, deadens their nerves, stiffens their muscles and generally brings about an injurious habit which sometimes has almost, if not fatal results.

We have a pleasant and safe remedy for constipation and bowel disorders in general. We are so certain of its great curative value that we promise to return the purchaser's money in every case where it fails to produce entire satisfaction. This remedy is called Rexall Orderlies. We urge you to try them at our entire risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten like candy, they act quietly and have a soothing, strengthening, healing, regulative influence on the entire intestinal tract. They do not purge, gripe, cause nausea, flatulence, excessive looseness, diarrhoea or other annoying effects, and they may be taken at any time without inconvenience.

Rexall Orderlies overcome the drug-ging habit and safely remedy constipation and associate ailments, whether acute or chronic, except in surgical cases. They are especially good for children, weak persons or old folks. Price, 36 tablets 25 cents, and 12 tablets 10 cents. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

SWEEPING BARGAIN CAMPAIGN

IN EVERY DEPARTMENT OF THIS STORE BEGINS

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 8th

$60,000 worth of high grade merchandise to be closed out during the month of January at prices way below the actual cost to maker. No article will be exempt --- everything in Men's and Young Men's Wearing Apparel goes under the knife to be slashed unmercifully.

This sale demands first attention of every Duluthian. We want everybody in this section of the state to participate in this great sale, but we do not want them to buy an article unless they are sure it costs them less here than at any other store in the northwest.

Go to every store in town, shop around, make comparisons, your verdict will be satisfactory to us.

COST OF LIVING HAS HIT ARMY

Deficit of $1,595,635 Has Arisen From Increased Prices of Staples.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Three important deevlopments today marked the inquiry started with a view to ascertaining the responsibility for the increased cost of living.

Senators Elkins of West Virginia and Crawford of South Dakota introduced resolutions providing for a congressional investigation; the war department announced to congress that there was a deficit of $1,595,635 for the subsistence of the army during the present year, mainly because of the enhanced cost of food, and Secretary Wilson declared he would cease his investigation if congress interfered.

Senator Elkins' resolution calls for an "exhaustive investigation" into the matter by a committee of five senators, while Senator Crawford calls upon the secretary of commerce and labor for figures showing the increases in wholesale and retail prices during the last decade and the causes for such increases.

The army's plight was set forth in an appeal to congress to provide more funds to feed and clothe and maintain the force, which is greater than was estimated for in the appropriation bill. The petition was accompanied by a list prepared by the commissary-general showing increases in many staples in 1909 over the cost of 1908.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

GENERALS TO BE SHIFTED AROUND

Bell Will Go to Philippines and Grant Back to His Post in the East.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Maj. Gen. J. Franklin Bell, who transfers the duties of chief of staff of the army in April to Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, will be the next commander of the army in the Philippines. Gen. Bell will succeed Maj. Gen. W. T. Duvall, who retires from the service in January, 1911.

It also has been definitely determined that Maj. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, now in command of the Department of the Lakes, again will be assigned to his old command at the head of the Department of the East. Gen. Wood now occupies this position. It is generally understood that Maj. Gen. W. H. Carter, now in command of the Department of Luxon, will be assigned to command the Department of the Lakes.

ORDER OF OWLS NOT BACK OF IT

Death Benefit Fund Conducted By the Supreme Secretary.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—John A. Hartigan, commissioner of insurance, has issued a bulletin in which he says:

"The supreme secretary of the Order of Owls writes this department as follows: 'I myself personally conduct for my own benefit a death fund with members of the Owls.' This should be interesting information for the members of this order, who have been paying assessments with the understanding that they were receiving insurance from the order. The Order of Owls is not licensed to do an insurance business in this state. The organization is not doing an insurance business, but some individuals are using the organization for personal benefit. The value of this so-called insurance is shown by the fact that a recent claimant in St. Paul received on a certificate promising 'not more than $1,000,' a total benefit of less than $20.

"An examination by the New York and Massachusetts insurance departments of the American Credit-Indemnity Company of New York shows a considerable impairment of capital and, as a result, the capital will be reduced from $1,000,000 to $350,000. The former president has resigned.

"It is proposed to merge the Phenix Insurance Company of Brooklyn and the Fidelity Fire Insurance Company of New York, the consolidated company to be known as the Fidelity-Phenix Fire Insurance Company of New York. The new company will have a capital of $2,500,000 and a surplus of over $2,000,000. We believe the policy holders of the Phenix are fully protected under this arrangement."

NICARAGUA DUTIES TO END KIMBALL'S WORK.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Rear Admiral Kimball, now in command of the American vessels on the Pacific coast of Nicaragua, will be placed on the retired list on Jan. 9, on account of age. However, he will be retained in his present position until the trouble in Nicaragua has reached such a stage as will warrant withdrawal of the American ships.

The gunboat Vicksburg has been sent by Admiral Kimball from Colombo to Santa Cruz, Mex., to meet Consul Olivares on his way from Washington to Managua, to supersede Vice Consul Caldera.

The cruiser Tacoma has gone from Bluefields to Port Limon, the demand for her services at the former place no longer being pressing.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritaole and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But thousands of irritable, nervous, tired and broken-down women have restored their health and strength by the use of Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

Swamp-Root brings new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of such troubles.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper who has not already tried it, may address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and receive sample bottle free by mail. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

HARRY TUTHILL, TIGER TRAINER, EXPLAINS WHY THE JENNINGS CREW LOST THE WORLD'S SERIES

Also Says Jeffries is Not Right—Cohan a Great Baseball Fan.

(BY BRUCE)

Harry Tuthill, famous as a trainer of men, and then more men, was a visitor to our beautiful little city yesterday. What Harry doesn't know about baseball and the gentle fight game, is hardly worth remembering.

Tuthill is the man who kept the Detroit Tigers in the grand condition that enabled them to steal the lead from the Athletics late in the race and cop the bunting in one of the fiercest fights ever waged in the American league.

Yesterday he was telling some things about Jennings. Naturally Harry thinks Jennings is the greatest in the game. He also said that it was pretty hard luck that found the Tigers in the big world's series with only about two serviceable pitchers, Summers and Mullin. Donovan won his game, to be sure, but yesterday Tuthill stated that "Wild Bill" was in no shape to work well in more than one game.

For this reason, then, Harry says it was tough luck that robbed Hughey of the greatest honor in baseball, after his team put up one of the greatest and gamest struggles that ever a team went through.

Tuthill says Jennings is one of the gamest as well as brainiest managers in the game. For that reason all the members of the Tiger team are game. Harry asks "Did you ever hear of a man who wasn't game playing on the Detroit teams, after Jennings assumed the leadership of the team?" We never have. Jennings doesn't fancy that kind of ball players.

While on baseball, it might be well to say that it was Harry Tuthill who got Jerry to the effect that the New York Americans were signalling the plays of the other teams at their grounds on the Manhattan hill top.

If you will remember, Edward, it was this place that started the gossips of the circuits talking. They were going to the bottom of this underhand stuff at the recent meeting of the American league magnates. But they didn't.

Tuthill stated yesterday the reason they didn't bring the whole unpleasant affair up at the meeting of the American league managers, was that there is no legislation against such a trick. "The owners of the New York Americans were found guilty and told in emphatic language never to do the thing again, said the Tiger trainer in discussing the affair.

Switching from baseball to pugilism, it might be well to say that Tuthill, is trainer of one of the greatest fighters in the country, including Young Corbett, is competent to judge of any fighter's condition. For that reason what he has to say of Jeffries is more than ordinarily interesting.

"I saw the big fellow in Chicago and Milwaukee said Tuthill, and I must say that he doesn't look right to me. I think your paper has published about the right dope on his condition. I am afraid that Johnson is going to whip him. This negro is a great fighter, don't make any mistake about that. If Jeffries can't get right, he will be beaten. At least that is the way it looks to me."

The first thing George M. Cohan asked Tuthill yesterday, was who the Tigers were going to get to replace Rossman at first. Tom Jones replaced the veteran last season, but it is very doubtful if Thomas will hold out at the first sack this season. Tuthill replied that there would be a number of candidates working for the job early, and you could trust Jennings to give the guardianship of the bag to the best man.

George M. is one of the best posted fans in the country. He knows most of the players and what they are hitting at. He has the dope on most of the game, and he is a fine fellow. The Yale Cohan used to live in Chicago before his business took him to New York for most of the theatrical season. He wagered some on the Cubs the year before last to beat the Cubs for the rag and if you have followed baseball you know that the Yankee Doodle comedian collected.

Word comes from Wintery Winona of the days of gentle Joe Killian, who was so immensely popular at Athletic Park last summer. He is signing players and getting ready for the fray. Jones and Mattery, a catcher, and Clyde Westover, Wooster is the name of the third man he has induced to attach his signature to a contract. Clyde is a nice name for a baseball player and if Clande is as nice as his name would indicate, he has no business with the Winona tribe.

Killian wants to gather a strong aggregation for next season, for right here in Iowa we may have a team that will furnish a lot of good cheer and after supper talk for the fan.

The other teams over the circuit are also strengthening, or attempting to strengthen and the race promises to be one that will make a distinct impression on the fans around the circuit. And in the meantime think of what the Irish orator has been doing.

One of the first acts of Mayor Gaynor of little old Greater New York was to write a letter to "Big Bill" Edwards, head of the street cleaning force and suggest that he get some more football players in his department. It is said that Bill has surrounded himself with a galaxy of stars that would make an All-American team look like the Ironwood team that performed at Athletic park last fall.

He has Jim Hogan, one of Yale's great tackles, and also a captain of one of the greatest elevens the Elk institution ever turned out, as well as a large assortment of other Yale and Princeton men.

"Big Bill" is one of the few men in the city department of New York, who has accomplished real progress. If Bill is as good at cleaning the streets as he was at plowing up a line, there won't be any snow on the New York streets in winter or dirt in the Gotham gutters in the dear old summer time. Give the average college football player something to do, and he generally does it.

There is a report that Ted Coy, greatest of all modern football players will join his brother, Sherman Coy, who is at Cloquet. It is said that the younger of the Coy boys will also enter the lumber business.

If the younger Coy comes to the northern part of the state this section of Minnesota will get a chap who is not only one of the greatest football players that the college game has ever produced, but it will also get a young fellow who is a man, every inch of him, and a credit to any state or institution.

It begins to look as if the negotiations for the Nelson-Wolgast battle was off. If Wolgast is as sure of licking the Battler as he has claimed he is all along one would naturally think he would be almost willing to fight the Dane for the price of a nice, juicy tenderloin.

If the truth be known, none of them are very sure of whipping Nelson. Nelson is getting to the stage where he may be going back—then again he may not. They all say they can beat him, but when any of the challengers begins thinking over those 45-round affairs and what the old Dane can do in that distance, there is sometimes a change of sentiment. If Wolgast and the Durable Dane hook up there will be a lot of money go down on the chances of the Nelson boy.

Yussiff Mahmout has offered to wager that he can throw Zybszko twice in an hour. If that deli ever becomes known in a mixed settlement where Bulgarians and Poles predominate, there is liable to be a race war that will make the Bulgarian insurrections look like a national guard sham battle on a hot afternoon. Mahmout is plugging along and doing all right—but, oh you Zybszko!

There is some talk of the University of Minnesota organizing an aquatic department of athletics. With a little time and expense, Minnesota could fit up rowing quarters on the Mississippi. The Minnesota Boat Club of St. Paul has the same river current to contend with as the university oarsmen would have, did they practice on the river, and throughout the West it is well known what kind of crews are turned out by the St. Paul organization.

• • •

Speaking about rowing, a few prospective oarsmen are occasionally wandering into the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and working on the rowing machines. It is to be hoped that the work of getting a large number of candidates out for the crews will be taken up systematically the present season. The prospects for Duluth crews are bright if the proper system of getting out candidates is followed. It should be Duluth's year, and with the proper kind of enthusiasm the local oarsmen will make a fine showing at Kenora.

• • •

There is some talk of the oarsmen spending two weeks up the river—if the idea does not meet with strenuous objection from certain quarters.

"NO SYNDICATES," SAYS HERRMANN

Chairman of National Commission Stands "Pat" in His Report.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.— straight declaration against "syndicate baseball." In the report of August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, was the feature of the annual meeting of the body here yesterday. Several decisions were handed down after adjournment.

The initial appearance of Thomas J. Lynch, president of the National league, as a member of the commission, was made the excuse for turning the meeting into something of a festal occasion. Tonight he was guest of honor at a dinner given by Chairman Herrmann and President Johnson of the American league.

William Murray's statement of his claim against the Philadelphia National league club was not made public. He asserted that he had a contract calling for his services as manager until after the season of 1911, but that the new management of the club refused to carry out the agreement.

The commission decided that the case does not belong to its jurisdiction and referred it, through President Lynch, to the board of directors of the National league.

Another finding declared that players of the California state league, the "outlaw" organization which recently subscribed to the national agreement, must make personal application for restoration of good standing. The commission adjourned after a session lasting less than three hours.

MAY CALL OFF SERIES OF RACES

Little Interest in Speed Contests Between Iceboats.

There has been very little interest taken in ice boating by the owners of speed craft at the Head of the Lakes, and according to the statement yesterday of a boat owner and an official of the boat club, the series of races planned for the present season may be called off.

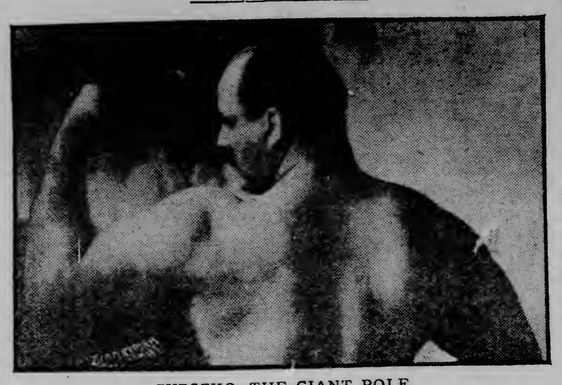

The 20-mile race scheduled for Saturday will probably be called off because of the snow that covers the ice of the bay. Charles Brewer, one of the enthusiastic ice yachtsmen at the Head of the Lakes, says that for the time being probably all races that had been arranged for would be called off.

Mr. Brewer further stated that there was but little interest shown in the attempts to arrange for a series of races between the fastest boats at the Head of the Lakes. Unless some definite plans are made soon for the proposed regetta, the race program will probably be dropped.

SAM LANGFORD FINALLY FINDS AN OPPONENT.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 6. — Sam Langford, the negro middleweight, of Boston and Montana Jack Sullivan signed articles to box before the Empire Athletic club here Jan. 18. The men will battle six rounds.

GOTCH WILL HAVE TO BE RIGHT TO BEAT ZYBSZKO

ZYBSZKO, THE GIANT POLE.

Fred Beell Says Pole Will Give Gotch Great Battle.

Christ Person is expected back from Fort William tomorrow, when he will sign articles of agreement for his finish match with John Gordon before the Duluth Athletic club. The match will probably be staged the night of Jan. 14.

If the Duluth man defeats Gordon, he will unquestionably have earned the right to meet Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis for the title of Western heavyweight champion. The big Minneapolis blacksmith is one of the very best wrestlers in the country, and a match between Ordemann and Person should be one of the most gruelling bouts that two powerful men could put up.

Word comes from Jack Herman, manager of Zybszko, who left Buffalo Tuesday for Chicago. Herman sends some interesting dope on the Polish champion, who will meet Frank Gotch in a finish match some time next spring.

Herman enclosed a statement from little Freddy Beell in which the Wisconsin wonder is quoted as saying Zybszko will give Gotch the battle of his life. Beell says Gotch will have to be absolutely right to defeat the Pole.

Herman Offers to Back the Foreigner Heavily Against Champion.

and then it is a question whether Frank can beat the foreigner.

In the Buffalo bouts with Beell, Zybszko flopped the little Badger in something like four minutes in the first fall. In the second bout, Beell went on and made a game and skillful showing against the Polish giant, but he was eventually beaten.

Zybszko is one of the busiest men in the country. He will meet Raoul De Rouen, the big Frenchman, one of the roughest men in the mat game, and the Pole also has a match on with old Tom Jenkins. The latter contest will be put on at Cleveland. Zybszko should have little trouble in easily beating the former champion of America.

Herman says there is but one object in view in getting all the present matches for Zybszko—a second meeting with Gotch. In a letter to the sporting editor of The Herald, Herman stated that he was ready to back Zybszko against Gotch for a large side bet.

If an open date can be secured that will fit in with time that Herman has open, Zybszko will come to Duluth and wrestle a finish match with Person, who is anxious to go on with the big Pole. If the match is arranged, Person will meet the foreigner in a match of even terms.

New York, Jan. 6. — Princeton's hockey team defeated Cornell here last night 1 to 0.

Yankees Release Players.

New York, Jan. 6.—The New York American League club yesterday cut its roster almost to the legal limit of thirty-five players by releasing Second Baseman Wannell and Outfielders Farrell and Channel to the Memphis team of the Southern league.

Gleason to Go.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—The Philadelphia National league baseball club has decided to release "Kid" Gleason, its former second baseman. The club will make an effort to find him a place as manager of a minor league team.

Blues Get Fallam.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 6.—Shortstop Fallam of the Cincinnati team was sold today to the Kansas City club. The price given for the player has not been made public.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis By Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On Oct. 18 last my little 3-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold, which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," says Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, Oct. 23, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly, as I have found it the surest, safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." For sale by all druggists.

NO FIGHT AT SALT LAKE

Jeffries-Johnson Battle Cannot Be Fought in Utah.

Governor Spry Says Law Is Plain and Will Be Enforced.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 6.—"It is not possible for that fight to take place here and come within the law. I will uphold the law if it becomes necessary."

With these words, Governor Spry swept aside all doubt as to his attitude toward the Jeffries-Johnson contest and disposed of the plan to stage the fight here.

"The law is so plain in this state that only one construction can be placed on it. It is not at all possible for the fight to take place and come within the law. The responsibility, of course, would be upon the police force, or the sheriff of the county in which the fight is to take place. I take it that these men have as much regard for that law as I have, and will take action to see that it is enforced. But in my capacity, as governor of the state, I will uphold the law if it becomes nessary."

WINNIPEG MAY JOIN THE LEAGUE

Canadian City and Virginia Possible Minny League Members.

Al Kuehnow is in receipt of a letter from J. M. Lamb of Winnipeg, in which the secretary of the Western Canada league voices his doubts of the future existence of the Canadian league.

The meeting of the Canadian magnates is scheduled for Saturday of this week, with the possibility of a postponement until the following Saturday. At the coming meeting the future of organized professional baseball in Western Canada, at least for the time being, will be decided.

Immediately after a decision is reached by the Canadian magnates the officials of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league will meet to make up the new territory that will be added to the league.

If Winnipeg is free to come into the Minnie league there is every reason to believe that Virginia will be the eighth city. However, should Winnipeg find that the officials of the Western Canada league are determined to try another year of baseball, the chances for the admission of Mankato and Red Wing are very bright.

According to information received by Mr. Kuehnow, Virginia is anxious to get into the league, and as a step in that direction grounds have been purchased for a fine ball park.

It is believed here that Winnipeg will come into the Minny league. The jumps in the Western Canada league are so long that it was found impossible to make money last season. Railroad fare is 3 cents a mile in Canada, and this added to the financial embarrassment of the league. With Winnipeg and Virginia added to the northern end of the circuit, the Minnesota-Wisconsin league would be one of the strongest minors in the West, ranking right up with the Three-I and the Wisconsin-Illinois leagues.

It is expected that the towns that will make the added territory to the Minny league will be known within the next two weeks.

Michigan Silver Presented.

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—In the presence of a notable gathering from Michigan, a handsome silver service, the gift of that state, was presented yesterday afternoon to the battleship Michigan at the Philadelphia navy yard.

IS GRANTED A DIVORCE FROM JAMES K. HACKETT

MARY MANNERING.

New York, Jan. 6.—An interlocutory decree of absolute divorce from James K. Hackett was granted to Mary Mannering yesterday in the supreme court. Elsie, their 5-year-old daughter, was awarded to the custody of her mother. The decree contains no provision for alimony and does not mention the name of the co-respondent. Mr. Hackett did not appear in person to defend the action.

The Hacketts were married in 1897. They have been estranged for nearly two years.

MAE WOOD MUST BE TRIED ANYWAY

Platt's Failure to Testify Will Not Cause Dropping of the Case.

New York, Jan. 6.—Although Thomas C. Platt probably never will be in condition to testify, Mae C. Wood, who alleges that he married her, must stand trial for forgery and perjury charges based on documents she produced and testimony she gave to support her alleged marriage. Counsel argued in her behalf yesterday that the indictments should be quashed because of Platt's failure to appear, but Judge Foster refused. A date of trial will be set after further arguments.

UNIVERSITIES END NATIONAL MEETING.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—The University of Pennsylvania was voted the privilege of naming the next president of the Universities of America association at the closing session of the convention yesterday. The vice president will be named by the University of Wisconsin and the secretary by Harvard university. Columbia and Michigan universities will name the new members of the executive committee. The officers will be named by the respective faculties at a later date.

President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university, who delivered the closing address, said among other things that one of the defects of university training today was too much specialization at the expense of wider culture springing from a general knowledge of arts.

Lowell Talks to Students.

President Lowell of Harvard spoke at the convocation of students at the university and scored the students who came to college for its privileges and not for its responsibilities. Many, he said, have an idea that a college diploma completes their education, but their education is not completed until the sod is placed over them. Students, he said, had come to college to learn to do things, as well as to learn facts.

LARGE LEASE ON PROPERTY

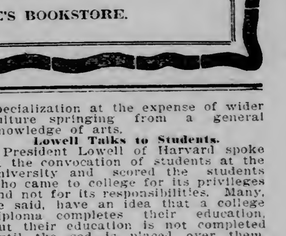

Leon Abram Is Given Rights for Ninety-Nine Years, Two Months.

Leon Abram of Milwaukee has taken a lease for a term of ninety-nine years and two months on the property at 17-19 East Superior street, the lease having been filed with the register of deeds. The property, which is valued at $60,000, is owned by Sarah A. Wright of Wayne, Neb., Jessie Wright James, Roland H. James, Earl Wright, Mary L. Wright of Duluth and Fred R. Wright of Spokane, Wash.

The property is now occupied by a drygoods store and Mr. Abram is the owner of a large department store in Milwaukee, so, although his plans have not been made public, it is thought he will establish a store in Duluth.

By the terms of the lease Mr. Abram is to pay a yearly rental of $2,200 until Nov. 1, 1914, and then a new agreement is to be made. A new agreement as to the amount of rent is to be made each five years and if the lessors and lessee are unable to agree on the amount at any time, the matter is to be submitted to three disinterested persons, who shall fix the rent on the basis of the value of the property. In no case is the value of the property to be held at less than $60,000.

There is a $20,000 mortgage on the property, maturing July 1, 1911, and it is to be paid by the lessors. When the estimated value of the building now on the property has been paid in rent, Mr. Abram is to be permitted to erect a new building to cost not less than $15,000. The lease will expire Dec. 31, 2608.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The ordinance entitled "An ordinance granting to the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railroad company, its successors and assigns, a right-of-way over, under, across and along certain streets, avenues, alleys and public grounds in the city of Duluth, with the right, privilege and authority to construct, lay down, maintain and operate railway tracks and facilities over, under, across and along the same, and imposing certain obligations on said company," took its second reading.

Alderman Shartel moved that the ordinance be now placed upon its final passage. The motion was declared adopted by a unanimous yea vote of all present, on roll call.

Alderman Shartel, as chairman of the joint Committee on Ordinances and Resolutions and Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, which had the ordinance under consideration, moved on behalf of said committee that said ordinance be amended as follows:

(1) By adding to the end of section 9 the following: "The present bridge on Oneota street, under which the proposed right-of-way of said railroad company is laid out shall throughout its entire length be considered an over-head viaduct under the terms of this section and this ordinance; and said bridge together with any approaches that may be deemed necessary on account of change of grade or for any other reasons shall be renewed, constructed and maintained as an over-head viaduct under the terms hereof.

(2) By inserting after the words "Stowell's Addition to Duluth" in section 10 thereof the words "or southeast of Grand avenue."

(3) By adding to the end of section 10 the following: "Provided further that for the entire distance between Fifty-ninth avenue west and Grand avenue the tracks of said railroad company shall be built and maintained upon an open trestle or trestles, and not upon a filled embankment or other solid structure, and for the entire distance between Grand avenue and Oneota street said tracks to be used for the transportation of ore shall be built and maintained upon an open trestle or trestles and not upon a filled embankment or other solid structure.

(4) By changing section 12 thereof so that from the word "provided" the balance of the section shall read as follows: "Provided that no such change or grade shall be so made as to make the maximum grade of any such tracks exceed 1.15 feet per 100 feet of the length of such track on a straight line and on curves this grade shall be compensated .03 of a foot for each degree of curvature per 100 feet and except between Sixtieth and Sixty-fifth avenues west where the maximum grade shall not be made to exceed .60 of a foot in any 100 feet, and except through the West Duluth yards where the maximum grade shall not exceed .20 in any 100 feet.

(5) In section 18 change the word "two" to "three."

The amendment was declared adopted upon the following vote:

Yeas—Aldermen Getchell, Hector, Hoar, Hogan, MacDonell, McKnight, Merritt, Moe, Moore, Shartel, Storey, Trevillion and President Jordan—13.

Nays—Alderman Foubister—1.

On request of interested parties from West Duluth action on the ordinance was postponed to the order of "Introduction and Consideration of Ordinances."

THE MARKET WAS NERVOUS

Traders Expected Slump in Wheat Which Did Not Come.

Flax Is Strong, Scoring an Advance of Two Cents.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 6.—The wheat market was spotty and nervous today, strengthening toward the close on the foreign situation. There was some selling of May in the early hours, apparently on the belief that the market was due for a dip. The flax market opened quiet and was stagnant until toward noon, when slight sales to crushers caused an upturn.

May wheat opened at $1.13½ bid and sold up to $1.14⅝, closing at $1.14½ bid. July occupied a strong position, selling up to $1.11. May flax opened at $2.18 and sold up to $2.21, closing at $2.20.

The foreign situation appears to be the dominating factor in the wheat market. In addition to help given the market by the strong cash call, Liverpool came buoyant today, closing ⅝d higher, reflecting the bullish Argentina news and the scarcity of offerings. United Kingdom buyers are becoming alarmed over the prospects of light Argentina supplies. Their apprehension is aggravated by the fact that South American wheat promises to be of poor quality. Shorts were anxious and bought on the fear of light shipments. A London cable to Ames-Brooks commented on the scarcity of offerings, and indicated that the strength of the market was due principally to that situation.

Canadian wheat offers were accepted more freely. The Canadian surplus is desired to make up for the deficiency in La Platta offerings. It was reported on the board today that Minneapolis mills sold Manitobas for export. Winnipeg was decidedly strong and was a favorable influence in the market.

Millers continued to buy spot wheat. They own practically all of the wheat in the Northwest that is not held by farmers. The mills have had an exceptionally prosperous year and the majority of millers are not only expecting liberal sales of flour in the near future, but are bullish on wheat prices. With a moderate movement from the farms, mills holding onto their large reserve stocks and buying more to meet their current needs, prospects appear favorable for a continued maintenance of high premiums. Spot wheat in Duluth today sold on a parity with May and in Chicago and Minneapolis cash was from 1 to 2 cents over.

Receipts in the Northwest are light and very little wheat was moved today, storm and industrial conditions operating as a detriment. Wheat in transit is being fairly well cleaned up, however, considering the difficulties under which the railroads have labored.

The American Equity society has announced its intention of holding wheat supplies for $1.25. Northwestern farmers are closely banded together and their position will become increasingly a market factor as the season advances. The interior movement has been moderate and little of the wheat in transit has come direct from the reserves held by farmers.

Wheat stocks at the Head of the Lakes increased 152,000 bu in the last four days, being now 2,040,000 bu. Minneapolis stocks increased 321,000 bu in the last five days and are now 3,228,000 bu. Flax supplies increased 8,000 bu in four days, stocks now being 324,000 bu.

Argentine shipments of wheat this week were 40,000 bu; last week, 512,000 bu; last year, 856,000 bu. Offerings are scarce. Harvesting has been delayed by climatic conditions. The heavy Russian exports will go far toward making up for the shortage in the world's supplies but the demand is increasingly insistent and foreign buyers, who for a while were lulled into a belief in the security of their position are now viewing the situation with considerable concern.

Durum was strong today. There appeared to be some buying by the shorts. Durum is slightly under the top price for the current option which hit $1.02 and went fractionally over early last fall.

Cash durum at the close was ⅝c up. Oats closed 1c up, rye and barley closed unchanged, and cash wheat closed on an equal basis with May. Car receipts at Duluth were 53, against 23 last year, and at Minneapolis 241 against 129 last year, a total of 294 for the Northwest, compared with 152 last year. Chicago received 32 against 10 last year, and Winnipeg 158 compared with 32 last year. St. Louis received 31,000 bu against 27,000 bu last year and shipped 46,000 bu, against 26,000 bu last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 521,000 bu; last year 272,000 bu; shipments, 170,000 bu; last year 113,000 bu; clearances 60,000 bu. Oats, none. Flour 36,000 barrels; wheat and flour 222,000 bu. Primary receipts of corn were 360,000; shipments 406,000 bu; clearances 423,000 bu.

Foreign cables toward the close were especially bullish. A cable to the Northwestern Miller from Buenos Ayres, dated Jan. 1, says: "The total yield of wheat is officially estimated at 165,000,000 bu, of linseed at 33,000,000 bu. My estimate of 90,000,000 bu of wheat available for export must be reduced by 7,500,000 bu. (Signed) Ernesto Danvers."

Charles Kinyon, crop export for Finley Barrel & Co., wired from Detroit, Minn.: "Sixty-five per cent of wheat in this vicinity marketed. Mills have fair stocks, elevators very little."

Broomhall cabled:

"Argentina agent cables that reports that are being received from Southern districts indicate outlook for wheat crop as very unsatisfactory. Wheat at start ⅝c lower, being influenced by weakness in American markets yesterday and report that a large La Plata house here was selling. Later and during remainder of morning, market was strongly supported and prices advanced 1d from opening. Support was due to an improved demand for La Plata parcels, lightness of Australian offerings for which there was a good demand. The Argentina forecast and unfavorable reports regarding crop outlook in South Argentina, together with reduction in bank rate, led to further buying. At midday the market was strong, 1d up from opening and 1¼d up from close yesterday. Corn steady at start, unchanged. Later prices advanced ½@¾d on an improved demand for spot and good inquiry for American parcels. English provincial markets firm and generally 6d higher. The Buenos Ayres market closed yesterday easier, with January unchanged and March 1½d lower than opening. Flax was firm and further 1¼d advance, with nearby months in corn ⅜d higher and distant months ¾d lower.

Price current said—"Winter wheat in good condition. Severe weather enforcing liberal use of feeding materials. Considerable corn remaining in fields in Western sections. Interior movement of grain moderate."

Liverpool close—Wheat, ⅝d higher; corn, ¼@½d higher. Liverpool opening—Wheat, steady, ¾d lower; corn, quiet, unchanged to ¼d higher. Berlin closed 1½c lower. Paris—Wheat closed unchanged, flour unchanged to ½c lower. Budapest, holiday. Buenos Ayres market closed easy with January unchanged and March, 1¼c lower. Flax firm and further 1¼c advance with nearby months in corn, ¼c higher and distant months, ¾c lower.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Liverpool Advance Strengthens the Wheat Market.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—An advance in Liverpool wheat prices induced buying here today and was responsible in part for an upward tilt of wheat prices in the initial trades. There was less ginger in the cash wheat trades, but a fair demand was shown. May at the outset was ⅝c higher than yesterday's final figures at $1.13⅜@1.14⅛. In the first hour, May fell off to $1.13½.

The market was firm and active all day. May advanced to $1.14⅞. The market closed firm with May ⅜@⅝c higher than yesterday's final figures at $1.14½@1.14⅝.

Transportation delay, induced by the extreme cold, gave strength to corn. Futures opened unchanged to ⅛c higher. Country offerings were light. May opened ⅛@⅜c higher at 67⅜@67¾c, but moderate realizing caused a reaction.

Bullish sentiment prevailed in corn throughout the session. Record prices in all the futures for the crop were reported. May touching 68¾c and July and September 69c. The close was firm with May 68⅜c, a gain of 1⅛c higher than yesterday's final quotations.

Although trade in oats was small, the markets showed fair strength. May opened ⅛c lower to ¼c higher at 47@47⅜c.

Good buying strengthened hog products, the advance ranging from 2½c to 20c. The record-making prices of live hogs and continued light receipts at the packing centers furnished the stimulus. Opening prices in January options were: Pork, $22; lard, $12.70; ribs, $11.55.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Heavy Selling of Rock Island Again Had Depressing Effect.

Prices Ran Off Sharply Near Close, Which Was Unsettled.

New York, Jan. 6.—There were slight traces of irregularity in the movement of opening prices of stocks today, but the predominant tendency was upwards. Dealings were active and well distributed. Anaconda made a gain of 2 points, Southern Pacific and Consolidated Gas and Union Pacific, Atchison, Wabash, Reading and Amalgamated Copper large fractions. A block of 4,700 shares of Rock Island sold at an advance of ¼. Interborough-Metropolitan preferred declined ¾.

The market became reactionary when the heavy selling of Rock Island was resumed. Rock Island sagged 1⅝@1⅞ and the preferred also lost a point. Subsequently large orders for Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and United States Steel caused a brisk rally around, but Rock Island's eccentric fluctuations kept the tone unsettled. Cleveland, C. C. & St. Louis advanced 2 points and San Francisco first preferred 1½ and the second preferred. New York Central and United States Steel 1. At 11 o'clock Rock Island was run up to 47¾ and the whole market rallied.

Prices advanced more steadily when Rock Island became quiet. Colorado & Southern rose 3, Amalgamated Copper 1⅜, International Pump 1½, Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, United States Steel 1¾ and Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson, Kansas & Texas, Texas & Pacific, St. Louis, Southwestern, American Smelting and International Harvester, 1. Bonds were firm.

There was little interest in the market and fluctuations were unimportant until St. Paul was forced down over a point from its best price, when the whole list yielded slightly. There was some realizing in Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel. Utah Copper improved 1¼ and National Lead 1.

Trading became irregular in the afternoon. After the effect of the St. Paul selling wore off, the list hardened but the higher levels brought out more stocks and as a result the advance stopped. United States Express gained 4; International Pump, 2¾; General Electric, 1⅜, and Denver & Rio Grande, 1.

The market closed unsettled and irregular. Prices ran off sharply. Rock Island going to near the lowest, and important gains being about wiped out. American Agricultural Chemical declined 1, and Erie second preferred 1½, Vulcan Detinning preferred rose 3½, Pullman 1⅜ and Railway Steel Spring 1.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

1910 DETERMINATION SALE

We start the New Year with a determination to reduce our stock regardless of the loss we must take. The mild weather of October and November was against us. In December we enjoyed the largest business in our history. There were more people that visited THE UNION than any other store in Duluth.

A LUCKY STRIKE! In response to several telegrams from our leading manufacturers, our buyer went East and closed out two carloads of Up-to-Date Dependable Merchandise at a mere fraction of their worth. As these goods were bought, they will be sold, making this DETERMINATION SALE a Carnival of Bargains. In addition to this lucky buy, our entire stock goes on sale with prices cut and slashed with a vengeance. Our inventory shows we have as complete a stock as we previously started with in October of previous years. We must do five months business in the next two, and in order to do it we must take a loss and a big one. We must take a loss of thousands of dollars, but we do it willingly. We must reduce. "Our loss is your gain."

THE UNION WAS CLOSED FOR FOUR DAYS, JAN. 3, 4, 5 AND 6, TO ALLOW OUR CLERICAL FORCE TO ARRANGE STOCK FOR THIS GREAT SALE, which starts

Tomorrow Morning at 9:00

Presents to all who patronize this sale. Many stores at clearance time give up any special features of the regular selling season, but not so with the UNION. We will give the same presents as we have given, regardless of the great loss we are taking on every article we sell you. Premiums worth from $1.00 to $10.00 FREE, according to the amount purchased. Our gifts consist of Mirrors, Gold Clocks, Bronze Clocks, Mantle Clocks, Mission Clocks, Game and Fish Sets, Silverware, Knives and Forks, Hall Racks, Kitchen Scales, etc.

"WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH PINCHOT?" IS CABINET'S QUESTION

President and His Advisers Meet Over Forester's Letter.

Official Decapitation Is Predicted for Ballinger's Assailant.

Subject of White House Discussion Is Not Worrying About Outcome.

(Mr. Pinchot's letter to Senator Dolliver will be found on page 5.)

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Fitzgerald of New York offered in the house today an amendment to the joint resolution providing for an investigation of the interior department and the forest service, eliminating the forest service from the inquiry.

Washington, Jan. 7.—That "Pinchot—what shall we do to him?" was the central theme at a meeting of the president's cabinet today was the general belief in both official and unofficial Washington, though no statement had been given out to affirm or deny that belief. It was known, however, that the letter which the chief forester wrote to Senator Dolliver and which was read in the senate yesterday to the accompaniment of expressions indicating various intense degrees of amazement was taken to the White House for this meeting, and that with it were inclosed statements by Forester Price and Law Officer Shaw of the forestry bureau, both of whom were named in the Pinchot letter to Dolliver.

Suspended, or Fired?

As to the outcome of the cabinet conference, there are but two opinions. One is that the chief forester will be suspended pending the work of the congressional committee that is to investigate the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy, and the other is that the chief forester will be summarily dismissed for insubordination.

The Pinchot letter to Senator Dolliver constitutes a direct violation of an executive order issued by the president some time ago forbidding any subordinate in the government employ from furnishing information to

NO SURE TRACE OF MISSING PAIR

Heiress and Waiter Still Elude Searchers and Man's Wife.

New York, Jan. 7.—If Roberta De Janon, the young Philadelphia heiress, and Ferdinand Cohen, the waiter, who strangely disappeared at the same time, have been found in this city, as reported, the police profess ignorance of the fact. Ferdinand De Janon, father of the girl, today declared that so far as he knew his daughter and the waiter had not been found.

The report that Roberta De Janon had been found was based on an alleged long distance telephone communication which Ferdinand De Janon is said to have had with Robert Buist, the wealthy grandfather of the girl, in Philadelphia. In this communication the father is reported to have informed the grandfatiaer that Roberta had been found and that he expected the arrest of the waiter tomorrow. Mr. De Janon denies that there was such a communication.

Traced Under False Name.

An entry on the Hotel Bayard register of "F. H. Cone and wife, Boston," on Dec. 31, in handwriting identified by Mrs. Cohen, the deserted wife, as that of her husband, has led the detectives to believe that Cohen and the heiress were in this city. But three days later this couple left the Bayard, called a taxicab to take them to a Boston steamship pier, left the cab on the way and boarded an uptown elevated train. That is the last heard from the Hotel Bayard couple.

"SHOW ME," SAYS CONSUL

Chicago Police Arrest 197 Italians and Trouble Is Promised.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Guido Sabetta, Italian consul here, announced today that he would start an investigation of the police methods used in the arrest of 197 Italians following the murder of Benedetto Cinene, yesterday. Mr. Sabetta declares that these men were arrested without due process of law.

Indignation, it is said, is widespread among the 100,000 Italian residents of this city. A number of organizations are planning to hold meetings of protest.

The 197 prisoners are still being held. They have stubbornly refused to answer the questions of the police. Throughout the night hundreds of Italian women stood outside the police station where the men are confined.

EXPERT GOLFER GETS INTO "NEAR-CABINET"

J. F. CURTIS.

James Freeman Curtis, formerly assistant district attorney for the state of Massachusetts, has been appointed by President Taft as assistant secretary of the treasury. Just what influence the fact that he is an expert golf player had to do with his appointment is not known. Mr. Curtis won the intercollegiate golf championship in 1898, and it is likely he will become an active member of the golf cabinet. Mr. Curtis is a bachelor and graduated from Harvard in 1899.

Washington, Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Miller today called upon Postmaster General Hitchcock and recommended George L. Train to be postmaster at Chisholm, Minn. This recommendation is considered by the insurgents to be what might be termed a "test case" to determine their status on the postoffice patronage.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—A Washington special to the Dispatch says: Up to date, the only Northwestern appointment involved in the row between the Taft administration and the Republican insurgents over federal patronage are

FIGHT BATTLE WITH PRISONERS

Two Yypsilanti Railroad Men Are Shot and One Is Dead.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Jan. 7.—Suspected of a jewelry store burglary, which occurred here late last night, two men, who were taken into custody by the baggageman and ticket clerk at the Michigan Central depot early today, drew revolvers and fought a desperate battle for liberty.

Baggageman Henry C. Minor was killed, Ticket Clerk Morgan Emmett was shot through the breast and probably fatally injured, and one of the suspects was shot in the leg.

Three men are under arrest, their names being given as Robert McCormick of Detroit, formerly of Ypsilanti, 22 years old; "Winkie," a Detroit character 26 years old, who is shot in the leg, and Carl Billings, 20 years old of Detroit, who is said to have accompanied the other two to Ypsilanti, but parted company with them before the burglary and murder.

The men made no resistance when taken into custody, but after being led quietly into the baggage room they suddenly started the fight.

Shot and Clubbed.

Emmett's injury disabled his right arm at one of the first shots, but though unarmed he clung to his antagonist with his left hand and was dragged out on the station platform, where he was clubbed into insensibility.

Meanwhile Minor, who had a revolver, engaged in a pistol duel at twenty paces with the other suspect. Receiving a mortal wound in the throat, Minor staggered out of the station and fell dead in the road.

The three prisoners were arrested on the outskirts of the city.

Later it was stated that "Winkie" is Harry Harrington of Detroit, and that all three of the prisoners are graduates of the state reform school.

YANKEES ON SCENE EARLY

Gunboats' Movements Anticipate Active Hostilities in Nicaragua War.

Crew of the Tacoma Has Established Camp for Native Prisoners.

Washington, Jan. 7.—American gunboats on the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua are gathering in the vicinity of Greytown, as an indication that the American officers believe that Greytown may be the scene of activity shortly. The Estrada and government forces are supposed to be marching toward each other, with the probability of a fight taking place at Acoyapo. It is possible, however, that Estrada may made a detour to Greytown, with a view to capturing that city before proceeding westward. The government force at Greytown is not thought to be of sufficient strength to make any decided stand against the revolutionists there.

"Camp Niblack."

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Jan. 1, via New Orleans, La., Jan. 7.—The readiness of an American warship to cope with the unexpected has been shown here in many ways, but in particular by the establishment of "Camp Niblack," where Paymaster Neal Farwell of the Tacoma is feeding 1,400 prisoners taken at the battle of Recreo, and feeding them in a style undreamed of in their native bush.

The camp was informally named by Farwell after his commander, but that was a second thought, after a big range of steel rails had been improvised, a shelter for the sailors provided, and

NEGRO HANGED IN KENTUCKY

First Execution in Fifty Years in That County Is for Assault.

Williamstown, Ky., Jan. 7.—Earl Thompson was hanged this morning for a criminal assault upon Mrs. Ransom Roberts near this place last November. Three attempts have been made to lynch Thompson, and on the last occasion the negro was only saved from the mob when its members were disuaded from their purpose by Circuit Judge Cammack, who promised that the death sentence upon Thompsen would be executed within sixty days, or less, if the law was allowed to take its course.

The negro, who was only 18 years old, recently confessed to his crime.

The hanging of Thompson is the first legal execution in this county in fifty years. Thompson's indictment, trial and sentence all took place within a space of a few hours on Dec. 7. His attorneys did not take an appeal.

TAFT SUBMITS HIS SPECIAL MESSAGE

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE BY PRESIDENT TAFT IN HIS MESSAGE

INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW.

A "United States court of commerce," composed of five judges, to have exclusive original jurisdiction over cases involving the interstate commerce commission and its orders, and certain cases under the Elkins act.

Limitation of the powers of the interstate commerce commission to judicial functions, but with the right to initiate investigations without waiting for the filing of complaints.

Permission of rate agreements among railroads, subject to federal supervision.

Requirement that carriers quote rates in writing to intending shippers, and be liable to penal fines in case of damage from certain contingencies relating to such quotations.

Giving of power of classification of commodities to the interstate commerce commission for rate-fixing purposes.

Empower the interstate commerce commission to review and postpone increases in rates before they have become effective.

Give shippers the right to elect between two or more established routes.

Forbid acquiring of interest by interstate railroads in competing lines, except where the purchasing company already has a half interest or more in the line in question or has a lease of not less than twenty-five years' duration.

Forbid any interstate railroad to issue any stock, bonds or other obligations (except notes to mature in less than one year), without previous or simultaneous payment to it of not less than the par value of such stock, etc., or if they are issued at less than par value, then the payment to be of not less than their reasonable market value.

Empower the interstate commerce commission to determine upon the uniform construction of safety appliances on interstate railroads.

Simplification of the provisions as to where suit shall be brought under the employers' liability law.

ANTI-TRUST LAW AND FEDERAL INCORPORATION.

Retention of the Sherman law as it stands with the interpretations put upon it by the United States supreme court.

An investigation by the department of justice, through the grand jury or otherwise, into the history, organization and purposes of all the industrial companies with respect to which there is any reasonable ground for suspicion that they have been organized for a purpose, and are conducting business on a plan, which is in violation of the anti-trust law."

Enactment by congress of a general law providing for the formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among the states and with foreign nations, protecting them from undue interference by the states, and regulating their activities, but giving the states certain rights of taxation.

GUESTS DRIVEN FROM HOTELS

One Fatality and Over $100,000 Damage Result From Fire in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—One fireman was burned to death, six others were injured, several women were overcome by smoke and 200 hotel guests were driven into the street with the temperature near zero this morning when fire broke out in a barber shop between and under the Cambridge and Barnum hotels on St. Charles street in the heart of the business district.

Harry Tasche, a lineman, and Assistant Fire Chief Haynes broke open the door of the barber shop and the former was burned to a crisp almost instantly in the sheet of flame that shot out. Haynes fell unconscious but was rescued by a patrolman.

The loss is estimated at $100,000 to the hotels and adjacent property. Several cloak and drygoods houses in the vicinity suffered losses of thousands each from smoke and water.

William H. Cleiland, the hero of the Cherry mine disaster, one of the men rescued from the pit alive, was a guest at one of the hotels with his family and assisted several families to the street.

SEEK LOST MAN IN SECRET TUNNEL

New York Authorities Think He Had Designs on Bank Vault.

New York, Jan. 7.—Earth in great masses lay along Ludlow street today, where all night long relays of workmen had labored at the task of finding Isaac Finkelstein, supposed to have been buried alive in an excavation dug with a view to reaching the vaults of the Fourteenth street bank and the safe of a nearby jeweler shop.

Finkelstein was reported missing, and in searching for him a tunnel leading from the house next door out under the street was discovered. Unable to penetrate the excavation, from fear of a cavein, the street department was called upon and a force of men put to work digging from the street surface down to the tunnel level.

It was slow work, as the earth was hard and every precaution had to be taken against a cavein. Morning brought no positive solution of the mystery. There was no trace of Finkelstein, and the further end of the tunnel had not been reached.

From the inner explorations there was every indication that the bank with its $10,000,000 of resources had been one of the objects of the excavation. The search continued unabated today.

CUTS THROAT WITH GLASS

Sandstone Man Winds Up Spree By Trying to Kill Himself.

Nearly Severs His Jugular Vein Before Hotel Clerk Interferes.

Sandstone, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Albin Banks, aged 35, single, attempted to commit suicide in his room at the Commercial hotel here about 2 a. m. today, by cutting his throat with a piece of glass he had broken from a window pane in his room. The hotel clerk interfered before Banks succeeded in severing his jugular vein. Banks was sent to the city hospital in St. Paul and will probably pull through.

Had Been Drinking Heavily.

Banks is a stonecutter by trade and has been employed cutting paving blocks in a local quarry. He had been drinking considerably of late, and is believed to have been on the verge of delirium tremens when he attempted his life. He told some of his fellow-workmen yesterday that about a hundred men were after him, and he believed he would kill himself. They realized he was considerably the worse from excessive drinking, and tried to dissuade him from the idea.

STEAMER CAUGHT IN ICE ON LAKE

Puritan Will Be Taken Back to Chicago By Tug Boats.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The steamer Puritan of the Graham & Morton line, which sailed from here for Benton Harbor, Mich., yesterday morning, is fast in the ice twenty miles out in the lake. The Puritan was due at Benton Harbor yesterday afternoon.

Communication was established by wireless today and Capt. Crawford reported that all was well. A tug has been sent from here to bring the steamer back to port.

According to an official of the company, the Puritan carried no passengers, but has a crew of twenty men.

TRAFFIC AND TRUST LAWS HIS THEMES

Senate Is Not in Session, But Document Is Read in the House.

Sherman Law Should Not Be Changed, Says President.

Extension of Federal Control Is Basis of All His Proposals.

(Full Text of President Taft's Special Message Will be Found on Pages 15 and 16.)

Washington, Jan. 7.—President Taft's special message, dealing with amendments to the interstate commerce laws looking to a more effective federal supervision of railroads and conveying his recommendations for the passage of a federal incorporation act was transmitted to congress today and read in the house, the senate not being in session.

The message, following closely the forecasts that have been made and in the suggested legislation as to railroads, embodies all of the suggestions that the president has made from time to time in his speeches on the subject.

Mr. Taft suggests no changes in the Sherman anti-trust law at this time. The anti-trust feature of the message deals solely with the subject of federal charters.

Back to "Zone of Lawfulness."

The president thinks that an opportunity should be given the big industrial combinations to bring their business once more into the "zone of lawfulness" by taking out a federal charter under certain prescribed conditions, before it becomes necessary to proceed against every corporation about which there is a breath of suspicion.

President Taft's message was delivered to the house by Assistant Secretary Latta, whose appearance in the chamber was greeted with genuine interest. The reading of the document was begun without delay, and both sides followed the clerk closely.

The interest the message attracted was indicated by the unusual silence which prevailed. The silence was broken only by the voice of the reading clerk.

Introduce Bill Monday.

Representative Townsend of Michigan, who was among the most attentive listeners, was understood to have in his possession the administration bill amending the interstate commercee law, in accordance with the recommendations of the president contained in his special message. The measure will be introduced Monday next.

When the reading of the president's was concluded the message was referred by the speaker to the appropriate committees.

ALL THREE ESCAPED MEN ARE RECAPTURED.

Great Falls, Mont., Jan. 7. — The three alleged robbers who escaped from the Teton county jail at Choteau Tuesday were captured yesterday. One was caught asleep in a ranch shed. The other two were surrounded at a ranch about twenty-five miles south of Choteau and gave themselves up.

Cadiz, Spain, Jan. 7.—A hurricane today wrecked the village of La Linea, near the Gibraltar boundary line, in this province. Forty houses fell.

$200,000,000 GAS COMPANY

Standard Oil Said to Be Back of Deal By New York Men.

Will Control Entire Output of the Gas Fields of West Virginia.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 7.—A deal which involves approximately $200,000,000 and by which New York capital, said to be backed by the Standard Oil company, will control the entire gas output of West Virginia, has practically been closed.

For some time the New York interests have controlled the gas situation throughout the northern and central parts of the state, and by the new deal will gain control of the southern fields also.

The new deal involves the United Fuel Gas company of Pittsburg, which only recently took over the extensive holdings of the United States Natural Gas company in this state; the Columbia Gas company, which supplies Cincinnati; the Interstate Gas company, the Ohio Fuel Supply company and others, all of which draw their supply from Southern West Virginia.

It is said to be the intention of the New York men to pipe gas to New York, Philadelphia and other seaboard cities.

WEATHER—Snow flurries tonight or Saturday; rising temperature; moderate southwesterly winds.—U. S. Forecast.

WILL OFFER AID TO McEWEN IN PROBING LABOR GRAFT

Americanized Greek Says He Can Secure Thousands of Affidavits.

Says Laborers Pay for Fine Homes, Automobiles and Dinners.

George Angel, a Greek, who is well educated and who has studied the labor employment agency business at close range, will offer his services to Commissioner W. E. McEwen of the state labor bureau in the investigation of charges that interpreters and others have extorted large sums from laborers employed by railroads.

"I can get from 5,000 to 25,000 affidavits from Greek laborers who have been exploited by the labor agents, the interpreters and railroad officials," said Angel today. "I know that the graft that obtains among these employers is far-reaching and applies to every railroad in the Northwest. The laborer is exploited as soon as he arrives from his native country and he is 'slum-dammed' constantly until he learns how to care for himself.

"The laborer's countrymen lead in this work of 'double-crossing.' The so-called interpreter fastens himself like a leech on the laborer and the latter cannot escape. I notice that several agents say they do not do business with the laborer except through an interpreter, when possible. Of course they don't. Then, if anybody is 'stung' it is the interpreter or the laborers. If the labor agent sends the laborers on a futile chase after jobs he can say the situation was misrepresented by the interpreter. Fellow-countrymen are not liable to cause trouble for each other in a strange country and the swindled laborer either does not desire to prosecute or he does not know how to proceed even if he would see his persecutors punished.

"Five or six big labor agencies furnish the supply of Greek and other laborers to the railroads of the Northwest. Greek headquarters are in Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Louis, because the foreigner stands a better chance of obtaining a job in those cities in the winter than in smaller towns.

"Suppose you are a Greek, knowing little English and out of a job. You are in Chicago and are approached by another Greek who speaks the English language fairly well and who is familiar with American customs. He offers to get you a job in Minnesota for $10, including fare. You accompany your new friend to the passenger station and find that the fare is $9. For friendship's sake, he says he is giving his services as an interpreter and his time to you for only one dollar. After you hand over your ten spot, he gets you to sign a paper. You do not know what you are signing, although as you grow more experienced you will learn not to sign papers about which you know nothing. This paper probably is a document promising him from $3 to $5 a month as fees for interpreting, although you may never see him again. Then you promise, also, to permit a deduction of $5 or $10 from your first month's check for labor fees.

"Young Hill may get at the bottom of the situation. If he does, he will show wherein he is different from his father. And, say, this exploiting of the laborer pays. If you don't believe it, go to St. Paul and Minneapolis and see the fine automobiles, the dinners and gowns and big houses that the Greek laborers of the Northwest have paid for. It's one grand, gorgeous graft, and I think I may give Mr. McEwen information which will help him in searching out the offenders."

nothing else was needed save the name and an American flag.

Dirtiest in the World.

When it was suddenly decided by Thomas P. Moffatt, the American consul, that the increase of the town's population by 1,400 of the dirtiest human beings in the world endangered the health of Americans, "El Bluff" was chosen as a camp for them. The bluff juts in between the sea some eight or ten miles east of Bluefields, and a shallow lagoon.

Tall cocoanut palms, wild banana trees and giant cottonwoods provide a soothing shade; there is a spring of cold water and the health-preserving trade wind of this latitude is almost constantly felt. It is a better location for a city than the site of Bluefields, and that city would have moved there, bag and baggage, some years ago, had not President Zelaya interfered.

"El Bluff's" Chief Industry.

Most Nicaraguan revolutions start at "El Bluff" for the customs house is there and all of them, except the present one, have ended there. Zelaya considered it a good trap for budding insurrections, and did not purpose having it spoiled with a city.

There is no embarrassment of housing and guarding the prisoners. They habitually sleep in the open, and all of the Zelayas in Christendom could not drive them from the smell of a savory pot. The latter had to be provided, however, and the Americans, in the five hours given them for preparation, were equal to the task.

Farwell was placed in command, assisted by Charles J. Lynn, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the commissary steward, S. W. White of Atlanta, Ga., chief cook of the Tacoma, transferred his activities to the shore, and numerous jackies completed the force.

A round sea was running, but tinned meats, bread, beans, onions, sea biscuit and other commissary "gear" were safely stowed aboard the small boats and landed.

Prisoners "300 Weak."

Half a dozen obsolete railroad rails were secured from the custom house officials, who lent every possible aid, and soon eight pots were simmering with rich, nutritious soup. Night had fallen when the first batch of prisoners, 300 strong (or more properly, weak, for they were nearly starved), arrived.

There was a hopeful "Viva L'Americanos" as the wretched, tottering prisoners saw the sailors moving about with lanterns, and White's round, humorous face, lit by the fire, peering into his big pots and sniffing critically at each.

Farwell served 1,200 rations of soup that night, or about four quarts to each prisoner. They would eat and then sleep an hour or so. Then back for more. When day broke the outfit was for the most part enjoying the miracle of unlimited food. Some, who had eaten until they could eat no more, gazed with looks of envy and disappointment at their more undistended comrades, whose capacity had not yet been satisfied.

Keeping the Pot Boiling.

Camp Niblack more than kept pace with the work piled on it as new batches of prisoners arrived. Zinc roofing was obtained from provisional government officials to protect four rusty cook stoves, which Farwell unearthed in Bluefields, so that the cooking might proceed in any weather. A tent was erected to cover the stores and ropes strung to keep the prisoners in line while their soup was passed out to them. Indiscriminate feeding was displaced by three regular rations daily and the prisoners were made to wash their own dishes. They would have allowed the sailors to do this for them, but Farwell drew the line.

Bathed in Drinking Pool.

The spring from which drinking water is drawn lies half a mile from the cook camp, and Farwell at first tried to make the prisoners bring it. The first squad, however, did not reappear for an hour, and a guard sent to investigate found the Zelayans bathing in the pool. They were relieved of their duty and a guard placed over the spring.

Farwell was unable to make them forage for firewood until he hit on the plan of a ration of coffee for a bundle of fagots. That solved the fuel problem.

The prisoners—on the surface, at least, are far inferior to the Indians of the east coast. It is to be remembered, however, that they had just come from many weeks of starvation in the bush, and appeared at their worst.

Eat Salt Like Sheep.

A singularity noted was their desire for salt. They asked for it so often that Farwell now keeps an open box of salt where any one can get all he wants. The prisoners take it by the handsful and and walk about, eating it like a lot of sheep.

When the ship with the Red Cross supplies arrived a few days ago, the poor bushmen indeed opened their eyes. There was coffee for all, condensed milk, tea (they had never heard of tea), meat, tinned goods of all sorts, beans galore, rice—a veritable dream of feasting.

CUTS THROAT WITH GLASS

hotel, where Banks lived, heard an unusual lot of noise in Grant's room, and investigating found Banks rolling about the floor bleeding profusely from a deep gash in his neck.

Cut Between Wind Pipe and Jugular.

He clutched a piece of window glass which he had forced through the skin of his neck between the windpipe and the jugular vein and rolled about the floor groaning in agony. The clerk took the glass from the would-be suicide, called help, and after stopping the flow of blood had the wounded man carried to the train and taken to St. Paul. Banks secured the glass by breaking a window pane in his room. If he had cut himself cross-ways with the glass instead of vertically he would certainly have severed his jugular vein and bled to death before the opening could have been closed. This is said to have been the third time Banks attempted his life. So far as known he has no relatives in this country, his folks living in Sweden.

"WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH PINCHOT?" IS CABINETS QUESTION

congress except through the head of a department.

A number of congressional callers discussed the incident with President Taft prior to the cabinet session today, and there was among them the impression that the matter might be disposed of at this time by the president suspending Messrs. Pinchot, Price and Shaw pending the decision of the congressional committee, which is about to undertake an investigation of the entire subject matter involved in the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. In fact this course was suggested to the president by a number of the supporters of the administration.

Would Let Him Prove It.

It was said that in this way no radical action would be taken against Mr. Pinchot until he had had an opportunity to prove that the statements he has made were based upon sound judgment and that the Cunningham controversy lands were actually in danger of being given over to fraudulent claimants until he and his assistants stepped into the breech.

Among some of the callers at the White House this morning, however, there was the idea that the president would dismiss Mr. Pinchot forthwith. It was pointed out that the forester, in Mr. Taft's view, had been "defying the lightning" for some time, and that Mr. Taft's patience was at an end.

Apparently unperturbed, Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot at the capitol today smilingly resumed the work of explaining to the sub-committee of the agricultural committee of the house the details of the forestry service and the reasons for the appropriation of government money in that direction. He was cordially greeted by Chairman Scott and other members of the committee.

Talks About Forestry.

Mr. Pinchot was examined for an hour. His answers to questions had a varying range and included all branches of the forestry service. The interrogations had nothing to do with the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and were solely in connection with the appropriation for the forestry service which will be recommended by the agricultural committee.

Upon leaving the committee room Mr. Pinchot was asked whether he had anything to add to the various statements appearing in the newspapers today in regard to the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy and investigation.

"No, I think not at this time," he replied, "but what do you hear?"

The correspondent assured him that there was no dearth of information around the capitol, but the forester declined to add any comments to the volume already afloat.

Mr. Pinchot said he did not care to express an opinion as to whether his letter to Senator Dolliver would cause the president to consider an official decapitation. Apparently Mr. Pinchot had no concern in that direction.

ONLY MILLER DISCIPLINED

postmasterships, and inquiry develops that Representative C. B. Miller of Duluth is practically the only member of the Minnesota delegation affected. According to the story told by officials of the postoffice department, postoffice cases in the Eighth Minnesota district are not held up solely on the ground that Mr. Miller has taken a position hostile to the Cannon organization in the house.

Bede Takes Hand.

Former Representative Adam Bede was in Washington a week or so ago and it is learned that one of the objects of his visit, although he did not make any announcement of the fact at the time, was to confer with Postmaster General Hitchcock about the postmastership cases in which Representative Miller had made recommendations. It appears that Mr. Bede and other persons in the Eighth district have entered protests against men recommended by Mr. Miller on the ground that the nominees are not regular Republicans. Postoffice officials say that there are a dozen such cases and that the postmaster general is justified in holding in abeyance action on such appointments solely on the ground that question has been raised as to the party regularity of the Miller nominees. The indications are that Mr. Miller will have difficulty in jarring loose the postoffice appointments in which he is interested.

Bad Feeling Exists.

Bad feeling exists between Representative Miller and Postmaster General Hitchcock. In a measure at least the postmaster general holds Mr. Miller responsible for recent publications reflecting the attitude of the department toward the insurgents. Mr. Hitchcock charges Representative Miller with bad faith in disclosing what he says was information conveyed in a private conversation. The same information was told by the postmaster general to other members and it is disclosed by inquiry that other members besides Mr. Miller told of their grievances against the department.

Two North Dakota Farmers Fined for Violating Labor Law.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charged with bringing unskilled aliens, under contract, across the Canadian line to work on farms, Peter Schrag and Chris Graver, pleaded guilty in the federal court before Judge Charles F. Amidon. A fine of $3 was assessed against each man, which was paid, ending the cases.

The defendants operate farms near Munich, N. D. They secured laborers across the Canadian line, contracting with the men to do farm work. They claimed they were not aware they were violating the provision of any statute, which is responsible for the moderate fine which was imposed.

ROAD MAY BE ABANDONED

Railroad Commissioners Grant Request of Duluth & Iron Range Railroad.

Judge Ira B. Mills, chairman of the railroad and warehouse commission, and Commissioner Charles E. Staples, conducted a hearing at the Spalding today, on the petition of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad to abandon a section of road between McKinley and Virginia on the Western Mesaba branch.

As there has been no objection to the petition in question, the application will be granted in due time by the commission.

The following statement of the facts in the case was prepared by Chairman Mills and Commissioner Elmquist, and covers the details of the case:

"A hearing was held this morning which involves the abandonment of 5.84 miles on the Western Mesaba branch of the Duluth & Iron Range railway between McKinley and Virginia. No objection was filed by any of the resident property owners living along the line proposed to be abandoned.

"It appears that the right-of-way proposed to be abandoned was located over lines which were held by licenses granted by the fee owners with the permission that the railroad company would surrender the right-of-way and allow the mine owners to mine their ore whenever the time came that the owners of the mines demanded it. The various mining companies have now said that the railroad company must give them possession and it was shown that six of the mines now being developed will start mining ore under the land now occupied by the right-of-way. The only village affected by the abandonment is Sparta, which formerly had a population of 800 people. Since the abandonment was proposed the village has been removed to Gilbert, about three miles across country, and all property owners have been settled with by the Oliver Mining company.

"It appears that at the present time there is no one living at Sparta and that there are no farmers or other people affected by this abandonment. The Missabe road has built a new road-bed parliel with the old one upon land outside the mining zone. A spur track runs from this new road to the village of Gilbert and connections will be made with all Missabe tracks. The application to abandon the old track and to grant permission to operate the new parallel line with the spur track out to Gilbert will be given by the commission."

When questioned in regard to the existence of a serious fuel famine in the Northwest, both Judge Mills and Commissioner Elmquist stated that investigations showed there was no immediate danger of a fuel famine in any part of this state.

As to North and South Dakota, the commissioners stated that they knew little of the true conditions there, as territory outside the state did not come under their investigations.

NO INDIGESTION OR SICK STOMACH

Gas, Heartburn, Dyspepsia and All Misery in Stomach Vanishes.

Take your sour, out-of-order stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, billiousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapepsin.

GETS JAIL SENTENCE

Oscar Rengman Will Serve Sixty Days for Giving Girls Wine.

Oscar Rengman, arrested Wednesday night on two warrants charging him with giving port wine to Gerda Ekholm and Helen Sheehan, 16-year-old girls living in the West end, entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning. He was fined $100 and cost or sixty days in the county jail. He is unable to raise the cash and will probably have to spend the next two months in the county jail. The girls told their stories to the court this morning after Rengman had entered his plea. They said that he had met them at Nineteenth avenue west and Second street and told them that if they would come to his room he would give them some candy. They refused to enter, they said, and he brought the candy and then went back for wine. One girl drank three glasses and the other took two. They went to school in an apparently intoxicated condition, which led to investigations by their teachers, resulting in Rengman's arrest. Rengman was shocked when he heard the sentence of the court through Court Officer Jensen, who acted as interpreter. He told the interpreter that he couldn't understand why the judge had been so severe since he had intended only to "treat" the girls, with whom, he claimed, he was acquainted, having met them several times before. He stated that he came to this country only last May, and said that in his home it is not thought wrong to treat others. The charges in the second warrant were dismissed after the court had pronounced sentence.

STATE FAIR BOARD BATTLE IS HOT

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The contest for the presidency of the State Agricultural society and the state fair board, which will be settled at the annual meeting of the society in St. Paul next Tuesday, continues to grow warmer.

J. J. Furlong of Austin, one of the candidates on whom a lively fight is being made, has stationed himself at the Merchants hotel and is working like a Trojan. Yesterday and last night he divided himself between the long distance telephone and his headquarters and the scene was one of activity. Several of the house members counted as among his supporters, among them W. A. Nolan, John Zelch and Dr. J. A. Gates of Kenyon, were circulating about the hotel corridors and conferences were frequent.

J. M. Underwood of Lake City, who is pressing Mr. Furlong for the same office, was not in evidence, but his friends were on hand and they watched every move made by the other side. Today the Underwood forces were claiming the election of their men, but this Mr. Furlong and his friends refused to concede. Among those watching the fray was Chairman Frank A. Day of the Democratic state central committee.

A dispatch was received today from Crookston, announcing a call for a meeting of the Minnesota County Exhibitors' association, to be held in St. Paul next Wednesday morning. The object of the meeting was not stated, but it was intimated that it would have a bearing on the presidency of the society. The association is not supposed to be friendly to Mr. Furlong.

GREEN STUFF PRICES UP

Cold Weather Has Marked Effect in Perishable Goods Market.

Green goods are slightly higher on Michigan street because of the cold weather, which causes delay in shipments and damage to goods in transit. Most consignments are sent from Chicago. Refrigerator cars are not easy to obtain and the railroads are not handling shipments with normal facility. Much green stuff and perishable goods arrive frozen. These are sold for what they will bring and the commission houses then put in claims to the railroads to protect themselves against further loss.

With shipments coming in slowly and partly damaged, it is natural that prices should be higher. Supplies find a ready market and these marketings must make up for the loss sustained on damaged goods. Cauliflower is selling at $2 a crate and lettuce has gone up to $1.25 a box from $1. Parsley, which a short time ago sold at 40 cents a dozen, is now selling at 70 cents. Very little Michigan celery is being handled here. Eastern and California celery sells at 35 cents a bunch. Carrots, which a short time ago sold at 45 cents a dozen are now bringing 75 cents, and a dozen beets command 65 cents, compared with recent quotations of 45 cents. Wax beans, per hamper, cost $5 instead of $4, a quotation of recent date. New Minnesota cabbages have scored a big advance and are selling at $2 a crate.

The passing of the holiday demand has caused a lowering of prices for fruits. Fancy California oranges that brought $3.50 are now selling at $2.90. Fancy California navels that sold at $3.75 now command $3.25. Florida oranges that sold at $3 a box now sell at $2.50. The reduction in prices extend to other classes of fruits. Malaga grapes that sold $6.25 a keg now sell at $6, and Florida pineapples that brought $4.50 are now selling at $3.50 a crate and at $1.75 a dozen instead of $2. New York Nonesuch apples that sold at $4.50 are selling now at $4.25. California lemons scored a big drop and are now quoted at $5. Bananas bring 4 cents a pound instead of 4½ cents. Cranberries which sold at $7.25 to $7.50 a barrel are now quoted at $7.

The egg market is in a peculiar position. There has been an advance in storage eggs and a slight drop in fresh eggs. The storage variety is now selling at from 25 to 26 cents and fresh eggs at 32 cents. Holders of storage supplies say the stocks are becoming fast depleted. Supplies of fresh eggs are more plentiful and even at a price of 32 cents, wholesalers are finding difficulty in moving their stocks. Warmer weather, dealers say, would cause a further softening in prices.

• • •

In about a week fresh pike and pickerel from Northern lakes, bluefish and increased supplies of salt water fish will come into the market. The supply of whitefish on hand is limited but the price is reasonable, being 10 cents a pound. At this time of the year the fish market is practically stagnant, but more activity will be witnessed from now on.

• • •

Rutabagas, potatoes and other root crops are plentiful and supplies are in good condition. Dealers find it easy to move their stocks and the demand continues good. The recent storm has interfered somewhat with shipments, but owing to the proximity of the local market to the fields, the condition is not as serious as in other markets. Prices are unchanged.

Saturday Evening

From 7 to 9:30, we will place on sale over 200 beautiful waists of taffeta, net, messaline and lingerie, worth from $5.00 to $10.00, while they last, only $3.50. Friedman's New Cloak and Suit House.

QUEER FORM OF INSANITY

Chief Amusement of Homesteader Said to Be Playing "Horse."

Nick Mattson, 38 years of age and of Finnish descent, this afternoon had an examination as to his sanity before Judge J. B. Middlecoff of the probate court.

Mattson has been living for some days in Two Harbors. His home is in Sparta.

According to the information of insanity filed against him by Carl P. Paulson, Mattson's chief amusement is crowing like a rooster and playing "horse" like a very young child. He thrusts a stick between his legs and gallops off to war, brandishing a stick for a sword. He charges on an imaginary enemy and soon has their line all smashed to pieces. He then takes possession of the field of battle in the name of Finland.

At other times he gets very angry because he can find no one to play horse with him. He also builds snow men and finds enjoyment in other childish amusements.

Some time ago he tried to shoot a bartender in Two Harbors. It is thought that he will become dangerous, as when he is crossed he gets very angry and makes dire threats.

Mattson has no family. He has been living until recently upon his homestead, which is located near Sparta.

The number of insane cases to come before the local court seems to be on the increase. Two men were taken away last night. The number during the week past has been unusually large.

ARE INJURED BY GAS EXPLOSION

Frank Holden, a plumber, and Mrs. A. K. Love of 119 North Twenty-sixth avenue west, were both burned about the head and face, but not dangerously, yesterday when sewer gas in the basement of the latter's home exploded.

The plumber went into the basement to repair what was thought to be a leak. He set the candle beside the catch basin, and tried to take the lid off with his hands, but it stuck too tightly. He then kicked it with his foot, loosening the lid and letting out a flood of sewer gas, which exploded when it came in contact with the flame. Holden was more seriously injured than the woman. His face, neck and hands were badly scorched, and Mrs. Love's hair was singed. The pipe which runs through the roof and lets out the gas had frozen at the top, forcing the gas back.

Holden went immediately to his home, and Charles Rigdon, plumbing inspector, located the trouble. Mrs. Love went into the basement with him to show him the place the explosion had occurred, but when she saw him reaching into his pocket for a match she ran upstairs without waiting to see what the results would be.

BIG BUILDING WILL BE ERECTED

J. J. Wangenstein is preparing plans for a building to be erected on Second street and Second avenue east by T. W. Wahl. The building will be in "L" shape, fronting 100 feet on the lower side of Second street and sixty-five feet on the east side of Second avenue east, running 200 feet back on the alley, being built around the corner property at the southeast corner of Second avenue east and Second street.

The proposed building will be four stories in height on the avenue and alley and three stories on the street. It will be of brick construction and will cost about $125,000.

The exact arrangement of the space and the tenancy of the building have not been definitely determined, but there will be four stores on Second street and three on the avenue. For the time, at least, the upper floors will probably be used for light manufacturing, but when the city's growth warrants, they will be divided into offices.

POSTMASTER RESIGNS.

Marquette, Mich., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Editor George Newett has resigned as postmaster at Ishpeming in order to devote all his time to his weekly newspaper. The office pays well, and already three candidates are after it.

PINCHOT STIRS THINGS UP BY LETTER ON GLAVIS CASE

Chief Forester Virtually Raps President for His Part in It.

Upholds Men Who Made Charges Against Secretary Ballinger.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Ballinger-Pinchot controversy was made doubly intense by the reading in the senate yesterday of a letter addressed by Mr. Pinchot to Senator Dolliver, in which the course adopted by L. R. Glavis, with the assistance of Messrs. Price and Shaw of the bureau of forestry, was warmly approved. In this communication the chief forester not only upheld the criticisms of Secretary Ballinger, but suggested that the president himself had been mistaken in the facts when he removed Mr. Glavis from the public service.

Mr. Pinchot's letter called Senator Newlands to his feet with a severe rebuke to the chief forester for having ignored a recent order by the president directing that no insubordinate officer should give information regarding the affairs of the government except to his superior officers. He also suggested that the adoption of this course tended to forestall and prejudice public opinion in relation to the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Joint Resolution Offered.

Preceding this incident, Senator Jones' joint resolution for an investigation of the interior department and of the forestry bureau was referred to the committee on public lands, but the reference was not made until after considerable discussion of a resolution by Senator Newlands instructing the committee on public lands to report within two weeks, recommendations for legislation putting into effect Secretary Ballinger's recommendations made in his last annual report for the conservation of natural resources. The Newlands resolution also was referred to the committee on public lands.

While the senate was taking this action the house declined to enter upon a discussion of the joint resolution introduced by Mr. Humphrey, and the resolution went over.

Caused Real Sensation.

In the senate, Mr. Pinchot's letter caused a genuine sensation. In addressing his letter to Senator Dolliver, Mr. Pinchot indicated that it had been written at the request of the Iowa senator, but it was addressed to him as chairman of the committee on agriculture, thus making it an official document. He said Messrs. Price and Shaw had prepared an official report on their actions, which he was transmitting to the secretary of agriculture.

"This report shows that Messrs. Price and Shaw made public certain information regarding the so-called Cunningham claims for coal lands in Alaska," said Mr. Pinchot. "The effect of the publication was to direct critical public attention to the action of the interior department.

"It shows that they countenanced the publication by L. R. Glavis of certain facts concerning these claims after he had been dismissed from office, and that in other ways they endeavored to direct public attention to the imminent danger that the Alaska coal field still in government ownership might pass forever into the control of private hands, with little or no compensation to the public."

Says It Was All Right.

This information, Mr. Pinchot adds, was of a nature proper to be made public, unless there are secrets which the people of the United States are not entitled to know concerning the source, nature and progress of claims made for portions of the public lands."

"The rumor," he said, "that the Glavis report to the president was prepared in or by the forest service, is incorrect. At Glavis' request I sent Shaw, as it was proper I should, to Chicago to assist him in arranging his material for submission to the president."

After saying that these officials had acted on information they had concerning the danger of the loss of the Alaska coal lands, Mr. Pinchot continued:

"Glavis, the Defender."

"Action through the usual official channels and finally even an appeal to the president had resulted (because of what I believe to have been a mistaken impression of the facts), in eliminating from the government service in the person of Glavis, the most vigorous defender of the people's interest. Furthermore, the refusal of the secretary of the interior to assume responsibility in the cases had left their conduct wholly in the hands of subordinates, each of whom apparently committed in favor of patenting these claims."

Price and Shaw, he said, deliberately chose to risk their official positions rather than permit what they believed to be the wrongful loss of public property. Having violated a rule of propriety as between the departments Mr. Pinchot said they deserved a reprimand and had received one.

"But I shall recommend," he added, "without hesitation that no further action in their case is required."

An Unusual Situation.

Mr. Pinchot said the action of these subordinates was most unusual, but suggested that the situation which called it forth was quite as unusual.

"Price and Shaw," he said, successfully directed public attention to a national danger. They increased the people's interest in the people's property and powerfully fostered the desire to conserve it. There is now far less chance that the Alaska coal fields will pass into the hands of fraudulent claimants than there was before they acted.

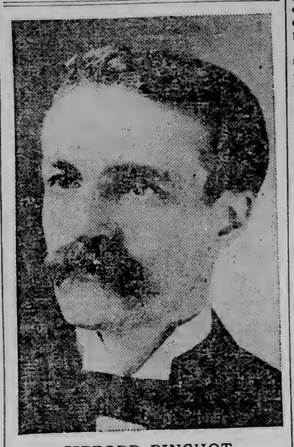

"They acted on what they believed to be trustworthy information. Many considerations which had not been brought home to the president's mind, as appears from his letter of Sept. 13, had weight with them.

"The rules of official decorum exist in the interest of official administration and of that alone. If they are used to prevent an honest and vigilant official from saving the property of the public, their purpose is violated and they become worse than useless. Price and Shaw conceede that what they did transgressed propriety. But measured by the emergency which faced them, by the purity of their motives and the results which they accomplished, their breach of propriety sinks well nigh to insignificance."

Will Bear His Part.

Mr. Pinchot said he had no intention or desire to shirk any part of his own legitimate responsibility for what was done by these two subordinates. What they did, he added, raised a question of principle which should not be obscured either by personal consideration or possible mistakes on their part. They had, he said, done for the people of the country what the people would have done for themselves had they been in a situation to do it.

Upon the conclusion of the discussion of the Pinchot letter, the president's message transmitting Attorney General Wickersham's report on the Ballinger case was laid before the senate, but Mr. Wickersham's long report was not read. It was referred to the committee on public lands.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

Senator Nelson of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on public lands, has called a meeting for Saturday morning to consider the several resolutions relating to the investigation of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Taft Calls Cabinet.

Late in the afternoon, after reading the newspaper reports of the lively tilt caused in the senate by the reading of the lettir by Gifford Pinchot, President Taft sent out a hurry call for such members of his cabinet as were within reach. Secretary of State Knox, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson soon put in an appearance.

It was said that Forester Pinchot's conduct in sending an official communication to the chairman of a congressional committee was freely discussed, although none of the cabinet officers who participated in the conference would discuss their call to the White House in any way.

The president some time ago issued an order that no subordinate in any government department should disclose any information to congress except through the head of the department.

Slap at the President.

Mr. Pinchot in his letter virtually upholds Glavis and describes him as the "most vigorous defender of the people's interests," despite the fact that President Taft had declared he was unfit longer to remain in the public service. This direct slap at the president and the further declaration by Mr. Pinchot that the Cunningham coal lands really were about to go to fraudulent claimants until Glavis and the forestry bureau officials took a hand in the fight, thus impugning the intentions of high officials of the Interior department, are said to have aroused Mr. Taft to keen resentment.

The president is said to have felt for some time that Mr. Pinchot has been defying the lightning. Some action as to Mr. Pinchot's course in the letter incident is not unexpected.

Glavis Is Reticent.

Portland, Or., Jan. 7.—"Let the people decide who is right; I think they are better qualified to act as a jury in my case than anyone else."

This was the statement made over the long-distance telephone by L. R. Glavis, former chief of field division of the general land office, to the Associated Press after the report of Attorney General Wickersham and the letter of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot to Senator Dolliver had been read to him. Glavis is on a hunting and fishing trip in the mountains near White Salmon.

He went on to say that he did not care to go into further discussion of his case until he goes to Washington to testify before the congressional commission. Mr. Glavis, however, scouted the idea that his action was in any way inspired by spite.

"My motive will be fully apparent when my evidence is given before the congressional committee," he said.

"It Did, Did It?"

The only comment he made on the attorney general's report was on that portion of referring to the alleged overruling of assistant Secretary Pierce's decision in which the attorney general says that the ruling of the department of justice "excluded any possible reference to the Cunningham claims."

Then Glavis interjected: "Oh, it did, did it?"

He declined, however, to explain just what he meant by the expression.

The former field chief was almost as reticient regarding the letter from Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot to Senator Dolliver. But though he declined to say what part Messrs. Shaw and Price of the department of forestry took in preparing Glavis' report, Glavis declared that "Mr. Pinchot is a man of scrupulous honesty and I would have no hesitation in pronouncing as true whatever he actually said on this or any other subject."

"Did Shaw and Price also aid you in the preparation of an article written by you which recently appeared in an Eastern magazine?" He was asked.

"No sir," replied Gravis. "Most emphatically no. They had no part in its preparation whatever."

WOODMEN INSTALLATION.

West End Lodge Makes Elaborate Plans for Annual Affair.

A program of more than usual interest has been arranged for the installation of officers of Duluth camp, No. 2431, Modern Woodmen of America, which will be held at Columbia hall, on Wednesday evening of next week.

The affair will be open to members of the order and their families. The members of the ladies auxillary, the Royal Neighbors of America, have been invited to attend. After the program, refreshments will be served and there will be dancing.

Among the speakers for the occasion will be Mayor R. D. Haven and John H. Norton, county attorney. Miss Alice Stoscllus will render a vocal solo and music will also be furnished during the evening by La Brosse's orchestra.

The newly elected officers to be installed follow:

George M. Jensen, consul; Martin Rude, advisor; George M. Peterson, banker; Charles Shogren, clerk; C. E. Dice, assistant clerk; Jens Mork, escort; A. Olsen, watchman; L. Cohning, sentry; O. W. Olson, trustee for three years; Dr. O. A. Oredson, Dr. L. T. Pare and Dr. L. Q. Greely, camp physicians.

LUTHERAN AID SOCIETY HAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

With a balance of over $275 on the right side of the ledger the Ladies' Aid Society of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church yesterday closed another successful year, one of the best in its history.

The annual meeting was held at the home of Mrs Ed Oberstrom of 2316 West Second street and officers for the ensuing year were elected. Rev. C. G. Olson, the pastor, is the president of every society in the church. The elecevery society in the church. The elec-tive officers were named as follows: Mrs. Nordstrom, vice president; Mrs. J. Erlander, secretary; Mrs. Wesch, assistant secretary, and Mrs. L. Palmquist, vice secretary, and Mrs. L. A. Wilmer, treasurer.

FIGHTING FOR LIFE IN SHACK IN PINE WOODS.

In a little shack near Pine City, Minn., where he has access to the open air continually, Alfred Gustafson of 1921 West First street is taking the open air treatment for tubercuolsis.

Friends of the young man have received word from Pine City to the effect that he has improved to such a fully extent that it is understood that he is recovering from the tubercular affection.

Game at Superior.

The Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's school will send its indoor baseball team to Superior this evening to battle with the Company I men and play off the return game. The local team, in its last game expects to make a good showing against the Superior men.

McGillivary Funeral.

Funeral services were held this afternoon for Malcolm McGillivary, pioneer sailor and an old resident of Duluth, who died Wednesday at his home, 1228½ West Superior street. Burial was made at Forest Hill cemetery. The funeral was held from the residence with Rev. J. G. Leitch, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, officiating. The members of Clan Stewart, of which he was an active member, attended the funeral in a body.

West End Shortrails.

Mr. and Mrs. John Beckman have returned to Fond du Lac after a short visit with friends at the West End.

Miss Anna Haglund of 2013 West Sixth street will leave tomorrow for Warren, Minn., where she has a position as music teacher in the North Star college.

Mrs. C. P. Sawyer, mother of Mayor R. D. Haven, is reported to be very ill at his home, 2821 West Third street. Mrs. Sawyer is 73 years old.

The confirmation class of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church will meet tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock with Rev. C. G. Olson, the pastor. The meeting will be held at the church parlors.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Central Baptist church will be held this evening, when the annual church officers will be elected. The business session will be followed by a social. Refreshments will be served.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Discovery Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Skin Diseases.

Nothing in the history of medicine has ever approached the success of the marvelous skin remedy known as poslam, which, it is safe to say, has cured more cases of eczema and skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills.

The success of poslam is not at all surprising when it is considered that even a very small quantity applied to the skin stops itching immediately and cures chronic cases in two weeks. The very worst cases of eczema, as well as acne, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, rash, crusted humors, scaly scalp and every form of itch, yield to it readily. Blemishes such as pimples, red noses, muddy and inflamed skin disappear almost immediately when poslam is applied, the complexion being cleared over night.

Every druggist keeps both the 50-cent size (for minor troubles) and the $2 jar, and either of these may be obtained at the Lyceum Pharmacy and W. A. Abbett's in Duluth, and the A. E. Holmberg Drug Co., in Superior, as well as other reliable drug stores.

But no one is even asked to purchase poslam without first obtaining an experimental package which will be sent by mail, free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

Bronchial Trouble Cured Weight Increased

MR. PAUL GASPARINE.

MRS. PAUL GASPARINE.

Mr. Paul Gasparine of 967 Columbus Avenue, New York City, praises Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for helping Mrs. Gasparine when in need of a tonic and for curing him of bronchial trouble after years of suffering. Not only has it cured him, but it has also improved his general health, and now he feels strong and vigorous again. He recommends it to all who suffer as he has.

Mr. Gasparine writes: "I take great pleasure in telling you that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has cured me of a severe attack of bronchial trouble, from which I had suffered for years. It increased my weight and I now feel well and strong again. I always keep Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey in the house and can cheerfully recommend it to any one suffering as I did. My wife when in need of a tonic has also used your whiskey with excellent results."—Paul Gasparine, 967 Calumbus Ave., New York, N. Y.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has to its credit over fifty years of service. During this time it has brought health and happiness to thousands of homes. It is prescribed by doctors and recognized as a family medicine everywhere.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is the greatest strength-builder and tonic stimulant known to medicine. By its invigorating effect upon the physical and nervous forces it rebuilds the weakened tissuse, in a gradual, healthy natural manner. It is an absolute cure and preventive of consumption, pneumonia, grip, bronchitis, coughs, colds, malaria, low fevers and all wasting, weakened, diseased conditions, if taken in time and in small doses as directed. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong.

If in need of advice, write Medical Department, Duffy Malt Whiskey Company, Rochester, N. Y., stating your case fully. Our doctor will send you advice free, together with a valuable illustrated medical booklet, containing rare common sense rules for health, which you cannot afford to be without, and some of the many thousands of gratifying letters received from men and women in all walks of life, both old and young, who have been cured and benefited by the use of this great medicine and who continue to enjoy good health. It is sold by druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 per large bottle.

NO POLITICS IN THE PULPIT

Leaders of the Church of England Decry Its Introduction.

London, Jan. 7.—With the imminence of a general election, the bishops of the Church of England are, in one form or another, making reference to the attitude they deem it desirable to be observed both by clergy and laity. In several instances special prayers for public or private use have been suggested, with the recommendation that electors should make their duty a matter of supplication. Archbishops and bishops alike appear to be agreed that politics is out of place in the pulpit.

The bishop of Winchester remarked: "Upon most of the burning questions of the day devout churchmen, good, honorable and loyal citizens, will be found widely separated in views, and it appears to me neither reasonable nor decorous that a clergyman should employ the advantage of his position as a preacher for the promotion of distinctively party opinions, whether in support of or in opposition to the government of the day."

The bishop of Manchester remarks that the pulpit is not the place for political education, but that it is the place "for sedulously teaching the spirit in which issues of great public importance should be approached." The bishop of St. Albans urges the clergy to keep the church as a church wholly outside the conflict, and "whatever temptation may be given by others, rigidly to exclude politics from the pulpit." The bishop of Southwell affirms that the more bitter the spirit likely to be found in the political world, the more necessary it is for the church to preach the gospel of good will during the holy season of Christmastide.

It is worth noting that, quite in accord with the spirit of these utterances, the current issue of the monthly magazine published in connection with St. Peter's church, Staines, contains an expression of the vicar's regret that a passage from a sermon by a curate —which declared that the present government was doing all it could to hinder the work of God—should have appeared in a recent issue.

Among Nonconformist bodies party differences with respect to political issues are more in evidence.

BIG AIRSHIP FOR BRITISH.

Twice as Large as Any Yet Constructed in France.

Paris, Jan. 7.—It is not yet generally known that the order for the biggest airship ever built in France has come from the British war office, which has accepted the plans of the Lebaudy firm for a big aerial cruiser with a capacity of 250,000 cubic feet. Considering that the Patrie, the Ville de Paris, the Republique, and other semi-rigid airships hitherto built in France, only had a capacity of 105,000 cubic feet, it will be seen that the airship ordered by the British government will be nearly three times the size.

The engineer of the Lebaudy firm, M. Juchmes, does not say that the airship is being constructed for the British government, but this is what may be gathered from an interview.

H. WILLIAMS RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF FORT FRANCES.

Fort Frances, Ont., Jan. 7.—The results of the municipal elections held Monday were as follows: Mayor, H. Williams, re-elected; councillors, William Floyd, J. A. Osborne (re-elected), L. Christie, C. F. McGregor, S. Nodon and Colin Russell; school trustees, A. H. Watson, Rev. M. Doyle and F. J. Strain.

The result of the plebiscite regarding municipal ownership of telephones was 75 for and 11 against. Owing to the very cold weather here, the vote was not as large as would otherwise have been.

LEAGUE IS NEARING END

Intolerable Situation Caused By the Military League in Greece.

Its Cabinet Growling, Courts Disregard Decisions and Influence Wanes.

Athens, Jan. 7.—The Greek crisis seems rapidly drawing to a close. The days of the Military league are numbered. The mode of its demise and the arrangements for the funeral already have been decided upon by the respectful but impatient heirs. The exact date of the involuntary demise will be determined by the rising of parliament, provided that the embarrassing problems of the budget and finances do not cause the nation to sink deeper into the slough of despondency.

The league is ripe for the reaper; its influence has waned enormously: the court disregards its decisions, and even the cabinet, which it created and supported, is beginning to show its teeth. The other day, for instance, the president of the league, Col. Tsorbas, dispatched a sharp letter to the premier, asking for the postponement of the trial of the naval mutineers, Lieut. Typaldos and his comrades, but the request was refused.

Jealousies Grow.

Within the league is torn by domestic dissensions and personal jealousies, zealously fomented by friends of the former regime. Thus some members of the revolutionary committee have become the center of petty factions. Col. Tsorba's indefatigable efforts have failed to impart a fruitful impulse to the political life of the country, because he is unsupported by a fellowship grounded upon unselfish devotion to the interests of the nation. Col. Tsorbas is still president, but the most formidable section of his forces are on the eve of secession.

The Greek navy is preparing not only to withdraw its support from the league, but to constitute a semi-independent camp, which will assume the leadership and liquidate the crisis. The leaguers then will be left in an unenviable plight, analogous to the predicament in which the court party found itself last August. Forfeiting the character of patriotic reformers, they will become mischievous criminals. By timely submission, however, which is now about to be tentatively mooted, they may ward off the harsh consequences of their courageous action; which success would have characterized as patriotism, but failure brandmarks as disloyalty.

Discipline Needed.

The counter-revolutionists started from two cardinal postulates, the need of discipline in the army and navy, and the need of integrity in the administration generally. It was the alarming corruption in public life that first aroused the indignation of the land and sea forces, called the league, into being, and justified the reform program and revolutionary methods. Officers who joined the movement solemnly undertook to compel the enactment of laws calculated to extirpate jobbery and corruption in public life, but they did not pledge themselves to remain in the league until those measures had been applied. Consequently, when parliament rises after having entered laws on the statute book, they will have fully redeemed their pledge, and will be at liberty to quit the league. Nay, they will be morally bound to break their connection with the league in order to uphold discipline in the army and navy.

In the revolutionary council downy-cheeked lieutenants sit, vote and issue behests to captains and colonels. This intolerable topsy-turvydom may have been justifiable at the outset of the revolution, but not after the fulfilment of the program. Henceforward inferiors must obey their superiors implicitly.

King George, by promoting Commodore Miaouli to the grade of vice admiral, has brought out the incongruity of these half-fellow-well-met methods in sharp relief, for the vice admiral cannot bow respectfully to beardless lieutenants and scrupulously carry out behests. Therefore, Admiral Miaouli cannot possibly remain in the league. Analogous motives will oblige the entire corps of naval officers to resign their membership and bring the league, which can be called revolutionary only by courtesy, to an inglorious close.

HIGHER COST OF LIVING SPREADS TO THE ARMY.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The increased cost of living has not only affected the private citizen, but has spread to the United States army, as well, as may be seen by the following statistics published in the Army and Navy Journal:

"The cost of rations for all posts in July and August, 1908, was 20.80 cents. For the period for which the department had to make the latest requisition, that is up to the first of February, it was 20.97, and for all the posts in the United States from July to February, both months inclusive, it was 21.02. Brig. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, commissary general, told the house military committee that the cost would go still higher, as it is nearer 22 cents now. The estimates of his department were so cut that the estimate is now for about 6,000 men less than are allowed as the authorized strength of the army. It is made at a cost of 20.97 cents a ration and there is not enough money asked for to feed the army properly.

For the present fiscal year, the department has $7,786,000, and there is going to be a deficiency of more than $1,000,000. Gen. Sharpe does not think it would be any saving to have one of the transports not in commission turned into a refrigerator ship and sent to Australia to purchase beef for the Philippine forces as better results can be obtained through contracts. The ration cost in Alaska is 37.68 cents and in the Hawaiian Islands 24.28 cents; at Schofield Barracks and at Fort Shafter 20.84 cents, irrespectively of the cost of transportation. In the Philippines the actual cost is 21.73, although there is an apparently smaller cost on account of the scouts being included in the calculations. Only a small percentage of the men trained as bakers are lost to the army by them seeking employment elsewhere, but the country at large is benefited by it in health. Well-cooked meals, the commissary general thinks, tends to reduce desertion in the army. Which opinion no healthy man of good appetite will feel called upon to challenge."

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

WOMAN REGAINS SPEECH.

Dumb Woman Awakens in the Morning Able to Converse.

London, Jan. 7.—A remarkable case of a dumb woman recovering her speech is reported from Leeds.

For eleven years Mrs. Ada Collingwood, aged 33, the wife of a carpenter, had not been able to utter a single word. A fortnight after her marriage she had a paralytic seizure, which left her speechless. Doctors and specialists were consulted, but from none of them did she derive any benefit.

A few mornings ago, however, Mrs. Collingwood, after a fortnight's illness in bed, startled her father-in-law by suddenly uttering the word "the." Mr. Collingwood, Sr., informed his son of what had occurred, and when the husband put questions to his wife he found that she was able to reply.

Slowly but surely the woman, delighted as much as her husband at being able once again to give articulation to her thoughts, increased her vocabulary, until at last, in simple language, she was able to carry on a conversation. Mrs. Collingwood was engaged nearly the whole of the next day in taking lessons in conversation from her husband. Mr. and Mrs. Collingwood have one child a little 10-year-old girl, named Doris, who, until a few days ago, had never heard her mother's voice.

PARIS HAS FLAT MURDER MYSTERY

Dead Man Found in Apartment and Woman Is Sought.

Paris, Jan. 7.—When the doors of a small flat in one of the populous quarters of Paris were opened by the police, they discovered that it was occupied by a mysterious corpse. The dead man's body, it seems, must have been lying there for several months, and how it came to be there is a question.

The flat had been occupied by a Russian lady, who disappeared early in September last. She took some boxes with her, and told the concierge that she was going to travel. The furniture that remained consisted only of three folding beds and some chairs. The proprietress of the house learned after some weeks that the woman was staying with some of her compatriots in another part of the city, and went to see her. She was told not to be uneasy about the flat, which the Russian woman said she would continue to occupy and pay for, as her furniture was still there.

As time passed, however, and the Russian woman disappeared altogether, the proprietress of the house called in a locksmith, who opened the doors, and who, after examining the rooms, was astonished to find the corpse of a man in one of the beds. The police were at once informed, and papers found in the clothes of the deceased seemed to indicate that he was a Bulgarian, who may have been a lodger taken in by the Russian woman. In fact, a short time before she left, several men, among others a young Bulgarian, were lodging with her. She gave them the rooms for a few days, after which they disappeared and nothing more was known of them.

Some neighbors who knew their language said that most of them were Russians. But this does not quite clear up the case, and the police are said to have found a collection of strange flasks and bottles, which are being examined with a view to seeing what might have been their contents. At the first examination no traces of violent death could be found on the corpse.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CRUELTY TO BLIND BOY

Beaten at State Institution Until His Hands Were Bloody.

Special Report on Faribault School Presented to the Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—James C. Matchitt, secretary of the state board of visitors, who was sent to Faribault Monday to investigate conditions at the state school for the blind, will submit his report to Governor Eberhart Friday. The investigation was prompted by charges made by several students against the management of the institution for alleged cruel punishment for trivial offenses, which charges came to the notice of the governor.

Mr. Matchitt and a stenographer visited the institution in the suburbs of Faribault on Monday and spent several hours taking the testimony of students. Nine in all were examined, six boys and three girls, and their testimony forms the bulk of the report which will be handed to the governor.

The investigation was made with special reference to the case of Albert Neumann, a feeble-minded blind boy. Neumann, a fellow-student, it was said, had been whipped by Supt. James J. Dow, on the hands until they bled. All of the witnesses examined stated that Neumann had been whipped on the hands, and the hands themselves gave evidence of severe punishment.

In explanation Supt. Dow said that Neumann had made an attack upon one of the women attendants, which was the direct cause of the chastisement. He said that Neumann was incorrigible and possessed an ungovernable temper which gave the attendants constant trouble and that the punishment had not been unduly severe.

A large part of the report will be devoted to the food served at the institution. Several students told Mr. Matchitt that the meat was often tainted and unfit for the table, and that they were frequently ill as a result. Mr. Matchitt found that potatoes were served half cooked, and that the coffee, served without cream, was an unhealthy product. He talked with Supt. Dow about the food and the latter said that he always ordered a variety of good, substantial food and meat, and that, except in special instances, where the contractor failed in his part, the food had been up to standard.

Mr. Matchitt will call the attention of the governor to the brief time allowed the students each day in the open air. They are kept assiduously at their class work through the day, and are allowed but half an hour, from 1 to 1:30 in the afternoon, for exercise. The students made complaint of this feature of their school life, and Mr. Matchitt deems it worthy of special reference in his report.

MUCH TIMBER IS BEING CUT

District Around Williams, Minn., Scene of Extensive Logging Work.

Spooner, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Since the construction of the Canadian Northern railway through the Rainy River Valley this territory has been a source of supply in the timber market and the Minnesota side has ever contributed very materially, if not the largest percentage of the output. During the past three years particularly has this been the case and today the territory is not only recognized as a contributor of a portion of the timber construction material necessary for extension of railways and telephone and telegraph lines but is looked forward to as producing the bulk of the timber needed for such purposes. Aside from the lumber product, namely manufactured lumber, it is estimated that the output of timber, during the coming season, will aggregate over $1,000,000.

Have Large Contracts.

Perhaps the largest individual dealers in the territory, this year are Meloney Bros., of Williams, a small station on the Canadian Northern railway, about twenty miles west of here. This firm, established but two years in this country, holds contracts for practically $150,000 worth of material to be delivered for shipment, during the coming winter and spring. One contract aggregating about 80,000 telephone poles, is with the Saskatchewan government and is to supply that commonwealth in its needs in the extension of its public owned telephone lines.

Aside from this contract, these men will get out, at Williams alone, 50,000 ties, 200,000 fence posts, and 300,000 lineal feet of cedar culvert timber. In addition to their operations, they will purchase the output of various jobbers and small dealers along the entire line of the Canadian Northern railway, and Rainy River, from Fort Frances to Warroad.

Soil Is Very Rich.

Not only is the district about Williams blessed with exceptional resource in timber, but its soil is especially productive and suitable for diversified farming, and as the timber is gradually being removed, good substantial and productive farms will result, to adorn and enrich the Rainy River valley. The soil is chiefly a clay loam mixed in small scattered areas, with sand, forming an ideal ground for either cereals or potatoes as well as exceptional opportunities for dairying.

Cure for Liquor Habit

Give Orrine and Destroy All Desire Sold Under Guarantee.

Orrine is the most successful cure for the liquor habit that the world has ever known. It is a home treatment, given without publicity, detention from business or loss of time, and is absolutely guaranteed if the simple directions on each box are carefully followed. So remarkable have been the changes wrought for suffering drinking men by Orrine that leading druggists everywhere recommend the treatment. Thousands of endorsements have been given for the remedy.

Read this one from the Quaker Drug Co., Seattle, Wash.: "During the past five years we have sold thousands of packages of ORRINE, and have never heard it spoken of except in the highest terms of praise. We have dozens of people come to us and state that ORRINE has cured them, or their husbands, or dear ones, from the curse of drunkenness. ORRINE is one of the few articles on the market that we can conscientiously recommend to our customers, and we do so daily, feeling that we have done what to us seems a duty as well as a service."

Orrine is prepared in two forms, No. 1, a powder, absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who wish to cure themselves. Orrine costs only $1 a box. In every box is a guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., 457 Orrine building, Washington, D. C. Orrine is for sale in this city by W. A. Abbett, 129 West Superior street, 930 East Second street, and 101 West Fourth street. They know Orrine is a reliable and efficacious remedy for drunkenness and they will not offer you a substitute.

WOMAN AGAIN DISAPPEARS.

Mrs. Clara Rooney Recently Found, Again Drops From Sight.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Search is in progress for Mrs. Clara Rooney, who returned to her relatives at Mayville, N. D., after an absence of twenty years and who is now missing for a second time. She came to Grand Forks last week on a visit, but since that time has not been seen or heard of though a search has been made for her in this and several other cities.

When Mrs. Rooney answered a newspaper advertisement by going to Mayville, where her sister resided, she stated that she had resided near Arnoch. Efforts to locate her there have this time proved futile, and no one in that section can remember of having seen or heard of her. The pictures shown could not be identified in Arnoch as being those of any resident of that section.

This new mystery in the case will mean considerable of a dely in probating the estate, which is a large one. J. C. Lenn of Mayville is the administrator of the estate of the woman's father and mother, and is conducting this second search for the mysterious woman.

MILL CITY MILLS BUSY.

Nearly 15,000,000 Barrels of Flour Turned Out in 1909.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The flour mills of Minneapolis produced last year 14,867,245 barrels, passing in quantity each of the five years preceding, according to the Northwestern Miller.

The production was 1,172,350 barrels greater than in 1908, and 1,206,780 in excess of 1907. It exceeded the run of 1906 by 1,041,450 barrels; that of 1905 by 501,150 barrels, and that of 1904 by 1,214,440 barrels.

During the period there was a greater proportionate distribution of flour to domestic consumers and a smaller percentage of exports than in any annual period in the history of the industry since Minneapolis became the greatest flour producing center of the world. Only 11.07 per cent of the output was exported, compared with 15.44 per cent in the year before, more than 17 per cent in years immediately preceding, as high as 29 per cent in 1897, and 40.30 per cent back in 1887. At that time, however, the annual production was only 6,574,900 barrels, the industry not having reached anything like its present capacity.

GOVERNOR AT WHEATON.

Will Speak Friday at an Industrial Rally There.

Wheaton, Minn., Jan. 7.—An industrial rally and educational institute, which will be in charge of the publicity committee of the Commercial Club of Wheaton, will be held today and tomorrow. Addresses will be made by Governor Eberhart, State Supt. Schultz, Andrew Boss, C. P. Bull and T. L. Haecker of the state experimental farm, Supt. A. D. Wilson of the State gricultural school, W. L. Harris, president of the Minneapolis Publicity club, J. H. Beek and Curtis L. Mosher of St. Paul. Saturday will be "tag day" for raising funds for the erection of a county school building.

ENGINE BREAKS DOWN.

Local Freight on Great Northern Delayed at Brookston.

Brookston, Minn., Jan. 7.—Special to The Herald.)—The westbound local Great Northern freight was tied up here all of Tuesday night on account of a broken axle on one of the drive wheels. The train had just pulled out of the local yard and was about a mile from town when the accident occurred. It was necessary to remove the drive rods from one side of the locomotive before the train could be moved from the main line. This work consumed several hours, and westbound traffic was diverted to the "high line" while the main line was occupied.

BLIND PIGGER FINED.

Charles Peterson Mulcted for $50 and Costs at Brainerd.

Brainerd, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald)—In the case of the state of Minnesota against Charles Peterson, who was charged in the district court with running a saloon without a license, and who had previously pleaded not guilty, changed his plea to guilty, the judge imposing a fine of $50 or sixty days in prison. He paid the fine.

In the case of the state of Minnesota vs. Herbert Sargent, the jury, after being out from 11:15 a. m. Tuesday, brought in a verdict at 9:50 Wednesday morning of grand larceny in the second degree.

CUPID BREAKS UP SHOW.

Comedian Marries Leading Woman and Manager Interferes.

Spearfish, S. D., Jan. 7.—A secret marriage of two of the stars, consummated a month ago at Sheridan, Wyo., has broken up the theatrical company known as the Donahue Players. The company was playing here when the proprietor learned that Claire O'Donnell, the 16-year-old sister of his wife, and the leading woman of the company, had been married in the Wyoming town to Eddie Black, the comedian. As both Donahue and his wife had opposed the marriage on account of the girl's youth, Black was given his final pay envelope and, with his young wife left for Chicago. The company then disbanded. Donahue declares that he will have the ceremony annuled, as the girl was under age.

CROOKSTON'S EXPENSES.

Polk County Seat Starts New Year With Substantial Balance.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald)—City Clerk Childs has completed his report of the receipts and expenditures of the city during the year 1909.

The balance at the end of 1908 was $49,219.74. The receipts during the last year were $81,413.77 and the expenditures were $92,918.48, leaving a balance at the end of the current year of $40,715.03. The excess of disbursements is accounted for by a number of expenditures for improvements during the year, out of funds that were in the treasury for that purpose in 1908, so that the financial condition is about the same as last year.

The largest item of expense was for light and hydrant service, and there is about $7,000 more to be paid this month. Next to that was the officers' salaries. The annual interest on bonds paid amounts to $5,755. The expenses for the poor amounted to $2,462. Fire department expenses were $4,852.

SNOW "DOZERS" ORDERED.

Great Northern Wants Them to Buck Snow Along Its System.

St. Cloud, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Supt. Fred Lindt of the Great Northern has received orders from the St. Paul general offices to build three "snow dozers" in a rush. These "dozers" are a sort of winged attachment to a box car, and send the snow flying off the track. The Great Northern road has now some forty of them scattered along the lines, but the heavy fall of snow this year from the Rockies to the Mississippi is worrying the officials, and they are getting ready for a hard season of snow-bucking. Not for several years has there been so much snow, and for the next two months there will probably be much difficulty in keeping the tracks clear. It will take the Waite Park car shops two weeks of overtime work to turn out the three "dozers."

WANTS SMALLER BOND.

Accused Minot Physician Seeks to Have Big Surety Cut.

Minot, N. D., Jan. 7.—Dr. Thor Moeller, accused of homicide, and Peter Hviden, who was deputized as a sheriff, returned to Minot early in the week, and an effort is being made to secure a lower bond than that last fixed by the court in the sum of $50,000. The original bond was for $10,000, but the request of the bondsmen was raised when the defendant was found to be in Mexico. It is thought that if Dr. Moeller agrees to stay in the state until his case is tried by the supreme court, the bonds may be reduced.

SOUTH DAKOTA LAWYER TO WED WISCONSIN GIRL.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorney Francis Wilhorn Grogan, formerly of Marinette but now of Fort Pierre, S. D., will be married Jan. 12, at St. Mary's church at Juneau, Wis., to Miss Elizabeth Foley of that city. The bridegroom is a graduate of Marquette university and the University of Wisconsin.

EX-CITY ENGINEER HAS SUED MAYOR TAYLOR.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—An action has been commenced by ex-City Engineer J. J. Smith against Mayor J. D. Taylor to compel him to sign a warrant for $325, which was allowed by the city council. Mayor Taylor vetoed the bill, claiming that the bill presented was not valid, the claims committee having so reported. The matter comes on for hearing in the district court before Judge C. F. Templeton on next Monday, Jan. 10.

SUPERIOR GIRL WILL ENTER FRENCH CONVENT.

New Richmond, Wis., Jan. 7.—On Saturday, in charge of Sister Rose, the Misses Josephine Belisle, Anna and Helen Cloutier and Ernestine Cote of Somerset, and Miss Laura Ferland of Superior, Wis., leave for France, where they will enter the novitiate of the Sisters of St. Joseph, to become nuns. The young women from Somerset were graduated from St. Anne's convent school in that village three years ago, and Miss Ferland was graduated into the class of '06 from the state normal school in Superior. Since then she has been teaching, having charge of the fifth and sixth grades of the public school in Somerset.

WISCONSIN BRIEFS

Ashland—Earl D. Pattie, an old soldier who formerly resided in the hollow just the other side of Stuntz avenue, but who lately has been an inmate in the soldier's home at Waupaca, died very suddenly Wednesday morning.

Madison—The meeting of the special committee on banking which is to report at a special session of the legislature, called for Tuesday, to draft its first report, was not held. Senator Owen, the chairman, and other members were snowbound and were unable to reach the city on time.

Health Cranks and Food Faddists

Have Evolved Some Strange and Wonderful Theories Concerning Stomach Treatment.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Within the last twenty years there has sprung into existence theories by the score relative to the kinds of food that human beings should eat, and should avoid. With the tremendous increase in nervous and stomach diseases which are caused by the strenuous life of this neurotic, neurasthenic age in which we live, we are constantly having our attention called to some food faddist's "new idea" on the subject of alimentation.

Most prominent among these theorists is the vegetarian who insists that meat was never intended for the human stomach, despite the fact that his ancestors for 6,000 years or more, used it as their principal article of diet; and the old patriarchs of Biblical history who lived to prodigious old ages, were meat eaters. All of the great nations of history have been users of meat, and all of the most powerful and advanced coutries of today employ it extensively in their dietaries, and their superior development and high degree of civilization are in strong and striking contrast to the decadent and degenerate nations of Asia and the tropics, whose inhabitants are vegetarians.

Another fallacy which has lately become a fad, is the so-called "low-proteid" diet. Now, the foods which are rich in proteids are the ones which build up nerve, brain, muscle and blood, so that any great reduction in the amount of proteid used simply means semi-starvation for the most important centers of the system—the ones on which we depend the most to enable us to successfully fight the battles of life. Those nations whose people use foods containing but little proteid are never of large frame or well-built. The Japanese, who have always been small of stature, have, since adopting a more liberal proteid diet shown a remarkable increase in size, vigor and general development; and it is only since Japan became a meat-eating nation that it has developed into a world-power.

Still another theory lately advanced is that sugar, pepper, and salt are gastric irritants and irritate the mucous membrane of the stomach, although it is known that sugar possesses a high caloric value, while pepper and salt assist digestion rather than interfere with it, as is claimed.

The no-breakfast plan, the two-meal per day, and even the one meal daily has been advocated, while some advise a two or three weeks' fast, during which all food is withheld from the stomach "to give it a rest," completely ignoring the fact that the system's tissues are being constantly torn down and cast off, and new material to rebuild them must be supplied from the food.

It is utter nonsense to concern one's self about all these absurd and illogical theories, as life is entirely too short, and there are other things requiring our attention. Eat what you want when you want it, and as much as the system needs to replenish its waste, and then take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and forget all about food fads and stomach troubles. They digest all kinds of food so thoroughly you won't know you have a stomach. They are powerful digestors of every kind of food though harmless to the system, and may be taken at any time and in any quantity.

LYCEUM—George M. Cohan in "The Yankee Prince."

COHAN SHOW MAKES GOOD

Big Audience Pleased By Actor-Playwright in "The Yankee Prince."

Production Is Well Staged, Tuneful, Lively and Rich in Comedy.

With flare of trumpet, beat of drum, crash of cymbals, tuneful lilt of catchy music and kaleidiscopic action, George M. Cohan, his family and an army of supporting people were at the Lyceum last night in Cohan's latest play, "The Royal Prince."

George was greeted with open arms by Duluth, or such part of the city as could be crowded into the Lyceum. The crowd was with the show from the first ensemble, though it didn't show its appreciation in any marked manner during the first act, a common characteristic of Duluth audiences. As the audience warmed up, it became more demonstrative and after the second act and at several other times, Cohan and Tom Lewis were treated to noisy and prolonged testimonials of appreciation. This trip has evidently been a strain on Cohan. He looks tired and worn, even though he has the advantages of makeup. He hasn't all the energy he had in the old days, or if he has it, he isn't scattering it improvidently along the way. Be that as it may, he still exudes energy at every pore. He doesn't dance so often during "The Yankee Prince" as he did in some of his other plays, but he dances no less vigorously. He makes no more pretentions of being a singer than he ever did, but he has the tuneful music to go with his songs and the ensembles to give them a proper setting.

There's only one George Cohan anyway. It may be Duluth's last opportunity of seeing him on the stage, for he's going abroad next month, and after he returns he may confine himself to writing and managing, leaving the acting to others. "The Yankee Prince" is a good show, Cohan is Cohan, and anybody who wants it may find three hours of solid amusement that won't let a case of the blues come on for a week.

The show is characteristically Cohanesque, so one cannot ask for anything more, if he is looking for amusement. There isn't much of a plot, of course. When one is being amused he doesn't want to put brain effort into following an intricate plot, and Cohan believes in amusing his audiences. Only a few of the songs are catchy, but they are all amusing. There are no exceptionally good voices in the company, but the principals can sing well enough to get away with the songs, and the dancing and the chorus and the music and the action make up for any deficiencies in the vocal ability of the soloists.

The action is the thing. Cohan has always supplied it, and he doesn't fall short in "The Yankee Prince." He imparts some of his own energy to the members of his company. Somebody is moving on the stage all the time. Ensemble follows ensemble, song follows song, dance follows dance, action follows action until the audience is kept swaying by the unending motion on the stage. The dash and go so loved by Americans have made George Cohan and his shows.

George doesn't believe in monopolizing the spot light. He's too active to remain in it continuously and he is off the stage a good part of the time in "The Yankee Prince." He doesn't believe in cornering the popularity market, and he leaves room for the other principals to make a grab.

There's a question whether Tom Lewis doesn't get more of the applause in this performance than does Cohan. Tom is being groomed to succeed the show after Cohan leaves and as a headliner he'll be the merchandise. He's a good part of the show now. Fat and funny, of the silent school of comedy, Tom gets a rise out of the audience with less effort and fewer words than any man on the stage. As the unknown in "Little Johnny Jones," he was a scream. As Steve Daley in "The Yankee Prince," he's a shout. He doesn't have to say a word to get across the footlights. The flick of a finger, the bat of an eye, or a moment's meandering about the stage, provokes the audience into wild bursts of laughter. He's in a class by himself as a laugh-maker. You like him the moment he strolls on the stage. You like him more every moment and you're crazy about him at the finish. In the applause after the second act last night, Cohan didn't count at all. It was all for good-natured, rotund, care-free Tom Lewis, with the same Steve Daley tacked on his own personality and mannerisms.

What little plot there is to "The Yankee Prince" deals with the international marriage question. A rich papa from Chicago is in London with his "Yankee Doodle" wife and his daughter. He intends to marry the daughter to the earl of Weymouth, a simpering, effeminate, impoverished nobleman, but she meets an American millionaire, a "Yankee Doodle" nobleman, a "Yankee prince," and the American colony in London succeed in thwarting the father and getting the girl and the Yankee prince married in ludicrous fashion on the lawn in front of the Chicago man's home.

Cohan has his original big company on tour. Jerry J. Cohan is old, but still able to act and is nimble on his feet. Helen F. Cohan as the fond mamma, longing for Chicago, does justice to the part. Idla Rhodes is a lithe, dainty, graceful bit of femininty, who dances well with Cohan, and dancing well with Cohan is no sinecure. Frank Hollins as the effeminate earl is well cast and Sam J. Ryan, the New York politician, is a type. The minor parts are well taken, Purnel B. Pratt and Mildred Elaine doing especially good work as the schemers. Josephine Cohan, who is with the company, is ill and is not able to appear in the cast.

The chorus is well dressed, well drilled and can sing and the chorus men are able to wear evening dress without looking like waiters. "Come on Down Town," "I'm to Marry a Nobleman," "I'm Awfully Strong for You," "Money," "Tommy Atkins You're All Right," and "Nothing New Beneath the Sun," are the most favorably received musical numbers.

There will be no matinee of "The Yankee Prince" and Duluth people will have but two opportunities of seeing the show, tonight and tomorrow night. Matinee tickets may be exchanged for tickets for the regular evening performances.

"The Third Degree."

Miss Fernanda Eliscu, leading woman in Charles Klein's famous drama, "The Third Degree," which will be at the Lyceum all next week, is a faddist as regards hair ornaments. She has one of the most beautiful collections of combs, pins, and decorations for the hair ever made. A few of the choicest specimens have tragic little histories. One in particular, an ancient and heavy affair, fastened by means of a clasp, and the gift of her grandmother, almost caused her a serious injury. It happened that Miss Eliscu was in the habit of wearing the ornament fastened tightly in the back of her hair, so that she would not loose it. She boarded a crowded street car in New York, and leaning back against the jam of the door, came in contact with a catch used to fasten the door. Suddenly the car gave a jerk and Miss Eliscu leaned forward, only a fraction though, because she was held hard and fast by the strong ornament in her hair. Several men on the car assisted her and after raising her up and working for some time, succeeded in releasing her from her awkward position. From that day to this she has never worn the gift of her grandmother which was made at Jassi, Roumania, the birthplace of the clever young actress.

Novel Dramatized.

Few plays have had the financial as well as artistic success of "The House of a Thousand Candles." It is said that both the dramatist, George Middleton, and Meredith Nicholson the author of the novel, have become independently wealthy from royalties they have received in the past two years.

"The House of a Thousand Candles" is the offering at the Lyceum on Sunday night. The entire production as seen at the Hackett and Daly's theater in New York city and the Garrick theater in Chicago will be presented.

LONE VESSEL IS FIGHTING LAKE ERIE

Wrecker Is on the Way to Try to Get to Work on the Wissahickon.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 7.—President Livingstone of the Lake Carriers' association has been asked to have the lights relighted at Presque Isle and Detour to aid the stranded steamer Wissahickon ashore at the latter point. As keepers of the light stations have left for the winter, the request cannot be granted. Local marine men are on the lookout for the wrecker, which left Cleveland yesterday and is now fighting the ice in Lake Erie.

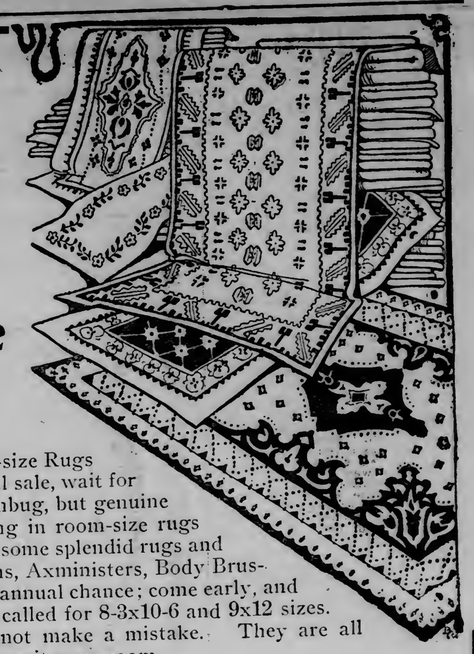

The Detroit river is blocked with ice from Detroit to Bois Blanc Island, and the passage, it is thought, will prove a severe fight for the Favorite.

TELL TAFT OF "TRUST"

Labor Leaders Take Another Step in War on Steel Corporation.

Bitter Arraignment of the Organization Is Made in Letter.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The American Federation of Labor, through a committee headed by Samuel Gompers, James O'Connell and other union leaders, has carried the Federation's fight against the United States Steel corporation to President Taft. The committee has presented to the president a formal paper in which are set forth fourteen different charges of illegality against the Steel corporation. They ask for an immediate investigation of the so-called trust which they assert is operating in defiance of the United States statutes.

The president promised to take the matter up with the secretary of commerce and labor and with Labor Commissioner Neill.

The first charge against the Steel corporation is that the corporation is an illegal combination in defiance of the anti-trust law. The labor leaders allege that if the government officials will act as in the cases of the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust and present to a competent court the facts concerning the Steel corporation, a decision against the corporation will logically follow.

Labor From Abroad.

"It is not to be doubted," said the letter to the president, "that the law and courts can reach their monopoly even if its annual revenues are counted in the hundreds of millions of dollars. No power of wealth must not be permitted to paralyze the arm of the law."

It is charged that this so-called "great American industry" founded upon the tariff for the protection of American labor from the competition of the pauper labor of Europe is speedily and effectually excluding American labor, skilled and unskilled, from its employment, and has again advertised that "Syrians, Poles and Roumanians are preferred," as its employes.

It is charged that the Steel corporation "not only degrades labor by low wages and a twelve-hour workday, but denies a day of rest by enforcing work seven days in the week; that it tyrannically prevents the organization of its workers to elevate the standard of living, and suppresses and prevents free speech and public meetings; that it boycotts American labor and has enforced decrees of banishment from communities where it dominates."

It Bitterly Arraigned.

In conclusion, it is charged that the Steel corporation "is organized illegally, dominant and defiant, with no respect for legal right and human right and with brutal indifference as to human capacity for endurance and for deaths and injuries of its toilers; that its continued existence and methods are a menace not only to labor but to the business men outside of its baneful power and influence."

THEATRICAL MEN ALL PESSIMISTS

Hayman, Savage and Hammerstein Shed Gloom at Annual Banquet.

New York, Jan. 7.—"Managers and capitalists are going theater mad," writes Al. Hayman. "A halt should be called, or a colossal amount of money will be lost."

Mr. Hayman's warning was read last night at the annual banquet of the Theatrical Managers' association. Henry W. Savage, also absent, sent a letter of similar import. The dinner, though handsomely set, as always, and overhung with emblems of peace, was not a cheerful one.

"Business has not been steady," continued Mr. Hayman. "Too many theaters. Greater New York is asked to support more theaters and places of amusement than London, Paris and Berlin combined.

"I know only three actresses and one actor who can be relied on as drawing cards in America today. Motors are not increasing. New playwrights as yet are scarce. What does the manager look forward to to keep these theaters open?

"The above condition exists in all large cities in the country. Chicago has thirty-five theaters and 367 moving picture and vaudeville theaters licensed. Philadelphia has twenty-one theaters licensed and over 300 moving picture houses. St. Louis has fourteen theaters licensed in addition to 139 other places of amusement. In Boston the condition is even worse."

Oscar Hammerstein begged to be excused from speaking. "Business," he said, "has been too rotten."

GERMAN NAVY ON BOOM.

Men From Inland District Take to Sea in Great Numbers.

Berlin, Jan. 7.—The North-German Gazette published figures to illustrate the expansion of recruiting for the navy, especially in parts of Germany more or less remote from the sea. The number of volunteers, in particular—4,077 in the year 1908-09—has increased by 696 in the last five years. Taking the country according to its division into army corps, the sphere of the Ninth army corps (Schleswig-Holstein, the Hansa towns, and Mecklenburg) now yields 2,518 men, the sphere of the Tenth army corps (Hanover) now yields 1,355 men, the sphere of the Seventh army corps (Munster) 1,256 men, the sphere of the Second army corps (Stettin) 1,047 men, and the sphere of the Fourth army corps (Magdeburg) 1,036 men. The army corps districts of Konigsberg and Saxony (two army corps) each yield over 900 men. Five years ago only a single army corps district (Mecklenburg, etc.) yielded over 1,000 men.

The semi-official organ argues from the latest statistics that the German navy has no lack of men and will in future have no lack, notwithstanding the growth of the personnel, that inland districts are yielding an increasing proportion of recruits, and that "the press of Young Germany to the sea finds eloquent expression in the increasing number of volunteer applications."

DECLINES OFFICE ON CHICAGO CIVIL LIST.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—John T. Featherstone of New York, who was given the highest rating in the civil service examination for superintendent of streets of Chicago, came here and, after a conference with city officials, declined to accept the position.

The clouding of the title to the office, because of a mandatory suit brought by ward superintendents, prompted the New York man's refusal of the post, though Mayor Busse offered Mr. Featherstone the opportunity of becoming a sixty-day appointee until the suit in the courts is disposed of. The suit brought by the ward superintendents is to compel the commission to hold a promotional instead of an original examination.

MILL STILL GRINDING

Two More Divorces Granted in the District Court.

Mary Peterson was yesterday afternoon granted a divorce from her husband, Louis Peterson, by Judge Martin Hughes of the district court.

Mrs. Peterson is 27 years old and Peterson has reached the age of 36. Mrs. Peterson alleged non-support. She claimed that her husband owns a drayage business of his own and makes about $100 a month. They have been living apart for some time past. Mrs. Peterson also alleged cruel and inhuman treatment. There are four children, and she was given their custody.

Frank Drew was granted a decree from his wife, Christy Drew. He is 28 years old and she is 21. They were married in Duluth during the month of July, 1905. He claimed that in July, 1908, she deserted him. One child, a girl, 2 years old, was given into the custody of the father.

* * *

There are several other cases to come up. Carl Thiel is suing for a divorce from his wife, Theresa Thiel, and Kate Flowers wants a decree separating her from her husband, William Flowers. They were married in London, Eng., in 1905. Mrs. Flowers claims that she was deserted while living in Marksville, Ont., in 1905.

* * *

The case of Laura Skrove against Thomas Skrove is also yet to be heard. Mrs. Skrove charges cruelty, non-support and desertion. Skrove has filed counter-charges, claiming cruel treatment at the hands of his wife. Both are asking for the decree and the child, a girl about a year old.

St. Paul Man Boosts McEwen.
Moritz Heim, a St. Paul attorney, who was in Duluth yesterday on business, also found time to boost William E. McEwen for governor. Mr. Heim says that Mr. McEwen is very popular in St. Paul and Minneapolis, and that he is being seriously considered as a probable candidate for the highest job in the state.

Funeral of Child.
Dorothy Schiltz, the 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Edward Barber of 111 Cascade street, died Wednesday afternoon of typhoid. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Fined for Larceny.
Adolph Patrick was fined $75 and costs or sixty days in the county jail when he entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to stealing $20 from Thomas Cavanaugh. He claimed that he took the money to keep for Cavanaugh, fearing that he would spend it, as he was drinking.

Arrested for Vagrancy.
James Mahon, arrested last night for vagrancy, pleaded not guilty in police court this morning. The police claim that he has been hanging around the last three or four weeks doing nothing, but having drunken men constantly "in tow." They state that his actions are suspicious. He will be tried this afternoon.

Whitehead Recovering.
Walter Whitehead, the colored pugilist, who was wounded in a cutting scrape Wednesday night, is much improved today, and it is reported at the hospital that he will recover.

Finds Two Bull Pups.
Some kind-hearted citizen who did not give his name brought two handsome bull pups into the police station yesterday afternoon. He found them lying in the snow, numb with cold. No inquiry has been made for them and the police have been unable to locate the owner. They seem to be well bred dogs.

PERSONAL

WISCONSIN MAY LAND NATIONAL RIFLE MEET.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 7.—There is a strong probability that Wisconsin may land the national rifle meet which is held each summer at Camp Perry, Ohio. Lieut. R. J. Evans, U. S. A., who has been corresponding with Adjt. Gen. Boardman on this subject, will be here for a personal interview after consulting with Gen. Grant at Chicago. Gen. Grant is known to be favorably disposed toward the transfer of the rifle meet camp.

The national rifle meet will bring sharpshooters from every state of the Union, who will compete in a ten-day shoot.

INCREASE IN TRAVEL

Financial Report of Union Depot Shows Great Gain.

An increase of 40 per cent in the receipts from ticket sales at the Duluth union depot from June 30, 1908, to June 30, 1909, over the cash total from the ticket sales during the previous fiscal year is shown in a statement issued today.

The ticket sales show a total of $689,079.75 for the period from June 30, 1908, to June 30, 1909. It is estimated that over 2,000 people passed through the depot every day.

The statement made public today shows that Duluth, as a traffic center, ranks up with cities the size of St. Paul and Minneapolis. While the report does not show that as many people pass through the Duluth union depot daily as pass through the union depots of St. Paul and Minneapolis, it does show that Duluth is rapidly gaining upon these two cities, and in the past year has passed many cities larger than Duluth.

F. J. Ober, ticket agent at the union depot, who compiled the report that is made public today for the first time, attributes the cause of the remarkable increase in travel to the fact that Duluth is constantly getting an increased amount of travel from Western Canada.

An increase of 40 per cent in ticket sales indicates the traffic passing through Duluth must come from new fields. Mr. Ober says the Canadian travel has shown the most marked increase, though general travel through Duluth has also grown. In addition to this Mr. Ober says there has been an increase during the last fiscal year of the lake travel to Duluth, which naturally increases the sale of tickets from this point.

Taking the report as an exact statement of the increase of the passenger business of the union depot, it shows clearly how the traffic through the Duluth gateway has grown more rapidly than the traffic of any other city, in proportion to the size.

Taking into consideration the fact that the passenger business with Western Canada is at the present time in its infancy, and that before the expiration of the present fiscal year of union repot accounting, the Chicago division of the Soo, from Duluth direct to Chicago, will be doing a through line business, the figures of the present fiscal year promise to be even larger than the figures made public today.

FIGHT MAY BE THREE-CORNERED

Friends of Ray T. Lewis Urge Him to Enter Senatorial Contest.

It is said in political circles that there is a possibility that the contest for the Republican nomination for the state senate in the Fiftieth district may become three-cornered. T. M. Pugh, the present holder of the office, and T. W. Hugo have already announced themselves as candidates.

Friends of Ray T. Lewis are now urging him to become a candidate, it is said. It is understood Capt. Lewis has been approached and asked to enter the fight. He has given no definite answer, but is said to have the matter under consideration.

Capt. Lewis is no novice in the political field. He was at one time mayor of Duluth, was for five years chairman of the Chamber of Commerce and served two terms in the house of representatives with credit to himself and the district. He has always been interested in public affairs, has a wide acquaintance throughout the district and should he consent to try for the nomination, he would give added interest to what already promises to be a spirited contest.

LACK COAL IN CHICAGO

City Suffers From the Coldest Weather Known There in Years.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Chicago today experienced its coldest weather in several years. The government thermometer registered 5 deg. below zero Thermometers on the streets recorded as low as 10 below zero.

The long continued cold weather has reduced the reserve supply of coal in Chicago to such an alarming extent that dealers are powerless to supply the demand for fuel and many manufacturing institutions are facing a shutdown unless relief comes within the next twenty-four hours.

The railroads were frantically urged by the coal merchants to get coal into the Chicago yards. Thousands of loads of coal are reported to be waiting on sidings because of a lack of locomotives to move them. Another cold wave is predicted for next week, and large coal consumers fear serious results unless the coal supply is replenished. The United States naval training station at Lake Bluff has been forced to shut down because of lack of coal. The Illinois Steel company reported that the coal situation at Gary, Ind., and South Chicago was serious.

Special Forecast Sent Out.

A special forecast sent here last night by the United States weather bureau at Washington, says:

"The next important disturbance will reach the Pacific coast Friday, cross the Rocky mountains and plains states Saturday and Sunday, the central valleys and lake region Sunday and Monday, and reach the Atlantic coast about Tuesday. This disturbance will be preceded by temperature above the average for the season.

"The next well-marked cold wave will appear over the extreme Northwest about the beginning of next week and will advance thence eastward and southeastward to the Atlantic coast by about Thursday."

Suffering in Des Moines.

Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 7.—The government thermometer in Des Moines registered 14 below zero last night, the coldest of the winter. Owing to the coal shortage there was much suffering. Today several Des Moines factories closed because of the fuel shortage, but the railroads are now moving coal, and today is expected to end the famine.

Mississippi Is Icebound.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—With the exception of a few places the Mississippi river was frozen over today from St. Paul, Minn., to Grand Tower, Ill., for the first time in years. The ice dams at Chester, Crystal City and Jefferson Barracks continued to hold. The ice in the St. Louis harbor is from one to five feet in thickness and all river craft are ice-locked.

The weather bureau at present sees no danger from the gorges, as a temperature at about freezing point would allow the river to clear itself without any flood.

Western Roads Snowed In.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—Reports received at Northern Pacific railroad headquarters here state that owing to the worst snow storm in the railroad history of Montana, nearly all passenger and freight trains are stalled, while snow plows are out fighting the drifts. It is difficult for even the snow plows to move. All passenger and freight trains are tied up at terminals, however, and there is no danger of hardship to passengers.

No trains have arrived in Butte, Mont., or left there for the East on the Northern Pacific since Tuesday night. At Grey Cliff ten passenger trains are held up by the snow blockade.

Since clearing the snow drifts at Bevel canyon, which held up the Oregon Short Line trains near the Idaho line early in the week, passenger service on that road into Butte has been normal, but no freight has been handled.

Mercury 42 Below Zero.

The coldest place in the inter-mountain states last night was Gillette, Colo., where the thermometer registered 42 deg. below zero. At Divide it was 37 below zero, at Victor 24 and at Cripple Creek 15.

Nevada Town Flood-swept.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 7.—The little town of Caliente, Nev., flood-swept by torrents from melting snow in the canyons, is today a scene of indescribable desolation. Rising above all previous flood marks, the muddy current leveled whole hillsides where the railroad ran and swept over the town like an avalanche. The wrecks of dwellings floated off like houseboats.

People deserted their homes and fled to the hills. Here they are passing the days and the nights, unsheltered and exposed to temperatures many degrees below zero. So far as known, however, but one person has perished.

Houses Filled With Mud.

Every house in the town that remains standing has been rendered unfit for occupancy. The interiors are veritable mud puddles. At the hot springs resort, water poured over the transoms of bathroom doors.

No secret is made of the fact that through traffic over the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake railway is a prospect too remote for speculation.

"Just what the damage is we do not know," said General Manager Wells, "but it looks as if we could be in fair shape in a couple of months."

Saturday Evening

From 7 to 9:30, we will place on sale over 200 beautiful waists of taffeta, net, messaline and lingerie, worth from $5.00 to $10.00, while they last, only $3.50. Friedman's New Cloak and Suit House.

IN MEMORY OF "BOBBY" BURNS

At the Spalding hotel, Jan. 25, the Scottish people of Duluth will do honor to the memory of "Bobby" Burns.

The affair, which is an annual one, will, as usual, be given under the auspices of the Clan Stewart. It is the biggest clan affair of the year. An attractive program has been arranged by the committee in charge. Alexander G. McKnight will act as chairman of the meeting, which will be followed by a dancing party.

The feature of the meeting will be the address by Henry F. Greene, former city attorney and former United States civil service commissioner at Washington, who has recently returned to Duluth.

Flaaten's orchestra will furnish the music for the dancers.

The program follows:

CONCERNING WOMAN.

HER BABY IS THE HEIR TO TWO IMMENSE FORTUNES

MRS. EDWARD McLEAN.

A baby with a gold spoon in his mouth came into the world Dec. 18, in the child of Edward McLean of Washington and his wife, Evelyn Walsh McLean. Mrs. McLean is the only child of Thomas F. Walsh and will inherit his millions. She was engaged to young McLean a year ago when the notion seized them to run off and get married, which they promptly did. They thus avoided the fuss and feathers of a formal wedding. They are living in Washington now. Mr. McLean's father is John R. McLean of Washington and Cincinnati.

Mrs. Henry A. Marshall for many years a prominent clubwoman and one of the most interested members of the Women's Council since its beginning in Duluth was the guest of honor at a luncheon this noon at the Spalding hotel. The affair was planned by the Women's Council and it was not publicly known that Mrs. Marshall was to be the guest of honor. During the plans for the luncheon it was announced as an informal social affair for the Council members, to discuss the plans for the coming year, as several members would leave the city for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will leave the city in February to make their home at Swarthmore, Pa., and although many Duluth women knew the secret of the meeting, that it was in fact being planned entirely in compliment to Mrs. Marshall, no hint had reached her and when the toastmistress, Mrs. W. S. Woodbridge called for the toast, "The Guest of Honor" every one, but Mrs. Marshall knew who she was. Mrs. J. L. Washburn responded and she voiced most sincerely the opinions of Duluth women who have had the privilege of working with Mrs. Marshall in her years of effort in Duluth. Mrs. Washburn said in part:

"Let those who are wont say that women cannot keep a secret take notice. Let the press bear testimony in vindication of our sex, somewhat slandered as to its ability in this direction. I wish to comment upon the remarkable manner in which fifty women, more or less, have kept the secret as to the real purpose of this meeting, from the one most concerned, the 'guest of honor.'

"Mrs. Henry C. Marshall, whom we today honor and whom we all hold in affectionate regard, is about to leave Duluth for a new home in the East. We, members of the Women's Council could not let her go without, as a body, expressing to her our appreciation of what she has been to this organization in the past, of her effective work therein and of the regret with which we look forward to future meetings without her. It was proposed in consideration of showing the appreciation of the women of Duluth to her, before her departure that resolutions be passed and the proposal was rejected because of its funeral aspect. A social gathering at which Mrs. Marshall should be the unconscious guest of honor until the hour of the meeting and where we might tell her to her face, without any 'whereas' or 'be it enacted,' in what affectionate regard we hold her and that it seems next to impossible for the council to get along without her, was accepted with cordial and unanimous approval as the plan to do her honor.

"Our guest of honor is the ideal club woman, the club woman who can do effective work through organized effort, without neglecting a woman's first and most important duties, namely, duties to herself, to her family and to her home. Had the world never known any different type of club woman, the term would not have gained for itself the obloquy which now too often attaches to it. Our guest of honor is a club woman without pettiness, cherishing no ambition for personal prominence or honor but merely desirous that the good thing sought for should be accomplished in the most speedy and effective manner. Nor is she ambitious for or jealous of any special organization. Whether a thing involving labor and presumably to be followed by some honor to be done by the council, by the Twentieth Century club or for some other organization matters not to her so that it be done in the best way possible.

"Just want we are going to do in the council in the future without Mrs. Marshall to make motions and formulate resolutions I am sure I do not know. But anyway we have learned to second motions now and that is something. Tact and adaptability are gifts which very woman covets nor do men entirely ignore them. When to these gifts are added a kindly spirit, a pleasing manner and a good general knowledge of subjects worthy the conversation of intelligent human beings, the result is a combination of social gifts rarely found in one individual. Never have I known any one so combining these qualities as does our guest of honor.

"We are not going to say good-bye to Mrs. Marshall when she leaves us next month, for although Duluth will no longer be her home, we expect to have her here very frequently with us. In spite of the fact that she is an Eastern woman by birth and training, the West, this portion of it called Duluth, has taken too strong a hold on her to be soon forgotten, and I am sure that this fact, together with the many warm friendships which she has made, will by their strong and insistent grip, draw her back into our midst, where we shall forget the pain of parting in the joy of reunion. Members and well wishers of the Women's Council, let us drink to the health, happiness, long life and prosperity of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Marshall in their new home at Swarthmore, Pa.

The other toasts that followed the luncheon were those that had been previously announced. Mrs. J. D. Morrison spoke of "The Clubs and the Council." Mrs. E. A. Silberstein had as her subject "The Press," and Mrs. Marshall spoke of "The Men." She dwelt upon the men's work as the builders of houses and cities and of women's work in the world as home makers, and the work that she can do well in the world is that which is an enlarging and widening of the work that is a part of her particular effort in the home.

At the business meeting which preceded the luncheon, Mrs. Z. D. Scott was unanimously chosen president of the Council for the year. The resignation of Mrs. W. H. Burris who was elected president at the November meeting was accepted with regret. Mrs. Burris, with added duties that have come since the November meeting was unable to continue as president of the Council.

Mrs. J. L. Washburn reported for the committee of the Council that conferred with Dr. E. L. Twohy in regard to the new tuberculosis sanitorium that will be erected by the county. Dr. Twohy has asked for the support and interest of the women of the city in the work and particularly in equipping the women's cottage which will require about $50 for each room. The cottage will contain eight rooms with an out-of-door sleeping porch. The Council voted to give its support to the work and to spread the interest in it among the clubs of the city.

It was decided to invite the Needlework guild, the King's Daughters, the Linnaea club and the Park Point Study club to send representatives to the Council.

Mrs. E. W. Matter was appointed chairman of the committee to rearrange and classify the committees of the Council, whose work at present in some cases overlap.

It was also decided at the meeting to make it a duty of the Council delegates to appoint an alternate to the Council meetings at which she is unable to be present.

BOYS' BANQUET

At Neighborhood House Is a Great Success.

The second annual banquet of the Boys' Clubs of Neighborhood house was held last evening, and it was a most thoroughly delightful affair. There were no blase guests, no tedious remarks, no stereotyped speeches, and there was a spontaneity and joy and happiness and pleasure that few banquets could equal. The members of the clubs were the real hosts of the occasion. The table was bright in the decorations of the club colors, a blue centerpiece being arranged on the table. Narcissus were the flowers chosen.

John Wagner presided as toastmaster in fine form, and he gave just as much pleasure as Chauncey Depew in his palmiest days. The guests of honor for the affair were the president of the Twentieth Century club, Mrs. J. D. Morrison; Mrs. F. L. Barrows, chairman of the committee of the club interest in the maintaining of Neighborhood house; Miss Jean Poirier, Miss Lydia Poirier, Miss Palne, Miss Palmer, Miss Fleer, Mayor Haven, Dr. M. B. Cullum and C. S. Mitchell. Covers were laid for 100 guests.

JANUARY WEDDING.

Miss Mabel Duncan to Become Bride of J. A. Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Duncan have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Mabel Rose Duncan, to Jesse A. Bradley of this city. The wedding will take place Wednesday evening, Jan. 19, at the home of the bride's parents, 2215 East Second street, the service to be read at 8:30 o'clock, by the Rev. Alexander Milne of the Pilgrim Congregational church. Mr. Bradley and his bride will be at home after March 1, at 1122 East Second street.

Twelfth Night Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Cooke Howard entertained at a Twelfth Night party last evening at their home on London road. A number of the old customs typical of the feast that marked the close of the holiday season were a feature of the early evening and a dancing party followed. About fifty guests were entertained.

Saturday Club.

The Saturday club members will resume their study at the regular meeting tomorrow afternoon at the clubroom of the library. A board meeting will precede the study program and a large attendance of the members is desired, as the study for next year will be decided upon. "Juvenile Reform in New York, Chicago and Denver" will be the subject discussed during the half hour devoted to current events with Mrs. Hugh Steele as leader. The regular study will be on French art, with Mrs. A. H. Brocklehurst as leader and the outline is as follows:

School of Fine Arts.
Miss McCollum.

Priz de Rome.
Mrs. Spiegel.

On Wedding Tour.

Washington, Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Earl M. White and wife of Duluth were in Washington yesterday and left for New York last night. Mr. White and wife while in the capital were guests of Representative Miller and were shown the sights of the city by the Duluth congressman.

Branch Meeting.

The meeting of Linnaea branch Number One, will be held this evening with the Misses Olssen of 102 South Eighteenth avenue east.

Change of Place.

The meeting of La Coterie of the Second Presbyterian church which was to have been held at the home of Miss Myrtle Magnan, will be held instead at the home of Miss Willow Yergen of 2226 West First street. The election of officers will be held.

Afternoon Reception.

Mrs. J. B. Culver received this afternoon at her home at the Belvidere apartments from 4 to 6 o'clock. Her daughter, Miss Culver, received with her, and the assisting hostesses were Mrs. W. B. Silvey, Miss Martha Peyton, Miss Alice Peyton and Miss Mary Palne. About fifty guests were received.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. McLennan and her daughter, Mrs. George Welles, and children, will leave Saturday for Pasadena, where they will spend the winter.

Women's Work.

Miss Mary Nye of Columbus, Miss Bertha Salzgaber of Bellaire and Mrs. Irvine C. Miller of Springfield, Ohio, have been appointed deputy inspectors of workshops and factories.

The Wesleyan conference of England recently passed by a large majority a motion to admit women as lay delegates. This resolution has to be approved by the synod before it can become a rule of the denomination.

The women of Chicago are urging an increase in the number of milk inspectors for that city. They say it is impossible for the eight inspectors now on duty to make sure that even a small part of its supply is in wholesome condition.

Mrs. C. C. Kenelly has been appointed probation officer of the New Orleans juvenile court by Judge Wilson. She has taught school for several years and has also had experience in handling children and young women as the agent of the Travelers' Aid Society of New Orleans.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice of New York was chosen at the conference in London of the International Society for the Suppression of Street Noises to have charge of the second congress of the society, which is to be held in New York in 1912. The first congress is to meet in Berlin in June, 1910.

TO SAVE THE FORESTS

Gen. Andrews Urges Adoption of the Proposed Constitutional Amendment.

The Tax Would Provide $72,000 Annually for Reforestization.

Gen. C. C. Andrews, state forestry commissioner, who was in Duluth last evening en route to St. Paul, after inspecting the burning of slashings on the Duluth & Northeastern railroad near Cloquet, makes a strong plea for the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing an annual tax of one-fifteenth of a mill on each dollar of taxable property for reforestization. The amendment will be submitted at the election next fall.

Mr. Andrews urges that local committees take up the work and do their best to get the amendment adopted, as the amendment must have a majority of all the votes cast to become effective and a failure to vote for it is equivalent to a vote against it. The increased tax would be about 7 cents on each $1,000 valuation, so Mr. Andrews urges that the amendment should not be opposed on the ground that it is an increase in taxation, the amount of the tax on each person being infinitesimal.

"If the amendment be adopted, there will annually be raised about $72,000, which the forestry board can use in the purchase at not over $3 per acre of forestry land and in planting it according to forestry principles," said Mr. Andrews. "Naturally, land at that price will be mostly sandy and only fit to produce pine trees. The experience of German states shows that pine planted on such land will, on an average, yield 18,000 board feet per acre in eighty years, at which time the trees will be about twelve inches in diameter breast high, and that the investment will net 3 per cent compound interest. The present generation will get the benefit of most of the $72,000 yearly in payment for labor. Future generations will get the timber, and the public generally will derive benefit in the increase of wealth, in increased beauty of scenery, improvement of climate, water flow and covert for useful game. Good roads go with forests. The European state forests are health and pleasure resorts for the people.

"It is very seldom that individuals will plant forests when they have to wait eighty years for a crop. The state must do it.

"Of the present cut-over pine lands in Minnesota, only about 5 per cent have become well restocked with valuable kinds of timber. It would take centuries for nature alone to restore our forests. Nature has a better chance to renew forests in Prussia than in Minnesota, because forest fires are less frequent there than here; yet Prussia plants 50,000 acres of forest annually.

"The question is sometimes asked why should the state buy land when it now owns land? The land which the state owns is school and state institution land, which, according to the Constitution, must be offered at public sale, the school lands at not less than $5 per acre, and the state institution lands at not less than $3.75 per acre, the proceeds to go into permanent funds. Besides, the most of the state lands will be utilized for agriculture.

"As the source of a leading industry, the Minnesota forests will be exhausted in a dozen years. The state should begin reforestization.

"At present New York and Pennsylvania are the only two states in advance of Minnesota in forestry. The adoption of this amendment will place Minnesota abreast with, if not in advance of, those states in reforestization and give her distinguished rank."

A Wild Blizzard Raging

Brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are 'stuffed up' nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn of Pine Valley, Miss., 'after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, it's supreme. 50c. $1. Guaranteed by all druggists.

HIGH TARIFF ON OUTSIDE GIRLS

Junior Boys Must Pay 50 Cents Extra for Their Company.

If boys belonging to the junior class of the Duluth Central high school must take girls belonging to outside classes to the social doings given from time to time by the class of 1911, they must pay for the privilege.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon it was decided that 50 cents additional would be about the right price to set on rebellious youths who persisted in getting "crushes" on girls belonging to other classes.

It all came about because the junior girls are not as prominent at their own class functions as they should be—in the opinion of some. Far be it from the girls to raise a noise so the loyal boys raised it for them. Stanley Lamb is president of the junior class and after beginning in a quiet way, he rose to the occasion in fine shape and scored the boys who persist in being ungallant. With a Patrick Henry pose and the fire of a modern politician in his eye he thundered: "What's the matter with our girls?" No one ventured an opinion and Mr. Lamb went on to say that they were all right and should be given more attention. Several of the boys backed up Mr. Lamb in his statements and a vote was taken on the matter. Hereafter it will cost 50 cents additional to take an outside girl to a 1911 affair.

The girls of the other classes think that it was a horrid proceeding, but they content themselves by saying that not one of the fellows will stop for a mere half dollar.

KELLOGG GIVEN BOOM FOR SENATE

New York Tribune Says Services There Would Be Invaluable.

New York, Jan. 7.—The Tribune prints the following:

"There is marked interest in Washington, not to say in administration circles, in the report from Minnesota that Frank B. Kellogg will be an active candidate for the seat in the senate now occupied by Mr. Clapp, whose term expires a year hence. It is generally felt that Mr. Kellogg, whose legal services have already proved of much value to the government, and who deserves credit for the recent important decision rendered by the circuit court in the Standard Oil case, would be a valuable addition to the senate.

"Despite the fact that membership of the upper house includes a great number of lawyers, there are comparatively few who have attained anything like the standing in their profession reached by Mr. Kellogg.

"It is felt that not only would he add greatly to the honor and standing of the Minnesota delegation, but that his energies and abilities would prove of the utmost value to the senate in framing important legislation."

MILLIONS IN FORGED NOTES.

Four Italians Are Fined Only for Giving Assumed Names.

Milan, Jan. 7.—Last February four men of Italian origin were arrested here as ringleaders of an international gang of engravers and forgers of checks and bank notes, operating chiefly in London and New York. They had in their possession cheques and notes to the value of $2,400,000. Signor Poletti, a skilful engraver of Milan has been entrusted with the engraving of an immense number of checks varying in value from $10 to $20, which they represented were required by the American Express company for its branch establishment in Rome, Naples and Genoa.

The trial had an astonishing ending at the assize here. A fine of $60 was inflicted for giving a false name; otherwise all the accused were acquitted. The jury was impressed by a clever plea for the defense, which, insisting upon a technical nicety of Italian jurisprudence, urged that the prisoners could not be convicted of criminal offense, because the bank experts summoned to the witness box had admitted that the gang practically had no chance of successfully floating the huge stock of letters of credit known as "Yankee travelers' checks" on the American Express company, which they had imitated for a total of $2,400,00. The verdict was delivered amid loud cheering in court, which the judges strove in vain to repress.

LIQUIDATION OF THE RELIGIOUS ORDERS.

Paris, Jan. 7.—The liquidation of the religious orders is not yet over. A few days since the Jesuits' property in the Rue Haxo was sold by auction. It was in fifteen divisions, including chapels, pavilions and a large garden, but as no purchaser could be found for each separate division, the whole property was finally disposed of for the sum of $28,000. Special interest attaches to this property, as it is at the wall separating it from the Rue Haxo that fifty hostages, as they were termed, were shot by the Communists on May 26, 1871, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Fifty-two were being led to their deaths, but two were allowed to escape on the way. One was the Abbe Beechletto, who is now an archbishop. His appearance was so hoyish that two Communists took pity on him, and told him that they would let him go, but he refused unless his friend, the Abbe Barquebot, who was walking at his side, was also permitted to flee. After some consultation they consented.

The unfortunate prisoners who were so cruelly shot had been taken out of the Roquette prison and conducted to the Rue Haxo. Strange to relate, when the fusillade was over fifty-two corpses lay on the ground, which would have been the exact number had the two priests who had been allowed to escape been shot. One of the corpses was that of a Communist officer, who had been so shocked at the brutality of the whole affair that he had indignantly protested. Another was that of a man also wearing a Communist uniform, but his body was never identified, nor was it ever known how he happened to be shot.

LOSS OF SIGHT.

Famous Astronomer Makes Contribution on the Subject.

London, Jan. 7.—It has been a question with astronomers whether light is absorbed in its passage through space. Of late years some figures have been adduced tending to the belief that the loss of light was rather considerable Nature of last week quotes on this subject a recent communication from Prof. Kapteyn of Groningen, the famous astronomer, who, like Mr. Eddingen of Greenwich, has made most profoundly important contributions of late years to stellar astronomy.

Prof. Kapteyn thinks that "such absorption probably does exist." The criterion he adopts is that absorption by the interstellar medium—the universal ether—would tend to render more red the light of very distant stars that reach us; and there is evidence that the light of remoter stars is redder than that of orbs nearer to us. Taking as a measure a distance of 32.6 light years—that is to say, of a star whose light takes nearly thirty-three years to reach us—he finds a certain measurable loss one very much less than some of the estimates.

If this should prove true, we may have here a measure of our universe. It may be possible to say that all the stars we see are probably contained within the bounds, as has been suggested, of some 3,000 or 4,000 light years. That would be our universe; but what beyond? Other universes doubtless, and beyond them more and more. How and where the universe should end or begin we are no more capable of imagining than we are to conceive how that other elemental thing—if it is a thing—time ever began or shall cease, when, as the Apocalyptic Seer says, "There shall be time no longer."

CATTLE ABANDONED IN TRAIN FREEZE TO DEATH.

Federal, Ill., Jan. 7.—Seventy-five cattle were found frozen to death on a Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis train here last night. The train was abandoned by the crew on a siding after the men had worked sixteen hours, and laid here eleven hours before a relief crew appeared.

SOCIETY TO FORM TRUST

The "Four Hundred" to Be Relegated to a Back Seat.

New Set Is Being Formed Which Will Have 1,000 Members.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Good-by to the "Four Hundred," for now it's to be the "One Thousand."

Under the name of the "Assembly Set," the smart sets of New York, Philadelphia and Washington will be fused into a body not to exceed thousand families. In this process there will be eliminated the now historic "Four Hundred."

Mrs. William H. Taft is behind this movement, which had its inception shortly after the death of Mrs. Astor a year ago, and is looked upon favorably by the New Yorkers, in view of the way that divorce and other causes have played havoc with the original membership.

There is absolutely no intention to ignore other cities, except geographically. In the opinion of those behind the movement, every social leader of the country maintains a residence in either Philadelphia, Washington or New York, and this will be sufficient qualification for membership.

Rank, the First Requisite.

Rank, birth and wealth will be only relative qualifications for membership. Rank will be more valuable than birth, according to the promoters of the movement. They include birth as a categorical qualification in order to embrace those families who have achieved no especial rank or wealth to justify their coming under these headings. Wealth alone will not be considered. That money, nevertheless, is not an unnecessary item is made plain by the drain of expenses that membership in this set will demand.

The latest development, by the way, discussed at a recent informal reunion at which Mrs. Taft was present, is to make especial allowance for bachelors between the ages of 25 and 30. Their membership will not be considered a numerical unit in the one thousand, but an extraneous set highly necessary to the smooth working of exclusive social life.

The age limit is made 25 years on the assumption that a man younger than that is not of much interest except as a dancing partner or to fill in odd places, and these odd places, very frequent at ordinary functions, will be eliminated in the new assembly. At about 50 a bachelor will begin to be uninteresting.

Washington believes that there will be a great howl following the winnowing out of many rabid social families. In most cases, it is said, protests and objections will be overlooked as insignificant; but because the assembly is to be a national set socially prominent and entirely dissociated from the traditional sets made popular in fiction or otherwise—and the White House might officially step on the toes of some "howling political dervish, whose daughters make him cantankerous and whose wife drives him to desperation," to use the very words of a popular official hostess from Massachusetts—the launching of the assembly will be unaccompanied by publicity or announcement of date, and therefore may be expected to materialize any day.

May Not Know They're Excluded.

Those who are left out may not know of it for many months.

The West will not be ignored in this reclassification of social families. There are at least fifty families who reside some time in the year in either Washington, Philadelphia or New York. New England will be well represented, and it is not believed—as has been said—that its citizens will not easily assimilate the usage of Knickerbocker society.

In planning the new assembly, perhaps not one-fourth of the Four Hundred will be given a place. This assertion, already current in high society, has reached the ears of some who believe themselves doomed to exclusion, with a resultant antagonism on their part and expressions of derision at the new order of things. It seems that the promoters of the assembly unite in the belief that the Four Hundred and similar sets in other cities have outgrown themselves by intermarriage and a too far-fetched loftiness, which has removed them from the interesting side of the world.

SCRAP IN FRENCH RAILWAY UNION

Leader Is Accused of Betrayal in the Post-office Strike.

Paris, Jan. 7.—The annual congress of the National Union of Railway Servants has just been held. Special interest was aroused by this meeting owing to the temper in which many of the delegates arrived at the congress. The members of the railway employes' union are divided into two camps, the moderates and the reformers. The latter class were determined to move a vote of censure against the secretary of the union, M. Guerard, whom they accuse of having betrayed the interests of their organization during the postoffice strike of last May by not authorizing a general strike of railway servants. The more revolutionary section of the union has failed in its efforts to pass a vote of censure upon M. Guerard, but the two parties have accepted a compromise by virtue of which the post of secretary-general has been abolished.

The power of the agitators within this important organization remains considerable, however, as was shown by the success obtained by a proposal which was made by the group of members of the union representing the Eastern railway. They suggested to the congress that a public demonstration in favor of an increase of wages should be organized and the congress unanimously adopted their proposal, deciding at the same time to inform the government of their intention, so that they should not be molested by the police. Delegates were sent to the prime minister, M. Briand, who authorized the demonstration in pursuance of the initiative, which he took in connection with the Ferrer demonstration of Oct. 17.

The prime minister's fresh experiment in acclimatizing in France a practice which is not tolerated by the French code, failed, however, through no fault of his own. In discussion with the delegates of the railway employes he came to terms with them as to the number of members of their trade unions who should be allowed to march in procession, as to their itinerary in the Paris streets, and as to the general character of the placards which they were to be allowed to display. But owing to misunderstandings between the members of the union themselves assembled at the labor exchange, the procession was not formed and did not take place.

TELLS ABOUT BROWNSVILLE

Soldier-Banker-Speculator-Money-Lender-School Teacher-Saloon Keeper-Hackman Testifies.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Soldiers tending bar in the uniform of the United States army, and playing monte and poker for comparatively heavy stakes, even with non-commissioned officers in the reading room of their barracks, was described yesterday to the military court of inquiry investigating the shooting up of Brownsville, Tex., as the state of affairs just preceding that event.

This story was told by Former Private John Holloman, banker, capitalist, speculator, money lender, school teacher, saloonist, hack operator and otherwise recognized powerful man among the colored troops before their discharge as a result of the shooting affray. He has been charged with organizing the party of soldiers said to have shot up the town. He denies it.

When the people of Brownsville refused to let the colored soldiers drink like white folks, Holloman procured a liquor license and opened a saloon just outside of Fort Brown, where he tended bar in his uniform.

THREE HEROES OF LAKES RECALLED

Medals Are Proposed for Men Famous in Wrecks of Half Century Ago.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Heroism displayed in saving life on the Great Lakes nearly a half a century ago is to be officially recognized in a proposition embodied in Senator Flint's bill to give life-saving medals to Edwin Spencer, now living in California Charles B. Fowler, until recently bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church at New York city and Joseph C. Hartsell.

The proposed awards are an echo of the loss of the vessels, Lady Elgin, Sept. 8, 1860, which was one of the most fearful disasters on the Great Lakes, and the wreck of the Storm, lumber-laden, May 10, 1864, on both of which occasions many lives were saved. The three men named had assisted in saving passengers from the Lady Elgin, while Hartsell also performed valiant work at the wreck of the Storm near Evanston, when all the crew except one man were saved.

The three men were fellow students at the Northwestern university.

HURT ARRESTING DRUNK.

Moorhead Police Chief's Injury Necessitates an Operation.

Moorhead, Minn., Jan. 7.—Chief of Police O. E. Malvey was operated upon for a serious rupture Wednesday at the Moorhead hospital. His physician states that the operation was successful and that the chief will come out all right.

In handling an almost helpless drunk on Monday he slipped upon the sidewalk, and the sudden strain and the dead weight of the man whom he was handling caused him to rupture himself. He suffered greatly on Tuesday and his physician decided that the operation was necessary.

Pull Out a Hair

The Way to Tell Whether or Not Your Hair is Diseased.

Even if you have a luxuriant head of hair you may want to know whether it is in a healthy condition or not. Ninety-eight per cent of the people need a hair tonic. You can make a test yourself that you can see and understand, which will tell you whether your hair is healthy or not. Pull a hair out of your head; if the bulb at the end of the root is white and shrunken, it proves that the hair is diseased and requires prompt treatment if its loss would be avoided. If the bulb is pink and full, the hair is healthy.

We want every one whose hair requires treatment to try our Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We promise that it will not cost anything if it does not give satisfactory results. Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is designed to overcome dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, stimulate the hair roots, tighten the hair already in the head, grow hair and eradicate baldness.

Out of 100 cases where it was given a thorough, conscientious test, it grew hair on 93 heads, which should be sufficient proof that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic contains extraordinary remedial and hair-growing qualities. It is because of our knowledge of this preparation and our sincere faith in its goodness that we want you to try it at our risk.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is a clean, clear preparation which does not grease, gum or thicken the hair, and it has a very pleasant odor. We have it in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Duluth only at our store—The Rexall Store—E. M. Tredway, 108 West Superior street.

SEE DULUTH NEXT SUMMER.

Never in the history of Duluth has there been a time when visitors could have been more impressed with Duluth than they will be this coming summer.

The steel plant will be in process of construction, and it will be one of the notable show places. Unless every promise fails, this will be but one of many new industries that will head toward Duluth this year. There are large building projects to be carried out, business in all lines will be more active than ever before and there will be a lively whir of thriving industry all along the line.

And then there is always the Duluth summer climate, with its mild warmth, its bracing breezes and its cool nights. These beauties are attraction enough at any time, and Duluth hasn't made the use of them that it should have made. It doesn't sound so convincing now as it does in hot weather, but The Herald hopes to see the time when two or three times a week, while the people of Chicago and New York and Philadelphia and St. Louis are sweltering in unbearable heat, advertisements will appear in the newspapers of those cities telling what a joy life is in Duluth. This plan of advertising Duluth's advantages as a summer resort was advocated by The Herald last summer, and it still advocates it.

This summer will be a particularly good time to get people here, in order that they may see what is going on here, and realize what a brilliant future lies just before this city. Active steps should be taken, in view of all these circumstances, to attract visitors to Duluth this summer. A campaign with "See Duluth this summer" as its slogan would do a lot of good. It would bring thousands to the city who wouldn't otherwise come, and among them will be many who will be tempted to invest their capital here, if they do not themselves come to live here.

The Commercial club, the hotels, the wholesale houses and their traveling men, could co-operate effectively in such a campaign. "See Duluth this summer" is a good device to put on your firm envelopes, that the mails may carry the suggestive appeal far and wide. Advertising matter giving special prominence to the attractions of this region as a summer resort should be scattered all over the country. Arrangements should be made to advertise weather conditions in Duluth during the hot months. Now that the hotel accommodations are about to be increased so much, more active efforts to get summer conventions should be made. Members of organizations who attend state or national conventions should put in claims for Duluth as a convention city.

Duluth will have more to show visitors this summer than it ever had before, and it is very desirable that it should have more visitors than it has had in any previous summer. It is good advertising, and it is good business.

ANOTHER AJAX.

In writing to the chairman of a senate committee his views of the disclosures made by several minor government officials who have pointed out the danger that vast quantities of the people's wealth would pass into private hands for little or nothing, Mr. Pinchot has invited presidential lightning. His refusal to accept the administration's condemnation of Glavis and whitewashing of Ballinger will be looked upon as insubordination.

Is it the president's idea that a public servant who sees the people being despoiled of their wealth shall keep his mouth shut about it? Shall the rule that no information shall be given out except through the head of a department apply when the heads of departments refuse absolutely to permit publicity of anything tending to disturb the raid of Special Privilege upon the people's resources?

WHY THE LORDS SHUDDER.

It is not at all surprising, when you read of the tremendous land holdings of some of the members of the British aristocracy, that the Lloyd-George budget with its land tax is not popular in the branch of parliament that represents hereditary privilege.

Take the Duke of Sutherland, for instance. He is the largest land-owner in the United Kingdom. His possessions amount to 1,358,000 acres, which is a tidy bit of land for one man to own in the British isles. His holdings include the whole of one of the largest counties in Scotland, as well as great estates in England. He has five large residences, Dunrobin castle and the house of Tongue in Scotland, Trentham hall and Lilleshall house in England, and Stafford home in London. There are thousands of Scotch peasants, small farmers and fishermen, who would like to have homes on the thousands of acres occupied by the duke, but they cannot get them, so they are forced to emigrate or flock to the towns.

Under the new law the duke's lands will be taxed to the value they would have if occupied by farmers, and as the duke has not, with all his lands, a great amount of money, he will have to sell a large part of his holdings or lose them.

The Countess of Warwick will also be largely affected by the new law—if it becomes a law. She and her husband possess in Warwick castle one of the most historic and picturesque spots in England. The castle is surrounded by an estate of 10,000 acres in a district greatly favored as a summer resort, which might be covered with little villas for middle-class Englishmen. The land will be valued on this basis, and the countess will be called upon to pay a pretty sum in taxes, unless the Warwicks choose to sell off a large part of their holdings. As the Warwicks are said to be "land poor," doubtless that is what they will do.

And then the Duke of Westminster is the richest landlord in England. He owns 30,000 acres, most of it in the best part of London. Belgrave square and Grosvenor square are among his possessions. Under the English system it has been customary for city landlords to let their lands on lease. The tenant then builds houses on them, and at the expiration of the lease the landlord gets all the buildings and improvements for nothing; and in the meantime he hasn't paid a farthing in taxes.

These are but three, and there are many lesser examples that could be enumerated. As land pays no taxes, and as all taxes come out of tenants, if there are any, it is cheap to hold land. Thus millions in England are on the verge of starvation while millions of acres of fertile land are tied up by the nobility.

If you were living in England, and saw this valuable land tied up by privileged individuals who had done nothing to gain it except to be born rightly, what would you think about it? Would you vote for the budget, which will make these landlords pay taxes or sell their lands to people who will cultivate them? Or would you vote against the budget and in favor of a protective tariff, which would leave the lord's lands untaxed and throw new burdens upon the shoulders of the landless people?

SOME PERTINENT STORIES.

An article by A. D. Wilson, superintendent of Minnesota farmers' institutes, on feeding the population of this country, in the January number of the Farmer, published at St. Paul, furnishes several stories that are peculiarly pertinent to the present situation in Duluth.

They are pertinent because they show what intensive farming of small tracts will do; because they show what land is worth near a market such as that of Duluth; because they show the financial desirability of investments in the project now before the people of Duluth looking toward the clearing and cultivation of nearby acres; and because they show the opportunities for independence and wealth that this project, once firmly established, will open for those who are willing to go upon the soil. Here are the stories just as the Farmer publishes them:

Mr. Danners, a market gardener whose 10-acre farm adjoins the Minnesota experimental station,—near Minneapolis,—paid $320 per acre for his land, and in 1908 sold over $2,500 worth of products from his farm, or nearly enough to pay for it.

F. H. Gibbs, another market gardener owning a 15-acre farm also adjoining the Minnesota experimental station, has made a specialty of growing onions. He has been able, by careful methods, to gradually increase his yields until his standard is 1,000 bushels per acre. He does not always get the 1,000 bushels, but he does get uniformly large yields, enough when converted into money at average market prices to pay for land worth $200 to $500 per acre with one crop. In 1909 he raised on six acres over 4,000 bushels.

C. E. Brown of Elk River, by careful and practical methods of culture, has succeeded for many years in producing crops of potatoes which have brought him from $40 to $100 per acre, or enough to pay for good land in his community with one crop. His 1909 potato crop brought him over $60 per acre.

* * *

L. A. Sweet, Fairmont, Minn., by taking good care of good dairy cows, a small flock of poultry and a few hogs, has been able to secure an income of $1,000 to $1,600 from his 40-acre farm, or enough to pay for forty acres of land in the best part of Northwestern Minnesota.

* * *

H. D. Griswold of West Salem, Wis., received for dairy products sold to the creamery an average of $115 per cow. Forty acres of good land in Minnesota will easily furnish feed for ten to twenty such cows, making an income of over $1,000 to $2,000 possible from a 40-acre farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Martinson of Hutchinson, Minn., sold in one year over $1,200 worth of poultry product from 535 hens. A 40-acre farm will certainly produce feed enough for 500 to 1,000 hens, making an income of $1,000 to $2,500 within the reach of a poultry man on a 40-acre farm.

What these people have done on their small farms, others can do on small farms near Duluth. Intelligent intensive farming on the extraordinarily fertile soil of the cut-over lands near this city will yield wealth for the producers and cheaper and better living for those who live in Duluth. Such farming, such farmers and such production are the things Duluth needs more than anything else. The plan proposed by John G. Williams, and backed by the Duluth Commercial club, will bring them all about in a very short time.

ENFORCE THE ORDINANCE.

Bishop Morrison's interview in The Herald last evening on keeping sidewalks free of snow was timely, and it calls attention to a condition sadly in need of remedy. After every snowfall sidewalks in the residence districts are impassable because many resident property owners neglect to clean their walks and because non-resident property owners are not here to do it.

Yet for many years Duluth has had an excellently comprehensive ordinance on that subject. Property owners must clean their walks and put sand or ashes on their slippery sidewalks within a certain time, or be subject to a fine. The board of public works must make arrangements to clean off snow, by letting the contract to the lowest bidder or otherwise, where property owners don't do it, and must assess the cost to the property just as other improvements are assessed.

That ordinance never has been enforced. It should be enforced at once, and vigorously. If property owners do not clean their walks, the city should do it, and assess the cost to the property. It is stated that the board of public works never has enforced the ordinance because somebody once said that it couldn't be enforced. Assistant Attorney Morgan says he knows of no reason why it can't be made effective. The city should make preparations at once to take up this work. Also, the council should amend the ordinance to make it cover more territory than it now affects.

NIGHT SCHOOLS.

Miss Jean Poirier, state factory inspector, is seeking the use of schoolrooms for the establishment of night schools to help poor people who are unable to take advantage of the day schools. There ought to be no trouble about getting the use of these rooms. The city has tied up in its school buildings a vast amount of capital, and the buildings are used but a few hours a day. The school tax rate is now so high that extensions of school facilities cannot easily be made, but at least the school board should be able to provide the school rooms if private enterprise can provide the teaching. The purpose is highly laudable. Some day the city will get more use out of its school property than it does now by providing night schools as regularly as day schools.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about live topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE NEW GAME AT AITKIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

With your permission I will use a little of the space in your Open Court column to tell of the new game the farmer members of the American Society of Equity in Aitkin county are playing this winter to while away the long evenings.

The game is called "People's Government" and is played on an ordinary checker board. The board is marked by lines drawn diagonally across the colored squares both ways and from side to side of the board. These lines are labeled "the law" and are to be followed by some of the disks used in playing the game. It is played with twelve disks on each side the same as in checkers. Eight of the disks on each side are dust color and marked "the people." They can travel only one way along the lines marked "law"—the same as single men in ordinary checkers. Two of the disks on each side are colored like the chameleon and change shades and colors as they pass along. These are labeled respectively "congress" and "senate" and may move either forward or backward along the line of law. One of the disks on each side is colored a fading yellow or "waller" as we say out here, and is labeled "Taft." It may move or jump forward, backward or sideways across the blank squares, being only required to keep a line or turn at an oblique, right or acute angle. The remaining disks are colored like the weasel in winter and are labeled "judge" and are bound by no rule or regulations whatever, but when they come into play may move when, where and as often as they please.

As the game proceeds and the people of one side get their opponents cornered it brings "senate" and "congress" of the cornered side into play. When "senate" and "congress" are cornered it brings "Taft" into play. When "Taft" is cornered the "judge" comes into action and with its supreme power and absolutely without restriction, of course, brings the game to an end and the side that was cornered wins. Then as a grand finale the judges, Taft, senate and congress, both sides line up at the bar and take a drink while the people, both sides, smell the cork and foot the bill.

It is quite amusing to see the look of blank astonishment on the faces of some of the farmers who have outclassed their opponents and played the game well, when they see where they have come out.

It had been said here that Freeman Krecks of the Aitkin Independent invented the game, but nothing definite is known. Hoping that this may be the means of getting many more settlers from the far back country interested in the game and thereby bringing sunshine and joy into the lone cabin I am respectfully yours. THE SAGE.

LIBEL ON THE NEW COURTHOUSE BUILDING.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Yesterday I desired to send to a friend in a distant city a postcard picture of the new St. Louis county courthouse. I searched at every store on the main street trying to find a picture that did the building justice. Do you know that it is impossible to get a decent postcard view of the new building? There are postals in plenty. Some of them show the building in a sort of a way, but none of them do the new building justice. It is a beautiful structure and its beauty should not be marred by cheap postals. On receiving one of these cards a person would naturally say: "Is that the building Duluth people make such a fuss about?"

Now I think that there should be a uniform card, one taken from a selected angle that would do the building justice. Duluth people are proud of the structure and they have a right to be for it is conceded one of the most modern in the entire country. Can't we have an official postcard, one that is right to send our friends, one that we would not be ashamed of? I am sure more than one has thought of this. Let us work it out some way. Yours truly,

B. A. S.

Duluth, Jan. 6.

CLEAN THE SIDEWALKS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

If anybody should obey the law it is those in charge of its administration. Failure of city or county to obey the laws under which it operates certainly sets a bad example to the people. The county owns the property at the corner of Fourth avenue west and First street, a corner at which there is a great deal of foot travel. The recent snowfall has been packed in hummocks on the sidewalk on both sides of the property, street and avenue, and no effort has been made to clear it away. If an individual were guilty of such a violation of the city ordinances, he would have a policeman at his door. Why shouldn't a policeman go to the courthouse and tell some of the officials there the law?

Fashion and Beauty.

Robert G. Ingersoll: I am a believer in fashion. It is the duty of every woman to make herself as beautiful and attractive as she possibly can. "Handsome is as handsome does," but she is much handsomer if well dressed. Every man should look his very best. I am a believer in good clothes. The time never ought to come in this country when you can tell a farmer's daughter simply by the garments she wears. I say to every girl and woman, no matter what the material of your dress may be, no matter how cheap and coarse it is, cut it and make it in the fashion. I believe in jewelry. Some people look upon it as barbaric, but in my judgment wearing jewelry is the first evidence the barbarian gives of a wish to be civilized. To adorn ourselves seems to be a part of our nature, and this desire seems to be everywhere and in everything. I have sometimes thought that the desire for beauty covers the earth with flowers, paints the wings of moths, tints the chamber of the shell and gives the bird its plumage and its song. O daughters and wives, if you would be loved, adorn yourselves; if you would be adored, be beautiful.

The Useful Barn Owl.

American Birds: A family of barn owls will number from three to seven birds. It is hard to believe what an amount of vermin a family of owls will consume. An old owl will capture as much or more food than a dozen cats in a night. The owlets are always hungry. They will eat their own weight in food every night, and more, if they can get it. A case is on record where a half-grown owl was given all the mice it could eat. It swallowed eight, one after the other. The rapid digestion of birds of prey is shown by the fact that in three hours the little glutton was ready for a second meal, and swallowed four more mice. If this can be done by a single bird, what effect must a whole family of owls have on the vermin of a community? It would be difficult to point out a more useful bird than the barn owl in any farming country. Like many other birds, it deserves the fullest protection, but man is often its worst enemy.

The Advance Notice.

The projectors of a new Siamese newspaper have distributed the following notice:

"The news of English we tell the latest. Writ in perfectly style and most earliest. Do a murder git commit, we hear of it and tell it. Do a mighty chief die, we publish it, and in borders of somber. Staff has each one been college, and write like Kipling and Dickens. We circle every town and extortionate not for advertisements. Buy it. Buy it. Tell each of you its greatness for good. Ready on Friday. Number one."

THE WEATHER.

The ski jumpers, snowshoe trampers, skaters and devotees of other outdoor winter sports have a few days of pleasure ahead, for the cold snap is about broken, and milder temperatures are promised. The lowest temperature last night was 4 deg. below zero, but southerly winds today have tempered the cold. It's really great weather to be out of doors—clear, snappy and health-giving.

A year ago today was cold and windy, Duluth being in the center of the coldest snap of the winter.

The sun rose this morning at 7:53 and will set at 4:36, giving eight hours and forty-three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Freezing weather prevails this morning in all districts except in Atlantic and Pacific coast states. Zero weather is the rule throughout the Rocky mountains, Upper Mississippi and Red river valleys and the western lake region. The center of the high barometer area overlies the Lower Mississippi valley and Western Gulf states. Snow is falling at New Orleans. Barometric depressions central off the New England coast and Northern Saskatchewan caused light to heavy falls of snow or rain in Atlantic states, the Ohio and Lower Mississippi valleys and the Northwest, together with higher temperatures over the greater part of the Northwest and West.

"Indications favor somewhat milder weather in St. Louis and Douglas counties during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

Following are the maximum temperatures for the past twenty-four hours and the minimum for twelve hours:

Ginger Up.

The Book-Keeper: Do you feel gloomy, melancholy, dejected? Do things look blue? Are collections slow and are bills piling up? Is your establishment stagnating from a lack of energy, ginger, enthusiasm?

Then ginger up!

Are you up against it in every sense of the term—eligible for membership in the Down-and-Out club? Does it seem as if the crack of doom is about to enter the city limes? Have you accepted failure as the inevitable end and do you now wait patiently, but fearfully? Have you given up the battle? If you haven't, then don't! Don't do it anyhow!

But Ginger up!

Get the ginger jar out of that corner, where it has been hidden for over a decade, untouched and covered with dust and cobwebs. Open it and take some goodly portions of its contents. There now! You feel better. A smile lights up your countenance. A determination has been inoculated in your system. You become enthusiastic. It is contagious. You rally; you fight. "I will" becomes your motto. "I can't" is thrown into the wastebasket where is belongs. You win! You must win! It's natural.

A Sample of Protection "Rot."

New Orleans State: "What is a Republican?" asks the Seattle-Post-Intelligencer, and then proceeds to answer its own question by saying: "Among other things he is a protectionist, because he does not believe in pauperizing American labor, closing the American factory or stopping the American plow." There is no tariff on foreign labor and it comes in by the shipload free of duty to compete with American labor. The protected interests do not divide their tariff loot with labor and never will, but, on the contrary, they buy their labor as cheaply as they can get it; hence it is that the mills and the factories of the Pittsburg district, the greatest beneficiaries of the protective tariff, are filled today with foreigners utterly ignorant of the country's language and institutions. The high tariff does not benefit labor at all, but the manufacturers only who are enabled by it to plunder American consumers by charging unreasonable prices in the home market while selling their products at a reasonable profit abroad in free trade markets in competition with the world.

How to Boom Trade.

Puck: America has protection and a sad merchant marine. England has free trade and a large merchant marine. In both countries there are parties whose slogan is tariff reform, but tariff reform in England means the reverse of what it stands for here. Consequently, when the shipping interests of England object to tariff reform because it would strike a mortal blow at the merchant marine, from the American viewpoint they are objecting to the policy of high protection. With the coming of protection, say Britain's biggest ship owners, trade supremacy on the sea will go. They know it will, because in that way they have seen America's go. We read in a recent Washington dispatch that the reason for America's shipping decline has been a puzzle to congress for years, but we don't believe it. Nothing is a puzzle which is obvious. Even the most rabid advocate of a ship subsidy knows that the natural way, the honest way, to restore American shipping to prosperity is not to reward owners for building and operating ships at a loss—a clumsy way, if nothing worse—but so to adjust our tariff schedules that there will be at least an even chance of profit for the shipping people. At present the cards are all stacked against them. Brisk trade never hurt a nation yet, and the way to boom trade is to remove restrictions upon it. Especially when such restrictions operate for private graft at the public expense.

MINNESOTA OPINIONS.

The Only Way.

Warroad Commonwealth: Every candidate seeking a legislative office in Northern Minnesota during the approaching campaign should be required to subscribe to an ironclad pledge to make reapportionment the one and only issue in the next session of the legislature. Only by requiring such a pledge and following the elected to St. Paul to see that they live up to it will we get reapportionment next year.

Making It Easy.

Onamia Lake Breeze: The Taft proposes a federal incorporation law. One department will incorporate nice, little law-abiding companies, while the department of justice busts the trusts.

If He Likes It, There's Plenty.

Hutchinson Leader: Some men claim they enjoy criticism, however severe, of their own doings. If President Taft is one of that stripe we'd be pleased to mail him some clippings from our Republican exchanges, commenting on his recent love letter to congress.

Must Die to Be Praised.

Virginia Enterprise: What a mistake it is to reserve all our eulogy of people until they are dead. Many a man while living has hungered in vain for a few words of recognition that would have meant everything to him when struggling against discouraging odds. But when he died, eulogistic resolutions were unanimously passed crediting him with all the virtues possible for any one to possess on earth or in heaven.

Self-Interest and Patriotism.

Wilmar Journal: One can pick out the editors in the Seventh district who expect to receive petty appointments as census enumerators this spring by the way they sing: "Volstead is all right, Cannon or no Cannon." Just the same, there is not a man in the district who likes Cannon, or the congressmen who made Cannon the boss booster for big business—and to the damnation bow-wows with the rest of the people.

But Why Does He Do It?

Stillwater Gazette: Between the present time and the formal and official opening of the baseball season next spring it is hoped some student of the game will explain why the catcher always spits in his mitt and then punches it with his loose hand every time he squats to receive a ball.—Biddeford, Me., Journal.

G'wan, you duffer. If you don't know why, what are you doing holding a job on a newspaper? You shouldn't expect to rate as a live one, but the catcher does.

The Travesty of "Protection."

Little Falls Herald: The Boston Home Market club, composed of protected manufacturers, is fighting both the income tax and the corporation tax. The reason is plain. If new forms of taxation can be prevented, then the country must rely on the tariff for revenue. It doesn't make any difference to the Home Market club whether any new tax proposed is just and equitable or not. The purpose is to maintain the sacred high tariff. The tariff means a tax on consumption, and therefore a burden on consumers. The income tax is a tax on wealth and a relief to those who most need assistance. The Home Market club is frank enough. It declares for special privileges to a favored few, that the many shall be taxed to enrich certain favorites. A high protective tariff, enabling the manufacturer to force the people to contribute to his coffers exorbitant profits, and enabling him to stifle and crush competition, is a libel upon government by the people.

Newcastle Needs No Coal.

Appleton Press: Taft's cry that the critics of Secretary Ballinger are in a conspiracy to discredit his administration sounds rather ridiculous. If Taft could in some way get in touch with the people whom he is supposed to serve he would soon learn that the work of discrediting his administration had been pretty thoroughly done by the extra session of congress and the Winona speech. Anything more in this line would be superfluous.

Everbody's: Everybody's Magazine, as its readers know, is in no sense a partisan publication. But partisanship is not involved in the insurgent movement. Representative government is at stake. For this controlling reason, Everybody's does indorse, without qualification, the noble stand taken by the insurgents of the senate and the house. These men have been above party. They have faithfully and courageously represented the people at large in congress.

The re-election of Beveridge, Clapp and La Follette is of national moment. For these men not only represent the people of their respective states, they are senators of the whole people.

In the house every insurgent who voted against the Cannon rule should be loyally and enthusiastically supported, together with every follower of Champ Clark, who stuck by his party. Retribution should be meted out to the Democrats who turned traitors.

And before the primaries—or at least before the congressional election—every candidate should be compelled to give pledge that he will vote against Cannon for speaker, and vote for a change in the rules which will take away the speaker's power to appoint committees, substituting therefor the naming of committees by a bi-partisan committee of the whole house; thus terminating that un-American official's domination of the committee on rules.

Get that pledge from your congressman. Get a pledge that will bind his action, not alone in the party caucus, but, far more important, on the floor of the house.

Better get the pledge in writing.

Lightning Versus Molasses.

Puck: So much has been printed about the difference between Taft and Roosevelt that we have hesitated to add our humble say, but a Washington dispatch suggests such a striking illustration of that same difference of temperament that we hesitate no longer. The item was to the effect that President Taft would not insist upon a certain law that he had first asked congress to pass because many congressmen had assured the president that a bill embodying such recommendations would never get out of committee. Never get out of committee! On hearing news of that sort Roosevelt used to make matters so hot for the balky congressmen, by means of interviews, speeches and special messages, that they would scurry for cover and do anything, anything he wanted rather than face the threatening music from the home districts. That music isn't heard much just at present. President Taft, we are told, has "a calm, judicial mind."

PRESIDENT TAFT'S SPECIAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Washington, Jan. 7.—Following is the text of President Taft's special message forwarded to congress today:

To the Senate and House of Representatives—I withheld from my annual message a discussion of needed legislation under the authority which congress has to regulate commerce between the states and with foreign countries, and said that I would bring this subject matter to your attention later in the session. Accordingly I beg to submit to you certain recommendations as to the amendments to the interstate commerce law and certain considerations arising out of the operations of the anti-trust law, suggesting the wisdom of federal incorporation of industrial companies.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE LAW.

In the annual report of the interstate commerce commission for the year 1909, attention is called to the fact that between July 1, 1908, and the close of that year, sixteen suits had been begun to set aside orders of the commission (besides one commenced before that date), and that few orders of much consequence had been permitted to go without protest; that the questions presented by these various suits were fundamental, as the constitutionality of the act itself was in issue, and the right of congress to delegate to any tribunal authority to establish an interstate rate was denied; but that perhaps the most serious practical question raised, concerned the extent of the right of the courts to review the orders of the commission; and it was pointed out that if the contention of the carriers in this latter respect alone were sustained, but little progress had been made in the Hepburn act toward the effective regulation of interstate transportation charges. In twelve of the cases referred to, it was stated, preliminary injunctions were prayed for, being granted in six and refused in six.

Basis of Law's Value.

"It has from the first been well understood," says the commission, "that the success of the present act as a regulating measure depended largely upon the facility with which temporary injunctions could be obtained. If a railroad company, by mere allegation in its bill of complaint, supported by ex parte affidavits, can overturn the result of days of patient investigation, no very satisfactory result can be expected. The railroad loses nothing by these proceedings, since, if they fail, it can only be required to establish the rate and to pay to shippers the difference between the higher rate collected and the rate which is finally held to be reasonable. In point of fact, it usually profits, because it can seldom be required to return more than a fraction of the excess charges collected."

In its report for the year 1909 the commission shows that of the seventeen cases referred to in its 1908 report only one had been decided in the supreme court of the United States, although five other cases had been argued and submitted to that tribunal in October, 1909.

Delays in Appeal.

Of course, every carrier affected by an order of the commission has a constitutional right to appeal to a federal court to protect it from the enforcement of an order which it may show to be prima facie confiscatory or unjustly discriminatory in its effect; and, as this application may be made to a court in any district of the United States, not only does delay result in the enforcement of the order, but great uncertainty is caused by contrariety of decision. The questions presented by these applications are too often technical in their character and require a knowledge of the business and the mastery of a great volume of conflicting evidence which is tedious to examine and troublesome to comprehend.

It would not be proper to attempt to deprive any corporation of the right to the review by a court of any order or decree which, if undisturbed, would rob it of a reasonable return upon its investment or would subject it to burdens which would unjustly discriminate against and in favor of other carriers similarly situated.

"Court of Commerce."

What is, however, of supreme importance is that the decision of such questions shall be as speedy as the nature of the circumstances will admit, and that a uniformity of decision be secured, so as to bring about an effective, systematic and scientific enforcement of the commerce law, rather than conflicting decisions and uncertainty of final result.

For this purpose I recommend the establishment of a court of the United States composed of five judges designated for such purpose from among the circuit judges of the United States, to be known as the "United States court of commerce," which court shall be clothed with exclusive original jurisdiction over the following classes of cases:

1. All cases for the enforcement, otherwise than by adjudication and collection of a forfeiture or penalty, or by infliction of criminal punishment, of an order of the interstate commerce commission other than for the payment of money.

2. All cases brought to enjoin, set aside, annul or suspend any order or requirement of the interstate commerce commission.

3. All such cases as under section 3 of the act of Feb. 19, 1903, known as the "Elkins act," are authorized to be maintained in a circuit court of the United States.

4. All such mandamus proceedings as under the provisions of Section 20 or Section 23 of the interstate commerce act are authorized to be maintained in a circuit court of the United States.

Reasons for the Court.

Reasons precisely analogous to those which induced the congress to create the court of customs appeals by the provisions in the tariff act of August 5, 1909, may be urged in support of the creation of the commerce court.

In order to provide a sufficient number of judges to enable this court to be constituted, it will be necessary to authorize the appointment of five additional circuit judges, who, for the purposes of appointment, might be distributed to those circuits where there is at the present time the largest volume of business, such as the Second, Third, Fourth, Seventh and Eighth circuits.

The act should empower the chief justice, at any time when the business of the court of commerce does not require the services of all the judges, to reassign the judges designated to that court to the circuits to which they respectively belong; and it should also provide for payment to such judges while sitting by assignment in the court of commerce of such additional amount as is necessary to bring their annual compensation up to $10,000.

Powers of the Court.

The regular sessions of such court should be held at the capitol, but it should be empowered to hold sessions in different parts of the United States if found desirable; and its orders and judgments should be made final, subject only to review by the supreme court of the United States, with the provision that the operation of the decree appealed from shall not be stayed unless the supreme court so order.

The commerce court should be empowered in its discretion to restrain or suspend the operation of any orders of the interstate commerce commission under review pending the final hearing and determination of the proceeding, but no such restraining order should be made except upon notice and after hearing, unless in cases where irreparable damage would otherwise ensue to the petitioner.

A judge of that court might be empowered to allow a stay of the commission's order for a period of not more than sixty days, but pending application to the court for its order or injunction, then only where his orders shall contain a specific finding based upon evidence submitted to the judge making the order and identified by reference thereto, that such irreparable damage would result to the petitioner, specifying the nature of the damage.

Commission's Functions Mixed.

Under the existing law, the interstate commerce commission itself initiates and defends litigation in the courts for the enforcement, or in the defense, of its orders and decrees, and for this purpose it employs attorneys who, while subject to the control of the attorney general, act upon the initiative and under the instructions of the commission. This blending of administrative, legislative and judicial functions tends, in my opinion, to impair the efficiency of the commission by clothing it with partisan characteristics and robbing it of the impartial judicial attitude it should occupy in passing upon questions submitted to it.

In my opinion all litigation affecting the government should be under the direct control of the department of justice; and I therefore recommend that all proceedings affecting orders and decrees of the interstate commerce commission be brought by or against the United States eo nomine, and be placed in charge of an assistant attorney general acting under the direction of the attorney general.

The subject of agreements between carriers with respect to rates has been often discussed in congress. Pooling arrangements and agreements were condemned by the general sentiment of the people, and, under the Sherman anti-trust law, any agreement between carriers operating in restraint of interstate or internal trade or commerce would be unlawful.

Control of Lines.

The Republican platform of 1908 expressed the belief that the interstate commerce law should be further amended so as to give the railroads the right to make and publish traffic agreements subject to the approval of the commission, but maintaining always the principle of competition between naturally competing lines and avoiding the common control of such lines by any means whatever. In view of the complete control over rate making and other practices of interstate carriers established by the acts of congress and as recommended in this communication, I see no reason why agreements between carriers subject to the act specifying the classifications of freight and the rates, fares and charges for transportation of passengers and freight which they may agree to establish, should not be permitted, providing copies of such agreements be promptly filed with the commission, but subject to all the provisions of the interstate commerce act, and subject to the right of any parties to such agreement to cancel it as to all or any of the agreed rates, fares, charges or classifications by thirty days' notice in writing to the other parties and to the commission.

Shippers' Knowledge of Rates.

Much complaint is made by shippers over the statement of the law under which they are held bound to know the legal rate applicable to any proposed shipment, without, as a matter of fact, having any certain means of actually ascertaining such rate. It has been suggested that to meet this grievance, carriers should be required, upon application by a shipper, to quote the legal rate in writing, and that the shipper should be protected in acting upon the rate thus quoted; but the objection to this suggestion is that it would afford a much too easy method of giving to favored shippers unreasonable preferences and rebates.

I think that the law should provide that a carrier, upon written request by an intending shipper, should quote in writing the rate or charge applicable to the proposed shipment under any schedules or tariffs to which carrier is a party, and that if the party making such request suffer damage in consequence of either refusal or omission to quote the proposed rate, or in consequence of a misstatement of the rate, the carrier shall be liable to a penalty in reasonable amount, say $250, to accrue to the United States, and to be recovered in a civil action brought by the appropriate district attorney. Such a penalty would compel the agent of the carrier to exercise due diligence in quoting the applicable legal rate, and would thus afford the shipper a real measure of protection, while not opening the way to collusion and the giving of rebates or other unfair discrimination.

Give Commission Initiative.

Under the existing law the commission can only act with respect to an alleged excessive rate or unduly discriminatory practice by a carrier on a complaint made by some individual affected thereby. I see no reason why the commission should not be authorized to act on its own initiative as well as upon the complaint of an individual in investigating the fairness of any existing rate or practice; and I recommend the amendment of the law to so provide; and also that the commission shall be fully empowered, beyond any question, to pass upon the classifications of commodities for purposes of fixing rates, in like manner as it may now do with respect to the maximum rate applicable to any transportation.

Under the existing law the commission may not investigate an increase in rates until after it shall have become effective; and although one or more carriers may file with the commission a proposed increase in rates or change in classifications, or other alterations of the existing rates or classifications, to become effective at the expiration of thirty days from such filing, no proceeding can be taken to investigate the reasonableness of such proposed change until after it becomes operative.

On the other hand, if the commission shall make an order finding that an existing rate is excessive and directing it to be reduced, the carrier affected may by proceedings in the courts, stay the operation of such order of reduction for months and even years.

Order New Rate Held Up.

It has, therefore, been suggested that the commission should be empowered, whenever a proposed increase in rates is filed, at once to enter upon an investigation of the reasonableness of the increase and to make an order postponing the effective date of such increase until after such investigation shall be completed.

To this much objection has been made on the part of the carriers. They contend that this would be, in effect, to take from the owners of the railroads the management of their properties, and to clothe the interstate commerce commission with the original rate-making power—a policy which was much discussed at the time of the passage of the Hepburn act in 1905-6, and which was then, and has always been, distinctly rejected; and in reply to the suggestion that they are able by resorting to the courts, to stay the taking effect of the order of the commission until its reasonableness shall have been investigated by the courts, whereas the people are deprived of any such remedy with respect to action by the carriers, they point to the provision of the interstate commerce act providing for restitution to the shippers by carriers of excessive rates charged in cases where the order of the commission reducing such rates are affirmed.

Power to Review New Rates.

It may be doubted how effective this remedy really is. Experience has shown that many, perhaps most, shippers do not resort to proceedings to recover the excessive rates which they may have been required to pay, for the simple reason that they have added the rates paid to the cost of the goods and thus enhanced the price thereof to their customers, and that the public has in effect paid the bill.

On the other hand, the enormous volume of transportation charges, the great number of separate tariffs filed annually with the interstate commerce commission, amounting to almost $200,000, and the impossibility of any commissions supervising the making of tariffs in advance of their becoming effective on every transportation line within the United States to the extent that would be necessary if their active concurrence were required in the making of every tariff, has satisfied me that this power, if granted, should be conferred in a very limited and restricted form.

I therefore recommend that the interstate commerce commission be empowered, whenever any proposed increase of rates is filed, at once, either on complaint or of its own motion, to enter upon an investigation into the reasonableness of such change, and that it be further empowered, in its discretion, to postpone the effective date of such proposed increase for a period not exceeding sixty days beyond the date when such rate would take effect.

May Forbid the Rate.

If, within this time, it shall determine that such increase is unreasonable, it may then, by its order, either forbid the increase at all, or fix the maximum beyond which it shall not be made. If, on the other hand, at the expiration of this time, the commission shall not have completed its investigation, then the rate shall take effect precisely as it would under the existing law and the commission may continue its investigation with such results as might be realized under the law as it now stands.

The claim is very earnestly advanced by some large associations of shippers that shippers of freight should be empowered to direct the route over which their shipments should pass to destination, and in this connection it has been urged that the provisions of Section 15 of the interstate commerce act, which now empowers the commission, after hearing on complaint, to establish through routes and maximum joint rates to be charged, etc., when no reasonable or satisfactory through route shall have been already established, be amended so as to empower the commission to take such action, even when one existing reasonable and adequate story route already exists, if it be possible to establish additional routes. This seems to me to be a reasonable provision.

Right to Elect Route.

I know of no reason why a shipper should not have the right to elect between two or more established through routes to which the initial carrier may be a party, and to require his shipment to be transported to destination over such of such routes as he may designate for that purpose, subject, however, to the exercise of this right, to such reasonable regulations as the interstate commerce commission may prescribe.

The Republican platform of 1908 declared in favor of amending the interstate commerce law, but so as always to maintain the principle of competition between naturally competing lines, and avoiding the common control of such lines by any means whatsoever. One of the most potent means of exercising such control has been through the holding of stock of one railroad company by another company owning a competing line. This condition has grown up under express legislative power conferred by the laws of many states, and to attempt now to suddenly reverse that policy so far as it affects the ownership of stocks heretofore so acquired, would be to inflict a grievous injury, not only upon the corporations affected, but upon a large body of the investment-holding public.

Ownership of Stock.

I, however, recommend that the law shall be amended so as to provide that from and after the date of its passage, no railroad company subject to the interstate commerce act shall, directly or indirectly, acquire any interests of any kind in capital stock or purchase or lease any railroad of any other corporation which competes with it respecting business to which the interstate commerce act applies. But especially for the protection of the minority stockholders in securing to them the best market for their stock, I recommend that such prohibition be coupled with a proviso that it shall not operate to prevent any corporation which, at the date of the passage of such act, shall own not less than one-half of the entire issued, and outstanding capital stock of any other railroad company, from acquiring all or the remainder of such, nor to prohibit any railroad company which at the date of the enactment of the law in operating a railroad of any other corporation under lease, executed for a term of not less than twenty-five years, from acquiring the reversionary ownership of the demised railroad; but that such provisions shall not operate to authorize or validate the acquisition, through stock ownership or otherwise, of a competing line or interest therein in violation of the anti-trust or any other law.

To Prevent Over-Issues.

The Republican platform of 1908 further declares in favor of such national legislation and supervision as will prevent the future over-issue of stocks and bonds by interestate carriers, and in order to carry out its provisions, I recommend the enactment of a law providing that no railroad corporation subject to the interstate commerce act shall hereafter for any purpose connected with or relating to any part of its business governed by said act, issue any capital stock without previous or simultaneous payment to it of not less than the par value of such stock, or any bonds or other obligations (except notes maturing not more than one year from the date of their issue), without the previous or simultaneous payment to such corporation of not less than the par value of such bonds or other obligations, or, if issued at less than their par value, then not without such payment of the reasonable market value of such bonds or obligations as ascertained by the interstate commerce commission; and that no property, services, or other thing than money, shall be taken in payment to such carrier corporation, of the par or other required price of such stock, bond or other obligation, except at the face value of such property, services or other thing as ascertained by the commission; and that such act shall also contain provisions to prevent the abuse by the improvident or improper issue of notes maturing at a period not exceeding twelve months from date, in such manner as to commit the commission to the approval of a larger amount of stock or bonds in order to retire such notes than should legitimately have been required.

Approval of Issues.

Such act should also provide for the approval by the interstate commerce commission of the amount of stock and bonds to be issued by any railroad company subject to this act upon any reorganization, pursuant to judicial sale or other legal proceedings, in order to prevent the issue of stock and bonds to an amount in excess of the face value of the property which is the subject of such reorganization.

I believe these suggested modifications in and amendments to the interstate commerce act would make it a complete and effective measure for securing reasonableness of rates and fairness of practices in the operation of interstate railroad lines, without undue preference to any individual or class over any others, and would prevent the recurrence of many of the practices which have given rise in the past to so much public inconvenience and loss.

By my direction the attorney general has drafted a bill to carry out these recommendations, which will be furnished upon request to the appropriate committee whenever it may be desired.

Appliances on Trains.

In addition to the foregoing amendments of the interstate commerce law, the interstate commerce commission should be given the power, after a hearing, to determine upon the uniform construction of those appliances—such as sill steps, ladders, roof handholds, running boards and handbrakes on freight cars engaged in interstate commerce—used by the trainmen in the operation of trains, the defects and lack of uniformity in which are apt to produce accidents and injuries to railway trainmen. The wonderful reform effected in the number of switchmen and trainmen injured by coupling accidents, due to the enforced introduction of safety couplers, is a demonstration of what can be done if railroads are compelled to adopt proper safety appliances.

The question has arisen in the operation of the interstate commerce employers' liability act as to whether suit can be brought against the employer company in any place other than that of its home office. The right to bring the suit under this act should be as easy of enforcement as the right of a private person not in the company's employ to sue on an ordinary claim, and process in such suit demned as unlawful and made subject to indictment and restraint by injunction; and whereby in the second section every monopoly or attempt to monopolize, and every combination or conspiracy with other persons to monopolize any part of interstate trade or commerce, is denounced as illegal and made subject to similar punishment or restraint, we must infer that the evil aimed at was not the mere bigness of the enterprise, but it was the aggregation of capital and plants with the express or implied intent to restrain interstate or foreign commerce, or to monopolize it in whole or in part.

When the Law Is Violated.

Monopoly destroys competition utterly and the restraint of the full and free operation of competition has a tendency to restrain commerce and trade. A combination of persons, formerly engaged in trade as partnerships or corporations or otherwise, of course, eliminates the competition that existed between them; but the incidental ending of that competition is not to be regarded necessarily as a direct restraint of trade, unless of such an embracing character that the intention and effect to restrain trade are apparent from the circumstances, or are expressly declared to be the object of the combination.

A mere incidental restraint of trade and competition is not within the inhibition of the act, but it is where the combination or conspiracy or contract is inevitably and directly a substantial restraint of competition, and so a restraint of trade, that the statute is violated.

The second section of the act is a supplement of the first. A direct restraint of trade, such as is condemned in the first section, if successful and used to suppress competition, is one of the commonest methods of securing a trade monopoly, condemned in the second section.

May Not be Unlawful.

It is possible for the owners of a business of manufacturing and selling useful articles of merchandise to so conduct their business as to not violate the inhibitions of the anti-trust law and yet to secure to themselves the benefits of the economies of management and of production due to the concentration under one control of large capital and many plants. If they use no other inducement than the constant low price of their product and its good quality to attract custom, and their business is a profitable one, they violate no law. If their actual competitors are small in comparison with the total capital invested, the prospect of new investments of capital by others in such a profitable business is sufficiently near and potential to restrain them in the prices at which they sell their product.

But if they attempt by a use of their preponderating capital and by a sale of their goods temporarily at unduly low prices to drive out of business their competitors, or if they attempt by exclusive contracts with their patrons and threats of non-dealing except upon such contracts, or by other methods of a similar character to use the largeness of their resources and the extent of their output compared with the total output as a means of compelling custom and frightening off competition, then they disclose a purpose to restrain trade and to establish a monopoly, and violate the act.

Loss Through Radical Action.

The object of the anti-trust law was to suppress the abuses of business of the kind described. It was not to interfere with a great volume of capital which, concentrated under one organization, reduced the cost of production by methods akin to duress to stifle competition with it.

I wish to make this distinction as emphatic as possible, because I conceive that nothing would happen more destructive to the property of this country than the loss of that great economy in production which has been and will be effected in all manufacturing lines by the employment of large capital under one management. I do not mean to say that there is not a limit beyond which the economy by the enlargement of plant ceases; and where this happens and combination continues beyond this point, the very fact shows intent to monopolize and not to economize.

The original purpose of many combinations of capital in this country was not confined to the legitimate and proper object of reducing the cost of production. On the contrary, the history of most trades will show at times a feverish desire to unite by purchase, combination or otherwise all the plants in the country engaged in the manufacture of particular kinds of goods. The idea was rife that thereby a monopoly could be effected and a control of prices brought about which would inure to the profit of those engaged in the combination.

The "Sugar Trust Case."

The path of commerce is strewn with failures of such combinations. Their projectors found that the union of all the plants did not prevent competition, and especially where proper economy had not been pursued in the purchase and in the conduct of the business after the aggregation was completed. There were enough, however, of such successful combinations to arouse the fears of good, patriotic men as to the result of a continuance of this movement toward the concentration in the hands of a few of the absolute control of the prices of all manufactured products.

The anti-trust statute was passed in 1890 and prosecutions were soon begun under it. In the case of the United States vs. Knight, known as the "sugar trust case" because of the narrow scope of the pleadings, the combination sought to be enjoined was held not to be included within the prohibition of the act, because the averments did not go beyond the mere acquisition of manufacturing plants for the refining of sugar, and did not include that of a direct and intended restraint upon trade and commerce in the sale and delivery of sugar across state boundaries in foreign trade.

Result of the Case.

The result of the sugar trust case was not happy, in that it gave other companies and combinations seeking a similar method of making profit by establishing an absolute control and monopoly in a particular line of manufacture a sense of immunity against prosecutions in the federal jurisdiction, and where that jurisdiction is barred in respect to a business which is necessarily commensurate with the boundaries of the country, no state prosecution is able to supply the needed machinery for adequate restraint or punishment.

Following the sugar trust decision, however, there have come along in the slow but certain course of judicial disposition cases involving a construction of the anti-trust statute and its application, until now they seem to embrace every phase of that law which can be practically presented to the American public and to the government for action. They show that the anti-trust act has a wide scope and applies to many combinations in actual operation, rendering them unlawful and subject to indictment and restraint.

The supreme court in several of its decisions has declined to read into the statute the word "unreasonable" before "restraint of trade" on the ground that the statute applies to all restraints and does not intend to leave to the court the discretion to determine what is a reasonable restraint of trade.

"Restraint of Trade."

The expression "restraint of trade" comes from the common law, and at common law there were certain covenants incidental to the carrying out of a main or principal contract which were said to be covenants in partial restraint of trade, and were held to be enforcible because "reasonably" adapted to the performance of the main or principal contract. And under the general language used by the supreme court in several cases, it would seem that even such incidental covenants in restraint of interstate trade were within the inhibition of the statute and must be condemned.

In order to avoid such a result, I have thought and said that it might be well to amend the statute so as to exclude such covenants from its condemnation. A close examination of the later decisions of the court, however, shows quite clearly in cases presenting the exact question that such incidental restraints of trade are held not to be within the law and are excluded by the general statement that to be within the law and are excluded by the general statement that to be within the statute the effect upon the trade of the restraint must be direct, and not merely incidental or indirect. The necessity, therefore, for an amendment to the statute so as to exclude these incidental and beneficial covenants in restraint of trade held at common law to be reasonable does not exist.

What Combinations Are Forbidden.

In some of the opinions of the federal circuit judges there have been intimations having the effect, if sound, to weaken the force of the statute by including within it absurdly unimportant combinations and arrangements, and suggesting therefore the wisdom of changing its language by limiting its application to serious combinations with intent to restrain competition or control prices. A reading of the opinions of the supreme court, however, makes the change unnecessary, for they exclude from the operation of the act contracts affecting interstate trade in but a small and incidental way, and apply the statute only to the real evil aimed at by congress.

The statute has been on the statute books now for two decades, and the suppreme court in more than a dozen opinions has construed it in application to various phases of business combinations and in reference to various subject matter. It has applied it to the union under one control of two competing interstate railroads; to joint traffic arrangements between several interstate railroads; to private manufactureers engaged in a plain attempt to control prices and suppress competition in a part of the country, including a dozen states, and to many other combinations affecting interstate trade.

Will Organize Investigation.

The value of a statute which is rendered more and more certain in its meaning by a series of decisions of the supreme court furnishes a strong reason for leaving the act as it is, to accomplish its useful purpose, even though if it were being newly enacted useful suggestions as to change of phrase might be made.

It is the duty and purpose of the executive to direct an investigation by the department of justice, through the grand jury or otherwise, into the history, organization, and purposes of all the industrial companies with respect to which there is any reasonable ground for suspicion that they have been organized for a purpose, and are conducting business on a plan, which is in violation of the anti-trust law.

The work is a heavy one, but it is not beyond the power of the department of justice, if sufficient funds are furnished, to carry on the investigations and to pay the counsel engaged in the work.

But such an investigation and possible prosecution of corporations whose prosperity or destruction affects the comfort not only of stockholders, but of millions of wage-earners, employes, and associated tradesmen, must necessarily tend to disturb the confidence of the business community, to dry up the now flowing sources of capital from its places of hoarding, and produce a halt in our present prosperity that will cause suffering and strained

ANTI-TRUST LAW AND FEDERAL INCORPORATION.

There has been a marked tendency in business in this country for forty years last past toward combination of capital and plants in manufacture, sale, and transportation. The moving causes have been several: First, it has rendered possible great economy; second, by a union of former competitors it has reduced the probability of excessive competition; and, third, if the combination has been extensive enough, and certain methods in the treatment of competitors and customers have been adopted, the combiners have secured a monopoly and complete control of prices or rates.

A combination successful in achieving complete control over a particular line of manufacture has frequently been called a "trust." I presume that the derivation of the word is to be explained by the fact that a usual method of carrying out the plan of the combination has been to put the capital and plants of various individuals, firms, or corporations engaged in the same business under the control of trustees.

Purpose of Sherman Law.

The increase in the capital of a business for the purpose of reducing the cost of production and effecting economy in the management, has become as essential in modern progress as the change from the hand tool to the machine. When, therefore, we come to construe the object of congress in adopting the so-called "Sherman anti-trust act" in 1890, whereby in the first section every contract, combination in the form of a trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of interstate or foreign trade or commerce, is con-

Bills for the foregoing purposes have been considered by the house of representatives, and have been passed, and are now before the interstate commerce committee of the senate. I earnestly urge that they be enacted into law.

circumstances among the innocent many for the faults of the guilty few.

To Avoid Disaster.

The question which I wish in this message to bring clearly to the consideration and discussion of congress is whether, in order to avoid such a possible business danger, something cannot be done by which these business combinations may be offered a means, without great financial disturbance, of changing the character, organization and extent of their business into one within the lines of the law under federal control and supervision, securing compliance with the anti-trust statutes.

Generally, in the industrial combinations called "trusts," the principal business is the sale of goods in many states and in foreign markets; in other words, the interstate and foreign business far exceed the business done in any one state. This fact will justify the federal government in granting a federal charter to such a combination to make and sell in interstate and foreign commerce the products of useful manufacture under such limitations as will secure a compliance with the anti-trust law.

It is possible so to frame a statute that, while it offers protection to a federal company against harmful, vexatious and unnecessary invasion by the states, it shall subject it to reasonable taxation and control by the states, with respect to its purely local business.

"Good" and "Bad" Trusts.

Many people conducting great businesses have cherished a hope and a belief that in some way or other a line may be drawn between "good trusts" and "bad trusts," and that it is possible by amendment to the anti-trust law to make a distinction under which good combinations may be permitted to organize, suppress competition, control prices, and do it all legally, if only they do not abuse the power by taking too great profit out of the business.

They point with force to certain notorious trusts as having grown into power through criminal methods, by the use of illegal rebates and plain cheating, and by various acts utterly violative of business honesty or morality, and urge the establishment of some legal line of separation by which "criminal trusts" of this kind can be punished, and they, on the other hand, be permitted under the law to carry on their business.

Now, the public, and especially the business public, ought to rid themselves of the idea that such a distinction is practicable or can be introduced into the statute. Certainly under the present anti-trust law no such distinction exists. It has been proposed, however, that the word "reasonable" should be made a part of the statute, and then it should be left to the court to say what is a reasonable restraint of trade, what is a reasonable suppression of competition, what is a reasonable monopoly.

Too Much Power For Courts.

I venture to think that this is to put into the hands of the court a power impossible to exercise on any consistent principle which will insure the uniformity of decision essential to just judgment. It is to thrust upon the courts a burden that they have no precedents to enable them to carry, and to give them a power approaching the arbitrary, the use of which might involve our whole judicial system in disaster.

In considering violations of the anti-trust law we ought, of course, not to forget that that law makes unlawful methods of carrying on business which before its passage were regarded as evidence of business sagacity and success, and that they were denounced in this act, not because of their intrinsic immorality, but because of the dangerous results toward which they tended, the concentration of industrial power in the hands of the few leading to oppression and injustice.

In dealing, therefore, with many of the men who have used the methods condemned by the statute for the purpose of maintaining a profitable business, we may well facilitate a change by them in the method of doing business and enable them to bring it back into the zone of lawfulness without losing to the country the economy of management by which in our domestic trade the cost of production has been materially lessened, and in competition with foreign manufacturers our foreign trade has been greatly increased.

National Incorporation Act.

Through all our consideration of this grave question, however, we must insist that the suppression of competition, the controlling of prices, and monopoly or attempt to monopolize, in interstate commerce and business, are not only unlawful, but contrary to the public good, and that they must be restrained and punished until ended.

I therefore recommend the enactment by congress of a general law providing for the formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among the states and with foreign nations, protecting them from undue interference by the states and regulating their activities so as to prevent the recurrence, under national auspices, of those abuses which have arisen under state control.

Such a law should provide for the issue of stock of such corporations to an amount equal only to the cash paid in on the stock; and if the stock be issued for property, then at a fair valuation, ascertained under approval and supervision of federal authority, after a full and complete disclosure of all the facts pertaining to the value of such property and the interest therein of the persons to whom it is proposed to issue stock in payment of such property.

Terms of the Law.

It should subject the real and personal property only of such corporations to the same taxation as is imposed by the states within which it may be situated upon other similar property located therein, and it should require such corporations to file full and complete reports of their operations with the department of commerce and labor at regular intervals.

Corporations organized under this act should be prohibited from acquiring and holding stock in other corporations (except for special reasons, upon approval by the proper federal authority), thus avoiding he creation under national auspices of the holding company with subordinate corporations in different states, which has been such an effective agency in the creation of the great trusts and monopolies.

If the prohibition of the anti-trust act against combinations in restraint of trade is to be effectively enforced, it is essential that the national government shall provide for the creation of national corporations to carry on a legitimate business throughout the United States. The conflicting laws of the different states of the Union with respect to foreign corporations make it difficult, if not impossible, for one corporation to comply with their requirements so as to carry on business in a number of different states.

No Repeal of Sherman Law.

To the suggestion that this proposal of federal incorporation for industrial combinations is intended to furnish them a refuge in which to continue industrial abuses under federal protection, it should be said that the measure contemplated does not repeal the Sherman anti-trust law and is not to be framed so as to permit the doing of the wrongs which it is the purpose of that law to prevent, but only to foster a continuance and advance of the highest industrial efficiency without permitting industrial abuses. Such a national incorporation law will be opposed, first, by those who believe that trusts should be completely broken up and their property destroyed.

It will be opposed, second, by those who doubt the constitutionality of such federal incorporation, and even if it is valid, object to it as too great federal centralization.

It will be opposed, third, by those who will insist that a more voluntary incorporation like this will not attract to its acceptance the worst of the offenders against the anti-trust statute, and who will therefore propose instead of it a system compulsory licenses for all federal corporation engaged in interstate business.

Answers to Objections.

Let us consider these objections in their order. The government is now trying to dissolve some of these combinations, and it is not the intention of the government to desist in the least degree in its effort to end those combinations which are today monopolizing the commerce of this country; that where it appears that the acquisition and concentration of property go to the extent of creating monopoly or if substantially and directly restraining interstate commerce, it is not the intention of the government to permit this monopoly to exist under federal incorporation or to transfer to the protecting wing of the federal government any of the state corporations now violating the Sherman act.

But it is not, and should not be, the policy of the government to prevent reasonable concentration of capital which is necessary to the economic development of manufacture, trade and commerce. This country has shown a power of economical production that has astonished the world, and has enabled us to compete with foreign manufacturers in many markets. It should be the care of the government to permit such concentration of capital, while keeping open the avenues of individual enterprise, and the opportunity for a man or corporation with reasonable capital to engage in business.

If we would maintain our present business supremacy, we should give to industrial concerns an opportunity to reorganize and to concentrate their legitimate capital in a federal corporation, and to carry on their large business within the lines of the law.

As to Constitutionality.

Second, there are those who doubt the constitutionality of such federal incorporation. The regulation of interstate and foreign commerce is certainly conferred in the fullest measure upon congress, and if for the purpose of securing in the most thorough manner that kind of regulation, congress shall insist that it may provide and authorize agencies to carry on that commerce, it would seem to be within its power.

This has been distinctly affirmed with respect to railroad companies doing an interstate business, and interstate bridges. The power of incorporation has been exercised by congress and upheld by the supreme court in this regard. Why, then, with respect to any other form of interstate commerce like the sale of goods across state boundaries and into foreign countries, may the same power not be asserted? Indeed, it is the very fact that they carry on interstate commerce that makes these great industrial concerns subject to federal prosecution and control.

How far, as incidental to the carrying on of that commerce, it may be within the power of the Federal government to authorize the manufacture of goods, is perhaps more open to discussion, though a recent decision of the supreme court would seem to answer that question in the affirmative.

As to State Rights.

Even those who are willing to concede that the supreme court may sustain such federal incorporation are inclined to oppose it on the ground of its tendency to the enlargement of the federal power at the expense of the power of the states. It is a sufficient answer to this argument to say that no other method can be suggested which offers federal protection on the one hand and close federal supervision on the other, of these great organizations, that are in fact federal because they are as wide as the country and are entirely unlimited in their business by state lines.

Nor is the centralization of federal power under this act likely to be excessive. Only the largest corporations would avail themselves of such a law, because the burden of complete federal supervision and control that must certainly be imposed to accomplish the purpose of the incorporation would not be accepted by an ordinary business concern.

The Worst Offenders.

The third objection, that the worst offenders will not accept federal incorporation, is easily answered. The decrees of injunction recently adopted in prosecutions under the anti-trust law are so thorough and sweeping that the corporations affected by them have but three beore them:

First, they must resolve themselves into their component parts in the different states, with a consequent loss to themselves of capital and effective organization and to the country of concentrated energy and enterprise; or

Second, in defiance of law and under some secret trust they must attempt to continue their business in violation of the federal statute, and thus incur the penalties of contempt and bring on an inevitable criminal prosecution of the individuals named in the decree and their associates; or Third, they must re-organize and accept in good faith the federal charter issuing.

Federal License Law.

A federal compulsory license law, urged as a substitute for a federal incorporation law, is unnecessary, except to reach that kind of corporation which, by virtue of the consideration already advanced, will take advantage voluntarily of an incorporation law, while the other state corporations doing an interstate business do not need the supervision or the regulation of a federal license and would only be unnecessarily burdened thereby.

The attorney general, at my suggestion, has drafted a federal incorporation bill embodying the views I have attempted to set forth, and it will be at the disposition of the appropriate committees of congress.

LONG FIGHT FOR VOTES

Oklahoma Women Demand Amendment to the State Constitution

Petitions With 38,000 Signatures Filed With Secretary of State.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 7.—The Oklahoma Women's Suffrage association has obtained a sufficient number of signers to its petitions to demand the submission of an amendment to the state Constitution under which women may be allowed to exercise all privileges of the ballot enjoyed by men.

Mrs. Kate H. Biggars of Marlow, president, and Mrs. Ruth Gay of Oklahoma City, secretary of the association, came to Guthrie yesterday and filed the petitions with the secretary of state. The suffragists merely ask that the word "male" be stricken from that provision of the Constitution defining who are qualified voters. The petitions bear a total of nearly 38,000 names.

Disappointed Year After Year.

The suffragettes in Oklahoma have had a long, hard fight, and appeared regularly before each territorial legislature, with assurances that they would win, only to find on the closing days of the sessions that they were to be disappointed by the hard-hearted legislators, who never really had any intention of enacting a law permitting women to vote.

Ance Mrs. Carrie Chapman-Catt came to Oklahoma and there was a great stir among the suffragettes, who were convinced that with the help of Mrs. Catt they could not lose in their appeal to the legislature. The suffragists wore their best bonnets and gowns in their attendance upon the Constitutional convention, and had a champion no less distinguished than Senator Robert L. Owen to plead their cause, but without success. Senator Owen is heartily in favor of letting the women vote, and because of it the suffragists say he is the nicest man in Oklahoma.

The Pioneers Hold Back.

In their campaign for the Constitutional amendment the suffragists have maintained headquarters and kept an army of enthusiastic workers in the field obtaining signatures to their petitions. Few men were obdurate enough to refuse to sign the petitions and the suffragists report that opposition to their cause in Oklahoma is waning.

Oklahoma has a good many pioneer communities, however, where there are men who used to wear sombreros and spurs and "chaps" and a red handkerchief pulled through a celluloid ring for a necktie, and who admire women so tremendously that they feel it would be desecration to let them mix up with a lot of "rough neck" voters at the polls on election day. How these men will vote on woman's suffrage is a guess.

The Consent of the Governor.

In the campaign of 1908 the Oklahoma association used its influence in behalf of those legislative candidates who pledged themselves to woman's suffrage. In her letter addressed to candidates asking them for a declaration, Mrs. Biggars said:

"There is no argument for the political, industrial and social freedom of men that does not apply with equal force to women. If you believe that, as human beings, women have a claim to equal opportunity to make an honest living—and under the stress of modern industrialism one woman out of every five must be a wage earner—that taxation without representation is tyranny, and women must contribute their taxes to the support of the government and the pay of office holders; that our government rests on the consent of the governed, and women are governed; if you believe these maxims are true, then women have a clear title to voice their opinions equal with men."

THE BOUDOIR OF A FAT WOMAN.

What do we see? Terrifically long and austere looking corsets; tiny (as possible) shoes, uppers bulging over the vamps; various restrainers, retainers, detainers (names unknown); perspiration disinfactants; blackhead eradicators; pimple specifics; blood medicine. Strewed around a few candy boxes; maybe an exerciser on the wall. These "properties" signify that at various times this pleasant room is the scene of fashionable tortures, of heartburnings, of fallings from grace. Here the poor lady gasps into her retainers, her harness. Here she hides her fat-caused pimples, perspiration, blackheads; here, when her spirit is weak, she forsakes the exerciser for the deadly candy box. What a life—what a four-flush!

Avoidable? A Marmola Prescription Tablet, taken after each meal and at bedtime, will reduce that fat (a pound a day) down to the firm flesh beneath; banish the fat-caused blemishes; give a license to eat all the candy, etc., craved, and sleep as long as one desires. Investigate; tender seventy-five cents to your druggist for a large case, or write the Marmola Co., 491 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Do not be timid—Marmola Tablets are safe—being made strictly in accordance with the famous, fashionable formula: ½ oz. Marmola, ½ oz. Peppermint Water; consequently, go ahead—without fear. A month will emancipate you.

WILL NEVER RECOVER.

Montana Ranchman Hurt in North Dakota Wreck Cannot Be Cured.

Great Falls, Mont., Jan. 7.—A. W. Kingsbury is in receipt of a letter from Owen Fergus, an Arrow creek ranchman, who was injured in the wreck at Rugby, N. D., a number of weeks ago and who recently went to Rochester, Minn., for an operation. Mr. Fergus has returned to his ranch and states that the Rochester surgeons stated that an operation was unnecessary, but that he would always feel the effects of his injuries.

PASSENGER HITS ENGINE.

Great Northern Train in Collision in Devils Lake Yards.

Devils Lake, N. D., Jan. 7.—Great Northern Train No. 5 collided with a light engine in the yards here Tuesday, just as the passenger train was pulling into the station. The shock threw the passengers about with some violence but no one was injured except Dennis McCrew, cook on the buffet car. He was thrown against a table and was internally injured. It is feared he will not recover.

Special Judicial Election.

Menominee, Mich., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald)—A special election will be held the first Monday in April to elect a successor to Judge John W. Stone on the bench of the Twenty-fifth judicial circuit, comprising Menominee, Marquette, Dickinson, Iron and Delta counties. Richard C. Flannigan, of Norway, will be the nominee of both parties for the office.

LOVER GOES TO JAIL.

Sent By Girl's Father, But Eventually Marries Sweetheart.

Houghton, Mich., Jan. 7.—Miss Josephine Pizzyytti of Hurontown and Joseph Marabito of Ishpeming, formerly of Hurontown, were married on Monday evening by Justice Casper Brand of Houghton, and therein lies a romance.

Over a year ago the groom was employed at the Isle Royale mine, and boarded at the home of the bride's father. There he met Josephine, then a 16-year-old girl, and the courtship which culminated in the wedding commenced, even in face of the opposition of the girl's father, who, it is said, was anxious to see her wed a man much older than herself. At one time the couple attempted to get married, but because of the girl's age could not secure a license. Hearing of this action, the father secured a warrant for the arrest of the young man on a statutory charge, and after a trial in the circuit court he was convicted and sentenced to a short term in the Ionia reformatory. He commenced his sentence in November, 1908.

When Marabito emerged from prison, several months ago, he secured employment at Ishpeming and has been at work there ever since. Last Monday night he came to Houghton, sought the girl of his choice and, after much persuasion, secured the consent of her father to the wedding. They will probably take up their residence at Ishpeming.

REPORT OF SOO PLANS

Line Being Surveyed Down Rainy River to International Falls.

New and Rich Section of Country Will Be Thus Opened Up.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—That the Soo Railway company purposes constructing a line from Thief River Falls in a northeasterly direction, reaching the Rainy Lake river in the neighborhood of Baudette and thence extending along the south shore of this stream to International Falls is coming to light. Two Soo surveying parties are working along the route indicated and have been so engaged for a month past. They are now in Eastern Roseau county, having skirted along the western side of the great swamp, just north of the Red lakes in Beltrami county, and are now swinging east towards the Rainy river. The newspapers in the counties north of this city have been full of accounts of their operations for six weeks.

Territory Rich in Timber.

The territory south of the Rainy river is the richest timber territory in Minnesota and at present has not the least connection with the outer world. Parties visiting this section must do so by way of International Falls, a point almost directly north of the city of Duluth. Small towns now exist as trading posts at the mouths of all the streams running into the Rainy river in this wooded country and these would soon become places of importance if they had railway facilities. A company with inside knowledge is now starting the construction of one of the largest sawmills in the Northwest at the mouth of the Big Fork and without rail communication not a board of its product could ever be sold and delivered.

As the Soo is noted for quiet occupation of undeveloped and new territory and as this section will supply the road first traversing it with great abundance of timber trade and passenger traffic, it can be easily seen how great a return would accrue to the Soo if it built the first line therein. The prairies west of this city and in the Soo country is in need of all the manufactured material which this section can produce. Enough information, at least, has leaked out that the present surveys are the preliminary moves to occupy this territory at an early date.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BLACK CLOUD HAS SETTLED ON THE SPORTING HORIZON DURING THE LAST FEW WEEKS

Believed Johnson Will Give Jeff Beating of a Lifetime--Baseball Trades Are Pending.

(BY BRUCE)

A black cloud of despondency is shutting off all the sunshine on the sporting horizon. A tall, dark person is the cause of the unpacking of the picnic hampers.

There is a growing feeling all over the country, and we have a mighty big place on this side of the Atlantic, that one Jack Johnson, until the past year considered a joke, is going to give James J. Jeffries the beating of a lifetime.

Some of the Pacific coast papers even go so far as to believe that the fight might not take place. Every detail connected with the whole affair to date has disgusted the public and has made many suspicious.

The fans don't know what Johnson can do. That is the pity of it. They have learned that he can really fight when he wants to; yet, even at that, they don't know how good he really is. It is beginning to be believed that the big smoke has never been extended. From being called a dub, Johnson is now appreciated at his real value as a fighting man.

There is also the other side of the proposition. The fans know how good Jeffries is. One thing does not look right. Here he has been before the public for over six months. He is supposed to have been in light training at least four out of these six months. Yet today, in his exhibitions with Berger, slow as a Superior lovelorn swain, Jeffries only boxes three short rounds, and according to reports, this exertion makes him puff like a fat man running for a street car.

If Jeffries has been unable to get into condition, or anything approaching condition, within the past six months, what is the prospect that he will be fine and it when he steps into the ring with Johnson? Think it over.

People who know but little of the practical side of physical exertion see Jeff going through his exercises on the stage. He jumps the rope, shadow boxes and does other stunts that are done in training. These are very easy to do.

A man out of training can go on to the gymnasium floor and hop around and not show the effects of great exhaustion of the lungs. But let him put on the gloves and go in slam-bang, and in a short minute he will have bellows to mend.

If Jeffries is going to get right, why doesn't he get out in the country, where the air is pure, and start to build up so he will have some bottom to train on? There is a very easy and simple answer to that common and pertinent query. He wants all the money he can get.

Jeff confess that he never took but two weeks to get into shape in the old days. Six years of the kind of life Jeff has led will take so much out of a man, that he will require a year of careful attention to his health before he is in a position to start hard training.

There is nothing so tearing and taxing on a man's vitality as training. Many fighters in their prime have gone stale and listless under the tortures of the training grind. In his pictures Jeff looks like a man who has lost all zest for athletics and vigorous effort. If Jeff knows he can't get into shape and goes ahead getting the money of the public, he will lose every friend he ever had.

It was only a few years ago that Johnson used to hang around the water front saloons of Frisco. He was considered a joke in those days. He had no clothes; he had no reputation; and rep is a lot of credit in Frisco; he simply had a fine physique and a lot of brass.

Now notice the difference. His clothes would make the foreman of a boiler shop hold his hands over his ears. He has enough cloths to fit out an army that could overwhelm Zelaya's patriots. He has money and diamonds. He is the champion of the world, and he has money to throw away. Why? Because a hate-to-do-it public has at last come to the conclusion that the big smoke is there.

It must be confessed that it is not the fault of the general public that Johnson has not been recognized sooner. He is a staller. He will never take a chance. He would sooner get the decision at the end of a limited round contest than take a chance of letting any dub put one over on him.

When Johnson was starting out in the world of pugilism he ran afoul of old Joe Choynski. The records don't tell all the Choynski party did to Lil' Artha. Joe hit as hard as any gink who ever made a motion like a swing. He kidded Johnson for three rounds and then landed one one the jaw of the colored brother.

When Johnson woke up he firmly resolved never to expose his broad expanse of countenance to any blow. He has followed this rule with as much consistency and tenacity as Youth Excelsior shinned up the rugged mount. He would rather stall and get the decision than go in and exchange swings.

That is the reason why Artha's record in the dope books looks like a laundry ticket that has been left out in the rain. You will have to look further than his record to realize that he is a great fighter.

For instance—there was the fight with Al Kaufmann. In the record books it will be seen that Johnson won the decision after ten rounds of fighting. It would be a poor world's champion that couldn't knock Kaufmann out. You might suggest, if you were one of the suggesting kind.

Well, early in that fight Johnson just made this Kaufmann child look foolish. He even twitted him. That is a most uncourteous thing to do in the prize ring, but Lil' Artha did it just the same. He probably could have beaten Kaufmann at any stage of the fight after the second round. He only wanted the decision; he didn't care to knock Kaufmann out.

Because of his method of fighting, or not fighting, Johnson has earned the reputation of a fighter without a punch. It will remain to be seen in the Jeffries fight whether this man, weighing close to 200 pounds in the best possible condition, and possessing arms and shoulders bulging with muscle, can hit.

That is about all for Lil' Artha just now. Just naturally keep your stock market eye on the developments in the case, and see how the whole fight affair progresses between now and the day set for the contest.

At the end of February baseball talk will be the most popular little current topic of conversation you can spring, unless, of course, you are talking to a sweet young thing. With the passing of the next two months the time for the trailing south of the majors will have arrived.

It is very early to size up the chances of the teams in the two big leagues. There are likely to be many trades between now and the going south of the big boys. McGraw is keeping very quiet, but it is a safe hunch that he is working on some deal. If McGraw gets the men he is after, the Giants are liable to be a factor in the race the coming season.

JACK JOHNSON.
The Black Cloud on the Sporting Horizon.

At the present time, judging from the way they finished last season, the Pirates and the Cubs are the best choice in the older organization. In the American league the Tigers and the Bostons look mighty good. If Donovan is as good a manager as he has often been credited with being, he should do a lot of things with the Boston Americans.

Last season the team was young and inexperienced. Yet at times the Bostons showed the best playing in the Ban Johnson circuit. Big things are predicted for the Red Sox the coming season. But baseball is, after all, a game in which you can never tell. A team that has finished great one season may go to pieces the next. So, you see, there is hardly any use.

On the other hand, if any gink were to walk up and give you Chicago and Pittsburg against the field, it might not be considered such a foolish wager, after all.

If anyone should happen to notice, those college puck chasers are having just the exciting time down Pittsburg way. If the teams were professionals, people would get right up and say the games were fixed. But, being as how the players are from Yale, Princeton and Cornell, everyone knows that there is not even a breath of soft suspicion.

First Yale wins and then Princeton comes back and makes the members of the old Eli team gloomy and sour at things in general. Then the Yale captain shouts "courage, me lads," and the Yale boys go in and win a second game from the Tigers. Then just to show that the past disastrous football season did not shatter the athletic ambitions of the New Jersey institution, Princeton goes in and wins the fourth game.

At the present time Cornell has broken into the win and lose combination. It is just the most exciting time.

* * *

Did you all notice that stubby Sam Langford has a fight? It's a shame—for the man he is going to strike. An advertisement was inserted in some of the Pittsburg papers, asking that some man please step forward and fight Mistah Sam. Some one from the fearless state of Montana has come forward. That chap won't think Montana is such a bad state when Sam gets through with him.

WOLGAST AND NELSON TO MEET OVER MARATHON ROUTE

Negotiations have finally been closed, assuring a fight between Battling Nelson, the present holder of the world's championship at the 133-pound mark, and Adolph Wolgast of Milwaukee, a sturdy German youth who fights between 124 and 133 pounds.

The fight, if Wolgast shows the form that followers of fighters generally expect him to show, should be one of the greatest ever fought in the lightweight division. Wolgast gave Nelson one of the merriest trouncings of the Dane's career, which has been filled with hard knocks and unkind treatment, when the pair met in Los Angeles on July 13 last.

Many of the followers of Wolgast are taking the result of this fight into consideration, as a criterion from which to judge of the probable outcome of the coming 45-round contest. Too much weight should not be placed on the result of the Los Angeles meeting.

Ever a slow starter, a fighter that never gets warmed to his work before fifteen rounds have slipped by, the Battler is the poorest short route fighter for a man who holds the championship title, that the world has ever produced. The short route game was not made for his style of milling.

The Battler is a slow, plodding fighter. He depends upon wonderful endurance and superhuman ability to assimilate punishment to win his battles. Never has he fought and won without receiving enough punishment to put away the ordinary fighter.

Wolgast is a better boxer than the Dane. He is also a tough and rugged fighter. Some followers of the game believe Wolgast is as tough as Nelson. That remains to be seen. The distance will be to the liking of the Dane. It remains to be seen whether Wolgast can go the Marathon route and get better all the way, as Nelson has in the past.

Owen Moran, the great little Irishman, who is generally called an Englishman, will probably challenge the winner of the coming contest. If you will look up the dope book you will find that Wolgast and Moran fought a six-round no-decision contest in New York city April 6, 1908.

Though no decision was given in that fight, according to the New York law, Moran clearly had the better of Wolgast and gave him a thorough and artistic lacing. Wolgast was a youngster then, just coming out. If he beats Nelson he will probably remember this unpleasant New York experience and will be ready to give Moran a return engagement.

Moran has been camping on the trail of Nelson for some time, and in the event of the Dane being returned a winner, it probably means that Owen and Oscar will tie up. Any of the Pacific coast clubs would be glad to stage the fight, as Moran is a great card on the coast.

It looks like some busy days in the lightweight division during the winter months.

TO CONSIDER MILLER'S CASE

Ann Arbor Students Favor Either Expulsion or Suspension.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 7.—At a meeting of the engineering faculty held yesterday afternoon, to consider the case of J. Joy Miller of Detroit, the University of Michigan football star, who was recently declared by the board in control of athletics at the university to have been ineligible to a position on the team of 1909, a letter was drafted to Miller, citing him to appear before the faculty today. Miller will be asked to show cause why he should not receive such discipline and punishment as the faculty has decided to inflict on him.

No member of the faculty will state of what the punishment mentioned consists, but it is said that a member of the faculty has allowed it to be understood that Mr. Miller will face either absolute dismissal or suspension.

A vote taken by Miller's classmates yesterday shows the student sentiment against Miller. Members of the senior civil engineering class voted.

Following was the vote: Expulsion, 13; suspension, 3; suspension as faculty may determine, 1; suspension for two years, 6; suspension for one year, 6; suspension to end of year, 4; allow to remain and make good, 1.

NELSON AND WOLGAST SETTLE FIGHT DATE.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 7.—Battling Nelson and Ad Wolgast were matched yesterday by Sid Hester of the Mission Athletic club of this city to fight forty-five rounds Feb. 22, at a new arena to be built in San Mateo county.

Wolgast accepted by telegraph Hester's offer of $3,750, and the articles were mailed to him today.

Nelson's share will be $12,000. The referee will be named fifteen days before the fight.

Pirates Beat Canucks.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—The Forest City hockey players, including some of the best experts of Canada, came from Cleveland last night and were defeated by Pittsburg's team 2 to 1.

HOUSECLEANING FOR NAPS.

Jim McGuire Threatens to Let Out Many Cleveland Players.

Rumor afloat in American league circles say Deacon Jim McGuire, who succeeded Larry Lajole as manager of the Cleveland team, will make a wholesale shakeup of the team. It is stated that only a few of the Naps are sure of their jobs. Napoleon Lajole is about the only member of the team who knows where he is at.

The Forest City players have proved a distinct disappointment for the past few years. By far the strongest team in the American league on paper, they have fallen down repeatedly when the crucial test came. The year before last Lajole made a great bid for the rag, but in the last few games his team fell down.

Many of the Cleveland fans have blamed Lajoie for the poor showing of the great aggregation of individual stars. McGuire, formerly manager of the New York Americans, has taken the job and it remains to be seen what he can do with the hoodoo bunch that nearly drove the Lig Frenchman crazy.

SCHEDULE OF GAMES.

Contests Planned By the North Dakota University Five.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The schedule of the North Dakota university basket ball team for the season follows: Winnipeg Y. M. C. A., Feb. 15; North Dakota Agricultural college, Feb. 19 at Fargo; March 12, at Grand Forks; Manitoba university, Jan. 21, at Winnipeg, and Feb. 25 at Grand Forks; Fargo college, Feb. 14 at Grand Forks and Jan. 29 at Fargo; Valley City normal, at Valley City, Feb. 21.

In addition the team is planning on a trip through Minnesota, taking on four or five games.

BOWLING SCORES

The Fitwells took three straight from the Big Duluths on the Majestic alleys last night. Both teams are members of the City Bowling league. Stevenson of the Fitwells made the highest score of the evening, 211, and also won the high average of 198. The score.

ARRANGE SCHEDULE OF BASKET BALL GAMES.

A schedule of interclass basket ball games was arranged yesterday at a meeting between J. R. Batchelor, athletic director of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.; Norman MacLeod, secretary of the boys' department; Asher Taylor, chairman of the athletic committee; Larry Boyle, captain of the senior team; Joe Boyle, captain of the junior team; "Dutch" Jeronimus, captain of the sophomore team, and Kenneth Harris, representing the freshman team.

The schedule will begin Tuesday. When the schedule has been completed the two teams with the highest standing will play a series of three games for the interclass championship.

Following is the schedule:
Jan. 18—Freshmen vs. Seniors.
Jan. 28—Juniors vs. Sophomores.
Feb. 8—Sophomores vs. Juniors.
Feb. 8—Sophomores vs. Seniors.
Feb. 15—Freshmen vs. Sophomores.
Feb. 18—Seniors vs. Juniors.

FORT WILLIAM MATCH A DRAW.

Chris Person returned this morning from Fort William, where Wednesday evening he met Paju, who claims the heavyweight championship of Western Canada. The men wrestled an hour without a fall. Paju weighed 230 pounds.

Person signed articles for the Gordon match, and as Gordon has already signified his willingness to meet the Northwestern heavyweight champion, the match is assured.

Person will go into training at the Duluth Athletic club for the match.

NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED.

Illinois and Iowa Cities Organize Eight-Club Baseball Circuit.

Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 7.—A new baseball league to be known as the Northern association, was organized here today. The league includes Jacksonville, Decatur, East St. Louis, Aurora, Joliet and Belleville, in Illinois, and Clinton, Iowa.

Moline, Ill., which had been considered for the eighth club, withdrew and several other cities are being considered. C. A. Burton of Jacksonville was elected president of the league. A schedule of 140 games was adopted.

SKATING BODIES MAY SEVER FRIENDLY RELATIONS

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Western Skating association officials last night sent a request to President Reubenstein of the International Skating Union of America at Montreal, to notify the A. A. ROYAL PALACE FIRED BY TREE

Greek King and Family Flee Flames Started By Christmas Lights.

Athens, Jan. 7.—The royal palace at Tatoi caught fire at 10 o'clock last evening while the royal family were gathered around a Christmas tree. The flames spread rapidly, rising to a great height, and soon the right wing of the palace was practically destroyed.

The fire is believed to have been due to illuminations on the tree, and the efforts of the attendants in the palace to extinguish the flames were fruitless. The royal family made a hasty escape, and so far as is known no one was injured. A large force of firemen were soon on the scene, and were assisted by sailors from the British and Russian war ships.

WILL NOT BACK SHIP SUBSIDIES

New York Chamber of Commerce Refuses to Indorse Such a Course.

New York, Jan. 7.—The New York chamber of commerce refuses to indorse any measure for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine to which is attached a provision for ship subsidy. In a lively debate yesterday between Lewis Nixon, the shipbuilder, former Representative William H. Douglas and Jacob H. Schiff, the attitude of the chamber was definitely placed on record.

Resolutions were adopted "emphatically favoring the rehabilitation of the 'American merchant marine,' but the chamber refused to urge upon congress "liberal provisions for the immediate establishment of American owned and managed mail and freight lines to our dependencies and the leading commercial centers of the world."

NURSE WHO FOUGHT DELIRIOUS MAN DIES.

Washington, Jan. 7.—Miss Mary R. Brown, a trained nurse, aged 27, died last night. Two weeks ago she was shot through the left lung in a struggle to wrest a revolver from Martin L. Sterling, a typhoid-fever maddened patient whom she was attending. By taking the revolver away from him she saved from possible death several members of the Sterling family. Miss Brown was recommended by the commissioners of the District of Columbia for a Carnegie medal as a recognition of her bravery.

REPAIRING WATER MAINS UNDER CANAL.

Capt. H. H. Thompson, the diver, is at work in the ship canal repairing the water and gas mains. Several leaks in the pipes have been found. Yesterday the water was shut off between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be shut off for a short time today. The leaks, Mr. Thompson says, can easily be repaired. The work will be completed in a day or two.

S.S.S. HEALS OLD SORES

Every old sore is an external symptom of a depraved or polluted condition of the blood. These festering places on the flesh are kept open and in a state of irritation because the circulation is continually discharging into them the impurities and morbid matters with which it is filled. This polluted condition of the blood may be the remains of some constitutional trouble; the effect of a long spell of sickness, which has left the blood stream weak and germ-infected, or because the natural refuse of the body, which should pass off through the proper avenues, has not all been eliminated and has been absorbed into the circulation. External treatment may cause the place to scab over temporarily, but the blood is not made any purer by such treatment, and soon the sore will return or break out at another place and be as bad or worse than before. S. S. S. heals old sores by removing every particle of impurity from the circulation. It goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and so completely changes the circulation that there is no longer any impurity to drain through the sore, but the place is once more nourished with rich, healthful blood. S. S. S. heals the sore from the bottom, the skin regains its natural color, and when S. S. S. has thoroughly cleansed and purified the blood the place is permanently healed. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

Members of Young People's Society Will Give Program.

Preparations are being made by the young people of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church of West Duluth for the twenty-fifth celebration of the founding of the young people's society, which will be held jointly with the First Swedish Lutheran church, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of next week.

The celebration will be carried out at the uptown church at Sixth avenue east and Third street. The young people of the Swedish Bethany Lutheran church at the West end have also been invited to participate in the affair. A good program has been arranged.

Among the speakers will be Rev. J. A. Krantz, pastor of the West Duluth church and Rev. C. J. Collin of Stockholm, Wis., who was the first pastor of the First Swedish Lutheran church of Duluth, thirty years ago. There will also be special choir music.

On Monday evening, the affair will take on the form of a reunion of the former members of the Young People's society. It is planned to have a social which will be followed by an informal program.

On Tuesday evening, Dr. Peter A. Mattson, president of Gustavus Adolphus college, one of the prominent Lutheran institutions of Minnesota, will be the principal speaker. For the past year he has traveled in the Orient and he will confine his remarks mostly to his experiences while abroad.

Plans are being made by the committee in charge of the affair to accommodate a large crowd on each evening.

WAS DRUNK, NOT INSANE

Picked up for insane on Superior street, Alfred Dellar, 25 years old, who gave his residence as West Duluth, was lodged in the police station last evening, and this morning was arraigned in police court to explain his actions.

Dellar attracted the attention of one of the officers on a downtown beat yesterday afternoon when he began to bump his head up against the buildings along the street, and to go through a number of other curious actions, such as biting his hands.

Dellar was making quite a spectacle of himself, when the officer sent in a call for the wagon and had him carted away to the station. When he was placed in the bull pen with a few other drunks, he dropped on his knees and prayed to the police to let him out.

In police court, this morning, he explained that he was so drunk yesterday that he did not know what he was doing. Upon the promise that he would keep away from the thirst emporiums he was let out on a suspended sentence.

PRIZES FOR BONSPIEL EVENT

In the fourth event of the bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association, which is to be held in Duluth beginning Jan. 12, the Western Curling club of West Duluth will put up a set of four prizes. The first prize consists of four copper percolaters, the second of four sterling silver and cut-glass cigar jars, the third of four sterling silver match safes, engraved, and the fourth of four outing sets in leather cases.

The West Duluth club will be represented at the bonspiel by from six to ten rinks, and an effort will be made to carry off some of the spoils. The names of the rinks to be entered have not yet been announced.

Last evening four rinks curled at the club, Evered winning from Clark, 11 to 10, in the Commercial club trophy contest, and the following games in the Manley-McLennan event: McAuley 19, Ittis 4; Hewitt 13, Dunlop 11; and Zauft 12, Buckley 6.

McMillan, William Burr, Arthur Olson.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CLUB.

Old Officers of West Duluth Commercial Club to Be Re-Elected.

Cigars will be smoked, stories will be told and the work of the club for the past year talked over this evening when the annual meeting of the West Duluth Commercial club will be held and new officers elected for the coming year.

No rivalry has manifested itself in the approaching election of officers, and as little interest is shown, it is probable that the old officers will be re-elected this evening. Little business will be transacted and the evening will be given over to a smoker.

Mrs. Hanson's Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock for Mrs. Anna Hanson, 87 years old, who died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. Benson, of 716 South Sixty-third avenue west, after fifteen years' residence in West Duluth. The services will be held at the residence with Rev. J. A. Bjerke, pastor of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be at Oneota cemetery.

West Duluth Briefs.

A baby girl was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sulcove of 526 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Mr. Sulcove is the assistant county superintendent of schools.

E. A. Nelson of Cotton, Minn., is a business visitor at West Duluth today.

Christ Peterson has returned to his home at Virginia after a business visit at West Duluth.

Earl Edwards expects to leave for Hibbing tomorrow on a short business visit.

Rev. James Sanaker of Minneapolis, district superintendent of the Red River valley district of Norwegian-Danish M. E. churches, spoke last evening at the Bethany church, Sixty-fifth avenue west and Polk street. He will also occupy the pulpit this evening.

A prayer meeting for members of the Merritt Memorial M. E. church will be held this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kerr of 4013 West Fourth street.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Plymouth Congregational church will be entertained next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. R. Keyes of 706 North Fifty-seventh avenue west. A tea and sale will be held at this time.

The confirmation class of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church will meet tomorrow morning with the pastor, Rev. J. A. Bjerke.

Mrs. C. G. Chilstrand of 526 South Fifty-ninth avenue west will entertain the Little Girls' Sewing society of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

Rev. J. A. Bjerke will occupy the pulpit Sunday afternoon at the Proctor M. E. church. The service will be held at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. N. Sorenson of Green street will entertain the Girls' Sewing Society of Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church at her home tomorrow afternoon.

The Sunday school teachers and officers of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of the pastor, Rev. J. A. Krantz, 706 North Fifty-sixth avenue west. Plans will be made for the work during the coming year.

FIRST GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

Competition for the Manley-McLennan trophy begins tonight at the rink of the Duluth Curling club when four Superior rinks will come across the pond to compete with four rinks from the Duluth club.

Tomorrow night the Duluth rinks will play in Superior. If another contest is necessary it will be played in Duluth Monday night. The winning rinks will play four rinks from the West Duluth Curling club in final competition for the trophy. The Duluth curlers will tomorrow night be guests of the Superior men at a banquet at the Hotel Superior.

The following rinks will represent Superior.

T. Jennings, C. Grace, T. I. Russell, A. K. Smith, skip.

E. D. Bixby, C. A. Chase, L. A. Nichols, J. S. Gates, skip.

D. M. Foster, J. H. Somerville, D. C. Gates, R. Stephenson, skip.

W. Savage, F. W. Sample, R. I. Tipton, E. C. Maxfield, skip.

The curlers are expected to be present promptly at 7:30 tonight, and all members and their friends are invited to attend and watch the games.

There will be music this evening for the skaters. The skating surface will be divided tomorrow into curling sheets for use during the bonspiel.

McGlynn Signs Contract.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 7.—"Stoney" McGlynn, who pitched for the Milwaukee American Association baseball team last season, signed a new contract today for the coming season.

SKI RIDERS TO USE AEROPLANES

Aeroplanes will probably be used by some of the ski jumpers on the hill of the Duluth Ski club during the present winter, and jumps of 300 to 400 feet are not outside of the possibilities.

As far as competitive jumping is concerned, the aeroplanes will have little value, but they will add greatly to the spectacular features of the tournaments. Unaided, the riders are now able to jump from 100 to 130 feet, and sometimes even farther, and the jumps are so spectacular that thousands of people are attracted to the grounds. If jumps of 300 to 400 feet may be made with aeroplanes, the tournaments will be of added interest.

A Chippewa Falls ski jumper is responsible for the device which will aid the riders. He has tried it, and has found that it comes up to expectations. With a good start down the long incline, a man, with the device to assist him in remaining in the air, can soar far beyond the jumpers depending upon nothing but their natural ability.

GIRL STILL IN THE CITY JAIL

Esther Mack, the 18-year-old girl arrested with Fred Hagen, who was yesterday sentenced to three months in the county jail for exploiting the girl and living from her earnings, is still at the city jail.

She pleaded guilty to a statutory charge yesterday and was fined $15 and costs or fifteen days in the county jail. In the afternoon, Carl Richmond, who claims to be her cousin, was at headquarters yesterday and promised to pay her fine, but up till noon he had failed to put in appearance. Nor has any one come to offer the girl a position where she can make an honest living.

Richmond caused the girl's arrest. Instead of taking her from the Rex hotel and the guardianship of Hagen, he went to the police, who arrested them both. Late yesterday afternoon he asked the matron if he could go to the hotel to get his cousin's clothes. The matron told him to go ahead. But he said he didn't dare to go unless she gave him a note to the policeman on the beat, asking him to accompany him to the girl's room.

The girl is desperately afraid that her parents down in Wisconsin will hear of her disgrace. "If my father ever learns of it, he will never let me under his roof again," she said to the authorities. She says that they are farmers and hard-working people who would not countenance her actions nor forgive her for her downfall. She says that she knows she has done wrong and is anxious to start earning an honest living. She still has the sentence hanging over her, but it is believed that if she can show the court that she has a suitable place to go, sentence will be suspended.

BENCH WARRANTS FOR PAPER BOARD MAKERS.

New York, Jan. 7.—An indictment against the Paper Board association, alleging it to be an illegal combination in restraint of trade, was returned today by the federal grand jury. The association comprises 140 paper manufacturers who were indicted as individuals and firms. Ninety defendants represented by counsel pleaded not guilty. Bench warrants were ordered.

ARSON CHARGE BEING PROBED

Men Accused of Burning Building, Causing One Death, on Rack.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The preliminary hearing of E. H. Phelps and Ray Phelps of Cass Lake charged with arson and murder, is on before Court Commissioner Pratt.

May 15 last, the Phelps stopping place at Winnebigoshish dam, near here, was burned to the ground, under suspicious circumstances, and Joseph Wegge lost his life. Relatives of the victim claimed the fire was started by the Phelps to collect the insurance, had them arrested at Cass Lake, where they were living, and this hearing resulted.

Victim's Brother Testifies.

The hearing was formerly set for Tuesday, but was adjourned until Wednesday. The first witness was Frank Wegge, a brother of Joseph Wegge, who was burned to death in the fire, and who was sleeping with his brother at the time of the fire. His testimony was to the effect that he was awakened by the fire at about 2 o'clock in the morning. His brother, who was sleeping on the outside, got up first. They tried to escape by the stairs, but were unable to do so, owing to the smoke. Wegge says that he jumped out of the window, first trying unsuccessfully to throw out the mattress to jump on. He then put a ladder, which he found about seven feet from the window, up against the window for his brother to come down. He says that he then discovered that he had cut his foot, and he sat down to pull out the piece of glass which was lodged there. Feeling himself getting weak from loss of blood, he went to the government house, where he stayed until the next morning, and he did not know until then that his brother had not come out of the fire.

Store Contents Removed.

When asked as to the condition of the store part of the stopping place, Wegge stated that it had the appearance of having been stripped of most of its contents.

W. E. Chandler testified as to the appearance of the place, and the actions of the defendants after the fire.

Horace Hydick, forest ranger on the Indian reservation, was next called.

The testimony is entirely circumstantial, as far as its bearing on the case is concerned. The hearing will occupy probably a week or more. County Attorney Price is conducting the examination for the state, and Spear & Stone represent the defendants.

GRAND RAPIDS CHANGES.

Several Concerns Have Moved in the Itasca County Seat.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—This has been moving week among some of the local business men. On Monday Roecker's tailor shop, which has been doing business in the west room of the Marr building, was moved to the south room of the Marr building, facing on Kindred avenue.

H. W. Hilling, who was burned out in the McAlpine block, and who had temporarily moved into the Bond building, has leased the Gunn building, next door to the Pokegama, on Leland avenue. Mr. Hilling got a chance to get the stand just vacated by the Roecker tailor shop, which had been leased to Schneider Bros. of Bemidji.

Mr. McAlpine, who was almost put out of business by the fire, found that his business room was not so badly injured, and he is temporarily doing business at the old stand. He states that he has made no plans for rebuilding, but that the ruins of the old building will have to come down. He says he will patch up the front room of the building and occupy it until spring, as he has several hundred bushels of potatoes in the basement which cannot be left without heat, and which cannot be moved.

GRAND RAPIDS WILL ENTERTAIN THE FARMERS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—As in former years, the farmers attending the farmers' institute here next Tuesday will be the guests of the local business men at the dinner which will be served in the village hall, the scene of the institution.

The business men have agreed to furnish the eatables, and are working in conjunction with the Commercial club in giving this dinner to the guests of the village.

The usual program for the dinner will be carried out. All of the farmers are cordially invited to attend the institute, and all may rest assured that all will be done looking toward their comfort that can be done. The dinner, of course, will be free to all visiting farmers.

EVELETH PLUMS ARE ANNOUNCED

Salaries of Various City Employes for Two Years Are Also Fixed.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following monthly salaries were fixed at the adjourned meeting of the city council last evening: City clerk, $75; city attorney, $75; superintendent of the water works, $110; chief of police, $100; chief of the fire department, $110; assistant fire chief, $85; firemen, $75; drivers, $80; street commissioner, $75; fire warden, $15; health inspector, $50; city treasurer, $55; patrolmen, $75; assistant superintendent of the water works, $75; clerk of water rents, $50; city assessor for the year, $175.

City Clerk D. P. McIntyre was reappointed without opposition. P. Boyle was also reappointed city attorney receiving three votes to two for J. C. McGilvray. For the superintendency of the water works, F. E. Forstell was appointed, receiving three votes to two for the present superintendent C. Vandell. William Nellon, the present chief of the fire department, was reappointed for the ensuing two years, without any opposition. Andrew Joula was appointed street commissioner, over the present commissioner, John Warn, and Samuel Perrault, another applicant for the position. Charles Wahlman, the present city building janitor, was reappointed without any opposition.

Police Department Makeup.

The makeup of the police department for the next two years, as appointed by the mayor, will be as follows: Chief, Nicholas Kent, the present incumbent; sergeant of the police, Peter Nordi; patrolmen, Mahaffey, Zidar and Murphy. All are from the present force with the exception of Officer Murphy.

The health department, which now consists of Health Inspector Dr. Brown, assistants, Marty and Kent, has not been changed.

The report of City Treasurer Davey, shows a balance of $55,709.14.

One of the principal subjects that came before the meeting was on the distribution of the city funds, and their places of deposit, which at present is the Miners National bank. The statutes and ordinances covering the finance problems of the city, were thoroughly discussed, and on motion of Alderman Sutherland, seconded by Alderman Smart, the matter was laid on the table, and will be considered at the next regular meeting.

On motion of Alderman Sutherland seconded by Alderman Doyle, the city attorney was instructed to confer with the Home Heating & Electrical company, and property owners affected by the laying of the steam pipes, the past summer by the company, so as to determine the power the company officials and property owners have in the matter of laying and relaying the pipes on city property.

The ordinance covering the entrance of women into saloons was thoroughly gone over, and on motion, was laid over for further investigation.

HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

Judge Stanton Considers Proceedings Over Child's Possession.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Stanton today is hearing the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Myrtle Ferguson against Mr. and Mrs. John McDonald of Deer River, in which the plaintiff seeks to regain possession of her child, one of the defendants, Mrs. McDonald, died a couple of weeks ago.

Judge Stanton issued a special venire of twenty-five jurors to report next Monday.

The calling of the calendar showed twenty-nine civil jury cases, thirty-four civil court cases and a large number of criminal actions to be tried during the present term.

The case of the state against Sciplo Drubich and Eli Drodivich, charged with grand larceny in the first degree, will be taken up Monday. They are alleged to have been concerned with Dan Okra in the robbery of the store of Lieberman Bros. at Marble.

WHIRLED TO HIS DEATH.

Clothing of Employe of Shenango Shops Catch in Shafting.

Chisholm, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.) — The funeral of Oscar Johnson, who was killed at the machine shops of the Shenango mine, was held from the Lutheran church at Hibbing yesterday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Eldstrom officiating, and many members of the Modern Woodmen lodge attending. Interment was in the Hibbing cemetery.

Johnson lost his life by his clothing catching in a whirling shafting. He was literally pounded to death before the machinery could be stopped.

MINING COMPANY ELECTS.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Northern Minnesota Iron Mining company, at its recent election, held here, chose the following officers: S. W. Gilpin, president; T. R. Vail, vice president; H. J. Nathanson, secretary, and Dr. C. B. Lenont, treasurer. The property is located near Buhl, and development work will begin in time so that shipments of ore may be made during the coming season.

COME YE ECONOMICAL---'TIS TIME TO BUY

Greater opportunities for saving were never offered to the ladies of Duluth, and the fact that this is appreciated is evidenced in the ever-increasing stream of enthusiastic buyers daily attending our important Pre-Inventory

HALF-PRICE SALE!

LADIES' AND MISSES' SUITS, LADIES' COLORED BROADCLOTH COATS, CHILDREN'S COATS AND INFANTS' BEARCLOTH COATS—ALL ARE AT HALF PRICE.

All have been reduced to half price—to half of our original selling prices, which were lower, quality considered, than those of any other store in Duluth! This is not advertising bombast, but facts, open to the test of comparison, and easily proven—why? CLEVELAND BANK ASSIGNS.

Failure of Publishing House Leads to the Action.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The South Cleveland Banking company, one of the strongest of Cleveland's suburban banks, filed a deed of assignment yesterday to Attorney Thomas H. Marlatt.

U. G. Walker, president of the bank, is also a director in the Werner company, a large Akron publishing house, for which a receiver was appointed in the federal courts Wednesday night. Loans by the South Cleveland Banking company on Werner paper are said by Assignee Marlatt to run into the hundreds of thousands, though he has not yet ascertained their approximate total.

W. H. Caine, first vice president of the bank, said that he was unaware that the Werner loans had been so extensive as indicated by the assignee.

Though the capital stock of the South Cleveland Banking company was but $150,000, the deposits exceeded $2,000,000, of which $1,600,000 are savings deposits. The bank was organized in 1874.

CHILD WARNS MOTHER, SAVING INFANT BROTHER.

Langdon, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—An 8-month-old infant was saved from death by a 3-year-old child Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Mealey here. The little fellow had become inquisitive when his mother left a boiler of water on the kitchen floor, and climbed over the side. The next moment he was in the water. His little sister was in the room and realizing that something was wrong, called her mother. When the little one was removed from the boiler he was already unconscious, but was finally brought back to life.

WOODSMAN GETS DAINTY APPAREL

Suitcase Thief Takes Young Lady's Wardrobe From Car.

The woodsman who appropriated to his own use a suitcase in the rear end of an eastbound Superior street car, yesterday afternoon, will find its contents of little use to him, according to Miss Sophia Anderson of Twenty-eighth avenue west, the owner.

Miss Anderson is employed as a domestic in an East end home, and while riding from her home in the West end to her place of employment, a suitcase, containing her wardrobe, was stolen from her. The man who took it evidently did so intentionally, as there was no other left in the car.

Miss Anderson boarded the car at Twenty-first avenue west. Leaving the suitcase in the rear end of the car, she walked to the front end and took a seat. When she came to transfer for an East end car at Third avenue west, she missed her grip. She asked the conductor about, and he then remembered a woodsman had taken it off the car a few blocks up the street.

FELL ASLEEP IN THE SNOW

Intoxicated Woodsman Started to Walk to Knife River.

Lawrence Bernhart, a lumberjack, was brought to St. Mary's hospital Wednesday evening by a section foreman, who found him lying in the snow near Lakewood. The man was drunk and had fallen asleep on his way to Knife River. The only thing the matter with him was a frozen finger, which was thawed out at the hospital.

NORTH BUTTE HAS SLUMP

Sells Down to $41.75---Local Market Erratic, But Active.

The copper market was "spotty" today, many weak positions developing as the session progressed. The heavy liquidation in North Butte and short selling at the opening caused a general weakness in the entire list with the exception of one or two Butte stocks, such as Amalgamated, which were strong on reports that the labor crisis in that camp is easier and the difficulty may not affect the mines seriously.

The local market was erratic, but trading was good. In some of the stocks most traded in, the action seemed to be of a doubtful character. There was not enough sustained interest in values to warrent the belief that the trading was entirely public. It seemed that much of it was entirely professional.

It is said on high authority that the dividend will be reduced from $1 to 50 cents a quarter by North Butte at the February meeting. It had been rumored that the disbursement would be passed. Lean ore values at low levels and increased costs with depth, are responsible for prospective decreased disbursements. The selling movement struck bottom when North Butte hit $41.75 after opening at $45. Buying orders began to flow into the market and it was said that Duluthians interested in North Butte sent heavy buying orders into the Boston market and stopped the decline. The recovery brought the stock back to $43.75, but it weakened toward the close when support was withdrawn. It sold down to $42.75.

Steel was erratic and weak on selling by traders, who were unable to carry their stocks. These weak sisters were loaded up and on the decline were forced to disgorge. The shaking out of many small interests in various stocks should have a beneficial effect. The present liquidation and short selling movement is believed to have reached an end. It will take several days, probably, for the market to steady itself when an upturn is looked for.

The Scotts were acting favorably on news from the mine, where eighteen feet of high-grade ore has been encountered on the 1,400-foot level with drifting still in progress. The part paid sold at $6.25 down to $6.12½, the full paid at $9.12½; Butte-Ballaklava at $12.25, $12.12½, $12.37½ and then at $12.50. Live Oak sold at $23, with limited offerings. Red Warrior was a sale at $4.50, Warrior at $14.25 and $14.12½, Butte & Superior at $2.87½ and $2.93¾, Calumet & Montana at $2.18¾, $2.12½, $2.25 and then at $2.22½, and toward the close at $2.37½. Calumet & Corbin sold at $1.32½, then at $1.37½ and down to $1.25. Calumet & Sonora was traded in at $18, then at $17.12½ and up to $17.25. Carman sold at $1.75, Cliff at $2, Keating at $2.12½ and $2 and back to the former quotation, and St. Mary's at 39, 35 and 38 cents.

Superior & Pittsburg sold at $15.12½ and declined to $15. Steel common sold at $87.87½ up to $89 and back to $88 and then down to $87.87½.

Homeless Man Dies.

Edward Tobin, a gray-haired old man about 65 years of age, died at St. Luke's hospital yesterday afternoon after having been brought to the institution by the police less than twenty-four hours before. Little is known of him except that by trade he is a millwright. He is thought to have drifted into the city from Fort William, Can. Feeling sick, he went to an acquaintance named Hopkins, who is "baching" in a small home at 2226 West Michigan street. He apparently got worse and Hopkins called the police. Chief Troyer took him to the hospital in the automobile. He is believed to have two nephews living at Hibbing, but nothing had been heard from them up to noon. The body is at Crawford's undertaking parlors.

CURLING CLUB MEMBERS

Music at Rink tonight instead of Saturday.

MUST PROVE HE WAS BORN HERE

The hearing of Sue Sin Chung, or Moie Bing, a Chinaman, charged with illegally residing in the United States will be held before United States Commissioner T. H. Pressnell, Jan. 14, having been postponed for one week on application of the United States district attorney.

The Chinaman is without a certificate entitling him to reside in the United States, but he claims that he is a resident by right of birth as he was born in San Francisco of Chinese parents. He will be given an opportunity to prove the fact of his birth in the United States and if he is unable to do so, he will be deported.

NEW CLASSES

In day and night school will be organized at the DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY on Monday, Jan. 10th, to accommodate a number who could not begin at the New Year opening, Jan. 3rd. Location, 118-120 Fourth avenue west, Christie building.

MUST BE TRIED IN LOWER COURT

The supreme court of Minnesota today handed down a decision in the case of the City of Duluth vs. F. D. Orr holding that the certification of important questions in criminal prosecutions to higher courts does not apply to cases begun under complaints in municipal courts or before justices of the peace, leaving the case against Mr. Orr just where it was before the certification was made and leaving the main question still unlitigated.

Mr. Orr is local superintendent of the Du Pont de Nemeurs Powder company and the action was brought against him under an ordinance prohibiting the storage of powder in quantities greater than 500 pounds within one mile of the city limits or within one mile of any dwelling or school house.

The Du Pont company's powder house is outside of the city limits, but within the one mile limit. The main question which the ultimate disposition of the case will determine is whether the city has a right to control the storage of powder outside of its limits. When the case was called in municipal court, a demurrer was made to the complaint and it was overruled. A certification was asked for and it was certified to the district court being certified from there to the supreme court. The refusal of the supreme court to entertain the case throws it back to the municipal court for trial.

The supreme court holds that: Section 5409, Revised Laws, 1905, authorizing the certification of important questions in criminal prosecutions from the district to the supreme court, has no application to prosecutions commenced in, and which are within the jurisdiction of municipal courts or courts of justices of the peace. The certification of a prosecution for a violation of a city ordinance to the district court by the municipal court by the city of Duluth, and by that court to the supreme court, held unauthorized and to confer no jurisdiction upon either the district or supreme court. The proceedings were dismissed.

STRIKE CASE TO COME UP JAN. 12

Chicago Railroad and Switchmen's Officials Agree to Date With Arbitrators.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The local representatives of the General Managers' association and Switchmen's union today wired Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the interstate commerce commission and Commissioner of Labor C. P. Neill, who have been asked to act as arbitrators, that they would meet the federal officials in Washington, Jan. 12.

The differences to be considered are precisely similar to those which resulted in the strike of the switchmen employed on the Northwestern railways. The most serious questions involved are those concerning wages and hours of labor and double pay for overtime and Sundays.

ANDY JONES TRIAL BEGINS AT FARGO

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first witness today in the trial of Andy Jones, alleged bank wrecker of Rugby, N. D., was E. L. Elstad, bookkeeper and assistant cashier in the defunct First National Bank of Rugby. He identified thirty-seven exhibits, mostly alleged fraudulent notes. The opening statement was made by Assistant United States Attorney W. H. Barnett, who said that the United States would try to prove that Jones had taken notes from various people for which they received no compensation.

The alleged fraudulent notes offered in evidence are: Pat Bouey, July 23, 1907, for $1,500; Fred Eley, March 18, 1908, $2,000; Fred Eley and H. H. Hall, March 18, 1908, $1,500; J. P. McClurey, March 27, 1908, $2,000; John Bouey, March 27, 1908, $2,000. It is estimated that the trial will take three weeks.

WESTERN UNION MUST PAY TAX

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—The supreme court today modified and affirmed the decision of the Ramsey county courts in the Western Union Telegraph company tax assessment case. Under today's opinion the Western Union will have to pay a tax on a valuation of $1,000,000 on its property in Minnesota.

Other decisions:

St. Louis county—Henrietta Talboys as Talboys Mercantile company vs. William Byrne affirmed.

John D. Brower vs. Northern Pacific railway company, personal injury, affirmed.

CHICKEN THIEF WILL GET TERM

Frank Langley Admits Having Entered a Poultry House.

Because he broke into the poultry house of Mrs. W. R. Fanning on Highitt avenue early yesterday morning and took away a number of blue-blooded fowls including leghorns, white wyandottes and black minorcas, Frank Langley has a prison sentence at the state penitentiary staring him in the face.

When Mrs. Fanning missed hens yesterday morning she notified the police department. The officers instituted a search for the chickens and succeeded in recovering eight chickens and three geese which had been sold alive to merchants on Tower avenue. The man who had sold them to the merchants said that they had been raised on his ranch.

Langley came to Duluth yesterday after he secured the funds from the sale of the chickens, and proceeded to have a good time on the money, but he was picked up as a suspect and taken back to Superior late last evening. When arraigned in municipal court this morning he waived examination and was bound over to the present term of the superior court.

This afternoon Langley decided to change his plea to guilty. Judge Smith will sentence him to a term at Waupun.

Court Was Stung.

When Harry Witz, self-confessed keeper of a gambling resort, where young boys parted with small salaries over the green cloth, paid a fine of $53 to Judge Parker of the municipal court on Monday last, he wrote out a bad check for the court.

Witz left for St. Paul immediately after paying the fine leaving word among his friends that he was going to attend a wedding. The check was returned yesterday with the notation that it was no good. The authorities are looking up the whereabouts of Witz.

New Business Block.

The contract was let yesterday for the construction of the new business block of the Russell Creamery company on the northenst corner of Ogden avenue and Broadway street to A. Duplaise, the South Superior contractor. The building will be built of brick and stone and will have a frontage of fifty feet on Broadway.

SHAKOPEE'S MAYOR IS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Shakopee, Minn., Jan. 7.—Mayor Joseph A. Ring was haled into the municipal court yesterday to answer to a charge of assault and battery preferred by John Kreger.

Kreger, it is said, incurred the mayor's displeasure while in discharge of his duties as special officer of the Shakopee Humane society, by ordering that horses left standing before saloons a certain time be cared for. Ring, local agent for a brewing company, objected to Kreger's surveillance. The case was postponed until Jan. 15, to enable Ring to have his witnesses present.

HAD SMALLPOX; DIDN'T KNOW IT

Joseph Fisher, a lumberjack 62 years old, has been wandering about Duluth and living at a lodging house at 817 West Michigan street the last three weeks with smallpox. He was picked up this morning on Superior street and Lake avenue by Patrolman Walsh and sent down to the health department. The man complained to the patrolman that he was not feeling well and asked what he should do as he was shy of funds. The copper looked at him and told him that he ought to go to the detention hospital. Fisher said that he had been in a hospital at Two Harbors for a while, but he didn't know what was the matter. How many people he has exposed to the disease is problematical.

BIDS FOR SEWER.

Lowest Figures Far Above Estimate of the City Engineer.

The board of public works this morning opened bids for the construction of a sewer in West Michigan street from Eighth to Eleventh avenues. The lowest bid was submitted by J. A. Johnson, who offered to do the work for $10,959.80. There was a big difference in the bids, the lowest being far above the engineer's estimate, which was $7,757.60. The highest, submitted by Thomas McCoy, was over $15,000.

R. C. McLean was the lowest bidder on work for enlarging the bridge over Mission creek at Fond du Lac and repairing the canal. His bid was $5,170.15. The contracts will probably be awarded to the lowest bidders Monday.

HOGS SELL FOR $9 IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The $9 hog arrived today at the Union Stock Yards here, and his coming marked an epoch in high prices. With the exception of a short period in 1882 when swine sold at $9.35 a hundredweight, the $9 hog has not been seen here since the Civil war.

Continued intense cold impeding railway traffic was one of the causes of the abnormal advance today. Another factor was an apparent hesitation by producers to market their hogs.

Pork and other hog products made a corresponding upward jump in prices.

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 7.—Top of the hog market sold today at $9, the highest price here since the organization of the Toledo stock yards. All grades advanced.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The price of live hogs at the stock yards here today was $9.10, the highest, according to stock men, in the history of this market.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—One load of hogs was sold at the stock yards here today for $9 a hundredweight. This is the highest price since 1890.

ENFORCE OLD ORDINANCE

Weapon Against Outside Owners Who Neglect to Have Snow Removed.

Snow and ice must hereafter be removed from the sidewalks in the business and residence sections of the city. If it is not done by the property owners it will be done by the board of public works, at the expense of the property owners.

Duluth has an ordinance, passed in 1892, governing the removal of snow and ice, which is strict in its provisions. For a long time it seems to have been regarded as a dead letter, but Mayor Haven has consulted the city attorney upon the matter, and he says that it can be enforced. The question was stirred up by an interview with Bishop Morrison published in last evening's Herald.

The ordinance defines the districts separating the residence and business sections. In the business section, which is generally described as between the dock line and Second street, and Third avenue east and Twenty-fifth avenue west, all snow falling between 6 p. m. and 8 a. m. must be removed before 9 o'clock that forenoon, and all falling between 9 o'clock and 4 o'clock that afternoon must be removed within at least four hours of such snowfall.

In the residence sections the ordinance requires that all snow must be removed before 11 o'clock each morning. The penalty provided is a fine of not less than $2 nor more than $20 for each offense, or imprisonment for not to exceed twenty days.

Unoccupied property as well as occupied property is included in the provisions of the ordinance. The board of public works may also let the work of cleaning the walks by contract or do it in any other manner which it deems proper, and in the spring can levy an assessment against the property to defray the cost. A fine does not absolve the property owner from the assessment.

The ordinance does not apply to all sections of the city, which has grown considerably since it was passed. But since the matter has been taken up by the authorities, it is probable that the council will be asked to so amend it as to make it cover all sections where the walks ought to be kept clear. There is also a provision requiring sand or ashes to be sprinkled on the walks when they are covered with ice.

MARGIN IS INCREASED

Flax Traders Must Put Up 30 Cents a Bushel in Future.

Flax Makes a New High Mark---Wheat Weaker at Close.

Duluth Board of Trade, Jan. 7.—The wheat market today held to a narrow trend. The action was limited and the market acted nervous and unsettled. There is a belief that that short interest has been largely eliminated, leaving prices subject to quick reactions in the event of any important selling. This sentiment found expression in the feeding out of some long wheat which at prevailing prices brought satisfactory profits. The market appears to be still in a sculping position. Trading was moderately healthy.

May wheat at the opening was $1.14¾ bid and sold at $1.14⅞, high, closing at $1.13⅞ bid. There was no trading in July.

The flax market was strong. The May option selling at $2.20, at the opening and reaching $2.24¾, before declining to $2.23½ asked at the close. Trading was fairly active with the demand good and offerings limited.

The high quotation on flax was the highest in the history of the market. Late Argentine cables were especially bullish on flax which was up 8 cents in that market. Wheat scored an upturn there of 4 cents.

The clearing house association has advanced options on flax to 30 cents. The prevailing option is 10 cents. The increase of 20 cents becomes effective tomorrow. This is the highest flax option in the history of the market. The strained status of the flax situation places the market in a perilous position, subject to great fluctuation.

Sharp speculative declines would endanger legitimate trades and necessary hedges. In order to protect itself the clearing house took the stand announced in the following bulletin which was posted this morning:

"Notice is hereby given that a further special margin of 20 cents a bushel on all open flax will be called payable before the opening of the board on Saturday, Jan. 8. Margin slips stating amount required will be sent to each member having open trades at 9 a. m. Saturday."

Some traders regard this in the light of a disciplinary measure against speculative traders who, in a restricted market such as flax, are able to operate to considerable advantage. Others are of the opinion that it is merely what it purports to be, a protective measure taken against possible sharp and decided declines in a strained and feverish flax market.

The flax situation is made more bullish by the decline in stocks at the Head of the Lakes. Shipments this week to crushers have been inexcess of receipts. Stocks on hand aggregate 335,000 bu, a decrease of 1,000 bu in the last five days. The country situation is still extremely bullish.

The foreign situation still dominates the wheat market, with the position of cash and the interior movement strong secondary factors. The export trade in Manitoba and durum was good today and the technical position of the market was strong. Cables were higher.

Argentine cables failed to register further guesses on the exportable surplus, but indicated that arrivals from the country are disappointing and that shipments are at a low ebb. Argentine figures on shipments today were bullish. The shipments this week are 144,000 bu, compared with 512,000 bu last week and 564,000 bu a year ago. Shipments of flax this week are 360,000 bu, last week 120,000 bu and a year ago 540,000 bu. The strong spot market abroad caused a firm tone which was emphasized by the scarcity of La Plata offerings. Speculation played a strong part in the foreign advance.

The cash situation continues good. Spot is on a parity with May here and in Minneapolis. No. 1 northern sold for 2c over May to arrive in twenty days. This is the best premium paid on wheat to arrive on the current crop.

Chicago is expecting a deluge of grain as soon as the traffic conditions are normal. This is creating considerable bearishness, yet grain delayed in transit in the Northwest met with an excellent demand as soon as it was available, and premiums for spot wheat strengthened, rather than weakened. It is estimated that 10,000 cars, all grains, are headed for Chicago, between the Mississippi river and the objective market.

Car receipts of wheat at Duluth were 21 against 19 last year, and at Minneapolis 249 against 122 last year, a total of 270 for the Northwest, compared with 141 last year. Chicago received 10 against 6 last year, and Winnipeg 74 compared with 97 last year. Kansas City received 24 cars against 53 last year, and shipped 55 against 51. St. Louis received 86,000 bu against 86,000 bu last year. Primary receipts of wheat were 502,000 bu; last year, 245,000 bu. Shipments, 179,000 bu; last year, 107,000 bu. Clearances, 210,000 bu. Oats, none. Flour, 37,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 377,000 bu. Primary receipts of corn were 491,000 bu; last year, 476,000 bu. Shipments, 300,000 bu; last year, 227,000 bu. Clearances, 551,000 bu.

Durum closer 3/4c off from yesterday. Oats were ¼c up and barley 2c up. Cash sold on an equal basis with May.

Broomhall cabled: Undertone at start steady; prices unchanged to ¼d higher. Firmness in America was offset by less active demand for cargoes. Later and during the remainder of the morning the market was firmly supported, with offerings light and early sellers buying, and the market advanced 3/4@⅞d. Support attributed to strong spot markets, strength in English markets, scarcity of La Plata offerings, bullish Argentine shipments and unfavorable Argentine crop news."

Bartlett, Patten, wired—"Cables on wheat ½d higher and corn ⅝@½d higher. Cash demand for wheat slow, notwithstanding bull claims to the contrary. We believe there is plenty of wheat to go around here, but it cannot be denied that the sentiment is bullish. Receipts of corn about as estimated. The demand is good, stocks increasing notwithstanding moderate receipts. A Liverpool cable says: "Wheat advancing from speculation. Bull feeling predominates. Do not expect a decline to any extent until Argentine shipments have commenced. A cable from our Argentine agent states that the weather is fine and hot except in the Central and North sections, where there are showers. A direct cable from Argentine just received gives the opening wheat market in Buenos Ayres strong, with wheat 1¼@2¾d higher. The Indian wheat shipments this week amount to 808,000 bu wheat against 312,000 bu last week and nil a year ago. Broomhall predicts that the shipments next week will aggregate 612,000 bu."

Says the Modern Miller—"Snow protection has been withdrawn from the winter wheat crop south of the Ohio river and to some extent from the more northern states. Apprehension is expressed as to the effect of the ice covered in considerable of the wheat territory, but no damage is reported to the plant."

Finley, Barrell wired—"As long as trade continues in present mood it will be impossible to bring about any permanent reaction in values in wheat. It begins to look as if bulls in corn, who were waiting for a break, in which to buy corn would get left. Can see only one side to market, and that is bull side.

Minneapolis wired: "Flour sales continue fair. Orders booked are moderate, but the aggregate is of good volume. Just learn of some export business done by a local mill Wednesday. Cash market strengthening up about grades No. 1 or 2c over May and some of the choicest has sold at a better premium."

Bradstreet's wheat clearances, 3,183,000 bu; corn, 1,766,000 bu.

Paris close: Wheat, 1¼c higher; flour, 1¼c to 2c higher. Berlin close: Wheat, 1c higher. Budapest close: Wheat, 5c higher. Berlin wheat closed 1c higher. Liverpool close: Wheat, ¾d higher; corn, 6d higher.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Bullish Sentiment Controls Wheat in the Early Trading.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Bullish sentiment ruled the wheat pit in the early trading today. Northwest markets reported an advance which induced buying here. Foreign cables telling of light Argentine offerings had also a bullish effect. The distant futures opened ¼@⅜c higher than yesterday's close and in the first hour kept within the opening range. May opened to shade lower to ⅛@⅜c higher at $1.14½@1.14¾, and after dropping ½c steadied at $1.14¾.

Trading continued nervous in the wheat pit through the session with sentiment largely bullish in spite of moderate declines. The range extended from ¾@⅞c lower to ⅜@½c higher than yesterday's close. All the futures closed weak, May finishing ¾c lower than yesterday's final figures at $1.13¼@1.13⅞.

The corn pit saw a general rush of commission buying which lifted the opening prices ⅝@¾c. Extreme cold compelling extraordinary feeding in the corn belt and further impeding transportation gave continued strength to the market. May opened ¼@½c higher at 68⅝@68¾ and kept practically within that range in the first hour.

Cash demand for corn and a big volume of trading kept prices up through the session slight declines being speedily displaced. May closed ⅜@½c higher than yesterday at 68¾@68⅞c. The distant futures closed a shade higher than yesterday's final figures.

Oats were firm on numerous buying orders, principally from cash shippers. May opened a shade to ¼c higher than yesterday's close, at 48@48⅛c. The first hour of trading was within a narrow range.

Provisions kept their strength on the continued light receipts of live hogs and ranged at the start 2¼@2½c higher. January products opened: Pork, $22.05; lard, $12.65; ribs, $11.65.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Opens High, But Declines on Profit-Taking.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 7.—Wheat opened today at a net high point. A further record price was reached when May advanced to $1.14⅝. The early market was in narrow range but late in the session profit-taking made the market weaker and the near option declined 1¼c from the high and closed 1@1⅛c lower. Local elevator stocks increased 350,000 bu for the week, as compared with an accumulation of 205,000 bu last week. This makes the total amount in store in Minneapolis regular and nine private houses about 3,250,000 bu. Minneapolis today received 249 cars of wheat as compared with 122 cars a year ago; Duluth 21 cars against 19, and Winnipeg 74 cars against 97. May opened $1.14¾; high, $1.14⅞; low, $1.13¾; closed, $1.13⅝@1.13⅞; July opened, $1.14⅛; high, $1.14¼ @ 1.14⅜; low, $1.13⅜; close, $1.13⅜.

Cash wheat was in strong demand. Most of the day's receipts arrived on sale, so the actual spot offerings were light. The majority of No. 1 northern wheat sold at 2c above the May price and No. 1 northern at the even May quotation. Closing prices on track: No. 1 northern, $1.15⅛@1.16⅛; to arrive, $1.15⅛@1.16⅛; No. 2 northern, $1.13@1.14⅛; to arrive, $1.13⅛@1.14⅜; No. 3 wheat, $1.11⅛@1.13⅛; No. 3 yellow corn, 60½@60¾c; No. 3 white oats, 45⅝@45⅞c; No. 2 rye, 75⅝@76¾c.

Flax—Receipts, 21 cars; year ago, 14; shipments none. Demand was strong for both spot and to arrive at 2c above the Duluth May option. New high prices were reached again today. Closing price, $2.25½.

Barley—Receipts, 48 cars; year ago, 22; shipments, 28. Demand was strong for all grades, especially choice malting barley. Offerings were heavier than a year ago and prices were ½c higher than yesterday. Closing range, 60@69c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,192 tons. Demand continued strong and general. Shipments were about steady and prices held firm. Bran in 100-lb. sacks, $22.50@23.00.

Flour—The market continued in the same old rut. Foreign inquiry was a lacking feature and domestic demand was only fair. Most of the local mills were running full on accumulated orders. Shipments continued heavy and prices firm. Shipments, 55,262 bbls. First patents in wood f. o. b. Minneapolis, $5.60@5.80; second patents, $5.40@5.60; first clears, $4.45@4.55; second clears, $3.30@3.60.

New York Grain.

New York, Jan. 7.—Close: Wheat—May, $1.21; July, $1.11½. Corn—May, 76½c.

New York Money.

New York, Jan. 7.—Money on call easy, 5½@6 per cent; ruling rate, 5½ per cent; closing bid, 5¾ per cent; offered at 5¾ per cent. Time loans slightly easier; 60 days, 4¾ per cent; 90 days, 4¾ per cent; six months, 4½ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4¾@5½ per cent; sterling exchange steady at a decline, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.30@4.83.95 for 60-day bills, and at $4.86.75 for demand; commercial bills, $4.83⅜@4.84; bar silver, 52¼c; Mexican dollars, 42c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds steady.

Platform Collapses.

A quantity of valuable tiling was broken and a workman narrowly escaped injury at the Ayworth building yesterday afternoon, when a platform, which was piled high with tiling, fell. The tiling was strewn around and it was at first feared that the workman, who had been under the scaffold a moment before, had been buried in the debris. He and seen the weakening of the scaffold, however, and had made good his escape.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Jan. 7.—The cotton market opened barely steady at an advance of 2@20 points. March showing the maximum gain. Subsequent trade seemed to increase with the progress of the call. A big advance in the Liverpool market helped the gains here, but the small English spot sales were disappointing, and in the local market it looked as though some of yesterday's big buyers were realizing on the initial advance. At any rate, fluctuations were very nervous and irregular after the opening. After easing off to within 4 or 5 points of last night's close, the market during the middle of the morning ruled 11 to 14 points net higher on the active months.

Spot closed quiet, 30 points higher; middling uplands, 15.50; middling gulf, 15.55; sales, 3,700 bales. Futures—Close, firm; closing bids: January, 15.45; February, 15.56; March, 15.68; April, 15.75; May, 15.93; June, 15.88; July, 15.93; August, 15.18; September, 14.17; October, 13.56; December, 13.25.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at 4,000; market steady; beeves, $4.30@8.00; Texas steers, $4.15@5.20; western steers, $4.25@6.30; stockers and feeders, $3.15@5.30; cows and heifers, $2.25@5.65; calves, $7.50@9.75. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 9,000; market 10@15c higher; light, $8.50@8.90; mixed, $8.50@8.95; heavy, $8.60@9.03; rough, $8.40@8.55; good to choice heavy, $8.75@9.00; pigs, $7.65@8.65; bulk of sales, $8.75@8.90. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 8,000; market strong; native, $3.85@6.15; western, $4.00@6.25; yearlings, $6.00@8.70; lambs, native, $6.25@8.90; western, $6.25@8.80.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: Trade is again on a quiet basis and the movement for the day was light, being made up of limited retail orders. There was a fair sprinkling of visitors on the market, but most of them were not ready to buy.

ADVANCES IN STOCKS

Heavy Cash Gain of the Banks Prompted Brisk Buying.

Some Reaction at Close, Which Was Irregular and Dull.

New York, Jan. 7.—Prices of stocks moved sluggishly in the opening dealings today, but the upward tendency was well defined. Gains reached a point in Rock Island and Consolidated Gas and substantial fractions in Southern Pacific, Reading, Erie first preferred, Colorado & Southern, Western Maryland and Kansas City Southern preferred. The dealings were on a small scale.

The market fluctuated in an erratic fashion for the best part of the first hour, during which a half dozen of the leading stocks covered a range of a point. United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper met stock on advances while profit-taking was on a liberal scale at times in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Rock Island preferred ruled at one time 1¼ above yesterday's closing, and New York Central and Pittsburg Coal preferred 1. United States Express sold at 120½, advance of 5½.

A few specialties made gains, but heavy offerings of United States Steel, Rock Island and Reading weakened the general list by sympathy. Pittsburg Coal preferred rose 2¾, Colorado & Southern 1⅝ and Union Pacific preferred 1. The decline in Rock Island, Illinois Central, St. Louis Southwestern preferred and Railway Steel Spring reached a point and in American Beet Sugar 1¼. The market steadied and became dull at noon. Bonds were steady.

Large fractional recoveries from the low point had been made when the president's message was published. The market then grew dull, hesitated and then fell off. Large blocks of Reading came out in the neighborhood of 166. Pacific Coasts aggregated 2 points, Reading and American Cotton Oil 1¾, and Northwestern, Kansas & Texas and Louisville & Nashville 1.

Losses were pretty well wiped out when the market became firm in the latter part of the day. United States Steel returned to yesterday's closing level and Southern Pacific, New York Central and Chicago Great Western preferred sold a considerable fraction above. Central Railroad of New Jersey declined 2 points and General Electric 1.

The market closed irregular and dull. The heavy cash gain of the banks indicated by preliminary estimates of the week's currency movement prompted brisk buying of stocks. Union Pacific rose about 1 over last night, and the high morning level was approached in the general list. Activity again died out at the rally and there was some reaction.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

SHEEP FREEZE BY THOUSANDS

Deadwood, S. D., Jan. 7.—Thousands of sheep have been killed during the last few days by the cold, according to reports from various sections of the Northwest, received here today. Some farmers have sold large stocks for 50 cents a head. One man bought 3,000 sheep for $1 each, but got only 300 of them to safety. The loss is most severe in the vicinity of Lander, Wyo. The blocking of the railroads in that section has prevented the sheep men from securing feed.

In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Mary Payne Bingham, Decedent.

The petition of Charles W. Bingham as representative of the above named decedent, together with his final account of the administration of said estate, having been filed in this court, representing, among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that said final account of said administration be examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, and that the Court make and enter its final decree of distribution of the residue of the estate of said decedent to the persons entitled thereto, and for the discharge of the representative and the sureties on his bond.

IT IS ORDERED, That said Petition be heard, and said final account examined, adjusted and allowed by the Court, at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House, in the City of Duluth, in said County, on Monday, the 24th day of January, 1910, at ten o'clock A. M., and all persons interested in said hearing and in said matter are hereby cited and required at said time and place to show cause, if any there be, why said petition should not be granted.

ORDERED FURTHER, That this order be served by publication in The Duluth Evening Herald according to law.

Dated at Duluth, Minn., December 23rd, 1909.

By the Court,
J. B. MIDDLECOFF,
Judge of Probate.

City of Duluth, City Clerk's Office, Dec. 16, 1909.

Notice is hereby given that there has been filed in the office of the city clerk of the city of Duluth a petition for the vacation of that portion of Twenty-eighth avenue east, which is in Willard's addition to the city of Duluth.

The object of the petition is that the abutting land may be used to better advantage for residence sites, it being claimed that Twenty-eighth avenue in this division is unnecessary on account of there being another avenue adjacent and approximately parallel to said Twenty-eighth avenue.

Said petition will be heard and considered by the committee of the common council on Streets, Alleys and Sidewalks, on Monday, January 31, 1910, at 3:30 o'clock p. m., at which time said committee will hear the testimony on the part of parties interested.

NOTICE OF EXPIRATION OF REDEMPTION—
Office of the County Auditor, County of St. Louis, State of Minnesota.

To J. E. Davis et al.:

You are hereby notified that at a tax judgment sale held on the 14th day of May, 1906, the following described parcel of land, situated in the County of St. Louis and state of Minnesota, to-wit:

Undivided one-twelfth of the Northeast quarter of the Southwest quarter of Section Twenty, Township Fifty-eight N. of Range Nineteen W. of 4th P. M., according to the Government survey thereof (Und. 1-12th of N. E. ¼ of S. W. ¼, Sec. 20-58-19), was sold to the State of Minnesota for the sum of Fifty-one Cents (51 cts.), and was, on the Twenty-ninth day of July, 1907, assigned by the State of Minnesota for the sum of Fifty-nine Cents (59 cts.); that the amount required to redeem said parcel, exclusive of the costs to accrue upon this notice, is the sum of Fifty-nine Cents (59 cts.), and interest, as provided by law, to the day such redemption is made, and all delinquent taxes, penalties, costs and interest accruing subsequently to said assignment;

That said delinquent taxes, penalties and costs for the year 1907 accruing subsequent to said assignment amounted to the sum of $297.26 on May 10th, 1909, and bears interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from said May 10th, 1909, to the day such redemption is made;

That said amount required to redeem, calculated to the date of this notice, is the sum of $319.22, and that the tax certificate issued upon said sale has been presented to me by the holder thereof, and the time for redemption of said parcel from said sale will expire sixty days after the service of this notice and proof thereof has been filed in my office.

Witness my hand and official seal this 14
